The greatest damage, of course, was to the corn crop. It literally stripped the leaves in some places. In other places is did scarcely any damage. One man remarked that he lost fifteen hundred dollars in about five minutes through damage to his crop.

The business places on the southside of the street were in a fine position to get the benefit of the storm. The hail broke six windows out of the front of Day's Cash Store, several out of the Hardware Store and the Meat Market. John Day had to recover his roof afterwards because the stones broke through the paint in a good many places. Those who had their cars standing out in it, are now having the pleasure of mending tops. The hail went right through the tops in some instances.

A fine rain, fell, however, which was needed very much. Pastures were nearly dried up, but now are getting quite green again. "There is no great loss, but what there is some small gain."

Maybe the Washington clerk who struck the words "so help me God" from his oath of office knew that he didn't deserve any help from that quarter.

One way to beat the rubber shortage is to have your last year's overshoes vulcanized.

FRED ANDERSON FAILS TO APPEAR FOR MATCH HERE LAST SAT. NIGHT

190 Pound Man Fails to Make Good Boast With Schober.

Fred Anderson, Danish Middleweight Champion, who was to have wrestled Billy Schober in a finish match her last Saturday night, for some reason was unable to come. Another man was secured to give the fans a good show. We were unable to find out the man's name, but he was about thirty pounds heavier than Schober. Owing to this advantage, he agreed to throw Schober twice in one hour.

He took the first fall in 55 minutes, but was unable to throw Schober in the insuing five minutes.

In the preliminaries, Denentraugh, the Greek, attempted to throw Hans Willer, local wrestler in fifteen minutes was was unable to do so.

A fair crowd witnessed the match.

RIPS PANTS OFF

Lightning Melts Money in His Pockets ,Too

Great Falls, Montana. — When William Black, 38 years old, a truck driver, was struck by lightning yesterday in the oil fields near here, the bolt preformed some freak things.

It broke his watch chain, welded together two silver dollars in his pocket tore off both trouser legs and shoes and burned his hair.

He was unconsious for two hours, but will recver, physicians say.

The same bolt set fire to a nearby oil tank, which was destroyed.

A big corn crop this year will do more than Mr. Brookhart and Mr. Magnus Johnson ever dreamed of doing to help the agricultural situation.

Over Fifty People Help Old Soldier Celebrate Birthday

LEW LEWIS CELEBRATED HIS EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY SUNDAY

Large Crowd Present; Four States Represented

Last Saturday, Lew Lewis passed his eightieth birthday. On Sunday over fifty friends and relatives gathered at the Lewis home to celebrate the event. Plans for the big "party" had been in progress for sev eral months and everything was was well worked out. Relatives were present from four states, and started to arrive Friday.

At noon Sunday the whole gathering was seated at a large table on the lawn of the Lewis home and enjoyed a fine dinner, prepared for the event.. The dinner was really a "double" birthday dinner. Miss Wava Yahnke, of Good Thunder, Minn. and a granddaughter of Mr. Lewis, has her birthday on the same day, as her grandfather. She was sixteen years old. Two cakes with 80 candles on them and two cakes with 16 candles on them were special features.

Mr. Lewis is one of the few of the Grand old Army, left. He is quite active, inspite of the years. He keeps and tends a large garden, is seen about town a g od deal and seems to enjoy life very much. We take pleasure in congratulating him.

Those who attended the doings were: Mrs. Emma Crane, who is past eighty; Mrs. W. E. Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Crane, of Beaver Dam, Wisconsin; Mr. Henry Holm, Mr. and Mrs. George Holm, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Holm and two children Fern and Buddy of St. Paul, Minnesota; Mr. and Mrs. G. McGrady and son Darcie of Minneapolis Minnesota; Mr. and Mrs. Jim McGrady and two children of Mitchell S. D.; Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Yahnke, Wava and Erwin, of Good Thunder Minnesota; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McGrady and daughter of Clear Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Nick Schol and three children and Mr. Eye of Rockwell, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ell, Arlene and Milvrn of Mankato, Minn; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lewis of Grundy Center; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yahnke and daughter Alva, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Coobs, Mr. ond Mrs. Verner Lewis and children; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis; Mrs. A. Kirkwood; Mrs. Asa Gibbs, Miss Annie Gibbs and Miss Leuella Feiro, all of Klemme and Charles Gibbs and daughter of Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Crane are on their honeymoon trip. They married on August 4. Mr. Crane is a nephew of Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis was well remembered also by many fine gifts and flowers.

WHAT IOWA EDITORS ARE SAYING ABOUT GOOD ROADS

David Worrall, writing in the London Mail on "America's Signposts," after touring this country, pays tribute to American highways, but singles out Iowa as the chief example of backwardness. He says: "It is possible to travel through almost every state without maps and know at each mile post how far you are from all the adjacent towns and cities. One bad exception is Iowa, which still has mud roads and bad signposts." Further on in his article he has to say: "When the roods of America are good, they are very, very good, but when they are bad they are wicked. Anyone craving excitement should travel on the slippery mud roads of Iowa in wet weather. Even with chains and traveling in low gear, it is impossible to avoid going crab fashion, with an occasional excursion into the ditch." Iowa may not thus deserve to be singled out, but the fact of the bad reputation is indisputable. Of course Iowa has some excellent roads. But they are not enough of them and they do not form complete, improved systems. Therefore, Iowa roads have a very bad reputation and Iowa suffers from it.—Des Moines Evening Tribune-News.

BANKERS ASSIGN PROPERTY OVER TO CREDITORS

NEWS THAT IS OF INTEREST ABOUT IOWA

Interesting Items About Interesting People and Event

It costs huge sums of money to educate the children of this country. The Des Moines school district spent $5,023,843.71 last year. Included in this are the new buildings and additions, salaries and equipment. It required $2,140,067.03 to conduct the schools, according to the report filed by L. I. Traux state examiner, with J. C. McClune state auditor. The salaries for day school teachers abounted to $1,664,286.92 and evening teachers were paid $4,577. Teachers in summer school received $8,423.71. New buildings and additions cost $1,523,760.31.

Members of the board of supervisors of Marshalltown have been arrested upon the complaint of a farmer charging them with neglecting their duty by not having destroyed noxious weeds growing along the highway. The members of the board have pleaded not guilty and will stand trial.

Early unofficial reports from six northeastern Iowa counties on the four severe storms in June did not exaggerate the damage, it was learned when an official report was issued at Dubuque by . Merrill Wills. United States meteorologist. Mr. Mills estimates the total property damage at approximately $2,000,000. Livestock, prospective crops, highways bridges railroad property and town property were hard hit and the meteorologist finds that one of the storms that came on the ht of June 14-15 was the most disastrous since that section of the state was settled by white men.

J. E. Stemen ,manager of the American Express Co., at Red Oak, at 5:58 o'clock on a Sunday morning received a shipment of 100 homing pigeons from Kawanee, Ill:., with instructions to liberate them all at the same time. The flight was for the purpose of testing the speed and skill of the pigeons. A message received by Mr.Steman stated that the first pigeon reached Kewanee at 2:20 p. m. the same day and the remainder come in at different intervals during the afternoon and evening.

The Illinois Bankers association offers a reward of $2,500 for every bank robber, dead or alive. The bankers of Illinois have in addition adopted the idea on in making reference to what this state has accompolished the Chicago Banker says: Iowa had fifty-six bank robberies and losses of about $250,000 in 1920. Captured bandits were receiving light sentences and quick commutations. Iowa bankers armed 3,876 Vigilantes with 2,289 pistols, 1,200 rifles, 240 sawed-off shotguns and 712,000 rounds of cartridges. Vigilantes policed 781 towns. Result: a half dozen robberies last year total losses $2,500; eighty out of eighty-nine bank robbers killed or convicted, and every man of them sent to prison, still there. Headstones mark the resting places of divers gunmen and the Iowa bank insurance rate went down to $1 per thousand.

There are people who seem to think that counties in southern Iowa have been very slow in highway improvement, but now comes W. F. Linsey, of Leon, Decatur county, with his chuckling reminder: "Tourists passing throug Leon lately have been remarking about the efficient way in which the Decatur county roads are marked. One raveling man stated that the Decatur county roads are marked better morked than any other county says engineer Mallette and his assistant, E. D. Stubblefield, deserve much commendation for their work. Decatur county is the only county in the state to mark off its roads and letter them in sections. The state of Iowa now has its primary roads, sectionized.

P. M. GRIESEMER AND F. J. MAKE ASSIGNMENT OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

Most of Personal Holdings Tied Up In Real Estate

An important step, probably the most important one, since the closing of the State Savings Bank was taken last week when P. M. Griesemer and Frank Wenck, made an assignment of their property to J. W. Knadler of Garner, and L. R. Boomhower of Mason City.

The assignment was filed with the recorder at Garner and under its terms, it is understood, Mr. Knadler and Mr. Boomhower are to sell all the personal property and real estate and apply all money to the debts of the two men, who are facing charges of forgery and fraudulent banking, in connection with the closing of the local bank.

List of Property

The property assigned includes:

200 acres of land in Hancock county, valued at $200 per acre, encumbered for $28,500.

320 acres of land in Dodge county Minnesota, valued at $165 per acre, encumbered for $32,000.

F. J. Wenck, individually one-half interest in 320 acres in Howard county Iowa, valued at $175 per acre, encumbered $12,000.

120 acres in Hancock county, valued at $200 per acre encumbered $15,500.

280 acres in Hancock county, valued at $200 per acre, encumbered $43,500.

160 acres in Hancock county, valued at $200 per acre, encumbered $27,000.

100 acres in Rogers county, Oklahoma, valued at $125 per acre, encumbered $4,000.

830 acres in Louisiana valued at $10 per acre, no encumbrance.

Lot and a half south of the Watkinson home in Garner, valued $2,500.

Wenck plumbing shop in Garner, valued $2,500.

Ed. Wenck house in Garner, valued $6,000.

Property in Klemme, valued at $5,500.

50 acres 80 acres, 110 acres 320 acres and 240 in Oklahoma.

F. J. Wenck personally, 31 shares in Klemme State Savings Bank, 16,392 in Consolidated Products Co. 7 shares in Iowa Loan and Trust Co., 1 Share in Farmers National Bank, of Crystal Lake.

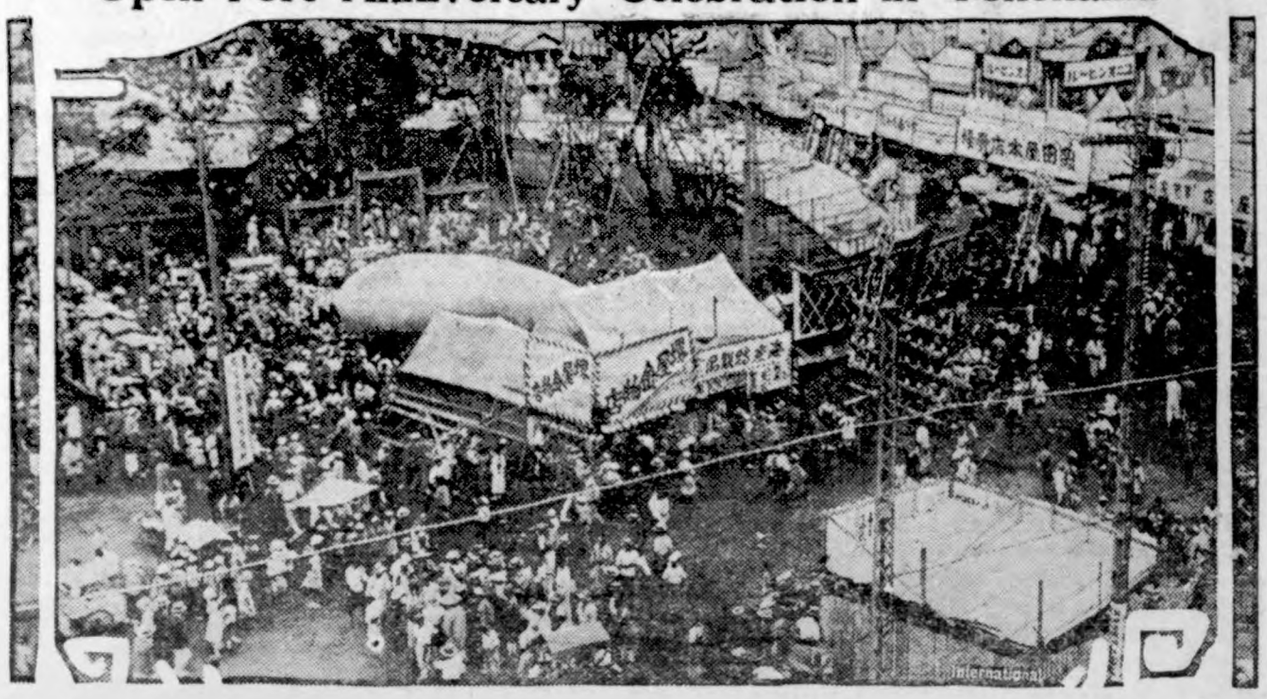
P. M. Griesemer, personally, 47 shares in Klemme State Savings Bank, 16 and smaller amounts of holdings in various other institutions, Part of the shares of stocks are up as collatteral.

Creditors

Griesemer and Wenck name as their creditors of the above property Iowa Loan and Trust company, W. H. Hoke, Lucy C. Day, J. C. Devereaux, D. D. Ross, J. W. Knadler, C. J. Sneider Edward Jacobs, Henry Griewe John Nelson State Savings Bank of Klemme, J. F. Wenck, Oscar Wenck, W. H. Shields, Fred C. Griewe M. Palmby, Orville Mull, E. J. Blum Bank of New Glanus H. Griesemer, Vincent Savings Bank, J. E. Ellsworth, William Schaper, Commercial National Bank of Charles City, George Pabst, First National Bank, Klemme, Alfred Meyer Laura Meyer Drovers National Bank of Chicago, Merchants National bank of Gedar Rapids, Continental and Commercial Bank, and others

A minister not a great way from Albert Lea, says the Daily Tribune, preached a recent sermon on prohibition, saying omong other things that if he had his way about it he would dump all his alcoholic beverages into the river. Then he announced as he concluding hymn, "Shall We Gather at the River?", which all reminds us of a time when the pianoist of one of our local churches played "Farewell to Thee" when the morning offering was being taken.

Open Port Anniversary Celebration in Yokohama



View of the Municipal park in Yokohama, transformed into a carnival ground for the sixty-seventh anniversary of the founding of Yokohama as an open port city. Last year for the first time the harbor was closed because of the disastrous earthquake.

Benedict Arnold Shown a Quitter

Enraged by Fancied Slight, He Offered to Resign Early in War.

Worcester, Mass.—Two historic documents, hitherto unpublished, bearing upon the troublous fortunes of Benedict Arnold in his early experiences in the Continental army, in the preliminary days of the Revolutionary war, have come to light in the library of the American Antiquarian society here. One is the original written commission issued to Arnold by the Massachusetts committee of safety at Cambridge in May, 1775, authorizing him to organize an expedition against Ticonderoga. The other is a letter written by Arnold, in aggrieved tone, to the Provincial Congress of Massachusetts Bay, late in June of the same year, resigning his commission after a committee had been appointed by the congress to investigate his conduct. Both documents, despite the intervening 150 years, are as perfectly legible as when penned.

Immediately after news of the battles of Lexington and Concord had spread through New England, late in April, 1775, Benedict Arnold, whose intrepidity as a fighter was undisputed, notwithstanding his treason later in the war, hastened from his home in Connecticut with a company of recruits to get into the fray. At that time the attempted capture of Forts Ticonderoga and Crown Point was talked of in the colonies as part of a strategic scheme to shut off the Canadian governor general, Sir Guy Carleton, who planned to force his way with troops to New York.

Arnold Plans Attack.

Benedict Arnold, inspired with the idea of taking the forts himself, obtained on May 3 a commission from the committee of safety appointing him colonel and authorizing him to raise an army in Massachusetts and elsewhere in the New England colonies and to proceed, as its commander, to attempt to take Ticonderoga. The commission, as it appears in the archives of the American Antiquarian society, reads as follows:

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, May 3, 1775.

To Benedict Arnold, Esq., Commander of a Body of Troops on an expedition to subdue and take possession of the Fort Ticonderoga.

Sir—Confiding in your judgment, fidelity and valor, we do by these presents constitute and appoint you colonel and commander in chief over a body of men not exceeding four hundred; to proceed with all expedition to the western parts of this and the neighboring colonies, where you are directed to enlist those men and with them forthwith to march to the fort at Ticonderoga and use your best endeavor to reduce the same, taking possession of the cannon, mortars, stores, etc., upon the lake; you are to bring back with you such of the cannon, mortars, stores, etc., which you shall judge may be serviceable to the army, leaving behind what may be necessary to secure that port with a sufficient garrison. You are to procure suitable provisions and stores for the army and draw upon the Committee of Safety for the amount thereof, and to act in every exigency according to your best skill and discretion for the public interest, for which this shall be your sufficient warrant.

(Signed) BENJAMIN CHURCH.

Armed with the commission, Arnold hurried off to the mountain regions of Vermont, intending to recruit men from among the mountaineers. But he encountered a cold rebuff. Ethan Allen, with the capture of Ticonderoga as his own goal, had already raised an army of "Green Mountain Boys," acting under a commission from the Colony of Connecticut. Allen abruptly waved aside Arnold's authority from the Massachusetts committee of safety to head the expedition, and, after a bitter wrangle, Arnold, unable to raise his troops, had to accept the altogether disagreeable alternative of joining Allen's forces as a private in the ranks.

After the capture of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, Arnold insisted that he assume command, and again there was a violent dispute between him and Allen. Upon the juncture being reported to the Colony of Connecticut, it was agreed, with the assent of the Massachusetts committee of safety, that Allen retain command. Arnold, angered over this, got together an expedition of his own and made a sortie to St. John, Canada, which he captured. Later, on his return to Crown Point, he was waited upon by a delegation from the Massachusetts Provincial congress. When informed by the delegation that it was there to investigate Arnold's "capacity and conduct," Arnold flew into a tempestuous rage and ordered the delegation out.

Letter Sent to Congress.

Later, Arnold, smarting under what he considered unfair treatment, sent this letter to the Provincial congress, embodying his resignation:

Crown Point, June 24, 1775.

Gentlemen: Your instructions of the 14th inst. from the Provincial Congress of the Massachusetts Bay in regard to my conduct, and command here, being now before me, I will answer in course.

In the first place I observe you are appointed to examine my conduct and in what manner I have executed my commission. I look on this instruction at this junction as unprecedented, and a very plain intimation that the congress are dubious of my fortitude or abilities, which is a sufficient inducement for me to decline serving them longer.

Secondly, the congress have authorized you to judge of my spirit, capacity and conduct, and determine whether I shall continue in commission, and if so that I shall be under the command of a person appointed by the Colony of Connecticut. In answer to the first part, it appears to me very extraordinary that the congress should first appoint an officer, and afterward, when he had executed their commission, appoint a committee to examine if he was fit for his post. I think the examination should have been prior to the commission. After executing that commission, that they should order a younger officer of the same rank to take the command of the fortresses and vessels be conquered, plainly indicates the loss of their confidence and is a most disgraceful reflection on him and the body of troops he commands, which is a sufficient inducement to resign; not to mention the very great hardship on the private men, who having served well near two months are now to be mustered and if by sickness or hard labor they are reduced and not fit for service and do not pass muster, they are to lose their former town haven and be reduced to the distress of buying their bread until they can get home to their friends.

The last objection I have to make is that I have so far lost the confidence of the congress that they have declined sending me money as was promised by Captain Brown to discharge the small and unavoidable debts I have contracted, for necessaries for the use of the army, for which my own credit is at stake while I am reduced to the necessity of leaving the place with dishonor, or waiting until I can send home and discharge those debts out of my private purse, the latter of which I am determined to do, though I have already advanced 100 pounds of money out of my private purse. All which reasons I believe will be thought a sufficient inducement for me to decline holding my commission longer.

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To Walter Spooner, Jedidiah Foster & James Sullivan, Esq.:

After dispatching the letter to Cambridge, Arnold went there himself and, later in the summer, was given command of forces which, after a notable march through the primeval forest of Maine, seized the fortress of Quebec. General Richard Montgomery, who had joined his forces with those of Arnold in the attack on Quebec, was killed, while Arnold, badly wounded, was obliged to withdraw.

It was five years later that Arnold, then a major general, in command at West Point, turned traitor to his country in revenge for what he considered his humiliation by the Continental congress, by scheming to surrender the great West Point fortress to the British, and thus give the enemy strategic control of the Hudson river.

Bargain License

Poplar Bluff, Mo.—W. W. Wilson believes in bargains. At the first sales-day event held here, among articles too numerous to mention was a marriage license. The price was cut in half for sales day. Wilson purchased the paper for 75 cents and ordered the name of his prospective bride left blank. "I'll make use of it in time," Wilson said, assuring friends he knew what he was doing.

FATAL FISH POISONING MYSTERY IN HONOLULU

What Toxin Killed Two Chinese Is Unexplained—Hawaiian Legends Are Revived.

Honolulu, Hawaii.—The death recently of two Chinese, which was attributed to the eating of the fresh puffer or balloon fish, has caused a dispute as to whether the fish, a fairly common variety in Hawaiian waters, is poisonous in itself or becomes so through poisonous seaweed eaten by the fish, or through improper methods of preparation. The occurrence also has revived some interesting legends among the Hawaiians.

The Queen's hospital, in a bulletin issued after exhaustive examination, declares that the six balloon fish which were supposed to have caused the death of the two Chinese were not poisonous. The bulletin explains further that it is possible that these fish at certain times or places eat a poisonous seaweed.

The hospital points out also that there is a variety of the fish, comparatively rare, which is poisonous, with a secretion similar to the poison of certain toadstools, and that on the island of Molokai it is a well known fact that certain fish, such as the ordinary harmless ulua, if taken on one side of the island, are poisonous, but if caught elsewhere are wholesome food.

The mullet is said to be poisonous in Molokai waters at certain times of the year, and to produce choking, dizziness and terrifying dreams.

The legend is that certain gods came at various seasons to live at the seashore, and while they remained on the shore of a certain bay the fish were poisonous to man.

"The true explanation," say the hospital chemists, "is probably that at certain times and places the fish eat poisonous food."

Hawaiians, however, assert that there is no poisonous seaweed in Hawaiian waters.

Bootblack Sees Child First Time in 15 Years

New York.—The official bootblack of police headquarters, Giuseppe Carnazo, gave a party at his home for his seventeen-year-old daughter, Antoinette, to whom he was introduced by his wife a few days ago when Antoinette arrived from Italy. He had not seen her since she was two.

Carnazo was poor fifteen years ago when he and his wife, Catherine, sailed from Italy for America. They left Mario, a son, who was four years old, and Antoinette, with relatives in the village of Catana. Giuseppe and Catherine passed through Ellis island and disappeared into New York's East side. Giuseppe shined shoes, and after years of work he became official police bootblack.

MINE PARLEY MAY BE RESUMED SOON

Threatened Coal Strike Expected to Be Averted—Coolidge Optimistic.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Negotiations between operators and miners in the anthracite coal fields may be resumed and the suspension of work, now threatened for September 1, averted, according to reports prevalent here.

The optimistic outlook for settlement of the wage differences which have blocked writing of a new contract to supplant the one which expires on August 31 was based on intimations that the miners would adopt a more conciliatory tone. The way for a resumption of the parleys, which were broken off when Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the anthracite operators' committee, denied that the employers' representatives at the conference were "supernumeraries" was opened by Mr. Wariner's second letter.

Mr. Lewis' attitude reinforced the reports of a resumption of conferences. It was indicated that his answer would be fully as conciliatory as the peace overture of the operators' leader.

Swampscott, Mass.—President Coolidge believes that the anthracite coal negotiations broken off at Atlantic City will be resumed in the near future by the miners and operators, it was officially stated at White Court.

Vice President's Last Trout Biggest of Them All

Lincoln, Neb.—"The last fish was the biggest of all, a beautiful dappled mountain trout, hooked on the final day of the stay at Wagon Wheel Gap, and it made the total catch of the nine days' vacation at the gap an even 100. Not bad for an amateur fisherman, eh?"

This was the triumphant report made by Vice President Charles Gates Dawes on his arrival in Lincoln.

Other members of the party declared the vice president's recital of his fishing exploits was modest.

James J. Hill's Home at St. Paul Brings $90,000

St. Paul, Minn.—The James J. Hill home here, one of the "show places" of St. Paul, and a major contention in the division of the $11,250,000 Hill estate among nine contesting heirs, was sold at public auction for $90,300. The brownstone residence, which cost more than $200,000 in 1889, was appraised at $189,000. Almon A. Greenman, Minneapolis banker, bought the home, but declined to say whom he represented.

Former Senator Gray of Delaware Is Dead at 85

Wilmington, Del. — George Gray, eighty-five, former United States senator from Delaware and retired judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, died at his home here.

Judge George Gray of Delaware was twice honored by Democrats of his state as their choice for the Democratic nomination for President, first in 1904 and again in 1908.

Ford Purchases Airplane Factory at Dearborn, Mich.

Detroit, Mich.—It is announced that Henry Ford has bought aut all stockholders and taken over the Stout Metal Airplane company at the Ford airport, Dearborn, together with its patents and manufacturing rights, and will operate the plant hereafter as a divisoin of the Ford Motor company. The transfer has been completed.

U. S. Accepts Ford Bid of $1,706,000 for 200 Ships

Washington.—Formal announcement was made by the shipping board of the acceptance of the cash bid of $1,706,000 submitted by Henry Ford for 200 steel vessels to be dismantled and scrapped. The scrapipng will include all engines, boilers and auxillaries.

U. S. Roads Will Span Nation

Washington.—Fifty thousand miles of roads, honeycombing the United States from the Canadian border to the Gulf coast and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, were selected by the joint board of interstate highways as "United States highways" to be designated with uniform road markers.

Foil Moscow Plot

Prague, Czechoslovakia.—Police assert they have discovered a plot to assassinate President Masaryk by order of the Moscow international and have taken into custody Doctor Houser, secretary of the Communist party, and a Communist writer named Stastny.

Bill Asks for Receiver

Pittsburgh, Pa.—A petition in United States court, filed by attorneys for John A. Bell, asked that a receiver be apointed to look after the assets of the head of the closed Carnegie Trust company.

For Repeal of Auto Tax

Washington.—Repeal of all the miscellaneous or nuisance taxes, including the automobile taxes, was predicted by Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the finance committee.

U. S. GUARDS TO HALT SMUGGLER ON BORDER

Force on Northern Line to Be Equipped With Cars.

Duluth, Minn.—Twelve men are to be added to the border patrol between International Falls, Minn., and Pembina, N. D., it was announced here upon receipts of orders from Washington.

Heretofore the 125-mile stretch of border in Minnesota has been patrolled by one man. The new force will be equipped with fast motor cars and the smuggling of liquor, narcotics, live stock and wheat is expected to be cut to a negligible figure after August 15, the date upon which the new patrol will start operations.

"Free trading," as N. A. Linderberg, deputy collector of customs here, put it, exists on the boundary between Canada and the United States, despite the import duties.

"With a 42 cent duty on each bushel of wheat," Mr. Linderberg declared, "it proves highly profitable for farmers of the dominion to run their grain over the border for sale in the United States, and cars, trucks and wagons are used in day and night trips.

New York Officials to Probe Girl's Adoption

New York. — Developments in the adoption o Mary Louise Spas by Edward W. Browning, wealthy real estate operator, came quickly and brought tears to Mary's eyes. First, Bird S. Coler, commissioner of the department of public welfare, announced that his office would present whatever information his investigation received to the district attorney of Queens. Mr. Coler declared the adoption was the "most unmoral transaction" he had ever heard of.

Breach Between Bulgaria and Greece Is Closed

Paris.—The breach between the Greek and Bulgarian governments over the slaying of a Greek at Stanimaka apparently has been closed. This is indicated in a semiofficial dispatch from Athens to the effect that the Greek government had received favorably the Bulgarian note on the subject and assurances of redress from M. Kalfoff, the Bulgarian foreign minister.

Jury Finds Scott Insane; Sent to Chester Prison

Chicago.—Russell T. Scott was found insane by a jury's verdict and was thereby saved from the gallows to which he had been sentenced for the murder of Joseph G. Maurer, a nineteen-year-old drug clerk.

Judge Joseph B. David, before whom the verdict was returned, at once sentenced Scott to the Chester penitentiary. If he recovers his sanity he will be hanged.

Missouri Mob Lynches Negro Who Attacked Girl

Excelsior Springs, Mo.—A mob of a thousand persons lynched Walter Mitchell, negro, here for an alleged attack on a young white girl. The mob obtained entrance to the jail by the ruse of a false fire alarm and dragged the negro through the main streets to a place where he was hanged from an oak tree.

France Pays $10,000,000 to U. S. for War Goods

Washington. — The French government has gaid to the United States another $10,000,000 interest on the $400,000,000 owed for war supplies, it was announced here.

The payment has no connection with the war debt owed to the United States by France.

Heiress Calls Off Wedding

Providence, R. I. — Announcement was made by Mrs. Frank A. Sayles of Pawtucket, mother of Miss Nancy Sayles, Rhode Island's richest girl, that the marriage of her daughter to Lieut. Ernesto Ladinelli Becci of Rome, Italy's assistant secretary of the interior, has been postponed indefinitely.

Ford Buys Seven U. S. Tugs

Washington.—The fleet corporation completed the sale of seven ocean-going tugs to Henry Ford for $42,500 each. The transaction has been approved by the shipping board. Mr. Ford will use them in towing the 200 government vessels he has bought for scrapping.

U. S. Envoy Lies in State

Tokyo.—Hundreds of Japanese and American friends of the late Ambassador Edgar A. Bancroft viewed the body here as it lay in the procathedral, after having arrived by special train from Karnizawa, where the ambassador died on July 28.

Mrs. Rose Potter Dies

New York.—Rose Potter, widow of Paul Potter, journalist and playwright, who dramatized Du Maurier's "Trilby," died penniless at St. Luke's hospital. The play was said to have brought $500,000 to the author in royalties.

Increase in World Wheat

Washington.—increase in the wheat production of 18 countries, exclusive of Russia and China, as compared with last year, has been reported by International Institute of Agriculture, Rome.

800 FRENCH FALL IN FIGHT WITH SYRIANS

Haueran Abandoned After Rebels Capture Suediah —Troops Massacred.

Jerusalem.—Reports from Amman, Trans-Jordiana, tell of the capture of Suediah by Syrian rebels. The French have evacuated southern Haueran, a district of Syria, lying to the south of Damascus and east of the upper Jordan river.

The capture of Suediah was effected under the leadership of Sultan Pasha El Atrash. Several tanks and machine guns are said to have been taken and a number of airplanes brought down.

The French casualties total about 200 dead and 600 wounded, according to reports received here. One French detachment sent from Ezra to relieve Suediah was ambushed and massacred. A second column was dispersed, while the French troops concentrated at Beirut for transport to Morocco have been hurried to the scene of the fighting.

A French officer commanding a mixed detachment of Syrian and Madagascar troops ended his life.

"The French column was surprised by a large force of Druses," Aristide Briand announced after a cabinet meeting.

The newspaper Echo de Paris announces that the uprising commenced on July 24 and that the news has been suppresed until now.

It is taken for granted that the uprising was inspired by pan-Islamic committees working through Arab and Turkish agents in Syria in order to help Abd-el Krim.

Illinois Bank Robber Suspect Taken in Canada

Hamilton, Ont.—Romeo Forlini left here for New York under guard of a United States secret service agent to stand trial for alleged implication in the theft of $1,250,000 worth of Liberty bonds from the Bank of Centerville, Mo., in April, 1923. Word received from New York states that on the opening of Forlini's safety-deposit boxes there $80,000 in cash and bonds stolen from the National bank at Marissa, Ill., in September, 1919, were found.

Bryan Failed to Name Executors in His Will

Miami, Fla.—By a curious omission in the last will and testament of William Jennings Bryan, his estate here is tied up, with no member of his family permitted to draw any of the money left by him and no payments permitted to be made to institutions to which he has been a regular contributor. The late statesman neglected to name executors in his will and as a consequence the document is being withheld from probate.

Rockefeller's Niece to Wed Frederic W. Lincoln

New York.—The marriage of Miss Isabel Rockefeller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy A. Rockefeller, to Frederic W. Lincoln, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic W. Lincoln, will take place on September 26, it is learned. The Rockefeller and Lincoln families have homes in New York and Greenwich, Conn. The ceremony will take place in Christ church, Greenwich. Miss Rockefeller is a grandniece of John D. Rockefeller.

U. S. Finds Bumper Crops Will Cut Vegetable Prices

Chicago.—Fruit and vegetables, due to large crops, will be much lower in price in August than in July, according to a federal bureau of agriculture economics report issued here. In some cases the drop will be 50 per cent. Cantaloupe in particular will be cheap, Indiana, New Mexico and Maryland shipping twice as many as last year, and Rocky Ford, Colo., giving promise of a bumper crop.

Bar Gifts From Rockefeller

Madison, Wis.—University of Wisconsin regents went on record 9 to 6 against acceptance in the future of any special gifts or endowments from the Carnegie or Rockefeller interests or similar foundations. Money now in hand from both sources will be used.

Nine-Power Treaties Signed

Washington.—Formal ratification of the two nine-power treaties affecting China that were signed at the Washington arms limitation conference were exchanged and the treaties immediately became effective.

J. J. Cole, Auto Maker, Dies

Indianapolis.—J. J. Cole, president and general manager of the Cole Motor Car company, died here.

Call for Legion Meet

Indianapolis.—The official call for the seventh annual national convention of the American Legion at Omaha, Neb., October 5-9, was issued here by James A. Drain, national commander.

Steel Heads Resign

New York.—The New York World says that the Bethlehem Steel corporation has announced resignations of three chief officials to avoid necessity of reducing wages of its 10,000 laborers.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

JAMES F. BARTON IS NATIONAL ADJUTANT

James F. Barton, formerly assistant national adjutant of the American Legion and prior to that for several years adjutant of the Iowa department, is now national adjutant. He succeeded Russell Creviston of Indiana, who retired at the end of July after a connection of six years with the national organization to become field director for the War Mothers' Memorial association at Washington.

The new adjutant has been active in the Legion ever since its formation. He was chosen commander of Fort Dodge post 130, Fort Dodge, Iowa, before the first national convention at Minneapolis in 1919. He became adjutant of the Iowa department in the fall of 1920. Prominent members of the Legion in Iowa say that a large part of the credit for making and keeping the Iowa department one of the best in the Legion belongs to Jim Barton.

Ten days after war was declared in 1917, Barton entered the service. In a month he was promoted to captain. He saw service overseas for 14 months. He was discharged at Camp Dodge, Iowa, August 8, 1919. He was a star athlete at the University of Iowa, where he captained the basketball team in his senior year. He took a law course there.

Mr. Creviston, immediately following his relinquishment of the duties of national adjutant, went to Rome, Italy, as secretary of the American Legion delegation to the Rome congress of Fidac. For that purpose he was granted a special leave of absence from his work as field director with the War Mothers' Memorial association, which is seeking to erect a great memorial in honor of the mothers of the men and women who served in all the wars in which the country has taken part.

Resolutions of appreciation of Mr. Creviston's services with the Legion, together with a watch and a past national adjutant's badge as tokens of personal esteem, were presented to him on behalf of the national executive committee. The resolutions, drawn by a committee composed of Past National Commander Henry D. Lindsley, Past National Commander Hanford MacNider and Donald Strachan, recited Mr. Creviston's long and able services to the national organization and the vision and understanding which he brought to his duties.

Mr. Creviston, whose home is at Marion, Ind., helped to plan the first national convention of the Legion at Minneapolis. He became assistant national adjutant in 1920 and was promoted to the national adjutancy in February, 1924, following the resignation of Lemuel Bolles. He is a graduate of Indiana university.

Good Shooting

The Stars and Stripes must never touch the ground.

E. P. Robertson was taught that when he was serving his nation in olive drab in far-off France. He remembered it recently while he was wearing the blue of a uniformed policeman at Atlanta, Ga.

Walking his beat, Robertson saw a party of joy riders. Trailing from their car was an American flag. It was being dragged through the dust and dirt and filth of the street.

Robertson's marksmanship record in the army is not known, but examination revealed that, although he fired but four shots to stop the desecrators of the flag, his sense of sight and balance was good; the rear tires of the fleeing automobile were each neatly bored twice by the former doughboy's fire.

Restoration Camp

"Camp American Legion," new restoration camp for veterans established through the instrumentality of the Legion department of Wisconsin, was dedicated at Tomahawk lake recently before an audience of 1,500 persons.

"Since the close of the war," said a Legion official, "hundreds of men have been discharged from hospitals with the advice from the staff physicians to get out into the open. The advice was not taken because the average former service man has no money to spend upon a vacation. As a result they went back to their old jobs and within a matter of months were back at the hospital with broken health again. This big summer camp at Tomahawk lake will provide the needed environment for large number of convalescent veterans."

A Nest Egg

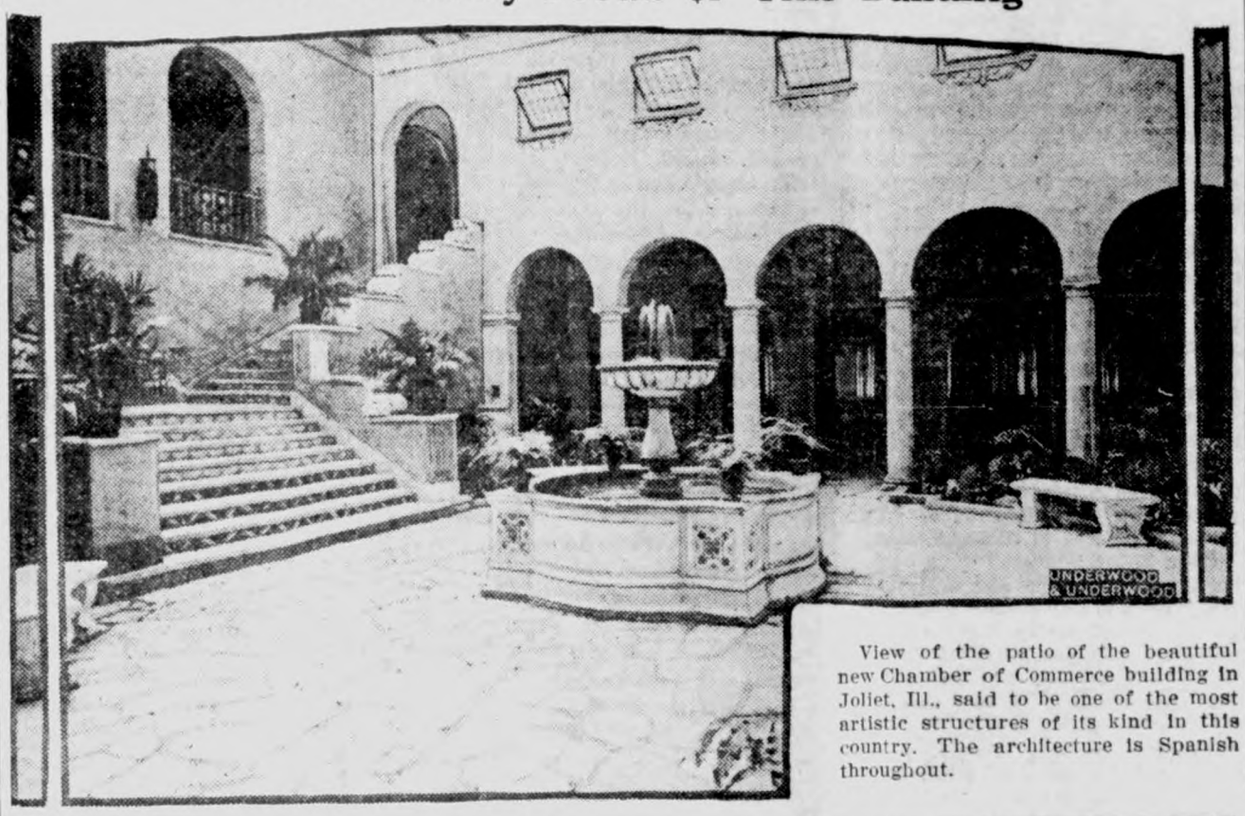
"If I had the money, dearest," he bemoaned, "we would be married, but I am penniless."

"Don't worry, darling," she cheered him. "I've been saving all the small change that slips out of your pocket on the sofa every night."—The American Legion Weekly

Where Ancient Race Dwelt in the Zion Park

In the Parumuweap canyon of Zion National park have been discovered some remarkably well-preserved cliff dwellings, believed to be about two thousand years old. Everything is intact, even to picture writing and wall decorations. The illustration shows Walter Beatty and Wallace Smith digging near a fireplace.

Joliet Is Justly Proud of This Building



View of the patio of the beautiful new Chamber of Commerce building in Joliet, Ill., said to be one of the most artistic structures of its kind in this country. The architecture is Spanish throughout.

Young Coolidge Made Corporal

John Coolidge, son of the President, shown above being inspected by Colonel Larned at Camp Devens, has been made a corporal in the Citizen's Military Training corps on the [illegible] of the training he received last year.

Will Be Dedicated in September

The Harding memorial in Stanley park, Vancouver, B. C., which is to be unveiled September 17 next by Herbert Hoover. It is being erected by the Kiwanis clubs of America near the spot where the late President made his last speech extending fraternal greetings to Canada. The figures represent Columbia and Canada.

ELLSWORTH IS BACK

Lincoln Ellsworth, the American who commanded one of the two planes in which the party, led by Roald Amundsen, made the attempt to reach the North pole by air, returned to New York recently.

IT'S WELL LIGHTED

"What a well-lighted apartment," said the queen bee as she led her swarming family to this street lamp Seattle, Wash.

Community Building

Financial Value in Beauty of Building

Architectural beauty has as real a commercial value as structural strength or material excellence. Over the rugged sinews of steel and brick the architect evolves an adornment the beauty expressing fittingly the character desired.

It is this beauty of design, combined with a carefully planned utility which makes buildings desirable, not only in the eyes of the owner, but in the regard, as well, of those upon whose opinion the commercial value of a building depends.

Men pride themselves upon homes which, in their quiet beauty, reflect their owner's station in life. The building of commerce, designed along lines of refined prosperity, is, for the very character and beauty of its design, a desirable place in which to locate. The hotel which best expresses an inviting and generous hospitality, wins patronage through the appeal of attractive appearance.

The architect, by virtue of his training and talents, understands the meaning and application of architectural design. Only he can bring out the beauty so much desired.—Chicago Evening Post.

All Business Helped by Improved Homes

Business men and trade organizations, not directly allied with the building industries, are now taking active steps to educate the public to own and properly furnish their homes, as they realize that a demand for better homes means not only prosperity for the builder, but also added business in many retail lines.

The advantages of this far-seeing policy are many. In the first place the householder becomes a permanent factor in the growth of the city. He is actuated to greater industry and wise economy. His trade, also, belongs to the community in which he resides. He is an asset to every retailer, and a patron to be cultivated. A nation of home owners would be a nation of stable, conservative citizens.

One of the chief considerations in thus promoting the cause of home ownership is to discourage unwise extravagance on the part of the owner and systematize his outlay for maintenance and upkeep so that his debts do not become burdensome.

Attractive Shrubbery

Shrubbery planting on small places assumes three forms—the plantings at the foundation of the house, plantings in angles of walks, drives and property corners next to the public sidewalk, and the large shrubbery borders designed to give privacy and serve as screens. The shrubs used in the foundation plantings and angle plantings are generally of the low type, with perhaps a few medium height shrubs and evergreens used as accents where window arrangement would permit. Care should always be taken that material used in a foundation planting will not grow so large that it will shut out light and air. Spiraea Anthony Waterer, spiraea Froebell, deutzia gracilis, hydrangea arboresens, snow berry, Japanese barberry, Indian currant and Regel's privet are a few of many shrubs which would be safe to use in such a planting.

The shrubbery borders as a rule require the use of all three types of shrubs—namely, the low, medium and high forms. The two lower types are generally used in front of the taller group to serve as a transition from the front to the back of the border. Many times, however, the taller varieties are allowed to stand out boldly in front or on a point to serve as an accent.

Plea for Garden Cities

America, like European countries where the evils of urban overgrowth make themselves felt with equal or even greater force, is now confronted with the necessity of squarely facing a situation which in reality constitutes the greatest menace to our civilization. Can the garden-city idea be transplanted into American soil? Does it not conflict too violently with the hyperindividualistic tendencies of American economic life? If such is the case, would it not be possible to realize in America garden cities of a somewhat modified but nevertheless effective type?

This, it would seem, is well worth taking into consideration. It would serve the purpose of achieving what city planning alone, as applied to the great cities in existence, is incapable of doing—namely, effectively relieve the population pressure of the overgrown cities and improve a housing situation none too good.—New York World.

Name "Carved" in Grass

About seventy-five years ago the owner of a farm at Phippsburg, Maine, spelled his name on the grass of a hillside by sprinkling wood ashes. The letters are several feet high and read "S. H. Rogers." In the spring when the new grass is coming up fresh and green, the letters are particularly distinct and can be read easily a long distance away. It is said that only twice since the letters were originally made have they received a fresh coating of wood ashes.

THE NEW YORK
REAL ESTATE MARKET

is enjoying an era of unprecedented prosperity. Due to the ever increasing population of the metropolis, the housing shortage, which persists in spite of the greatest building activity and due to the constant re-location of business districts, rentals are higher than ever, properties are showing excellent returns on the capital invested and are rapidly changing hands at substantial profits.

The underlying safety of an investment in well located, improved Manhattan Real Estate is far superior to any other class of investment. Such real estate always has an intrinsic value which cannot be substantially affected by conditions which often seriously impair other types of investment.

The constant increase of value in New York real estate is the logical result of the steady increase of population and the resultant expansion of business.

Under my co-operative plan individuals may participate in real estate investment in small or large amounts and I invite inquiries from persons interested. Write for details.

ALEXANDER WERNER
152 West 42nd Street
New York City
(Licensed Real Estate Broker)

In the Right Place

The loquacious stranger paused as he walked down the village street. He looked to the right and he looked to the left, and then he sighed as though his esthetic sense was completely satisfied. One of the natives drew near, and the stranger accosted him. "Pretty village you have here," he remarked, pleasantly. The native considered. "Yep," he agreed, finally. "Where else would you have it?"

Sure Relief
FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS
Hot water
Sure Relief
BELL-ANS
25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

SAVE YOUR EYES!
Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 116 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Civil War Memento

In tearing down the steeple of an old church in Kingston, N. C., recently, nearly a ton of old horseshoes and scrap iron was found stored high in the belfry, probably placed there for safety when the Civil war was on and things of momentary importance were being hidden.—Ohio State Journal.

Truth presents only one face, but lies appear in myriad forms.

Genuine
BAYER
ASPIRIN
Say "Bayer Aspirin"

INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package

which contains proven directions
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists
Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

ECZEMA
After Others Fail
PETERSON'S OINTMENT
Big Box 60 Cents

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment when eczema or terrible itching of skin and scalp tortures you is known to tens of thousands of people the country over. Often the itching goes overnight.

For pimples, acne, rough and red skin, old sores, ulcers, piles, chafing, sunburn, burning feet and all blemishes and eruptions it is supremely efficient, as any broad-minded druggist will tell you. Peterson Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Helpful Facts That are of Interest to the Farmer

GROW YOUR OWN CLOVER SEED

Is Advice of F G Churchill Farm Crops Specialist Who Tells How To Handle Crop

Good homegrown clover seed is ussually the best to sow in the opinion of F G Churchill farm crops specialist of Iowa State College He says that about 500 samples of clover seed which were gathered from many different sources have been tested at the Iowa experiment station and that seed is more winter hardy and will produce a better growth than imported seed

A field of clover should be examined for clover dodder, curled dock, buckhorn Canada thistle and other noxious weeds before it is allowed to stand for seed. If fields contain only a few weeds these may be pulled by hand and burned before the seeds mature Fields which contain more weeds than can be pulled should probably be cut early the second time for hay to prevent the weed seed from maturing

In order to determine whether the second crop should be cut for hay or seed, it is neccssary to make an estimation of the seed production when the crop has just passed the full bloom stage. If the stand is good and 25 to 30 seeds are found per head, the crop should yield from one to twelve bushels of seed per acre.

Cut the crop for seed when the heads are brown, the flower stalks yellow and the seed a violet color If the crop is allowed to become overripe, there will be a loss of seed caused by the breaking off of heads. If cut while some of the leaves are still green, the stems will dry to better advantage.

Clover may be cut for seed with an ordinary mower One with a windrow or buncher attachment can be used to good advantage Allow the clover to partially dry and then rake it into very small cocks. Contrary to common belief, it is not necessary for clover to rot before the seed is hulled, says Mr Churchhill. The all important thing is to have the clover perfectly dry when it is hulled

The important points in securing a good clover seed crop are a strong vigorous stand free from noxious weeds, early removal of the first crop, cutting when the seed is ripe but before the leaves are dry handling the crop as little as possible, and hulling when bone dry.

BLEACH CELERY NOW

Roofing Paper, Boards, or Tile May Be Used

Early planted celery will be ready for bleaching from Aug 10 to 20, says C. V Holsinger, horticultural extension specialist Iowa State College

The bleaching may be done by placing 12 or 16 inch boards along each side of the rows or by cutting roofing paper in two and placing strips along each side of the plants If boards are used, they may be fastened together at the top by four inch strips. The roofing paper may be fostened together by clips made from number 12 or 14 wire About ten days are required to complete the bleaching

Celery plants may be bleached by placing a drain tile around them, or wrapping them in newpapers. At this season, however, it is not advisable, however to use tile because the excessive heat may cause the plants to burn and rot. Dirt, likewise, should not be used at this season, because of the danger from heat, but may be used satisfactorily in October. It should not be used earlier, Mr. Holsinger says.

FARM LAND PRICES ADVANCING GENERALLY

Minnesota farm lands have increased 10 per cent in price in six months according to statistics compiled by Pres. C. T. Moffet, of the Minnesota Realty Association. Farm land sales for the year will exceed $12,000,000. The highest price paid was $325 an acre. Many sales are reported at $150 to $180 an acre A large portion of the land sales were in localities where the cheaper lands are located. The average price received on all sales reported for the first six months of 1925 was $77 per acre, which is $7 peracre higher than the average price for the last six months of 1924. In the months of May and June, 1925, 391 tracts of farm lands, aggregating 30,817 acres were reported as sold for $2,499,909. The average price for May and June exceeded $81 per acre.

The result of the survey made by President Moffett indicates that Minnesota farm land values are well started on the up grade.

SPECIAL DAYS AT IOWA STATE FAIR THIS YEAR

Des Moines, Aug. 11, Special.—The Farm Bureau, world war veterons, and similar bodies are to be especially honored at the Iowa State Fair and National Livestock Show here this month, according to the program of special days for the exposition which was announced today by officials.

These special days follows:

Friday, ug. 28. Children' Day, Public School Day, Auto Races.

Saturday— World War Veterans' Day, Des Moines Day, Baby Beef Day.

Sunday: Music Day, Religious Oratorio Day.

Monday— Farm Bureau, Auto and Implement Dealers' Day.

Tuesday Old Soldiers' Way, Educational Day.

Thursday, Live Stock Parade Day.

Friday—, Automobile Race and Grand Finale Day.

Children under fifteen are to be admitted on August 28 when accompanied by their parents. World war veterans will be admitted free August 29, Spanish war veterans admitted free on September 1, and old soldiers, their wives or widows, admitted free every day of the fair. Special programs in keeping with the days mentioned have been arranged for each of these special occasions.

EAGLE GROVE MAKES PLANS FOR 4- DAY ROUND-UP

Eagle Grove, August 5,—A grandstand with a seating capacity of 15,000 people is being erected at the half mile track in Greenwood Park in Eagle Grove, for the Round-Up, whichwill be held four days, September 4-5-6 and 7. Sixty acres of ground has been rented near the park to be used exclusively for parking cars.

The American Legion at Eagle Grove, which is staging the Round-up, has been fortunate in securing contracts with a big majority of the world renown riders and ropers to enter the four days contests. As the Eagle Grove roundup comes right after the championship Rodeo at Chicago, there will be many of the Chicago prize winners competing in the Eagle Grove contests.

Every organization in the city is co-operating with the Legion to make the Round-up the biggest affair of its kind ever staked in an Iowa city.

TRAVELING IN OLD STYLE

An old-time prairie schooner passed through Garner yesterday, bound for Dakota and Nebraska. Old-time except that the owner had gotten some ideas from Henry Ford and had covered it with tin instead of canvas that had been used many years ago. They had come from east of LaCrosse and were on their way to Running Water, S. D. and from there they were going to southern Nebraska. They had been on the road five weeks, and we told them that we knew a young man in LaCrosse that drove this far Saturday evening after work to spend Sunday with a lady friend. These old people had taken as many weeks as it takes this young man hours to make the trip. However, they were happy, and enjoying the trip. They were goingto Dakota to visit relatives and then were going across to Nebraska, and make their home in the southern part of the state. They were inquiring for a camping ploce for the night, and said that they were often allowed to camp in tourists. Our tourist park was a mile out of their way, and the man told us that it took too long to drive up there, and be so far from the road in the morning, that he would chance finding a place along the road Their outfit was not a very substantial one, but they will probbaly make the trip all right, unless winter overtakes them.—Garner Signal.

Mary doesn't rouge her lips
Neither does she paint;
Is she a hit among the men?
You know damn well she ain't.

This great increase on the price of rubber is rather hard on the man who is about to retire.

"Say it with Printing, Flowers Die." Get your printing at the Times Print Shop, Klemme, Iowa.

HEADS WOMEN'S FAIR

Mrs. H. W. Spaulding of Grinnell, widely known women's club worker, who has charge of the eight-day program of lectures, demonstrations and contests in the big women's department at the Iowa State Fair, opening in Des Moines Aug. 26th. Everything pertaining to woman's work in the home, on the farm, in civic affairs and in modern public welfare is embraced in the features prepared for the women's fair this summer.

SHOW PRIZE GRAINS

Des Moines, Special:

The largest showing of prize grains, fruits, produce and project displays ever assembled in the United States is to be gathered together at the Iowa State Fair and National Livestock Show here this summer through the cooperation of farmers and farm bureaus of virtually every county in the state.

More than 30 different counties will present exhibits showing new developments in modern farming which have been popularized during the last year through county-wide project work. These exhibits will show farmers just what these improved methods will do, and will be attended by experts who will explain them to interested parties.

Scores of counties and individual farms have entered prize grains and produce for the thousands of dollars in prizes offered in these classes.

Over $3,000 is offered this summer for fruits, promising the largest horticultural show ever seen at the fair. Thousands of square feet of floor space have already been set aside for these displays and it is anticipated that this will be filled to overflowing.

BOOST HOG PRICES

Des Moines, Ia., Special:

"Raise more hogs" is the slogan which experts are using in preparing one of the most instructive exhibits ever shown for the Iowa State Fair and National Livestock Show this year.

Two pens of pigs, raised under different conditions, will compose the exhibit. One will demonstrate the old method of raising pigs on an infected lot, where many of the animals die, while the other will show how fine pigs can be raised on clean ground, by the "McLean County System." Comparisons of the two methods of raising pigs can thus be made.

The exhibit is being put on through the co-operation of the State Fair with the United States Department of Agriculture, Iowa State College and the Tama County Farm Bureau. Experts declare it will be one of the most instructive exhibits ever staged for farmers.

Gap Johnson Knows Value of Discretion

"A feller driving along in an old hootin' nanny car last night with its lights out, ran onto a mule that was laying in the road in front of Hoot Holler's house," related Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "The durn mule started to get up just as the car ran onto him and knocked him over. The driver of the car gave a hoot of his horn and a yell from himself, and the mule laying on his back began to kick and squeal.

"'Say, what are you trying to do with my mule?' yelled its owner, running out of his house.

"'You better ask him what he's trying to do to me and my car!' the feller hollered right back.

"And as I'd seed and heered this much and hadn't no desire to mix in a fight, being as I was all down in the back, I just went on and never did find out the rest of it."—Kansas City Star.

Art and the Haddock

On one of the piers in Portland an old fishmonger told the legend of the queer markings on the haddock. Just abaft the fish's gills are two dark blotches, like bruises, one on each side. And from each of these marks runs a straight dark line back toward the tail. The haddock, said this fisherman, was the fish with which Christ fed the multitude (though that sounds unlikely). This so annoyed the devil that he tried to avenge himself on the species. He seized one, holding it tightly (hence the bruise mark), but it slipped away. The devil's finger nails made the long scratches on each side; since when all haddocks carry that pattern. And beauty, in any art, is just as elusive as that haddock. It cannot be nabbed between the thumb and finger of any manifesto.—Christopher Morley, in the Saturday Review of Literature.

NEWSPAPER WAR ON AT GOLDFIELD

Goldfield has had some varied experience with newspapers in years past, and are to have more. Announcement is made that beginning this week, two papers will be issued there. The Chronicle two weeks ago carried a roast on the local committee of a community event for securing printing at the Eagle at Eagle Grove. Editor Barnes of the Eagle proceeded to buy the Chronicle by purchasing the mortgage held by the bank, ousting the Chronicle editor, G. L. Kuebler. Kuebler gets busy and starts a new paper. Both papers will be printed in Eagle Grove, one at the Eagle Office, the other at the Times. Many angles are bobbing up in the affair. It is said that the Klan was back of the old Chronicle. At any rate Goldfield people are apt to have a better paper than before. —Belmond Independent.

Confess—But What?

He was consulting his lawyer, more in a personal than in a professional way. "I don't know what to do, John," he said. "My wife has received an anonymous letter exposing some things I was mixed up in before we were married." The lawyer spoke from much experience. "Bill," he said, "there's only one thing to do—confess." "That would be all right, John," said the worried husband, "if she would let me take a look at the letter or tell me what's in it. As it is I don't know what to confess."

DIVORCES INCREASE FASTER THAN MARRIAGES

Washington, D. C., August 10—While the number of marriages consumated annually in the United States is increasing somewhat the number of divorces secured is growing greater by leaps and bounds, according to a survey made by the Federal Census Bureau and made public recently. The 1923 figures were compared with thoseof 1905, 1016 and 1922. Two thirds of all the divorces granted in 1923 were couples who had been married less than ten-years.

The marriage rate, based on population, was lower than in 1916, in th United States as whole. There was a slight increase in the rate in 1923, however, as compared with 1822. Sometimes the variance of the marriage rate in various states from one year to the next is due to new marriage laws. And ther ate is higher in somes tates than others because of non-resident couples who come in because of the marriage laws.

Concerning divorces the report continues:

"The number of divorces per 100 000 total population and the number per 100,000 married population were higher in each geographic division in 1923 than in 1922, and higher in 1922 than in 1916. On each basis, the Middle Atlantic division ranked lowest in 1923, 1922 and 1916; and the Pacific division had the highest rates, except in 1922 and again in 1923 the West South Central division ranked highest in number of divorces per 100,000 married population.

"There are marked differences among the geographic divisions in in the prevalence of divorce. Thus, in 1923, the divorce rates based on 100,000 total population varied from 59 in the Middle Atlantic to 260 in the Pacific division, while the divorce rates on 100,000 married population varied from 143 in the middle Atlantic to 626 in the West South Central division. Each rate was over four times as high in the highest as in the lowest ranking divisions; and similar wide variations existed among the divisions in 1922 and in 1916.

Of the forty-eight states which grant divorces, forty showed an increase in 1923 as compared with 1922 in the divorce rate per 100,000 total population, and forty an increase in the rate per 100,000 married population. In 1922 thirty-eight states showed an increase in each rate over that for 1916.

TELLS ABOUT CHILD TRAINING

Child Can Learn Much Before Starting to School

The time for the education of a child to begin is at birth, says Miss Lydia Swanson, instructor in home economics, Iowa State College. Some of the thing which may be taught to children before they reach school age are: self-reliance or independence, unselfishness and respect for the rights of others, the idea of service, obedience, courtesy and a desire for good health habits.

Self-relionce or independence may be fostered by allowing the child to drss himself. "It's an education in itself to let Jimmie put on his own shoes and stockings button up his clothes and wash his hands and face." says Miss Swanon.

The idea of sharing, or unselfishness, may begin to be taught the first time the child owns anything of his own. For example, "Let Mary play with your blocks for a little while," will help to make the child feel that he can give another a part of his happiness and enjoy doing it.

Children can be taught at an early age that others have rights, too. Often opportunities to teach this qualiy are allowed to slip by with the excuse, "He's just a baby," and therefore should have everything he demands, regardless of the fact that older brother or sister is playing with the coveted toy. Let the baby know he must wait until Johnny is thru with it, that it is Johnny's and that he must ask Johnny for it.

The idea of service — doing for others, may be developed by letting the child sweep, help with the dishes have him put away his toys and hang up his clothes. Praise him for his help.

In teaching the child obedience, give few commands, but be firm in seeing that they are carried out, nev er allowing a failure to occur. More can be accompolished by securing a child's co-operation. Avoid being dictatorial, give the child a chance to take a choice.

Courtesy is best taught thru example set by the parents and associates. eRgular habits of health should be established in the child while young. Allow the child to brush his own teeth. Regular habits of bathing, elimination and rest, can be established if adhered to vigilantly from the beginning.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

A FEW CAUSES OF Oil Pumping
AND COMPRESSION LEAKAGE

1. Worn or out or round cylinders.
2. Scored cylinders or pistons.
3. Warped or worn ring grooves.
4. Poorly fitted pistons and rings.
5. Piston pin hole out of round.
6. Poorly aligned rod on piston assembly.
7. Sprung connecting rods.
8. Crank shaft warped or out of true.
9. Worn Bearings.
10. Warped or sticky valves.
11. Improper timing.
12. Leaky cylinder head gaskets.

All this cas be repaired at—
PAVEY'S STORMIZING SHOP
Use Quaker State Oil and Ever-ready Gasoline

The Cash Store
We are prepared to meet your every need during the threshing season. You will find we have on hand a full line of Fresh Groceries and are well supplied with our favorite brand of G. W. C. canned goods, which are sure to please. Try a can of fruit or vegetables for the threshing dinner. You will find the gallon cans of fruits and Berries convenient for Pies.

Saturday Special
1 lb. BUTTERNUT TEA 63c
1-2 lb. BUTTERNUT TEA 32c

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store
"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Buy Your Flour Now!
We advise you to lay in your supply of FLOUR RIGHT NOW, as we still have a good supply of "Old" Flour on hand. The flour from new wheat will now be on the market, but as long as we have a supply of old wheat flour on hand we urge you to buy it as it is always better.

Maple Sota, Per sack $2.50
White Royal, " " $2.40

We recommend Maple Sota as one of the best brands of Flour on the market. Those who have used it say they like it best.

CARLOAD Mixed Mill Feed
We have a car load of mixed Mill Feeds coming, due to arrive any day. Let us know what you want.

Klemme Co-Op. Grain Co

Harold Gruetzmacher was a business caller in Klemme Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McConn were Klemme visitors Saturday.

Charlie Luick of Belmond was visiting Klemme friends Saturday.

WANTED — Milk custonmers Phone 4314, Klemme.

George Kessler and family were visitors here Saturday.

Marvin Weigman was a business caller here Saturday.

August Katter was a business caller in our city Monday morning.

Emil Barz of Watrloo was visiting his son Max, Sunday.

John Tanner is enjoying a visit from his mother.

Miss Maurine Hake is visiting ot the G. W. Kluckhohn home.

J. A. Keever now has his cream station in the old Schaefer building.

John Etchen and LuVerne Smith were Mason City callers Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Trafford and Lois, of Belmond were callers in Klemme Thursday morning.

Garner Boosters were in Klemme Friday ,advertising their Legion celebration.

The Citizens Military Training camp is now being held at Camp Ft. Des Moines.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnold are the parents of a fine baby boy, born Sunday morning.

George Musfelt and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Musfelt were Klemme visitors Monday.

G. W. Kluckhohn is driving a new Rickenbacker Six, purchased last Tuesday.

Miss Florence Trumbell of Mason City visited at the Sumner Trumbell home a few days this week.

Mrs. Tony Ahrenkiel and Talkeous were callers here betwen trains Monday.

A. D. Gimer and family drove to Eldora Sunday. Grandma Fouts returned with them.

Ed. Ford of Iowa Falls has been in this vicinity for a few days, working his line of insurance.

Mrs. Conrad Quandt left Monday for Cedar Rapids. From there she will visit in Illinois. She will be gone for two or three weeks.

A mistake was made in the market reports last week. Instead of butterfat being 44c it should have been 45c.

A good many people from Klemme have been attending the Hazel M. Cass shows at Belmond this week.

A. D. Gimer and Paul Muller are both driving new Essex coaches, purchased the fore part of this week.

Tom Carrol came from Illinois for a week or so in this vicinity. He is fixing up his farm, where John Osterkamp lives.

A card from the Editor states that they are enjoying their vacation trip very much. So far they have had very little trouble.

C. A. Larsen has installed a new refrigerator counter in the meat market. It makes a fine improvement.

FOUND— Tail light and auto license number 46 - 2010. Owner may have same by calling at Times office and paying for this ad. 1wc.

Rev. McConnel, former pastor of the United Presbyterian church at Garner preached in the Methodist church Sunday. He now lives at Monmouth, Ill.

Dr. Parsons of Belmond and Dr. W. F. Missman left last Thursday to join their families in Wisconsin, where they will spend a month's vacation.

The North Iowa fair at Mason City starts Sunday. A large crowd is expected. as nearly everyone will be through threshing by that time. Big preparations have been made and a fine pragram is arranged for.

LOST— on the streets of Klemme last week, $21 in bills. The one who found this money is known and is advised to return at once. Finder return to Times Office for reward.

Only one trade name was registered last week: Mertz Dean Co., Woden, Iowa, owners M. J. Mertz Woden and W. A. Dean Traer Iowa.

The Misses Ethel Wellemeyer and Elvira Stille are spending their vacations at Clear Lake, Mason City and Charles City.

Emil Patet has returned to Klemme. He took up his duties at the school house Monday, and is getting everything in readiness to start school.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carpenter, Sr. of Goodell were Klemme Callers last Tuesday. They have recently returned from their honeymoon trip in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. Luverne Smth of Klemme, have been visiting in Melmond at the parental L. L. Luick home. Luverne recently sold his pool hall in Klemme—Herald-Press

Paul Grange and family are spending their vacation in the Black Hills. Mr. White, of Esterville is looking after the lumber yard, during his absence.

OFFER their 300 acre farm in Avery township, for sale. Good land with fair improvements; near school and market. Will give good terms. Price $135.00 per acre. Marion A. Fell & Co., Sales Agents, Garner, Iowa.

Several members of the Rowan school board called on our school board one day last week. They were here to look over the "Mastic" gymnasium flooring in our school, as they are considering making some improvements in their school.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell were at Chariton a couple of days last week. "Sum" was appointed delegate from this county to attend a mail carrier's convention there. Deputy Carrier Frank Gibbs, attended to his route during his absence.

The only real estate transfer, recorder at the county ogice was Ida Peterson, hus to F. R. Duxbury, W. D., date 7-22-25 $1.00. E½ lots 6-7-8 blk 16 Tallman's add to Garner. The assignment of P. M. Greismer and F. J. Wenck for the benefit of creditors was also recorded.

Threshing in this vicinity is nearly finished. Several of the small machines have been through for several days and most of the large rings will finish by the middle of this week. Threshing crews have had an unusually fine run this year. Grain has been in fine condition and many fine yields have been reported. We heard of one field of barley which went 60 bushel to the acre, and several fields have averaged over forty-five.

Garner staged their annual Legion celebrotion Tuesday. A very small crowd attended the doings in the afternoon and the rain spoiled things in general for them in the evening.

The A. E. Buriff family were callers in Klemme Sunday. Rev. Buriff preached at Belmond for the morning service.

We were misinformed about the Ladies Aid Society last week. We were told that it was to have met last week Thursday. Instead, it meets this week Thursday at the Parish house, with Mrs. Trumbell and Mrs. Yohnke, hostesses as was announced before.

LET OLE DO IT

The Northern Amusement Company will present their three act swede dialect comedy dramo "Let Ole Do It" under canvas on Friday August 14th. The company travels by motor and carries a concert band, A ladies Saxophone Orcehstra and a Harrington new tone air calliope. Mr. George Engesser who has appeared here before in Swede dialect parts is with the company and will play the part of "Ole" the jolly swede in "Let Ole Do It."

Anyone wishing to buy a fine Duroc Hog, see Sumner Trumbell. 1wp

A WILL WITH AKICK

The following excrepts from a will which was recently probated in the New York courts:

To my wife, I leave her lover and the knowledge that I wasn't the fool she thought I was.

To my son, I leave the pleasure of earning a living. For thirty-five years he has thought that the pleasure was all mine. He was mistaken.

To my daughter, Ileave $100,000. She will need it. The only good piece of business did was to marry her.

To my Chaffeur, I leave my cars. He almost ruined them and I want him to have the satisfaction of finishing the job.

To my partner, I leave the suggestion that he take some clever man in with him at once, If he expects to do any business. — Wall Street Journal.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

June 29, 1925.

Adjourned meeting of the regular meeting held at the Mayor's office. F. A. Arnold and Valentine Josten members of the council absent.

Motion made to allow the following bills:

H. S. Swartz; Hauling 68 loads Gravel	$66.30
Beenn J. Coobs; June Salary	75.00
Community Service St. Co.; Gas oline	29.76
States Savings Bank; Bond and Interest	545.00
White Phillips Co.; Bonds and Geo. M. Bechtel & Co.; Bond	3255.00
Consolidated National Bank: Interest Coupons	30.00
Aaron Greimann; Supplies for for Tractor	4.85

Meeting adjourned.

A. J. Kudje, Clerk.

July 20, 1925.

Regular meeting of town council held at mayor's office. A members were present.

Upon motion the following bills were ordered paid:

Erick Josten; Labor at town hall	$30.00
Frank Terhufen! Labor at town hall	18.20
John H. Suckow; Labor at town hall	56.15
E. A. Zeidler; Labor at town hall	24.00
Ing Lauritzen; Labor at town hall	46.40
H. S. Swartz; Hauling 10 Loads Gravel	8.50
Mrs. C. L. Blumer; Board and lodging for man & wife	1.25
Lloyd Lau; Drayage	5.45
Aaron Greimann; Supplies for Tractor	.30
Farmers Lbr. Co.; Lumber	125.80
Benn J. Coobs; Supplies for Tractor	3.00
J. A. Keever, Labor on road	.75
Central States Electric Co., June street lights and mini mum	53.60
G. W. Kluckhohn and Sons; Supplies	17.11

Bills allowed.

Motion made to adjourn.

A. J. Kudje, Clerk.

From Atlantic City comes a report of the discovery of a cure for the insanity caused by drinking bootleg liquor. No treatment has yet been found for the insanity that causes people to drink the stuff.

NEWS OF GOODELL AND VICINITY

Father Eardley delivered his farewell sermon Sunday. A fine program and banquet was given in his honor Sunday evening in the church parlors.

Gladys and Opa l Bremer accompanied by their brother were calling on old friends here.

Mr. ond Mrs. Alfred Carpenter, Sr. returned from their honeymoon trip Tuesday. They were treated to an old-time Charivari Wednesday night.

Mrs Jack Houghton and children of Minneapolis are visiting at the Houghton home.

J. W. Griggs was a Venturo caller Thursday.

Miss Lewis who has been nursing at the Allie home, returned to her home in Garner Thursday.

Mr. Boller of Belmond was a caller here Friday.

J. W. Griggs was a Ventura callrain which made the farmers feel glad as the corn and pastures were suffering for moisture.

Mrs. Finn and daughter Lillian returned from Des Moines Friday, where they were shopping.

Cyril McGuire was a business caller here Friday.

Miss Clara Johnson is visiting relatives in Minnesota.

Mrs. Joe Houghton and Junior ar visiting at the Houghton home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Avery are spending several weeks at Bermidji, Minn. visiting relatives.

Mr. Peters has gone to visit at his old home in Virginia.

Free Movies are given here each Wednesday night.

Mesdames Rose, Beulah and Houghton were shopping in Belmond Saturday.

The Gideon Band of Mason City had charge of the services at the U. .B church Sunday.

Mrs. Schneider attended a leader's club meeting at Britt Tuesday.

Mart Kearney and son John, of Williams spent Sunday at the Mike Kearney home.

Shock threshing has nearly all been finished in this vicinity.

Iola and Nettie Chase spent the week-end with their brother Clifford and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry of Belmond were visiting at the home of Mr. Terry's daughter Mrs. Wm. Johnson. They returned to Belmond Friday.

KLEMME MARKETS

August 12. 1925.

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.72
Shelled Corn	.90
Ear Corn	.85
Rye	.85
Barley	.65 — .70
Hogs (top)	14.00
Hogs (cash)	.29
Hogs (trade)	.30
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.20
Leghorn No. 2 Springs	.15
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Cheese	.08
Butterfat	.45
Butter (creomery)	.45

Under a Big Tent

One Night Only

Friday, August 14

THE NORTHERN AMUSEMENT COMPANY

—Presents—

"Let Ole Do It"

THE SEASONS GREATEST LAUGHING SWEDE DIALECT COMEDY DRAMA

MUSIC FOR EVERYBODY

E. EDWARD MATHEWS UNIFORMED BAND.

LOLA DE LAVAR'S LADIES SAXAPHONE ORCHESTRA

HARRINGTON'S NEW TONE AIR CALLIOPE

Stop! Think Of This---

Do not think, that when you spend a few dollars for paint that you are merely doing it to beautify your buildings. You are doing this, its true, but that's only a secondary feature. The great outstanding thing is that you PRESERVE your property. A few dollars invested in paint will save a great many to you in the protection you receive thereby. Do not say" I cannat afford to paint." That is unreasonable. You can't afford not to paint.. Think it over.

Lowe Bros. HIGH STANDARD LIQUID PAINT

We have Lowe Bros. Barn Paint in two grades: The Dir- Red is a high quality paint at a low price: The Bright ed is Lowe Bros. best grade of barn paint.

We also have a few other brands of good red and white ints, which we are selling at special prices.

See us, and let us Figure Your Paint Job!

E. F. Jacobs

Just Around the Corner

Even big-city folks must have their neighborhood stores"! Most of them would no more think of going down town to fight their way through the crowds in search of a roast for dinner than they would of walking to the factory to get a pair of shoes.

City women know that their neighborhood stores can supply them just what they want—and that, in most cases, the service is more alert and friendly.

The same thing is true of this "neighborhood." Our merchants—the men whose ads you read in this paper— are in position to furnish your home with the best and most popular line of goods. Not only can they save you money, but they gladly relieve you of a lot of worry and loss of Time.

READ THE ADS IN THIS PAPER!

SAVE MONEY BY TRADING AT HOME

NAMELESS RIVER

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company
WNU Service.

DISASTER

SYNOPSIS. — Kate Cathrew, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in the valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood. Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrew had vented her spite, is with her widowed mother and crippled brother Bud farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. Bud is the victim of a deliberate scheme to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrew wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving. Big Basford, Sky Line rider, desperately in love with Kate, picks a quarrel with a fellow rider, Rod Stone. Kate, to part them, lashes Basford across the face with a quirt. Nance discovers in a cave a fine collie dog, evidently guarding a child. She goes home mystified. Next day Nance returns to the cave with food and makes friends with the dog and the small boy, Sonny. He tells her "Brand" takes care of him and "Dirk," the collie. Selwood is certain Kate Cathrew is the head of a "cattle rustling" gang, with Lawrence Arnold, her partner, who rarely visits the ranch. Minnie Pine, halfbreed at the Sky Line ranch, is in love with Rod Stone. Ranchers complain of cattle-stealing and criticize Sheriff Selwood for his seeming inactivity. Nance, visiting Sonny and Dirk in the cave, meets Brand Fair, Sonny's protector, and promises to keep their secret. Nance becomes keenly interested in Brand Fair. The girl is relying on a field of corn to pay off debts she owes McKane. Fair sees Sud Provine, one of the Sky Line riders, in Blue Stone canyon, and tells Nance he and Sonny must move at once. So Nance takes Sonny home with her.

CHAPTER XI—Continued

—10—

"Do you value it?"

"Does a duck swim?"

"Then give me a moment's attention," said Kate Cathrew, "and keep what I say under your hat."

"I'm like the well that old saw tells of—the stone sinks and is never seen again. Confession in the heart of a friend, you know."

"Thanks. Now listen."

When the woman rode away a half hour later, carrying another of those letters from New York which the trader had come to hate ever since Selwood's suggestion concerning the writer, his eyes had a very strange expression. It was a mixture of several expressions, rather—astonishment, of personal gratification, and a vague, incongruous regret. If he had been a better man that last faint seeming of sorrow might have denoted the loss of an ideal, the death of something fine.

But he looked after Cattle Kate with a fire of passion that was slowly growing with every interview.

* * * * * * *

Life at the homestead on Nameless took on a new color with the advent of Sonny Fair. Mrs. Allison, an epitome of universal motherhood, looked over the scant, well-mended belongings of the family and laid out such articles as she judged could be spared.

These she began expertly to make over into little garments.

"When did Brand buy you these pants, Sonny?" she inquired, but the child shook his head.

"I don't know," he answered.

"H'm. Must be pretty poor," she opined, but Bud scowled in disapproval.

"Pretty durn stingy, I'd say," he remarked.

"Hold judgment, Bud," counseled Nance, "when a man travels for two years he don't have much time to make money. We're poor, too, but that don't spell anything."

Bud held his tongue, but it was plain he was not convinced.

"What makes him so contrary, I wonder?" said the girl later.

"He's jealous," said Mrs. Allison calmly, "because you champion th' stranger. It's natural."

The field of corn was beautiful.

Its blades were broad and satiny, covering the brown earth from view, and the waving green floor came well up along the horses' legs as Nance rode down the rows on the shackly cultivator.

For three days she had been at it, a labor of love. She had many dreams as she watched the light wimpling on the silky banners, vague, pleasant dreams that had to do with her canceled debt at the store, with the trip to Bement about the carpet, and with the new blue dress she hoped to get with the surplus.

Bud must have some new things, too, and her Mammy needed shoes the worst way.

All these things the growing field promised her, whispering under the little wind, and she was happy, deep in her innocent heart.

She wondered if she dared ask Brand to let her take Sonny on that trip to Bement, then instantly decided she should not.

There might be someone from Nameless in the town, and Brand was particularly insistent on his staying out of sight.

She never ceased to wonder about that.

What could be his reason?

What could there be in the Deep Heart country to whom a little child could make a difference?

But it was none of her business, she sagely concluded, and could wait the light of the future. Maybe Brand would some day tell her all about it.

So she worked and planned for two days more. At their end she drove the cultivator to the stable and stood stretching her tired shoulder muscles while Bud unharnessed the team.

She looked back at the field with smiling eyes.

"Can only get in it about once more," she said. "it's growing so fast."

"Pretty," Bud said, "pretty as you, almost. Do you know you're awfully pretty, Sis?"

"Hush!" she laughed. "You'll make me vain. Pretty is as pretty does, you know."

"Well, the Lord knows you do enough," returned the boy bitterly, "if I was only half a man—"

"Bud!" cried Nance quickly, "you're the most sure-enough he-man I know. You've got the patience and the courage of ten common men. If it hadn't been for your steady backing I'd never be on Nameless now. I'd have quit long back."

"Like the dickens you would!" said Bud, but a grin replaced the shadow of bitterness on his face.

Supper that night was particularly pleasant.

There were new potatoes and green peas from the garden down by the river, and a plate of the never-failing cookies, of which Sonny could not get enough.

"He's hollow to his toes," said Mrs. Allison, "I can't never seem to get him full."

"The little shaver's starved," said Bud.

"Not starved, but he ain't had regular food—not right to grow on. I can see a difference already."

Nance reached over an investigating hand to feel the small shoulder. It bore proudly a brand new shirt made from one of Bud's old ones. To be sure, there was a striking dissimilitude of colors, since part of the fabric had been under a pocket and had not faded, but Sonny wore it with the air of kings and princes.

"Yes, sir," she said judicially," he is gaining, sure as the world!"

It seemed to Nance that night that all was well with the world, very well. There seemed a wider margin of hope than usual, as if success, so long denied them, was hovering like a gigantic bird above the homestead, as if their long labor was about to have its reward. She fell asleep thinking of the whispering field, of the trip to Bement, and —of Brand Fair's quiet, dark eyes, the look of the chin-strap on his brown cheek.

She laid a loving hand on Sonny's little head on the pillow of the improvised crib beyond her own big bed—and the world went swiftly from her consciousness. She slept quickly and deeply, as do all those who work hard in the sun and wind—the blessed boon of labor.

* * * * * * *

It seemed to her that she had hardly lost consciousness when Old John announced from his rafter perch the coming of another day and she saw the faint light of dawn on the sky outside.

She dressed as usual, looked lovingly at the small face of the little sleeper in the crib, and went out, soft-footed, to start the kitchen fire. That done, she took the pail and went out to the well. She rested the bucket on the curb a moment, lifted the well-board, and stood looking at the faint aureole of light that was beginning to crown Rainbow cliff. The cliff itself was black, blue-black as deepest indigo, its foot lost in the shadows that deepened down Mystery ridge. She could hear the murmuring of Nameless, soft and mysterious in the dawn, feel the little wind that was beginning to stir to greet the coming day. Then, as was her habit, she turned her eyes out across the waving green field of her precious corn.

It must be earlier than she thought, she reflected, for there was not the shimmer of light which usually met her gaze.

She looked again at the eastern sky.

Why, yes—it was light as usual there.

Once more she looked at the field—then she leaned forward, peering hard, her hands still lying on the bucket's rim. Her brows drew down together as she strained her sharp sight to focus on what she saw—or what she thought she saw. For a long time she stood so. Then, as realization struck home to her consciousness, the hands on the bucket gripped down until the knuckles shone white under the tanned skin. Her lips fell open loosely. The breath stopped for a moment in her lungs and she felt as if she were drowning. An odd dizziness attacked her brain, so that the dim world of shadow and light wavered grotesquely. Her knees seemed buckling beneath her and for the first time in her life she felt as if she might faint. . . . Her Mammy had fainted once—when they brought John Allison home, . . . But she gathered herself with a supreme effort, closed her lips, wet them with her tongue, straightened her shoulders and, taking her hands from their grip on the pail, walked out toward the field.

At the gate she stopped and gazed dully at the ruin before her.

Where yesterday had been a vigorous, lusty, dark green growth, fair to her sight as the edges of Paradise, there was now the bald, piteous unsightliness of destruction.

Of all the great field there was scarcely a dozen stalks left standing. It was a sodden mass of trampled pulp, cut and slashed and beaten into the loose earth by hundreds of milling hoofs.

Far across at the upper end she could dimly see, in the growing light, a huge gap in the fence—two, three posts were entirely gone. It had taken many head of cattle, driven in and harried, to work that havoc. It was complete.

For a long, long time Nance Allison stood and looked at it. Then with a sigh that seemed the embodiment of all weariness, she turned away and went slowly back to the cabin.

At the open door she met Bud and pushed him back with both hands. Her mother was at the stove, lifting a lid.

At sight of her daughter's face she held it in mid-air.

"Hold hard, girl," she said quietly, "what's up?"

Nance leaned against the door-jamb. Every fiber of her body longed to crumple down, to let go, to relax in defeat, but she would not have it so.

She Made a Move to Pass, but Nance Suddenly Put Out Her Hand.

Instead she looked at these two, so greatly dependent upon her, and faced the issue squarely.

"It's the cornfield," she said with difficulty, "it's gone."

"What?"

"Gone? Gone—how?"

"Gone—destroyed—wiped off the earth—trampled out by cattle," she said dully, "every blade—every stalk—root, stem and branch!"

"My Lord A'mighty!" gasped Mrs. Allison, and the words were not blasphemy.

"Cattle Kate!" cried Bud. "Oh, d—n her soul to h—l!"

"Oh, Bud—don't, don't!" said Nance, her lips beginning to quiver, "'He who —who is guilty of d—n—and damnation shall be in danger—danger of h—l fire.'"

But the boy's blue eyes were blazing and he did not even hear her. He jerked his sagging shoulder up, for a moment, in line with its mate and shut his hands into straining fists.

"Gimme a gun—" he rasped, "Pappy's gun—"

"No guns, Bud—I've seen feud—in Missouri. There's land an' sunlight in other places beside Nameless. With life we can—"

The boy shook his head with a slow, savage motion.

"Not for us," he said; "I'd die first."

Nance straightened by the door. She lifted her head and looked at his grim young face. Some of its grimness came subtly into her own.

"Right," she said, "so would I. We belong to Nameless river—where our pappy left us—and here we'll stay. Only—I pray God to keep me from—from—" she wet her lips again, "from what is stirring inside me."

"He will," said Bud. "But I'm not so particular. We own this land—and we'll fight for our own."

"Amen," said Nance, "we will. We've still got the hogs to sell. Mammy—let's have breakfast. I'm going down to Cordova—it's right McKane should know."

CHAPTER XII

"Get—Out—of—That—Door!"

That was a bitter ride to Nance.

The day was sweet with the scents and sounds of summer. Birds called from the thickets, high up the pine tops, stirred by a little wind, sang their everlasting diapason, while she could hear far back the voice of Nameless, growing fainter as she left it.

At another time she would have missed nothing of all this, would have gloried in it, drunk with the wine of nature. Now a shadow hung over all the fair expanse of slope and mountain range, an oppression heavy, almost, as the hand of death sat on her heart.

She rode slowly, letting Buckskin take his own time and way, her hands folded listlessly on her pommel, her faded brown riding skirt swinging at her ankles. She had discarded her disfiguring bonnet for a wide felt hat of Bud's and her bright hair shone under it like dull gold. She was scarcely thinking. She had given way to feeling—to feeling the acid of defeat eating at her vitals, the hand of an intangible force pressing upon her.

And she had to face McKane and tell him she could not pay her debt. That seemed the worst of all. She could go without their necessities—her Mammy's shoes and Bud's new underwear—and as for the luxuries she had planned, like the blue dress and the carpet—why, she would cease thinking about them at once, though the giving up of the carpet did come hard, she frankly owned to that. But to fail in her promise to pay—ah, that was gall to her spirit! However, it couldn't kill them, she reasoned, no matter how bitter might be their humiliation. There was always another day, another year, for work and hope, and there were still the hogs. They would bring, at least, enough for the winter's food supply of flour and sugar, salt and tea.

She could not turn them in on the debt—the trader must see that.

Cordova lay sleeping unde a late noonday sun when she rode into the end of the struggling street. A few horses were tied to the hitch rack in front of the store and a half-dozen men lounged on the porch. Nance went hot and cold at sight of them.

She had hoped all the way down that McKane would be alone, for no conversation inside the store could fail to be audible on the porch. It would be hard enough to talk to him without an interested audience.

She felt terribly alien, as if these people were allied against her, and yet she could not discern among the loungers anyone from Sky Line.

As she drew near she did see with a grateful thrill that Sheriff Price Selwood sat tilted back against the door-jamb, his feet on the rung of his chair. At sight of him a bit of the distress left her, a faint confidence took its place. She remembered his kindly eyes that could harden and narrow so quickly, his way of understanding things and people.

She dismounted and tied Buckskin under a tree and went forward. As she mounted the steps the sheriff looked up, rose and raised his hat.

Nance smiled at him more gratefully than she knew.

Then she stepped inside the door—and came face to face with Kate Cathrew who was just coming out. McKane was behind her carrying a small sack which held her mail and some few purchases.

The two women stopped instantly, their eyes upon each other.

It was the first time they had met thus pointedly.

At sight of this woman whose unproved, hidden workings had meant so much to her, Nance Allison's face went slowly white.

She stood still in the door, straight and quiet, and looked at her in silence.

At the prolonged intensity of her scrutiny Cattle Kate flung up her head and smiled, a conscious, insolent action.

"If you don't want all the door, young woman," she said, "please."

She made a move to pass, but Nance suddenly put out a hand.

There was an abrupt dignity in the motion, a sort of last-stand authority.

"I do," said the girl, "want it all. I have something to tell McKane, and you may as well hear it."

The imperious face of Kate Cathrew flushed darkly with the rising tide of her temper.

"Get—out—of—that—door," she said distinctly, but for once she was not obeyed.

So Nance turns at last! When two such women as Nance and Kate meet, almost anything can happen.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Basilicas

The name "Basilica" was given in ancient Rome to buildings used as meeting places for business men, and as courts of justice. A basilica consisted of a long central hall or nave, with aisles, the aisles being separated from the nave by pillars supporting the roof. At the end of the nave, opposite the entrance, was a raised platform, or dais, with seats for the judges. To give additional space there was sometimes added at this farther end, a semicircular structure called an apse. After the introduction of Christianty, basilicas were very generally converted into churches, and thus it is that the form of the modern cathedral is derived from the ancient Roman basilica.—Kansas City Star.

Doesn't every big industrial business provide you with something that costs less than it used to?

BRAINLESS

It is told of a certain school professor that a girl student once asked him whether peroxiding the hair is injurious to the brain.

"No," replied the professor, positively.

"Why, I've heard it is," said the student.

"No," repeated the professor. "Any person who peroxides the hair hasn't any brain to injure."—London Tit-Bits.

Theory and Fact

"At last, my angel," said the happy man, after he had settled with the minister, "we are really and truly one —one forever."

"Theoretically, yes," replied the modern bride, "but, from a practical standpoint, it will be advisable to order dinner for two."

Good Losers

Mrs. Brookline—I understand the Eskimos are very keen domino players, and sometimes bet heavily, even putting up their wives and losing them.

Mr. Brookline—Well, I'll bet there are a lot of good losers among the Eskimos.—Tit-Bits.

THE CAT

"I golfed with Jack this morning and he proposed to me at the ninth hole."

"That's nothing I golfed with him last week and he proposed to me at the third hole."

Bridge Too Narrow

Down in the creek
Sleeps Jerry Bass;
The bridge was narrow;
He tried to pass.

Her Warning

Mr. Sapp—I've a great mind to rock the boat and frighten you.

Miss Sweet—Once before a young man like you tried that and the boat upset.

"And what did you do?"

"I swam ashore and notified the coroner."

Blarney With an Object

"Why is a strong man like you found begging?"

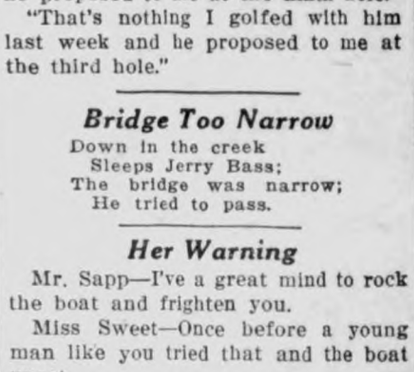
"Ah, madam, it is the only profession in which a gentleman can address a beautiful lady without the formality of an introduction."

Fair Question

Miss Riches—I can read you like a book.

Her Partner—Well, what about it? Do I marry the jolly little heiress in the last chapter?—London Telegraph.

FOR WHOSE GOOD?



Lady Visitor—Wonderful roads you have here; but who's benefited by them besides the motorists?

Host—I might mention the undertaker, I think.

Just the Thing

"I could relate instances that would arouse your righteous wrath!" declared Hon. Thomas Rott in the midst of his address. "I could tell you things that would make you blush—"

"Tell us! Tell us!" cried several eager voices from the crowd.

Seems Like Easy Job

"Breaking in" meerschaum pipes is a "profession" in Paris, France, in which more than a score of men are employed. All they have to do is to sit and smoke their pipes all day, so it's about the world's laziest job. "Breaking in" five pipes is a good day's work.

Still Use Braziers

Charcoal braziers are still used by four-fifths of the people of Mexico, who never saw an oil stove.

WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan, — "After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all women. For sale by druggists everywhere.

RESINOL

Soothing and Healing Promotes Skin Health

Feminine Philosophy

Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Smith were talking over their plans for the summer. "So you think you will go back to the same summer resort you have been going to all these years?" asked Mrs. Brown. Her friend hitched her chair closer. "Oh yes," said she. "As I often tell my husband, it's like this: When all is said and done, I really think that old friends and new sandals give one the most satisfaction."

Latin American Charcoal

In tropical Latin America the cost of charcoal has risen so high this year that many residents of hill towns are installing electric heaters.

Are You Ready?

Are you ready to enjoy social duties, sports or recreations? If not try HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters, for over seventy years noted as a wholesome tonic, appetizer and corrective.

At All Druggists

Boschee's Syrup for Coughs and Lung Trouble
Successful for 69 years. 30c and 90c bottles. ALL DRUGGISTS

FREE
Write for attractive booklet of Parisian perfumes, powders, rouges, etc.
35 West 34th St., New York
BOURJOIS

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Calluses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

One Secret of Beauty Is Foot Comfort

Frequently you hear people say, "My feet perspire in winter and summer when I wear rubbers or heavier shoes—then when I remove my shoes my feet feel quickly and often my shoes seem wet through." In this community thousands use Allen's Foot-Ease in the foot-bath daily, then dust the powder shake into the shoes. This antiseptic, healing powder Full Directions on box.

Package and a Foot-Ease Walking Doll Free. Address, Allen's Foot-Ease, Le Roy, N. Y.

Cuticura Soap Best for Baby

Soap, Ointment, Talcum sold everywhere. Free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Take every good thing that comes your way. There are so many pleasant little outings that would send you home rested and with different viewpoint, but you think up some excuse and do not nice drink which most people like prepared with:

DISHES FOR WARM DAYS

Chocolate Sirup.—Take three squares of chocolate, one ounce of cocoa, one and one-half pounds of sugar, and a pint of water, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of vanilla. Boil the cocoa in one-half cupful of water in a double boiler, ten minutes, add the chocolate grated, mixed with one- of its measure in sugar; add to the boiling cocoa, stirring constantly, then add the remainder of the and boil for ten minutes. Remove the fire, strain and cool and add vanilla. Add a tablespoonful of to cold milk or ice water, top a spoonful of cream or a marshmallow. This sirup will keep in the chest for some time.

Coffee Frappe.—Make a strong infusion of coffee, strain, cool and pack and salt. Serve with whipped as a garnish. Chocolate or may be frozen and served in same way.

When serving roast of lamb try this to serve with it:

Orange Sauce.—Take one-half cupful gravy from the roast, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and cook until smooth, add the juice of two oranges the grated rind of one, one-half cupful of boiling water, salt, cayenne the juice of a lemon. Serve hot.

Pickled Tongue.—Wash and soak the tongue over night. In the morning it in a kettle with cold water to cover. Bring to the simmering point cook at that temperature for several hours until the tongue is very tender. Set away to cool in the liquor. When cold remove the skin from the root and trim, fastening the tip and root together, lay in a mold. Heat cupfuls of the broth, add one cupful of tomatoes, a bay leaf, a slice of onion, salt and pepper to taste, a few cloves, some allspice and simmer for twenty minutes. Strain and add two tablespoonfuls of gelatin which has been softened in cold water. Pour the tongue and set away to harden. Unmold and garnish with cress and parsley.

Seasonable Good Things.

A delicious cake to serve for a nice occasion is prepared as follows: Make a white cake, using egg whites and bake in a sheet. Cut in squares and when serving put together with slices of brick ice cream. Cover with whipped cream and decorate each square with bits of candied fruit.

Herring and Potato Salad.—Take one cupful of herring cut in dice, three cupfuls of cooked diced potatoes, one tablespoonful of onion juice, two tablespoonfuls of minced green peppers, two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, a dash of cayenne and a few grains of salt. Prepare a French dressing of oil and vinegar and let the fish and potato stand in for an hour. Mix all the ingredients and pile in the center of a platter surrounded with shredded cabbage mixed with salad dressing. Sprinkle with chopped green peppers and garnish with whole herring.

Stuffed Fruit Dessert.—Take halves of peaches or pears, place in a baking pan, fill the centers with marmalade, raisins, dates, figs or chopped nuts. When thoroughly heated, remove to a warm dish and pour over a thin custard.

Scalloped Corn.—Take the corn cut from a dozen ears, add to three tablespoonfuls of hot butter in a frying pan, cover and simmer until the corn is cooked, adding more butter and salt and pepper to season.

Puree of Summer Squash.—Slice two onions and cover with two quarts of boiling water; bring to the boiling point and add a large summer squash cut in thin slices. Let simmer slowly for two hours, then rub through a sieve. Mix one tablespoonful of cornstarch with a cupful of milk and season; add to the soup with butter, and reheated. Serve hot.

Blackberry Sherbet. — Strain the juice from a quart of blackberries, add half as much water as juice, and sugar if needed, with a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Freeze to a mush, then add the whites of two eggs beaten stiff, and freeze hard. Thin cream may be used in place of the water.

Fried Tripe.—Cut pieces ready for frying; parboil for ten minutes, using equal parts of milk and water to cover. Drain, season and roll in flour. Fry in butter.

Cream Toast.—Mash half a box of strawberries, sweeten with one-fourth cupful of sugar. Cover five slices of bread with the berries, reserving some of the juice. Heat two tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan, and cook the bread until brown on the under side, basting the berries with the butter while cooking. Serve on a hot platter with the rest of the juice poured over the bread. Serve at once.

Nellie Maxwell.

STYLES FOR LATE SUMMER; SHEER, COLORFUL LINGERIE

WHEN August comes leading in the burning sun of late summer, women demand clothes that are cool and comfortable—and that look all of that. In fact, they insist more upon a cool appearance than upon actual cool quality in their apparel, as witness those small, white felt or white kid hats that are popular. Felt hats are not cool, but they are soft and comfortable and light ones look cool—which combination of good points has spelled success for them.

Plain linen is a time-honored fabric that has maintained its place because it looks cool in summer frocks, and because it launders perfectly. But openwork linen looks cool and is cool and a frock of it is presented herewith, as an ideal garment for the hottest weather. The picture shows it to be simple in design, bordered with scalloped pieces of plain linen down the front, each scallop serving to carry a pearl button and simulated buttonhole. A front panel of crepe de chine has a neck-to-hem plaiting at each side of a strip of plain linen down the front, adorned also with small pearl buttons. Plain and openwork linen in any light color, with white linen in bindings and Cool Comfort Is Keynote of This Costume.

For making this irresponsible but fascinating underwear, light or sheer silk and cotton fabrics are demanded and the call for colored voiles has increased. The limit of delicacy is reached in georgette crepe or chiffon and new garments made of it are shown with one color posed over another—that is, they are double. Voile is not so nearly transparent, and two colors are managed in it by using one for yokes and borders hemstitched to the body of the garment in another color; pastel shades are used and a tailored finish. But crepe de chine and ninon crepe take precedence in the minds of most women over other fabrics and new rivals of these old favorites find it hard to dislodge them. The laces most used for trimming are filet, alencon and val with embroidered net and net footing in their company.

The picture given here shows a pajama set made of flesh-colored crepe de chine and trimmed with frills of cream-colored val lace. A narrow ribbon girdle and little chiffon rosebuds at the neck finish it. It has the popular slip-on jacket and is a model that may be developed in radium silk, soisette, wash satin, checked nainsook or cotton crepes.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

From the Fall Line of Lingerie.

accessories, will develop this frock successfully.

The small hat of silk with sectional crown and narrow turned-up brim, is of the collapsible kind that can be folded or flattened, to put in a suitcase. The last chapter in millinery's summer story deals with the career of this bit of practical and beautiful headwear, which is so accommodating and becoming. It is as light and cool as it is pretty. As to the footwear that supports this hot weather costume, it plays its important role perfectly—white silk stockings, light brown or gray kid pumps—nothing could be more cool and comfortable.

Designers and makers of lingerie are presenting their new fall lines

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

GOOD ROADS

HARD ROADS SAVE AUTOMOBILE WEAR

The owner of an automobile would no doubt be greatly astonished by the result if he were to stop and figure how much he was losing because of bad roads, and how much he would save if he could always drive on hard roads. Take gasoline, for instance. You can go 12½ miles on a gallon of gasoline on a bad road, and 15 on a hard surface. At 25 cents a gallon, and an average of 20 miles a day, or 6,000 miles in the ten months' touring season, you are losing $20 a year if you travel on bad roads.

On the question of tires, one tire manufacturing company has the following to say:

"While 5,000 miles which we guarantee is generally speaking the most that can be hoped for on ordinary roads, it is not too much to say that the average tire will give nearly twice this amount on roads such as they are building in California. In other words, 10,000 miles will be nearer the average life of a good tire when the roads are what they should be, while only half of that mileage is now the average with good luck on the present condition of roads."

On the subject of depreciation on your machine, a leading auto truck manufacturer says:

We know, as a general rule, that an average of 33 1-3 per cent of the potential economic life of a motor truck is abstracted by the pounding and crystallization augmenting effects of poor roads as against hard roads."

Cut the tire and depreciation figures into two or three parts, if you wish, and the result will still astonish you. Add to the loss on gasoline, and depreciation, the loss of oil, and then add to that the value added to your machine by enlarging your area of traffic, and the comfort and pleasure which you will derive—all from the smooth road. Finally, figure the number of automobile owners in your county or state, and when you get through you will appreciate that this loss would build hundreds of miles of hard roads every year.

Ambitious Road Program for All National Parks

The United States Department of the Interior announces an ambitious program for development of highways in 17 national parks of the United States and Alaska. An appropriation of $7,500,000 has been authorized, of which $2,500,000 are now available, which will be distributed and used in the various parks, including Glacier National park in Montana; Yosemite National park, California; Mount Rainier National park, Washington; Crater Lake National park, Oregon; Sequoia National park, Arizona; Rocky Mountain National park, Colorado; Yellowstone in Montana, Wyoming and Idaho; Hawaii National park; Mount McKinley National park, Alaska; Lassen National park in California; Hot Springs National park in Arkansas; Lafayette National park in Maine; Mesa Verde National park in Colorado; Platt National park in Oklahoma; Wind Cave National park in South Dakota, and Pinnacles National monument in California.

Among the improvements to be made are the following: A complete transmountain road across Glacier National park; paving in the Yosemite; bridges for Mount Rainier; completion of the Fall River road in Rocky Mountain park to an elevation of 11,797 feet. Yelowstone National park receives only a small allotment for the reason that it has 356 miles of completed excellent roads.

Smaller Part of Roads Carry Most of Traffic

A very large portion of the highway traffic of the country is carried by a rather small percentage of the roads, according to the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. A detailed traffic survey in Maine, conducted by the bureau in co-operation with the Maine state highway commission, shows that the primary system of the state, consisting of only 7.1 per cent of the total mileage, carries 53.4 per cent of the traffic in the state. Furthermore, 18.4 per cent of the primary system carries 38.7 per cent of the traffic on the system. From this it follows that, with respect to the entire highway system of the state, 1-3 per cent of the total mileage serves more than a fifth of the traffic as measured in vehicle miles.

The important roads of the country are embraced in the federal aid highway system and the state system upon which it has been laid down, and it is the improvement of these roads for which the country has the greatest need.

Cost of Good Roads in England a Mile

A cost of $325,000 a mile is estimated for a 226-mile highway to be built in England between London and Liverpool. The road is to have no cross roads and will pass through no towns. It will be double, with a roadway for slow traffic and one for fast travel, with no speed limit on the section for fast going. A toll equivalent to a cent a ton per mile will be charged

Low-cost Transportation

Star Cars

NEW PRICES

EFFECTIVE AUGUST 1, 1925

Commercial Chassis $425

Roadster	$525	Coupe	$675
Touring	525	Coach	695
Coupster	595	Sedan	775

F. O. B. Lansing, Michigan.

DURANT MOTORS, INC.
250 WEST 57th ST., NEW YORK
General Sales Department, 1819 Broadway, New York.
PLANTS AT:
Elizabeth, N. J., Lansing, Mich., Oakland, Calif., Toronto, Can.

20% MORE POWER

Alsatian Wolf-Dog Is Terror to Evildoers

The dog most prominent in public interest at the present time is the Alsatian wolf-dog. The Alsatian is pure bred, being the offspring of the Wurtemberg sheepdog and the sheepdog of central Germany. These two breeds have a partcular way of sheepfolding, and experimenters wondered if they could blend the best strains of each. This they did with remarkable success, and thus appeared the German wolf-dog, which the police of that country were quick to use as a criminal hunter, says Tit-Bits.

During the war these dogs rendered valuable service, and after the armistice, when the dog club was formed by British officers, the name was changed to Alsatian wolf-dog, a description which has now been adopted by nearly all countries.

Cuticura for Sore Hands.
Soak hands on retiring in the hot suds of Cuticura Soap, dry and rub in Cuticura Ointment. Remove surplus Ointment with tissue paper. This is only one of the things Cuticura will do if Soap, Ointment and Talcum are used for all toilet purposes.—Advertisement.

Six Million Pens

To keep its patrons supplied with writing implements for next year the Post-Office department will furnish 6,185,000 pen points for distribution to the nation's 52,000 stations, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The public will also be provided with 480,000 holders to accommodate the great volume of nibs. The pens are almost every style so that a point may be found on the post office desks to suit practically any writer. For the same period of time at least 900,000 quarts of writing fluid will be required to keep the inkwells filled and 500,000 large sheets of blotting paper will be used up.

Dog as Teacher

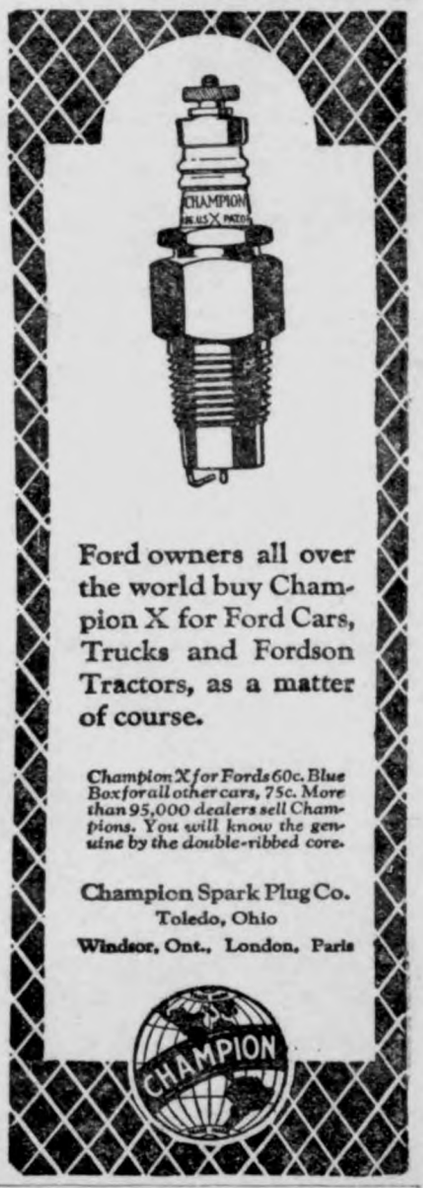
A Portland (Maine) woman says that she has been trying for nearly twenty years to teach her husband to hang up his hat, but she thinks the new puppy the family has recently acquired will do it in the space of a very few weeks.

A woman driver whose car ran out of gasoline in front of a Cleveland (Ohio) traffic officer borrowed money from him to get more gas.

Some Fish!

First Customer (describing a catch)—The trout was so long—I tell you I never saw such a fish!

Second Customer—No. I don't suppose you did.—Good Hardware.



Ford owners all over the world buy Champion X for Ford Cars, Trucks and Fordson Tractors, as a matter of course.

Champion X for Fords 60c. Blue Box for all other cars, 75c. More than 95,000 dealers sell Champions. You will know the genuine by the double-ribbed core.

Champion Spark Plug Co.
Toledo, Ohio
Windsor, Ont., London, Paris

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 33--1925.

Well, Tell Him

"Pa," inquired his strictly up-to-the-minute offspring, playing with his radio set, "what's the wave length for Santa Claus?"—Western Christian Advocate.

Any fool can lay plans but it takes a wise man to hatch them out.

Yeast Foam The favorite of good bread makers

Is your dough always light and sweet?

Be sure of a well raised dough by using a cake of Yeast Foam each time you bake.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

RAISE PRIZE CALVES

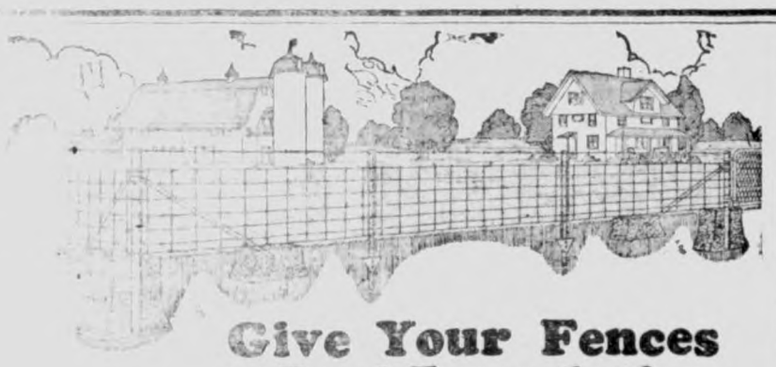
More than 2,500 head of baby beeves are being fitted this month by boy and girl farmers of Iowa in preparation for the mammoth baby beef and calf show to be held at the coming Iowa State Fair, Aug. 26-Sept. 4. The 500 best are to be entered at the fair, constituting the largest baby beef exhibit ever held at any fair in the world. The illustration above shows some of the prize winning calves entered by boys and girls at last summer's state fair.

KING OF THE RODEOS

(Copyright by R. R. Doubleday.)

Tex Austin, a name that is known in every locality in the country where horses are bred or cattle raised. Such is the man who will draw on his years of experience to manage the Chicago Roundup and World's Championship Rodeo to be held for nine days, beginning August 15.

"King of the Rodeo" is the title Austin has won. Born in the great state for which he was named, he was raised in the atmosphere of the range. He participated in the thrilling deeds of the famous contests of the Far West and then became a ranchman himself. Wherever the roundups have been staged Austin's name has become synonymous with the cowboy sport. In the effort to perpetuate the spirit of the West, he managed and directed numberless rodeos in the West, also giving the East its first thrills from cowboy contests. Then spreading the fame of Uncle Sam further, he put on the great international rodeo at Wembley, England, under the auspices of the British government.



Give Your Fences a Real Foundation

If you want the best steel fence line—the strongest, the most economical and longest lasting—put in a good foundation. Use RED TOP Steel End, Gate and Corner Posts, made of heavy, seamless, tubing.

The foundation posts must take up any strain applied to the fence. They should be strong, rigid, immovable. Wood foundation posts are likely to rot out, lean and frost heave. When it comes time to replace them the wire will not stand restretching. Properly set, RED TOP Foundation Posts will not budge in the fence line. They'll outlast any fencing made.

Of course you will want to use RED TOP Double Strength Studded Tee line Posts. Because of the steel reinforcing rib and absence of any holes or rivets, the RED TOP is the strongest line post on the market. The sturdy, rigid anchor plate means a firmer post when set. The aluminum metallic finish means longer life and neater appearing fences.

Come in and see the complete line of RED TOPS. Ask especially to see the new RED TOP One Man Line Post Driver and the Handy Fasteners. two great labor savers for fence builders.

Red Top
GUARANTEED
Double Strength Studded Tee
Steel Fence Posts

We Always Have a Good Stock of Red Tops on Hand

Northern Lumber Co.
"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

Jig Jog Jags

Lives of humorists all remind us,
Gags that are the most sublime
Are the ones that limp behind us
Covered with the moss of time.

Jokelets that perhaps another,
Sailing o'er life's solemn main,
A forlorn and half--wit brother,
Seeing, shall revamp again.

Let us then begin perusing
Almanacs of ancient date.
Still a seizing, still a-choosing
Chestnuts that have learned to wait.
Watching lest you overtake—

The old lady came out of a half doze as the train approached a station. "Where are we, Bobby?" she asked.

"I don't know, Granlma,' replied the little fellow.

"But didn't the conductor call out something just now?"

"No, Grandma; he just stuck his head inside the door and sneezed.

"Bobby," she exclaimed. "Quick help me with these things! This is Oshkosh."

EDISON'S GREAT HEAD

"Who is Thomas A. Edison."

"He is the man who invented the phonograph to keep us awake, so that we could jazz all night, using his electric lights.

A HOLDUP

"I hope I can count on your support in this drive," said the golf hose to the garter as their wearer teed up.

"Be it ever so dusty, there's no place like home.— Babe Ruth.

1st Wrestler: And then I got the scissors on his head and —

2nd Ditto (sarcastically): You cut his hair?' '

"No, I gave him a trimming."

Hotel Clerk—Why, how did you get in here.

Grabball: I just blew in from Kirk manville with a bunch of cattle.

Hotel Clerk: Well, where are the rest of them?

G. A.: Down at the stock yard, I ain't so particular as they are.' '

Small chap: "Say, papa, what is the race problem.?"

Papa: "Picking winners."

MARRIAGE

"Will you love'n honor 'nevery-thing?"

"Uh, huh."

"And you?"

"Yep."

"Get set! He's your'n, and you're his'n. Ten bucks please.

"How 'bout a discount for hurry-in' us?"

"Not the first shot. If you need my services again, you get the same special discounts as old customers.

Suitor—Mr. Perkins, I have courted your daughter for fifteen years.

Mr. Perkins— Well, what do you want.

Suitor: To marry her.

Perkins. : Well I'll be damned. I thought you wanted a pension or something.

The chemist had had a scene with his wife, who finally broke down crying. Whereupon he ejaculated: "Stop crying! Your tears have no effect on me. What are they? A small percentage of phosphorous salts, a little sodium chloride. All of the rest—water. Bah!"

Bill: My wife lied to me when we became engaegd."

Will: How is that?"

Bill: Well, I asked her to marry me, and she said she was agreeable.

Prof—Fools ask questions no wise man can answer."

Stude: Sure that is why we all flunk."

Logic Prof: Give an example of a vicious circle.

Student.: What you're just going to put down after my name.' '

Found dead in cemetery—Headline in Times.

What did they expect to find?

Stout Lady: I would like to see a night gown that would fit me.

Salesman: So would I.

Dumb Dora—She's so dumb, she asked the zoo keeper to loan her the key to the elephants trunk.

Physics Prof: What is velocity, John?"

Freshman: Velocity is what a fel low lets go of a wasp with."

The following bit of conservation between two negroes was overheard by a gentleman in Georgia: "Ain't you got no eggs?" "I ain't said I ain't!" "I ain't axed you is you ain't, I axked you is you is! is you?"

She—Do you want to see where I got vaccinated?

He: Sure.

She: Right over in that house with the doctor's sign on the window."

THE ANTIDOTE

Chem. Prof.: If a man had swallowed nitric acid, what would you give him?

Frosh: The Sacrament.

Homeopath, allopath, osteopath—all paths lead to the grave.

Judge: What's the charge?
Tough cop: Suicide.
"How did he try it?"
"He took a punch at me."

He: Negroes rarely attain fame?"
She "I don't know about that. You hear a lot about Black Jack."

Sergeant to colored sentry: "If a thing moves, you Sentry: "Yes, suh, an' if anything shoots ah moves.' '

"There goes a girl with her stockings on wrong side out. What's the best thing to do to her?"

"Why turn the hose on her, of course.' '

"It simply isn't done, don't you know." quoth Cuthberta, cutting into the sirloin.

Private Johnson, colored soldier was on the rifle range, and not having any too good luck.

"What's the matter, Johnson?" asked the captain. "Where are they going ' '

"Ah dunno, suh"—Bang—"but dey sho' am leavin' hyah!"

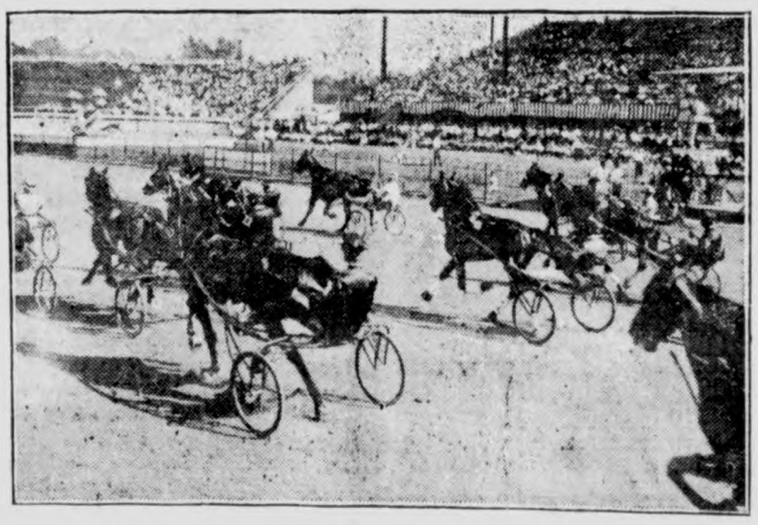
Pals and Partners

In carrying on the day's work or taking a pleasure trip, could anything be better than father and son as real pals and business partners?

The right developement of the son as a junior partner strengthens the business organization the same as a good substantial bank balance strengthens your credit.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

REAL ACTION!



More than three hundred race horses will compete for the $17,950 in purses in the five days of fast harness and running classics at the Iowa State Fair Aug. 29 to Sept. 3, according to the announcement of speed department officials in Des Moines. The entry lists include many nationally-known trotters and pacers, including a number who were big money winners on the grand circuit last year. The picture above shows one of the fast get-aways at last year's state fair. Several fields even larger than this are reported for this season's races.

MAGIC OF RODEO ROPERS

Wizards with iron wrists, who can send a lasso snapping through the air with the accuracy of a rifle bullet, will work their magic when famous ropers will meet at the Chicago Roundup and World's Championship Rodeo to be held for nine days, beginning August 15. A good portion of the prizes put up by the Chicago Association of Commerce, under whose auspices the cowboy contests will be held, is set aside for the ropers. Champions, past and present, have written Tex Austin, that they will be on hand to compete for the awards and the world's championship title. Austin, who has put on many big rodeos, will direct the Chicago contests. A steer or calf in action makes remarkable speed and to send the loop of the lariat whipping through the air and to have it land unerringly around horns or neck is one of the most difficult of cowboy feats. To do this and then to throw and tie the animal must be the work of only a few seconds. The experts are bringing their own roping ponies, so intelligent and highly trained that some are almost priceless.

The World's Greatest Vacation Bargain

Folks have such downright GOOD TIMES at the State Fair.

No wonder nearly 400,000 people from all parts of America make it their big outing and holiday every summer. You can watch the races, the circus thrillers, the fireworks and bands—or you can wander through the pleasure-seeking crowds in the mammoth pavilions past miles of exhibits—or you can just LOAF and forget everything else but the genuine joy of living.

Just read this list of fun-features: Horse races, auto races, hippodrome, midway, auto show, the giant fireworks spectacle—"Rome Under Nero", state horseshoe tournament, six bands, Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah", national dog show, team pulling contests, 80-acre free camp, band contest, old fiddlers' contest, radio show——continuous women's programs, 40 acres of machinery and conveniences, 7,000 head of live stock, farm produce displays, demonstrations of improved farming, mammoth boys and girls club show, fruit show, flower show of 500,000 blooms, dairy show, etc., etc., etc.

Enjoy this world's greatest outing yourself, this summer. Bring the whole family. They will all have the time of their lives.

Iowa State Fair
and
National Live Stock Show
Aug. 26 - Sept. 4.

THE KLEMME TIMES

nty-ninth Year—Number 50. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 20, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County may be of interest to our many lers of the Klemme Times to w something about our recent through the Bad Land and endeavor to give a description part of our trip that will inter- all.

DELIGHTFUL TOUR THROUGH THE BLACK HILLS

ur party consisted of Mr. and C. G. Waterman and daughter. ian; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus; of course Ye Editor, Mrs. Jorgen and our son, Buster.

Western Iowa Very Dry

We left Klemme Sunday morning, ust 2nd at 7:00 o'clock and left the west over the A. Y. P. high- at Garner, following this trail some distance west through Io- From Spencer and on west. some on this side of Spencer, crops are practically dried out. n is only two or three feet high the small grain is poor. There is ctically no pasture or hay land in this section for some seventy miles west. About at this point headed north for Spirit and Ok ji Lakes where we stopped long ugh to eat a noon day lunch on west banks of Okoboji Lake. Go further west and near Sioux ls. S. D. the crops looked much ter and from there on to west he Missouri River the crops look as fine as they do in Iowa. Then in in the central part of South kota it is quite dry. Further west ard the Black Hills region the ps were again fine, the pastures e green, the wheat was great we never saw better looking live k. Summing up the crop report, this trip we can state that crops fine in Iowa with the exception the western part. Eastern S. kota and the Western section the ps are good with o dry area be- en the two points and west of river. We will have more to regarding the crops later as we k a different course on the trip me.

Crossed Old Muddy On Ferry

The first night of our trip out st we camped at Sioux Falls, S. kota, where we found an excel- t tourist camp where a charge of y cents was made per car. We in left Sioux Falls in the morn- at seven o'clock and followed Custer Battle Field Highway. ich we followed all the way to Hills. We crossed the Missouri er at Chamberlain on a ferry t as the big road bridge was not finished and some four months re work was required to complete s bridge which will be one of best of its kind spanning the old ddy. We got our first taste of ls here and the boys all thought ese hills were about as big as y made them, but we later found t the Chamberlain hills were all compared to what we were to k up against later. The ride a- oss the ferry furnished a little ill for all of us as it was some- ng new. The man running the rry has about the best graft of yone we have yet seen. He arges $1.10 per car across the eam and he can haul eight cars a time. There were six cars go- across with our party and more iting on the other side. He hauls rhaps a hundred cars across the er each day and is reaping a rich rvest until the bridge is finished en his "gold mine" will be no re. Leaving Chamberlain, we nd, the road was still graveled as as Kenebec. a distance of about ur hundred miles from Klemme. om Kenebec on to Rapid City we aveled over a dirt road which was aded all the way and is to be grav- ed next year in time for the tour- to travel on next summer.

A Visit From Brother John

Monday night we camped at Pres- . S. D. ond as we were preparing pper our brother, John and wife d son drove in from Winner, to y us a visit, as we had sent him rd we would camp there that ght. We had a fine visit with our other there and he mapped out course for us through the Bad and and the Black Hills as he was ell acquainted with the territory d could give us the best route to see the most points of interest on our trip. He spent about four mon- this last year in the Hills on state work and therefore was well post- ed. Had it not been for him we would have missed much of the in- teresting places in the west. He especially warned us not to drink any water between Presho and Rap- id City as it would most likely make us sick. We took his advice and fill- ed our jugs with water at Presho, which we used all the way through the Bad Lands.

Driving west from Presho we en- tered the Bad Lands at Kadoka, where the highway divided; the left course taking one through the Bad Lands and te right course direct to Rapid City. We chose the left road as we wanted to see the Bad Lands and the right course direct appointed as they furnished us with perhaps the best scenery of the trip west.

The Bad Lands Wonderful

To describe the Bad Lands is im- possible and even the artist's brush cannot picture the wonders of this mis-named section of South Dakota. The Bad Lands are beautiful to say the least. The formation is won- derful and presents an array of col- ors with the dominant color gray, streaked with bright bands of red faded to pink, blue, purple and green. To give you a picture of what they really look like, just imagine a city of churches in the distance, each church having hundreds of spires glittering in the sun, some red, some green, some purple, blue yellow and other colors. The Bad Land formations are of two charact- teristic shapes; thes pires and the flat top formations. The composi- tion seems to be sort of soft chalky clay cement colored with the excep- tion of the bands of color at the base of all the hills which run ona perfect level one with the other. The flat top hills are rather pecular as they appear as though some giant had taken a great knife in his hand and cut them clear with one stroke. The road winds in and out between the formations and in rainy weather it is impossible to drive as the earth gets slippery, like wet soap. Every- where here one sees beds of alkali and in places it is in great drifts and looks like dirty snow. At the western end of the Bad Lands the hills are of a different formation and look to be lava overflows from some remote period.

Find Fossil Remains Here

The Bad Lands are forty miles east of the mountains and are the most important of any bad land sec- tion in theworld. Here at one time roamed the prehistoric animals, known to us only by name and by their fossil remains. The saber tiger, dinosaur, prehistoric pig, three-toed horse and other queer an- imals of another age have left their fossils here, and from the Bad Lands many of the important museums of the world have been supplied with valuable specimens of a forgotten age. We had the pleasure of seeing some of the fossils at Rapid City and we shall tell of them later.

A Puzzle For Scientits

Scientists are puzzled as to how and why the Bad Lands received their wonderful formation as both land and water animal fossils have been dug up in these pecular hills. The general opinion is advanced that this great waste was once the bed of some sea or large river bed and through the ages the softer mat- erials have been gradually washed away, leaving the harder substance as it stands today clearly showing strata formations of a period dating back thirty millions of years or long er. One inclined toward the study of geology could spend months in the Bad Lands and gain valuable in- formation first hand.

Richest Garden Spot In World

Even in this desert waste all alka- li, colored ochre and barren land we wondered at the little trails leading from the beaten path to behind the hills and now and then we could see a little shack. There are even a few little towns cuddled in this

(Continued on page 4)

NEW LICENSE PLATES HAVE RED BACKGROUND

Hancock County to be No. 47 This Year

County Treasurer Suurballe has received a big shipment of auto numbers for 1926. They are white on a maroon background. Number four thousand for this year was sold a couple of weeks ago. Last year there were 3811 numbers sold, the last being late in the year. There were 81 cars registered in June of this year, and 72 of July. If the next five months show the same averaye of new cars sold, the regis- tration this year will run to some 4300 or 4400, an increase of 500 or 600 over last year.

Our serial number will probably be 47 this year as Webster County, has gone over the 10,000 mark and will be either 8 or 9. Cerro Gordo county is expecting to reach 10,000 or more this year. That county issued 8,500 plates last year, but with the percentage of increase in the state this year, should be able to reach the five-number class.

Only two single numbers are left, 8 and9. The last to be moved was Dubuque, which received No. 7 last year. Counties with less than 10,- 000 cars are placed alphabetically.

Iowa has 614,000 motor cars and trucks and the state ranks tenth in the number of cars owned New York is first, with 1,412,050; California a close second with 1,321,480. Oth- er states with more cars than Iowa are Ohio, 1,237,000; Pennylvania, 1,123000; Michigan 877453; Texas 823,074; Massachuetts, 672,315; In diana, 649797.

It is claimed that Iowa has more cars than homes. If the old average of five persons to a home holds good our2500,000 people live in 500,000 homes, but apparently demand 614, 000 cars for transportation. The val ue of the cars is far in excess of the value of the corn crop.

LESLIE M SHAW PREDICTS GOOD TIMES FOR IOWA

Ex-Governor Says That Prosperity Is Not Far Distant

That Iowa is definately over the agricultural depression and farmers are on the road to fairly permanent prosperity was the opinion express- ed Saturday by Leslie M. Shaw, form er governor and secretary under the Roosevelt administration, in an in- terview at Des Moines while there on business.

"We're on the border edge now," Mr. Shaw said. "At present we're exporting foodstuffs, but in a very few years we'll be improving these same foodstuffs and then the price the farmers will get for their pro- ducts will be the price abrood plus the freight rather than the price abroad minus the frieght, as it is at present.

"The garbage can of the Ameri- can laboring man is an index to the prosperity of the American farmer," declared Mr. Shaw. I'd rather have the food that's in the garbage can of the prosperous Americon laborer than the food that's on the table of the Eureopean laborer."

Referring to Iowa conditions in the corn belt, Mr. Shaw said:

"Look at most any large country in the world and you will find wheat producing sections, but with corn it is a different matter. The a- mount of corn land in the world is more limited than that of any other large staple crop.

"Any country which can grow corn can grow hogs and any country that can grow hogs can grow prosperity. The world is constantly ensuming more pork and pork products.

The former governor issued a word of warning to Iowa farmers however He pointed out that over-expansion was to be avoided now.

Pleasure seeking is another dan- gerous tendency, Mr. Shaw believes, as typified by the terms "wild" buy- ing of outomobiles.

"We can't give ourselves entirely over to pleasure and remove the the mortgage," de declared.

Interesting Items Gathered From Over the State

NEWS AND COMMENT ABOUT IA. PEOPLE AND EVENTS

A trainload of silk from the Orient passed the C. R. I. & P. across Iowa the other day headed for the big silk mills at Patterson, N. J. The cargo was valued at $2,000,000. Each car carried two armed guards. The special train had the right of way over all passenger and mail trains.

Joe Vaughn, Red Oak iceman, claims the record for weight carry- ing of ice. He recently carried 600 pounds fifteen feet and 500 pounds fifty-four feet. The ice was in two cakes. It had to be moved. He is a Red Oak boy, 20 years old and weighs 147 pounds.

Governor Hammill has some prac- tical banking ideas as will be seen from the following, sent the oth- er day to the State Banking Depart- men.:"In the reorganization of banks and the organization of new banks, and in the operation of the banks now in existence, all should be required to maintain capital and surplus in a fixed ration to deposits and stockholders should be required to qualify as to their ability to pay an assessment on the stock. This should be particularily true in cases or reorganization and in cases of new banks. It is a crime that finan- cially irresponsible people should be permitted to own bank stock for the reason that the stockholders in a bank is, in fact, an endorser of the bank's obligations. His endorse- ment should be financially good or he should dispose of his stock. We must keep in mind that security to the depositor be the primary obliga- tion of the stockholder and his mak- ing of returns should be secondary.

From Olin, Jones county, comes the report that Tobias Swanson has threshed his oats. His thirty-four acres yielded 3,860.8 bushels. That's 113½ bushels per acre, so far the record for Iowa this year. The ground was measured and the oats weighed, "no guessing". This crop followed six consecutive crops of corn. The seed, Jowar variety, was purchased by Mr. Swanson four years ago at Ames. Only a few bush- els were bought as the price, $4 per bushel, seemed prohibitive, but Mr. Swanson has found it to have been a very good investment. The de- mand for seed each year has been greater than he could supply. A number of yields nearly as large have been reported in that neighbor hood. The experimental farm at Ames has developed some fine strains of small grain and the a- bove yield is a sample.

C. M. Richards of Toledo, Tama county, a near neighbor to the In- dion reservation, says that the de- mand for Indians to give a "pow- wow" at the county fairs, picnics, home comings and the like has be- come a real menace to the civiliz- ing influences of the reservation. The tendency is growing to capital- ize their dances and take them a- way from their homes and crops, and keep them away from a few days to a week at a time. On each trip, the Indians as a whole, return poorer than when they started, and what is worse, they are less satis- fied with their conditions as Indians. Splendid progress along agricultur- al lines has been made during re- cent years, and this progress would continue if the Indians were encour- aged to remain at home and do their work well. The pow-wows are not educational or beneficial to anyone. On the contrary, they are detriment- al to the progress of those who take part .Mr. Richards believes that if the people of the state fully realized what they are doing in this respect they would be more reluctant to em ploy the Indians so frequently for pow-wow purposes.

EVERY INDICATION FOR A SUCCESSFUL SCHOOL YEAR

HAVE FAITH IN THE FARM; DON'T RUN IT DOWN

Kansas Daily World—I am about to deliver myself of an editorial that has been brewing in my soul for lo, these many months. I do not like the way the farmer runs down his business. There is no other bus- iness man in the world that would say of his busines, "It' rotten, I can't make any money. I can't get any credit. I am starving. I'm go- ing to sell out."

In heavens name, how does a bus- iness man expect to sell out a busi- ness he runs down in that fashion. As a matter of fact few people, in a like place in this world's social lad- der, live as well as the farmer. The farmer has better food, more of it than any other class in the world in his own plane. The farmer has a fairly good house to live in however, modest it may be. Do you personal- ly know any farmer which has not a roof over his head? The farmer pays no money for water which is more than can be said of any city business on earth. The farmer's air is fresh and free, while the city man in his circumstances pays for electric fans or goes without air, which lat- ter is much more likely. The farm- er may have have fruit, vegetables, flour and meat. The average farm- er throws away to his chickens after every meal as much as the man in his circumstances in town feeds to his family. The farmer is priveled- ged to wear the simplest, most in- expensive of clothes that would get no man a job in the meanest employ- ment in the city. There are more automobiles among farmers 10 to 1 than there are among the men who work in New York City, even the con sidered well-to-do. The farmer may have a little difficulty in paying his bank obligations, but on the other hand, he is able to borrow from the bank, which is more than may be said of men working in the city.

Assuredly no man on earth in any other business but farming could borrow money of a bank if he ran down his calling as persistently, as determinedly as the farmer. At least if times are bad on the farm he has food, a roof, which is more than can be said of the man thrown out of employment in the city. What the farmer needs more than legislation is faith in his own busi- ness, the boasting of its success rath er than howlinl down it merits .No business on earth could stand up under the continual crying of its owner except the farm business. Af- ter all, board and lodging is about all the average man makes in any business.

What other business man in any calling can "retire' 'on the interest of his savings at 50 years of age?

CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

Our last Sunday's service indica- ted that the vacation spirit has a- bout spent itself, and all will be at their post and in their places here- after. This is well! We should do more effective work from now on.

Our Service last Sunday was well attended and a most enjoyable one. We are planning a similar one for the coming Sabbath. A glad wel- come awaits all! Visitors always welcome!

There is only a little over a mon- th left until conference. There are many things to be finished be- fore then. Let all who have duties to preform, attend to them without fail and as soon as possible.

Liberty Church is enjoying a new set of song books as well as the book racks. The latter aid greatly to preserve the new books and also help the janitor keep thec hurch or- derly. Both. books and racks are the gift of friends.

The dress of today consists of two armholes bounded on the west by nothing whatever, on the east by the same, on the south by hardly any- thing, and on the north by less than that.—Detroit Free Press.

FIVE NEW TEACHERS ON TEACH ING STAFF THIS YEAR

Klemme Schools To Open On Aug- ust 31

The public schools of Klemme open this year on August 31. A new superintendent will be in charge and there will be four new teachers. No. doubt several new students will en- roll and we anticipate a pleasant and profitable year. The building has been improved within by plans of the board and made more attract ive in appearance.

Book Keeping has been added to the course and it may be possible to offer typewriting to those who des- ire it. Other commercial subjects are being considered.

Mr. Hockey, from our State Teach er's College has been employed for coaching and will instruct in man- ual training and in the grammar room. We believe Mr. Hockey to be a very capable young man and that he will do his work well and be well received here.

Mr.Gary from our State Universi- ty, will instruct in high school and direct the school orchestra. He has been a member of the University or- chestra while at Iowa City and exe- cutes well on the violin. He brings with him Mrs. Gary, his wife, who has done considerable work on the piano. We believe the people of Klemme will appreciate Mr. and Mrs Gary.

Miss Pauline Stoner, a graduate from Cornell College, will act as High School Principal and instruct the classes in English. She has made good in both college and the field of teaching, and we believe she will repeat her good work here.

Miss Buchan has been induced to return to our primary room. Miss Abel, Miss Thompson, and Miss Lov- rien will continue here another year. which insures good work in their departments.

Our janitor has been on the job this summer getting floors and desks and walls fit for the new year. We believe Mr. Patet to be above the average as a school jani- tor.

We solicit the good will and heart y cooperation of all in the conduct and management of your public schools the coming year. The school costs money and are being kept open voluntarily in order that the future welfare of individuals and society may be assured. They need for their success, the good will and support of every member of community. Can we not all pull together and make 1925-1926 our banner school year? Let's do it, not for any personal reas ons but for what it may mean to the men and women of the tomorrow, who are now in our schools here .It takes both money and spirit to in- sure school success. The money has been provided and let us all provide the other essential, a favorable and enthusiastic school spirit. Your Public School Servant, — M. F. Pen- rod, Supt.

THIEVES TAKE QUARTER MIL- LION CARS EACH YEAR

That the automobile owner has much to fear from the theft hazard is indicated by theft data recently compiled by the research division of the American Automobile associa- tion. Figures based on forty-five cit ies of the country show that during the past twelve months, 275,000 cars valued at $150,000,000 were sto len.

Of the cars reported stolen 17 per cent or 46,788 were not recover- ed. The figures were primarily com piled in connection with the cam- paign to secure adoption of all sta- tes of a uniform certificate of title law. Twenty states have already put such a law into effect and the investi gation has shown that thefts in these states have greatly diminished and that at the same time the proportion of recovery of stolen cars was much greater than in the states that do not have such a law.

Nameless River

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company WNU Service.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

—11—

The big girl standing on the threshold looked over her head at the trader. There was a little white line pinched in at the base of Nance's nostrils, her blue eyes were colder and narrower than any one had ever seen them in her life.

"McKane," she said clearly, so that the hushed listeners behind her caught every syllable, "you know what a fight I've made to hold my own on Nameless since my father died—or was killed. You know how close to the wind I've sailed to eat, for you've sold me what we've had. And I've always managed to keep even, haven't I?"

"Yes," said the trader uneasily.

"Up till six months ago when I had to go in debt for a new harness or do no work in my fields this spring, I told you when I bought it, didn't I, why I had to buy it?"

"Yes," he said again.

"It was because someone went into my barn one night and cut the old harness into ribbons. That put me in debt to you for the first time."

She stopped and wet her lips. There was the sound of someone rising on the porch and Price Selwood moved in behind her.

She felt him there and a thrill went through her, as if he had put a hand on her shoulder.

"I told you when I bought it that I'd pay you when my corn was ripe—that, if it went well, I'd have far and away more than enough. Well, it went well—so well that I knew yesterday I'd come out ahead and be able to meet that debt and live besides. This morning that field of corn was gone—trampled out—cut to pieces like my harness—pounded into the dirt by a band of cattle that had been driven—driven, you understand—over every foot of it. There was a wide gap cut in the fence at the upper end. That's all—but I can't pay my debt to you."

She stopped and a sharp silence fell. Outside the store in the shade the stallion Bluefire screamed and stamped.

Kate Cathrew took a quick step forward.

"What for did you tell this drivel before me?" she said. "What's it to me?"

"Nothing, I know," said Nance; "maybe a laugh—maybe a hope. My big flats on the river'd feed a pretty bunch of cattle through. And homesteaders have been driven out of the cattle country before now."

"You hussy!" cried Cattle Kate, and, bending back she flung up the hand which held the braided quirt. The lash snapped viciously, but Nance Allison was quicker than the whip. Her own arm flashed up and she caught the descending wrist in the grip of a hand which had held a plow all spring.

Like a lever her arm came down and forced Kate's hand straight down to her knee, so that the flaming black eyes were within a few inches of her face.

"Woman," said Nance clearly, "I'm living up to my lights the best I can. I'm holding myself hard to walk in the straight road. The hand of God is before my face and you can't hurt me—not lastingly. Now you—get—out—of—that—door."

And turning, she moved Selwood with her as she swung the other, whirling like a dervish, clear to the middle of the porch.

Kate Cathrew's face was livid, terrible to look upon.

She ran the short distance to the end of the platform, leaped off and darted to her horse, her hands clawing at the rifle which hung on her saddle.

Selwood pushed Nance inside the store and flung the door shut.

"That woman's a maniac for the moment," he said, "you're best in there."

When Kate came running back with the gun in her hands he faced her before the closed door, his hands in his pockets.

If any of the tense watchers had had a doubt of Price Selwood's courage they lost it then, for he took his life in his hands.

"Kate," he said quietly, "put up that gun. This isn't outlaw country. If you make a blunder you'll hang just like any other murderer—even if you are Kate Cathrew."

For a moment the woman looked at him as a trapped wildcat might have done, her lips loose and shaking, her eyes mad with rage.

Then she struck the rifle, butt down, on the hard earth and with a full-mouthed oath, flung around the corner, tore the stallion's reins from the ring in the wall and mounted with a whirl.

She struck Bluefire once and was gone down the road in a streak of dust.

Selwood opened the door.

"A narrow shave," he said gravely, "if that had happened anywhere but here you'd be a dead woman, Miss Allison."

"Perhaps," said Nance, "she's taken two shots at me already from the hillside—or someone has. Well—I've told you, McKane, as was your right. Now I'll go back to Nameless."

She turned away, but the trader cleared his throat.

"Ah—about the money for the harness," he said, apologetically, "I—that is—I've got to collect it. Times ain't—"

Price Selwood swung around and shot a look at him.

"Eh?" he said. "Got to collect—? Ah, yes, I see—at Cattle Kate's request! You are a fool, McKane. Here, Miss Allison—I'm the sheriff of this county. Wouldn't you rather owe me that money than owe it to McKane? I can wait till you raise another crop—I'm not so pushed as our friend here. What do you say?"

Nance raised her eyes to his and they were suddenly soft and blue again. The tight line let go about her upper lip and a smile came instead.

"You knew my pappy—and I have not forgot how kind you were after—after—. Yes, Mr. Selwood, I'd rather owe you, a whole lot rather, and I'll work doubly hard to pay you back."

Selwood drew some bills from his pocket.

"How much, McKane?" he asked.

The trader sullenly named the amount and received it on the spot.

"Now, if you'd just as soon," said the sheriff, "I'll ride out to Nameless with you. I'd like to take a look at that trampled field."

As they left the town and rode out into the trail that led to Nameless, Nance took off her hat and drew a long, deep breath.

Selwood laughed.

"Do you feel like that?" he asked.

"Exactly," said she, "like a weight was off my shoulders. That debt to McKane was a bitter load."

"The trader is getting into deep water," said the sheriff. "I hate to see him do it."

"How—deep water?"

"He's falling more and more into Cattle Kate's power—and all for nothing. He knows it, but seems helpless. I've seen the like before. She's a bad woman to tie to."

She's handsome—that's one thing sure."

"Yes. Her type is always handsome. But I'm surprised to hear you say so."

"Why?" asked the girl, wonderingly.

"Because most women hate to admit beauty in another, and of all people on Nameless, you have the least reason to see anything attractive in her."

Nance sighed again, thinking of her lost cornfield and of her present appalling poverty.

"As near as I'll let myself come to hate," she said, "I do hate her. I've got to fight it mighty hard. You know how hard it is to fight that way—inside your own soul."

"Hardest battleground we ever stand on," said Selwood, with conviction. "I've had some skirmishes there myself—and I can't say I always came off victor."

"You can't, sometimes, without a lot of prayer," returned Nance soberly; "I've pretty near worn out my knees on the job."

Selwood wanted to laugh at her naive earnestness, but caught himself in time.

They rode for a time in silence, Nance and Buckskin ahead, the sheriff following on his lean bay horse.

Presently Nance turned with a hand on her pony's rump and looked at him speculatively.

"You sort of lay up something to Cattle Kate about this rustling, don't you?" she asked.

He nodded.

"I've watched her for months, but can't get anything on her—not anything tangible."

"I was in Little Blue canyon the other day," said Nance," and saw Sud Provine pass its mouth in Blue Stone driving a red steer north. I've wondered a lot where he could have been taking it."

"North in Blue Stone? That's odd. There isn't enough feed in that canyon to graze a calf two days."

"And what's at its head?" asked Nance, "I've never been clear up."

"Blue Stone heads high in the Deep Heart hills," said the sheriff, "but about eight miles up from its mouth on Nameless its right wall falls abruptly away for a distance of a couple of miles and there one can go out on the open plain that stretches over toward the Sawtooth range and leads out to Marston and the railroad. There's some bunch grass there, but mighty little water. Nothing but the stream in the canyon itself to come back to. And cattle driven so far away from the home range would be a poor risk, it seems to me, for Sky Line."

"Well—I wondered about it. Thought I'd tell you any way."

"I'm glad you did. I shall remember it."

At the homestead Nance led Selwood to the cornfield's lower gate and left him.

"Go over it if you want," she said, "and I'll be out in a minute or so."

At the cabin she told Sonny to go into her room and stay until she came for him.

"I feel guilty," she thought, "for I can trust the sheriff, but Brand asked me to keep him hidden. I've got to be true to my promise."

"You ask the sheriff to supper," said Mrs. Allison, "I'll kill a fryer an' make some biscuits."

When Nance went out she found Selwood examining the trampled field minutely.

"Must have had 50 head or more," he said, "and five or six riders. Sud Provine was one of them."

"Yes. How can you tell?"

"I know his horse's tracks," grinned the sheriff, "it's that big gray gelding."

CHAPTER XIII

"We're Our Pappy's Own—and We Belong on Nameless."

That night at dusk as Nance sat in the open door with Sonny drowsing in her lap, Dirk shot out across the yard like a tawny streak and headed away toward the river.

He made no outcry, but went straight as a dart, and presently there came the little crack of shod hoofs on the stones of Nameless' lip, and a rider came up out of the farther shadows with the collie leaping in ecstasy against his stirrup.

Something tightened in Nance's throat, a thrill shot through her from head to foot. That strange surge of warmth and light seemed to flood her whole being again.

"Mammy—Bud—" she said softly, "I think Brand Fair is coming."

Bud stirred in the darkened room, but Mrs. Allison was silent.

"Always, soon or late," she thought to herself, "a man comes ridin' out th' night—an' a woman is waitin'. It's comin' late to her—she'll be twenty-two come June—but it's comin'. An' she don't know it yet."

"Good evening," said a deep voice pleasantly, as the dark horse stopped in the dooryard, "is a stranger welcome?"

"We've been listening for you every

"Nance Allison Was, as Her Mammy Would Say, 'Flabbergasted!'"

night," said the girl simply, "it's been a long time."

"Brand!" cried the child sharply, struggling frantically to find his feet, "Oh! Oh!—Brand!"

The man dismounted and came forward.

He lifted the boy and kissed him, holding him on his breast, while he held out a hand to Nance.

At its warm clasp the surging glory inside her deepened strangely.

Mrs. Allison rose and lighted the lamp on the table.

"Come in, stranger," she said, "and set."

Fair came in and Nance presented him to her two relatives.

Mrs. Allison looked deep in his face with her discerning eyes as she gave him her toil-hard hand and nodded unconsciously.

With Bud it was a different matter. There was a faint coldness in his young face, a sullen disapproval. But Nance saw none of these things. Her eyes were dark with the sudden dilation of the pupils which this man's presence always caused. There was a soft excitement in her.

For a little while they sat in the well-worn, well-scrubbed and polished room which was parlor, dining room and kitchen, and talked of the warmth of the season, the many deer that were in the hills, and such minor matters, while Sonny clung to the man and devoured his face with adoring eyes.

Then the mother, harking back to the customs of another time, another environment, rose, bade good-night, signaled her son and retired to the inner regions.

Bud spoke with studied coldness and shambled after her.

Nance regarded this unusual proceeding with some astonishment. She did not realize that this was the peak of proper politeness in the backwoods of her Mammy's day—that a girl must have her chance and a clear field when a man came "settin' up" to her.

And so it was that presently she found herself sitting beside Brand Fair in the doorway, for the man preferred the inconspicuous spot, while Sonny sighed with happiness in his arms and Dirk sat gravely on his plumy tail at his master's knee.

Diamond stood like a statue in the farther shadows.

A little soft wind was drawing up the river, the stars were thick in the night sky, and something as sweet as fairy music seemed to pulse in the lonely silence.

"Has old-timer been good?" Fair wanted to know jocosely, rubbing the curly head which was no longer tousled.

"Sure I have, Brand," the little fellow ventured eagerly, "awful good—haven't I, Nance?"

"Miss Allison, Sonny," said Brand severely.

"No—Nance. She told me so herself."

"That settles it. No one could go against such authority. But has he been good?"

"Good?" said Nance. "He's brought all the happiness into this house it's seen for many a long day—or is likely to see."

"That's good hearing," returned the man, "and I have done a lot of riding this past week. Tell me, Miss Allison—what sort of a chap is this sheriff of yours?"

"He's the best man on Nameless river!" cried the girl swiftly, "the kindest, the steadiest. I'd trust him with anything."

"Does he talk?"

"Talk?"

"Can he keep a still tongue in his head?"

"I don't know as to that—but I do know he's been a friend to me in my tribulation. He probably saved my life today—and he saved me a lot of trouble."

"Saved your life?" queried Fair sharply, "How's that?"

"I swung Cattle Kate Cathrew out of McKane's store and she was going to shoot me, but the sheriff faced her. I told her some things she didn't like."

Fair drew a long breath.

"What was the occasion?" he asked.

"My field of corn," said Nance miserably, her trouble flooding back upon her, "last night it was rich with promise—what I was building on for my debt and my winter's furnishing. This morning it was nothing but a dirty mass of pulp—trampled out by cattle—and we know that a Sky Line rider was behind those cattle. It's some more of the same work that's been going on with us since before our pappy died. It's old stuff—what the cattle kings have done to the homesteaders for many years in this country.

"If we weren't our pappy's own—Bud and I—we'd have been run out long ago. I would, I think, when Bud got hurt, if it hadn't been for him. He's a fighter, and won't let go. The land is ours, right and fair, and he says no bunch of cut-throats is going to take it from us. I say so, too," she finished, doggedly.

Fair reached out a hand and for a moment laid it over her's clasped on her folded arm.

"Miss Allison," he said admiringly, "you're a wonderful woman! Not many men would stick in the face of such colossal misfortunes. You must love your land."

"I do," she said, "but it's something more than that. It's a proving, sort of—a battle line, you know, and Bud and I, we're soldiers. We hope we cannot run."

"By George!" said the man, "you can't—you won't. Your kind don't. But it's a grim battle, I can see that."

"It's so grim," said Nance quietly, "that we couldn't survive this winter if it wasn't for the hogs that will be ready to market this fall. McKane wouldn't give me time on my debt—Cattle Kate won't let him. So the sheriff paid it—he says he can wait till next year for his money—he's not so hard pushed as the trader—and he's rich, they say."

For a little while they sat in silence while Sonny, blissfully happy, fell fast asleep in Fair's arms.

Then the man stirred and spoke.

"Miss Allison," he said, "the time has come when I am going to tell you something—just a little bit that may give you comfort in this hard going of yours. I want you to know that more than one force is at work against this woman at Sky Line ranch—against her and all those with her. Sheriff Selwood is not the only one who suspects her of dark doings—and the other—knows. I am that other."

Nance gasped in the shadows. The flickering lamp, blowing in the wind, had gone low.

"You?"

"Yes. That's why I have been so much a mystery in this country—why I have kept Sonny hidden in the canyon—why I have spent two years of my life riding the back places of the West. I knew she was somewhere—and I knew she was crooked. The men she has with her are not cattle men—they are criminals, every one."

"Good gracious!" whispered the girl again.

"And the reason I am not ready to run into her yet is this—she would recognize me before I am ready, because she knew me once some six years ago."

Nance Allison was, as her mammy would say, "flabbergasted."

She was too astonished to speak.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Youthful Mountains

As old as the hills means little in Haiti, for the mountains there are very young and the earth's crust very mobile.

Dr. Wendell P. Woodring of the United States geological survey says that the rising of these hills probably causes the earthquakes which at intervals shake the northern part of the country. Some of the coral reef caps cover marine terraces that rise like gigantic stairs from sea level to a height of about 1,500 feet. These terraces, begun in Miocene times, are preserved because of the aridity of the climate and underground drainage.

PERHAPS

A German cook who loved to sleep in the morning warned the scolding mistress of her intention to leave for America.

"Over there," she said, "the sun rises much later, and when it is already midday here it barely begins to dawn in America! I shall be able to sleep a couple of hours longer."—London Answers.

Impossibility

"The minister suggests," remarked the flapper's mother mildly, "that you girls give as much time to religion each day as you do to primping and pleasure."

"How absurd!" exclaimed the flapper scornfully. "Surely a man of his education should know that there aren't 48 hours in a day."—American Legion Weekly.

'S a Fact

"The last speaker," said the chairman of the Health Congress, "is a striking example of the efficacy of the doctrines he so eloquently advocates. Hale and hearty at eighty years of age, he could tire out many a man younger than himself."

A voice from the audience: "He did."—Tit-Bits.

A NEW VERSION

Editor—You can't get by with that joke. That's an old Pat and Mike wheeze.

Jokesmith—But don't you see how I've improved it? I've changed the names from Pat and Mike to Martin Luther and Oliver Cromwell.

Sympathetic

I'm fond of my denist,
He's never a grouch;
And when he has hurt me
He always says, "Ouch."

His Choice

He had married a very small woman, and was being chaffed about it at the club.

"Now look here, you fellows," he said. "It's all very well laughing about this, but I always base my conduct on certain definite principles. One of them is: given a choice of evils, always choose the lesser."—Tit-Bits.

Always Obliging

"What did you say when Jack threatened to kiss you?"

"I told him I'd like to see him try."

"And then?"

"Well, Jack always tries to do what I like."

Why Not?

Landlord—You've been living in the house only a month and it's a total wreck.

Tenant—Then you ought to reduce the rent this month.

A MYSTERY

"Goodness, what kind of a bird laid those funny green eggs!"

The Ultimate Topic

Though many an argument profound
The human mind pursues,
Most everybody gets around
To talking IOU's.

Impatient

Customer—Not done yet? And you advertise, "Shoes repaired while you wait."

Repairman—That's right; only you haven't waited more than four days.

Misprint

The reporter was interviewing a railroad man's heir.

"Did you grandfather really make that statement about the public?" asked the newspaper man.

"No, I don't think so. It was a misprint, most likely. The old man probably said, 'The Public Be Jammed.'"

His Only Chance

Fred—Why was Adam made first?

Dad—To give him a chance to say a word or two, I suppose.

Recovery From Influenza Hastened by PE-RU-NA

Mr. C. A. Allen, R. R. No. 2, Bondurant, Iowa, gives testimony to the healing power of Pe-ru-na. Influenza left him much run down in health with catarrh of the nose, throat and bronichal tubes punctuated with attacks of asthma. He writes:

"While recovering from the Influenza I was so weak I could not gain any strength for two months. The latter part of the winter, I bought six bottles of Pe-ru-na and began taking it. My weight increased to 175 pounds, the most I ever weighed.

My usual winter weight is 155. If you can use this letter for any good, you are perfectly welcome."

Such evidence cannot fail to convince the rankest unbeliever of the merits of Pe-ru-na.

Insist upon having the old and original remedy for catarrhal conditions.

Sold Everywhere
Tablets or Liquid

A Masterpiece

"Great make-up you've got."

"Yes, said the clown, "I copied this from a flapper."

People probably get the blues because they fail to look at things in the right light.

Enjoy the blessings of the day.

Are you ready to enjoy social duties, sports or recreations? If not try HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters, for over seventy years noted as a wholesome tonic, appetizer and corrective.

At All Druggists

London's Park Jazz

London's first park jazz concert was attended by 20,000, many arriving an hour and a half before the advertised time for starting.

First Aid

"Were you bashful the first time you called on a girl?" "Why, yes, but her father helped me out."

Why Risk Neglect

Are you lame and achy; weak and nervous? Do you suffer backache, sharp pains, disturbing bladder irregularities? This condition is often due to a slowing up of the kidneys. The kidneys, you know, are constantly filtering the blood. Once they fall behind in their work, poisons accumulate and undermine one's health. Serious troubles may follow. If you have reason to suspect faulty kidney elimination, try Doan's Pills. Doan's are a tested diuretic, recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor.

An Iowa Case

Mrs. Emma Clary, 316 N. Decker St., Maquoketa, Iowa, says: "I had such pains through my back it was all I could do to keep going, and sometimes I couldn't get out of the chair. I had dizzy spells and almost fell if I stooped. My kidneys acted too seldom. I used Doan's Pills and they soon rid me of kidney trouble."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Beauty Of Hair and Skin Preserved By Cuticura

Soap to Cleanse Ointment to Heal

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Rest is not idleness, and to lie sometimes on the grass under the trees on a summer's day, listening to the murmur of the water, or watching the clouds float across the sky, is by no means waste of time.—Lord Avebury.

APPETIZING DISHES

When preparing mush for a supper of mush and milk make plenty and mold in bread pans, stirring into it any chopped meat while warm. This when sliced and fried makes a good, substantial dish.

Fruit Salad.—Mix together one cupful of chopped nutmeats and one-half cupful of seeded grapes, cut into halves. For the dressing beat an egg, add an eighth of a cupful each of lemon and orange juice, one tablespoonful of pineapple juice, one-half cupful of sugar, then cook in a double boiler until it thickens, stirring all the time. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Stringless Beans.—With the advance in cultivation we have arrived at the tender stringless bean. Wash and trim and cut into half-inch slices diagonally, which permits more cut surface to reach the heat. When tender, dress with salt, pepper and butter or part butter and part olive oil, with a dash of vinegar.

Creole Tongue.—Boil a fresh beef tongue and after skinning and trimming it, serve with the following sauce poured over it: Into a double boiler put a glass of currant jelly, a cupful of orange juice and one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of butter, a fourth pound each of raisins, citron, currants, and chopped almonds; soak in the fruit juice and serve with the tongue, after the sauce has been heated, but not boiled.

Fig Omelet.—Cut small pieces of figs in pieces and stew them in a little sugar sirup until tender. Beat the yolks of four eggs until thick, adding a tablespoonful of cold water for each egg; fold in the stiffly beaten whites and pour into a hot well-buttered omelet pan. Sprinkle the figs over the top, fold and serve with the sirup.

Cheese Omelet.—Take a cupful of cheese, a cupful of cream, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and an egg beaten light, season with salt and pepper and put into a buttered baking dish to bake. Serve as a luncheon or supper dish.

Macaroni and Eggs.—Cook until tender one cupful of macaroni broken into inch pieces. Put a layer into a buttered baking dish, cover with a layer of hard cooked eggs, cut into eighths, sprinkle with a little grated cheese, cover with a thick white sauce, repeat and top with buttered crumbs. Put into the oven and heat until thoroughly hot and the crumbs are well browned. Serve from the dish.

For Luncheon or Tea.

A tasty dish for luncheon or supper is calf's heart. Cut the heart into thin slices and fry in a little butter, seasoning well with salt and pepper.

Spanish Eggs.—Take one-half can of tomato, pour off nearly all the liquid or use two or three fresh ripe tomatoes, heat in a saucepan, add salt and cayenne with a little scrapped onion and cook ten minutes. Then break in four eggs and stir with a fork until the eggs are cooked. Serve on buttered toast.

On a hot night for supper serve iced grain cereal. It is a drink that the children can have and will enjoy.

Cherry Bread Pudding.—Spread stale bread with butter and place in layers in a baking dish, cover with cherries well sweetened, using some of the juice. Repeat until enough of the bread and cherries are used, pour over more juice and bake or leave in a cold place to chill.

Tapioca Delight.—Dissolve three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of salt in four cupfuls of coffee which has been strained. Add one cupful of minute tapioca and cook over hot water until perfectly transparent. Add one-half cupful of chopped nutmeats, and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Chill and serve with cream.

Rhubarb, currants, raspberries, blueberries or any kind of fruit may be served in this way.

Save the leftover griddle cake batter and use it for dipping fritters, thus saving the work of preparing fritter batter.

Grape Sandwiches.—These sandwiches will be enjoyed by the children for their luncheon: Butter twelve slices of bread and spread with grape marmalade, chopped apple and chopped nuts, using four tablespoonfuls of the grape marmalade, two tablespoonfuls of nuts and two of apple.

A delicious sauce to serve with fruit or frozen puddings is this: Beat until thick the yolks of two fresh eggs, then add the beaten white of one, and two tablespoonfuls of confectioner's sugar. Place in a double boiler and cook, stirring until thick. Pour into a cool bowl and beat with a wooden spoon until cold, then add one cupful of whipped cream. If to be used with puddings add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla; if fruit use the same amount of almond extract.

Nellie Maxwell

FALL MODES FOR SCHOOL WEAR; FLANNEL CHOICE FOR BLOUSES

FULLER skirts, higher necklines and long sleeves, are themes that have been under discussion for some weeks in the centers that originate styles. These new departures in the modes were well advertised before they were presented—the way paved for their success by making everyone familiar with them; for not every style becomes a fashion and stylists have to leave the success or failure of their best efforts mainly "in the lap of the gods."

All three of the new style features mentioned are shown in the pretty frock pictured and they have been managed faultlessly, even from the viewpoint of the most ardent stand-patter for simple, straight lines. The long bodice, and neckline high at the back and "V" shaped in front are good on either slim or plump figures and that much disputed point—fulness in the skirt—has been adroitly managed by means of the obliging box plait, which effaces itself so far as interference with long lines is concerned. The narrow girdle, tied at the back, is of the material in the frock and little, round buttons, matching the dress in color, serve for its finishing touch. The picture shows clearly how trim, stylish and school-girlish this model is and it is recommended as a good example to follow in assembling clothes for the college or high school miss. No one will recognize more quickly than this competent and sometimes opinionated young person, that this dress is up-to-date. It may be made of any of the good wool fabrics for fall, flannels, plain, bordered or figured, twills, kasha and novelty weaves. Figured flannel is very effective and one can imagine it in red and black in this material, with either red or black buttons, or in two shades of brown or blue. Do not overlook the small convenient and boyish pockets which have to be discovered at each side. For afternoon wear, the dress pictured was made of olive crepe-backed satin and ornamented with pearl buttons, probably of the same color.

In matters pertaining to clothes, the eternal feminine may be counted on to change its mind as heretofore. Just when it seemed that all blouses, for whatever purpose, were to be made of silk, along came the soft flannel affair, in the loveliest shades of fashionable colors and immediately won its plea (for a place in the sun) before the tribunal of fashion. Nothing has proved a better medium than flannel for the mellow shades that distinguish this season and no fabric is better suited to smart, informal or sports blouses.

Pretty Frock for the Schoolgirl.

In the pretty late-summer blouse shown here, buff colored flannel is entirely sufficient unto itself for the blouse and its accessories. Flannel covered buttons and a flannel strap or half girdle across the front finish off a model that owes its distinction to cleverness in cut and beauty in color. It is a slip-on model but has almost invisible shoulder seams that give it a trim adjustment. With sleeves extended to the elbow or a little below, it is a good model for fall. But sleeves grow in importance, both in dresses and blouses, and the new fall models emphasize a variety of long-sleeved styles. The new figured flannels will lend themselves to long-sleeved tailored types in overblouses to be worn with plain or plaited skirts.

In dressier types for afternoon panne velvet and crepe satin are sponsored by the French usually in black or dark colors with embroidery and braidings in contrasting colors, but rich effects. Collars are often high, or a scarf is worn if the neckline is round. Overblouses and short tunic blouses make up the displays and much attention is given to plaitings as a trimming.

Pretty Late Summer Blouse.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

ROAD BUILDING

NIGHT VISIBILITY IS OF IMPORTANCE

Pounding through the night with black darkness at your sides and behind you, and only a ribbon of light piercing the veil in front of you may bring a thrill, or it may bring disaster. The narrow country road unfolds, to be plunged again behind you. You take the dips and curves, leap over bridges and culverts, flash past sign posts, the thrumming of your motor drowning out all other sounds. That's the thrill of it. But there's others on the road besides yourself, and that may bring disaster.

Any motorist who has driven an automobile at night has experienced an uneasy feeling when meeting or passing another car where the road-edge is blotted out by the darkness, and there is no way to tell how far one can turn out in safety. Many a fender has been ripped and bent because the driver was afraid of going into the ditch—which he couldn't see—and more than one serious accident has been due to the inability of the driver to see the road-edge.

Even with the advantages of good headlights and the use of dimmers the driver is badly handicapped unless he can clearly distinguish the edge of the road line, and know at a glance just how far he can turn out. Those drivers who are fortunate enough to have hard paved roads in their communities are well aware of the advantages of such roads for night driving. Paved road edges are easily seen in the darkness. They act as a guide line for the driver, showing him at a glance just where the road leaves off and the ditch begins. There is no straining of the eyes when one is driving. Dark objects are easily distinguished, and a horse-drawn vehicle or any other occupant of the road can be clearly seen from a distance.

Out in California, where over 2,500 miles of smooth roads are in use, their advantage for night driving, so appealed to the Los Angeles and Santa Barbara Motor Express company that that a letter was sent by the manager of the company to the Los Angeles county board of supervisors asking that hard-surface construction be used in building new roads. This company operates a fleet of trucks over a number of routes, many of the trips being made at night. In mountainous sections the need for clear vision at night is even more pronounced than on flat stretches of road, for if a driver should turn out too far to the side of the road a bad spill might result.

The experience of this company and the experiences of all those who drive at night carry a lesson for the motoring public. The driver has been told time and again to be careful. His motor club is constantly working on plans to assure the safety of the auto owner. Anything that leads to safety on the road should be given particular attention, and when new roads are to be built careful consideration should be given to the feature of visibility at night.

Benefit of Motor Trucks in Transportation Seen

"Marked progress in the methods of handling shipments has been made during the last ten years," said George M. Graham, chairman of the traffic planning and safety committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, speaking before the traffic club of New York. The Traffic club is composed of railroad men and shippers.

"The shift in population in our cities from 40 per cent in 1900 to 51.4 per cent in 1920 has called for a reorganization of shipping facilities, with particular need for big local terminal operations.

"The railmen in the face of great obstacles have been meeting this situation effectively. Fortunately the development of the motor vehicle has come about in this period, providing rapid transportation in the short-haul local field. In 1914 the country was absorbing 25,000 motor trucks a year, and today about 400,000 new trucks are being purchased annually.

"This new development means better service for the public and more profits for the railroads which are engaging in truck operation. From the public standpoint the carrying of goods promptly from the railroad terminal by motor truck means a great saving of time. From the rail standpoint the truck provides an economical means of carrying goods in less than carload lots over short hauls."

Mr. Graham also emphasized the need on the part of all transportation authorities to safeguard the public. He pointed out that the motor world is demanding the severest punishment for reckless drivers and is seeking the best methods of traffic control.

Roadside Tree Planting

All roadside planting should be determined and based on the country and its native vegetation through which the road winds its way. In this way the roadside planting will become a part of the general landscape and enhance the beauty of its surroundings, so far as this is possible for a highway to do. For instance, swamp or lowland landscapes are of a widely different character than the prairie or hilly country, and the vegetation fitting is equally as different.

Good bread makers everywhere prefer it Yeast Foam

Flavor all its own!

Once your folks taste good bread made with Yeast Foam, they'll always want it. It's simply great!

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Food Combinations It Is Wisdom to Avoid

The recent death of Chin Hong, a Chinese laundryman of Baltimore, after a luncheon consisting of cherry pie and milk, calls attention strongly to the fact that certain food combinations may be highly dangerous, though the component parts are harmless enough individually. Chin Hong's death is not attributed to indigestion but to bloodletting practiced by Chinese doctors, but his luncheon made him seriously ill.

Cherry pie and milk make a combination dangerous to Americans as well as Orientals, though a few persons are able to assimilate them successfully. A similarly dangerous dietary grouping is that of bananas and alcoholic liquors, especially if the bananas are not fully ripe.

It is best, in any event, to avoid either of these food combinations at any time of the year.

Cuticura Soothes Baby Rashes

That itch and burn, by hot baths of Cuticura Soap followed by gentle anointings of Cuticura Ointment. Nothing better, purer, sweeter, especially if a little of the fragrant Cuticura Talcum is dusted on at the finish. 25c each.—Advertisement.

Had All Qualifications

An application for a position as teacher in Butte county, South Dakota, has been received from a woman in Wyoming. In part, the application says: "I will introduce myself as an old-fashioned old maid school teacher. I can ride horseback, am not afraid of rats, mice or rattlesnakes. Will be pleased to receive a position in the wildcat section of your country. I do not smoke cigarettes, use profane language nor drink booze. Am so homely that the men stay clear away from me."

Friend in Need

The judge fixed his eyes severely on the prisoner.

"Flaherty," he demanded, "why did you dump your hod of bricks on your friend Nolan?"

"Ye see, judge," explained the offender, 'Oi once told Nolan that if he was hard up for money to come to the building where Oi was workin' and Oi'd do him a favor, and whin Oi saw him comin' along the street, dead broke, Oi dropped the bricks down on his head knowin' he had an accident policy."—Forbes Magazine.

Flowers Dislike Jazz

The cyclamen and the carnation are among the flowers most susceptible to the influence of music. Some which were used in floral decorations close to a stand where the band was playing jazz were found, after a few hours, to have all turned their faces away from the music.

They were turned around facing the band, but soon began leaning away again. It is believed that the musical vibrations affect the fibers of the plants.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

Farewell to Fog?

Experiments have been carried out by United States aviators in the dispersal of fog by discharging showers of electrified sand. It is reported that the sand showers had the effect of causing a series of small clouds to precipitate as rain, thus breaking up the heavier cloud masses.

Helpful Suggestion

"I'm in a quandary," she said to the milliner. "I don't know what to do about a hat. I'm of two minds about it."

"Then take two hats," suggested the milliner, "and please both minds."—Boston Transcript.

Vacation Note

Donald B. MacMillan, arctic explorer, reports finding mosquitoes within 700 miles of the North pole, so if you are planning on going that way on your vaction don't wear sheer silk hose and peek-a-boo waists.—Duluth News-Tribune.

Variety

"Do you have much variety at your boarding house?"

"Well, we have three different names for the meals."—South Wales Echo.

It is often easier to make a statement in good faith than it is to get it accepted.

Habitual thought affects lives.

Women in High Positions

The government in France has recently decided that women shall be eligible for the highest positions in the postal and telegraph service in that country. In future, women may rise to be office chiefs, managers, inspectors, etc., and they will thus figure in all the promotions of one of the most important of the government departments.

The Awkward Age

"Tommy, you're too old to cry."

"Yes, and I'm too young to have what I'm crying for."

Glove Came Back

A traveling man told John Hartigan of Rochester, N. H., of a friend whom Hartigan had not met for 20 years, when they were ball players together. "Tell him to return my glove when you see him again," said Hartigan. The following week a parcel arrived and Hartigan found it contained the glove, which he missed after a game 20 years ago.

For Two Score Years and Ten She Has Taken Beecham's Pills

"I was just 18 when I commenced to take Beecham's Pills. They have been of great benefit to me in relieving sick-headache, constipation, and biliousness. Next March I will be 68 years old so you see I have lived to a good old age."

Miss ELEANOR WILCOX
Newburgh, N. Y.

For FREE SAMPLE—write B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal Street, New York
Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes
For biliousness, sick headaches and constipation take

Beecham's Pills

Wherever the itching and whatever the cause, the soothing touch of Resinol Ointment rarely fails to give quick relief

Resinol

YOU CAN'T CUT OUT
A Bog Spavin or Thoroughpin but you can clean them off promptly with
ABSORBINE
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
and you work the horse same time. Does not blister or remove the hair. $2.50 per bottle, delivered. Will tell you more if you write.
Book 4 A free.
W. F. YOUNG, Inc., 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

BATHE TIRED EYES
with Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1109 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

IOWA FARM BARGAINS
Owners retiring. 103, 180, 120, 80, 840, 260, at $36, $55, $80, $82, $85, $90 per A. List free. E. McMASTER, MT. AYR, IOWA.

ESTABLISHED COMPANY HAS OPENING for man to sell guaranteed line paints—factory to users. Good earnings, either full or part time. THE AMERICAN ASBESTOS PRODUCTS CO., Dept. C, Cleveland, Ohio.

CHRIS BLUMER'S

Repair Shop

—Located first door east of G. P. McCullough's Barber Shop

IS NOW OPEN FOR BUSINESS and is equipped to do first class repairing...Bring in your work, I will appreciate your patronage and will guarantee a good job and satisfaction—

SHOE REPAIRING, of all kinds.

TIRE and TUBE REPAIRING, AUTO CURTAINS.

ALL OTHER LIGHT REPAIR WORK DONE.

Chris Blumer

A New Health Food

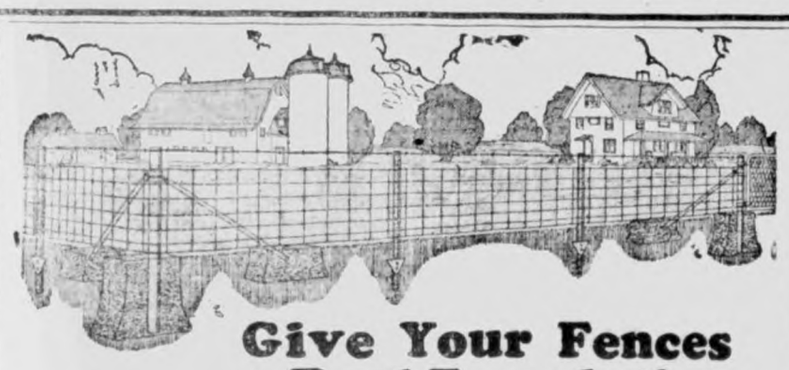
"Kraut Juice"

We have just received a New Health Food—a healthful old time food in a new form—KRAUT JUICE, beneficial to sufferers of Rheumatism and Diabetes—comse in cans ready for use. "A Treat To Eat," and if you like old fashioned Sauerkraut you will enjoy this new food in liquid form—try t.

School Lnnches

Here's the place to come to get the very best for Sandwiches for the School Lunch Basket—always a full line of choicest Cold Meats of all kinds on hand. All kinds of Cheese; Canned Meats; and don't forget "Heinz 57 Varieties" for the lunch, such as Ketchups, Mustard, Sauces, Pickles, Olives, and many other appetizing foods.

Klemme Meat Market



Give Your Fences a Real Foundation

IF you want the best steel fence line—the strongest, the most economical and longest lasting—put in a good foundation. Use RED TOP Steel End, Gate and Corner Posts, made of heavy, seamless, tubing.

The foundation posts must take up any strain applied to the fence. They should be strong, rigid, immovable. Wood foundation posts are likely to rot out, lean and frost heave. When it comes time to replace them the wire will not stand restretching. Properly set, RED TOP Foundation Posts will not budge in the fence line. They'll outlast any fencing made.

Of course you will want to use RED TOP Double Strength Studded Tee line Posts. Because of the steel reinforcing rib and absence of any holes or rivets, the RED TOP is the strongest line post on the market. The sturdy, rigid anchor plate means a firmer post when set. The aluminum metallic finish means longer life and neater appearing fences.

Come in and see the complete line of RED TOPS. Ask especially to see the new RED TOP One Man Line Post Driver and the Handy Fasteners, two great labor savers for fence builders.

Red Top
GUARANTEED
Double Strength Studded Tee
Steel Fence Posts

We Always Have a Good Stock of Red Tops on Hand

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

A DELIGHTFUL TOUR THRU THE THE BLACK HILLS

(Continued from page 1.)

land of waste and we wondered how they could make a livng in such a hell-hole of nature. We later were informed that some of the rich est garden spots of the world could be found between these hills and on the tops of some of the plateaus. The people who live there make their liv ing raising garden truck of all kinds, we were told, and that at the county and state fairs they always took first prize with their stuff grown in the Bad Lands. However, none of their gardens were visible from the road and in order to see them one would have to take a side trip with a guide as one would be easily lost in the hills, without some one who knew the country, and to be lost is those hills would be horrible death, as the sun in intensely hot, the air filled with alkali dust, some of which is poisonous and with no water whatever to be seen. The State School of Mines, at Rapid City each year sends out a party of young men to explore the Bad Lands and hunt fossi l remains. These men work in groups and are very cautious in their procedure. They often have to construct large dericks and tackle blocks with which they lower the men into crevices, never before explored by a human being and in these out of the way places most of the fossils are located. To successfully remove a fossil remain and to restore it for exhibition purposes is a very tedious work of several months to pick out the bones and restore them from a small pre-historic dog, which was no larger than a small cat. To restore the jaw bone or head of a dinosaur requires months of tedious and careful work. To give you an idea of the size of these prehistoric animals found in this region, try to imagine a tooth about the size of a brick in a jaw perhaps six to eight feet long, belonging to an animal twenty-five or thirty feet high and over a hundred feet long, shaped a great deal like a large lizard. We could write a lengthy article on the Bad Lands alone but we do not have the time nor space to devote to this interest-part of the trip, so we will pass on to the other things and places of interest to our readers.

Rapid City Gateway To The Hills

We arrived in Rapid City at about five o'clock in the afternoon and found the tourist camp to be one of the very best we struck on our entire trip. The camp was fully equipped with all modern conveniences and was located at a beautiful spot with the hills and rocks for a back ground and a swift flowing stream, with plenty of trees and green grass everywhere. It was while setting up camp at Rapid Cty that Mr. Fred Ridder and Mr. Wm. Bachman drove in and found our party. We later met them at wind cave. These men were the only people we saw whom we knew in our trip through the mountains from this locality.

Rapid City, gateway to the Black Hills is one of the finest little cities in he West. Although it has a pop ulation of only about seven thousand people, it boasts of a business section nearly equal to Mason City. The lumbering industry of the moun tain forests is centered here and there are stucco, cement, lime and brick plants, as well as a large pack ing plant. This city is the headquart ers for many tourists and is the logical place to reach Rapid Canyon, Dark Canyon, Spring Canyon, Crystal Cave, and direct routes to Deadwood, Lead and Spearfish. The State School of Mines is located here and we had the pleasure of paying it a visit. At this school we learn that many of the leading geologists and mining engineers of the United States have had their training at this school. From this school a great deal of the geological exploration of the Hills and the Bad Lands has been conducted and in their museum are many specimens of prehistoric animals, plant life, minerals, stones and gems.

A Visit To The Wind Cave

Leaving Rapid City we hit the trail south to Hot prings from which point we would head north and thus take in all the Hills on our tour. Just before reaching Hot Springs we left the highway for a trip to Wind Cave, located in Wind Cave State Park about fifteen miles north of Hot Springs. We reached the cave in the afternoon at two o'clock just in time to make the trip as only wo trips are made each day by the guides. There were perhaps fifty people who took the trip that after noon, among whom we found Fred Ridder and Bill Bachman.

108 Miles Of Cave Explored

The enrance to wind cave is gained by descending a number of steps into a gully between two hills. A strong, cold wind gushes from the mouth of the cave, and from this it gains its name. Why the wind blows out of the cave with such force is still a mystery. This is the largest cave in the Hills and at this time men have explored over 108 miles of the cave below the surface of the ground and there are still hundreds of miles of passages and crevices yet to be explored.

The climb down into the cave was made with the aid of gas lanterns, one lantern to every four persons, so the trip was well lighted asd made as bright as day. The trip took us over three hundred feet below the mouth of the cave and nearly two miles back into the interior. Most of the pasages are narrow which widen into large rooms every few hundred feet. The general formation of the cave seems to be a sort of honey-combed rock of a dark brown color. It was a wonderful trip, but we were all glad to get out of it again.

Best Swimming Pool In World

Leaving Wind Cave we again went south to Camp at Hot Springs for the night. Hot Springs lies in a gully surrounded by mountains and is rather hot during the daytime. The tourist Camp was located high up on a hill so we had plenty of air. We were rather disappointed with the city until the next morning, when all decided to put on bathing suits and see what their famous "plunge" was like. This bathing pool is supposed to be the finest in the world and we were not long in agreeing that this must be true. The pool is fed by natural mineral spring waters at the rate of five thousand gallons of water a minute which has a normal temperature of 90 degrees. The water is so clear that in the deep est part of the pool, fifteen feet, you can see a pin on the bottom. There is also another pool at Hot Springs, which is entirely natural, being a large basin in the rocks. It was here that the Indians used to bathe.

Needles Drive and Sylvan Lake

Leaving Hot Springs, we again headed north through the Wind Cave Park district, where we saw large numbers of buffalo feeding along the mountain side in the state reserve. The route took us back through Custer, the oldest city in the hills and on east to the Game Lodge, another State Park. We also passed through Harney National Forest and saw the wonderful pines of the Hills. From the Game Ladge we tracked back a few miles to get on the Needles Road which took us through the most wonderful scenery of the Hills, known as the Needles. This part of the Hills is where real Mountain roads are found. We drove up hill for nine miles on the road, the last three miles taking us throu the Needles, over a road that you could look over the side of your car and look down on the rocks and pines for over a thousand feet. There are no guard rails on this road but the road bed is wide and well graveled so that driving is quite safe if one does not get nervous. We met one party about half way up who "got cold feet" and turned back. The Needles are well named as they are high, spired rocks, rising hundreds of feet up and all pointed, like a needle. One place the road takes us through the "needle's eye" which looks very much like an eye in a needle. The scenery along this drive is wonderful and very changing in nature. Near the base of the Needles road, nestled high amoung the rocks and lying at the base of Harney Peay, you find Sylvan Lake. We camped at the Lake that night, as we were to climb the Peak the next morning.

Climbing Harney Peak On Foot

Getting up early next morning we started up the Peak at seven o'clock on foot. Saddle horses can be hired here for the trip, but most people preferred to make the clib afoot as they don't want to go home and tell the folks they had to have a horse down was about seven miles and it dows was about seven miles and it took nearly all morning to make the trip. It took us about two hours and a half to make the climb, the last few hundred yards were rough going and steep climbing. The view from the peak is wonderful, up in the air 7,250 feet and on a clear day four states can be plainly seen with a small glass. The day we made the climb was rather hazy, but we could see for miles. A Forest Ranger's Lookout House is built on top of the highest peak and from this vantage point he is on the watch for forest fires and when one ranger and with the aid of an instru rasger and with the aid of an instrument, gives the exact location of the fire. An ice cold spring bubbles from the rocks on top of the peak and lemonade is served at the little stand at the last climb. All the way up and down the Peak, the scenery is most wonderful, ranging from jagged rocks and peaks which fade away into valleys of tall pines.

Pure Spring Water In Mountains

Halfway up the climb is a spring and the water is ice cold and pure. The water anywhere in the mount ains is pure and whever a spring or little stream is seen one can stop and drink. At the base of the Peak and on the shores of Sylvan Lake is a summer resort and hotel where tourists can stop, if they wish this way of spending a vacation.

Most Interesting City In The Hills

After eating our lunch at noon we struck out for Deadwood, famous city of the Hills and "The Days of '76". The trip to that place took us over a rather rough and bad road as the state is building a new road through that section, which will be open next year. Arriving at Deadwood we found an excellent tourist camp with all modern conveniences and rated as one of the best camps. The cities in this part of hills are "all up and down". At Deadwood we found the people making great preparations for a grand celebration, "The Days of '76," which was to open the following week and would last for three days. At this celebration they review again the old days of the gold rush, Indian Fights, Gamboling Hells and Dance Halls. It is one of the biggest celebrations in the west and we no doubht missed great sight by not staying to take in the doings. The men there have left their beards grow for several weeks and have them trimmed in real old western style of the days of '76. Along with the long whiskers they wear low derby hats with a gold band, leather boots, heavy trousers and wool shirts. They certainly look wild. The store fronts are all decorated with bark to represent log stores of the old days and as far as possible the old days will be restored. They will have a stage hold-up, fights between the Indians and white settlers, reviews

(Continued on page 8.)

Dr. R. W. Specht

—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

A FEW CAUSES OF

Oil Pumping

AND COMPRESSION LEAKAGE

1. Worn or out or round cylinders.
2. Scored cylinders or pistons.
3. Warped or worn ring grooves.
4. Poorly fitted pistons and rings.
5. Piston pin hole out of round.
6. Poorly aligned rod on piston assembly.
7. Sprung connecting rods.
8. Crank shaft warped or out of true.
9. Worn Bearings.
10. Warped or sticky valves.
11. Improper timing.
12. Leaky cylinder head gaskets.

All this cas be repaired at—

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

Use Quaker State Oil and Ever-ready Gasoline

The Cash Store

—AT DAY'S CASH STORE—

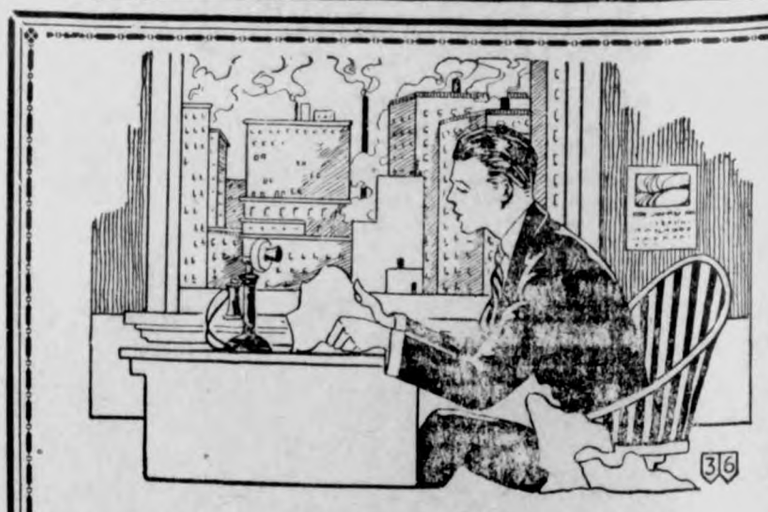
—Beginning August 22nd, and ending August 29, will give 10% DISCOUNT ON ALL SHOES PURCHASED HERE. This will give everyone an opportunity to lay in a supply for Fall and Winter. Get a pair for the Boys and Girls before School starts! .....

Saturday Special

3 CANS PORK & BEANS 25c

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"



Think, Plan and Act

Every man has dreamed of accomplishing great things. Dreaming alone has never brought anyone success.

You must make definite plans. Your desire to accomplish things must be so great that you will have the power and courage to act.

The First National Bank stands ready to cooperate with men of such determination.

First National Bank.
KLEMME, IOWA.

See our Expositon of New Fall Clothes

When You Visit the North Iowa Fair

It's tremendously interesting to select Fall Clothes at this store. You have unlimited selections of the worlds largest fine clothes makers productions. You have the advantage of Pattons' super-value giving—lowest possible prices for finest quality.

Every Man Must in Justice to Himself see Patton's

Wonderful Clothes Values

$30 $40 $50

Society Brand and other Good Makes

Patton Brothers Co.

Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY, IOWA

School Supplies

Only one week more and the school bell will summon the boys and girls to their places in the school room.

Be Prepared! Have everything you need the first day. Come to our store and make your selections. We have the largest and best variety of School Supplies this year we have ever had. Look over the list:—

SCHOOL ROOM SUPPLIES

Ink and Pencil Tablets, all sizes and Prices
Full line of Pencils at all prices
Ink, Pens, Pen Holders, Rulers, etc
Erasers, Note Books, Lunch Boxes
Loose Leaf Note Books, Crayons.
And Many Other Items Here!

NEW THINGS TO WEAR

We always aim to carry a full line of clothing for the school boys and girls and buy only the very latest:

Sweaters, Sport Blouses For Boys and Girls
Full line of Oxfords and Shoes
Hats, Caps, Belts, Shirts for Boys
Sweaters, Hosiery, Dress Goods for Girls

EVERYTHING IN SCHOOL NEEDS AT—

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Wash Day Specials

Now that the busy season of threshing is over is a good time to think of some of the conveniences to make the housewife's work lighter; nothing will help more than a good equipment for Wash Day—make this task a delightful one by consulting us:—

VOSS WASHERS—we have them in Single, and Double Tub, Power and Electric, Hand and Power combination—and say, be sure to see the new Voss Sea Wave Electric, the best machine in the world.

JUST RECEIVED—another big shipment of Boilers, all styles to suit you.

OTHER ITEMS—we carry a full line of Irons, both electric and old style; Wringers, Laundry Baskets, Clothes Lines, Wash Boards, Wash Tubs, Ridjd Ironing Boards, and many other items—all priced right!

Electric Iron Repairing—bring us your iron for cord repairing.

E. F. Jacobs

News of Klemme and Vicinity

WANTED—Plain sewing. Phone 1, Klemme, Iowa. 4tc

Ruth Katter, of Garner, visited at the John Tanner home last week.

Al Emerson is visiting relatives at Cedar Rapids this week.

Remember the big Legion Celebration at Belmond on Wednesday, Aug. 26th. 1tc

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Hesselhuus, of Conrad, Iowa, visited at the Sumner Trumbell home Sunday.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Elder, of Madison, Wis., are visiting with relatives around Klemme this week.

The Klemme Band will play a concert at Garner next Thesday night. Come along and boost for the band.

Ben Katter and Albert Fuller left Friday for an auto trip through the Dakotas to look at land.

The fall term opens Tuesday, September 1. The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. 1tcF

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Elder and daughter, Reva, enjoyed the Mason City fair Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Tanner and grand son, of Kansas are visiting at the home of John Tanner and family, her son.

Walter Ross and family, of Garner, were visiting Klemme friends Saturday evening.

The best line of school supplies you have ever seen will be found at Wilson's Pharmacy. 1tc

Miss Marie Burke, of Garner, was a visitor at the Rev. Guager home last week.

William Gauger returned home Monday from Rudd, where he has spent the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis were visiting friends at Mason City Friday afternoon.

Andrew Wellemeyer and Donald Gibbs were Belmond callers Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McConn, of Clear Lake, visited with Klemme friends Friday.

Mrs. Thompson came from Waterloo Tuesday to look after her hotel property here.

J. C. Pavey and family, of Cedar Rapids, spent Wednesday night of last week at the W. F. Pavey home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yahnke and daughter drove to Minnesota Tuesday for a few days visit.

Four carloads of gypsies were in town last Thursday but Marshall B. Coobs ousted them out of here in jig time.

Buy your school supplies at Wilson's Pharmacy. A full line just received. 1tc

Blanche Gimer returned Saturday from a three weeks visit with relatives at Abbott and Wellsburg.

Voris Livermore, of Palo, Iowa visited at the Tom Blank home Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. C. Christensen, of Boise, Idaho, arrived Tuesday for an extended visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. D. Gimer.

Baseball—Albert Lea and Lone Rock play for a purse of $250.00 at the Legion Celebration on August 26th at Belmond. 1tc

The Iowa Industrial School Band of 42 pieces plays at Belmond for the big Legion Celebration os August 26th, Wednesday. 1tc

"Abe" Lauritsen came home from Fayette the latter part of the week for a few days visit with home folks. He will coach at the Renwick school this year.

BASEBALL—Lone Rock Colored Team vs. Albert Lea, Minn., at Belmond, Wednesday, August 26th. Big Legion & Boy Scout Day. 1tc

Mrs. Bartz and daughter, of Rudd, came today for a visit at the home of her brother, Rev. Gauger and family.

Levi Neese and family were over from Ventura Friday morning. Mr. Neese will be superintendent of the Titonka school this year.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Gimer and little daughter, Gladys, were over Sunday visitors at the A. D. Gimer home in this city.

Miss Carrie Fouts and Mrs. Agnes Crase, of Eldora, Iowa, and Mrs. Lizzie Lathrop, of Boise, Idaho were visiting at the A. D. Gimer home Tuesday of this week.

You can be holding a good position by this time next year. Take a course in Commerce and Finance at The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. 1tfF.

If you want to save money on your Shoe Buying then read Day's ad.

Its money in your pocket if you read Day's ad this week for a real bargain.

There are more opportunities in the business world than any other field of endeavor. Commerce and Finance courses prepare you to accept and hold good positions. The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. 1tcF.

D. D. Ross was in town Monday. Dave is nursing what's left of one finger which he stuck in a grain elevator and the sprocket chewed it up considerable. The injured finger will gradually come out alright and resemble itself again

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith and daughter, Miss Mabel, and Dorance Day, left early Monday morning for an auto trip to Illinois for a visit with relatives for a week or longer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Elder, and daughter, Reva, and Wm. Trafford and family, of Belmond, visited with Rev. and Mrs. Buriff at Goldfield Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Redenour and son, of Dysart, and Mrs. Lincoln, of McPhearson, Kansas, spent a few days at the W. F. Pavey home last week.

LOST—Dark red heifer, wt. 800 lbs., marked left ear. Strayed from J. J. Stille pasture 6 miles west of Klemme. Notify Chas. Ax, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Liebendorfer, and son Robert, of Waterloo, visited at the R. A. Jorgenson home Monday night.

C. G. Wateman and family, W. C. Keraus and family and R. A. Jorgenson and family all returned Saturday night from their trip to the Black Hills and Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Swalve, of Ocheydan, Iowa; Mr. Louie Henschen and family, of Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Will Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright and family, of Britt, were visiting at the Will Wenz home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wiles and Sammy Howard, drove up from Ames yesterday for a visit with Klemme friends.

Miss Cora Gauger, sister of Rev. Gauger, came Thursday from Fairfield for a visit at his home. Miss Gauger is supterintendent of nurses in the hospital there.

A special meeting for young people will be held Sunday evening at 7:45 at the Methodist church, opening with a song service. Topic for the evening: "Young People of Today."

Mrs. C. A. Arnold, Miss Minnie Lenz, and Miss Eva Stokesbary, left yesterday for Watertown, S. Dak., for a visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus and grandsons, Otho and Verle Keraus, spent the week end at Paynseville, Minn., fishing, and where they met the "Black Hills" travelors from Klemme.

Earl Tregilgus, former coach in the Klemme schools, was visiting here Thursday morning. He has been working at Bayside during the summer and this year he will teach in Waterloo.

Walt Bloom came last Friday from Los Angeles, California, for his annual summer visit with Klemme friends. Walt also takes a look after business interests while on his visit here. He is looking fine and says he feels good. Welcome back, Walt!

Chris Blumer has opened a repair shop in the G. P. McCullough barber shop building, and Chris is prepared to do first class work on shoe repairing, tire and tube repairing and other light repair work. He has an ad in this issue which you should read.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gruetzmacher left today on their way to Tekamah, Nebraska, where the former will coach athletics and instruct in music in their high school this year. Mr. Gruetzmacher has made a fine record and the Tekamah school has made an excellent choice.

Fred Ridder and Wm. Bachman returned yesterday from their auto trip through the west. They visited the Bad Lands and Black Hills, the Yellowstone Park and Salt Lake City returning home from their. They report a wonderful trip.

ELL TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU MEETING

There will be a regular monthly Farm Bureau Meeting at the Ell Center School House, Thursday evening, August 27th. A good program has been arranged for, along with moving pictures. The girls sewing club will serve ice cream. Everybody invited.

KLEMME MARKETS

August 19, 1925.

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.31
Shelled Corn	.85—.90
Ear Corn	.85
Rye	.80—.90
Barley	.60
Hogs, top	13.40
Eggs (cash)	.25
Eggs (trade)	.26
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.18
Leghorn Springs	.15
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butterfat	.45
Butter (Creamery)	.45

While it is reported that only four Americans returned incomes of above $5,000,000 for 1924 more than two million returned incomes of $2,000 and that is really what keeps the wheels turning.—Omaha Bee.

NOTIVE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR WITH WILL ANNEXED

State of Iowa, Hancock County, ss.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administrator of the estate of Jacob Blumer deceased, late of Hancock County. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated to the undersigned for allowance and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

A. E. Katter.

Ramsay & Blackstone, Attorney.
Dated August 8, 1925. A 27

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTRIX

State of Iowa, Hancock Co., ss.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN. That the undesigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Executrix of the estate of Earnest H. Lenz, deceased, late of Hancock County. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated to the undersigned for allowance, and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

Minnie Lenz

Dated Aug. 15, 1925 S 3

A POWDER THAT STAYS ON IN HOT WEATHER!

NYLOTIS FACE POWDER DE LUXE

Flesh - White - Brunette

Blends invisibly with the skin. Spreads evenly because of the fine texture. Delightfully perfumed.

75 cents

WILSON'S PHARMACY
Klemme, Iowa

August 20 to 29

THE SALE YOU HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER!

Known as North Iowa's Greatest Sale

A Sale known all over the state of Iowa! Hundreds of shoppers await the opening—hundreds of questions have been asked regarding it during the past few weeks! Join the happy throngs and purchase your Fall requirements during these NINE DAYS!

Compare our Prices! Consider the Quality! Notice the Styles!

We know we will save you money on each item purchased. Every dollars worth of merchandise in the store included in this Sale excepting a few items on which the manufacturers regulate the prices.

READ THE GLOBE-GAZETTE DAILY FOR SPECIAL OFFERINGS.

The Killian Store

MASON CITY'S SHOPPING CENTER

MRS. MORGAN DIES OF SLEEP SICKNESS

Immediate Cause of Death Was Heart Attack Induced by Indigestion.

New York.—Mrs. J. P. Morgan, wife of the banker, died in her home near Glen Cove, L. I. She had been ill two months, suffering from lethargic encephalitis, a form of sleeping sickness—a strange and baffling ailment. The immediate cause of death was a heart collapse induced by an attack of indigestion.

Mr. Morgan was at his office in Manhattan when the unexpected end came. He had gone to the city entirely hopeful of her continued improvement. He reached the Glen Cove home three hours later. Only a nurse was at the bedside when death came during the sleep, into which Mrs. Morgan passed soon after the illness developed in church on June 14. She has been in a continuous coma for more than nine weeks, and has been fed artificially.

No member of her family was at home when the end came. Mrs. Morgan, member of a well-known Boston family, had been married to Mr. Morgan for 35 years. There are two sons and two daughters.

Duchess, Former U. S. Girl, Fights Annulment Suit

London.—Solicitors for the duchess of Manchester said that she would defend herself against an action filed recently by the duke of Manchester in France to annul his marriage. The duchess before her marriage in 1900 was Miss Helena Zimmerman of Cincinnati, Ohio. The duke of Manchester's divorce action, alleging desertion and incompatibility, was filed last month at Nice, France. Papers were served upon the duchess in Paris about a month ago. The duchess in 1915 inherited the $10,000,000 estate of her father, Eugene Zimmerman.

Cinderella's Romance at End; Adoption Is Void

New York.—The meteoric rise of Mary Spas, daughter of Bohemian immigrants, from a humble home in Astoria, L. I., to the luxuries of New York life ended when her adoption by Edward W. Browning, wealthy realtor of this city, was declared null and void by Surrogate Daniel Noble.

After the proceedings Mary left the court accompanied by her parents and Mr. Browning, who chatted pleasantly with her.

Rumors that he planned to wed his late Cinderella were met with stormy denials.

Kentucky Woman New Head of Eastern Star

Toronto.—By a unanimous vote Mrs. Clara L. Henrich of Covington, Ky., was elected most worshipful grand matron of the grand chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star for the next three years. Other officers elected were: Most worshipful grand patron, J. Ernest Teare of Cleveland, Ohio; right worshipful grand secretary, re-elected, Mrs. Minnie F. Keyes of Washington, D. C.; right worshipful grand conductress, Mrs. Amalia Huehl of Chicago.

Chapman Gang Kills Two of Leader's Betrayers

Muncie, Ind.—Ben Hance, a farmer, and his wife, at whose farm near here Gerald Chapman, notorious robber and convicted murderer, and his pal, George Anderson spent several months previous to Chapman's arrest here last January, were shot to death in their automobile on the main highway five miles southwest of Muncie. Hance lived long enough to tell the police that "Charles Wolfe and Dutch Anderson got me."

Phillips Oil Co. Sold to Standard for $20,000,000

Tulsa, Okla.—The Tulsa World says that semi-official information has been received to the effect that the first phase of the sale of the Waite Phillips Oil company to the Dixie Oil company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil company of Indiana has been consummated. The consideration was reported to be $20,000,000, of which $15,000,000 is to be cash and the remainder in securities. One report, however, had the sum offered at $30,000,000.

Two Given Ten to Fifty Years for Pickford Plot

Los Angeles, Cal.—Ten to fifty years' sentence in San Quentin penitentiary were imposed on Charles Z. Stevens and Claude Arthur Holcomb, found guilty by a jury of criminal conspiracy to kidnap Mary Pickford. A third defendant, Adrian J. Wood, was acquitted.

$327,894 Tax Returned

New York.—Under an order issued here New York state will reimburse the estate of the late William G. Rockefeller to the extent of $327,894, covering taxes paid on property in other states.

Bandits Get $87,478 Pay Roll

Winnipeg, Man.—Five robbers held up the cashier of the Winnipeg Street Railway company in broad daylight and escaped with $87,478.

PRESIDENT VISITS AT FATHER'S HOME

Coolidge Drives Through Rain —Sees Son at Camp.

Plymouth, Vt.—After an all-day auto ride, part of it through a blinding rainstorm, President Coolidge arrived at the old Plymouth, Vt., home of his family late in the afternoon to spend a few days with his father, Col. John Coolidge.

Colonel Coolidge, who a month ago was so seriously ill that the President raced by special train to his bedside, was dressed in his Sunday best, waiting to greet his son and Mrs. Coolidge. He seemed much improved.

The President, his father and Mrs. Coolidge then rode over to the graveyard on the side of the hill a few hundred yards from the house, where Calvin, Jr., is buried.

On their way from White Court to Plymouth the President and Mrs. Coolidge stopped at Camp Devens, Mass., where they were met by their son, John, wearing the chevrons of a citizens' training camp corporal. John was standing with Brig. Gen. Malvern Hill Barnum, commandant of the camp, when the President drove up.

Alighting, Mrs. Coolidge kissed her son and then inspected him carefully. She was heard to remark that she hoped he would not be given a short, military haircut.

Scott Divorce Case Ends; Both Sides Deny Charges

Alpena, Mich.—The sensational divorce trial of Congressman Frank D. Scott and his wife, Edna James Scott, was terminated here suddenly, when Circuit Judge Frank Emerick stopped the closing argument of Irvin S. Canfield, counsel for Scott, and gave him 20 days in which to submit further pleas in the form of a written brief of the mass of testimony.

The lawyers, in their final pleas, went briefly over the testimony which brought the names of dry congressmen and their wives into drinking parties in Washington's fashionable hotels and on a junket on the steamer Cristobal to Panama.

Attorney Canfield declared that, under the law, Congressman Scott is entitled to a divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

Mrs. Scott's lawyer denied all the allegations of the congressman.

Governors Urge Pardon for Warren T. McCray

Washington. — Governors of 14 states, seven of the jurors who convicted him and 30 of the bankers who were victims of his fraudulent transactions, joined with others in appealing to Attorney General Sargent for his recommendation of a pardon for Warren T. McCray, former governor of Indiana. The attorney general appeared to be deeply impressed by the record of McCray's long career of service in the state of Indiana.

Score Injured as Mob Battles Ku Klux Klan

Reading, Mass.—The arrival of a strong force of state troopers abruptly ended a riot between 400 Ku Klux klansmen and an equal number of anti-klansmen here in which a score of men were injured when rocks and clubs were used and tear gas bombs were hurled into the klan's meeting field. The fighting started when the klan gathering began to break up. Klansmen who attempted to leave the field were stoned. A score of persons were injured.

Marshal Petain to Head French Army in Morocco

Paris.—Marshal Petain will be sent to Morocco. The French army of 200,000 men there is being reorganized and the newspapers announce Marshal Petain will direct the offensive against Abd-el-Krim, which will open in September.

Marshal Petain, who is commander in chief of the French army, will be in supreme command.

French Troops Drive Druses From Suieda

London.—French troops have driven the besieging Druses from Suieda, in Syria, and now are in complete possession of the city, according to a dispatch to the Times from Jerusalem. Noncombatant Druses are fleeing to escape bombing attacks on their villages.

Indiana G. O. P. Meets

West Baden, Ind.—Plans for the fall municipal elections and the senatorial primaries in the spring were drawn when 500 Indiana Republicans met in a party conference here. Senator Watson will seek to retain his place as senior senator from the State.

Seeks Big Loan in Europe

New York.—J. Hamilton Lewis, former United States senator from Illinois, sailed from here in connection with a proposed $100,000,000 American loan to an unnamed European country.

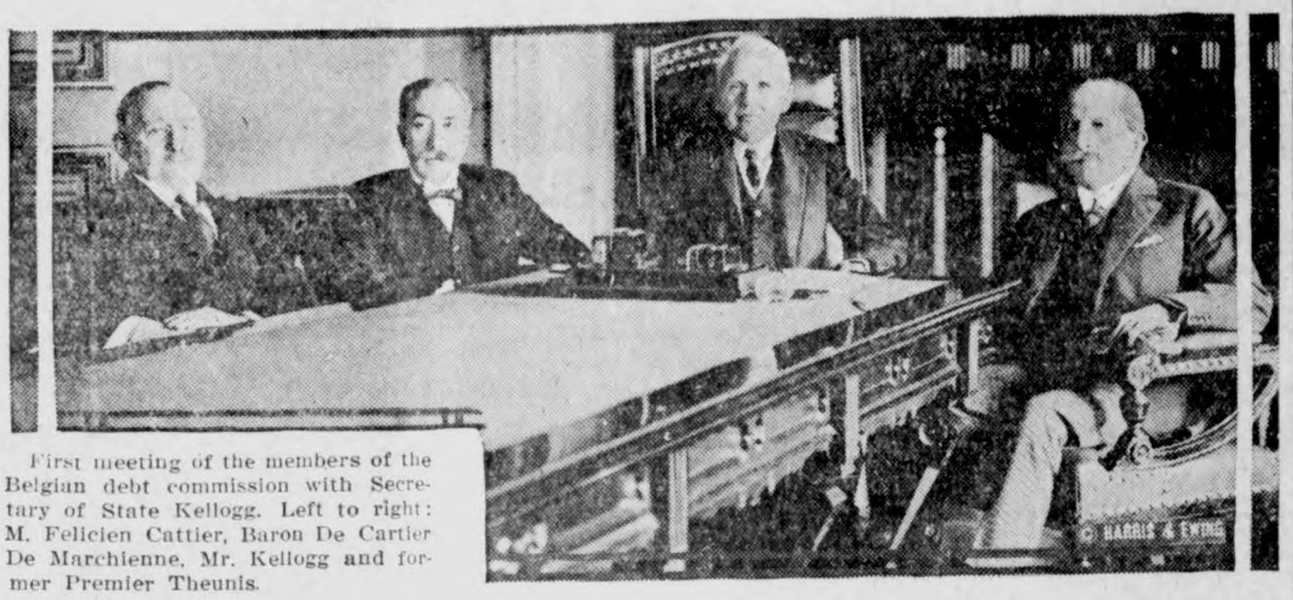
Two Italian Aviators Killed

Rome.—Two army aviators, Lieut. Sabato and his mechanician, were killed when their machine crashed and burst into flames on the beach at Ostia, near Rome.

Artificial Lake Will Engulf This Village

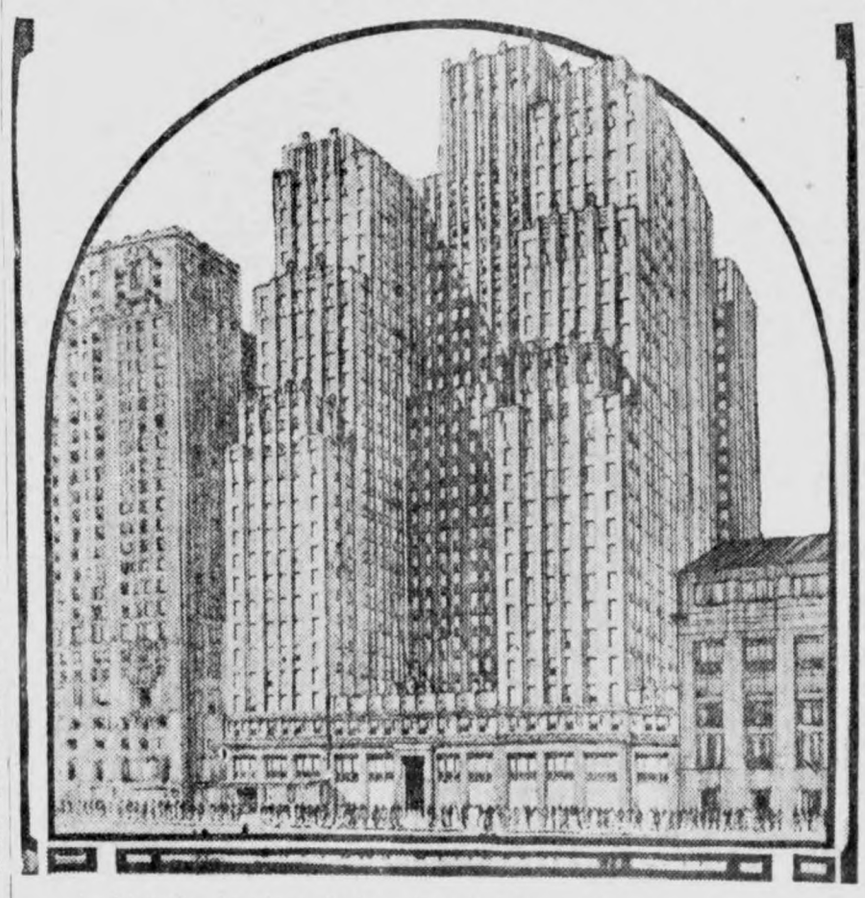
The little village of Gilboa, N. Y., once a prosperous farming center, soon will be the bottom of an artificial lake 150 feet deep, five miles long, and holding 22,000,000,000 gallons of water for the supply of New York City. The town dates from 1760. The waters of Schoharie creek, blocked by an enormous dam, will be carried from this artificial lake through eighteen miles of tunnel to feed the Ashokan reservoir. This view of Gilboa is from the top of the dam.

Mr. Kellogg and Belgium's Debt Commissioners



First meeting of the members of the Belgian debt commission with Secretary of State Kellogg. Left to right: M. Felicien Cattier, Baron De Cartier De Marchienne, Mr. Kellogg and former Premier Theunis.

Will Be Largest of Its Kind



Architect's drawing of the office building which is to be erected on Lexington avenue north of Forty-third street, New York city, and which will be the largest structure of its kind in the world. It will be thirty stories in height.

Not So Bad, Says This Midshipman

Twelve hundred midshipmen, making their annual cruise, are visiting Puget Sound and the cities thereon, and this picture of one of them who was captured ashore and rushed to a garden party in Seattle indicates that they are having a rather pleasant time.

NEW QUETZAL COINS

The Guatemalan government has just received the first shipment of quetzals, the national coin comparable to the American dollar, from the design made by an American artist, W. Clark Noble of Washington. The central motif of the design is the quetzal, Guatemala's national bird, a beautiful, long-tailed, brilliant bird which never lives in captivity.

SHE IS TEST GIRL

Barbara Manners is one of the most photographed girls in Hollywood, but you never see her picture on the screen. She works opposite many of the stars, but only for make-up tests on the sets.

COOLIDGE WILL FIX BELGIAN DEBT PLAN

Secretary Mellon to Ask President to End Funding Deadlock.

Washington.—After another conference between the Belgians and Americans negotiations for funding the Belgian war debt were halted temporarily while the visiting plenipotentiaries appealed to their home government for further instructions.

The request of the Belgians for time to get authority from Brussels to meet demands laid down by the American commissioners was regarded here as the most optimistic sign that the negotiations are to be ended successfully and quickly.

Secretary Mellon, chairman of the American commission, arranged a conference with President Coolidge.

It is expected that the President will be called on to decide the final terms of settlement that can be offered to Belgium. If greater concessions than those already made are to be proposed it will be necessary for Mr. Coolidge to assume the responsibility, it was reported, since Secretary Mellon feels that the commission has gone as far as it can without obtaining the President's sanction.

When the two commissions met, the Belgians asked leave to withdraw temporarily while they communicated with their government. This was agreed to by the Americans.

The communication addressed by the delegation to its government, it was indicated, dealt with certain terms proposed by the American commission. No details were made public. It was believed, however, that the note referred to the length of a possible moratorium on principal and interest, as well as to the rate of interest and length of time for payment.

Four-Cornered Fight for Senator in Wisconsin

Oshkosh, Wis.—Roy P. Wilcox of Eau Claire was selected on the fourth ballot to lead the Republican Stalwarts' fight on the LaFollette forces in the special senatorial primary election.

Former Gov. Francis E. McGovern and Arthur R. Barry, both of Milwaukee, also will make the race in the primary, making it a four-cornered battle, with the field against Bob LaFollette, Jr. The primary probably will be held in the latter part of September.

Miners Would Link Hard and Soft Coal in Contract

Atlantic City, N. J.—It developed that the policy of the United Mine Workers of America is to demand that any government intervention in the hard coal industry take into account the re-establishment of the Jacksonville agreement on soft coal. From now on, it was said, wage contract conditions affecting 158,000 hard coal miners and 500,000 soft coal miners must be considered jointly by anthracite mediators.

President of Turkey Divorces His Wife

Constantinople. — Mustapha Kemal Pasha, President of the Turkish republic, has divorced his wife, Latife Hanoum.

The divorce is attributed in some quarters to a tendency to masterfulness on the part of Mme. Latife to her desire to mix in matters which her husband considered outside her sphere.

Better Trade Reported Near for United States

Chicago.—Better business and more stable business for the United States in general and for the great Middle West in particular was the keynote sounded at the dinner and entertainment tendered 1,500 visiting members of the Interstate Merchants' convention at Rainbo Garden by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Pola Negri Pays $57,000 Fine, Duties on Jewels

New York.—The sum of $57,000 was deposited with the customs authorities by Pola Negri, screen actress, in full payment of the fines, penalties and duties imposed on undeclared jewelry, which was seized when Miss Negri arrived on the Argentina on May 2.

Germany Asks U. S. to Return War Property

Washington.—Count Ago von Rantzan, German ambassador to the United States, has delivered to Secretary of State Kellogg a note from the Berlin government formally asking the return of seized German properties now in the custody of the alien property custodian.

Britain Licenses Indian Radio

London.—The Indo Radio Telegraph company has been granted a license for the erection of a station in India for communication with Britain. The usual electrical interference characteristic of India makes the project experimental.

Indianapolis Gets Milk Show

Indianapolis.—The convention of the dry milk manufacturers of the United States and Canada will be held here beginning October 15.

Many Aliens in U. S. Illegally

Law, if Enforced, Would Deport Many Now Established in American Life.

Washington.—If the present immigration law should be enforced strictly 2,000,000 people of foreign birth now living in the United States would be deported. This discovery is one of several startling things that have come to the attention of Harry E. Hull, the new commissioner general of immigration, since he took office on May 16. Within a very few weeks Commissioner Hull has found that the immigration service of the United States has before it one of the hardest sets of problems confronting any branch of the federal government.

Many of the 2,000,000 aliens who are here without legal right have taken root in the economic life of the country and established themselves as useful members of their communities. Some of them have been in America for twenty years or longer. The letter of the law would send them away because they would be unable, if called upon, to show satisfactory proof that they entered the country in the manner specified by rule. Many of them think that they did so enter, but the immigration authorities run across people every day who lack the proof, and officialdom is required continually to answer the baffling question of what to do with them.

No Right to Return.

Some of these questionable residents have risen to be important business men; some have won prominence in other ways. Only the other day a man classed as a "big man" in the business circles of an Eastern city sought permission to go abroad and return. He had been in the country about fifteen years. Investigation disclosed that, like many another newcomer, he had changed his occupation after getting here. He came on a visit and then went into business. To his astonishment he found himself virtually a man without a country when a return certificate was withheld from him.

Many other cases of the sort crop up daily at Washington; cases of people who came here as students or tourists and afterward changed their status without duly notifying the authorities a thing strictly against the law. A large part of the doubtful 2,000,000 drifted across the Canadian border and grew up here. Among them are many people from our first-cousin countries Great Britain and Ireland; they are established in great numbers in upper New York state and in New England. They have dwelt so long in their adopted land that they have become well absorbed and are regarded by their neighbors as bona-fide citizens.

They regard themselves in that light, indeed, but when they try to prove their right to be so looked upon they find that they have failed to provide themselves with proper records, or that they have lost what records they had. If they leave the country they must run the risk of returning outside the ever-full quotas from their native lands and of being rejected at the gate. Consuls in Europe, who have authority over the issuing of passports, have learned from experience to be slow in granting papers in excess of the quotas and without the necessary certificates brought by the applicants from this side of the ocean.

Thousands Here Illegally.

This problem of the 2,000,000 finds its origin in past practices. The first restriction law of 1921 reversed entirely the country's open-door policy in immigration. Naturally this about face created a situation that could not be foreseen. The problem involves more people than any other now before the immigration service, and around it most of the other problems of the service revolve in some way.

According to the 1920 census the number of aliens in the United States over twenty-one years of age then was 4,522,350. The number of aliens under twenty-one years of age was 876,246. The number of aliens over twenty-one years of age who had taken out first papers was 1,198,588. The number under twenty-one who had taken out first papers was 24,902.

The total foreign-born population of the United States was 13,920,692. Of the foregoing those naturalized were 6,493,088. A total of 1,223,490 have declared their intention to become citizens, and all told those who are still aliens are 5,398,605. A total of 805,509 may or may not have been declarants. The estimate of 2,000,000 unable to prove their entry was made by officials after examining the manner in which records have been presented.

The practice of the immigration authorities when an application to go abroad is made is to ask that the applicant prove legal entry. When he is unable to do so the officials are unable to certify thereto and to give him the permit to re-enter. If he goes abroad it is at the great risk of staying there.

The situation has been found to work hardships, one of the worst being the separating of families. Some men have gone abroad thinking the necessary card would follow them. Meanwhile the bureau has been unable, after searching the records, to discover the proof and the card has been held up.

Talk of Blanket Relief.

If all of the 2,000,000 were desirable as citizens it would be quite easy to solve the problem, say, through an act of congress admitting them into citizenship. Unless there is some administrative remedy congress will have to provide some sort of relief. Commissioner Hull believes the importance of the matter has been little understood by the public at large, while congress does not seem to have grasped it, records of debates showing little or no attention paid to it by the lawmakers.

It is pointed out that any blanket law that congress might pass covering the 2,000,000 would admit many as citizens who could not prove their worthiness, physical, mental or moral, to become Americans, and that the restrictive tests now imposed on applicants coming to us under the quota law would thus be nullified to a serious extent.

The administrators of the law have undertaken to treat the trouble with the greatest liberality and with the result that so far none of this class has been deported pending formulation of a definite policy. Mr. Hull intends, as far as permissible, to take the humane view and treat each case on its merits.

HALEY TAKES A BRIDE

James M. Haley, handsome secret service man who has guarded Mrs. Coolidge ever since she became the first lady of the land, joined the ranks of the benedicts shortly before the departure of President and Mrs. Coolidge for their summer vacation at Swampscott, when he married Miss Evangeline J. Holler. The bride, who is a native of Washington, has traveled extensively and was educated abroad.

618 Homes Afire Daily; Blaze Every 3 Minutes

New York.—Fire in America is attacking 618 homes every day of the year. That is the average for the last five years, as made public by the national board of fire underwriters, through its actuarial bureau, which points out, further, that the daily rate of 618 dwelling-house blazes means a residential fire every three minutes.

Listed as the total loss for 1919-1923 is the sum of $322,310,604. This is money enough to build homes, at $10,000 each, to house comfortably the entire population of a city the size of Bridgeport, Conn. Moreover, the loss has been growing rapidly from year to year, 1923 showing about twice that of 1919.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

CAREER OF BOOTH, UTAH'S COMMANDER

To his long and successful work in the American Legion, John E. Booth, commander of the department of Utah, has brought the energy, ability and determined effort which has made his busines career as a self-made man an outstanding success. He is a stalwart supporter of the principles of the Legion and has time and again proved himself a true friend of the service man.

As a boy he worked on the farms and as water boy when the first city water works was installed in his home town of Spanish Fork. He helped to lay the first cement sidewalk in Spanish Fork. With the money that he saved from his work he attended the grammar schools. By working in a drug store after school hours he made his way through high school. He graduated in pharmacy at the University of California, went into the drug business, and is today owner of one of the finest drug stores in the state.

Mr. Booth married Miss Beatrice J. McKell in 1917. Mrs. Booth came from a family of pioneers. When her husband went into the service she ran the drug store herself.

Commander Booth first served as a private in the infantry. He was transferred to the field artillery and then was made a medical sergeant. He was discharged January 21, 1919.

Before a post of the Legion was organized at Spanish Fork, Mr. Booth took the initiative in seeing that veterans were given military funerals. He collected money for floral pieces and borowed guns to fire a military salute. On March 7, 1922, he was one of the leaders in a meeting of service men in Spanish Fork at which a post was organized. For three terms he served the post as its commander. It has carried on a highly successful program of activities and has won a place for itself as one of the liveliest and best in Utah.

John E. Booth.

Mr. Booth has been a delegate to department and national conventions. He was elected national executive committeeman for 1922-1923. He was instrumental in organizing the first county council of the Legion in the state. Under his direction the first Legion playground in Utah was built at Spanish Fork in the spring of 1923.

Through Mr. Booth's efforts Spanish Fork was chosen as the department convention city for 1924. He was general chairman for the convention. At the closing session of the convention he was elected department commander in recognition of his work in making the conclave a success. He was chairman of the Utah delegation to the St. Paul national convention and is now a member of the national Americanism commission, appointed for a three-year term expiring in 1927.

Can-Picking Contest

And now they have discovered a new champion. This time the distinction goes to Noah Bennett of Belle Plaine, Iowa, "champion can-picker-up," who won first prize in a can-picking contest held at Belle Plaine under the auspices of the American Legion there in connection with clean-up week. Noah's genius in exposing the slinking can was positively uncanny; candidly, he rounded up 5,384 cans between one and six o'clock on a Saturday afternoon. Local merchants donated prizes for the contest. A hundred thousand old cans were picked up by school boys during the afternoon.

School Medal Award

Encouragement and reward to the girlhood of the nation who strive for the qualities of scholarship, honor, service, courage, leadership and Americanism is being offered by the American Legion Auxiliary through its national school medal award for schoolgirls. The school medal award plan was recently adopted as a part of their national Americanism program. The plan is to award a medal to one girl who leads in the above qualities in every eighth grade in every community throughout the nation.

Community Building

Every Citizen Owes Duty to Community

It is a duty of great importance for every citizen of city or town to give his unlimited aid in improving his community, Rosabelle Houston writes, in Grit.

A well-appearing city not only voices the lives and characters of a mass, but of separate individuals. Every citizen should make it his duty to not only improve his own surroundings, but to improve those of his neighbor by suggestion and helpful aid.

By experience many people have found that beauty and order draw out the best in them and make them aspire to do higher, more noble deeds. A mean, narrow mind cannot long exist in a location where beauty, order and peace are a law and a religion. The far-seeing, thinking parent should see that the growing minds of the home, from babyhood, receive the benefits derived from order and cleanliness. If all the parents of our country would only endeavor to set an example of cleanliness and neatness before the eyes of their children, the school and social organizations would not be confronted with the problems that they are today.

Mistake to Postpone Proper Use of Paint

Although paint improves appearances, and many people paint buildings for that reason alone, the chief purpose of painting should be to preserve buildings, fences and implements from the effects of the weather. The cheapest way to keep buildings in good condition is to paint them at regular periods. The farmer who does his own painting has a decided advantage if he has a knowledge of the different kinds of paints and their adaptability. He knows how to mix paint, prepare the surface to be painted, how to put the paint on, and he knows the same about whitewashing. Farmers nowadays do not put as much thought on these things as they used to, especially in some sections of the country. Painting should not be put off too long, because if the wood has begun to rot, or the iron has begun to rust, the rotting and rusting will continue after the paint is applied. Besides, the longer painting is put off the harder and more expensive it becomes.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Protection From Fire

Wood frame is inflammable. Hence measures should be taken—not to prevent its use—but so to protect it that the fire is resisted. There are important points in every rsidence where fires are likely to start. These, too, should be made able to resist the greedy tongues of flame. Unless a home becomes safe in itself it becomes a menace to all others around it. In cities of any size the houses and apartments are building closer to one another. Compactness and space conservation is the thing. But compactness increases risk and the public must be made to realize the dangers.

Great conflagrations can show them the way, but the losses are too appalling for the example. Exposition of facts is the real road to the mind of the great mass of citizens. Fire prevention societies, therefore, can do no greater service than to spread their valuable propaganda to architects and builders—the men who hold the leash to the fire risks in buildings. These men, with arguments given them by specialists, will be only too glad to make the houses they design and build safe for home owner and community.

Economy Worth While

Saving for a purpose is particularly stimulating, and above all when the saving is toward a home. For years we have been saying, save, save, save. Such admonition has little effect unless back of it there is a clearly defined purpose. We do our best only when we are saving for something definite. The object must be something worth while; it must have a strong appeal and it must be something possible of attainment.

Owning a home has a tremendous appeal to most men and women, it is something most of them can attain, and might be more stressed as the end of saving by a greater number of building and loan associations.—Exchange.

Applies to All Towns

Making a Bigger and Better Omaha is not the work for committees or groups. It is the work of every citizen. If you have an idea that there is something the matter with Omaha, forget it long enough to investigate yourself. You may make the astonishing discovery that the matter is with yourself, not the city.—Omaha Bee.

Country's Forest Area

The present area of forest land in the United States is approximately 469,500,000 acres, consisting of 138,100,000 acres of virgin forest and 331,400,000 acres of outdoor and burned-over forest.

Immense Electric Fan

The largest electric fan in the world is at present being erected on one of the Rand gold mines. Thirty feet in diameter, it will carry eight blades, each ten feet across.

SUFFERED AFTER BIRTH OF BABY

Trouble Caused by Getting Up Too Soon. Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Talcville, New York. —"I thought it would interest you to know what benefit I have derived from taking your medicine. A few days after the birth of my third child I got up too quick. Then just before my fifth child was born I had inflammation of the bladder and displacement. Seeing your advertisement in a Liverpool (England) paper I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and that was the best confinement I had. Whenever I feel rundown I always take the Vegetable Compound as a tonic. We have just removed from Brockville (Canada) so I was pleased when the store ordered the medicine for me and I got it today. I would not be without it for any price and I recommend it to ladies around here because I feel so sure it will benefit any woman who takes it."—Mrs. AGNES WIGNALL, Talcville, New York.

Women can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve them from ills peculiar to their sex. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Simple Life for Them

Tom and Mary had lived in a hotel for so long, they were both ready to lead a simple, quiet life. One evening, after donning a sleeveless dress, short coat and black tie, the two started down to the dining room for the usual evening meal.

Mary looked at Tom and sheepishly said: "Honey, I'm ready to put on an old-fashioned house dress and bake biscuits."

"And I'm ready to don overalls and eat them," came Tom's reply.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Cure for Insomnia

An inventor of Macclesfield, England, is said to have perfected a machine that will cure insomnia. The machine is placed alongside of the bed and emits light rays of 12 different colors, flashing at prearranged periods. The effect of this combination of colors and periodicity is intended to be soothing and to induce sleep. The color flashes at such regular intervals have a peculiar effect upon the retina, it is said. The inventor maintains he has cured several stubborn cases of sleeplessness in ten to fifteen minutes.

Genuine BAYER

ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer"-Insist!

For Colds Headache
Pain Lumbago
Neuralgia Rheumatism

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Real Secrecy

Peg—I'm engaged. Don't tell.

Mary—Marvelous. Who shan't I tell first?—Cornell Widow.

Don't cast pearls before swine. They are not fattening.

Quick Safe Relief

CORNS

In one minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns At drug and shoe stores.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on - the pain is gone

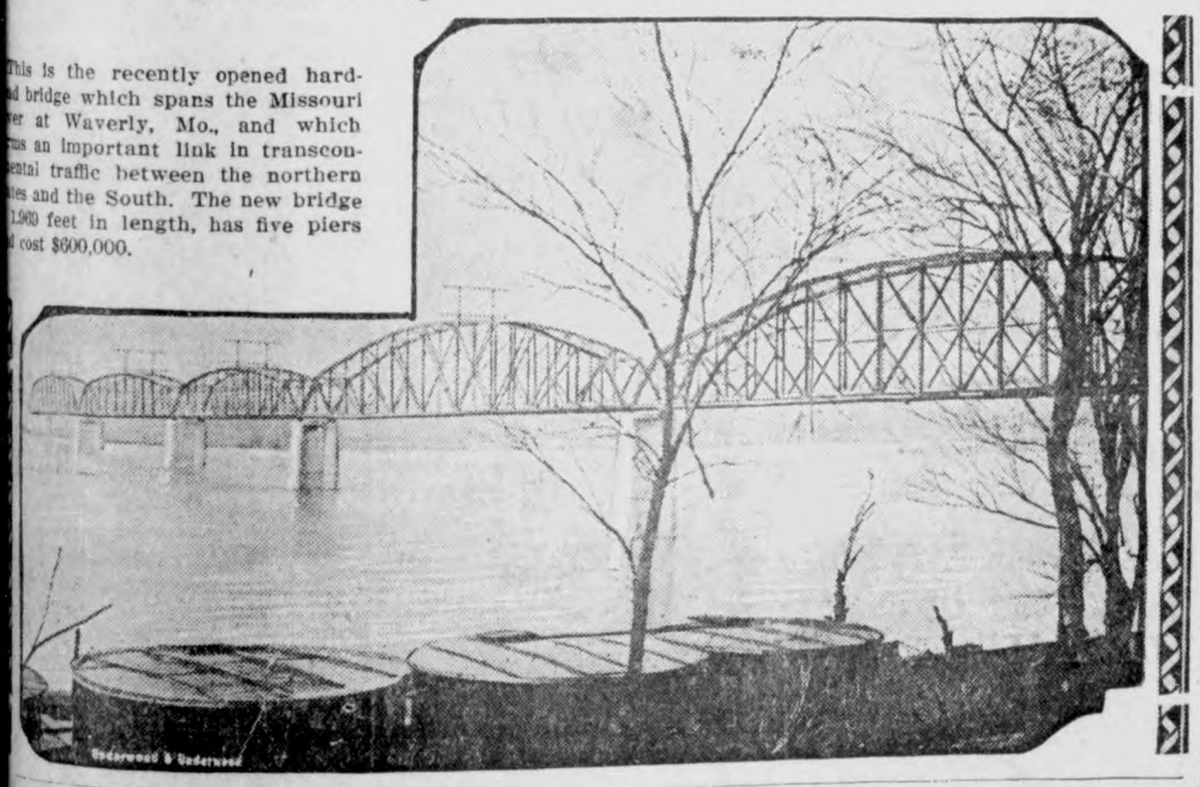
Green's August Flower

for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver

Successful for 59 years. 30c and 90c bottles—ALL DRUGGISTS

Newest Bridge Across the Missouri River

This is the recently opened hard-ed bridge which spans the Missouri er at Waverly, Mo., and which ms an important link in transcon-ental traffic between the northern tes and the South. The new bridge 1,980 feet in length, has five piers d cost $600,000.



Underwood & Underwood

NATIVES TRADE SACRED RELICS FOR TICKET TO THE MOVIES

Children of Guam Are Keen for Wild West Dramas and Bathing Girl Pictures.

Honolulu.—An ancient sacred relic in exchange for a ticket to the movies the latest tale to float up from the mysterious islands of the South seas. Here a group of scientists is attempting to solve the problem of the origin of the Polynesian race.

It is told in a letter from one of the workers attached to the Bishop museum, Honolulu, and concerns Guam and the Chamorro children on the sun-baked shores of that island who will hunt assiduously for bits of weathered stone in order to enjoy viewing cowboys, train wrecks, shooting capes and bathing girls that appear on the Guam screen as representing some far-away and unknown country, America.

The search is "hazardous" for the children because of the tradition that the strangely shaped stones which are in such great demand at the Agana "movie-house" belonged once to the "Taotao-Mona," or the "people of before time," who are feared so greatly that none of the adult residents dare touch the relics.

The stones are the implements and weapons left by the former inhabitants of the Marianas, who may have belonged to a race antedating the Polynesians, the scientists say.

Many varieties of the objects are necessary for the study of the habits and customs of the race, and the Bishop museum expedition has contracted with the Agana motion-picture theater in one of the strangest compacts ever signed.

Its terms provide for an exchange of the relics for free admission to the show, the museum to redeem the stones, most of which have come from "tabu" or forbidden spots. They will be studied carefully and perhaps in them will be found the clue that will lead to the origin of the Polynesian peoples.

Die in Vat

New Albany, Ind.—Three men, one white and two negroes, overcome by poisonous fumes of a leather tanning vat at the plant of the George Moser Leather company here, fell into the mixture and died before aid could reach them. The dead were: Frank Ang, forty-six, foreman; Horace Russ, sixty, negro, fireman and vat guard; James Russell, thirty-eight, negro, laborer.

Shed Hose in Heat

London.—When the first heat wave of the year arrived, a feature of the day was the large number of girls walking through the streets without stockings.

There were so many that after a few hours they attracted scarcely any attention.

A DELIGHTFUL TOUR THRU THE THE BLACK HILLS

(Continued from page 4.)

of the massacre, gold rushing, bad men, wild women, etc. Old "Deadwood Dick" is still alive and will be the principal character and "big boy" of the celebration.

Noted Characters Here in '76

More than any other place Deadwood breathes the atmosphere which is associated with the life of the Hills. In the latter seventies it was the rendezvous of the mining interests and continued the chief commercial center for a number of years. The cowboys found it close enough so that they might gather there to break the monotony of riding the range. The miners went there to dissipate their clean-up and engineers and scientists came from across the seven seas in quest of the yellow fold found near there. It was here that gold was found in the placer beds in Whitewood Creek a mile above Deadwood which brot a wild rush of noted characters. It was near Deadwood that Preacher Smith was found massacred by the Indians, lying dead, with a bible clutched to his breast at the spot where today a monument has been erected to his memory. There were noted characters in Deadwood in the old days and each one's life would furnish reading matter of rare interest for a book. "Teddy" Roosevelt used to like to wander through this country and a monument has also been erected to him on a hillside. Deadwood has many historical features and stories and is one of the most interesting places in the Hills.

Largest Gold Mines In World

Saturday morning we drove over to Lead, about three miles from Deadwood to see the largest gold mine in the world. The Homestake Mine, located at Lead, is the largest gold mine in the world. The mine covers two large hills and the digging is alternated from one hill to the other, there being complete plants for each hill. At this time 4,000 tons of ore is handled, making a daily output of $18,000,000 worth of precious metal or approximately $8,000,000 a year. The output has grown from $1,200,000 in '76 to the above amount at this time. The outlay of capital in improvements and machinery represents $25,000,000 in cash, all but $200,000 of which has been earned from operations. The $200000 sum was the original capital investment of the company.

Gold Bricks Worth $30,000 Each

When the gold has been taken from the ore and refined it is made up in bricks about te size of anordinary building brick and weighs 112 pounds, appothecaries weight, and is valued at $30,000. Shipments of these bricks are made to the U. S. Mints three times each month, on the 1st, 11th, and 21st, at which time five bricks are shipped. Going back to the mines we stated they were located on two hills opposite from each other and these hills are connected with shafts at the 950, 1,780 and 2130 foot levels. The deepest level is worked at 2350 feet. The levels are reached from two shafts in each mine; one shaft for the manlift and the other for the ore lifts. It takes less than one minute to lower the men to the deepest level from the plant above. The cages are controlled by a huge steam engine, the engineer working from signals from the men below and has indicators on the engine to show just where the cage is located in the shaft. Saftey devices operate in case the lowering cable should break or in event that the engineer should misunderstand a signal so there is little danger of of anything happening to the men being lowered or raised or lowered to the surface. Thirty-two men are taken down in the cage at a time and the cable belt with which they are lowered has a breaking strength of 300 tons. The ore lift brings up seven tons of rock at a time, and as one lift goes down the other comes up, so that the ore is almost continually pouring out into the hopper and conveyed to the stampers where the ore is ground up into fine sand, washed and separated. The best ore yields only about $4.50 per ton. The ore is of a low quality, but when when handled on such a large scale it makes a paying proposition. There are, or rather were, a number of small mines thruout this section, but most of them have been bought out by the Homestake company. Millions of tons of rock are removed from one hill in the northwest part of the city adjacent to the left mine and this has caused that part of the city to fall out of plumb and level. Several buildings have already been condemned in that section as there seems to be a slow landslide and this crumbles the walls. It is also necessary to move one of the mines and entire plants to a new location, work being now well under way.

Camping At Spearfish

Leaving Lead and the mines, we drove to Spearfish to camp the rest of the day and over Sunday. Spearfish also has an excellent tourist camp located against a bluff with a swift mountain stream at the edge of the camp. A community house has recently been built at the camp and this provides modern conveniences, fine shower baths, rest room and reading room, a laundry with tubs and hot and cold water. Just south of the camp is a state trout hatchery and millions of trout are raised there each year. We saw trout that were a couple of feet long to tiny trout like minnows. Spearfish is also the gateway to Spearfish Canyon, one of the wonders of the hills. This trip should be made by train as the road is under construction and will be completed next year. Trout fishing is supposed to be good in the vicinity of Spearfish but for we Iowans the sport failed to mature to our expectations. We drove a short distance into Wyoming where trout were said to be hungry. After a hard day's work "Bill" and Clarence each got one. We didn't even get a smell. We saw plenty in the creek, but they must have left their false teeth at home as tey wouldn't bite for us. We finally got sore at them and ousted 'em out with the butt end of he fish pole and how they did hike up the stream The visit to Spearfish concluded out trip through the hills and Monday we were homeward bound, via Belle Fourche.

Largest Earth Dam At Belle Fourche

At this place, about thirteen miles east of the city is locatet the largest earth dam in the world. The dam is constructed between two hills and hills and is over a mile long, is constructed of dirt, faced with concrete. The dam is a government project and is used for irrigation purposes and takes care of thousands of acres of land. It is so located that at no branch is it necessary to pump the water to another level as it all feeds from gravity. In this region is found some wonderful wheat and alfalfa crops. Here also is located a government experiment farm for testing soils and experimenting wtih crops.

Prairie Dog Towns and Owls

Driving on east from Belle Fourche we soon came to the country where irrigation had not been used and this section is practically worth less. We drove for miles and miles without seeing a stick. We would look at our road map and would see a town some distance away and when we got to the "town" all it would be is a little old shack with a sign above it stating the name of the town and that the shack was the post office, grocery store, hardware store and filling station combined. We passed many such towns and found them all the way through the Cheyenne Reservation. This section was the worst we had ever dreamed of seeing. Nothing but waste land, slightly rolling, some stony and rough, and miles upon miles of prairie dog towns as far as one could see. They say that the prarie dogs, owls and rattle snakes live in the same hole. We saw the dogs and the owls, but no rattlers. The prairie dogs resemble a small dog, they bark like a puppy and wag their tails. We took a pot shot at one and nailed him, but never bothered about going out and digging him out.

As we neared the river we came to a couple of small towns which were mostly inhabited by Indians. As we came to the banks of the Missouri there were many little Indian huts, all built alike and made of logs. At this place is the Cheyene Agency, where the government has headquarters and where the Indians are educated. At this place we were again "soaked" for a ferry ride over the river. We drove some twenty miles farther and camped at Gettysburg that night and found a punk camp.

The balance of the trip will now be reviewed rapidly. We camped the next night atAberdeen, S. D. and and aside from having all the fish where we spent the time fishing and drove back to Klemme Saturday. Fishing up there was rather a joke and aside fro mhaving all the fish we could eat for two or three days, we did not bring home more than the law allowed.

We are glad to be back and we hope our readers will appreciate this little review of our trip west.—Editor.

A new staue of Venus has been dug up and is now in the Museum of Rhodes, but we don't believe it is genuine because it has two good arms.

If there is one statement that ought to die speedily and quietly, it is "It was good enough for our fathers, so it's good enough for us,' That expression has probably stood in the way of progress more often than any other in the language. In an eastern city, recently certain councilmen violently opposed the construction of a needed bridge because the old inadequate one had served the earlier generation in fine style. The whole essence of progress lies in discovering and building things better than our fathers ever dreamed of.—Mankato Free Press.

The Test Of Any Investment--

We have prepared an outline of a Test that should be applied to any investment by the conservative investor who wants Safety First, and reasonable Income, and we will be glad to send Copy FREE with our Compliments, to any person interested in how best to avoid loss of either principal or income when investing money.

The TEST covers fourteen questions and answers and may be helpful in analyzing present investments or applied to SECURITIES offered for investments.

You will not be under any obligation whatsoever, so write—

Your Name Here .....

Address Here .....

—And Mail To—

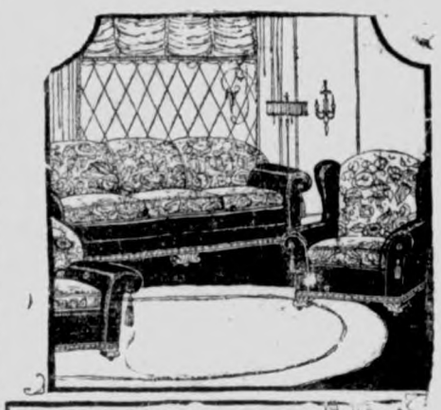
Central States Electric Company

215 South Second St. CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA.

AUGUST FURNITURE SALE

Quality Furniture At Lower Prices!

Complete Home Outfits



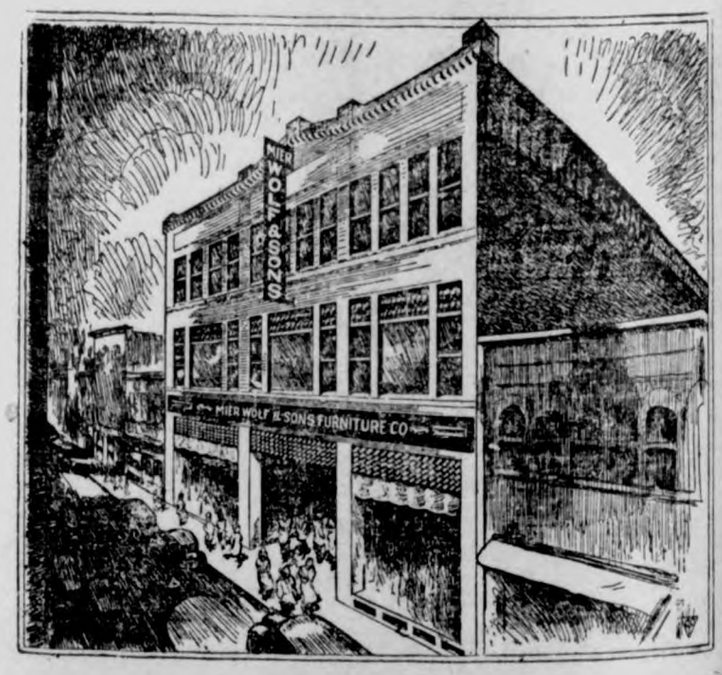
SATISFACTION ASSURED IF YOU BUY YOUR FURNITURE AT THIS STORE

SAVE 10 TO 50%

The world is full of substitutes for quality; but there has never been invented a real substtute for Satisfaction.

You can't argue QUALITY into a product —it must be put there.

The average man's daily experience in the use of things should convince him, more than anything else, that QUALITY is a better bargain than cheapness.



COME AND SEE HOW FAR YOUR MONEY WILL GO AT OUR AUGUST SALE

Acorn Ranges

The Standard of Efficiency for 94 Years

Living Room Suites
Bed Room Suites
Dining Room Suites Occasional Pieces

at AUGUST SALE Prices

Where Quality and Price Are On Friendly Terms

Mier Wolf & Sons Furniture Co.

NORTH IOWA'S LARGEST FURNITURE STORE

309-11-13 SO. FEDERAL AVE. MASON CITY

Easy Terms Arranged

Goods purchased at this sale held free for future delivery.

THE KLEMME TIMES

y-ninth Year—Number 51. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

RMER KLEMME WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN AT CORNELIA

J. P. LARSEN STRUCK BY AIN WHEN SHE GOES TO VISIT FRIEND

nd Was Short Distance Away When Accident Took Place

s. J. P. Larsen. 73 years old, erly of Klemme and mother of Clarence Larsen, of this city, struck by a northbound Great ern freight train as she was ing the tracks not far from summer home near Lake Cor- Sunday evening at about 7:30. Larsen died shortly after she truck a glancing blow by the e.

and Mrs. Larsen had been at Belmond for about three and during the summer they been living at a cottage at Lake elia. Just before the accident ened they were on their way it friends who lived on the op- side of the tracks. Mrs. Lar- had started out ahead of her nd and he did not see the un- nate accident. Mrs. Larsen's was somewhat impaired and supposition is she did not see approach of the train, which k her a glancing blow throwing way from the tracks and fataly ing her, causing death in about minutes.

. Larsen did not realize what happened until he saw a crowd r at the tracks. The train was ht to a stop and Mrs. Larsen taken to a neighbor's home e she died.

Obituary

is community was shocked late ay evening to learn of the tra- eath of Mrs. J. P. Larsen, who run down and almost instantly by a train at Lake Cornelia. e the deceased and her husband spending the summer.

rs. Caroline Renziehausen Lar- was born in Allamakee County, on February 20, 1852, and Sunday evening, August 23, at the age of 73 years, 6 hs and 3 days.

e spent her childhood days and youth in the parental home on m several miles east of Monona, state. This home and the little church near by gave her that l and spiritual training that t much to her in-after life, and h helped her to train her child- in the way that they should go. 1887 she was married to Mr. J. rsen. Soon after their marri- hey moved to Minneapolis where lived three years. About 1890 moved to Klemme where they until about three years ago they moved to Belmond. Dur- this period of nearly thirty five s they made many friends and ed to know and became known eryone in this vicinity.

ree sons were born to Mr. and Larsen. Of these the oldest, ur Leroy, met a similar fate as the mother, he being killed in by a moving train in the yards in Klemme.

e sons who with the father ve the mother are: Clarence of me, and Oscar of Webster City. is very natural that Mrs. Lar- who enjoyed Christian training early youth, came into church wship when still young, becom- a member of the Methodist Epis- l church. She continued to be ember of this church all thru until her translation she was sferred to the Church Trium- nt.

uring her maturer years she ed her activities especially in W. F. M. S. and the Ladies' Aid eties—remaining a member even gh they had moved from here. ttle did she realize on last Sun- evening when she and her com- ion started for the home of hbors across the railway that started on her last earthly jour- and that it meant he taking up that last long journey that we must take sooner or later. How- testimony is born that she was unprepared for this last journey.

This sudden death should be a voice to us to be prepared to meet our God.

Beside her immediate family, consisting of her husband, her son Clarence and family and her son Oscar and wife, the deceased is survived by three sisters and one brother. One sister and one brother having preceded her in death.

We assure our sympathies to all these bereaved.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday from the old home here in Klemme and the Methodist Church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Gauger. Interment was made in the Klemme cemetery.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

Two fine audiences were present last Sunday. They were good listeners, who did their full share to make good preachers.

The preacher of the Sunday evening was Mr. Earl Josten ,who was licensed a local preacher on Easter Sunday. He is one of Klemme's own boys and this was his first sermon. In his address he gave his audience many helpful thoughts.

The Sunday School, too, made credible showing. However, we should grow greatly in numbers next Sunday.

Both Missionary societies hold their meeting this week. In Liberty it is on Wednesday, afternoon with election of officers as the main feature. In Klemme, it is on Thursday afternoon, in the Parish House. All members please be present.

All services will be regular next Sunday.

On Thursday of this week is the fall District Conference of the Algona District. will be held at Fenton The pastor and as many of the members as possible will attend.

LAU ELEVATOR MAKES NEW RECORD FOR OATS

W. F. Lau, of the Lau Elevator, reports a record run for the month of August, having loaded 40 cars of new oats, approximately 75,000 bushels and the average price paid was 33 cents; this amount of grain bringing to the farmers the sum of $25,000.00 in 30 days. The Lau Elevator does its best to please all and give everyone a square deal.

HANCOCK GIRLS WIN IN DEMONSTRATION AT FAIR

The Misses Alice Jakoubek and Evelyn Trulson have carried their winnings into a new territory. At the first Hancock County Achievement Day they won the trip to the state fair and a chance to demonstrate their work at the North Iowa Fair at Mason City. They were over Tuesday and gave their demonstration "The Use of Decorative Stiches as a Dress Trimming." Competing with th m were girls from Wright, Franklin and Worth counties. The Hancock county girls won first. They were over to Mason City again Thursday to compete with the Cerro Gordo county girls.

—Britt News-Tribune.

IOWA RADIO FAN HEARS "AMERICA" SUNG IN ARCTIC

Arthur A. Collins, of Cedar Rapids, last Saturdoy, heard the crew of the MacMillan ship, Bowdoin, at Etah Greenland sing "America." The voices came in plain over a sixteen meter wave length Collins said.

He also received a long message from the Bowdoin for the National Geographic society at Washington, the contents of which he refused to make public.

This is the first time he had been able to pick up Etah on sixteen meters distinctly enough to understand them. Collins said the singing was clear ond the pronouncation of the words perfect.

Chicago now averages a murder a day and if they keep it up some of these times it will be a dead town.

It is said that there is no leisure class in Finland. Wonder what becomes of all the dry goods boxes

SELECT MOLD FREE SEED CORN

Just as Important to Get Healthy Ears as Those of Good Type

It's not enough to select ears of good type in the corn field before frost. It is quite as important also that the seed ears selected be free from disease and on stalks which show no signs of the molds, known as Basisporium dry rot and Diplodia dry rot.

It has been quite definately shown in corn breeding work at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station that seed ears vary in susceptibility of their progeny of these diseases. If ears are planted that are diseased or are from diseased stalks, the corn produced from them will be more than likely to be affected.

The specialists advise selecting seed corn as early as possible because these molds have been found oftentimes to spread rapidly about the time the corn is maturing. In selecting corn early, take only ears from green standing stalks with unbroken healthy shanks. Stalks affected with these rots are often either broken over, or have broken shanks.

Afer seed corn is selected, store in carefully in a cool dry place where rapid drying will result, to prevent spreading of the molds.

Excessive moisture at the time of maturing is known to increase the amounts of these molds. The temperature in the fall is often right for mold developement.

Diplodio dry rot most commonly attacks the stalks on the lower joint whether the base of the leaf blade forms a cavity in which the moisture readily collects. A water soaked appearance, developes above and below the joint, develops and thes talk is weakened and may break at this point. It sometimes attacks the shanks, causing the ear to become shriveled or badly moulded at the butt. Sometimes Diplodia enters at the tip of the ear, producing a white moldy appearance. It has been estimated that this disease reduced the average Iowa farmer's yield about 200 bushels in 1922.

Basisporium dry rot can be recognized by the blackening of the cob around the kernels and also by the blackening of the chaff and base of the kernels. This mold often causes ears to lose 20 percent of their normal weight.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Frank J. Urich wf to Geo. J. Urich et al, W. D. date 8-8-25, $1.0, N½ SE¼ & NE¼ SW¼ 33-96-24.

Hay D. Gayken, Guordian to David H. Lloyd, Guardian's Deed, date 6-20-25, $250.00 lot 1 & N½ lot 6 Blk 2 Brown and Treganza add to Britt.

E. H. Zuerrer wf to Ft. Dodge Investment Co., W. D. date 2-20-25, $1.00 NWfr¼ 2 95-23.

Arthur Ovrom wf to Joseph Hanzlik, W. D. date 11-1-23, W½ lots 5 6 blk 45 Garner.

Ella Goss et al to Gustav & Sarah Larson, W. D., date 5-1-25, $3,000.00 a tract com. at NE corner of Section 17-97-23, running S to coun ty road, thence W olong county road to corner of school house, thence N to section line, thence E to place of beginning.

T. J. Dahl wf to A. A. Johnson, W D, date 7-25-25, $140.00, lots 5-6-7 blk 1 Grand View Add to Kanawha.

First Nat. Bk Klemme, to John J. Lemke, W. D. date 9-13-25, $3,000 Und 1-7 int. in and to SE¼ 11-95-24.

Chas E. Miller to F. M. Honson, Trustee, Q. C. D. date 6-22-25, etc. lots 1-2, blk 12 Miller.

E. P. Hanson, Shff. E. J. Newman Sheriff's Deed date 8-15-25, $19,791 96, NE¼ & N½ SE¼ 26-97-25.

L. D. Byers wf to D. D. Ross, W. D 5-5-24, $1.00 lot 1, blk 6, Klemme.

Trade Name

Garfield Ridge Hatchery, owner Arley Blickendorfer, Garner, Iowa.

KNIFE SLIPS AS BOY WHITTLES

Clarinda,, Iowa, Aug. 22: Using a pocket knife with the blade toward him in whittling a bit of wood cost the 5-year-old son of John Jones of Clarinda an eye. The knife slipped from the wood and the point penetrated the eye ball with full force Surgeons give no hope of any sight from the injured optic.

IT'S COWS VACATION TIME

July and August Best Months to Rest Dairy Cows

For some time before freshening the hard working dairy cow needs a rest, and July and August are the best months to give her this needed vacation," says Burt Oderkirk, dairyproduction specialist of Iowa State College.

In order to give the cows a vacation in July and August, it is necessary to have them freshen in the foll. Farmers have the most time to milk and care for dairy cows in the winter and that's also the time when butterfat is usually be best kirk advises that the greatest procent of the cows in 43 associations fits follow winter dairying.

The reasons for giving cows a rest in July and August are that these are usually the hottest months poorest pastures prevailing at this time, flies are worst, and farmers are very busy. My having the cows dry during these months, it is more pleasant and profitable for both the dairyman and his cows.

The cow testing association report recently issued showed 53 perfitable and are now practicing it. are fall fresheners. This is considered much higher than would be the average in the state. Men who have been in cow testing association have found fall freshening most profitoble and are now practicing it.

Cows which are dry in July and August should not be allowed to be thin, however, and Mr. Oderkirk advises feeding a little silage or grain in order to keep these cows which are milking abuntantly from dropping off, and to put those which are to freshen in the fall in good condition for the next years work. A grain mixture of six parts ground corn, six parts ground oats and one part oil meal is reccommended for use at this time.

EVERY TOWN IN COUNTY WILL BE ON GRAVEL

In a short time every town in Hancock county will be on a good graveled road. Work is progressing nicely on the Britt to Crystal Lake road and last Tuesday contracts were let to Fox and Cosgrove of Britt for the graveling of the road from Woden to the paving just west of Hutchins and the road from Hutchines to Corwith.

LAW MAKERS ARE EXPENSIVE

It cost the state of Iowa $238,146.45 for the 41st General Assembly, E. L. Houge, director of the budget has announced. This figure includes all expenses from salaries of members to laundering towels and paying for prayers.

The largest single item of expense was the salaries of the members. The fifty senators and 108 representatives were paid $159,000 for their services. of approximately three months. In addition the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house received $200 each for their services.

The second largest item was the salaries of employees, which totaled $67,232.60 for the session. The employees of the senate were: One secretary, one assistant secretary; 52 stenographers, one postmistress, 8 clerks, 3 janitors, 7 pages and 12 doorkeepers while the house had 58 stenographers, 2 electricians, 14 clerks, one assistant postmistress, 12 doorkeepers, 5 janitor and 8 pages.

It cost $2119.10 to pay the mileage of the members of the general assembly. Members are allowed five cents a mile for traveling expenses so the 158 travelers 42,385 miles going to Des Moines and returning to their homes. The average mileage traveled by each meber was 268 miles.

Sundry appropriations came to $7 381.85, which includes such things as chaplain fees, laundering towels and advertising the law.

THE CREATIVE IMAGINATION. came running to her mother and hid camer unning to her mother and hid in her skirts. Mother, surprised, asked the cause of her fright.

"I was telling a story to myself I was makin gup," exclaimed Francis, "andthere were wolves in it—and, and I got scared!"

INTERESTING ITEMS FROM ALL OVER THE STATE

INTERESTING NEWS ABOUT IOWA PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Returns from Iowa grain fields as indicated by reports from farmers who have threshed are quite in contrast with the yield in Kansas. According to the August report from that state , yield of wheat totals 68,000,000 as compared wih 153,644,000 last year. The yield per acre this year was only 8.6 bushels. Only twice since 1866 has the yield per acre been as low. Kansas corn rated at 81 percent in July dropped to 58 percent in August. That state has been furnishing Iowa farmers will several millions bushels of corn for feeding purposes. Nebraska also furnished Iowa feeders with a lot of corn the past season but reports from that state indicate a poor crop his year. Iowa in the yield of small grain and in its fine corn prospect outranks any other state in thec orn belt.

"The legislature of Iowa and not the dictum of the department of education has authority to prescribe what shall not be taught in the school of the commonwealth,' 'is the opinion expressed by Miss Mae E. Francis, state superintendent of public instruction. She states that no acion will be taken by her to prevent the teaching of evolution in the grade schools of the state, nor will any attempt be made to rule out text books conaining such teachings. Miss Francis believes, she says, that Miss Hermine Schneckloth, of Davenport, county superintendent, exceeded her authority when she announced that she would not permit the teaching of evoluion in theg rade schools of Scott county. Members of the general assembly have been interviewed on the subject of elimination of the teaching of the theory of evolution by legislative enactment in this state express the belief that no action is necessary one way or the other.

In the Carroll county district court Judge Henderson has handed down between school boards and superintendents or teachers. Superintendent R. A. Griffin of Glidden was elected for a two-year contract By a change in the board of directors an unfriendly board was elected and Superintendent Griffin was requested to resign, which he refused to do. The board then brought action in the district court for cancellation of the contract, and Judge Henderson has ruled against the board and upheld thec ontract.

The stocking of the cold water streams of northwestern Iowa with trout has proved such a success that the state fish and game deparment is now building an additional hatchery for trout and bass in the Devil's Backbone state park near Lamont. This is the second trout and bass hatchery to be put in operation in Iowa, the other being at Lansing.

Contractors in putting down paving on the White Pole highway in Eastern Polk county have had a hard time in securing water enough to use in mixing concrete. Four mile creek was utilized as far as possible Wells upon farms were either dry or had not water for such uses and the result was that a sufficient amount had to be hauled in great tanks for miles. The drouth made water for live stock on many farms a serious problem. The Des Moines Water Company is making daily shipments of fourteen carloads of Water to Grimes and Altoona, where the canneries ares uffering from a lack of sufficient water supply. The daily shipment to the towns totals 140,000 gallons and will be continued indefinately.

Gene Beyer. 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Beyer of Des Moines, swan across Spirit Lake ad istance of four and a half miles. She swam without bathing suit and had her body annointed with vaseline before entering the water to prevent a chill. She was in the water two and three quarters hours and could have covered a greater distance as she was not tired at the end of her feat. Her father accompanied her in a boat.

The report of this big oats yield comes from Waverly, Bremer county Wm. Schumacher, has just threshed seventy-six acres of oats, which gave a yield over 6,000 bushels by measurement. the yield by weight was over 7,000. That was 92 bushels to the acre. He has three acres of a new variety he has just developed which measured 325 bushels for the three acres These oats weigh ten pounds over the standard weight per bushel, and by wight these three acres produced an average of 142 bushels per acre. Mr. Schumacher is quite a wizard when the oats question is considered, and has produced several splendid varieties, among which is a hulless variety that is really a wond .re

MAKE EXTENSIVE PREPARATIONS FOR IOWA ROUND-UP

Wide brimmed hats—regular cow boy headgear, and red bandana hand kerchiefs are the lataest fad at Eagle Grove, Iowa, where extensive preprations are being made for the big Round-Up, September 4-5-6 and 7.

The Round-Up committee is sparing no expense to make the affair a success. Realizing that a city of 5,000 population is undertaking a big proposition in putting on a Round-Up of this size, every citizen is lending a hand, the housing commitee promise plenty of accomodations for those wishing to stay more than one day.

The Grandstand, which reaches half way around the track in Greenwood Park, is almost completed and a small army of men areb usy getting the grounds in shape for the contests. Thousands of people who are within easy reach of Eagle Grove but who find it impossible to attend the Western Rodeos, are expected to pour into Eagle Grove to witness the spectacle during the four days.

Adams & Mackey, of Belle Fourche, S. D., who are producing the Eagle Grove Rodeo under the auspices of the Eagle Grove American Legion have the assuranc of a number of the contestants in the world's championship Round-up at Chicago, that they will compete in the Eagle Grove contests. The cowboy will have to be ac hampion who can stick on the "outlaws" which are being shipped to the Iowa Cow town.

IOWA STATE FAIR BEGINS TOMORROW

Iowa's greatest State Fair opens at Des Moines tomorrow. On the eve of the opening officials today predicted that every previous attendance mark would be shattered and that nearly a half million people would throng the exposition during the next eight days.

More than 500 carloads of exhibits, including farm products, livestock machinery, and amusements of all kinds, will be unloaded at the exposition grounds by tomorrow morning. T he fair begins in full swing Friday, Aug. 28, continuing for eight days.

With the railroads offering unprecendented low rates for round trip to the fair, and with the general admission only fifty cents, officials here said this morning that this year's exposition offered the cheapest vacation available in the midwest this season.

Friday will be featured by auto races, fireworks, hippodrone, six bands and a wide variety of other entertainment events. All exhibits and entries in all branches of the fair will be in place and ready for inspection Friday morning.

Saturday will be headlined by the opening of the five-day horse race program in which over $18,000 in prizes is offered. The fair will continue full blast, day and night, throu Friday, September 4.

"We invite all Iowa and northern Missouri to come and participate in this great holiday event,' Secretary Corey said today.

NAMELESS RIVER

VINGIE E. ROE

COPYRIGHT BY THE McCALL COMPANY

WNU Service.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

—12—

"I know a lot from the other end of her operations. I want to make sure at this end. I want to get in touch with Sheriff Selwood—and I want you to hold hard on your battle line, knowing that it cannot always be as it is now, that other forces are lined up with you—that if all goes as it should—Cattle Kate will be caught in her own trap—and I hope to the Lord it is soon."

"Why—why, this is a wonder to me!" said Nance, "a wonder and a light in my darkness! I felt you for good that first day I set eyes on you in the canyon. Now I understand—you are the messenger whose feet are beautiful on the hills, as the Bible says—who bears good tidings! My faith has never faltered," she went on earnestly, "I knew always that the hand of God was before me, that my ways were not hidden from His sight and that some way, some time, all would be well with us. But sometimes it has been hard."

Fair sat thinking deeply.

"Yes—Cattle Kate would make it hard—if she had a reason," he said and there was a note of bitterness in his low voice, "only God and I know how hard."

"Has she—" Nance asked and hesitated, "has she made it hard for—for you?"

Somehow she dreaded his reply.

It was long in coming, and then it was cryptic.

"Vicariously. For one other she made it hard to the last bitter dregs—to that unfashionable but sometimes existent thing, a broken heart, and at last to death itself. To death in black disgrace."

Nance caught her breath in dismayed sympathy.

"She is cold as stone," went on the man, "brilliant, strong, and ruthless. She sets herself a point and cleaves straight to it regardless of whom or what she tramples on the way."

"Yes—like wanting our land. She means to get it, one way or another."

"Exactly. That rope you told me of was a bold stroke for it. Your father was gone—your brother was the only male of your family. With him gone, too, you should have been easy."

"It was murder she meant," said Nance, "no less. We've always known that."

"And what about your father's death? Tell me about that—if it is not too painful."

"We don't know much about it. Our pappy was a mountaineer—born in the Kentucky hills, lived in Missouri, a man who loved the outdoors. He was a hunter and a woodsman. He was careful, never took chances. That's why we've never been reconciled to the accident that killed him—he was found at the foot of Rainbow cliff, as if he'd fallen down it. And no one in this country has ever been known to reach the top of that spine."

"Have you ever thought that perhaps he didn't fall. That he might have been put there as a way to cover a—crime?"

Nance shook her head.

"Every bone in his body was broken," she said sadly, "he was as loose as a bag of sand. He fell down Rainbow cliff all right—but how it happened, that's what we'd love to know."

"And probably never will," said Fair.

"No."

They sat for a while in silence.

The little wind blew in their faces, sweet with its fresh and nameless suggestion of flowing water. Out in the shadows the big black horse stood perfectly still, his peaceful breath scarce lifting his sides. The collie was silent, though his handsome head was up, his sharp ears lifted above his ruff. The child in Fair's lap continued to sleep.

It seemed to Nance Allison that the night had never been so calm before, the stars so bright, the unspeakable majesty of the heavens so apparent. She wondered how it was possible to feel so safe and at peace in the face of this last disaster, to look to the future once more with hope.

The little smile was pulling at her lips again, her long blue eyes were soft with hidden light.

And then, out of the stillness and starlight, from somewhere across the river, there came the clear crack of a high-power gun, the thud of a ball in wood. With one sweep of his right arm Fair flung Nance back upon the floor, himself and the child beside her.

He slipped Sonny from his lap with a low word and rolled clear. Quick as a cat he threw his body to the table, raised an arm above its edge and swept the lamp to the floor, extinguishing it instantly.

Then he crawled back and the hands he laid upon the girl's shoulder were shaking.

"Tell me," he gritted, "tell me it did not hit you!"

"I—can't," whispered Nance, "my left arm—it feels all full of needles."

Fair slipped his fingers down along the firm young arm beneath its faded sleeve and found it warm and wet.

Sonny was awake but still as a little quail hid in the grass at its mother's warning whistle.

There was the sound of a soft opening door beyond, and Mrs. Allison's voice, low and terror-filled, said, "Nance—girl—"

"Don't fret, Mammy," she whispered back, "I'm all right—just a scratch. Pin something on the window before you make a light."

Bud's shuffle came round the table and he knelt beside her, feeling for her hands.

"Mammy!" he cried with restrained passion, "I'll have my pappy's gun now—or go with bare hands! You got to gimme it!"

Nance got to her feet with Fair's arm about her and pushed the door shut. Then the mother struck a light and restored the lamp to the table. In its yellow flare they peeled the sleeve from the girl's arm and found a shallow wound straight across, about three inches above the elbow.

For a long time Brand Fair looked at it.

Then he raised somber eyes to her face.

"Eight inches to the right," he said slowly, "and it would have been your heart."

She nodded.

"Cattle Kate means business now," she said, "but—I—don't think she'll get me."

"Not if I can get her first," said Fair, grimly. "Now let's have some hot water strong with salt."

Mrs. Allison set about preparing this, while the bitter tears of one who had seen feud before, dripped down her weathered cheeks.

The boy Bud stood by the table opening and closing his hands and muttering under his quick breath—"Pappy's gun—it's good and true-sighted. Not high-power—but I can hide and wait—close—close—"

"If you'd forgive a stranger, Mrs. Allison," put in Fair, straightening up and looking at the mother, "I'd say—give him his father's gun. And I'd say, Bud—don't go to pieces now after such a brave and conservative fight. Be a defender—not a murderer."

The boy turned his dilated eyes to him, wetting his dry lips.

In the long look that passed between them something seemed to break down in Bud, the antagonism he had felt for Fair seemed to melt away. The mysterious comradery of honest manhood fell upon them both, and the man held out his hand.

The boy took it and his eyes became sane.

"We've got a big job cut out for us," said Fair gravely, "and must be in the right—at every point. We'll dig out the nest of vipers at Sky Line, but we'll do the job cleanly. Now let's get busy with our first-aid."

CHAPTER XIV

Light on the Sheriff's Shadows.

From that night forth Fair came frequently to the homestead on Nameless. It was a dull spot now and his advent was a saving grace. The light of hope, the joy of labor and accomplishment, had in a measure departed. There was little or nothing to do, less to look forward to. For a little while Nance kept to the cabin as a matter of precaution, but soon she began to pick up the odds and ends of her pointless work—to mend the fence which had been cut, and to make ready to harvest the crop of hay across the river.

"Though I suppose it will be just that much work thrown away," she said, "for the stacks will burn some night like they did before."

"Take a chance," counseled Fair, "maybe they won't this time."

"You bet we'll take the chance," said the girl with a flare of her old spirit, "we've never laid down yet."

But try as she would, there was a dullness in her, a desire to stop and rest a bit, and the hatred that was slowly growing in her stirred anew each time she raised her eyes to the distant line of Rainbow cliff gleaming in the light like fairy stuff.

"If it wasn't for you now, Mr. Fair," she said to him, "I think I'd—almost—be ready to give up. You give me new courage—as Sheriff Selwood did when he stepped behind me that day on McKane's porch."

"No, you wouldn't. It isn't in you to give up. Perhaps reinforcements do have their effect—but you'd never leave the line, Nance."

The girl smiled.

It was the first time he had used her given name and her heart missed a beat, while the warm surge went through her again.

"No—I know it—but sometimes I do feel—well, tired."

"You've had enough to make you so," he said, and laid his hand on hers. At his infrequent touches Nance always felt a glow of returning strength, as if once more she could work and fight for her own. She counted it one of her scant blessings that Brand Fair had come into her life at its darkest hour.

* * * * * * *

Sheriff Selwood had a visitor.

The prospector, John Smith, rode into his ranch yard and sat judging him with shrewd eyes.

"Sheriff," he said, "I've a notion you and I could have a pleasant and perhaps a profitable talk. Will you saddle a horse and ride out with me a way?"

"Sure," said Price Selwood readily, and asked no questions.

He went into his stable and soon came out leading the lean bay, mounted and followed as the other turned away.

"That's a pretty good horse you ride, stranger," he said, "I've noticed it at Cordova a time or two."

"Yes," returned Smith, "he has blood and bottom—also intelligence."

They rode for a while in silence. Then the stranger slouched sidewise in his saddle and looked at Selwood.

"I'm going to tell you several things, Sheriff," he said, "and show you some more. And I want to make a pact with you. It's about Cattle Kate Cathrew and the Allison family."

"Shoot," said the sheriff succinctly.

"I'm a stranger hereabouts, but I'm not a happen-so. I've hunted Kate Cathrew for two years."

At that Price Selwood became alert in every nerve.

"What?" he ejaculated.

"On horseback, by train—from New York to this side the Rockies. Are you willing to let me line up with you in this matter?"

"I'm willing to do anything under Heaven that's square to get that bunch of rustlers—for so I'm convinced they are," said Selwood, "and to do it quick, for I'm afraid if we don't, something will happen to the folks on Nameless that can't be mended."

"Now, Let's Get Busy With Our First Aid."

"So am I. Miss Allison was shot in her doorway a few nights back."

"G—d!" cried the sheriff, "what's that?"

"Just a scratch on her arm—but it was meant for her heart. I was there at the time. The ball came from across the river—a high-power gun."

The sheriff groaned.

"That's it! The same old stuff—shoot from ambush—no evidence—nothing. It makes a man wild! I've done all a man could do, and I can't put my finger on a thing."

"I've heard about the disappearing cattle," said the other, "and I've done a bit on my own hook. I may as well tell you now, that my name is not Smith, and that I've been in Blue Stone canyon for nearly two months."

Selwood looked at him in astonishment.

"No one knows it all, even about his own doorstep," he said. "I thought you were just passing through."

"If you will, I'd like you to ride up the canyon with me," said Fair, "to where the right wall falls away beyond the mouth of Little Blue. It's early and we can make it by noon, I think."

They fell silent for a while, threading the hills that rose in a jumbled mass to the south of Nameless valley, and after an hour or more reached the river. They crossed a ford where Nance was accustomed to ride to ford on her way to Blue Stone, and entered the mouth of the great cut.

"We'll keep to the water as much as possible," said Fair, "because there are other eyes than ours here sometimes."

They passed the empty cave where Nance had found Sonny and Dirk and followed the stream on up to the mouth of Little Blue.

"From up in there," said Fair riding ahead, "I saw one of the Cathrew riders—a man named Provine—driving a red steer up this way."

"Ah!" said the sheriff, adding to himself—"and so did Nance Allison. These young folks seem to know each other pretty well."

"He went on north and disappeared. I followed next day and came upon a mystery—some more of this water travel which leads nowhere."

"We've had a lot of that," said Selwood bitterly, "it's what has baffled the whole country."

"Well—I'll show you something," said Fair, "that may set you guessing."

The keen blue shadows were cold and the voices were murmuring in the high escarpments.

Through pools and over shale, wherever they could, they put their horses, avoiding the sand, and presently, when the sunlight had crept almost down to the floor of the canyon, they came out at the spot where the right wall fell away abruptly, showing the plain stretched out like a dry brown floor, dotted with sparse bunch grass.

On the left the great precipice continued unbroken.

Fair went on ahead, still keeping to the water, though both horses were pretty well winded with the hard going it afforded, and at last drew up to let Selwood come alongside.

He sat still for a moment.

"Listen a bit," he said, "do you hear anything different from the sounds of water and the murmuring of the big cut?"

The sheriff listened sharply.

"Yes," he said presently, "I do. Sounds like wind."

"Exactly. Yet there isn't any wind, more than the draft which always draws down the canyon. Now look closely at the wall. Watch that clump of willows yonder."

He pointed ahead and to the left where a dense green growth stood alone against the rock face.

Selwood looked and for a moment his face did not change.

Then, suddenly, his mouth fell open, his eyes grew wide with astonishment.

"Great Scott!" he said, "they're blowing out from the wall! There's wind behind them!"

Fair moved forward and dismounted, leaving Diamond in the stream. The sheriff followed.

They stepped lightly across the strip of sand which lay between the water and the willows and Fair turned to the right, circling the clump.

"Here," he said, "that red steer and the man who drove it went into the wall. I found their tracks that day. They've been obliterated by the shifting sand since then."

He pushed aside a feathery branch and the sheriff at his shoulder craned an incredulous head to look into what seemed the mouth of a cave.

"No—it's not a cave," said Fair at his surmise, "it's a prehistoric underground passage. It leads straight into the heart of Mystery ridge from this end, and it has an opening somewhere, attested to by this current of wind. This mouth is just wide enough to admit one steer at a time, one horse and rider—but—what more do you want?"

"Great Scott!" cried Selwood again, "of all the impossible things! And not a soul on Nameless knows about it!"

"Wrong!" said Fair, "Kate Cathrew and her riders know. That open plain yonder—it leads out to a town, doesn't it? On the railroad?"

"Marston—yes. A long way across."

"Water?" queried Fair.

"Yes—at intervals. Springs. Do for driving—yes—not for range—too far apart."

"Exactly," said Fair. "Now, sheriff, find the other end of this subterranean passage and I believe you'll have solved the mystery of the disappearing steers."

Price Selwood held out his hand. It was trembling.

"I can't tell you what I owe you for this information, Mr.—?"

"Smith—yes" said Fair smiling.

"Smith. It means more than I can say—to me."

"It means as much—or more—to me," returned the other, "I've given two years of my life to a still-hunt for Kate Cathrew. I'd give two more to see her brought to justice."

"And we'll get her!" said the sheriff grimly, though with a lilt of joy in his voice. "Oh, my Lord, just won't we get her! We'll follow this hole straight to its—"

"If I might suggest," cut in Fair, "I'd say we'll back out now—even brush out our tracks—and begin a systematic picketing of the Cathrew bunch. The cattle are fat on the ranges—it'll soon be time to drive. Don't you think it likely that another big bunch might—disappear down Nameless river?"

"Say," said Selwood, smiling. "Mister, you just move in my house with me. You can think faster and straighter than any man I ever met. Let's go right now."

Fair laughed and turned away, leading Diamond back down the canyon.

"For the present," he said, "I'll keep to the background as I have been doing. This woman would recognize me and be instantly alert for trouble. Another thing, sheriff—those men with her are not cattlemen."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Dog's Self-Determination

Has a dog the right to select his own master? This question arose recently in a case brought before a London court when the owner of a valuable dog sued a neighbor for illegally harboring the animal. The defense set up was that if a man had what was described as "an instinct for dogs," and a dog liked him and followed him, he was not legally bound to communicate with its owner if he knew the owner's name and address. In other words, the defendant attempted to extend the law of self-determination to animals. The same dog, he said, had followed him home on three occasions. Twice he returned it to the lawful owner, but on the third occasion he allowed it to remain. The court fined him $10.

A soft answer turneth away wrath; and a soft question invites it.

Scraps of Humor

IN WASHINGTON

Megaphone Man on Rubberneck Wagon—In front of you is the National Capitol.

Sweet Young Thing—Oh, isn't it angelic?

Mr. Grouch—Angelic? Why, young woman, how can you speak of it as being angelic?

Sweet Young Thing—Well, it has wings, hasn't it?—Florida Times-Union.

MARK OF HEREDITY

Bobbie—Gimme half your cookie. Mine's all et up.

Ethel—I never saw such a greedy boy. I don't believe you were brought by a stork, at all. An ostrich must have brought you.

Couldn't Joke Adam

Whatever troubles Adam had,
No man could make him sore
By saying, when he told a joke,
"I've heard that one before."

According to Plan

Harold—When I asked Dorothy if she would be mine, she fell on my breast and sobbed like a child, but finally she put her arms around my neck and—

Ethel—Oh, yes, I know all about it, I rehearsed it with her.

The Test

"When I put the coat on for the first time and buttoned it up, I burst the seam down the back!"

"Yes, that will show you how well our buttons are sewed on!"

Beat Him to It

His Wife—I hear Mrs. Tripplewed was led to the altar for the third time.

Mr. Pester—Led to the altar? I hear she was there first.

SPEEDING PARTING GUEST

Hostess—Going so soon, Mr. Pstunge?

Mr. Pstunge—No, I'm not going for at least an hour, but I have to begin to start the engine of my second-hand car.

Left With Thorn

Talks about the roses
Where the light is born,
When the darkness closes,
Leaves us with the thorn.

Extra Urn Suggestive

Kriss—So you felt uncanny while courting that little widow?

Kross—You bet. She kept the ashes of her late husband right on the piano.

Kriss—Oh, that isn't so terrible.

Kross—Maybe not. But I didn't like the looks of the extra urn.

Might Have Been Worse

Dobbs—The man in the next apartment isn't such a bad chap, after all.

Hobs—Is that so?

Dobbs—Yes. After he had awakened our baby last night with his saxophone he kept right on playing so I couldn't hear it crying.

Why She Made Him Promise

Mabel—I let Jack kiss me on condition that he wouldn't mention it.

Marie—I suppose you wanted to break the news yourself, eh, dear?

Seasonal

Traveling Man—Do you have hot and cold water in this room?

Bellhop—Yep; hot in summer, cold in winter.

Kindly Judge

"Thirty dollars fine for colliding. But how did it happen?"

"Your honor, I was trying to kiss the girl with me."

"Did you get the kiss?"

"No, sir."

"Make the fine $10."

Must Have It

"I suppose your wife always wants the last word."

"Yes, especially the last word in hats, gowns and hosiery."

Genuine BAYER

ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer Aspirin"

INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.

Safe — Accept only Bayer package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets. Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

'Twas Mostly Talk

The dignified old Southerner was strolling along Fifth avenue with a friend. He was discussing negroes.

"Ah ain't got much use fo' 'em," he announced. And thus he continued. Suddenly he stopped.

"Aixcuse me a moment, sah!" he said. The friend turned and looked.

The old southerner was escorting an aged blind colored woman across the street. At the far curb he patted her back and said:

"Now you' all right, mammy!"

And then he returned to his friend.—New York Evening World.

More Widows on Coast

California now claims more widows, according to her population than any other state. About 13 per cent of the women over fifteen are widows, according to the census bureau. North Dakota has the lowest percentage.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Feel Young

Take care of your stomach and preserve your health.

HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters tone up the digestive organs, stimulate the appetite and promote a feeling of physical fitness. At all Druggists.

The Hostetter Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

ECZEMA

After Others Fail

PETERSON'S OINTMENT

Big Box 60 Cents

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment when eczema or terrible itching of skin and scalp tortures is known to tens of thousands of people the country over. Often the itch goes overnight.

For pimples, acne, rough and red skin, old sores, ulcers, piles, chafing, sunburn, burning feet and all blemishes and eruptions it is supremely effective as any broad-minded druggist will tell you. Peterson Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Six-Year-Old Heads Cult

A boy six years old now heads the Confucian cult in China. He is known as the little duke of Kong and his family lives near Chufoo, where his family has lived for 2,500 years, according to authentic records. On this site cultured men lived when the battle of Marathon was fought, all during the rise and fall of the Roman empire and through the Dark ages.

In Reverse

"I spent last summer in a very pretty city in Switzerland."

"Berne?"

"No, I almost froze."—Georgia Tech Yellow Jacket.

May Need Them Both

Horace—We can easily be married. My father is a minister, you know.

Phyllis—Very well, let's try it. My dad's a lawyer.

FIRST AID TO BEAUTY AND CHARM

Nothing so mars an otherwise beautiful face as the inevitable lines of fatigue and suffering caused by tired, aching feet. ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE the Antiseptic Healing Powder, insures foot comfort. It is a Toilet Necessity. Shake it in your shoes in the morning, Shop all day. Dance all evening, then let your mirror tell the story. Trial package and a Foot-Ease Walking Doll sent Free. Address Allen's Foot-Ease, Le Roy, N. Y. Sold at Drug and Department Stores.

RESINOL

Soothing and Healing Household Ointment

KEEP EYE[illegible]

Dr. Thompson's [illegible] strengthen the[m] will [illegible] Liver, T[illegible]ts or [illegible]let.

N OPERATION RECOMMENDED

voided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal. — "I cannot give too uch praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and had spells as if my art was affected, and it helped me a . The doctors told me at one time at I would have to have an operation. thought I would try 'Pinkham's,' as all it, first. In two months I was all ht and had no operation. I firmly lieve 'Pinkham's' cured me. Everye who saw me after that remarked at I looked so well. I only have to ke medicine occasionally, not but I ways keep a couple of bottles by me. recommend it to women who speak to about their health. I have also used ur Sanative Wash and like it very uch." — Mrs. E. GOULD, 4000 East de Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from omen who have been restored to alth by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegeta- Compound after operations have en advised.

oker Has Definite Standing in Turkey

One Turkish judge, who admits that plays poker, has decided that the eat American game is not gambling if the stakes are not too high. Some erican courts hold otherwise. Six ssians, one of them a woman, played ker in a coffee shop to while the urs on a warm Friday—Friday is e Mohammedan Sabbath, and on at day all stores and offices in Turey are closed. Next morning they ere haled into court. The policean who summoned them said he did t understand the game but had en told that it was gambling. The dge said he did understand it—ough frequently his judgment was fault—and it was not always gamng. The prisoners, through an inrpreter, said that in their game the nner had got only a glass of tea or plate of cookies, at the expense of e other five. "Case dismissed!" said e judge, with the usual admonition the police.

Brazil Gets Japanese

Japanese immigration to Brazil is creasing, according to the authoriies of the Immigration company, hich announced that 1,300 emigrants ould leave for South America soon. is expected that approximately 3,000 panese emigrants will have gone to razil by the end of the year.

Couldn't Kill Romance

Forty years to the day after he had anned to wed Miss Emma Aldrich, ohn G. Gilmartin married her. Their ngagement was broken off when she as fifteen, because of parental objecons. Both married other persons, ho died a few years ago.

Playing by Ear

"Whatcha got your head bandaged or?"

"Didn't you hear about it? I tried play the piano by ear."—University California Pelican.

If a man re-leases a piece of propty he takes a fresh grip on it.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Clear Your Skin Of Disfiguring Blemishes Use Cuticura

Sample Soap, Ointment, Talcum free. Address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair

60c and $1.00 at Druggists. Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

FRECKLES!

Quickly disappear when Dr. C. H. Berry's Freckle Ointment is used. One jar of this fragrant snow-white cream is usually sufficient to remove the most stubborn freckles Easily applied. Keeps skin clear and soft Price 65c and $1.25. At all drug and department stores. Send for FREE Beauty Booklet. DR. C. H. BERRY CO., 2276 Michigan Ave., CHICAGO

FREE

Write for attractive booklet of Parisian perfumes, powders, rouges, etc.

35 West 34th St., New York

BOURJOIS

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

ENDOWMENT FUND GROWING RAPIDLY

At the peak of the intensive effort in the nation-wide campaign for the American Legion's $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war, a total of more than $3,000,000 raised has been reported to national headquarters of the Legion at Indianapolis. Twenty-one states were "over the top," while several others had very nearly completed their quotas for the fund.

The campaign was proceeding with full speed ahead and gave promise of early reaching the goal set for it. With such a large proportion of the states "over the top" or nearly so, the campaign resolved itself into independent efforts in local communities.

Early in the campaign several states had entered the $100,000 class. Among those which had contributed that amount or more were: New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Texas, California and Connecticut. Some of these had contributed several times the amount.

A check from President Calvin Coolidge, chairman of the national honorary committee for the fund, was presented to National Commander James A. Drain in the presence of the national executive committee. The presentation was made by Paul J. McGahan, national executive committeeman for the District of Columbia. President Coolidge gave the check to John Hays Hammond, chairman of the District of Columbia committee, requesting that it be credited to his home town of Northampton, Mass.

A check for $6,000 from the department of Panama was presented to Commander Drain in the presence of the executive committee. The presentation, made by National Executive Committeeman Fred de V. Sill of Panama, occasioned an enthusiastic demonstration. Panama set herself a quota of $2,500.

The Rocky mountain group of states completed their campaigns with large oversubscriptions. The fund was oversubscribed by each of these states by nearly 50 per cent.

Among novel methods taken by various posts for raising their local quotas, honors so far go to Richard W. Townsend post at Auburn, Cal., and the post at Hickville, N. Y. Members of the west coast post made up a carload of fruit valued at $650 and shipped it off to market. The town's quota was $450. The New Yorkers made a house-to-house canvass, collecting tons of old papers. A substantial part of the local quota was made up in this way.

Florida Again Will Lead the Legion Parade

The Department of Florida, American Legion, will lead the grand parade, be given preference in seating arrangements in the convention hall and will be extended first choice in hotel accommodations at the national convention of the Legion in Omaha, October 5 to 9, according to an official announcement from national headquarters here. It is the second consecutive year Florida has won these privileges. At St. Paul last year Florida led all departments in the parade.

These coveted preferences were won by the Floridans for having on June 15, 1925, "the greatest percentage of membership as figured against the average membership of the department for the years 1921-22-23-24." The ruling, as regards position in parade order, seating arrangements and hotel accommodations was made at the January meeting of the national executive committee.

Florida with a percentage of 134.92 will lead the parade, while close on her heels will tread Mexico in second place with a percentage of 112.87. Nebraska, the host department, with a percentage of 108.34, will complete the triumvirate that will lead all departments at the national gathering of the Legionnaires. Wyoming and Oregon will follow in fourth and fifth positions respectively.

Howard Rowton, adjutant of the department of Florida, telegraphed his exultance to all points north as follows:

"The orange-colored horse is hard to catch. He thrives and habitats in the land of sunshine and real estate. Only Floridans can ride him. He will again look good at the head of the parade in Omaha with his head high and proud. Tell the gang northward to watch for him in the parade."

The first ten departments in order follow: Florida, 134.92; Mexico, 112.87; Nebraska, 108.34; Wyoming, 104.71; Oregon, 99.79; Wisconsin, 98.27; Delaware, 95.40; Minnesota, 92.36; Connecticut, 90.28; Pennsylvania, 86.05.

In Detail

A colored laborer, doing a hauling job, was informed that he could not get his money until he had submitted an itemized statement. After much meditation, he evolved the following bill:

"3 comes and 3 goes at 4 bits a went —$3."—American Legion Weekly.

GOOD ROADS

MOTION PICTURES OF BIG ROAD JOB

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Dynamite, black powder, steam, hydraulic nozzle, compressed air, iron, steel and cement became the tools of the road builder when engineers of the bureau of public roads undertook to build a modern highway through the rugged Cuyama valley in southern California and found themselves tackling the heaviest road-construction job in the West. The building of the Cuyama road is graphically depicted in the new United States Department of Agriculture educational motion picture, "The Road Goes Through!"

The old road through the Cuyama followed the course of the Cuyama river and forded the stream nearly seventy-five times. The flood waters of this river endangered the lives of travelers, keeping the road closed at certain seasons, and the treacherous Cuyama extended a perpetual challenge to man. Federal engineers accepted this challenge and conceived a new road to be carved in the mountain side, a thousand feet above the river bed, that would be open to traffic 12 months every year.

Huge quantities of dynamite and blasting powder were employed to "shoot" the right of way, and enormous "fills" were made with rock and earth of the mountain sides. When the alkali waters of the Cuyama put some of the steam boilers out of commission air compressors were installed to operate the steel jaws of the shovels. Modern bridges were built to span dry gullies which became roaring torrents during rainy seasons.

Barrier after barrier was met and overcome, and in the end the skill and industry of the road builder triumphed over nature and the Cuyama road went through.

Put Pavement Markings Before Grade Crossings

As an additional safeguard for the traveling public, Commissioner Frederick Stuart Greene of the New York state commission of highways has directed the use of a method of marking the pavement at all approaches to railroad crossings on the state highways. Says the American City (New York):

"Approaching the tracks from either direction of the highway, the automobilist will first be confronted by two white parallel stripes painted one foot wide, and placed five feet apart. These stripes will stretch clear across the pavement and will be placed 230 feet from the nearest track. The second guard against carelessness will be a third warning stripe, also 12 inches wide, painted 125 feet from the nearest track. If, after reaching this third stripe, the driver fails to 'stop, look and listen,' he will be given one more chance to save himself. The final warning signal will be two feet wide, and will be painted with white and black diagonal bars, similar to the markings on railroad gates. It will be located 25 feet from the nearest track, which, if the driver is not running beyond the legal rate of speed, will still give him opportunity to stop before reaching the track. It is hoped by the commission that this new warning device will serve to reduce the number of grade-crossing accidents during the long period that must elapse before all grade crossings can be eliminated in New York state."

Farms-to-Market Roads Being Badly Neglected

The problem of improving the roads from the farmer's door to the main highway or shipping station still remains unsolved. It was the intent of the federal law that this part of highway construction should go alongside of the truck line extension, says Indiana Farmers' Guide. The farmers' organization leaders held out for this agreement, and thought they had won when the law was enacted. But farmers are complaining to the department that they have not yet received their share of highway construction. Most of the money so far has been spent in constructing through routes. And the benefits from these trunk lines between the cities are not very apparent to farmers who are compelled to drive their loaded trucks over several miles of unimproved dirt roads almost impassable at times.

It has been estimated that there are 250,000 motor trucks now on farms in comparison with 120,000 in 1920. The greatest advance in truck hauling has been in the movement of live stock. One-half of the hogs produced within forty miles of Omaha and Indianapolis are hauled to market by motor truck.

Don't Obscure View

Roadside planting should be a part of the general character of the landscape so that the roads themselves do not appear as a definite line apart from the rest of the landscape, but a means to an end that is in sympathy with its surroundings. The highways are the points from which the traveler sees and enjoys the surrounding country. It is, therefore, of importance that roadside planting does not shut out adjacent lands.

Community Building

Big Factor in Life Is Desire for Home

The longing for a home has always been—it is and always will be—the one universal desire of mankind. Around your own fireside abide tender memories—within the seclusion of your home are new desires awakened.

It is the one place where a welcome awaits you, where you may hide from a busy world and rest, where you may forget for a time, the traits of life and feast upon the pleasure of living.

Wherever you may be, wherever you may return to—and that place spot is somewhere—some resort of love and joy and peace and plenty, that you may return to—that place could be no other than home.

Deep in the heart of every man is that unsatiable desire to be the master of his own home. The American will never be content as long as he continues to dole out his monthly percentage to the ever ambitious rent collector.

Picture, if you can, the typical American paying rent. Can you imagine Lincoln, Garfield, Hayes or McKinley meeting the rent collector at the door every month with the rent? Imagine Theodore Roosevelt scratching his head and wondering where he will move next, as he has just received notice to vacate.—Detroit Free Press.

Beauty of Home Lies in Factor of Dignity

The beauty of any home lies not in its acreage, or its surroundings, but rather in that vague intangible which may be called "atmosphere." This is made up of a feeling of quiet, dignified simplicity and a love of quality which is too infrequently encountered in this day of elaborate decoration.

Concessions to modern ideas are responsible for the use of overdecorated homes. Each home owner must solve the problem of his own home and infuse into its arrangements distinctive features which portray his own artistic tastes and personality.

Well-finished floors are in themselves a thing of beauty, while soft-toned walls shaded by colorful effects in lighting arrangements, and simple and tasteful pieces of furniture make any room comfortable and restful. Perhaps in no other type of interior decorating can there be found such a display of taste and thoughtfulness as in the real old New England colonial homes. They reflect the best of the colonial days in simplicity and harmony

Remodeling Pays

Houses, like clothes and customs, get out of date. The needs of the family grow as well as the means of satisfying them. New conveniences and equipment come into vogue and ideas of household use and arrangement change. To meet these new needs and fashions it is not always necessary to build a new house, especially if the old house was built of wood; for it is one of the great merits of wood that it is adaptable to changes in taste and style. Wood is like the goods from which clothing is made, in that it can be cut to suit any fancy.

The rejuvenating of homes that do not fill the needs or notions of the owners offers sales opportunities where entire houses are out of the question. For all practical purposes the same ends can be achieved by remodeling.

"Freak" Homes Not Wise

He who builds a house does not build for himself alone. A house is part of a community. As such it is subjected to continued scrutiny and comparison. The builder of a well-designed and beautiful home becomes recognized as a person of good taste and sound judgment. Artistic effect is very much to be desired also from the standpoint of the owner himself. It adds to property values. In the exterior design of the house it is well to place reliance upon well-established types of architecture and not resort to the unusual or the untried. Odd or unusual designs often become tiresome; they are likely to be expensive and inharmonious as well.

Proper Care of Trees

In the care of one's yard caution should be taken against irregular growth of trees and means adopted to rectify any fault in the tree's growth at the start. Many trees are inclined to lean in a certain direction through being forced into that position by prevailing winds from the opposite point, and, unless braced while young, it will be impossible for them to grow upright as they should. It is well that a sufficient space be spaded up around the tree, and the ground kept worked and properly fertilized.

Display of Divine Love

The contrivance of our redemption is the most glorious display of Divine love that ever was made, or ever can be made to the children of men.—United Presbyterian.

The Truth

"Truth in the inward parts" means truth in the heart, or the love of truth. It is this that we must cultivate. No matter what it costs, we must speak the truth when we speak at all.—The Presbyterian.

Be sure of good bread: use Yeast Foam

If your children do not possess a keen appetite try home-made bread: they love its flavor and need its nourishment.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Nature Embossed Carved Initials

An American beech tree was cut down about one mile north of Morrisville, Pa. On splitting a section of this tree into firewood a remarkable work of nature was brought to light.

On one of the pieces of wood were plainly embossed the initials "A. J. D., J. E. D., 1839," and on the other piece were letters and figures exactly corresponding to the embossed ones, says Nature Magazine. A careful examination shows that the tree must have been about sixty-seven years old when the initials were cut. The embossed part was nearest to the bark.

It is supposed that the tree, in growing, gradually overgrew the part with the initials cut in it, when its tissue was pressed into the mold-like initials, forming genuinely embossed letters and numerals. Who has a better explanation? What a story of love or romance! The sections of wood are owned by Henry Moon of Morrisville, Pa.

Not to Blame

Surgeon General Ireland of the War department was discussing the reformation of drug victims.

"To reform these people is a difficult thing," he said. "Whenever I look at a collection of drug victims, with their sensual mouths and weak chins, I can't help thinking of the Chinese proverb:

"'Rotten wood can't be carved.'"

Cuticura Soap for the Complexion. Nothing better than Cuticura Soap daily and Ointment now and then as needed to make the complexion clear, scalp clean and hands soft and white. Add to this the fascinating, fragrant Cuticura Talcum, and you have the Cuticura Toilet Trio.—Advertisement.

Saw the End Near

"You bin sick, Rastus?"

"Man, Ah was so sick Ah looks in de papers fo' mah fun'ral notice."

There is no love sincerer than the love of food.—G. B. Shaw.

The First Motor

At the Vienna industrial exhibition of 1873 an absent-minded workman one day connected the wires of a dynamo in operation to one that was idle. To his surprise the armature of the latter began to spin around. Thus was made the momentous discovery that the machine designed to change mechanical power into electricity can also be used to change electricity into mechanical power or that a dynamo is also a motor.—Mentor.

German Required

Study of the German language will be obligatory in Bulgarian primary and grammar schools during the coming year. This has been announced in a governmental decree by the Bulgarian premier.

Painful and disagreeable ideas vanish from the mind that can fix its attention upon any subject.

CASH FOR DENTAL GOLD Platinum, Silver, Diamonds. Magneto Points, False Teeth, Jewelry. Cash by return mail. Hoke S. & R. Co., Otsego, Mich.

California Needs More Dairymen—Write for list of dairy farms for sale. Charles L. Hughes, 211 Ochsner Bldg., Sacramento, Calif.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 35--1925.

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

One Horse Town, Good-Bye!

Any community whose streets are not durably paved is going to be known as a "one horse town."

When that time arrives, Prosperity says, "Good-bye, old friend. Good-bye!"

People start moving away. Bank deposits fall off. Business in general begins to take a slump, and the place is no longer "on the map."

Contrast all this with the city that is well paved.

It steadily forges ahead over its hard, even streets. Automobiles, busses and delivery trucks, operate efficiently and economically, regardless of season or weather.

Business is good, and keeps getting better. Modern, fire-safe buildings spring up. New industries are attracted to town. Plants and factories are working full time. Trade at the stores is brisk, and everybody's busy.

In short, permanently paved streets and roads are one of the very best investments any community can make. You can enjoy the tonic effect of well paved streets by helping your local authorities to find ways and means to build more of them.

Send today for our free illustrated booklet— "Concrete Streets for Your Town."

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION
111 West Washington Street
CHICAGO

A National Organization to Improve and Extend the Uses of Concrete

OFFICES IN 30 CITIES

DR. R. E. PORTER
CHIROPRACTOR

..Every Day — Open Evenings..
Office at John Lieuwen Residence

Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

GOODELL NEWS ITEMS

The W. L. Sherwood family drove to Iowa Falls Saturday.

Mrs. J. J. Cook held girl's song practice for Avery Farm Bureau Friday night.

The Avery Township Farm Bureau meeting will be held Monday evening at the Center school house. A program is to be given and refreshments served.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Griggs and Fern on, Kenneth and Nellie spent Sunday with the counsins, Elmer Griggs at Crystal Lake.

Martin Kearney, who has been staying at Williams was a Goodell caller Saturday.

Many from here have attended the Mason City fair at Mason City last week. A fine report of exhibits was given.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Peters moved to Burt Thursday, where Mr. Peters will be Superintendent of the Public Schools. We were all very sorry to have them leave Goodell. Mr. and Mrs. Blue are now moving into the vacated house.

The Sam Domony family of Esterville were visiting relatives here this week.

The Misses Frania and Agnes Fuller returned from Iowa Falls last Friday and their friends, Misses Degrau and Carroll spent a few days with them.

Lew Remer will start to paint the Avery Center school this week.

Mrs. Norva Allison is visiting Clar a Schuldt this week.

Mark Smith will leave for Earleville Friday as his school starts Monday.

Miss Mary Nolan of Gretenger, and Arthur Lowenburg of this place werem arried at the home of the bride Monday. A long happy, prosperous life are the wishes of their many friends as they will go on the Lowenburg farm north of Goodell.

Mr. Smith of Colesburg is visiting at the Lewis Johnson home.

The Misses Dorothy Lackore, Esther Harberts, Edith Halfpop and Louise Mason and Louise Ahrenkiel who have been attending summer school at Cedar Falls returned home Thursday.

Mrs. Christians and son Harve, were at Mason City visiting Mrs. Hughes who is in the Hospital there Fernon and Mae Griggs were Belmond callers Monday.

Dale Chase of Garner visited at the Chase farm Sunday.

Jay Griggs and Francis Mason were Belmond callers Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Tom Hamilton helped cooks for threshers at the Hemingway home Friday.

Viola Quigley spent this last wee with her grandmother and aunt at Belmond.

The Groh family who have been on a trip to Colorado returned home last week.

The "Klassy Kanners' 'and "Capital Canners" of Avery and Twin Lake townships will meet with Iris Sherwood Thursday for a picnic. This will be the last meeting of the clubs and weh ope to make it the best. Theg iris were given some pint jars and have been doing some nice canning for exhibit at the county. fair.

Omitted from last week.

Goodell young people attended the Legion celebration at Garner Tuesday.

The Catholics gave a banquet in honor of Father Hardiey Sunday evening. It was his last Sunday here.

John Griggs has been quite sick this week.

Jay Griggs and daughter Mae, were Meservey business callers Wednesday.

The Carpenter families enjoyed a reunion at the Lloyd Carpenter home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Treese and baby Cleon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carpenter and Dorothy, Mr. and Mr. Albert Schlichting, Alfred Carpenter Jr. and Richard Carpenter were present.

E. A. Strasburg of Meservey was a Goodell business caller Thursday.

About 1:30 or 2:00 o'clock Sunday morning, fire was discovered in the livery barn at Goodell. No one was aware of the fire until the whole building was in flames. Two horses, some hogs and a lot of grain and hay was destroyed. The Chemical Fire Engine of Belmond arrived but could do nothing as the fire had too much headway. They managed to get the oil truck, belonging to Chas. Chelsvig out of the barn, but a large tank of gasoline was destroyed. It was a bad loss to the Chelsvig family and everybody sympathizes with them in their loss. They had a hard time to save the hotel from catching fire.

Mr. C. F. Peters returned home Wednesday from West Virginia where he has been visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bachman are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Bachman cousins of Illinois.

Irene Ness went to Story City this week-end.

The Avery families are enjoying a visit from relatives this week.

Mr. Erwin Urandahl and Miss Adelaide Engeseth of Frost, Minnesota, stoppd off at Goodell Wednesday and Friday on their trip to and from Iowa Falls where they visited the former's sister.

SOW RYE FOR FALL PASTURES

Makes Good Emergency Crop For Late Fall and Early Spring

There is no better crop to use as an emergency late fall or early spring pasture for any class of live stock than rye, according to C. G. Churchill, farm crops specialist of Iowa State College. It will soon be time to sow the rye if a good growth is desired. Rye will do well on practically any type of soil, even those that are thin and lacking in fertility. Plow up that old lot that has been growing smarweed, thoroly prepare the seedbed and sow rye. Make a pasture out of it rather than a gymnasium.

There are a number of different varieties of rye, but about the only one on the market, other than the common is Rosen. It takes a little bit higher yield and perhaps a little more growth as pasture. When intended for pasture, rye should be sown later than this and still produce a good growth. A rather heavy rate of seeding, from six to eight pecks per acre, is reccommended where the rye is to be used for pasture.

Rye may be sown broadcast or with a grain drill. Probably a smaller amount of seed need be used when sown with a grain drill. Any growth that is not used for pasture in the spring may be plowed under as green manure, or the crop may be allowed to grow and cut for grain. If the field in the spring is pastured and plowed some time during June. it may be followed either by soybeans or sudan grass, thus providing another good crop for that year.

There are many farmers in Iowa who could use a small acreage of rye to a very good advantage to supplement permanent pasture cropss.

PRESS MOVE TO BOYCOTT BUSSES

Cass Farmers Ask Packers Help Railroads

The farmers of Cass county who secured additional railroad and mail facilities on the Rock Island railroad through an agreement to boycott the busses and trucks and travel and ship entirely by railroad, today started a movement to widen their influence for the railroads benefit.

A delegation visited the managers of the Swift and other produce plants located in Atlantic, Iowa with a request to cease trucking their poultry and ship by railroad.

Manager Jeck of the Swift company told the delegation he would have to take the matter up with Chicago but said he believed the company would accede to the wishes of the farmers who are the shippers and producers. Manager Busses of the Centrol Iowa Produce company and Manager Jeck both personally indorsed the proposed change. They said the buss owners were not liable for losses while the railroads were, and that such benefit would offset the double handling entailed when shipping by rail.

FARM TAXES LOWERED 11 PERCENT

Des Moines, Iowa, August 19:—. Eleven percent was cut off the farm land valuations in the equalization of the state executive council as compared to the adjusted valuations in 1923, according to th figures, which have just been released.

"This equalization makes a fairer basis between farm values and other property," states M. G. Thornburg, secretary of Agriculture. "The Department of Agriculture collected figures from all of the counties of the state for th purpose of equalization. These figures showed the need of lower values on farm lands if they were to be in fair proportion with other classes of property. The large delegations of farmers which came before council and presented their own story of conditions and values substantiated the need for equalization.

Dollar No Bait But Rip in Pants Worried Him

An alleged deaf and dumb man walked into a drug store at Truman, Minnesota, and extracted 25c each from two clerks. As the man walked out the boys thought they would make a test. "Hey, wait a minute," they yelled. "Here's a guy back here that wants to give you a dollar. The "mute" never faltered in his step. "Look at the big hole he's got in the seat of his pants," yelled the watchmaker, making a last effort as the man reached the door. The "mute" put his hand back to investigate around, and exploded: "I'd like to kill you two young devils."

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Mesdames Sumner Trumbell and Tom Roths will entertain the Royal Neighbors tomorrow afternoon.

Next Wednesday evening the band will play their last concert of the season on the streets of Klemme.

A short time ago Art Wellemeyer had one fine big angora cat; and now where there used to be only one cat, there are four cats. Art's live stock holdings are now enriched with three nice angora kittens, one white, one black and one gray, quite an assortment.

Mrs. Lester Stille and daughter were visiting at Lake Okoboji last week, and now she is enjoying company from there who returned home with her.

Carl Suckow's children of Garner spent the past week visiting with Grandpa and Grandma Suckow.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Suckow, of Garner, were Klemme visitors last evening.

Ed. Jacobs was at Minneapolis and St. Paul last Friday and Saturday on business. Mrs. Jacobs visited with her folks at Clear Lake during his absence.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kluckhohn and daughter, Mrs. Sadie Turgeson and son Donald, visited with Mrs. Washburn at Ventura, Sunday.

Verner Haberkamp is erecting a new set of buildings on his farm northwest of Klemme.

Miss Esther Jante spent Sunday visiting her mother at Garner.

Prof. Earl Blue, who taught in the Klemme schools last year, has moved into the house vacated by Supt. Peters at Goodell. Mr. Blue is superintendent at Goodell this year. Mr. Peters has the position as superintendent at Burt, Iowa.

Mr. C. C. Mayne was a business caller at Goodell, Saturday.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

A FEW CAUSES OF Oil Pumping
AND COMPRESSION LEAKAGE

1. Worn or out or round cylinders
2. Scored cylinders or pistons.
3. Warped or worn ring grooves.
4. Poorly fitted pistons and rings
5. Piston pin hole out of round.
6. Poorly aligned rod on piston assembly.
7. Sprung connecting rods.
8. Crank shaft warped or out of true.
9. Worn Bearings.
10. Warped or sticky valves.
11. Improper timing.
12. Leaky cylinder head gaskets.

All this cas be repaired at—

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

Use Quaker State Oil and Ever-ready Gasoline

Let 'er Buck

COME TO IOWA'S BIG ROUND-UP

EAGLE GROVE, Greenwood Park, Sept. 4, 5, 6, 7.
2:00 P. M. TWICE DAILY 7:30 P. M.
200 Head Wild Horses and Steers

An Entire Tribe of Indians Four Hours of Real Thrills
Dancing Friday, Saturday, Mon. Nights—Cato's Vagabonds
General Admission, $1.00 15,000 Grandstand Seats, 25c.

A New Health Food
"Kraut Juice"

We have just received a New Health Food—a healthful old time food in a new form—KRAUT JUICE, beneficial to sufferers of Rheumatism and Diabetes—comse in cans ready for use. "A Treat To Eat," and if you like old fashioned Sauerkraut you will enjoy this new food in liquid form—try t.

School Lnnches

Here's the place to come to get the very best for Sandwiches for the School Lunch Basket—always a full line of choicest Cold Meats of all kinds on hand. All kinds of Cheese; Canned Meats; and don't forget "Heinz 57 Varieties" for the lunch, such as Ketchups, Mustard, Sauces, Pickles, Olives, and many other appetizing foods.

Klemme Meat Market

Why Should You Pay Cream Station Operating Expense

In the average merchantile business two departments are not maintained when one can just as well do the business. This is good management because it cuts down the overhead expense.

We know one town in northern Iowa that today is maintaining a co-operative creamery and four cream stations.

With one more man on the force at the creamery the entire business could just as well all be handled there. Let's see what this is costing the farmers of the community. Four offices with an average expense of $50 per month, which equals $200. The salary of three extra men which would amount to at least $300 or a total of $500 that could just as well be added to the cream checks of the farmers of that vicinity. This is an exceptional case, perhaps, but you can figure it out in this town on the same basis and not go far wrong on the figures.

Who is paying this extra expense? Why: the farmers of course.

Patronize this creamery and cut out needless overhead expense.

Klemme Co-Operative Creamery Co.

The Cash Store

—AT DAY'S CASH STORE—

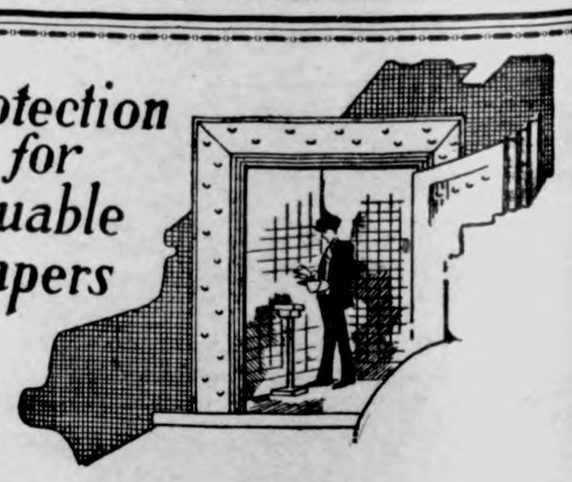
—Beginning August 22nd, and ending August 29, will give 10% DISCOUNT ON ALL SHOES PURCHASED HERE. This will give everyone an opportunity to lay in a supply for Fall and Winter. Get a pair for the Boys and Girls before School starts! .....

Saturday Special
A Good Broom for 49c

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Protection for Valuable Papers



What May Happen, If Your Place Burns?

While you are reading this, someone's building is being destroyed by fire. It happens every minute of the year. If your place burns what will happen to your business records that can't be duplicated and can't be insured? Put them in a Safe Deposit Box in our vault TODAY!

Take the first step toward the protection you owe yourself and others by renting a box at once.

First National Bank
KLEMME, IOWA.

Phone your news to 12, The Times.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Goll on August 11th.

Quite a number from here attended the Legion celebration at Belmond yesterday.

Isaac Sweigard and M. A. Fell, of Garner, were business callers in this city last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Seney, of Alexander, visited Klemme friends Sunday.

Mrs. S. F. Parzybok and son, of Vinton, came Sunday for a few days visit at the P. M. Wilson home.

Arthur Wellemeyer was a business visitor in Chicago the fore part of the week.

Dr. Carlson, of Mason City, was here yesterday at Dr. Zinn's office, performing tonsil operations.

WANTED—Plain sewing. Phone 1, Klemme, Iowa. 4tc

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larsen and children visited relatives near Iowa Falls, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Weaver and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Art Upmeyer, drove to Ohio about a week ago for a visit with relatives.

Dr. W. F. Missman and family returned Friday from their outing at their summer home at a lake in Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greimann and children, and Mr. Herman Greimann and children, left last week for a trip through the Black Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Palmby, and Mrs. Kenneth Rogers and children of Owasa, Iowa, visited with Klemme relatives last week end.

Albert Yahnke and family returned from Minnesota Sunday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Alvin Stokesbary and son.

Miss Francis Schaefer, of Marble Rock, Iowa, came Tuesday for a few days visit with her cousin, Mabelle Schaefer.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nissen, of Sioux City, came Monday evening for a few days visit at the John Day home.

Mr. and Mrs. Strudoff, from Ackley, visited at the Henry Lewis home Sunday. The ladies are cousins.

The First National Bank has installed 225 new safety deposit boxes. Read their "ad" this week calling your attention to them.

Velda, the little six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schaefer, had a rather serious operation performed last Monday at the Mercy Hospital at Mason City.

It pays to advertise in The Times. The Mason City gentleman who lost twenty-one dollars ran a fifty cent "lost adv" in the Times and now has his money back.

Mrs. P. M. Wilson and daughter, Miss Gladys, of this city, and Mrs. Parzybok and son, were guests at the Klingaman home at Garner for dinner Tuesday evening.

Clarence Elder and Jack Wellemeyer left in the former's car last Thursday afternoon for a visit until Monday with friends and relatives at various Minnesota towns.

Andrew Jorgenson and family, of Guthrie Center, came Saturday for an over Sunday visit with Ye Editor and family. Mr. Jorgenson is a cousin of the Editor.

Mr. Penrod, who is our superintendent of schools, spent several days in Klemme the past week, left for the southern part of the state for a few days visit with relatives b fore his school work begins here.

Grandma Fouts, who is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. D. Gimer, has been quite sick the past week. Mrs. Gimer's sister has been here to help care for Mrs. Fouts.

Thousands of young people will start training for life's work and success next week The Fall Term opens Tuesday, September 1.
The Hamilton University
Mason City, Iowa

John Jorgenson and family, of Guthrie Center, visited at the R. A. Jorgenson home a short time Tuesday on their way to Hampton. Mr. Jorgenson is a cousin of the Times Editor.

Ben Katter, Albert Fuller, August Katter and Bill Haberkamp returned Friday from their trip through North and South Dakota where they went to look at land. They say they like it fine in the west. They traveled 1200 miles.

The Western Union Thresher ring of Liberty township met the other evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schaefer. After the business meeting everybody took part in a social hour; the ladies furnished the cake and the men the ice cream for the lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grange and son, Dorance, returned Sunday from their trip to the Black Hills. They went in company with Mr. Grange's sister and family from Ruthven. Paul reports they had a very enjoyable vacation trip.

ESTRAY NOTICE

FOUND—Came to my place a boar. Owner can have same by paying cost of keep and advertising. Phone 3517, Klemme, Iowa. 2wc

Mrs. John Waterman went to Belmond Tuesday for a few days visit with her daughter, Mrs. Cullinan.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Barr expect to leave Saturday for Mansfield, Ohio, and points in Michigan for a visit with relatives and to spend a month's vacation, granted by the C. R. I. & P. Railway, of which Mr. M. O. Barr is local agent.

Mr. E. C. Ford, of Iowa Falls, was in town several days last week in the interests of his insurance company, of which he is th ir general agent. The Cedar Rapids Life Insurance Co., this week has a half page advertisement in The Times, showing their rapid growth and their financial standing.

The new city water tank arrived and is being placed at the pumping station this week. With the installing of this tank, Klemme will have two large tanks for storing water. The old tank will be raised and a new foundation put under it and put in good repair and will be used for an immergency tank. Mr. Peck, of Belmond has the contract for the work.

IDLE HOUR FRI. & SATURDAY

World's most famous dog, Strongheart, in Jack Londin's thrilling story of the frozen north, "WHITE FANG." The greatest actor the animal world has ever known! The dog with the human brain—he does everything but talk! Don't miss this wonderful picture Friday and Saturday, August 28 and 29.

The fire siren gave the alarm last Thursday forenoon when fire was reported at the Louie Knoke home in the northeast part of town. The blaze was caused when gasoline was used by mistake in starting the kitchen range fire. The can containing the gasoline ignited, throwing the flaming lisuid all over the room, burning th curtains and scorching paint. The blaze was put out by Mrs. Knoke before the fire truck arrived and little damage was done.

Al Emerson returned yesterday morning from a cohlpe of weeks visit with relatives at Cedar Rapids and Leon, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McConn came over from Clear Lake yesterday. They have rented a house there and will go to housekeeping. Mr. and Mrs. McConn have made many friends during their rouple years stay here who will regret their moving away.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell entertained the Hancock County rural mail carriers and their wives at their home Tuesday evening. About thirty people were present. After a social visit refreshments were served.

Mrs. Sumner Trumbell's little niece, who has been visiting here for some time, returned to her home yesterday.

A free dog and pony show was the main attraction for the kids on the street last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith and daughter, Mabel, and Dorance Day, returned from their Illinois visit last night.

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR WITH WILL ANNEXED

State of Iowa, Hancock County, ss.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administrator of the estate of Jacob Blumer deceased, late of Hancock County. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated to the undersigned for allowance and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

A. E. Katter.
Ramsay & Blackstone, Attorney.
Dated August 8, 1925. A 27

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTRIX

State of Iowa, Hancock Co.,ss.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN. That the undesigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Executrix of the estate of Earnest H. Lenz, deceased, late of Hancock County. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated to the undersigned for allowance, and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

Minnie Lenz
Dated Aug. 15, 1925 S 3

News of Klemme and Vicinity

School Supplies--

Our line of School Supplies is most complete and you will find this the right place to get what you need:

TABLETS, ink and pencil, all kinds.
NOTE BOOKS, every size and kind.
LOOSE-LEAF BOOKS, good values.
PENCILS, PENS, Pen Holders, Inks.
RULERS, Erasers, Automatic Pencils
PARKER Fountain Pens up to $7.00.

EXTRA BARGAIN—a $1.25 school fountain pen, a real one at ....$1.

Note Book Paper, Theme Paper, loose leaf fillers, exam paper, etc. ....

When The School Bell Rings Hike For The Drug Store For School Supplies

Wilson's Pharmacy

New Fall Material
For Fall and Winter Sewing

Our shelves are loaded with many new patterns in Fall and Winter Dress Goods which have recently arrived.

After Harvest is a good time to begin your Fall and Winter Sewing. You can find just what you want in our Dry Goods Department:

NEW FALL and WINTER DRESS GOODS

WOOL DRESS GOODS—in all newest patterns to choose from.

OTHER DRESS GOODS—Peter Pans, Poplins, Silk Pongee, Ginghams, Flannels, Percales and many other goods just arrived.

QUILTING MATERIAL of all kinds.

YARNS—in all colors.

Our Stock of Dry Goods Is Complete

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Paint Now!
Insure Against Weather--

PAINT your Buildings now—the best insurance you can buy for protection against "old man weather" who ruins more buildings than fire, lightning or wind.

Now is the time to get your outside painting done before cold weather sets in.

LOWE BROS. BARN PAINT

—Is cheapest to use because it goes further, covers better and lasts longer—we have it in RED and GRAY Colors. A high grade paint suitable for all farm buildings.

LOWE BROS. HOUSE PAINT

—When you paint your house you want the best, and that's Lowe Bros. Comes in all colors. For a better finish, lasting quality, preserving against weather—at no greater cost—LOWE BROS. for satisfaction!

Also a full line of brushes, Linseed oil, Turpo and Turpentine, etc. on hand.

E. F. Jacobs

KLEMME MARKETS

August 27, 1925

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.30
Shelled Corn	.80—.85
Ear Corn	.80
Rye	.80—.90
Barley	.60
Hogs, top	13.15
Eggs (cash)	.25
Eggs (trade)	.26
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.18
Leghorn Springs	.15
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butterfat	.45
Butter (Creamery)	.45

New Fall Styles

Our new Fall and Winter merchandise is arriving daily and we have a large showing of the very latest in:

Ladies and Misses Coats

New Fall Millinery

New Fall Dress Goods

Special Dress Sale

In order to clean up our Dress Department, we have made a rock-bottom price on two lots Summer Dresses.

Choice $9.98 and $13.75

Men's Fall Clothes

New Fall and Winter Coats Suits
Shoes, Oxfords Shirts, Hats, Etc.

Abraham & Sons

GARNER, IOWA

BIG DRIVE ON RUM STARTS SEPTEMBER 1

Andrews Names 24 Zone Administrators—Rev. Ewing Heads Chicago District.

Washington.—Rev. B. E. Ewing will be acting prohibition administrator for the Chicago district under the new regime which starts September 1, according to the long expected list of heads of the 24 enforcement districts, which was made public here. Those designated on the list as "acting" administrators are expected to fill their posts only temporarily.

Rev. Mr. Ewing was an Ohio preacher until he entered the federal service. The district of which he will have charge for the time being includes northern Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana, and is known as District 13.

These appointments are part of the program of Mr. Andrews to reorganize the enforcement department. It is expected that the big drive for enforcement will begin on Septemebr 1.

The administrators and the cities in which they will have their respective headquarters follow:

District 1—R. B. Sams, acting administrator, Boston; District 2—J. A. Foster, acting, New York; District 3—R. Q. Merrick, Buffalo; District 4—Frederick Baird, Pittsburgh; District 5—William G. Murdock, Philadelphia; District 6—Edmund Budnitz, Baltimore; District 7—R. A. Fulwiler, Roanoke, Va.; District 8—B. C. Sharpe, Charlotte, N. C.; District 9—Halsey Dunwoody, Tampa, Fla.; District 10—O. I. Jackson, New Orleans, La.; District 11—Sam Collins, Louisville, Ky.; District 12—E. L. Porterfield, Columbus, Ohio; District 13—B. E. Ewing, acting, Chicago; District 14—W. D. Moses, acting, St. Louis; District 15—A. C. Townsend, acting, St. Paul; District 16—A. W. Campbell, Omaha; District 17—Herbert H. White, Fort Worth, Texas; District 18—John F. Vivian, Denver, Colo.; District 19—Elias Masters, Helena, Mont.; District 20—Roy C. Lyle, Seattle, Wash.; District 21—E. C. Yellowley, San Francisco; District 22—Robert E. Frith, Los Angeles; District 23—E. C. F. Crabbe, acting, Honolulu; District 24—A. P. Hanlon, San Juan, Porto Rico.

Treasury Rulings Add to Stock-Exchange Taxes

Washington.—Two treasury decisions were issued with reference to the capital-stock tax and income tax as related to stock exchanges. The decisions amend regulations 64 (the capital-stock tax regulations) and regulations 65 (the income-tax regulations) by adding to each the following:

"A stock exchange is not a business league, chamber of commerce or board of trade within the meaning of the law and is not exempt from tax."

This opinion has a direct bearing upon the taxability of stock exchanges and also of produce and similar exchanges.

Wisconsin University Rejects $600,000 Gift

Madison, Wis.—The board of regents of the University of Wisconsin, in voting recently not to accept funds from endowed corporations, thereby turned down a tentative gift of $600,000 for a medical building, it became known.

Dr. Charles Bardeen, dean of the university medical school, confirmed reports that private endowment organizations had indicated favorable response to suggestons that the medical school could use financial aid. The negotiations were brought to an end with the resolution of the regents prohibiting the acceptance of such gifts.

President Coolidge Back at Summer White House

Swampscott, Mass.—President and Mrs. Coolidge returned to the summer White House after an absence of a week. The 145-mile afternoon automobile ride from Northampton was without incident.

Still undecided as to when he will return to Washington, the President, on arrival at White Court found a mass of business had accumulated during his absence.

The departure from the home at Northampton of Mrs. Elmira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge, was made in a drizzle.

Roosevelt Expedition Forced to Back Track

Kashgar.—The James Simpson-Roosevelt-Field museum expedition in central Asia was expected to reach Kashgar soon by way of Maralbashi and Aksu. The Roosevelt expedition was reported to have reached Maralbashi, in Chinese Turkestan, and to be pushing on to Aksu to the northeast. The route to Kashgar will cause them to retrace ther steps to Maralbashi and then branch westward to Kashgar.

Kill Messenger; Get $14,000

New York.—Three thugs waylaid a taxicab in which Joseph Gallagher, a messenger for the Perth Amboy (N. J.) Trust company, was riding with a pay roll of $14,000, killed Gallagher and grabbed the money.

Hotel Swept by Flames

San Angelo, Texas.—A blaze that seemed to burst at once from all three stories of the Landon hotel here destroyed it. Four persons were burned. The loss was $150,000.

MOOR TRIBE QUITS WAR AGAINST FRENCH

Sacrifices Five Bulls as Mark of Surrender.

Fez, French Morocco.—Five bulls were hamstrung and killed before General Simon and his staff as a mark of surrender of 300 men, women, and children of the Oulez tribe to the French army.

Submission of Moroccan tribes usually is accompanied by flamboyant ceremony and fantastic native rites. The Oulez, an important faction of the larger Tsoul tribe, arrived at the French post at Oued Ameill, accompanied by their families and led by a venerable white bearded caid. They had had a long, tedious journey.

The caid explained the Oulez loved France because the French had rescued Morocco from anarchy and had given them great prosperity. He bowed low before General Simon and asked the benedictions of Allah to descend on him. Then the caid's family knelt on their carpets and prayed. Others followed them to their knees.

With his face in the dust, the caid spoke as follows:

"For us the bull is the symbol of strength and courage. In order to prove to you that we consider ourselves vanquished we will sacrifice five bulls in your presence, cutting the muscles of their legs before killing them.

"You are stronger than we. We have our leg muscles cut, our hands cut; but we know your kindness. You won't kill us, won't sacrifice us to your vengeance. France is not vengeful. Peace be with thee."

Then, with one gesture, the men threw their rifles and cartridges to the ground and departed. Each family was fined 100 francs.

Fez.—Preparations for a general offensive against the Moorish tribesmen have been completed.

Meanwhile cleaning up operations by the French continue.

Victor F. Lawson, Owner Chicago Daily News, Dies

Chicago.—Victor F. Lawson, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, for many years one of the foremost newspaper men of America, died at his residence, 1500 Lake Shore drive, from heart disease, traceable to overwork in his long and assiduous career in journalism. At Mr. Lawson's bedside when he passed away were his only Chicago relatves, Mr. and Mrs. Clark M. Cavenee, Mrs. Cavenee being the publisher's niece. Mr. Lawson's wife died several years ago. They had no children.

Victor Fremont Lawson has been spoken of as the least in the public eye of any man of similar power and influence in Chicago. Mr. Lawson was born in Chicago on September 9, 1850, and, therefore, would have been seventy-five years old next month.

Editor Kills Bystander in Fight With Ex-Judge

East Las Vegas, N. M.—Carl C. Magee, Albuquerque editor and storm center of New Mexico politics, shot and killed John B. Lassatter, a state employee, in a hotel here when, in a fight with former District Judge D. J. Leahy, his political enemy, he drew a revolver and fired. Lassatter was a bystander.

Magee fired two shots after he had been knocked to the floor by Leahy, the first shot striking Lassatter and the second wounding Leahy in the arm. Leahy was the district judge who tried Magee in two cases, both of which gained national publicity. Magee was taken into custody.

Britain Threatens War Against Reds at Canton

London.—Vice Admiral Sinclair of the British navy has been ordered to take freedom of action in restoring the shipping rights of the British in Canton. He has arrived at Canton on the flagship Petersfield.

He must deal with the Canton government, which has asserted that it is determined to enforce picketing of all steamers by the labor forces in that port. This is regarded as tending to open warfare.

If the admiral tries to enforce the Chino-British shipping treaty, Peking will be powerless to prevent hostilities.

Charge Rich Realty Man Poisoned Woman in Jail

Miami, Fla.—John Gobel, wealthy Florida real estate operator, is held under charges of administering poison to Mrs. H. D. Hunt, who died here. A coroner's jury verdict accused Gobel of the crime after Deputy Sheriff P. C. Latham had testified that the real estate man confessed administering the poison. Gobel visited Mrs. Hunt at the jail, where she was being detained on charges of theft of a $1,500 ring preferred by him.

Wisconsin Election Sept. 29

Madison, Wis.—The special election to fill the senate seat made vacant by the death of Robert M. LaFollette will be held September 29. The primary will be held two weeks earlier, it was announced here.

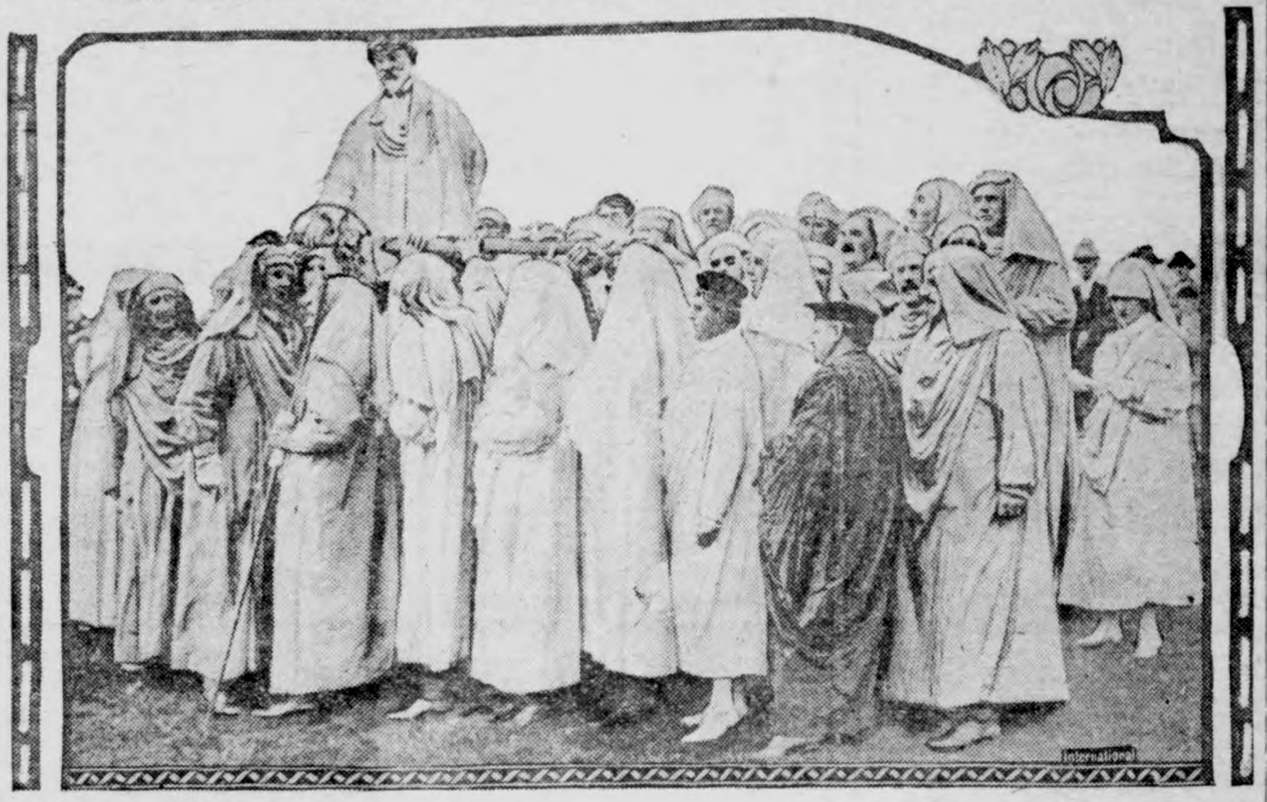
Nations Asked to Radio Parley

Washington.—Forty-two governments have been asked to send representatives to the radio-telegraph conference to be held in Washington in the spring of 1926.

Germans Expelled From Poland

When Poland, in accordance with the treaty of Versailles, expelled all the Germans from Polish territory that formerly had belonged to Germany there was great distress among the many thousands of exiles because Berlin had not made adequate arrangements for their care. The picture shows a few of the refugees in their temporary camp.

Welsh From All Over World Attend National Eisteddfod



Nine thousand Welshmen from all parts of the world attended the Royal Welsh National Eisteddfod, historical ancient ceremony, at Pwllheli, Wales. The photograph shows the pedrog, the deputy arch druid, holding the sword of peace.

Soviet Military Auto Race Route

A view of the Georgian road from Vladikavkaz to Tiflis, over which the race from Moscow to Tiflis, staged by Soviet Russia as a military warning to the rebellious Georgians, will be run. The road took fifty years in the building, having been started by the Georgians in 1806 as a defensive measure. It is the only highway across the Caucasus mountains, nor are there railways in this section.

Young Iowa Boy Murders Father

Out in Parkersburg, Iowa, young Warren Vandervoort has confessed that he killed his father, Rev. R. J. Vandervoort, and seriously wounded his mother. The illustration shows the parsonage where the tragedy was enacted and portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Vandervoort and the youthful slayer.

CHICAGO'S CHOICE

Miss Marguerita Gonzalez, whose long brown curls and Spanish type beauty won her the much-desired title of "Miss Chicago." She will represent Chicago in the national tournament for most beautiful bathing girl at Atlantic City.

SOUGHT BY POLICE

This is George A. ("Dutch") Anderson, mail robber, jail breaker and pal of Gerald Chapman who is being hunted by the police again. They believe he murdered Ben Hance and his wife of Muncie, Ind., who informed on Chapman

COOLIDGE APPROVES DEBT SETTLEMENT

Interest on Belgian War Loan Canceled—Given 62 Years to Pay.

Northampton, Mass.—President Coolidge approved the Belgian debt settlement. The President's signature to the agreement leaves the next step, so far as the American government is concerned, up to congress, which must ratify all settlements.

Washington.—Agreement for settlement of the Belgian debt to the United States was reached at a joint conference at the Treasury department between the Belgian and American debt commissions.

The Belgians were given separate treatments on their pre-armistice and post-war debts.

The full amount of the debt, under the lenient terms agreed upon by the American and Belgian commission, is $417,000,000. But when Belgium makes her final payment at the end of sixty-two years, she will have paid $727,780,000.

Because of Belgium's unique part in the war, the United States commission agreed to charge no interest on the pre-armistice debt of $171,780,000. On the $246,000,000 borrowed after the armistice for reconstruction work she will pay 3¼ per cent interest. Payments of the principal on the pre-armistice debt will begin at once, a moratorium having been granted.

The terms granted Belgium differ in many respects from those given to Great Britain. Accrued interest on the Belgian post-war debt was figured at 4½ per cent to December 15, 1922. From that date to June 15, 1925, it was figured at the rate of 3 per cent.

Members of both commissions were elated over the settlement. The agreement must be ratified by congress and the Belgian parliament.

Four More Ship Blast Victims Die; Toll Is 4

Newport, R. I.—The death of Edward Donovan of Pawtucket brought to forty-six the total of deaths resulting from the explosion of a boiler on the excursion steamer Mackinac.

Assistant Attorney General Heazen, continuing his investigation, said:

"State officials have viewed the boiler of the Mackinac. They found it was an old one, deteriorated and thin in certain places.

"If officers of the steamer have been guilty of negligence, either by acts of commission or omission, they may, where loss of life occurs, be guilty of manslaughter."

Wheat Should Yield U. S. Farmers Highest Price

Chicago.—The world wheat situation again favors the American farmer, according to a statement issued by Gray Silver, an authority on farm conditions.

"If the farmers of America market their wheat in an orderly way, this year's crop should yeld them much better than present prices here and in other markets, and probably the best prices in years," Mr. Silver said.

Air Exploration of Polar Regions This Year Ended

Washington.—Exploration of the polar sea by air this year has been abandoned by the MacMillan expedition because of adverse weather conditions, it was announced by the National Geographic society. The party will proceed to explore Norse ruins in Greenland and Labrador and survey Baffin island.

Rudolph Valentino and Wife Are Parted, Report

New York.—The New York American says that Rudolph Valentino, original "sheik" of the screen, and his wife, Winifred de Wolfe Hudnut Valentino, have separated. The paper quotes George Ellman, manager for Mrs. Valentino, as describing an amicable arrangement for parting.

Retail Food Costs Up 3 Per Cent During July

Washington.—An increase of slightly more than 3 per cent in July was shown by the index figures of the bureau of labor statistics of the Interior department made public here.

An increase of 11.5 per cent in food articles was reported for the year ending July 15.

Income Tax Fraud Costs Him $685,000

San Francisco.—The Examiner says that Ralph R. Strange, Burlingame millionaire, has agreed to pay the government $685,000 to escape trial on five federal indictments charging perjury and making false income tax returns.

Pershing Protects Peruvians

Arica, Chile.—General Pershing, as a member of the Tacna-Arica plebiscite commission, intervened with the Chileans in behalf of the rights of the Peruvians. Vendors of a newspaper were threatened by a mob.

Fight on Oil Station Fraud

Washington.—A campaign against substitution at filling stations of cheap grades of oil for the grades asked for by motorists was announced by the National Better Business bureau.

Design Laws to Protect Women

Several States Limit the Weight a Woman May Lift in Industries.

Washington. — How many pounds can a woman lift? This is not a question as to the maximum lifting feat that has been accomplished in a circus or on the vaudeville stage, but has to do with the weights which working women may handle without jeopardizing their health.

Five states have undertaken to regulate by laws or codes the weights which women may lift, but industrial experts declare that no fair and satisfactory standards have been established either in this country or abroad.

California has a law which forbids women to lift receptacles which weigh 75 pounds or more. Ohio prohibits the employment of women in any capacity which necessitates their lifting weights of 25 pounds or over. Pennsylvania decrees that women shall not handle, in core rooms, cores which weigh more than 15 pounds. These are parts of molds used in iron and steel casting. New York in its industrial code, rule 585, provides that women shall not handle cores which weigh more than 25 pounds.

Method of Lifting Important.

It is recognized, however, that the problem cannot be solved by writing into a law or code the maximum number of pounds which a woman may lift. A great deal depends upon the way in which anything is lifted and the distance, reach and stretch which it entails. To lift 25 pounds from one table to another of the same height does not require as much energy and strain as a lift 15 pounds from the floor to a shelf over one's head.

In order to ascertain the seriousness of the problem the Bureau of Women in Industry in New York state had the figures compiled for a given year of all the women in the state who received compensation as a result of strain from lifting. The year ending June 30, 1925, the tenth year for compensation cases, was selected for the survey, and the report shows that 100 women received compensation of the character indicated during that period.

These 100 women averaged 13 weeks' disability, and the amount of their compensation averaged $109. All of the disabilities were temporary except two. One woman who suffered from a permanent partial disability was employed in a hotel and the other in an office building.

Most Injured in Factories.

Almost one-half of the women incurring disabilities from lifting weights too heavy for them to handle—46, to be exact, were employed in manufacturing establishments. Thirty-one were engaged in clerical and personal service, 20 were employed in trade, 2 by public utilities and 1 in building construction.

In the manufacturing group there was one case of strain from lifting in each of the following: Foundries, hardware, sheet metal ware, wire, beds, construction machinery, wood turning, confectionery, tobacco, clothing, furnishing goods, needle trades, shoddy, cotton goods, woolen goods, ink, soap and paper.

In the clerical and personal service classification the largest number of cases, 14, occurred in hotels and clubs, while there were 13 cases in apartment and office buildings.

In the trade group the largest number of accidents took place in food, department and five-and-ten-cent stores —13 in all.

Problem Has Many Angles.

The New York state department of labor says that the analysis of these figures, contrary to expectation, shows that the problem of lifting heavy weights does not lie wholly in the manufacturing group, but rather it lies with women who are doing cleaning, those acting as waitresses and carrying heavy trays, janitresses who set out ashes, and women employed in stores who lift heavy boxes from shelves and replace them.

"It is doubtful," says the report, "whether laws or codes ever could be made which could regulate with any degree of justice the question of lifting. It becomes practically a matter of personal equation, and a matter of knowing how to do it.

"The fact that many of the strains from lifting accidents fall into industries where weights are not heavy is an indication that perhaps distance, reach, stretch, etc., have more to do with the accident than the actual weight. It becomes, therefore, a matter of teaching women how to lift with the least possible exertion."

War-Time Standards.

During the World war, when thousands of women went into munition plants or undertook other work ordinarily performed by men, the problem of conserving their health was regarded as of as much importance as the matter of their compensation. In the proclamation creating the national war labor board, as one of the basic principles upon which industrial controversies were to be settled or adjusted it was stipulated that women must not be allotted tasks disproportionate to their strength.

The reconstruction program of the American Federation of Labor included a declaration that "women workers must not be permitted to perform tasks disproportionate to their physical strength, or which tend to impair their potential motherhood and prevent the continuation of a nation of strong, healthy, sturdy and intelligent men and women." Substantially the same provision was incorporated in the program submitted by the labor group in the first national industrial conference, called by President Wilson in October, 1919, and the second conference adopted the following recommendation:

"Women cannot enter industry without safeguards additional to those provided for men, if they are to be equally protected. The danger of exploiting their physical and nervous strength with cumulative ill effects upon the next generation is more serious and the results are more harmful to the community. Special provision is needed to keep their hours within reason, to prohibit night employment in factories and workshops and to exclude them from those trades offering particular dangers to women."

Can Compete With Men.

The war experience proved that under the stress of national necessity women could do almost any kind of work that men can do. Handicaps theretofore accepted as insurmountable were overcome quickly and easily. Hampering skirts and petticoats were discarded and the overalls of the male workers were adopted. In the matter of inferior strength, inventive genius came forward with a machine or a method that minimized the physical demands upon the worker. If it was a question of environment, of moral and sex hazards to which, under the old order, common acceptance had ruled that women should not be subjected, then society immediately reared around women workers a protective wall of sentiment and public opinion.

It was found that many occupations had been closed to women for no reason other than tradition or custom, and it was also found that women excelled at tasks at which it had been believed that only men could be proficient.

Contrary to exceptions it was found that standards of productivity were raised in many instances instead of lowered as a result of the introduction of woman workers into industries theretofore reserved to men. This was notably true in England, where low wages and unsatisfactory working conditions had resulted in a deliberate program of restricting production on the part of man workers. Women went in and speeded up the output until men were shamed into increased effort.

At the present time women who are leaders in activities for the welfare of their sex are most concerned in putting over the equal-pay-for-equal-work principle than they are in bringing about legal restrictions upon the weights which a woman should be permitted to lift. They say that when a woman does a man's job she should get a man's pay, and that she herself is the best judge as to whether a task she tackles is too great a strain upon her strength.

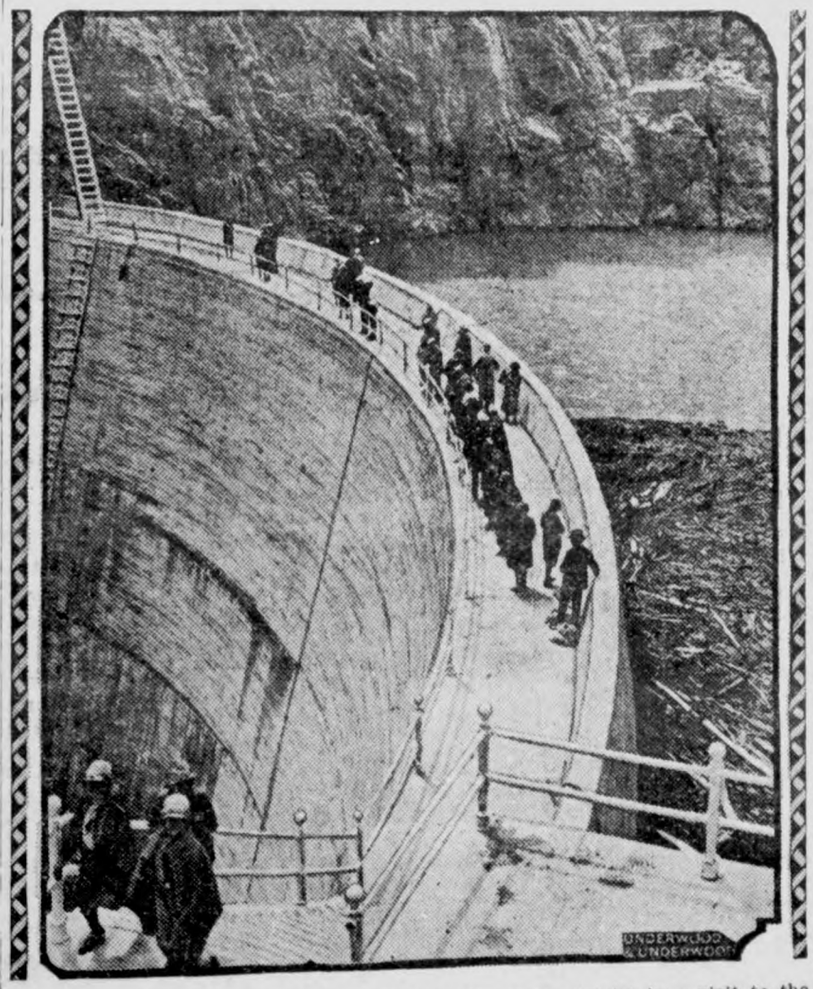
Maine Buys Historic Forts for Public Parks

Portland, Maine.—Eight old forts on the coast of Maine, with ruined blockhouses and grass-grown ramparts, have been bought by the state from the federal government in the last two years to be converted into parks of historic interest.

A bill proposing that the forts be sold to private persons was introduced in the senate in December, 1922. On hearing of it, Gov. Percival B. Baxter took immediate action. The cost of the forts and equipment and sites amounted to only $19,479.50. More, of course, will be needed for repairing the ruins and putting the reservations into good order, which means improving and strengthening sea walls. Proper signs will be placed for the guidance of visitors.

Other states are following the lead of Maine and are preparing to restore their old forts. These include Fort Vancouver in Washington, Harrod's fort in Kentucky and Fort Pike in Colorado.

Shoshone Dam Attracts Tourists



Nature's beauty spots are not all that attract the tourist in a visit to the Yellowstone, for the Shoshone dam on the Yellowstone river is one of the most remarkable pieces of engineering among the many that have made the desert to flower in the West. The walkway along the top of the dam makes an ideal promenade for visitors to view the wonders.

ABBE GABRIEL PREDICTS THE WEATHER FOR 2669

Eminent French Meteorologist Bases Calculations on His Discovery of Solar Cycle.

Paris.—That it is possible to predict weather even centuries in advance by adopting the principle that the solar cycle includes 744 years is the astounding statement, made in all seriousness, to the Academy of Sciences by the eminent astronomer and meteorologist, Abbe Gabriel.

The discovery of the solar cycle of 744 years is reported by Gabriel as a result of more than sixty years of research, the abbe told the academy. The cycle includes 9,202 full moons and 67 periods of sun spots. The cycle divides into two periods of 372 years or four of 186 years each.

After his discovery, Gabriel bent his researches on great meteorological years of the past to finally discover, to his vast amazement, that direct relation existed between the periods of 744 years, 372 years and 186 years and their winters of extreme severity and summers of extreme heat.

Thus, the terrible winter of 1917, which cost the lives of thousands of soldiers on the western front, corresponded with that of 1544, or 373 years previously, and with other years famous in the annals of severe winters. The severe February of 1895 corresponded with that of 1709. The celebrated winter of 1879-80 corresponded with 1694, 1508, and 1323, all 186 years apart.

Gabriel added that the year 1740, the most severe winter Paris has ever known, probably will be repeated next year, 186 years afterward. The astronomer made similar comparisons of especially noteworthy summers.

Contentment is a pearl of price.

Thirsty Songbirds Rob Tomatoes of Water

Cambridge, Md.—As a result of the long-continued drought in the Church creek district of Dorchester county, robins, blackbirds and starlings have begun eating tomatoes to obtain drinking water. It is the first time in the memory of the oldest residents here that robins have been known to molest crops. So great has the nuisance become that the farmers are using shotguns to protect their crops.

One farmer said that in one day the birds destroyed a hundred baskets of ripe fruit. Some are now asking if a rain would end the bird's depredations or if, once having learned the value of tomatoes as food, they would continue to eat them even when no longer needed for moisture? Another question is this: Will the Church creek birds tell of their discovery to those in other districts? If they do, the farmers are in for serious trouble.

Agricultural implements belonging to the new stone age recently have been discovered in China.

FALL COATS PASS IN REVIEW; FROCKS IN WOOL OR SILK

THE procession of new fall coats is beginning to pass in review; important looking and gracious garments, that immediately inspire respect and interest, are in the vanguard and we are meeting them for the first time. There is nothing easy-going and casual in their style points—they are original, beautiful, assertive and increasingly emphasized when coats for formal wear or semidress come into view.

The most important style note is the changed silhouette—the new coats are fuller and the flaring skirtline has gone a long way toward replacing the straight line. This greater fulness is very adroitly managed with a view to preserving the impression of slenderness in the figure and is usually introduced below the swell of the hips or in front. With it there is a tailored trimness in the body of the garment—very long sleeves and high collars adding length of line, and there is much dignity in design.

Fur maintains its place as a border for the bottom of many coats and has captured other positions. Besides collars and cuffs in great variety fur supplies trimming touches in other ways and is much used in patches and emplacements on dressy coats. A handsome coat of the sports type that will make a strong appeal to younger women is shown in the picture. It is made of natural kasha, lined with red crepe which appears in the turned back cuff and revers. It is bordered with American opossum fur and has a decoration of buttons down the sides. In this model the fullness is developed in front and the fur border emphasizes the flare in the skirt, but the coat hangs straight at the back.

New style points in fall dresses are coming in like a flock of debutantes, for presentation at the court of fashion. One style show follows another in the large cities and here the new arrivals make their bow. There has been some doubts as to whether some of them would be well received or not; for certain of them have little lineage and few can point back to any particular period for their origin. They are modernists and original, but well behaved and rarely bizarre.

First and most important is the tailored note in street and afternoon frocks and in coats. There is no doubt about its success for American women have long admired tailored styles. In this connection the return of wool to favor must be noted, especially in smooth-faced cloths of high luster—broadcloth or "satin broadcloth," as it is called, and fine flannels. Next in order of importance is increased fulness, by means of plaits or flares. But this increased fulness in tailored dresses does not always mean a wider silhouette. Plaits are the favored medium for introducing fulness. There is almost no exception to the rule of long sleeves, but in these and in necklines there is a pleasing variety.

One of the newcomers, shown above, might be developed in a smooth-faced wool cloth, ribbed silk or crepe satin and one may study in the picture its adaptation of certain favored style features. A group of plaits at each side, in the skirt, release a little fulness below the hips and they are accented by buttons about them, covered with material like the dress. The vestee and undersleeves appear to be of tucked net banded with a very narrow braid and the tie of narrow ribbon with long ends is a particularly effective finish for an excellent model.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Width and Dignity in This Design.

One of the Newcomers.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Talent is something, but tact is everything. Talent is serious, sober, grave and respectable; tact is all that and more.

DIFFERENT FOODS

Here are a few suggestions which will add variety to the menus:

Potato Soup With Stock.—Pare and slice six potatoes. In a frying pan melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and slowly cook the potatoes in it with one sliced onion and half a cupful of celery. When the vegetables begin to look yellow, add two cloves and a quart of chicken or veal broth. Season to taste with salt and pepper and simmer until soft. Rub through a sieve and return to the fire. Add more broth if too thick. Beat two eggs, add three tablespoonfuls of cream, just as it is ready to serve. Garnish with chopped parsley.

English Beef Soup.—Take two and one-half pounds of lean beef, cut off and reserve a quarter of a pound and put the remainder through the meat grinder. Pour over it three pints of cold water, let stand for half an hour, then heat to the simmering point, simmer three hours, then strain. Boil two tablespoonfuls of barley and half a cupful of diced carrot until tender. Cut the reserved meat into small pieces, add a sliced onion and fry in hot fat; add a cupful of celery, and cupful of boiling water and simmer for an hour.

Roast Pork With Cherry Sauce.—Parboil a loin of pork, then place it in the roaster with a little water, three sliced carrots, two chopped onions, a sprinkling of powdered thyme, parsley and cloves. If covered tightly it will not need basting. Place on a platter, sprinkle with fine crumbs and a dash of cinnamon. Serve with cherry sauce. To a pint of cherries using some of the kernels for flavor, add sugar, slice of toasted bread and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. When the fruit has simmered until soft, put through a sieve and reheat until thick.

Green Stuffing for Fowl.—Mix together two cupfuls of soft bread crumbs, one-half cupful of melted butter, the grated rind of a lemon, one-fourth of a cupful of finely chopped parsley, a teaspoonful of thyme and marjoram, one-half teaspoonful of salt and pepper, two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped green pepper and a tablespoonful of scraped onion.

Jumbles.—Cream half a cupful of butter, add a cupful of sugar and cream together until smooth. Add the stiffly beaten yolks of two eggs and beat again, then add a cupful of flour, a pinch of salt, and flavoring to taste—mace is the old-fashioned flavoring used—fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and add just enough flour to form the cookies into balls. Rub the hands with butter and make the little cakes the size of marbles. Press a raisin, nut of cherry into each and bake a delicate brown.

Proper Care of Foods.

During the hot weather which often continues into the last weeks of September it is well to consider the care of foods. Berries and fresh fruits of all kinds should be examined daily to remove any that are spoiled. Keep in a cool dark place; small fruits are kept best by spreading them in shallow plates. Their own weight crushes and spoils them. Watermelon is usually too large for any ice box compartment. It may be wrapped in wet sacking and lay in a draft where the wind will blow over it. Frequent wetting will keep it cool. A few slices may be cut and placed in the ice chest for immediate use.

Such vegetables as peas, corn, beets and others containing sugar should be served, if possible, soon after gathering. Corn will begin to ferment within an hour after picking. The ideal food for serving is vegetables gathered and put to cook within an hour.

Cucumbers should be crisp, cool and delicious when properly treated. For those who enjoy the wilted and leathery vegetable, treat them with salt and do not blame the cucumbers if some one has colic or intestinal spasms.

It must be well understood that all foods rich in nitrogen, such as milk, and its products, meat, eggs, fish and such foods decompose easily under the influence of heat and moisture and most of these foods then become deadly poisonous, causing serious illness that is often fatal.

Meat to be kept should be brushed with an equal portion of olive oil and vinegar, or melted butter and vinegar. Keep in a cool place; this will protect the meat from bacteria and make it more tender as well.

Fats decompose very quickly. The marrow of mutton and lamb and all membranes should be removed if the meat is to be kept, as these portions decay very quickly.

Lemons keep well in a dish of water, changing the water two or three times a week.

Mince canned pimentoes with mayonnaise dressing and spread on white bread.

Nellie Maxwell

SMALL TOWN IS NOT DOOMED

Says the Swea City Herald—One reads of lot these days about the small town being doomed on account of the automobile and good roads, luring the people to larger centers of trade. The subject was discussed at some length Tuesday evening by the merchants and the consensus of opinion was that it is the bunk so far as Swea City is concerned. Indeed, the reverse is true here—the auto and good roads are contributing largely to the towns well being. Dealers who have been in business along main street for many years say the volume of trade never was greater, and express astonishment over the increasing number of strangers who come to buy.

The chief thing to guard against in the changed status occasioned by the auto is the citizens of the community relapsing into, a state of somnolence and becoming slack about civic virtues. But the receipt for successful selling never changes It is the same today as it has been through the centuries since buying and selling started—sell as reasonably as possible, give the best of service and treat people decently.

The big boys in the big towns may think the small town is doomed. Let 'em think so. We hope they rock themselves to sleep with that notion.

The Swea Ciy Herald speaks truly in the above story. The small town is not doomed and it can still make the big towns go some when it comes to competition. It all depends upon the business men in the small town. If they cooperate in a fight for business, of which they will all get a shade, instead of fighting among themselves, thes mall town is still on them ap. There is plenty of business for thes mall town merchant if he goes after it.

The miracle of Fred Anderson building up a $300,000 a year ness in a town of 1200 in Nebraska in competition with larger towns, can be duplicated anywhere if the merchant will spend just as large a percent for advertising as Mr. Ander son spends. Mr. Anderson credits his entire sucess to newspaper adver ti ng and then having the goods to sell.

The University of Wisconsin has cured hay in eight hours by hot air. Big Congress meets in winter.—Philadephia Record.

AUDIOMETER DETECT STRANGE 'ISLANDS OF HEARING"

Unable to hear a clock strike, but enjoying every note of a canary's song—

Quite possible and of frequent occurence according to University of Iowa scientists who have invented the audiometer, an instrument which unerringly detects the pecular "islands of hearing" now utilized in devising instruments to overcome "deafness."

The loudness of a sound, they find, is not so important as the frequency of vibration of the sound waves. The average human ear is capable of hearing from sixteen to 24,000 vibrations per second, these extremes marking the lowest and highest audible note, respectively.

Diseased ears, it has been found may be able to hear only certain parts of this range, called "islands of hearing." If they are unable to hear the range which includes the ordinary sounds of the human voice, they are said to be "deaf". Although they may hear faster or slower vibrations perfectly. The audiometer locates exactly the limits of islands of audible sound to any person tested, after which instruments to auiment sound in that particular range may be made.

WORKING NEW GAG

Another new gypsy trick being worked in southeastern Minnesota, is bein reported from a number of places. It consists in the theft of gasoline during fortune telling operations. One piece of busine this kind is reported from Highway No. 44, between Caledonio and Spring Grove this week. Three car loads of gypsies traveling in large cars stopped a Ford coupe with a lone occupant on the road and while several of the fair maidens of the clan held the young man's attention as they told him his fortune another member of the party crawled under his car with a pail and drained the gasoline out of his tank. The young man was innocently amused as the dark skinned maids told him of many thing of the distant future held for him, was unconcerned of anything else going on about him and suspected nothing. After the tank was drained dry and the gasoline had been removed to one of the cars, the gypsies quickly wound up their tale of thef uture of the young man and returned to their automobiles leaving the unsuspecting youth alone to dwell on his future—and an empty gas tank.

DON' BE A "SUCKER" FOREVER

There isn't a man who wouldn't resent being called a sucker, and yet there are few among us who are not. Mark Twain wrote his own life story and in it he admitted that he was a sucker to the extent of putting $190,000 of his earnings ino a type setting machine that would set type. But another man started in on the same thing and built a successful one, so the whole world profited through Mark Twain's experience a sucker. Henry Ford let a neighbor have $5.000 worth of stock when he first started, his auto plant and a few years ago that neighbor sold his stock for $21,000,000. As we look back all of us can see instances wherein we could have made money and big money, but for some sucker step we took in the wrong direction. But it's no disgrace to have been a sucker—to have made a mistake. The disgrace consists in being a sucker all the time, in not profiting by the mistake we did make.

ADVERTISING DID IT

Wrigley, tne chewing gum man, has explained how he built up a business of millions of packages a day. He has done it by sticking to his one line and advertising it. He spends over a million dollars a year in buying newspaper space to tell the world about five cent chewing gum. He has educated people to chew gum and to chew Wrigley's. He did not stop shouting as soon as he attracted attention. He says you must keep it up to the buyers, or they will forget you. Whether yours is a fivec ent or a $50,000 business, keep telling about it.

Garner Buys Fire Truck

The city council of Garner hos made arrangements to buy a fire truck for the city, the outfit to cost $3,1000. The Garner fire department has agreed to pay $1,000 of the cost, the town paying the balance .The truck is a Reo speed wagon, equipped with a 140 gallon water tank, two chemical tanks and a suction hose with 175 pounds pressure.

Jig Jog Jags

The Tall One— And what's more fatty, you never will be able to catch as big as fish as I can. you ain't built right.

TO THE VICTOR—

"I hear that you're going to marry the lawyer who won that million dollar estate for you.'

"It was the only way, my dear, I'd ever be able to use any of the money:"

"Well, it certainly is no use talking," said the fat man when he failed to squeeze himself into the telephone booth.

Wife: Have a good time on your fishing trip?

Husband: No, some damn fool brought along a pair of scales.

A COMPLETE CHANGE

Physician (to rich patient)—You are all run down. I suggest that you lay off golf for a while and get a good rest at the office.

Life has three doors. There's the door marked "Push" and the door marked "Pull", and then there's the revolving door."

Barton: What makes your next door neighbor so unpopular?

Borrows: He's fixed his lawnmower so you have to drop a nickel in the slot to make it go."

Rather Heavy Young Man— And when I take you home to my people I want you to remember that we have our ancestry and traditions, and—

Young Woman: Oh, for the love of Mike, cut out that pre-war stuff.

A cynic is one who divides all marriages into two classes: "Love is Blind", and general housework.

Sharper: "Say stranger, would you like to buy the Brooklun Bridge —at only $1000 "

Sight Seer: "Nope, Iain't got any money. I just bought the Statue of Liberty for $500."

Relatives are persons who wonder how you managed to keep out of jail so long.

Better in Fabric; Smarter in Style Than Usual Are These

Boy's Fall Suits

All the goodness ever put into Boys' Clothes were put into these suits. They're made right to begin with——and priced right, too. Shown in either the English Styles or with long trousers. Extra pants with each suit.

Large Assortments, newest fabrics in all the new Fall shades. Bring YOUR Boy in.

$8.50 13.50 20

Patton Brothers Co.

Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY, IOWA

HOW TO TEST ANY INVESTEMNT——

YOUR copy is waiting for you here if you will give us your name, and address on the COUPON, we will send it by return mail.

The TEST will tell you what to look for before investing your money and may save you worry and loss.
Just fill in the COUPON.

..... Coupon .....
: —For One Free Copy "THE TEST."— :
: Name ..... :
: Address ..... :
.....

Mail to:—

CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY

215 South 2nd St., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

As Good and Strong as the Strongest A Good Western Company

The Old Line

Cedar Rapids Life Insurance Company

Financial Condition

December 31, 1924

Assets

First Mortgages on Farm Lands ..	$1,794,873.00
Municipal Bonds, Liberty Bonds, and W. S. S.	9,620.51
Premium Notes and Policy Loans..	375,346.40
Cash in Banks and Office	35,835.96
Other Ledger Assets	28,293.88
Interest Accrued	55,687.15
Net Uncollected and Deferred Premiums ..... (Reserve Charged in Liabilities)	36,475.91
Gross Assets	2,336,132.81
Less Assets not covered by Reserve	37,118.34
Net Assets	$2.299,014.47

Liabilities

Legal Insurance Reserve	$1,993,589.00
Reserve for Special Benefits and for Policy Dividends	47,394.70
Surplus to Policy Holders	233,564.95
Total for Protection of Policyholders	2,274.548.65
Tax Reserve	8,000.00
Other Liabilities	16,465.82
TOTAL	$2,2299,014.47

How We Are Growing!

END OF	INSURANCE IN FORCE
1906	$95,000.00
1908	$1,120,495.00
1910	$ 2,154,370.00
1912	$ 3, 004 ,245 .00
1914	$ 4, 612, 580. 00
1916	$ 5, 766, 062. 00
1918	$ 7, 700, 619. 00
1920	$ 12,421,688.00
1922	$14,800,070.00
1924	$16,544,009.00

END OF	GROSS ASSETS	PREMIUM INCOME
1906	$43,278.91	$3,289.00
1908	$ 53,106.27	$37,031.00
1910	$142,741.60	$ 70,010.00
1912	$ 237, 351 .38	$ 93, 943 .00
1914	$ 366, 655 .33	$136,225.00
1916	$ 535, 795,. 19	$ 170, 932. 00
1918	$ 790, 890. 90	$ 227, 716. 00
1920	$ 1, 225, 215. 29	$ 360, 350. 00
1922	$1,745,430.08	$419,073.88
1924	$ 2,336,132.81	$ 480,172.05

Record For Year 1924

Insurance in Force	$16.544,009.00
Gross Assets	2,336,132.81
Net Increase	$290,198.66
Legal Liability on Business in Force	1,993.589.00
Covered by Interest Bearing Securities Deposited with State Insurance Department	2,010,258.95
Paid to Policy Holders During the year in Cash and Reserve Addition	372,697.21
Paid to Policy Holders Since Organization in Cash and Reserve Addition	2,690,846.45

OFFICERS

C. B. ROBBINS, President
GLENN M. AVERILL, Vice- Pres.
JAY G. SIGMUND, Vice-Pres.
C. B. SVOBODA, Secretary
ERNEST R. MOORE, Treasurer
DR. G. E. CRAWFORD, Medical Director
M. L. RIDGEWAY, Assistant Secretary
DR. J. LYNN CRAWFORD
DR. JENNINGS CRAWFORD
Assistant Medical Directors

UNDER STRICT SUPERVISION OF STATE INSURANCE DEPARTMENT

E. C. FORD, General Agent, Iowa Falls, Iowa.

THE KLEMME TIMES

inth Year—Number 32. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

T JURORS DRAWN FOR THE EPTEMBER TERM OF COURT

EMME MAN DRAWN FOR SEPTEMBER TERM

Grand Jurors For 1925 Also iven In This Column

ll term of the Hancock District Court opens at Gar- Monday, September 21st. ing is the list of Petit Jur- have been drawn:

oehnke	Garner
nsley	Britt
ark	Garner
ourke	Kanawha
letcher	Forest City
Kelly	Britt
ornberry	Britt
nzler	Britt
Griggs	Britt
Ryerson	Britt
mis	Garner
lson	Britt
ooker	Forest City
oper	Kanawha
ensen	Britt
Hanson	Garner
son	Forest City
arrah	Kanawha
oll	Garner
Rasmussen	Garner
Johnson	Britt
Aageson	Britt
meyer	Garner
all	Garner
ssion	Corwith
llet	Forest City
Schuldt	Klemme
dole	Woden
alker	Corwith
Miller	Miller

urors For The Year 1925

tark	Corwith
nweiler	Miller
dison	Britt
d	Woden
Scovell	Corwith
ehnke	Ventura
ckhohn	Klemme
ohnson	Garner
Ruka	Goodell
H. Johnson	Garner
moreaux	Kanawha
eiman	Garner

ancock County Bar

ackstone	.. Garner
Grau	Garner
mmill	Britt
Hastings	Garner
amsay	Garner
. Senneff	Britt
ite	Britt
hman	Garner

DOBERSTEIN STARTS ON NEW WORK

ovide For One of Greatest Memorials Ever Made

lto Tribune:

. M. Dobberstein, who is erywhere as the designer er of the wonderful grotto Bend, has begun another rt which is destined to be e greatest memorial struc- the United States.

grounds in front of his ather Dobberstein is con- a memorial to the Ameri- ers. It consists of a very ular cement basin, around ll be a wall, composed of nstructed on a plan of the the grotto. The rise and e top of this wall which is s, will appear like spires. st side the words, "United " is embedded with small ffle on the west, in a simi- ill be the words, "Divided In the center of the ce- in is a cement platform. will be two large Ameri- , the composition of which be of stone. Just in front ill be a large dull brass eagle, with two guns cross- th its feet. The names of Bend boys who died in ser- be inscribed on a large on either side.

onument, when completed, an estimated value of five dollars. For beauty and nstruction there will be no in the United States to with it. Father Dobberstein o leave soon for the Black ecure additional rocks and his work He says he will states to secure treasures formations.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

The Rev. Wm. Suckow, one of this vicinity's former boys, filled our pulpit Sunday morning and preached an inspiring sermon. Old friends were glad to greet Mr. Suckow. He is now pastor of the Congregational church in Forest City.

Our services will be per schedule next Sunday. The pastor will have things to say that greatly concern all and that have much bearing on the bringing in of the Kingdom of God.

NEW WATER TANK INSTALLED

Will Be Connected In A Few Days; One Connection Lacking

The new 25,000 gallon water tank has been set on the concrete foundation at the pumping station and will be in operation next week. A connection failed to arrive in time to get the tank in order.

The new tank is the same size as the one in use and the new tank will be used daily, while the old tank is to be repaired and a new foundation put under it and it will then be used chiefly as an immergency tank and take care of surplus water.

A new floor will also be laid in the building. The improvements at the pumping station will cost about $2,500.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Benton Olson wf. to C. W. Seibert, W. D. date 4-3-'18, $1.00 etc. a tract 50 ft. x 142 ft. in 2-94-25.

W. H. Howrey, Trustee, et al to J. H. Goodrich, W. D. date 8-26-25, $1.00, N½ 13-97-25.

Trade name: Chas. Abraham & Sons, owners: Charles Abraham, Francis Abraham & Braham Abraham.

POSTAL DEFFICIT IN 1925 SHOW BIG INCREASE

Reports Indicate There Will Be a Shortage of 37 Million

A deficit of $37,148,000 for the fiscal year of 1925 which closed last June 30, was announced by the post office department after a preliminary compilation of receipts and expenditures at the request of Post-Master General New, today.

The department ordinarily returns a deficit, but officials have been trying for several years to effect economies that would make the postal service self-supporting. They regard this year's deficit as a step backward since last year's deficit was only $24,000,000.

Preliminary figures for the year, which are subject to some readjustments, place estimated receipts at $600,600,000 and obligations and expenditures at $649,371,000, leaving an operating deficit of $48771,999, from which is deducted $11,662,000 for outstanding liabilities and for civil service retirement transfer.

The cash deficit closely appr es the estimate made by Postmaster General New, several weeks ago, when he placed it around $40,000,000.

The operating deficit for 1923 was $37,707,806, while for 1921 it was $80,106,769.

IOWA BEST CORN PRODUCTION

Iowa continues preminent in corn production as shown by the govern ment crop report of August 1st. It is about 62,000,000 or 16 percent ahead of its nearest competior, Illinois, states the Iowa Department of Agriculture. Iowa is 37,076,000 bushels ahead of the combined crops of the next two states in line, Indiana and Missouri.

The Iowa crop is 28 per cent of the total crop of the six leading states, (1) Iowa, (2) Illinois, (3 Indiana; (4) Missouri; (5) Nebraska and (6) Ohio, arranged accordng to rank. More than 15 per cent of the total United States crop will probably ber aised in Iowa in 1925.

We gather from the Scopes trial that the first woman raised Cain. —Goshen News-Tribune.

FIND GOOD HOME "SERVANTS"

Electric Equipment Saves Time, Has Low Operating Cost

The home economics division of Iowa State College is carrying on some investigational work in the use of electrical equipment for the home which indiciates that electricity where available may prove a real helper to the homemaker in sav ing time. The cost of operation has also been found rather low.

An electric dishwashing machine was installed in one of the home management houses for students in home economics. A saving of 25 min utes each day was affected thru use of this dishwashing machine for a family of nine. The cost of operation was one and one-half cents a day for electricity.

An electric ironing machine saved two hours a week for a family of four, of which two were children. The cost of operation varied with the means of heating the ironer from 2½ cents to 12½ cents an hour. An electric washing machine has been found to reduce the time required for a weekly washing one half, at an operation cost of two and a half cents an hour.

500 MILLION BUSHELS OF CORN FOR IOWA

Present indications are that Iowa's total corn crop will be about 500 million bushels this year, almost double what it was last year. This is an average of only a little over 40 bushels to the acre. The crop ranges from poor in the northwest to excellent in the east and in some extreme northwest townships the crop is a total failure.

In this vicinity the crop will run about double the average and with a fair price in view the farmer will wear a smile on both sides of his faces. One side is already wrinkled up as a result of final figures of his oat crop.

PACING BOUNTY ON GROUND HOGS WAS TOO EXPENSIVE

Elmer E. Taylor, of Traer, says that Tama county pays 25 cents bounty for ground hogs. In the first half of this year the county has paid more than $1,100 in bounties, which means that the front paws of 4,-400 ground hogs were brought to the auditor's office, where the bounty is paid. Lucas county paid out $476 in bounties on ground hogs in June. The bounty was 25 cents on each animal. After that experience for a single month the board of superivsors resinded the resolution providing for bounties and the county crop agent has been advised that the coun ty will provide sufficient poison to accompolish what trappers were doing and that official is commissioned to use it generously but cautiously. Ground hogs have undermined bridges and grades in that county. The increase in the number of these animals in many Iowa counties is another problem that cannot b solved.

Kossuth Polk and Warren counties have been added to the list of of counties which have reduced the percentage of bovine tuberculosis to less than half of one percent. This makes a total of nine counties which are mdified accredited counties and which receive ten cents per hundred additional for the hogs which are raised and fattened within the coun ties, states the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

It takes 23 pounds of milk to produce one pound of creamery ubtter in Iowa. This means that 3,-220,000,000 pounds of milk was utilized in Iowa last year to produce 140,000,000 pounds of creamery but ter. Iowa now ranks second to Minnesota in creamery butter production.

Hunting Season Opens Soon; Some New Changes In Law

Duck Season Opens September 16th; Muskrats Protected This Year

Although the variety of game that is available for hunting around here is very limited, it is nevertheless indulged in by some of our sportsmen and when you get your hunting license from County Recorder Clarissa Abel, ask her for a copy of the new state game laws. We are herewith publishing some of these laws that will be applicable for hunters in this community.

Your License First

License to hunt and trap: No person shall hunt, pursue, kill, or take any wild animal, bird, or game in this state in any manner or trap furbearing animals or game without first procuring a license.

Exceptions: No license shall be required from owners or tenants of farm lands their wives, children, or employees for hunting, trapping, or fishing upon lands owned or occupied by them.

Consent of parents or guardian: No license shall be granted any person under eighteen years of age unless the written consent of parent or guardian is attached to the application.

Authority of license: The license shall authorize its holder to fish and hunt in accordance with the provisions of this chapter in any county of the state, but not on private waters, or on enclosed or cultivated lands without permission of the owner or tenant, nor hunt upon any public highway or railroad right-of-way.

Regulations on killing game birds: No person shall kill or attempt to kill any bird named in this chapter with the aid or use of any sneak boat or sink box, or from any sailboat, gasoline, or electric launch or steamboat, or any other water conveyance except as propelled by oar or paddle, or any other device used for concealment in the open water; nor pursue, for the purpose of killing or capture, any such bird by motor vehicle or aircraft; nor use any artificial light, battery, or deception.

Seasons on Game Birds

Every person is prohibited from trapping, shooting, killing, or taking any of the following named birds or animals during the following named closed season. Note that the dates are inclusive.

Wild duck, geese or brant, rail, plover, sandpiper, marsh or beach birds, Wilson or jacksnipe, from January 1 to September 15, both dates inclusive.

Woodcock, from December 1 to September 30, both dates inclusive.

Pinnated grouse or prairie chicken, from December 1 to September 30, both dates inclusive; and at all times prior to October 1, 1927.

Ruffed grouse or pheasant or wild turkey, from December 1 to October 31, both dates inclusive; and at all times prior to November 1, 1932.

Quail from November 16 to October 31, both dates inclusive and at all time prior to November 1, 1927.

Gray, fox, or timber squirrel, from January 1 to August 31, both dates inclusive.

Muskrats Protected

It shall be unlawful for any person to kill trap, or ensnare any muskrat from October 15, 1925, to October 15, 1928, both dates inclusive.

Limit On Ducks

A limit of fifteen ducks a day is placed on all hunters.

Violation Penalties

Whoever shall take, catch, kill, injure, destroy, have in possession, buy, ship, or transport any fish, mussels, birds, their nests, eggs, or plumage, fowls, game, or animals in violation of the provisions of this chapter or whoever shall use any device, equipment, seine, trap, net, tackle, firearm, drug, poison, explosive, or other substance or means, the use of which is prohibited by this chapter, or use the same at any time, place or in a manner or for a purpose prohibited, or do any other act in violation of such provision for which no other punishment is provided, shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars or be imprisoned in the county jail not more than thirty days.

Each fish, fowl, bird, bird's nest, egg or plumage, and animal unlawfully caught taken killed, injured, destroyed, possessed, bought, sold, or shipped shall be a separate offense.

SCHOOL OPENED MONDAY WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE

MEMOIR OF MRS. RALPH MOSSEL

(By Rev. A. W. Gauger)

The deceased, Mrs. Ralph Mossel, was in her usual rugged health until only a few days ago when she was summoned rather suddenly at the ripe age of nearly 83 years.

Mrs. Grace Devoogt Mossel was born on Jan. 16. 1843, in Holland. While little is known of the days of her childhood and youth, as no records are available, the disclosure is made that she was instructed in the church of Holland and confirmed in due season.

When she was grown to womanhood more than fifty years ago, she entered wedlock with Mr. R. Mossel. To this union three sons and two daughters were born. Two sons still live in Holland while the other, Dick, resides at Grand Rapids. Michigan. The two daughters live here and are Mrs. Albert Carolus of Liberty township, and Mrs. Watermiller, of Kanawha.

The husband of the deceased died about twenty-three years ago, while still in the native country. Soon after his death the deceased, along with her two children, took passage for America. Her son Dick, who had preceded her, sending them transportation.

For the present she located in Michigan. About fifteen years ago she came to Iowa and made her home with the Carolus family. People who know the home can hardly conceive it complete without grandma Mossel. She was of sturdy type who had seen few if any days of sickness all thru life. Her prophecy of only a short time ago: That she would not be sick or be bedridden before she died, came strangely true.

Being in her usual health a few days ago she took a severe fall from which she seemed to rally in due time. She was about to leave her room and come down stairs to the family when she swooned and upon being taken back to her room expired shortly thereafter.

Her testimony shortly before she died that she did not fear to be summoned by death should be of consequence.

Beside her being survived by her own children, she leaves 31 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren. Many friends and acquaintances attended her funeral. Her son, Dick, as well as other relatives from a distance were present.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon from the home, thence in the Methodist Church in Klemme, conducted by Rev. Gauger.

Interment was made in the Goodell cemetery.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank all those who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our beloved mother and grandmother; also for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carolus, Sr. and Children.

MONSTER DIRIGIBLE TO PASS OVER NORTH IOWA FRIDAY

May Be Visible From Klemme As Route Should Bring It About Five Miles East Of Here

Klemme people may have a good chance to see the giant dirigible airship the Shenandoah, tomorrow, Friday, September 4th.

According to a news story in a recent edition of the Des Moines Register this huge ship is routed through Iowa on that day and the course as shown on the map would bring the ship only a few miles east of Klemme, possible between three and five miles. The proposed route includes a straight course from Clarion to Clear Lake. The only stop to be made in Iowa is to be made at Des Moines when the ship will hover over the state fair grounds before resuming its journey to Minneapolis.

As to the time of day the ship is to pass over this part of the state we are unable to say.

W. F. Pavey was at Algona Friday on business. He went over to look at a new wrinkle for running corn pickers with a Ford engine. He says it was a slick outfit.

BASEBALL TEAM TO PLAY SEVERAL NEAR BY TEAMS

Junior High Plan Used In Klemme Schools This Year

The school bell again summoned the boys and girls of Klemme and regions round about last Monday and in answer 59 came to the high school rooms and enrolled for work this year. We hear that others are to come soon. The more the merrier. We wish there were twice as many. They all strike us as being here for some good and we anticipate a splendid school year. More than half, 33. if we understand them correctly, are nonresident pupils and we have room for others of their kind.

Considerable interest has been displayed in base ball and many were out clearing the diamond Tesday evening and getting ready for the great American game. We hope to play several games with surrounding high schools this fall before the basketball season begins.

Mr. Hockey, of the State Teachers College will groom the boys for both base ball and basket ball. We believe he has the ability and has had the preparation for doing the task well. We believe, too, that the boys can be depended upon to make the necessary sacrifice to win for Klemme High. It will require some sacrifice, too, on the part of parents who often need the boys at home for work on the farms and elsewhere as shop and store. We hope they may be able to spare the boys for practice, for without practice and lots of good thorough practice, winning teams can seldom be produced.

More than 80 enrolled in our grades and among them are several tuition pupils. We could care for more and believe we could do a much better job at preparing them for high school than the one-room district school. We invite 7th and 8th grade students near Klemme to enroll with us if possible and be sure of reaching high school on time. We are not crowded and can do well by them. They will get the advantage of high school instructors this year and we believe they will recognize them as superior to the average rural teacher.

We are confronted with quite a problem of getting the manual arts and home economic work back into the Ninth grade where it belongs. To do this requires that we offer it this year and next in two high school grades and we have chosen the ninth and eleventh grades. As it is, over half of the school day must be devoted to these two subjects alone by two of our teachers. This makes it impossible to offer several choices of subjects as has heretofore been done here.

The Board has kindly consented to screen the windows of our Home Economics room and possibly others. —One of the Faculty.

GLENNA GRUETZMACHER WAS MARRIED JULY 13 TO YOUNG MAN FROM KANAWHA

Miss Glenna Gruetzmacher, only daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Frank Gruetzmacher, and Mr. Robert T. Espe, a young man from Kanawha, "stole a march" on their friends when they were married at Des Moines on July 13th. The marriage has been kept a secret, except that the parents knew of it but had been requested to keep silent and as they were good sports the secret kept for a long time. It became known last week when friends living at Des Moines mailed a news clipping to Klemme friends in which the news of the marriage was given.

Mr. and Mrs. Espe certainly put one over on their many friends, but although they kept the secret for a long time, congratulations are most sincerely extended.

Mr. and Mrs. Espe are living at Des Moines where Mr. Espe is employed.

PLANES CRASH IN AIR; TWO KILLED

Army Flyers Crushed to Death When Machines Collide Near Chicago.

Chicago.—Two United States army airplanes, piloted by officers who had won prizes at Camp Grant earlier in the day for superb handling of their machines, crashed 500 feet above the government flying field at Maywood.

Lieut. T. P. Smith, pilot of one, and his passenger, William L. Heptig, a wealthy Board of Trade member, were killed when their plane became unmanageable and plunged, burning, to the ground. Both leaped, striving to open their parachutes, but the distance was too short to allow of the parachutes opening.

The two men's bodies struck the earth and were crushed a few hundred feet from Edward Hines Memorial hospital, filled with war veteran patients.

Heptig was president of the Illinois chapter of the National Aeronautical society, captain in the reserve corps, and head of the grain brokerage firm of William L. Heptig & Co. Lieutenant Smith was attached to the United States flying corps of Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill.

Lieut. Robert W. Douglas of Selfridge field, Mount Clemens, Mich., pilot of the other machine, managed to keep control of it and to coast in safety to the landing field, although the propeller had been broken off in the collision.

U. S. Charges Five With Huge Florida Land Fraud

Chicago.—Federal officials in Chicago obtained warrants for principals in what they declare is a $1,600,000 Florida land fraud which has been cleaning up in this region at the expense of legitimate transactions in the southern real estate boom.

The alleged wildcat promotional company to be hit is the Florida Land company, whose offices in the Burnham building are said to surpass the late Leo Koretz' taste for ready-money backgrounds.

Those named in warrants issued by U. S. Commissioner H. C. Beitler are Jacob Factor, Henry Heinsius, Maurice E. Drucker, H. J. Hummelstein, Newton Feldman and Nathan Factor. The specific charge against the members of the Florida Land company, according to First Assistant District Attorney William F. Waugh, is violation of article 215 of the criminal code, which has to do with using the mail in furtherance of a scheme to defraud.

Col. Mitchell Says U. S. Holds Up Superplane

Chicago.—Col. William Mitchell, former head of the army air service, asserted that although there has been perfected an American super-airplane capable of making a nonstop flight from the United States to Paris with a ton of explosive aboard, he has been unable to obtain government permission to make tests with the craft.

"Old fogey ideas," he asserted, "are holding back the inevitable. The producers of this plane believe, and I believe, that the huge biplanes they have built are capable of flying to Peking with a single stop at Nome, Alaska. And this, mind you, with a ton of explosive. The planes are ready. They will make 113 miles an hour for 60 hours. But we can't prove it unless the army and navy heads see fit to grant us permission."

Ambassador Bancroft Laid to Rest Beside His Wife

Galesburg, Ill.—Simplicity marked the ceremonies with which the body of Edgar A. Bancroft, late United States ambassador to Japan, was laid to rest with his wife and his parents in the family burial plot in Galesburg. Business houses were closed at the hour of the funeral by proclamation of Mayor Mureen, flags throughout the city were flown at half staff, and the bells of Knox college tolled through the service at the church and as the procession wound past the elm-shaded campus to Hope cemetery. Mr. Bancroft was a member of the Knox class of '78 and one of the most distinguished alumni of the college.

Two Bootleggers Slain in Plot to Steal U. S. Plane

Chicago.—Theft of an army airplane, involving the preliminary disposition, perhaps by murder, of two rifle-armed guards, was prevented by the killing of Irving Schlig, aerial bootlegger, and his associate, Harry Berman, West side gangster.

Such is the hypothesis worked out by police and officers of the Aero Club of Illinois in connection with the finding of the bodies of the slain pair at the edge of the Aero club's Ashburn flying field, Eighty-third street and Cicero avenue.

Viola Dale Gets Divorce

Los Angeles.—Viola Dale, the motion picture actress, was granted a divorce here. According to the petition filed by the screen star, her husband failed to support her according to her standard of living.

Upholds Auto Murder Charges

Washington.—Chief Justice McCoy of the District of Columbia Supreme court ruled that motorists responsible for fatal accidents may be tried for murder.

G. A. R. COMMANDER?

Capt. John B. Inman, custodian of the state memorial hall at Springfield, Ill., is a leading candidate for the position of commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic at the national encampment which opened at Grand Rapids, Mich., on September 1. He served through both the Civil war and the Spanish-American war.

FRANCE TO ASK U. S. 62 YEARS TO PAY DEBT

Minister Caillaux Will Offer $70,000,000 Annually.

Washington.—Finance Minister Caillaux will offer Secretary of the Treasury Mellon $70,000,000 a year in settlement of France's $4,211,000,000 debt to the United States, it was learned from an official source.

Coming in advance of the French debt commission, M. Caillaux expects to conduct the real negotiations in person and practically alone.

Flushed by his triumph in London, he is understood to be ready to submit his proposals as France's ultimate concession to the American demand.

Actually, the Caillaux plan will give the United States only $50,000,000 annually on the war debt, as the French finance minister would include in the $70,000,000 total the $20,000,000 which France now pays each year on the $407,000,000 owed for surplus war stocks.

The French proposal contemplates payments approximately half the annual amount involved in the American idea of funding the $4,211,000,000 obligation on the basis of the Anglo-American settlement made two years ago.

M. Caillaux will determine whether an agreement can be reached between France and the United States. If he adheres to his original offer of $70,000,000, it is practically certain that the French debt commission itself will never cross the Atlantic.

Britain Plans to Renew Dealings With Mexico

London.—Great Britain and Mexico have agreed to resume the diplomatic relations severed when the British charge d'affaires was ordered deported by the Mexican government in June, 1924, and recalled by Premier MacDonald. Full diplomatic relations, such as are now contemplated, have not existed for more than ten years, however, since the British refused to recognize either the Carranza or Obregon governments.

The difficulties of last year grew out of the controversy of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, British subject, on her Mexican ranch.

Mexican Railways to Be Returned to U. S. Owners

Mexico City.—The newspaper Excelsior announced that the National Railways of Mexico will be returned to the original American owners within three months. Asserting that its information comes from a reliable source, the paper declared that President Calles plans to take the lines from the department of communications, which has been in charge for the last six months, and turn them over to a committee charged with carrying out the government's readjustment plan and putting the properties into shape to enable the old shareholders to operate them.

Mrs. Morgan's Estate Goes to Four Children

New York.—The will of the late Jane Norton Morgan, wife of the financier, J. P. Morgan, filed for probate in Mineola, N. Y., bequeaths the bulk of her property to her four children and the remainder to her husband. No other bequests are made. The value of the estate was not given. Mrs. Morgan died August 14 of sleeping sickness. All personal property and $150,000 each is bequeathed to the children.

Denics Damascus Defeat

Paris.—Contrary to recent reports, nothing of military consequence has occurred in Syria since Monday, says the war department. At that time the rebels suffered a check south of Damascus.

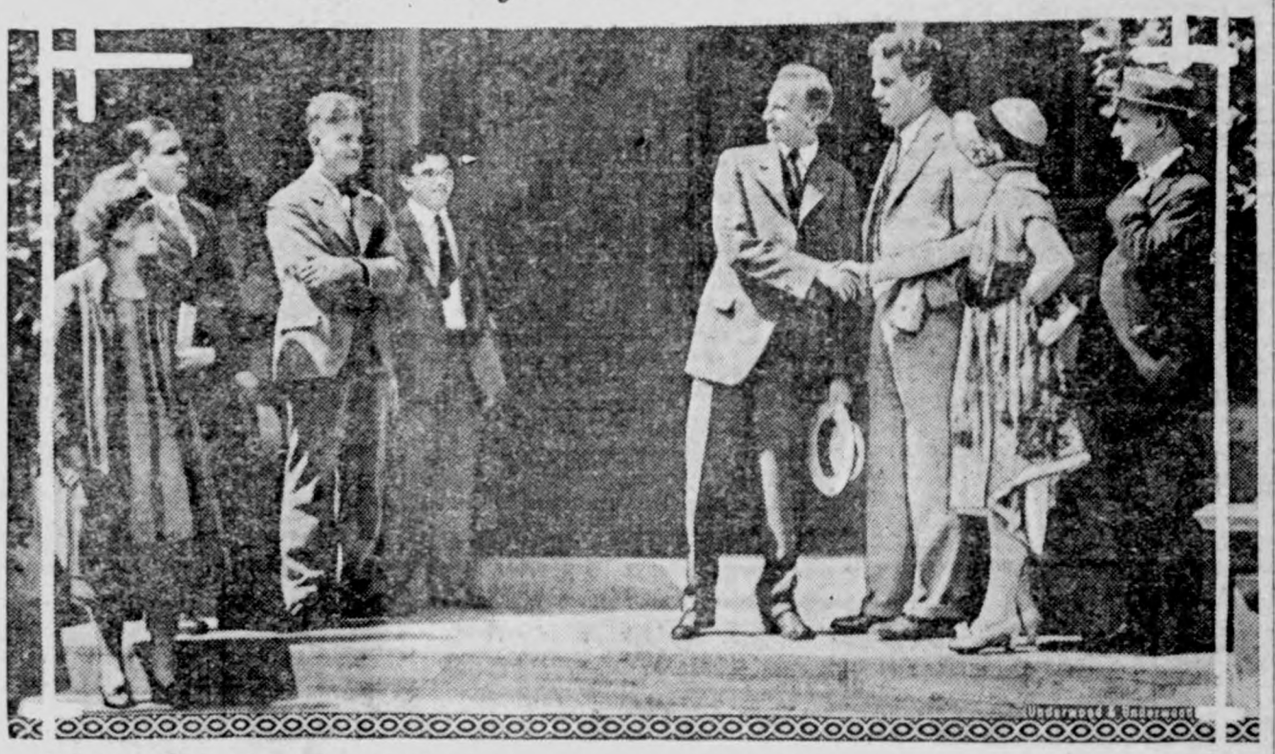
Coolidge at Plymouth Rock

Plymouth, Mass.—The Presidential yacht Mayflower brought the President and Mrs. Coolidge from Marblehead to Plymouth to visit Plymouth Rock, Old Burial Hill and other historical spots.

Delegates of Legion in Rome Congress of Fidac

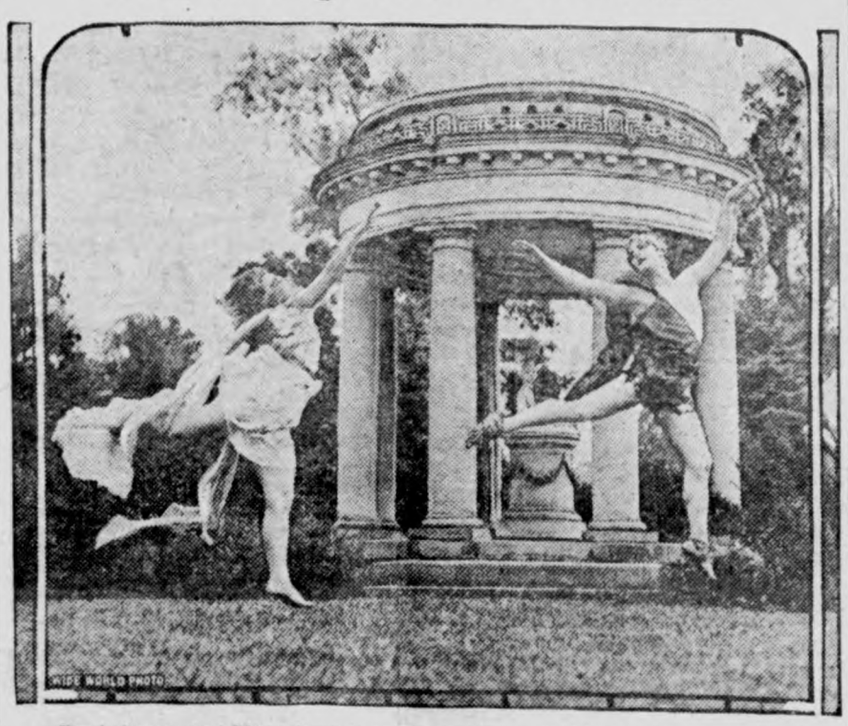
The congress of the Interallied Veterans' federation (Fidac) will be held in Rome, Italy, September 10 to 13. The American Legion delegation is comprised of the men shown in the illustration. They are (1) Representative A. Piatt of Massachusetts, (2) Thomas W. Miller, president of the federation; (3) Rev. W. P. O'Connor of Cincinnati, (4) Brig. Gen. E. L. Logan of Boston, (5) Col. J. H. Thompson of Pittsburgh, (6) Brig. Gen. L. R. Gignilliat of Culver Military academy, (7) Lemuel Bolles of New York.

Max Mason Pays Visit to His New Charge



Dr. Max Mason, the newly elected president of the University of Chicago, visited that institution the other day, and is seen in the photograph chatting with some of the students. At his left hand is Franklin Gowdy, the football captain of last year.

Rehearsing for a Greek Ballet

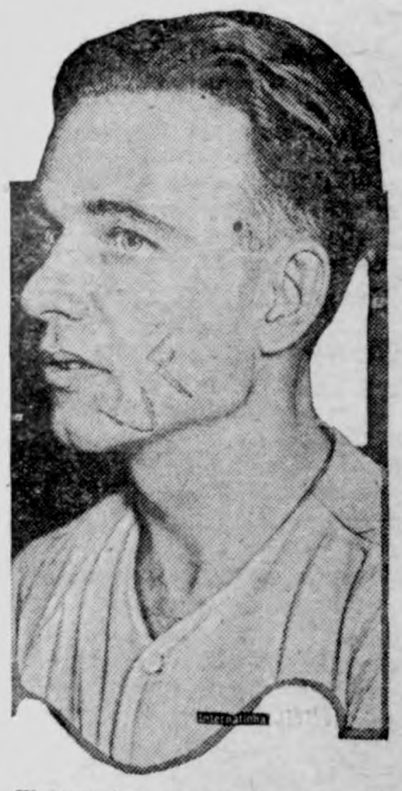


Paul Swan and Miss Josephine France, one of his pupils, rehearsing one of the dances in the Greek ballet "Narcissus and Echo," to be given on the Vanderbilt estate, Scarborough, N. Y., in September, as a forerunner to a series of events to terminate with a great peace spectacle next May.

Mrs. Coolidge Chats With Her Mother

Mrs. Coolidge photographed with her mother, Mrs. Elmira Goodhue of Northampton, Mass., when the President and his wife were visiting at Mrs. Goodhue's home.

HIS CHEEK BRANDED



Walter Johnson of Chicago who was branded on the cheek by Victor Felici with the letters "V. F." with a hot wire. Johnson was formerly a roomer in the Felici home and Felici accused him of forcing his attentions on his wife.

SINGER SUES PRINCE

This is June Warwick, a singer, who has begun suit for $100,000 against Prince Raphael Emanuel for alleged breach of promise. She declines to give particulars, but says the prince is an Egyptian.

HARD COAL STRIKE ORDERED BY LEWIS

158,000 Anthracite Workers to Quit—828 Mines Affected.

Philadelphia.—A suspension of mining in the hard-coal fields on September 1 was called by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

The suspension was called because the union was unable to obtain from the operators a 10 per cent wage increase, adoption of the check off, equalization of wages for day workers and various other demands which they made conditional to renewal of the wage contract expiring August 31.

The order involves a walkout of 158,000 men, of whom about 10,000 will probably be left in the mines for maintenance work, such as the prevention of flooding and cave-ins.

On the basis of state figures for 1924 the suspension would affect 828 mines, operated by 135 companies, controlling, altogether, 272 collieries.

Lawson, Publisher, Leaves $2,505,000 to Charities

Chicago.—Under the will of the late Victor F. Lawson, which was filed for probate Tuesday, the Chicago Daily News, principal asset of the Lawson estate, passes to the control of the Illinois Merchants' Trust company, which is given full power of management, including power to sell the newspaper.

Specific bequests of $4,775,000 are made under the terms of the will, and of this sum $2,505,000 is apportioned for benevolent purposes. The biggest bequests are left to the Chicago Congregational Mission and Extension society, the Theological Seminary of the Young Men's Christian association. These total practically three-quarters of the entire estate. The other one-quarter of the residuary estate is left to Iver N. Lawson, a brother of the late publisher, who also was left $200,000 and the income from a trust fund of $300,000. Relatives, friends and employees also share in the estate.

French Advance After Fierce Fight With Riffs

Paris.—Some of the fiercest fighting of the whole campaign marked the attack by the French Nineteenth army corps on the Branes tribe north of Taza. The rebels, strongly backed by small groups of Riffian regulars, occupied an extremely well organized system of trenches and, despite the terrific aviation and artillary bombardment they have sustained for the last week, they were determined not to cede an inch. Largely through the aid of tanks, for the Sirocco handicapped the aviation except in the early morning hours, the infantry gained the first day's objectives, advancing three miles over a front 12 miles long.

"Ted" Coy, Former Yale Grid Star, Weds Actress

New York.—News of the marriage of Miss Jeanne Eagels, the actress who achieved an unusual success in "Rain," to Edward Harris Coy, better known as "Ted" Coy, former Yale football star, became known. The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Venable in Stamford, Conn. The couple obtained their marriage license in Stamford. Mr. Coy said this would be his second marriage. He was divorced by his former wife, Mrs. Sophie Meldrim Coy, in Paris last December. The bride gave her age as twenty-seven, and this is her first marriage. She is a native of Boston.

Dentist, Accused of Slaying Wife, Ends Life

Los Angeles, Cal.—Dr. Thomas W. Young, dentist, forty-seven years old, passed and executed a sentence of death upon himself, abruptly terminating a sensational murder trial in which he was accused of slaying his wife, Grace Grogan Young, with lethal gas and burying her in a cistern of a Beverly Glen summer cottage. He galvanoted himself in his cell by twisting a radio antenna wire around his neck with a stick.

Newton D. Baker to Aid in Campaign on Crime

New York.—Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, is the first man named on the executive committee of the National Crime commission. Major O. Prentiss, organizer of the commission, announced Mr. Baker's acceptance of membership after a long distance telephone call from Cleveland, where Mr. Baker lives.

Five men to be known as the committee to restrict the sale of firearms are to be named soon, Mr. Prentiss said.

Two Years for Auto Death

Washington.—Walter E. Roderick, a member of the Washington staff of the Chicago Tribune, was sentenced to serve two years in prison for killing Adgie Bowie, a bread wagon driver of Alexandra, Va., with an automobile.

Walsh in Audience With Pope

Rome.—Thomas J. Walsh, United States senator from Montana, was granted an audience at the Vatican by the pope.

WRIGLEY'S

AFTER EVERY MEAL

affords benefit as well as pleasure.

Healthful exercise for the teeth and a spur to digestion. A long-lasting refreshment, soothing to nerves and stomach.

The Great American Sweetmeat, untouched by hands, full of flavor.

SEALED TIGHT KEPT RIGHT

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT THE PERFECT GUM

PEPPERMINT FLAVOR

Cows Fond of Garlic

American dairy interests recently appealed to the Department of Agriculture for a solution of the problem of preventing the garlicky taste in milk from cows that have eaten garlic, says Popular Science Monthly. Experts of the department determined that the only way is to keep the cows from the weed, in which they revel.

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA

Because of its unusual flavor, aroma, richness and attractive price, this Cocoa has made a host of friends. Excellence is not always accompanied by high cost.

35c a pound

QUALITY for 70 years

Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.

Reid, Murdoch & Co. Chicago, U. S. A.

Boston, Pittsburgh, New York

Cuba to Honor Washington

A committee headed by Dr. Oswald D. Guerrero, newspaper man and politician, is raising funds for the erection of a statue of George Washington at Havana, Cuba.

It is proposed to place the statue a short distance from the Maine monument.

What's wrong with this picture?

You're right! Oil doesn't run up hill.

But poor oil does evaporate right up and out of a hot motor.

MonaMotor Oil has the body and backbone to withstand motor heat without fatal evaporation. Buy MonaMotor Oil and keep your motor new.

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor Oils & Greases

2 Pinafore Dresses FOR ONLY $1.00

Delivered to your home

It is value like we are offering here that is making the Dollar Bill Stores one of the fastest growing mail order houses in America. Think of it! 2 beautiful, extra well tailored Pinafore Aprons for only $1.00—delivered to your home, all Parcel Post Charges Prepaid. These apron dresses are made with yoke back—they fit well and stay up on shoulders. Choice of one in dark and one in light colors or 2 light and 2 dark.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

You can order these 2 garments with assurance of perfect satisfaction in quality, fit and wear. Put a dollar bill in an envelope—tell us the colors you want and we will send you the biggest dollar value you ever bought. If not satisfied we'll send your money back. When ordering specify No. 51-A-281.

We also can furnish a beautiful Black Sateen Pinafore with pretty colored binding for only $1.00. Extra fine value. When ordering specify No. 51-A-283.

DOLLAR BILL STORES

1030 W. North Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Florida—Reliable information about soils, climate, agriculture, advantages, opportunities. Arranged by counties. Booklet 20c. Guy Vinzen, Tribune Bldg., Tampa, Fla.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

COMMANDER MICHIE, FLYER AND LAWYER

Thomas Johnson Michie, Jr., commander of the Virginia department of the American Legion, was born at Northport, Long Island, N. Y., on June 7, 1896, of a Virginian father and a Pennsylvanian mother. The mother's native place was the "City of Brotherly Love," where the American nation came into being with the signing of the Declaration of Independence on the Fourth of July 149 years ago. The father's home had been at Charlottesville, seat of the great University of Virginia, which was founded by Thomas Jefferson from whose pen had come the immortal Declaration.

The younger Michie attended the public schools at Northport from 1902 to 1905. In March, 1905, the family moved to Charlottesville. He went to the public schools there and then attended Jefferson school for boys, a prep school for the University of Virginia. He entered the university in September, 1914, and graduated with the A. B. degree in June, 1917, completing the full collegiate course in three years.

In May before his graduation he entered the first officers' training camp held at Fort Meyer. He was transferred to the air service in August of that year and attended Cornell air service ground school from August to October following.

Thomas Johnson Michie, Jr.

In November of the first year of the war he went overseas, remaining until the year following. For the greater part of the time he was stationed at Faggia, Italy. For some weeks in the summer of 1918 he was at Tours, France. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in May, 1918.

In January, 1919, he resumed the education which the war had interrupted, entering the graduate and law schools of his alma mater. He received the Master of Arts degree in 1920, and the Bachelor of Laws degree in 1921. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Theta Delta Chi and was president of the law department in 1921.

Since 1921 he has been engaged in the practice of his profession at Charlottesville. He is now a member of the firm of Allen, Walsh & Michie. In the session of 1921-22 he was an instructor in the University of Virginia law school.

A charter member of Charlottesville and Albermarle Post No. 74 of the Legion, Michie was adjutant of the post in 1922 and 1923 and its commander in 1924. He was elected commander of the Department of Virginia for the present year.

Warning About Loans on the Certificates

"Beware of money lenders who seek to get their hands on your World war adjusted compensation certificates," is the reiterated warning that American Legion service officials at Washington are sending to veterans throughout the country. The warning is the result of a report from the secret service division of the Treasury department that certificates have been used as the basis of loans not sanctioned by law. Agents of the secret service reported that 235 adjusted service certificates had been accepted by a money lender in San Antonio, Texas.

The Legion officials point out that the World war adjusted compensation act provides that after the expiration of two years from the date of the certificates, loans may be made. Any national bank, or any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of any state, territory, possession or the District of Columbia, is authorized to loan any veteran upon his promissory note, secured by his adjusted service certificate; and the act expressly makes void any negotiation, assignment or loan made in violation of these provisions.

These restrictions were placed in the act to avoid exploitation of veterans by unscrupulous money lenders, while the provision allowing them to negotiate loans upon their certificates under certain conditions were intended further to protect their interests.

COLORFUL FROCKS FOR FALL; DRESSING SMALL MAIDEN

"THE melancholy days are come"—to a time in their history when it's no use trying to be melancholy any longer, for just ahead of them comes one brilliant style show after another, setting forth the most cheerful, sensible and interesting apparel for fall—not a melancholy note in it! These new fall garments put every beholder in a good humor; they reveal an advance in the art of designing and making beautiful clothes suited to the needs of American women. There may be a few freakish things among them, but the discriminating need waste no time on them, and do not.

In colors there are some new shades and several old favorites revived. Among the first there are coffee, rosewood, reddish purple, several strong blues and soft rose shades, warm browns and golden pheasant, and with them are navy, gray, wine, fuchsia and black. Metal brocades and gold embroideries or gold buttons provide touches of splendor and are used with the proper restraint. In dresses skirt lines are fuller, but in those designed for the street the fullness is introduced by means of plaits, and the straight silhouette preserved. There are also numbers of straight-line models. Sleeves are long, in afternoon frocks often decorative, and in neck treatments there is so much variety that no one style dominates, but the trend is toward higher neck lines.

Stylists who devote themselves to children's clothes appear to be having little trouble nowadays with the "difficult age." When little miss reaches the pin-feather stage, anywhere from six to early teens, the majority of her clothes are very simply designed and sensibly made. It is their mission to give her freeedom to be as active as she will, and to keep her more or less unconscious of what she wears. When occasion requires dressier things her clothes are still simple as to line, but much ingenuity is lavished on them in order to give them distinctive and charming style touches.

Paris offers the two chic frocks shown in the picture, among dressy

Beautiful Costume for Fall.

frocks for late summer, and, with longer sleeves, they may be developed in wool fabrics for fall and winter, or in the heavier wash materials—plain linens, cotton broadcloth and similar weaves. The scarf-collar in the frock at the left, finished at the ends with peasant embroidery, promotes its chances as a popular fall model. It has a pointed, embroidered pocket supporting a little silk tassel—which little detail has a very French accent. It would be pretty in any of the plain colors in flannel—almond green, pencil blue, buff, burgundy or red, or in the staple navy and brown shades. A fancy braid and buttons provide adornment and furnish color for the trim dress at the right. "Paris" is written in the clever strap which extends across the "V" shaped neck opening and slips through a slash at one side.

Suitable for Miss Six-to-Twelve.

Tub frocks, for every-day wear fill much more of the horizon in children's styles than their dressier things. These, in gingham, cotton broadcloth, English prints and other dependable weaves, are popular in simple dresses with bloomers to match.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Remember when heartsick and weary;
The sunshine comes after the rain,
Tomorrow is time to be cheery—
Tomorrow we take hope again.

Tomorrow the sun will be brighter
Tomorrow the skies will be fair;
Tomorrow our hearts will be lighter,
We'll cast aside sorrow and care.

PICKLING TIME

Some good housekeepers can the prime ripe tomatoes when at their best and later when the canning season is over and more leisure is found, make catsup, chili sauce, and various other tomato combinations.

Chili Sauce.—Take three quarts of canned tomatoes, add six chopped green peppers, four white onions also chopped, one cupful of sugar, half a cupful of salt, two cupfuls of vinegar and the following ground spices: One tablespoonful of cinnamon, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, half a teaspoonful of cloves and allspice mixed. Cook all together for three hours, then bottle for winter use. This makes a thick sauce. By adding more vinegar a good catsup may be made.

Bordeaux Sauce.—Take two gallons of cabbage, one gallon of green tomatoes, one dozen medium-sized white onions, six red sweet peppers, all chopped fine. Mix one ounce of cloves, one-fourth pound of white mustard seed, one ounce of celery seed, one and three-quarters pounds of sugar, one-half cupful of salt, and one gallon of vinegar. Drain the tomatoes; cabbage and tomatoes are measured after chopping. Remove the seeds from the peppers. Cloves and allspice are tied in small bags. Boil 20 minutes. This makes 12 quarts.

Pickled Onions.—Remove the outside skin but be careful not to break them. Soak 24 hours in strong salt water, wipe and put them into jars with pieces of red pepper. Allow enough vinegar to fill the jars and to each quart add a teaspoonful of mixed spices. Scald the vinegar with the spices, cool and fill the jars. Repeat for two days, cooling each time before pouring over the onions.

Jellies and Jams.

If a jar or two is put up when the fruit or vegetables are fresh, the work will be light and in a few weeks the fruit closet will be well filled. A cupful of raspberries added to three cupfuls of rhubarb with sugar to make a rich sauce makes a fruit that has all the flavor of raspberry with the bulk of rhubarb. Strawberries, pineapple, in fact any fruit that is rich in flavor, added to rhubarb will extend the flavor.

Peach and Raisin Conserve.—Take four pounds of peeled peaches, three pounds of sugar, three cupfuls of water, two cupfuls of seeded raisins, one and one-half cupfuls of blanched almonds shredded. Slice the peaches, removing the stones, add the water and sugar and cook until the mixture thickens; add the almonds and cook five minutes longer.

Plum and Raisin Jam.—Cook six cupfuls of pitted plums in three cupfuls of water until they are soft, add two cupfuls of seeded raisins and four cupfuls of sugar and cook 30 minutes, or until the mixture is thick; stir occasionally. Pour into jelly glasses and seal with paraffin.

Pineapple Marmalade.—Pare and cut into small cubes one pineapple, saving all the juice. Add three cupfuls of sugar and the grated rind and juice of three lemons. Cook 30 minutes or until thick; add two cupfuls of raisins. Cook five minutes longer and pour into glasses.

Chinese Pears. — Wipe, remove stems, quarter and core eight pounds of pears. Slice them in thin slices, add four pounds of sugar and one-fourth pound of Canton ginger cut into small pieces. Let stand over night closely covered. Slice three lemons, rejecting the seeds, add to the pears and cook slowly for two hours.

Apple Catsup.—Peel and quarter a dozen apples, stew them in a very little water until soft, then put them through a sieve. To a quart of the apples add one cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of pepper, the same of cloves and cinnamon and two medium-sized onions choped fine. Stir all together, add one tablespoonful of salt, a cupful of vinegar, boil one hour and bottle while hot.

Grape Marmalade.—Wash and mash grapes. Cook slowly until soft. Force through a sieve until all but the seeds and skins has gone through. Rinse the seeds and skins with a little water and add an equal measure of sugar for the grape pulp. Boil 10 minutes until very thick.

Celery may be found in most salads; it not only adds flavor, bulk and vegetable acids, but it has a medicinal value as well.

Nellie Maxwell

Printer's Sick Stomach and Headaches Almost Cost Job

Mr. K. M. Collins of Woodhaven, N. Y., says, "Instead of plodding through my work wearily on account of sick headaches and sour stomach, I now enjoy good health and ambition, can do more and better work and life is worth living. I have never before given my name to advertise a medicine, but you cannot imagine how different I feel since I discovered Carter's Little Liver Pills."

Carter's Little Liver Pills tonic the whole system through the liver and bowels. They act as a mild and effective laxative, in a gentle manner without any bad after effects.

Recommended and for sale by all drug stores.

Absolutely Perfect Ruler

C. C. Peters of the bureau of standards, Washington, has completed a new ruler, which he thinks will be absolutely free from mathematical error and therefore the most accurate in the world. It has a scale with rulings only five one hundred thousandths of an inch wide and spaced with an accuracy of at least two millionths of an inch. Completion of the ruler upsets the old saying that nothing made by man can be perfect as scientists declare the scale is free from error. The new scale will be used in the calibration of micrometer microscopes.

Jap Girls in Business

In Japan today there are about 1,500,000 girls and women engaged in clerical and stenographic work, having turned to the business office as a means of livelihood. Enrollment in business courses increases about 30,000 annually and taxes the public and private schools giving these courses for girls.

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer"-Insist!

For Colds Headache
Pain Lumbago
Neuralgia Rheumatism

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Wasted

Rev. Lawrence Redfern of Liverpool, who is at present in this country, told his friends the other day that his colleague, Rev. John C. Ballantyne, was unable to come over on account of illness. While he was kept indoors, his friends sent him many tokens of their affection. Flowers came in great profusion, so that one day the living room was virtually filled with them. The English maid, passing through, stopped and, with a quirk of her thumb upward, said, "Think of it; and 'im a-livin' yet."—Christian Register.

The man who is domiciled in a village boarding house has no use for a local paper.

Don't blame a man for taking pride in his birth; it brought him here.

He Owes His 40 Years of Constant Good Health to Beecham's Pills

"I am 57 years old and commenced to be troubled with constipation when I was sixteen.

"In 1884 I started taking Beecham's Pills other remedies having failed. I have not had a sick day in all the 40 years."

F. LOUIS LOEFFLER
Rochester, N. Y.

For FREE SAMPLE—write B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal Street, New York
Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes
For constipation, biliousness, sick headaches and other digestive ailments take

Beecham's Pills

After A Bath With Cuticura Soap Dust With Cuticura Talcum

Delicately Medicated Of Pleasing Fragrance

There was an auto wreck on the Highway just west of town near the Henry Ludeke farm Sunday afternoon when a Studebaker touring car driven by Joe Hartman and brother John of Belmond, collided with an Oakland touring car driven by Bert Meachan, also of Belmond. The Studebaker was going south and was on the west side of the road. A car came out of the Klemme road and turned north at the corner and Mr. Meachan coming from the south was confused and turned out to avoid the Ford and collided with the Studebaker which turned over and was immediately on fire, burning up. The Oakland was also quite badly smashed up. No one was injured beyond a few cuts and minor bruises.

Mr. Gus Abel, proprietor of the pool hall, is enjoying a visit from his wife and son of near Newton. A daughter and husband also visited here. Mrs. Ables and son will move to Klemme about the first of the year as the son is on a farm and will have a sale this fall.

"Abe" Lauritsen came home Tuesday afternoon from Elgin, where he has been playing ball for a few weeks. "Abe" will go to Renwick in a couple of days to get a line-up on high school athletics there. He has the position of coach at the Renwick high school this year. The school there can feel fortunate in procuring "Abe" as their coach as he is a clean-cut young man of excellent character and coaching ability and if Renwick doesn't turn out some real athletes it won't be "Abes" fault.

Some Good Specials in Smoked Meat

We have some very good buys n the Smoked Meat line to which we want to call your attention. This smoked meat we are listing here is very good quality meat, and the prices we are quoting are low considering the high quality:

SMOKED SKINNED HAMS, either whole or half, at per pound

30c

BACON NUGGETS, very good, at per lb.

30c

EAGLE BRAND BACON, this is a high grade sugar cured bacon at, lb.

38c

REX BACON, this is a very good brand of bacon selling at, lb.

40c

Klemme Meat Market

Why Should You Pay Cream Station Operating Expense

In the average merchantile business two departments are not maintained when one can just as well do the business. This is good management because it cuts down the overhead expense.

We know one town in northern Iowa that today is maintaining a co-operative creamery and four cream stations.

With one more man on the force at the creamery the entire business could just as well all be handled there. Let's see what this is costing the farmers of the community. Four offices with an average expense of $50 per month, which equals $200. The salary of three extra men which would amount to at least $300 or a total of $500 that could just as well be added to the cream checks of the farmers of that vicinity. This is an exceptional case, perhaps, but you can figure it out in this town on the same basis and not go far wrong on the figures.

Who is paying this extra expense? Why: the farmers of course.

Patronize this creamery and cut out needless overhead expense.

Klemme Co-Operative Creamery Co.

TOTAL premiums of $141,937.50 are offered for educational exhibits of rank by this year's Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Dairy Exposition, Twin cities, September 5 to 12.

Not only in prize money, but in quality and quantity of exhibits, the 1925 fair will surpass those of all other states. The agricultural, livestock and industrial resources of the great Northwest will be on display in the world's greatest "show window"—the Minnesota State Fair.

Educational, recreational and inspirational.

Make your plans to attend at least one day.

MINNESOTA STATE FAIR & N-W-DAIRY EXPOSITION Sept 5 to 12

reduced rates on all railroads

Minnesota State Fair Features in Nut-Shell

The 66th Minnesota State Fair, Twin Cities, September 5 to 12, will present the greatest educational and entertainment program in its long history. A few of the high spots of the fair program follow:

Third Annual Northwest Dairy Exposition will be staged jointly by the Twin City Business Men and State Fair.

$1,500,000.00 Livestock and Poultry Show.

Peter Manning, world's champion trotter, will headline harness program.

80 acres of Latest Farm Machinery.

$500,000.00 International Art Exposition.

Sig Haugdahl, world's champion dirt track race king, will defend his championship in automobile races.

1,000 boys and girls will demonstrate club work.

Evening Horse Show will be staged five nights in Hippodrome, September 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11.

40 counties will compete in County Agricultural Exhibits.

53 State Departments and Institutions will have large collective exhibit.

Stupendous fireworks spectacle, "Rome under Nero."

Roy Smith's Royal Scotch Highlanders' Band in special concerts.

Morris & Castle's Shows, featuring 25 rides and attractions.

Combined display of Fruits, Flowers and Vegetables, featuring "Story of Apple."

Exhibits of Women's and Children's Work, Public Health, Rural Schools, Beef and Money.

Big open-air circus program in front of the grandstand.

Auto Push Ball, America's newest and most thrilling sport.

Reduced rates on all railroads.

Don't forget the dates! September 5 to 12.

Let's Go!

Excellent Idea Is Umbrella "Exchange"

Brussels appears to be the only city which has a well-organized umbrella-borrowing bureau. The annual subscription is low, but if every umbrella-user were to join such a society, its income would be enormous.

The idea is rather similar to that in force at the British museum, National gallery and other public institutions, where you are required to deposit your "gamp" before being allowed to go round the galleries. You get a ticket of metal, or a bone disk, which will redeem your umbrella at any time; only, in the case of the umbrella exchange, the umbrella is not your own, but the property of the society.

Each member, on paying his subscription, receives a token, usually of metal stamped with an index number, which he carries in his pocket instead of an umbrella in his hand. When caught by the rain, all he has to do is to go to one of the society's agencies, which are tobacco shops, restaurants and big stores, and hand over the token, to be immediately provided with an umbrella.

When the rain ceases the borrower deposits his umbrella in the next agency he happens to pass, and in exchange receives another counter.

Rose Bushes That May Be Classed as Freaks

As a rule rose bushes are not classed with yews and oaks among the long-lived and ancient, but a rose tree on the wall of Hildesheim cathedral, Prussia, can be traced back with certainty to the Eleventh century. Its main trunk has a thickness of 20 inches, and the branches spread over the wall to a height of 25 feet.

The castle of Chillon, on Lake Geneva, in which the famous "Prisoner" of Byron's poem was interned, has a very large rose tree of unknown age, and in the Marine gardens at Toulon there is one that spreads across a space of 80 feet by 15 feet, and which has been known to bear 50,000 blooms at the same time!

The biggest rose tree in Europe is in the Wehrle gardens in Friesburg, Germany. Its stock is a wild rose on which a "tea rose" was grafted 40 years ago. Today the bush is 120 feet high.

Geo. Pabst and family left the first of the we k for their home in California. They drove thru early in the summer and visited relatives in this part of the state. Later they drove hru to the east coast. They will have had a long trip by the time they again reach home.

Lightning struck Elmer Schlei's barn early Sunday morning, setting it afire and burning it to the ground. Elmer says the lightning hit both ends of the barn as there were two bolts that struck. The barn was full of hay which was lost and two horses were lost in the flames.

Mrs. R. W. Elder and son, Clarence drove to Hampton Monday. Our printer got in a mix up with a doctor there and when the smoke of battle had cleared away "Dutch" found he came out only second best. The doctor was ahead by a pair of tonsils but outside of a sore neck our printer is feeling fine.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Barr left early Tuesday morning for Mansfield, Ohio, in their car for a month's vacation. They expected to arrive at Mansfield the following night, over eight hundred miles from Klemme. They had intended to leave Saturday but the relief agent did not come until Monday.

The Klemme Band gave their last open air concert of the season on the street last night. The band has appeared in nine concerts during the summer schedule. The concerts on the streets each Wednesday night were made posible through the liberal donations of Klemme businessmen who financed the band.

School began here Monday with a large enrollment in both the high school and the grades. About 60 are enrolled in the high school and over half of this number are tuition students. About 80 are enrolled in the grades and a number of these are tuition pupils. Prospects are good for a successful school year.

The Ladies Aid Society will hold their regular meeting next Thursday, September 10th at the Parish House with Mesdames Albert Yahnke and Clarence Waterman, hostesses. In connection with the regular business meeting an election of officers for the coming year will be held.

DR. R. E. PORTER
CHIROPRACTOR

..Every Day — Open Evenings..
Office at John Lieuwen Residence

Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

No matter in what line of business you are engaged, what you handle is valued according to quality. As the farmer finds there is always a market for the best, so will the farsighted business man find that it pays to give quality due consideration.

A personal interest is taken in each account at this bank—our officers striving to assist the depositors in developing his resources.

First National Bank.
KLEMME. IOWA.

Visit Our Balcony

Where you will find all the latest in Ladies

New Coats Dresses Millinery

We have just remodeled the balcony in our store and it has all been refinished and redecorated.

We have installed booths for the Dresses and Coats, which protects them from dust and dirt. We have a conveniently located booth where you may try on a dress or coat at your leisure.

In these booths you will find a complete line of newest styles in Ladies and Misses Coats and Dresses. Remeber they are priced at rock bottom prices—quick sales and small profits is the rule at this store.

Our new showing of Millinery will attract you both for style and low price. We have a hat to suit your purse.

And while you ladies are here to shop, just bring along your husband, father or brother—They will want to see our fine line of new Fall Suits, Overcoats, Hats, Caps and Shoes—like everything else in this store—THE PRICE IS RIGHT!

Abraham & Sons
GARNER, IOWA

OF APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR

is Hereby Given, That the ned has been duly appoint- qualified as Administrator Estate of Jantji Albers, de- late of Hancock County, All persons indebted to the re requested to make im- payment; and those having gainst the same will present uly authenticated, to the un- d, for allowance. at Garner, Iowa, this 27th August, 1925.
Albers, Administrator.
Vickman & Hastings, his At- neys. S-17

OF THE APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTRIX

Iowa, Hancock Co.,ss.
E IS HEREBY GIVEN. That designed has been duly ap- and qualified as Executrix estate of Earnest H. Lenz, d, late of Hancock County. sons indebted to said esta'e quested to make immediate t; and those having claims the same will present them, uthenticated to the under- for allowance, and file in ice of the Clerk of the District

Minnie Lenz
Aug. 15, 1925 S 3

les Conklin and Elgin Bates, odell, were Klemme visitors

Estray Notices

ESTRAY NOTICE

FOUND—Came to my place a boar. Owner can have same by pay.. ing cost of keep and advertising. Phone 3517, Klemme, Iowa. 2wc

ESTRAYED—Red cow, weight about 950 lbs., marked left ear, lame in right front foot. Left Harbert's pasture about ten days ago. Finder notify C. A. Larsen, Klemme. 1tc

ESTRAYED—from my pasture a 3 year old roan heifer. Finder notify Alvin Stokesbary. 1tp

KLEMME MARKETS

September 3, 1925

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.30
Shelled Corn	.75—.80
Ear Corn	.75
Rye	.80—.90
Barley	.60
Hogs, top	13.30
Eggs (cash)	.25
Eggs (trade)	.26
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.18
Leghorn Springs	.15
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butterfat	.45
Butter (Creamery)	.45

Wellemeyer's

Beauty Shop

A New Department Opens Monday

We wish to announce to the Ladies of Klemme and vicinity, that on Monday, September 7th we will open up a new department in our Store, to be known as Wellemeyer's Beauty Shop.

Miss Braund, a graduate of the De Guile School of Cosmetology, of Minneapolis, will head this new department.

Miss Braund comes to us from Iowa Falls and is highly recommended by the people whom she served.

Try our Beauty Shop for your next Marcelle.

Wellemeyer's

Klemme, Iowa

Fancy Gift Work

Start Your Christmas Gifts Early This Year

We have just received a very nice assortment of all kinds of FANCY WORK for embroidering and all kinds of needle work.

Start making your XMAS GIFTS now from our nice line of embroideried:—

Pillow Slips	Night Gowns
Step-Ins	Fancy Huck Towels
Tea Towels	Dresser Scarfs
Buffet Sets	Laundry Bags
Pin Cushions	Pillow Tops
Aprons	Clothes Pin Bags, Etc

All designs are plainly stamped and are easy to work, and make nice gifts.

Embroidery Floss

We carry a full line of boil-proof embroidery Floss in all colors and sizes.

See Our Window

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Phone your news to 12, The Times.

WANTED—Plain sewing. Phone 1, Klemme, Iowa. 4tc

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wenz and family were Goodell callers Monday.

R. A. Jorgenson was at Garner on business Saturday morning.

Mrs. C. C. Mayne called on Goodell friends last Wednesday evening.

Mrs. C. A. Arnold was calling on Goodell friends Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Elder were at Belmond Sunday evening.

Miss Marie Gauger is teaching near Kanawha this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis were visiting relatives at Chapin, Sunday.

Miss Luella Fiero visited with friends at Clarion Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus were at Eagle Grove Monday on busines.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. White visited at the home of Mrs. A. D. White at Goodell, Friday.

Arthur Wellemeyer is adding a beauty parlor to his store. See his ad in this issue.

Quite a number of Klemme young men and women will enter college this year.

If you are figuring on putting a Ford motor on your corn picker, see W. F. Pavey first. tfc

Quite a number of Klemme folks are taking in the Fair at Des Moines this week.

Order your kindling wood now! We have a carload coming, all cut in stove length.Northern Lbr. Co. 1tc

Mrs. C. B. Tice, of Mason City, was visiting with Mrs. C. A. Arnold Wednesday.

Coming a carload of fire-wood. Put your order in at once. Northern Lbr. Co. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Musfelt, of Clarion visited with Klemme friends and relatives Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kessler and son, of Belmond, were visiting with Klemme friends last Thursday.

If you are figuring on putting a Ford motor on your corn picker see W. F. Pavey first. tfc

KINDLING WOOD—Coming another carload. Put your order in at once. Northern Lbr. Co. 1tc

C. G. Waterman and family, and W. C. Keraus and family, drove to Des Moines Sunday morning to see the State Fair.

Mrs. Klingeman, of Garner, and Ivan Klingeman and Helen Early, of Albia, were calling at the P. M. Wilson home Thursday evening.

The new stretch of road bed n the Wilson highway between Goodell and Belmond, is now open for traffic.

If you have anything to sell, or want to buy something you will find that a want ad in The Times will turn the trick for you. Try it.

Mrs. Henry Ludeke is enjoying a visit from her sister, Miss Esther Green, and brother Neil Green, who came Saturday.

Ruth Johnson, who has been helping Mrs. C. A. Larsen this summer, "quit her job" Saturday evening as she began school again Monday.

LOST—pair of glasses on streets of Klemme last Thursday. Finder return to Mrs. Reichardt or leave at Times Office. 1tc

The Fuller estate farm, on which Albert Fuller and family have been living, was sold last week to Elko Buss, in order to settle the estate.

Mrs. E. J. Thompson, of Waterloo, was in Klemme several days the past week looking after her hotel property.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus are leaving this week for Tonka Bay, Minnesota for a few days outing and will also take in the Minnesota State Fair.

Mrs. Will Kirkwood enjoyed a visit from her two sisters, Sunday: Mrs. W. E. Wooton. of Marshalltown, and Mrs. T. C. Wooton, of Des Moines.

Mrs. Charles Chelsvig and son of Goodell came Thursday for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell.

To accommodate those who could not start this week, students will be admitted to all classes, Tuesday, September 8. The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. 1tcF.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wiles and Mrs. Behringer drove up from Ames Saturday evening to visit with Klemme and Clear Lake friends over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fuller drove to Vernon Center, Minn., to spend the week end visiting. Grandma Elder returned to Klemme with the Fullers for a visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Gram have moved out of Grandma Schroeder's house and are now located at the Chas. Krause residence in northwest Klemme.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gruetzmacher, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Stille and Grandma Heifner drove to Garner Tuesday to attend the funeral of the latter's sister.

Henry Waterman and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Garling and son, of Lu Zerne, Iowa, visited at the home of Mrs. Mary Waterman, Friday last week.

The Farmers Elevator has installed a new 7½ horse power electric motor with which to do their power work. The gasoline engine will be retained in case of an imergency.

Donald Nissen and wife left Monday in their car for Lake Okoboji for a week's outing before going to Sioux City. They have been visiting at the John Day home for about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lau and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kluckhohn drove to Des Moines Sunday morning to take in the State Fair for a couple of days.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Neese and little daughter moved out of their Ventura home Monday and went to Titonka where Mr. Neese will act as superintendent of the schools there this year.

Mrs. A. B. Schaefer, of Forest City and her grandson, Maynard Spooner. of Lu Verne, were in Klemme on business Monday. Mr. Maynard is doing some repair work on the Schaefer building.

This part of the state has enjoyed some very fine corn weather for the past week or more. The days have been good and warm and the corn is fast getting out of danger from early frosts. The prospects for a big crop looks rosy.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Coobs, Sr., of McGregor, visited at the W. F. Pavey home Sunday. A special excursion was run by the Milwaukee Sunday from McGregor to Clear Lake and they came on it, being met at the Lake by Mr. Pavey.

Mrs. A. D. White and daughter, of Goodell, Mr. Grover and daughter, of Leland, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Allie White and son, Albert, of Klemme, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hughes of Belmond enjoyed a picnic at Mason City, Sunday.

Mrs. Lyle Liebendorfer and son, of Mason City, came Thursday and visited until Sunday at the R. A. Jorgenson home. She is a sister of Mrs. Jorgenson. Sunday the two families enjoyed a picnic dinner at East Park, Mason City.

Mrs. John Baumgartner, of Mason City, underwent an operation at a hospital there over a week ago and last Friday Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day and son, Dorance, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nissen drove over for a visit with her.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ridder left in their car today for New Jersey for a visit with Sam Harvey and family. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey and daughter, Enid, will return to Klemme with Mr. and Mrs. Ridder. They are going to camp out to and from New Jersey.

W. F. Greiman celebrated his 74th birthday Sunday by having his children and their families and his brother's and sisters present at a big dinner at which there were 49 people present. Besides his children and their families there were present: Wm. Katter and family, Fred Greiman and one son, Mrs. C. H. Weigman and son of Garner, and Mrs. Alkers of Sheffield.

Super Power

THE new Philco Drynamic Battery is the highest-powered battery, plate for plate, ever built for starting a car. This means quicker starts—greater protection against hand-cranking ordeals.

The life of a Philco Drynamic Battery doesn't start till you get the battery. This means you get its full life—therefore longer and far more economical service from your battery.

Let us safeguard you against the embarrassments and dangers of battery failure by installing your Philco now.

Pavey's STORMIZING SHOP

PHILCO DIAMOND GRID BATTERIES

One Of Our Modern Policies

Will pay you at age 65 or to your beneficiary if you die before— $10,000.00

Will pay your beneficiary if you die through accident— $20,000.00

If you become totally and permanently disabled before you reach age 60, will pay you $100.00 per month as long as you live and the $10,000.00 in addition to your beneficiary when you die.

FOR INSTANCE—

If you are disabled for over 20 years will pay you— $24,000.00

And when you die, pay your beneficiary— $10,000.00

TOTAL— $34,000.00

E. C. Ford, General Agent, Iowa Falls, Iowa

The Old Line

Cedar Rapids Life Insurance Company

SOME MIDDLE-AGED WOMEN ARE AILING ALL THE TIME

Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. Mayer Tell Women How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Them at This Trying Period

MRS. ELSIE ACKERMAN CONVOY, OHIO

Convoy, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has straightened me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish.'—Mrs. ELSIE ACKERMAN, Convoy, Ohio.

Mrs. Mayer's Experience

Litchfield, Conn.—"I have given your medicine a fair trial (I am on my fifth bottle) and can truthfully say that it has helped me. I am at the Change of Life and was not able to sleep nights, had indigestion, palpitation of the heart, pains in my right and left sides (more so if I hurried), had a rapid beating in my left ear and dreaded to see night come. I felt smothered if I lay on my left side, I had gas dreadfully, at times felt as if some one had me by the throat, had hot waves through me and sometimes I would shake in spells of nervousness. I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot praise it enough. I can say it does all it claims to do and I can recommend it to my friends. I can sleep much better, the pains in my sides are gone, I am not so nervous, my digestion is much better, and I very seldom have the hot waves. I must say that the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine for women's ills and I will answer letters from women asking about it."—Mrs. JOSEPH MAYER, SR., Box 36, Litchfield, Connecticut.

Don't be slovenly in your dress. This applies to women only, as men are not supposed to wear dresses.

Violets and dandelions make a charming combination; but the florists don't yet undertake it.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Why Men Go North

At one stage of last year's Arctic expedition the members could hear jazz music broadcast from London. Then they pushed on farther north.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS
Hot water
Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

For Stomach Worms in Sheep Use Imperial Sheep Condition and Worm Powder formula of a state veterinarian. Guaranteed 10-lb. package for $2.75, sent C.O.D. Mix with 100 lbs. salt. Imperial Products Co., Clarence, Mo.

Dr. Isaac Thompson's EYEWATER
HELPFUL EYE WASH
1159 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

California Needs More Dairymen—Write for list of dairy farms for sale. Charles L. Hughes, 211 Ochsner Bldg., Sacramento, Calif.

Hunting Hounds—100 Hunting Hounds cheap. Fur finders. Cat, Kaskaskennels, Herrick, Ill.

The Favorite Order

First Stude—After all, we go to college to study.

Second—Yes, after all.

Alligators Rout Bathers

Two circus alligators were thrown into Elk river in Kansas several years ago when the show disbanded and these amphibians poked their heads into a group of bathers near Howard, Kan., recently. The bathers were forced to scurry from the water. The alligators had not been seen heretofore and created a great sensation until their presence was explained.—Chicago Post.

Freshen a Heavy Skin

With the antiseptic, fascinating Cuticura Talcum Powder, an exquisitely scented, economical face, skin, baby and dusting powder and perfume. Renders other perfumes superfluous. One of the Cuticura Toilet Trio (Soap, Ointment, Talcum).—Advertisement.

Limburger Statistics

About 922,000 pounds of limburger cheese were confined in storage in the United States on the first of July, or nearly 200,000 pounds more than last year.

Equipped

"Can your little brother walk yet?"

"No, but he has the legs to do it with."—Fliegende Blaetter, Munich.

Perfecting the science of meteorology will remove one more interesting uncertainty.

The favorite of home bread-makers Yeast Foam

Mothers! "If your children do not possess a very keen appetite for baker's bread, try home-made bread and note the sudden increase in the youngsters' bread consumption."
—DR. PHILIP B. HAWK.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

NAMELESS RIVER

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company
WNU Service.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued
—13—

"Just what I've always said!" cried Selwood delightedly, "I knew that long ago. There's one or two who do pass muster—her foreman and that black devil from Texas, Sud Provine. The rest are city stuff."

"They are, without exception, criminals who have been defended by one of the ablest lawyers in New York and acquitted. They owe him a lot—and he has something more on each one of them, so that they are his henchmen in every instance. This man is Lawrence Arnold."

"Kate Cathrew's partner! He owns half of Sky Line!"

"Exactly. When he gets hold of a man he wants to use, he seems to send him here. I have recognized three of these riders already, though none of them knew me."

"Excuse me, mister," said Selwood, "but how do you happen to know so much?"

"That question is your right, and I will answer it. Kate Cathrew was a New York woman—I knew her there some six years ago. She was clever then—and unscrupulous, always playing for her own advancement. It was along that line that she did the deed for which I have hunted her down—and found her at last. What deed that was I am not ready to say, nor to whom it was done. It must suffice for the present to tell you that it ruined one life and bade fair to ruin another until I stepped in to take a hand. These two lives were very near my own—and for their sake I have become a wanderer, a homeless tramp, searching the lone places of the West to find this woman and make her pay—to bring her to justice. I watched Lawrence Arnold for three years before I started and I knew he was in touch with her, that between them some way they were making money, but I could never get track of her through him. He was too sharp for me. I have visited every cattle ranch owned by a woman in the whole United States, it seems to me. I found seven in Texas, two in Montana, and more in Idaho. I have ridden this little chap thousands of miles, shipped him with me by rail thousands more. I knew it was cattle stuff from some of Arnold's deals, but where they came from has been a mystery—until two months ago. Now you know what I am and why I'm on Cattle Kate's trail like a nemesis. I think, if we work together, we'll land her soon—and land her hard and fast where she belongs."

"Amen to that," said Selwood fervently.

* * * * * * *

The summer drowsed along on Nameless, sweet with sun and the little winds that stirred the pine tops, green with verdure and starred with wild flowers. The lonesome world of the jumbled hills was fair as Paradise, wistful with silence, mysterious with its suggestion of eternal waiting. To Nance Allison, sitting listlessly on her doorstep, it seemed strangely empty. There was nothing to do, now that the heavy labor of the haying was over. She watched her three big stacks with somber eyes, expecting each morning to find them destroyed, but nothing happened to them.

Bud carried his father's rifle now and day after day he went morosely into the hills after venison.

"Got to hang enough meat for winter," he told Nance when she looked at him with troubled eyes.

"Got to remember that Commandment which says, 'Thou shalt not kill,'" she answered.

"Brand said to carry the gun."

"Brand said 'defend'—not 'murder.' Hold hard, Bud. We've kept clean so far."

"Yes—and what've we got? A grave and this."

He shrugged his sagging shoulder.

Quick tears came in Nance's eyes and she laid a hand upon it with infinite tenderness.

"I know," she said, "but somehow I still have faith. We'll come out free some day."

"Perhaps—free like our pappy."

"God forbid!" said the girl with trembling lips.

CHAPTER XV

The Flange in Rainbow Cliff.

It was getting along into August. In every cup and hollow of the Deep Heart hills the forage was deep and plentiful. Cattle, scattered through the broken country, waxed sleek and fat. They had nothing to do but fill their paunches in the sunlit glades and chew their cuds on the shadowed slopes.

Bossick, riding his range one day, came upon Big Basford and Sud Provine ambling down toward the upper reaches of Nameless.

Their horses were tired, giving evidence of hard going, and the cattleman stopped and looked at them with hostile eyes.

"Pretty far off your stamping ground, ain't you?" he asked.

Provine grinned.

He was a slow-moving individual with a bad black eye and a reputation with the gun that always rode his thigh, though he had been mild enough on Nameless. It was the little wimple of trailing whispers which had come into the country behind him that had put the brand upon him.

"Are so," he answered insolently, "but hit's free range land at that, ain't it?"

"In theory, yes," said Bossick, "but it's about time practice changed matters. I'm about fed up on theory—and so are a few others in this man's country. I'd take it well if you and all your outfit stayed on the south side of Mystery where you belong. Your stock don't range this far in the Upper country."

"Is that so," drawled the other, "an' who says so?"

"I do," said Bossick quietly, "and I'm only giving you a warning, Provine, which you'd better heed. You can take the word to Kate Cathrew, too. Her high-handed methods don't set any too well with us—and we don't care who knows it."

"To h—l with you and your warnings!" flared Big Basford, his ugly temper rising. "Sky Line's too strong for any d—d bunch of backwoods buckaroos, an' don't you forget it! We're—"

"Shut up!" snapped Provine, and rode away.

"Selwood's right," mused Bossick as he looked after them, "they're a precious lot of cut-throats."

At Sky Line ranch there was activity.

Kate Cathrew was gathering beef.

Riders were coming in daily with little bunches of cattle, all in good condition, which they herded into the corrals.

Day and night the air was resonant with the endless bawling.

It was a little early for the drive—but then Cattle Kate was always early. And this year she had a particular reason for precipitancy. One of those New York letters had said, "—would like to come a little sooner, if possible, so let's clean up promptly."

The word of those letters was law to her. If they had said "ship" in December, she would have tried to do so.

Now she was out on Bluefire from dawn to dark herself, and there was little or nothing escaped her eyes. She knew to a nicety how many yearlings were on the slopes of Mystery, the number of weaning calves, the steers that were ready for shipping and those that were not.

When Provine carried her Bossick's message verbatim the red flush of anger rose in her face again, and she struck the stallion a vicious cut with her quirt.

Bluefire rose on his hind legs, pawing, and shook his head in rage, the wild blood struggling with the tame in him.

"If Bossick ever speaks to you again," said Kate, "you tell him to go to h—l, and that Kate Cathrew said so."

"I did," said Basford, grinning, "and Sud objected."

"Where's your allegiance to Sky Line?" she asked Provine instantly, "must Basford show you loyalty?"

"I can show him discretion," said Provine, evenly, "an' hit don't take much brains to see that. Do you want these ranchers t' begin ridin' hard on us—nights, for instance, an' now?"

Kate frowned and tapped her boot.

"The devil his due," she said presently, "you're right, Provine," and turned away.

The corrals were choked with cattle.

Sky Line was ready for its drive.

On the last night before the start there was a peculiar tenseness in everything about the busy place. Kate Cathrew was everywhere. She saw what horses were ready for use, spoke sharply with every rider to make sure he knew what he was to do, and told Rod Stone once more to get out of the kitchen.

The boy laughed, but Minnie Pine glanced after her with smouldering eyes.

"She's a devil—the boss," she told Josefa, "I hate her."

After the early supper Caldwell, Provine, Basford and four others, saddled fresh horses and rode away.

It was dark of the moon—as it was always when Sky Line gathered beef—a soft windy dark, ideal for the concealment of rides, the disguising of sounds.

They dropped down the mountain at an angle, heading northwest to circle the end of Mystery, and they followed no trail.

They were all armed and all wore dark clothing.

Caldwell, leading, kept well up on the slope above the river and after two hours' hard going they were well around the northwest end of Mystery ridge which flared like a lady's old-fashioned skirt, and heading down into the glades that broke the jumbled ridges of the Upper country.

Here Bossick, a rich man, ran his cattle and had his holdings.

His ranch lay well back from the river and up, but his stock ranged down. That was why it had been easy prey for the mysterious rustlers of Nameless river.

These men did not talk.

They rode with a purpose and they were alert to every sound, their nerves were taut as fiddle strings.

As they trotted up the glade the little wind that drew from the canyon at its head brought the scent of cattle, and presently they came upon a horse and rider standing like a statue in the shadows.

Caldwell drew rein sharply.

"Dickson?" he asked in a low voice.

"O. K." came the answer as the other moved forward to join them.

"Seventy-one head," he said quietly, "and all ready."

"Then let's get busy," said the foreman, "and get out of here."

With prearranged and concerted action the seven men divided and circled the herd which was bedded and quiet. On the further edge they were joined by another shadowy rider, and with silence and dispatch they got the cattle up and moving.

They made little noise, drifting down the level floor of the glade in a close-packed bunch. At its mouth they headed south along the shore of the river and followed along the stream for a matter of several miles. Where the western end of Mystery turned, Nameless curved and went down along the ridge's foot in a wide and placid flow. It was here that the drivers forced the cattle to the water and kept them in it, riding in a string along the edge. This was particular work and took finesse and dispatch.

This was the trick which had baffled cattlemen, and it was both easy and clever, comparatively.

And so Bossick's seventy-one head of steers were disappearing and there was none to see.

That is, at this stage of the proceedings.

There was one to see—one who had spent many weary weeks of night riding, of patient watching which had seemed likely to be unrewarded—

He Had Heard a Cattle-Brute Bawl.

Sheriff Price Selwood sitting high on the slope above Kate Cathrew's trail, as he had so often, doggedly following his "hunch" and the prospector John Smith's discovery.

Since that ride up Blue Stone canyon he had taken turns with Smith in picketing Cattle Kate's outfit, but nothing untoward had taken place.

Now he sat in tedious silence, listening to the night sounds, unaware that any one was out from Sky Line, since Caldwell and his companions had dropped diagonally down the slope in their going, passing far above him.

For an hour he sat, slouching sidewise in his saddle, his hat pulled over his eyes. The bay horse stood in hip-dropped rest, drowsing comfortably.

It was well after midnight, judging by the stars in the sky, when Selwood suddenly held the breath he was drawing into his lungs.

He had heard a cattle-brute bawl.

For a moment he was still as death.

Then he straightened up, every nerve taut.

He heard the sounds of cattle, the crack of whips, the unmistakable commotion of moving bodies. As it all came nearer below him he caught the swish and splash of water, and knew he was at last witnessing a raid of rustlers, one of the mysterious "disappearances" which had puzzled all the Deep Heart country for so long.

He wished fervently that Smith were with him—that Bossick and Jermyn and all the rest were there.

His heart was beating hard and to save his life he could not help the excitement which took hold upon him.

And presently he heard, directly beneath him where Kate Cathrew's trail crossed Nameless, the trample and crack of myriad hoofs taking to the rocky slope. The riders were turning the steers up toward Sky Line ranch!

But what could they do with them there?

Where could they hide them?

Sheriff Selwood had food for thought but little time to use it. He had only time for decision, and for the action which was to follow swiftly on that decision.

As the cattle came up the slope, pushed by the many horsemen who completely encircled them, they left a broad trail, their tracks all going upward—all this passed through his racing mind.

What was to prevent him or any one else from riding straight up to their destination by broad daylight?

And then on the heels of this tion came like a flash of light dark curtain that old coincidence time!

When that 90 head had vanish Kate Cathrew had been driving do —driving down from Sky Line— head of her own stock, all and above board, properly bran clear and fair!

Three hundred head of steers w milling hoofs, going down, w trample out all trace of 90 going

The sheriff's eyes were gleaming the dark, his lips were a tight of determination.

He was beginning to get hold of mystery with a vengeance.

He thought of the windy pass that opened into Blue Stone can If he could only find its head would, as Smith had said, have sol the problem. And unless he mis his guess by a thousand miles, th steers streaming past him at the ment were headed for it now!

Here was the chance to nail crimes on Cattle Kate Cathrew, make the "killing" of his years of ure in office—and Sheriff Price wood, brave man and honest officer the law, took his life in his h again, and fell in beside the herd.

Dark, quiet, shadowy—he was rider among the riders, to all int and purposes one of Kate Cathre men—and he was helping to d Bossick's steers up to the foot of R bow cliff!

From the few low-toned shouts oaths he was able to identify the t men nearest him as Sud Provine Caldwell, the foreman.

He thanked his stars for his dark horse, his inconspicuous cloth

The herd was headed straight the face of the cliff, and he expec soon to see the riders swing them toward the corrals of Sky Line, they did not do so. When the f most steers were close under the Caldwell rode near and called to h thinking him one of his men:

"Get around to the right," he s "and keep close to Sud, Bill. I'll in myself. Take it slow. Don't w 'em to jam in the neck. When first ones start behind the Flange 'em dribble in on their own time. ready?"

The last two words were a high addressed to all the men. From sides of the herd, come to a full s now, came replies and Selwood Caldwell ride away around to right.

Turning his horse the sheriff lowed promptly.

He was tense as a wire, alert, dre ing discovery every moment, yet fi with excitement which sent the bl pounding in his ears.

As he neared the face of the pr pice on the right, he saw Provine ting on his horse, saw Caldwell cr in to the wall and cutting in bef the massed cattle, go straight along length. The faint starlight was sufficient to show up bulk and mo ment, not detail. He heard the f man begin to call "Coee—coo-e coo-ee"—and the next moment could not believe his eyes, for ho and rider melted headfirst into face of Rainbow cliff, as a knife sl into a surface and disappears! C well voice came from the heart of wall, far away and muffled, call "Coo-ee—coo-ee"—Provine edged against the steers, shouting, he lowed suit, as to movement, though did not speak, and the dark blot the mass began to flow into the s rock of the spine that crowned M tery ridge!

Sheriff Selwood had solved the m tery of the disappearing steers—kn to a certainty who were the rust of Nameless river—and he could get away with his knowledge quic enough.

Therefore he reined his horse a to the left, dropped back along herd, edged off a bit—a bit mo sidled into a shadow—slipped beh the pine that made it—and putting bay to a sharp walk, went down mountain.

As the sounds behind him lesse he drew a good breath and struc spur to his horse's flank.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Keep on Keeping On

When last I went West by way the Broadway Limited, I was sitt on the observation platform, watch the scenery dash by, when the por came out to straighten the cha which had been left in some disor by a group of young folks.

"We don't seem to be going so m faster than an ordinary local tra George," I commented. "How, th can this be the fastest train on eart

"Wall, suh," replied the Afric with a grin, "de fac' is we alls doan no faster'n lots of them pesky loc but we gits dar in quick time beca we jist keeps on keeping on."—W. Barnhart in Forbes Magazine.

Did Seem Hard Job

It was all on account of the lab Doctor Glass had to send a bot pills to a patient, while there were a dozen live chickens to be deliver to one of his friends.

The labels got mixed and the m senger delivered the pills to the tor's friend.

So far not much harm had b done; but the patient was pained receiving a hamper of live fowls an envelope containing the follow instructions: "Two of these to be s lowed every half hour in water."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Your health depends upon your kidneys. When your kidneys are inactive, blood and nerves are poisoned and many serious ills result. You feel dull and heavy; get up often at night and suffer annoying kidney irregularities. Your backaches; you have headaches and dizzy spells; your nerves are constantly on edge and you are always tired. If your kidneys are sluggish, help them with Doan's Pills. Doan's act on the kidneys only. Are recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

W. W. Chandler, 702 S. Linn St., Waverly, Iowa, says: "My kidneys were badly disordered and I suffered with backache. When I lifted or stooped, my back gave out and was so lame it was hard for me to straighten. Also, kidneys acted too often. Doan's strengthened my kidneys and relieved the backache."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

A STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Excuses Plausible but Not Convincing

Lord Allenby was speaking about the "unspeakable Turk." "Always he seems to be justified in what he does, according to his own plausible arguments. Even massacres such as have filled the world with horror do not seem so bad as explained by the wily Oriental.

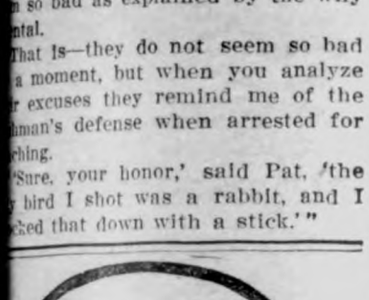
"That is—they do not seem so bad for a moment, but when you analyze their excuses they remind me of the Irishman's defense when arrested for poaching.

"'Sure, your honor,' said Pat, 'the only bird I shot was a rabbit, and I picked that down with a stick.'"

Promote good Health

Take care of your stomach. It is the best friend you have. HOSTETTERS Celebrated Stomach Bitters taken before meals—improves the appetite, aids digestion and imparts a feeling of robust health.

At All Druggists



HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

Haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

Correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

Overhead

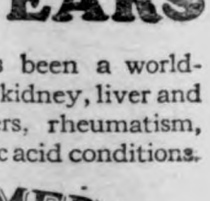
Johnnie—What's overhead expenses, pa?

Pa—Your mother's hats, dear.

No one really scoffs at public opinion; it is always relentless.

Don't scratch that rash—it's dangerous! Stop the itching and clear away the trouble by using Resinol

Quick Safe Relief



CORNS

One minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns. At drug and shoe stores.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone

Boschee's Syrup for Coughs and Lung Troubles

Successful for 59 years. 30c and 90c bottles—ALL DRUGGISTS

Community Building

Resident of Small Town Needs No Pity

The little town, says the New York Evening Post, does not invite the condescension of outsiders. It has its own public opinion and civic pride. The manager of a chain of rural stores comments on the revolution wrought in country life by the easy access to the city. Radio, autos, and national magazines have been part of the interweaving forces of a shuttle constantly at work between the larger and the smaller communities. He might have mentioned the power of women's clubs to raise the cultural level by lectures on current events, by the encouragement of gardening, by the provision and furtherance of music.

The little town does not live by the mere sufferance of the city. Nor does it run to the city for every good thing to eat, to hear, to wear. It is aware of books and abreast of fashions. It has churches served by ministers who are compensated by the devotion of a flock for their relatively modest income. Moreover, that income is not always small when weighed in the balance with the cost of city life. One of the peculiar satisfactions to the small town dweller is the neighborhood consciousness—the knowledge that next-door neighbors and those beyond next door ad infinitum will eagerly mobilize to help in time of need.

The little town offers its own abundant compensations, best known to its own citizens.

Community Built Up by Organized Effort

A fine example of community effort that gets results is found in the work of improving the streets that is being carried on in Columbiana. It is also a demonstration of the manner in which such an organization as the Exchange club can render its best service. Some weeks ago at a meeting of the club a fund for street improvement was started. In this, however, they were preceded by a group of citizens who, cooperating with Mayor Leonard, were at work charting the street leading to the Southern depot. Other citizens joined the Exchange club with their contributions and now the depot street has been completed and good progress is being made on College street. There is enough money pledged, it is said, to chert every street in town. There are other things to be done in Columbiana and there are similar things to be done in every other community in the county. Let our people organize themselves and take hold for still greater effort at community building.—Shelby County (Ga.) Reporter.

Movement to Suburbs

The tremendous growth of American cities and the resultant growth of the suburban zones around them have reached such proportions that the whole conception of cities and their regulation requires revision. The standards by which everything regarding cities was judged a generation ago are no longer adequate, and some radical changes in the physical aspect of cities and their administration may be expected. Decentralization of cities is already under way, and the results are apparent in the real estate market in an unprecedented demand for acreage around the fringes of the cities. In the Chicago area this activity is apparent for 30 miles or more in all directions.

Plan for Beauty

The city that is planning ways to make itself more beautiful is going to grow more rapidly than the city which does not care, a speaker at a real estate convention at Detroit asserted. I would like to think that the real estate men of this country are becoming more and more an influence for right living and right thinking. If we do so, dividends will be returned to us one hundred fold. Let us have cities that are clean—clean morally and clean physically. Let us do away with the things that mar and disfigure their beauty, that stop growth and retard wise city development.

City Managership

There are now 14 states in which any town or city may adopt the city manager plan by a referendum of its people. They are Massachusetts, New York, Virginia, Ohio, Oklahoma, Kansas, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, North Carolina, Wisconsin, Louisiana, Indiana and New Jersey.

The plan has made greatest progress in Michigan, where 34 cities and towns have adopted it. Texas, with 23; California, with 18, and Virginia, where every city over 25,000, with the single exception of Richmond, is under city management.

Changeable

"The man who marries her will get plenty of variety at any rate."

"Why so?"

"She experiments with every new face paint that comes along."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

High Replacement Cost

Hired Girl—Shall I dust off the bricky-brac in the drawing room, ma'am?

Mistress—Not today, Nora. I don't think we can afford it.

ROAD BUILDING

BUY SATISFACTION WITH HARD PAVING

When the street running past your house or in front of your place of business is to be paved you are interested in seeing that the material chosen has the advantage of providing for economy and satisfaction. Your money will pay the initial cost and you will have to bear your share of the maintenance and repair bills. Time and traffic will test the quality of the materials used and if they are chosen wisely, with a view to economy both in first cost and in the maintenance, you will find good cause for congratulation.

By experience over a term of years it has been found that hard-surfaced pavements meet all requirements. A street thus improved is sure to give satisfaction. Now first cost alone is no good argument; the cheapest surface may prove the most expensive in the end. Reasonable first cost with proved durability under traffic and changing weather conditions, and with low maintenance charges as the years go by are the qualities that should make up your first standard by which to judge. Other advantages seldom can outweigh this group that determines directly the cost of the street to the taxpayer, at the start and for years to come.

Having paid for a paved street you want to enjoy the improvement without being called upon for taxes every year in order that it may be repaired or rebuilt. The original cost should be the last except for such incidental attention as may be needed. In case of necessity it should be possible to cut through the street surface to reach the underground pipes and later to restore the section to its original condition. With a pavement properly built the cost of maintenance is insignificant. While there are many instances where streets of this type have received no attention for several years, once a year the paving should be inspected and the joints filled with bituminous material if need be. No patching is required, for, once built, hard pavement retains its shape through all seasons and carries loads over bad spots in the supporting earth below. If it should become necessary to get at pipes or conduits buried beneath the pavement, it can be cut through and repairs readily made so that the pavement is truly monolithic once more, and the patch can be detected only with difficulty. This work can be done by the regular city forces and requires only a few simple tools.

Michigan Gives Nation Its Best Road Builders

Michigan university, in establishing a chair of highway engineering and transport, is among the first of the colleges of the country to approach this important subject from the practicable standpoint.

It supplies a full staff of instructors, library and practical apparatus, to which 20,000 feet of floor space is devoted.

To receive the master's degree, candidates must hold a baccalaureate or engineering degree from an approved college, although provision is made for the reception of nontechnical students of practical experience or training, who, however, are not eligible for a degree.

The fact that 900 technical men are required yearly for the government service alone, with the thousands of engineers needed to build and care for the 2,800,000 miles of surfaced highways of the United States, and the additional thousands of miles of city streets, make this move on the part of the university a timely one.

Equipment of the course includes all modern machinery for the preparation of materials, testing apparatus, laboratories for the analysis of surfacing and road building constituents, abrasion and impact machines for proving the finished work, and all necessary appliances for modern road construction. Eight months is the required term for graduation.

Trees on Highways

Trees adapted to their environs may grow to a great age and nobility, and in this way highway planting will become a most important task in the matter of our rural landscapes. This points to another important matter—the designing and supervision of the work. It is a matter of great importance, a matter that requires great knowledge of plant life as well as the vision of the artist.

Roadside planting, the development of state reservations, and rural parks are equal in importance to city planting and are far greater in scope and vision than the latter. A period of great cultural advancement is always measured by the vision and the outlook for the future.

Missouri Going Ahead

Missouri is marching steadily forward in the building of paved highways. The state highway department awarded contracts for the construction of 67.8 miles of road to cost $874,795, making a total of $18,000,000 of road work contracted for since January 1. Missouri is constructing a highway system that will compare favorably with that of any state in the Union. The system will enable the farmers to market their products more advantageously by making the cities more accessible.

MISUNDERSTOOD

They were hotel acquaintances, and as they sat on the promenade Mrs. Newrich said:

"I hear, my lady, that you are going away from here."

"Yes," said my lady. "I am afraid the damp airs do not agree with me."

"But surely," said Mrs. Newrich, "there is no need for you to eat pears at all?"

Did as He Was Told

"Well, we fooled the cops all right that time."

"I'll say we did. When they came in I did like you said."

"Great. You didn't give your own name, eh?"

"Not on your life. I gave 'em yours."

Was He Scratching?

First Frosh—How'd Jack make out in his midyears?

Second Frosh—He was caught cheating.

"How come?"

"In physiology the question was asked, 'How many vertebrae are there?' and he was caught rubbing his back."—Penn Punch.

HAD THE RIGHT DOPE

Mary—Horace proposed I couldn't tell you how often before I accepted him.

Maud—I think you're right there—I know a half-dozen girls he proposed to before he met you.

On One Wheel

No more to us
Does Henry spiel,
He turned a corner
On one wheel.

Unfortunate Imitation

"Where is that beautiful canary bird of yours that used to sing so clearly and sweetly?" asked Mrs. Weathertee.

"I had to sell him," Mrs. Butlam said tearfully. "My son left the cage on the radio set and he learned static."—American Legion Weekly.

Get Rid of Visitors

He—My dear, I have a splitting headache. Can you manage to get rid of these people?

She—I can't very well show them the door.

He—Certainly not; but you can show yourself at the piano.

Best Time to Call

Bill Collector—Can you pay this little account today, sir?

Debtor—You call at such inconvenient times.

"Well, sir, what time would best suit you for me to call?"

"Oh, call when I'm out!"

IT ISN'T DONE

Playwright—I'm working on a play that deals with the idea that the woman pays.

Playgoer—You don't happen to have located any of the scenes in a restaurant, have you?

He Skidded

At fifty miles
Drove Ollie Pidd,
He thought he wouldn't
Skid, but did.

Instead of Talking

"Why are all the men so crazy over radio?"

"It has the women listening."

The Way to Do It

First Patrolman—There's a man that's always flirtin' with the servant girls on my beat; I'd like to run him in, but I don't see how I can.

Second Patrolman—Why not arrest him on the charge of impersonating one of the force?

Dialect

"Where can I study this dialect?"

"This is song dialect. Study it in songs. It was never actually spoken by anybody."

The Old Standby in a New Dress

The New Package

—the same dependable remedy that over a period of more than fifty years has been found so reliable in the treatment of catarrh and diseases of catarrhal nature.

The outside of the package only has been altered. To facilitate packing and reduce breakage in shipping, the paper wrapper which has identified the Pe-ru-na bottle for many years has been displaced by a substantial pasteboard carton.

Pe-ru-na cannot be made any better. Three generations of users testify that Pe-ru-na is the best remedy in the world for catarrh and diseases of catarrhal origin.

The remedy our fathers and grandfathers used with so much satisfaction is still the standby for the ills of everyday in thousands of American homes.

PE-RU-NA

The Original and Reliable Remedy for Catarrh

Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid

Send 4 Cents for booklet on catarrh to the Pe-ru-na Company, Columbus, Ohio

Bracelets of Hair

Elephant-hair bracelets are being worn as luck charms in London.

Wit is the wine of intellect and ill-nature turns it into vinegar.

Going, Going—

"Is your watch going?"

"No. It's gone; somebody took it."

A great many men owe their success to the failure of others.

YOU CAN SAVE ten hours and lots of work in bread-making by using HOME YEAST

Mix your stiff dough at once; waste no time and effort in soaking of yeast and making up a sponge first. Four hours from the start your bread is ready to go into the oven—and the flavor is wonderful.

Home Yeast is the only dry yeast that will raise a stiff dough at once and finish your dough in four hours. It has everything beaten for making beverages, such as Root Beer, etc. Remember the name, and insist upon Home Yeast at your grocer's.

We shall be glad to send our booklet on the art of easy baking and a FREE SAMPLE of Home Yeast to any housewife who writes to us and gives her grocer's name.

Home Yeast Company, 2712 Montrose Ave., Chicago, Ill.

They Bother Them Now

The coal crisis in England served to recall the methods employed by the miners in bringing their grievances to public attention more than a century ago—in 1815. At that time the workers made their protest in person. They dragged loads of coal to London and demanded to see the prince regent. But the magistrate sent for them, told them they must not bother London's august personages, and bade them go back to their work. And they went back home, carrying their loads behind them.

More or Less

He—Did you marry him for better or worse?

She—Well more or less.

If there is nothing in a man opportunity never troubles him.

HOW To Dress Well Without Cost

FREE! GET OUR BIG OFFER

Write today and let us tell you all about our new startling publicity campaign—How we are going to advertise the DOLLAR BILL STORES by GIVING AWAY beautiful dresses, silk hose, dainty undergarments, etc., to women—complete outfits of wearing apparel to boys and girls—all without a cent of cost. No contest—no canvassing—no obligations to buy. This offer is open to every woman, boy and girl. Don't delay—Write today.

DOLLAR BILL STORES
1030 W. North Ave.
Chicago, Ill

$10 TO $25 DAILY SELLING MEN'S AND boys' all-wool suits and overcoats. Commissions in advance. We ship and collect balance. Free outfit to reliable man. High quality, low price; prompt delivery. Write Dept. 618. H. W. High Co., 306 S. Franklin St., Chicago.

Exchange Your Old Rugs, Carpets and Clothing for Up-to-date Rugs of New Wool—Save Half

SHIPPED TO YOU WITHIN 24 HOURS

SAVE half on Rugs! Beautify your home at trifling cost! Our beautiful new book, "Rugs and Home Decorating," tells how. This is an unusual book—printed in actual colors—full of useful and money-saving suggestions. Be sure to write for a Free copy today.

This book tells about an unusual merchandising plan that has put Olson Rugs within the reach of hundreds of thousands of home lovers by cutting rug costs as high as 50%.

Olson Rugs are rich and luxurious—made of fine, imported new wools. Every step in their manufacture is performed here in our Chicago mills—the largest in the world selling direct to the home. They are woven in one piece (no seams) with the same deep, luxurious nap on both sides, to give double wear. They are made in any size and any color in the one and two-toned effects now endorsed by leading decorators.

SENT ON TRIAL

Your old rugs, carpets and clothing pay part of the cost of new Olson Rugs. That's what brings the price down so low. We pay shipping charges on your old material and send your new rug for a week's full trial. You can't lose a penny. Our iron-clad guarantee protects you fully.

RUGS IN 24 HOURS

We ship your new rugs the same day we receive your order. In other words, these new, up-to-date, reversible Olson Rugs are in your home within 2 or 3 days from the time you order them! No delays! And, best of all, a cash saving of as high as 50%! Get all the facts. Mail coupon today for free book that explains everything.

AILEEN PRINGLE

Famous Goldwyn star and society woman says: "I love beautiful things. I guess that's why I'm so partial to Olson Rugs. The colors are rich and restful. The deep, luxurious nap makes them ideal for any room in the home."

TEAR OUT AND MAIL

Olson Rug Co., Dept. W-1,
Lafiin St., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Please send me, FREE, at once, your latest book on "Rugs and Home Decorating," which explains your money-saving plan that allows me to exchange my old carpets, rugs and clothing for up-to-date new rugs. This obligates me in no way.

NAME .....

ADDRESS (R. F. D.).....

TOWN..... STATE.....

News Of Goodell and Vicinity By Times Correspondent

Effie Clark entertained relatives from Belmond this week.

Mae Griggs was a business caller in Meservey Friday.

Mr. Lamer was fishing at Crystal Lake Thursday.

Elsie Knoll, of Ventura, has been visiting friends in Goodell this week.

W. C. A. Gast, of Garner called at the J. T. Griggs home Friday eve.

Thornton attracted a large crowd with their Barbeque Thursday.

M. J. Kearneys enteretained relatives from Williams Sunday.

Casey Blank was a week end caller at the Miller home.

Lucile Miller spent the week end at home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lamer were visiting friends in Ventura Friday night.

Viola Quigley, who has been visiting in Belmond, returned home Friday.

Misses Grace and Bessie Quigley of Belmond, and Viola of Goodell, were Mason City callers Friday.

Many from here attended the Legion Day at Belmond Wednesday. All report a splendid time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Newberger of near Klemme visited at the Jay Griggs home Sunday.

Mrs. Rose Houghton and Miss Natalie Thada were Belmond callers Thursday.

Mrs. George Johnson of Iowa Falls came Friday for a short visit at the Sherwood home.

Martin Kearney and children Margaret and Emmet, drove from Williams Wednesday for a short visit with relatives and friends.

John Smith and son, Mark, drove to Iowa Falls Friday where the latter took the train for Earlville where he will teach school.

Mae Griggs resigned her position in the drug store and will take charge of her school work in Meservey Monday. Her sister, Lela, is now helping out with work in the drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Boren, and their daughters Jean and Hazel, Mrs. Frank Quigley, Jr., and Ruth and Dorothy Lackore, left Saturday morning for visits with relatives in various places in Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cook and Dolores left Saturday for Hartley where they will spend a short time visiting friends. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter, Sr., and Arthur Lyons will take charge of their farm work while they are gone.

OPEN ANOTHER GAS WELL AT HERNDON

Audubon, Iowa. Aug. 2[illegible]—Another gas well was recently opened in Guthrie county by the Central Oil and Gas Company. The new well is on the Antone Leber farm between Bagley and Herndon. Gas was struck at a depth of 158 feet, which is about fifty feet deeper than gas has hitherto been found in this county.

AND THEN HE MURDERED HER

Bride: How much is mutton today?

Butcher: 35 cents per pound.

Bride: Mercy, I imagined it would be much cheaper, I just read in the paper wher a scientist had invented a cure for insomnia, so naturally there would be a lot of sheep out of work.

STATE FAIR BILL FULL OF THRILLS

World's Greatest Features Engaged for World's Greatest Fair, Sept. 5 to 12.

A colossal entertainment program, costing $150,000.00, has been arranged for this year's Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Dairy Exposition, Twin cities, September 5 to 12.

Action, speed, and thrills galore are promised fair visitors by this spectacular program, which will feature horse racing, auto racing, open-air circus acts, fireworks, auto push ball, band concerts, and a midway with 25 high class attractions and rides.

Champion Trotter Coming.

Peter Manning, world's champion trotter, will headline the harness program. Peter Manning will attempt to break his present world's record of 1:56¾ seconds made at Lexington, Ky., October 4th, 1922. In addition to Peter Manning's exhibition, fourteen harness and nine running horse races are scheduled. The fair is offering $24,000.00 in purses, with entry money to be added. Horse racing is scheduled for September 7, 8, 10 and 11.

A world's champion also will be seen in action shaking dice with death in the ever-spectacular auto races on the program. Sig Haugdahl—Minnesota's own—world's dirt track race king, who has traveled at a rate faster than 3-miles-a-minute in his "White Streak," will defend his racing crown against the leading speed demons of the country, including Fred Horey of St. Paul, Ray Lampkin of Kansas City, Johnny De Palma of Los Angeles, Cleo Sarles, and others. Auto races are scheduled the opening and closing Saturdays and Wednesday.

The Royal Scotch Highlanders, Roy D. Smith conductor, will furnish the musical treat of the fair. Two concerts daily will be given. Bobbie Broilier, a Scotch tenor soloist, and Miss Dora Hilton, a soprano soloist, will appear with the Highlanders. The Minnesota State band of St. Paul, Minneapolis Working Boys' Band, Michael Jalma and his Band of Minneapolis, and a dozen other bands and orchestras also have been engaged.

Circus Acts Booked.

The open-air acts to be presented in front of the grandstand have been recruited from all parts of the world.

Captain Jack Payne, premier high diver, will thrill visitors with his back somersault dive from the top of a 80-foot ladder into a shallow tank.

"Rome, under Nero," the most daring, novel and entertaining fireworks spectacle ever attempted, will be the night show feature. Tons and tons of fireworks will be shot off nightly.

Morris and Castle's stellar attractions featuring 25 rides and shows will be found on the midway.

Amazing feats of foot-balancing, featuring somersaults and daring tumbling of all kinds, will be presented by the Jansley troupe. The Four Readings, hand-to-hand balancers, will thrill visitors with a sensational "neck-to-neck" dive made from the top of a 50-foot stand.

Right to Salute Bride

Kissing the bride appears to have been an old Scottish custom, according to which "the person who presided over the marriage ceremony uniformly claimed it as his inalienable privilege to have a smack at the lips of the bride immediately after the performance of his official duties," for it was cannily believed that the happiness of every bride lay involved in the pastoral kiss.—Doris Blake in Baltimore Sun.

Bird Census Takers

In all civilized countries where game is being protected there are trained men employed in taking the census of the various birds and other protected wild game. In the United States and Canada the preserve wardens do the work with the aid of competent helpers. The task is a patience-trying one. In Europe the count is actual, just as when a human census is taken, but in the United States it is largely by estimate. In this way reliable figures are obtained, as for instance the statement that in Peru may be found 4,000,000 llamas.

N. W. GERMAN CONFERENCE MAKES NEW APPOINTMENTS

Rev. A. H. Meyer, Former Klemme Pastor Remains At Wood

News regarding the appointments of the Northwest German M. E. Conference of the Charles City district states that A. H. Meyer, former pastor of Klemme and for several years pastor at Wood, will remain at that charge. This charge is a few miles from Edgewood.

Rev. F. H. Thiel remains as district superintendent at Charles City. C. F. Behmfalk succeeds Dr. John Klaus as pastor at Charles City, and Rev. Klaus retires. L. J. Brenner, district superintendent, goes to the Flood Creek charge, which is one of the very best appointments.

One of the reasons for the increased accuracy of the scales which are used in the grocery stores is the fact that the inspectors of the Iowa department made 40,865 inspections of counter scales last year.

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blume 's

REPAIR SHOP

Special Prices On--

Oils and Greases--

It will pay you to take advantage of the prices we are quoting on Oils and Greases of all kinds. We buy in large quantities thereby getting a lower price which we pass along to our customers.

TRACTOR OIL—in all grades.
AUTO OILS—in all grades.
HARD OIL—in bulk, a real bargain.
TRANSMISSION GREASE—just received a 400 pound drum. Come in and get some if you need a good grease.

..... SPECIAL .....
: While This Supply Lasts :
: 5 gallon can of French Auto Oil, Grade :
: "B" Medium, for only .....$3.98. :
:.....Don't Miss This Bargain.....:

GET OUR QUANTITY PRICE BEFORE BUYING!

E. F. Jacobs

Introducing Important Changes in Bodies--Chassis

Ford CARS AND TRUCKS TRACTORS

Added Beauty and Utility Closed Cars In Color

No Increase in Prices

On Display Here Sept. 15

Note these New Featurers--

The Tudor Sedan

Color—Channel Green with upholstery to harmonize. All-steel body. Nickeled radiator shell and head lamp rims. Lower seats; both front seats tilting. One-piece ventilating windshield. Leather-cloth sun visor of new design, closed at both ends. Standard equipment includes starter, cord tires, demountable rims, windshield wiper, rear view mirror and dash lamp. Balloon tires $25 extra.

Price f. o. b. Detroit .....$580.

The Coupe

Color—Channel Green with upholstery to harmonize. All-steel body. Nickeled radiator shell and head lamp rims. One-piece ventilating windshield. Unusually wide rear deck with doubled compartment capacity. Leather-cloth sun visor, closed at both ends. Standard equipment includes starter, cord tires, demountable rims, windshield wiper, rear view mirror and dash lamp. Balloon tires $25 extra. Price f. o. b. Detroit ..... $520.

Many New Changes

Body designs of distinctive beauty, together with many important chassis refinements contributing to comfort and convenience, distinguish FORD cars which will be on display here about September 15.

A pronounced stream-line treatment has been effected by dropping the chassis and by lowering and lengthening the bodies. This has, of course, also resulted in more roominess for the driver and passenger.

The Tudor Sedan, Coupe and open bodies are of all-steel construction.

FORD Closed Cars are now finished in attractive colors with nickeled radiator shells. The Tudor Sedan and Coupe are in a deep Channel Green, the Fordor in rich Windsor Maroon—all with interior upholstery to harmonize.

The radiator is set slightly higher and the hood is lengthened, further emphasizing the improved stream-line effect of the body. Fenders on all cars are larger, more attractive, affording greater protection.

The steering wheel is larger and set lower to accommodate the driver.

Seats have been moved back and are low, deep, wide and very comfortable.

Another marked convenience has been accomplished in the Tudor Sedan, Coupe and open cars by placing the gasoline tank—of greater capacity—beneath the cowl, where it affords better gravity flow and can be easily filled from the outside. The gasoline sediment bulb, usually difficult of access, is conveniently located under the hood.

A fan bracket of improved design permits quick and simple adjustment of the fan belt. The fan has been raised, greatly increasing the cooling efficiency.

Wider transmission brake drum and band insure smoother braking action, increased braking power and longer life. Rear wheel brake drums are greatly enlarged, and lined with asbestos composition. They are the self-energizing type so that braking becomes both smooth and positive.

These and other marked improvements will be gladly shown in detail by us. Call for a demonstration.

The Fordor Sedan

Color—Windsor Maroon with upholstery to harmonize. Composite body. Nickeled radiator shell and headlamps. Leather-cloth sun visor, closed at both ends. Standard equipment includes starter, cord tires, demountable rims, domelight, windshield wiper, rear view mirror and dash lamp. Balloon tires $25 extra. Price f. o. b. Detroit $660.

Open Cars

The Touring

Color—Black. All-steel body of stream-line design. Double ventilating windshield. Ford leather-cloth one-man top. Tool box under front seat. Standard equipment includes cord tires, weather-proof side curtains opening with all doors, windshield wiper and nickeled headlamp rims. Starter and demountable rims $85 extra. Balloon tires $25 extra.

Price f. o. b. Detroit ..... $290.

The Runabout

Color—Black. All-steel body. Double ventilating windshied. Wide rear deck with compartment space greatly increased. Tool box under front seat. Standard equipment includes cord tires, storm curtains opening with both doors, windshield wiper and nickeled headlamp rims. Starter and demountable rims $85 extra. Balloon tires $25 extra. Price f. o. b. Detroit ..... $260.

GREIMANN MOTOR COMPANY

Authorized Ford Sales & Service

Klemme, Iowa

THE KLEMME TIMES

Thirtieth Year—Number 1. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

SEPTEMBER 13 - 19 HAS BEEN SET AS ENDOWMENT WEEK

DO YOUR BIT TO HELP WORLD WAR SUFFERERS

Zero Hour for Next World War Drive In Iowa has Arrived

The Zero hour for the next World war drive in Iowa has arrived.

The objective will be to raise Iowa's quota of $225,000 of The American Legion's $5,000,000 Endowment Fund for the care of disbaled veterans and orphans of veterans.

Former Governor N. E. Kendall, as state civilian chairman, is in supreme command of the attacking forces. His chief lieutenants are Cammander Ben A. Webster, state Legion chairman, and Mrs. Margaret Jones Hinderman, state Auxiliary chairman. Others are Legion and civilian chairman for the eleven congressional districts, for the ninety-nine counties and for every city and town in the state. In the ranks are 40,000 Legionaires, 21,000 Auxiliary members and a host of interested citizens.

The enemy is suffering, hunger, want, disease, ignorance, untimely death among men seared in the conflict of 1917- '18 and the needy dependents of service men who have or will have to hear Taps in the coming few years. He is a devastating, implacable enemy who strikes everywhere among the World war veterans and their families. He cannot be completely conquered or staved off and where he does strike the ravages of his assault can be reduced to the minimum.

Endowment headquarters at 219 Liberty building, Des Moines, has been like an army headquarters on the West Front with "Generals" Kendall and Webster marshalling their forces. A tremendous educational and publicity barrage has been laid down. To organize the whole state so that on the jump-off September 13 the attackers will move as one in every community in Iowa is a tremendous task, but only a few details are left to be worked out.

Enthusiasm is at the peak. Thousands of dollars have already been eceived without solicitation. The first big contributions came from Hanford McNider, past national and state Legion commander, who gave $1,000, and his father, Charles H. McNider of Iowa Liberty Loan fame, who matched his son by giving another $1,000. Then the Iowa American Legion Auxiliary, through Mrs. Hinderman, gave another $1,000. A number of smaller checks have been received. Commander Webster's three little children, after hearing their father tell of other children who are needy veteran's orphans, gave the contents of their savings banks to the endowment fund. Several Legion posts have already raised their respective communities quotas but most of the money-raising and contributions are expected to come from people who were not in military service during the war.

Governor Hammill, in issuing a proclamation setting the week of September 13 - 19 as American Legion Endowment Fund week in Iowa, announced he would make a healthy contribution.

"Iowa will go over the top in this like she did in the Liberty and Victory loan drives," he said. "We cannot, must not 'fall down' on this. It is a wonderful project."

The apportionment that Hancock county is to raise is $16,00, and the town of Klemme has been asked to raise $125. This should be easily done.

Mrs. Mary E. Kennedy, who died recently at Waukee was believed to be the only woman in Iowa drawing two pensions from wars seventy years apart. She was the widow of Capt. T. J. Kennedy of Des Moines, who was a Mexican war veteran, and drew a pension as his widow. She was a gold star mother also, her son George having died in a training camp during the late war and she drew a pension for him.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. HENRY BEIER

Mrs. Ida Louise Lenz Beier the beloved companion of Mr. Henry Beier bade farewell to this life as the first streaks of dawn flashed through the heavens, messengers of a new day, on Saturday morning, September 5, 1925. It was then that the first flashes of dawn of an Etternal Day flashed through The Heavens and summoned her to come higher and "She Traveled On."

Mrs. Beier was born April 8, 1876 near Rockford, Floyd Co., Iowa, a daughter of Mr. asd Mrs. Frederick Lenz who soon after her birth moved to this county and settled on a farm immediately north of the center school house in Liberty township, then known as Germantown. Along with her brothers and sisters she was priveledged to enjoy all the advantages of church and school that this community offered. That she made use of these advantages was amply proven in her lifetime. A beautiful Christian character, a useful life, and a wholesome and lasting influence were hers. While a child, she joined the Liberty township Methodist church and remained a member of the same until death.

On December 22, 1897, she was joined in marriage to Mr. Henry Beier. A happy homelife ensued. A family atmosphere was there that does one good to behold. The influence of which cannot be limited by the confines of such a home

Seven daughters and three sons were priveledged to enjoy this happy atmosphere with the parents. Several of these are still of very tender years and too young to spare a mother's care, it would seem to us, made inroads on Mrs. Beier's health some time ago. Medical attention was summoned, apparently with good results. After a time recurrence took place resultant in her early death.

Beside her husband and children who all survive her, there are left to mourn her untimely death, her aged mother, four brothers and one sster. Numerous other relatives from here and a distance were in attendance. Funeral services were held at the Liberty Church on Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. A. W. Gauger, the pastor. A large concourse of people were in attendance. Interment was made in the Klemme cemetery.

So low was her Master's call
That it did not reach our ears;
But she heard the sund and her quick response
Was full of joy—so fears
Weep not for her soft release
From earthly pain and care;
Nor grieve that she reached her home and rest
Ere she knew that she was there.

But think of the sweet surprise,
The sudden and strange delight,
She felt as she met her Saviour's smile
And walked with him in white.
Weep not for her toils are o'er,
Any thy race may soon be won;
So with sandaled feet and staff in hand
Let thy work for the Lord be done.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Joseph E. Johnson, wf to A. J. Kudje, W. D. date 8-27-26, $1, etc. Part of NW¼ and E½ of SW ¼ 30 95-23.

E. J. Newman, wf to Anna G. Chapman et al, W. D. date 8-26-25, $100 etc. N½ of SE¼ & NE¼ 26-97-25.

Gillbert Svverson to Mrs. Julia Larson et al, W. D. date 9-1-25, $1, etc. SW¼ SW¼ 1 and SE¼ SE¼ 2 & E½ N¼W11 & NW¼ NW¼ 12-97-23.

Winnie J. Hurd et al to Stanton F. Hurd, W. D. date 10-6-24, $1.00, etc. SE¼ 32-96-23.

Joseph E. Johnson wf to W. R. Bloom, W. D. date 9-1-25, $1.00 Und ½ of all that part of NW¼ 31-95-23.

Trade Name

Higdon & Son, Britt, owners. S. anl and H. B. Higdon. Britt, Iowa.

THE AMERICAN LEGION ENDOWMENT FUND

For Disabled Men and the Orphans of Veterans

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, The President of the United States has endorsed The American Legion's $5,000,000 Endowment Fund, of which Iowa's quota is $225,000, and the Governor of the Commonwealth of Iowa has issued a proclamation designating the week of September 13 to 18 as American Legion Endowment Fund Week and

WHEREAS There are 45000 American World War Veterans in hospitals, fifteen of them are dying every day, thousands of other war victims not in hospitals who must hear Taps soon, and the total daily death toll of veterans is 117; there are allready more than 40,000 orphans of veterans, several thousand utterly without care; and it is estimated there will e 500,000 veterans' orphans in ten years, and

WHEREAS, the Mayor of the city of Klemme, Iowa knows this Endowment Fund is being established to insure all possible care for the disabled service men and women and to provide homes for, and educate the orphans, recognizes the great service rendered humanity by our defenders in the most colossal and devastating conflict in annuls of mankind and feels that the grateful citizens of this community will want to generously respond to the appeal for funds which will shortly be sounded by the Iowa Department, American Legion, through local committees.

THEREFORE, I, Frank Gruetzmacher, Mayor of Klemme Iowa most urgently urge all citizents and organizations of this community to put forth every possible effort in attaining our quota in Iowa's share of The American Legion Endowment Fund.

F. GRUETZMACHER

Given under my hasd and seal at Klemme Iowa this 7th day of Sept. ember 1925.

COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Britt High School Building; Sept. 17 and 18 1925

A county teacher's institute will be held in the High School building at Britt, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 17 and 18. In compliance with Sections 4108 and 4109 of the code of Iowa, 1924, all schools in Hancock County will be closed on the above dates.

"The County Superintendent shall hold a County Teachers' Institute for not less than two days in each school year.

The school board of every school district shall adjourn the school or schools of said district to allow the teachers to attend the county teachers' institute without loss of salary.

J. R. Baggs County Superintendent of Schools.

PROHIBIT SMOKING

Students who attend school at Postville, and who are seen or reported smoking cigaretts or using tobacco in any form or who are seen under the influence of liquor will be suspended or expelled, according to a resolution passed at the last board of directors of the Independent school district there.

School started last Monday and the board of directors claim that it will see that . he resoluion which it passed will be enforced from the first day to the end.

Big Preparations Being Made For County Fair

HANCOCK COUNTY FAIR STARTS TUESDAY

Plans Being Made For Big County Exposition This Year

Plans have been completed for the big Hancock County Fair to be held at Britt, September 15-18. Indications are that there will be a big show of livestock and agricultural produces as many of the pens and stalls have already been reserved, and considerable talk is heard in regard to exhibits for the Floral Hall.

Many of the townships are planning on putting on booths. The Junior Clubs of the county will show 20 head of dairy heifers and 11 head of baby beeves, as well as exhibits of the clothing and canning clubs. Slub demonstration teams will demonstrate.

A good program has been worked out, consisting of horse races, ball games, free attractions on the platform before the grandstand. One of the big features of the program is the Hazel M. Cass Company for the night show, with a complete change of program every night. This is the same Company that has hown for several years and their show is bigger and better than ever before.

There will be a number of shows on the midway and there will be a merry go round for the children.

One of the big features of the afternoon and evening programs will be the big bowery dances. Music will be furnished by Cato's Vagabonds. This is a wonderful orchestra and draws more people to their dances than any other orchestra in this part of the country.

The following program has been worked out:

Tuesday, Sept. 15; Entry Day

All entries must be made on this date. Livestock must be in place by Tuesday evening. Exhibits in the Floral Hall may be placed until 10:00 A. M. Wednesday.

Wednesday, September 16

Judging in Floral Hall.
Judging horses, cattle, poultry and club calves.
Ball Game: Britt vs. Garner.
Band Concert; Britt Band.
Free Attractions in front of grandstand.
Horse Races; 2:20 trot; 2:17 pace, county run.
Horse Shoe Pitching.
Bowery dance afternoon and evening—Cato's Vagobonds.
Big Night Show; "The Unkissed Bride", by the Hazel M. Cass Co.

Thursday: September 17

Judging in Floral Hall.
Club Demonstration Team Contests.
Judging of Swine.
Ball Game—Woden vs. Garner.
Band Concert—Kanawha Band.
Free Attractions in front of grandstand.
Horse races—2:25 pace; 2:15 trot; county harness race.
Horse shoe pitching.
Big Bowery dance afternoon and evening Cato's Vagabonds.
Big Night show, "The Modern Cinderella" by the Hazel M. Cass Co.

Friday, September 18

Ball Game—Winners of the previous days.
Band Concert—Corwith Band.
Free attractions in front of grandstand.
Horse Shoe Pitching.
Trap Shooting.
Horse Races—2:25 trot, 2:12 pace: county run; pony race.
Stock parade.
Big Bowery dance afternoon and evening—Cato's Vagabonds.
Big Night show "Why Men Leave Home" by the Hazel M. Cass Co.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor.

Our services begin promptly at 10:00 o'clock, Sunday morning, fol lowed by the Sunday school at 11:-$ $o'clock.

The evening service begins one half hour earlier herafter, or at 7:-30.

The Ladies Aid meets this Thursday afternoon at the Parish House.

Weekly prayer meeting on Thursday evening. This meeting is open to all and should prove beneficial to you.

RURAL SCHOOL TEACHERS FOR THE COMING YEAR

THE RURAL SCHOOL TEACHERS HAVE TAKEN UP THEIR WORK

Following Is A List Of Hancock Co. Teachers In District Schools

By consulting the following list you will know who each teacher is in both the township and the district.

This list gives the township, the number of the district, the teacher's name and the town where she gets her mail.

Amsterdam

1. Minnie Bunting, Corwith.
2. Nellie Duncan, Kanawha.
3. Hazel Jurgensen, Kanawha.
4. Myrtle Duncan, Kanawha.
6. Loretta Winkel, Kanawha.
7. Shirley Lewis, Kanawha.
9. Tena Johnson, Kanawha.

Avery

1. Wava Bachman, Goodell.
2. Nettie Roths, Goodell.
3. Adna Ward, Klemme.
4. Octave Church, Klemme.
5. Dalia Stromer, Goodell.
8. Edith Halfpop, Goodell.

Bingham

1. Margaret Tjaden, Woden.
3. Ada Sachan, Titonka.
4. Estella Bonacker, Titonka.
5. Juanita Murr, Woden.
6. Cora Rieken, Woden.
7. Herman Naefke, Britt.
8. Marie Buffington, Woden.
9. Mina Ward, Wesley.

Boone

1. Myrtle Fisher, Britt.
2. Katherine Graves, Britt.
5. Bernice Jacobs, Corwith.
6. Lena Anderson, Britt.
7. Viola Gordon, Britt.

Britt

2. Mrs. Francis Cummins, Britt.
3. Olga Boddum, Britt.
4. Minerva Rydson, Britt.
5. Tena Jacobson, Britt.
6. Margaret Ormsby, Britt.
7. Marie Ormsby, Britt.

Concord

2. Ione Sinclair, Garner.
3. Beulah Schipull, Garner.
5. Eva Reibe, Garner.
8. Lucille Owens, Garner.

Crystal

8. Murre Earles, Britt.
9. Margaret Dickson, Crystal L.

Ell

2. Viola Goll, Garner.
3. Pearl Prull, Garner.
4. Stella Huenaman, Garner.
5. Marvel Brogan, Garner.
6. Ella Barz, Ventura.
7. Edwin Bock, Klemme.
8. Edith Haupt, Klemme.

Ellington

1. Esther Larsen, Forest City.
2. Frances Pitkin, Forest City.
3. Lillian Olson, Forest City.
4. Margaret Smith, Forest City.
5. Lottie Bolsinger, Forest City.
6. Mabel Larson, Ventura.
7. Norva Carr, Garner.
8. Lillian Wetterling. Garner.

Erin

1. Ruby Swanson, Britt.
2. Helen Tyson, Britt.
3. Bonnie Benner, Britt.
5. Rose Ormsby, Britt.
6. Georgia Arnett, Britt.
7. Genevieve Wilson. Kanawha.
8. Ella Liddy, Britt.
9. Mrs. Flora Stroud, Kanawha.

Garfield

1. Lydia Jante, Garner.
5. Ilah Strieby, Garner.
6. Mrs. Fern Katter, Garner.
7. Luella Grau. Garner.
8. Helen Horecka, Garner.
9. Mrs. Eleanor Truit, Britt.

Liberty

1. Dale Chase, Garner.
2. Sophia Katter, Garner.
3. Evelyn Carothers, Garner.
4. Esther Beier. Britt.
5. Mabel Beier, Britt.
6. Ruth Lenz, Garner.
7. Norma Stromer, Garner.
8. Annabelle Carlson, Garner.
9. Bernice Tanner, Goodell.

Madison

1. Cecelia Hylen, Forest City.
2. Daisy Weaver, Forest City.
3. Laura Schauf, Forest City.
4. Alice Durant, Forest City.
5. Stella Nelson, Forest City.
6. Ida Meckstroth. Forest City.
7. Genevieve Roach, Forest City.

Magor

1. Margaret Meyers, Corwith.
5. Frances Theobald, Corwith.
6. Mrs. J. R. Cosgriff, Kanawha.
7. Emma Hartwig, Kanawha.
8. Florence Bogard, Corwith.
9. Lucille Welch, Corwith.

Orthel

1. Mildred Iverson, Britt.
2. Esther Missman, Woden.
3. Gladine Gandy. Wesley.
4. Mrs. John Ormsby, Wesley.
5. Kathleen Hauptly, Wesley.
6. Anna Glawe, Britt.
7. Mary Gahan, Britt.
8. Lucille Gahan, Britt.

Twin Lake

1. Pearl Johnson. Klemme.
2. Agnes Fuller, Goodell.
3. Bridget Nolan, Kanawha.
4. Cora Johnson, Kanawha.
5. Nora Eliason, Kanawha.
6. Mildred Fuller, Goodell.
8. Lulu Wilkins, Goodell.
9. Marie Gauger, Kanawha.

FIVE WINS FROM EIGHT BABY BEEVES

Five wins out of eight baby beeves entered at the Iowa State Fair by the calf clubs of Hancock county is not so bad for the first time the county has entered in competition in the baby beef classes

Eight baby beeves were entered, four shorthorns, three Herefords and one Angus. Five of the eight got in on the money and ribbons, among them being Olaf Hhoades, of Kanawha, who won 6th in the senior Hereford class in competition with 100 others; Robert Schneider, of Goodell, who won 11th in the same class; Leon Goll, of Garner, who won 12th in the senior Shorthorn class in competition with 75 others, and Marvin Townsend, of Britt, and Arnold Hampel, of Garner, who were awarded ribbons and money in the same class. Other exhibitors were Theodare Trulson of Britt an Angus, Frederick Schneider of Goodell, a Hereford, and Miss Opal Mau, of Britt, a shorthorn.

The showing made by the Hancock county boys and girls is most encouraging since it is only a few month since their club was organized. No doubt many boys and girls will take heart and try raising ribbon winners another season.—Britt News Tribune.

SCHOOL ITEMS OF INTEREST

Our baseball team will be seen in action next week on Wednesday evening September 16 at 4 o'clock against Meservey.

We wish we might have some good practice with the town team here in preparation for this initial battle.

The Board has obliged us with a telephone which will be a great convenience to both parents and faculty. Our number is 84. We prefer that calls to school house be put in during the noon hour from 12:45 to 1 o'clock, or before 9 P. M. inthemorning.

In case of emergency, calls will be answered any time but for ordinary calls wep refer they be put in at a time when they will interfere least with our class work. In case any one should forget to call before one or before school in the morning they may call from five to ten minutes before 12 or before four o'clock.

We have been promised new seats for thep rimary grades as not a few of our pupils ares itting in seats much too large or too high for them.

Miss Thormann was here Wednesday to arrange for piano work with students.

Farmers of Iowa would receive $5,000,000 more for their eggs this summer if eggs were purchased on grade, states the Iowa Department of Agriculture. Most of this increase would be on account of the better care than would be taken in produce one pound of creamery but-high quality.

In Memoriam

IN SAD BUT LOVING MEMORY OF OUR DEAR BELOVED HUSBAND AND FATHER WHO PASSED FROM US ONE YEAR AGO TODAY. SEPTEMBER 6 1924.

MRS. A. C. LAU,
AND FAMILY

Nameless River

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company WNU Service.

CHAPTER XV—Continued

—14—

And right then, when there was most need, the good bay who had served him so long and faithfully, betrayed him.

He threw up his head, flung around toward the strange horses he was leaving, and neighed—a sharp, shrill sound that carried up the slope like a bugle.

At the mouth of the Flange Big Basford stopped.

His own mount answered.

Once more came that challenge from below and Sud Provine came back out of the hidden passage on the jump.

"G—d d—n!" he shouted, "that ain't a Sky Line horse! Boys—we're caught! Come quick!"

Selwood, far down the trail, knew with a surge of rage that the game was up and that he was in for it. He knew in the same second, however, that his own horse was fresh, while those others from Sky Line were not.

He had a fair start and meant to make the most of it.

And he knew his horse.

It was dangerous work taking the slope of Mystery at a run, but there was danger behind and he chose the lesser evil.

As if to make up for its defection the lean bay stretched and doubled like a greyhound and Selwood leaned low on its neck as best he could for the pitch—for he was listening for lead.

He knew he was out of six-gun range, but he knew also that Sud Provine carried a rifle always on his saddle.

The roar of horses running under difficulty—leaping, stiff-legged, sliding here and there—came down like an avalanche of sound, but there were no voices mingled with it. The Sky Line men were riding in a silence so grim that it sent a chill to Selwood's heart. They meant death—and were avid for it.

The trees sailed by against the stars, rushing up from the dim darkness below to disappear into it above, and the wind sang in his ears like a harp.

It seemed incredible that the tediously climbed slope could be so quickly descended—for he saw the thickening shadows of the mountain's foot racing up toward him, the pale gleam of water beyond which meant the river. And then he heard what he had been dreading—the snap of a rifle, the whine of a ball. Sky Line, giving up capture, was trying for destruction.

It was Provine he felt sure who held the gun.

He dug in his spurs cruelly and the bay responded with a surge of speed which seemed certain death, but kept its feet miraculously. Once more came the snap and whine—again and again—and again—as fast as the man behind it could pump the rifle.

And then, just as the bay struck the waters of Nameless with a leap and a roar, it seemed to Selwood that the heavens opened up, that all the fire in the universe flamed in his brain.

He swung far out to the left a terrible lever of weight to the gallant animal floundering beneath him, and made the supreme physical effort of his life to get back into his saddle. His fingers dug into the wet mane like talons, he clawed desperately with his right heel and felt the spur hook.

"Smith," She Gasped, "That's Brand Fair!"

For what reason he could not have said, he opened his mouth and screamed—a hoarse, wild sound, like the soul's farewell to its flesh. Perhaps he thought it was.

Sud Provine, sitting his shivering horse where he had drawn it to a sliding stop on the trail above, deliberately shoved his gun into its saddle-straps.

"I guess that's th' last of you, my buckko," he gritted, "that's your last ride, d—n you! See how you like th' water."

And he turned back up the slope.

At dawn McKane, who slept in the store at Cordova, heard something untoward. It was a rapping that seemed to come from the floor of the porch outside—an odd, irregular stroke, as if the hand that made it was uncertain.

He rose, drew on his pants and hooking his suspenders over his shoulders as he went, opened the front door.

A bay horse, gaunt and bedraggled, stood at the porch's shoulder-high edge, and hanging half out of its saddle, held only by the right spur still caught in the hair cinch and one arm around the pommel, was the sheriff.

His ghastly face was red with blood from the long wound which had split his scalp from just above the left ear across the temple to the end of the eyebrow.

The trader leaped forward, jumped to the ground and caught him in his arms.

"My good G—d, Price!" he cried, "say you ain't dead! You ain't bad hurt—Oh, my G—d!"

Selwood looked at him with eyes that seemed dull as ashes.

"—solved—mystery—" he said thickly. "—rustlers—raid—caught with the goods—they are—"

The thick voice failed and Sheriff Price Selwood slumped down heavily on the shoulder of his erstwhile friend.

It was to be long before he would finish his cryptic sentence.

CHAPTER XVI

The Ancient Miracle.

News in the mountains travels fast, by mysterious ways, and in places where it seems impossible. Also it has marvelous powers of mutation. What may start out far down on Little Beaver dam as an innocent prank, is liable to reach the Upper Sweet water as a full-fledged scandal.

So it was on Nameless that drowsy day in August.

Nance Allison was busy about her work in the scoured kitchen, with Sonny Fair following her like a small-sized shadow.

In the dim regions beyond Mrs. Allison was in bed with a "sick headache." The balls of the carpet-rags had been sadly put away, all finished and ready for the loom, but farther away from that desired goal than ever. It seemed to Nance that that carpet was the last straw, the ridiculous small pressure that had all but snapped the thread of her control. Whenever she thought of Kate Cathrew she thought not of her pappy, not of Bud with his sagging shoulder, not of her burned stacks and her field of growing corn, but of the bare floors of her poor home.

There was a frown between her golden brows these days, a grim set to her lips, and she spent many hours on her knees beside her bed praying for guidance, for strength to keep to her narrow way. But the "stirrings" that she felt inside her in the spring had become a seething turmoil of passion, hard to hold.

"I'm like the patriarchs of old," she thought to herself, "filled with righteous wrath. If it wasn't that I have the light of the New Testament I'm afraid I'd go forth and slay my enemies, or try to."

"What you whimpering about, Nance? Tell me, too," said the child hugging her knees and looking adoringly up with his soft brown eyes.

"My gracious! Was I whimpering, Sonny?" she asked aghast, "I must be getting pretty far gone, as Brand says. Nance was thinking, that's all—thinking about bad things that make her heart ache."

"Our enemies?" he asked quaintly.

She nodded.

"Yes—they're ours, all right. Yours and Brand's and mine."

There was a vague comfort in this association, in the common cause that seemed to bind her and hers to Brand and Sonny Fair.

Brand and Sonny Fair—her thoughts went off on the tangent which those two names always started.

It was part of the trouble which made the frown habitual—the frown, so alien to the sweet and open face of this girl.

Always there was under the surface of her mind the running question—What was Brand Fair to Sonny? And always there lurked in the dim background the word—Father. Was it true—where and who was the mother?

A deep and terrible ache seemed to take her very bones at this thought—a misery which she could not understand.

She shook herself and sighed and tried to smile down at the boy, but the effort was a failure.

"Nance," he asked soberly, "don't you love me any more?"

The girl dropped on her knees and gathered him to her breast in a fierce gesture.

"Love you? Honey child, Nance loves every inch of your little body! She loves you so well she's scared to death Brand will come along some day and want to take you away again!"

She sat back on her heels and smiled at him, this time successfully. If there was one spot of light in the darkness of her troubles it was the child. Always his pleading eyes, his shy carcasses could lighten the load.

And so it was that presently she fell to laughing in her old light-hearted way, sitting back on her heels on the clean white floor and rolling the child this way and that.

Screams of delight from Sonny punctuated the strokes of his bare feet as he kicked in the hysterical ecstasy of Nance's fingers "creepmous"-ing up his little ribs.

They did not see Bud standing in the door, so absorbed in their game were they, until he moved and his shadow fell across them.

Nance turned her laughing face up to him—and stared with the laughter set upon it.

The boy was white as milk, his eyes black with terrible portent.

"Bud," she cried, "what's up? What—"

"The rustlers were out last night," he said slowly with a strange hesitation—"I met Old Man Conlan going down to Cordova—a man was shot—they think it is—the prospector—Smith."

For a moment Nance sat still on her heels, her mouth open, the sickly lines of laughter still around it.

Then she put out a hand that was beginning to shake—like an aged hand with palsy.

"Smith?" she gasped, "that's—Brand Fair! Oh—oh—dear Lord—Brand Fair!"

For the first time in her life the bright sun faded out and Nance Allison, who had fought so long and hard against tremendous odds, who had held her battle line and borne all things with the courage of a strong man swayed back upon the floor.

Bud sprang forward to lift her up, but already the weakness was passing and she put him aside, getting to her feet.

She forgot the child at her knee.

"His enemies—" she was muttering to herself, "and mine—they got him—at last—just as they tried to get me—and Jehoshaphat rose and went against his enemies—and the Lord was with him—I—I—Bud, give me that gun."

She took the rifle out of his hands with a savage motion and went from the cabin, swaying like a drunkard.

At the corner of the stable she came face to face with Fair, who was just coming up from the river on Diamond.

She stopped and stared at him like one in a daze.

"You?" she said presently. "You—Brand?"

The man saw at once that there was something gravely wrong and dismounted quickly.

He came forward and laid a hand on hers where it grasped the weapon.

"Sure—my dear," he said carefully, "don't look so, Nance—I'm all right. Let me have this," and took the gun away.

He put his right arm gently around her and looked over her head at her brother.

"Tell me," his eyes commanded.

"I just told her what I heard this morning," said Bud, "that a man was shot by rustlers and that it was Smith—you. She said something about one of the Bible men who went out and slew his enemies—and she was starting for Sky Line, I think."

There was no need to ask more, for Nance had covered her face with her shaking hands and bending forward on Fair's breast was weeping terribly.

The man drew her close and held her, and the dark eyes that gazed down at her shining head with its neat braids, were grave and very tender.

At last he said quietly, "It was our friend, Sheriff Selwood, but he is not dead. He's at his ranch, but he cannot talk—and no one knows who shot him. Sky Line drove down this morning—all regular and humdrum. McKane says Selwood knows—that he tried to tell him who the rustlers of Nameless are, but that he could not. When he comes round there'll be something doing in this neck of the woods, or I miss my guess. Come, Nance—aren't you going to invite me to dinner? I've got four prime gray squirrels in my saddlebags, and my canteen's full of honey—found a bee tree down the river."

And with the gentle tact of deep understanding and something more, Fair drew Nance back from the edge of tragedy to the safe ground of the commonplace.

She straightened up, wiped her hands down across her cheeks and looked at him with eyes in which the tears still glistened.

"I thought," she said unsteadily, "that Kate Cathrew had had you shot."

"She'll have to get up earlier than I do if she pulls that trick," he laughed, "I've been too long on guard."

* * * * * * *

Two days later Nameless was ringing with the news of the raid and Bossick was grim and silent.

When the Sky Line riders came back from their drive they rattled into Cordova for the mail and stood on the porch.

"Still watchin' your range?" queried Provine insolently as he swung out of his saddle and without a word the rancher leaped for him. He caught him by the neck and they both fell under Silvertip's feet. The horse sprang away and in a second the two men were trying to kill each other with all the strength there was in them.

"You d—d dirty thief!" gritted Bossick, "if the law won't get you I'll take a hand!"

He was a heavy man, stocky and square, with tremendous thews, but the other was the wiry type and younger, so that they were not so unevenly matched, and it bade fair to be a lively affray.

But Big Basford, temper flaming as usual, pulled his gun from the holster and flung it down in line.

"Roll over, Sud!" he shouted, "I'll fix him!"

Provine endeavored to roll away from Bossick, but the rancher held him, pounding him the while with all the fury of outraged right, and the blue gun-muzzle in Basford's hand traveled with their convolutions, seeking a chance to kill his man.

The huge unkempt body leaned down from its saddle, the red eyes glittered and that traveling muzzle stretched closer to the men on the ground. It looked like certain death for Bossick, when there came the sudden crack of a gun from the doorway, and the weapon dropped from Basford's broken hand. The horse he was riding screamed and reared with a red ribbon spurting from its breast where the glancing ball had seared it.

"I'm sorry to hurt the horse," said Smith the prospector, watching the group with narrow dark eyes above the steady barrel, "but I'm not so particular with assassins. We'll see fair play."

And they did see fair play, a tense and silent gathering, the Sky Line men sitting their horses on the one side, McKane, Smith, the bearded man from the Upper Country who had witnessed another fight on the same spot, and several more, on the other.

It was stone-hard fair play without quarter, and when it was over Bossick

It Was Stone-Hard Fair Play Without Quarter.

rose, a bloody and disheveled figure, and glared at the riders.

"Take him home," he said, "to your rustlers' nest, you — — —!"

"That's fighting talk, Bossick," said Caldwell in a thin voice, "but this ain't th' time or place."

"You're d—n right it ain't!" said Bossick, "not when there's even numbers and no odds for you! You'll wait for dark and one man alone—like Price Selwood was."

Sud Provine, getting dizzily to his feet, shot a lightning glance at the speaker. His pulped face lost a shade of color. No one spoke and Bossick went on.

"When Selwood comes round I'm layin' there's going to be such a stir-up as this country never saw—and don't you forget it!"

"Comes round?" said Caldwell, as if the words were jerked from him against his will.

"Yes—comes round so he can talk—can tell what he knows of the rustlers of Nameless and who was the dirty skunk that shot him in the back. There's a good coil rope inside this store that's going to make history for the Deep Heart cattle country."

"H—l!" said Caldwell, and laughed in a high thin treble as he pulled his horse around, "you're amusin', Bossick."

"Yes," snapped Bossick balefully, "your whole bunch seems quite hilarious. Now, get out of Cordova."

Without another word being passed on either side the Sky Line men rode out in a compact bunch, Provine and Basford nursing their hurts, the rest silent.

Bossick turned to the stranger.

"I want to thank you, Mister," he said, "for being here."

"It was a very great pleasure," said Brand Fair, alias Smith. "I thought perhaps I'd forgotten how to shoot."

With that he mounted Diamond and rode away, but two hours later he was waiting for Bossick on his home trail, where he intercepted him.

"Mr. Bossick," he said, "I think you're solid, so I take this liberty. I want to tell you that Sheriff Selwood and myself have picketed Sky Line for some weeks, alternately—so it was a Cathrew man who shot him, beyond question. Now let's talk."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Always Something Beyond

Every human feeling is greater and larger than the exciting cause—a proof, I think, that man is designed for a higher state of existence, and this is deeply implied in music, in which there is always something more and beyond the immediate expression.—Coleridge.

Yeast Foam Good bread makers everywhere prefer it

Hear it crackle and snap as you knead it

The well-risen loaf that Yeast Foam assures has made it the favorite of home bread makers.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Sedan $775, f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

MORE POWER!
MORE PULL!
MORE PEP!

Low-cost Transportation

Star Cars

PRICES: f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

COMMERCIAL CHASSIS	$425
ROADSTER	$525
TOURING	$525
COUPSTER	$595
COUPE	$675
COACH	$695
SEDAN	$775

DURANT MOTORS, Inc.
250 West 57th Street, New York
General Sales Dept.—1819 Broadway, New York

Dealers and Service Stations throughout the United States Canada and Mexico

PLANTS: Elizabeth, N. J. Lansing, Mich. Oakland, Cal. Toronto, Ont.

Four Times Two

"Give a sentence containing eight feet."

"Four boys walked down the street."

Would, if He Had a Chance

Gwendoline—"Daddy, do you love me still?" Father—"Yes, dear, but you never are."—Stray Stories.

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

How Much Are Poor Roads Costing You?

5,000,000 of America's 18,000,000 motor vehicles are recognized as an economic necessity on the farm.

Is your car giving the full efficiency of which it is capable—and at the lowest cost per mile possible?

Not if you are jolting over bumps and ruts. Not if you get stuck in the mud.

In addition to the time you thus lose along the way, you also pay from one to four cents a mile more in gasoline, tire and repair bills than you would pay on permanently paved highways.

Think, too, how many so-called improved roads have gone to pieces within the past few years, thereby piling up huge maintenance and rebuilding costs.

Contrast all this with the record of Concrete Roads—the roads that have repair built out and maintenance built in. Firm, rigid and unyielding, free of bumps, ruts, holes, mud and dust, they are, in every way, the most economical roads.

Tell your highway officials you want more Concrete Roads. Such an investment will pay you big dividends year after year.

* * *

Let us give you all the facts about Concrete Roads, including the experience of other communities. Ask for our free booklet, R 3.

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION
111 West Washington Street
CHICAGO

A National Organization to Improve and Extend the Uses of Concrete

Offices in 30 Cities

WRIGLEY'S

AFTER EVERY MEAL

THE FLAVOR LASTS

Probably one reason for the popularity of WRIGLEY'S is that it lasts so long and returns such great dividends for so small an outlay. It keeps teeth clean, breath sweet, appetite keen, digestion good.

Fresh and full-flavored always in its wax-wrapped package.

Tunnel to Connect Cities

The new vehicular tunnel under the Hudson river, in process of completion between Jersey City and New York city, will be opened in November, 1926. It is expected that 46,000 motor vehicles will pass through the tunnel daily.

When a boy sees another eating something he always gets hungry.

Some die of heart failure and some live with head failure.

A new full set of Champions every 10,000 miles will greatly improve engine performance and pay for themselves in oil and gas saved.

Champion X for Fords 60c. Blue Box for all other cars, 75c. More than 95,000 dealers sell Champions. You will know the genuine by the double-ribbed core.

Champion Spark Plug Co.
Toledo, Ohio
Windsor, Ont., London, Paris

COAL At Wholesale

If you cannot use a carload yourself—form a club among your neighbors and save the retailers' profit, $1.25 to $1.50 a ton. We handle all kinds of soft and hard coal. Ask for coal information letter and prices f. o. b. your town.

United Coal Buyers Assn. of Chicago
Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Chicago
Price Reducers to the Public

MonaMotor

A whole story in one word

"MonaMotor" is the whole story of safe lubrication in one word. Oil must endure—and MonaMotor does.

Your search for the most dependable oil is ended and longer service from your car is a certainty—when you learn this one word for perfect lubrication, "MonaMotor."

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor
Oils & Greases

Green's August Flower
for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver
Successful for 59 years.
30c and 90c bottles—
ALL DRUGGISTS

ROAD BUILDING

ADVANTAGES OF AN IMPROVED HIGHWAY

A few years ago the advantages of good roads were considered purely from the aspect of social betterment. The economic features were not fully understood. Even when the motor-truck was introduced the people in general did not realize what this meant in relieving the railway of its short-haul problem, nor of the advantages that would result in the farmer being able to put down at the town dweller's door the fresh eggs, poultry, vegetables, and other farm produce that had been wasted in the past because of the lack of good roads. It was an impassable sea of mud that stood between the farmer and the consumer. When the demand was great and the market price most attractive, the farmer was hampered by lack of a serviceable road.

People who have given the subject considerable study, state that from 40 per cent upward of so-called perishable crops actually do perish because markets are inaccessible when the demand is greatest. Uncertainties of highway transportation also cause crowded markets and low prices when demand is only normal or below normal. The farmer wants to unload his entire crop when the roads will let him, and since the "farmer" means more than 6,000,000 producers, it is not strange that the profits suffer from such overstocked markets.

In many sections where permanent roads have been built, unexpected uses for them have been disclosed. Farm markets have been organized and the townsmen or housewife drives directly to the producer for eggs and butter, fruit and vegetables. It is a satisfactory arrangement for both, and there is but one profit from the farm to the dinner table.

In other sections hard roads have been the means of banishing the one-room country schoolhouse where education was dispensed in doubtful doses. Instead of the poorly equipped schoolroom, a central consolidated school is feasible, and the motor bus carries as high as 48 pupils from the farm home to the school. Stormy weather does not interfere with the attendance of the school, for the road is always the same.

Medical men have said that hard-surfaced roads are beneficial from a health standpoint, as they are clean and free from dust. This is also an attractive item for the housewife, as it makes less house-cleaning work.

In every section where hard roads have been built, the many advantages are being multiplied as the general public comes to realize the real worth and possibilities of hard-surfaced highways. They are gradually taking advantage of the roads, not merely as a means of getting somewhere, but as a powerful force in community development and welfare.

French Highways Saved Country During Big War

France has 24,000 miles of national highways, 160,000 of departmental and intercommunicating highways, and 185,000 miles of parish or vicinal roads. The national highways approximate 8½ per cent of France's highway system.

There are running on the roads of France 300,000 motor cars, less than one per mile of road.

The United States has 2,882,198 miles of roads, of which a tiny small fraction of 1 per cent might be denominated national highways by a stretch of the imagination, which would include roads in national parks and on such reservations as the Canal zone and the District of Columbia under the term "national highways."

The United States has 13,000,000 motor cars running upon its highways, or more than four per mile of road.

Is there any really good reason why the United States should do less in transportation for its people than France? The paved highways of France saved that nation when nothing else could save her! Only the fact that she could transport her armies, her ammunition, her supplies with rapidity and dispatch allowed her to stem the German attack. Had she had such roads as we have, she would be today beneath the heel of the conqueror.

It is no argument to say we do not need national highways, because we are not neighbors to countries which might attack us. France did not build and does not maintain her national highways merely for strategic reasons. She builds and maintains them for economic reasons. If thrifty France can find economy in the national highway idea, why can not the United States find the same benefit in the same idea?

Scattered Trees on Roads

Scattered trees planted promiscuously along the highway, as one sees them in the forest, are more in keeping with the American mind than stately avenues of monarchies. It is rather lanes that we want, or "pikes," as they are called in the South, where trees seem to enjoy the roadside and each other's company. A lane or a pike is tolerant even to the shy but sweet violet that may be permitted to scatter its perfume along the highway.

Experts Would Make Cemetery Like Park

"A remarkable change is appearing in the cemeteries and on the memorial stones of America as a result of the efforts of memorial dealers to incorporate art in design," says Prof. W. H. Varnum of the department of applied arts in the University of Wisconsin.

"We are trying to get away from the lack of beauty of the older cemetery monument," says Professor Varnum, "by eliminating the unnatural looking granite blocks with heavy bases. Monument experts are trying to make cemeteries more like parks with memorials that harmonize with nature.

"Memorials in the future will be personalized. Line rather than elaborate floral design will characterize the deceased person. A successful scientist's memorial, for example, should be a slim obelisk, showing the successful termination of a strong life that has led in one direction."

Symbolic lines also would suggest the youth rather than an ornamental design which "slops over" in taste and sentiment. The youth's memorial would likely be tapered but not pointed, so as to suggest an abrupt ending of a young life. It would be of lighter material and with a small base.

A mausoleum, according to Professor Varnum, should be simple in line and set apart from the surrounding memorials so as to give it an adequate setting. The overuse of elaborate floral design has been due, in part, he points out, to the process of sand-blasting for enrichment of the plain stone. The process has been cheap and has therefore been used to excess. The former demand for huge blocks of granite has been due, in part, to the effort of dealers to give as much for the money as possible.

In many cemeteries now the authorities are formulating and enforcing regulations as to the design and size of memorials and causing their height to correspond to the immediate surrounding topography.

What Makes Grapes "Wild"?

Robert, the young son of Sheriff Burns of Petersburg, was present during a conversation between his mother and some friends, who were discussing the merits of the wild grape for pies, jelly, etc. With a puzzled expression on his face, he said:

"Mom, what kind of grapes are wild grapes?"

Mother Burns explained to him that wild grapes grew in the woods and were much smaller than "tame" grapes, whereupon Robert again asked:

"Will the wild grapes run away from you when you go after them, and will the tame grapes come to you when you call them?"

It was then that mother realized how utterly futile her attempts to make clear to her son why the wild grape was called "wild."—Indianapolis News.

Why He Likes Knickers

"I've finally decided that knickers are a practical garment for men," declared a golfer. "I wore an old pair today and just before I started out I bought several new balls, tendered a bill in payment and received some silver in change. This I thrust into my pocket. There happened to be a hole in this pocket and when I came in I reached down for the change. It was gone. Now, if I had been wearing long trousers I'd have lost that money. But, since I wore socks outside my knickers, all I had to do was to search the proper sock. And there was my money. That's why I'm so certain that knickers are a very practical garment."

Ireland and Egypt

The term "Dominion" is applied generally to the self-governing British possessions beyond the seas, although the word does not in all cases form part of their names. In the case of Canada the word is part of the name, but such is not the case, for instance, of the Union of South Africa, or the Commonwealth of Australia, nor is it the case of the Irish Free State, and yet they may all be referred to as dominions. On November 18, 1914, a British protectorate was declared over Egypt, and the khedive assumed the title of sultan. In March, 1922, Egypt was declared to be an independent kingdom.

Miami's Building Record

More houses per capita were erected in Miami, Fla., last year than in any city in the country. An average of one dwelling for every five families is the record for the southern city. Figures collected by the United States Labor department show 2,248.9 families provided for to every 10,000 of population, which is referred to by the Washington experts as a phenomenal ratio of house construction. For the three years prior to 1924 Long Beach on the California coast held the honor of being the most ambitious home-building center in the country.

New Way to Purify Water

Two scientists in Paris recently dropped a bottle containing chloride of lime in a vessel of impure water. The bottle was corked tightly so that its contents could not come in contact with the water. Yet 24 hours later, when the bottle was taken out, 25 per cent of the microbes in the water had been killed. An explanation advanced is that the antiseptic gives off rays that attack microbes, just as ultra-violet rays do, says Popular Science Monthly.

BUSINESS FIRST

Willis—You look as if you'd been in a fight.

Nillis—I have, and my opponent didn't treat me fair.

Willis—How was that?

Nillis—Knocked two of my teeth out, and then had the nerve to give me a bill for $2, saying he was a dentist.

Mother Was No Cook

"Gerald," said the young wife, noticing how heartily he was eating, "do I cook as well as your mother did?"

Gerald stared at her through his monocle.

"Once for all, Agatha," he said, "I beg you to remember that, although I may seem to be in reduced circumstances now, I come of an old and distinguished family. My mother was not a cook."

Daring Invitation

"Jim, that necktie you are wearing is the worst I ever saw."

"Say, dine with us tonight, will you, old man?"

"Sure! But what's the connection?"

"I want you to repeat that remark before my wife."

VERY SHORT

"That cousin of yours that I met is awfully short."

"Yes, he's so short that a headache powder affects his feet!"

Poor Thing

She's a poor working girl,
This Aleen Gainter,
She's working overtime
As a face painter.

He'll Have No Competition

Mrs. Bangs—Jane, put that parrot in the closet, and close all the doors and windows.

Servant—Why, what's the matter, mum?

Mrs. Bangs—Mr. Bangs is going to fix his car.

Solving the Problem

Golfer—They're all afraid to play me. What do you think my handicap is?

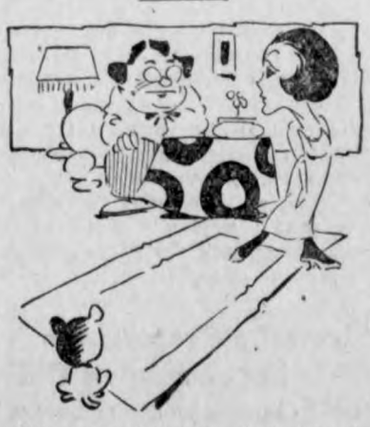
Girl—Oh, I don't know. It may be your face, or, perhaps it's your general appearance.

Natural Aversion

Friend—I hear that your son doesn't take kindly to the law.

Big Lawyer (grimly)—Perhaps you wouldn't, either, if you'd been arrested three times for violating traffic ordinances.

ABLE TO EXERCISE



Old Aunt—So your husband ain't really able to dig in the garden any more? Don't he play golf?

Niece—Oh, yes; but that's exercise, auntie dear.

Be Sure You're Right

Friend, do not be a quitter,
With fear within your heart;
Unless you are a finisher
Of things you shouldn't start.

Losing Weight

Crist—My wife is reducing rapidly. She called me on the phone from downtown today.

Blake—What of that?

Crist—It means that she can get into a telephone booth now.

S. P. C. A. Supporter

"Maw, isn't paw kind to animals?"

"Suppose so. Why?"

"'Cause I heard him tell Jim Hawkins that he'd come over and feed the kitty if you'd let him out."

Evidently They Were Coming in Quantities

The Randall Babbitts, who live over near Hollenbeck park are very proud of their twins, so one day, when Mrs. Babbitt brought one out and placed it in the baby carriage, she was not at all displeased when a little boy, a stranger in the neighborhood, came up and said:

"Oh, what a nice 'ittle boy!"

"Thank you," said the fond mother. "Would you mind watching him till I come back?"

Presently she returned with the other twin and the little boy's eyes doubled in size as he exclaimed:

"My goodness! Wherever is you detting all those babies!"—Los Angeles Times.

The Cuticura Toilet Trio.
Having cleared your skin keep it clear by making Cuticura your everyday toilet preparations. The Soap to cleanse and purify, the Ointment to soothe and heal, the Talcum to powder and perfume. No toilet table is complete without them.—Advertisement.

Malaria Study in Sweden

Malaria, which has caused so much trouble in other parts of the world, is now practically unknown in Sweden, but the Royal Bacteriological institute of Stockholm is engaged in making a study of the Anopheles mosquito, which carries its germ. This mosquito is harmless unless it has sucked the blood of a person with the disease, and has had time to develop the parasites in its own system. Not being located in a malaria zone, Sweden is in slight danger of infection, but if an epidemic should break out abroad travelers might bring the disease. In such a case the institute is prepared to take immediate measures to check it.

Howe Condemns Himself

What a lot of time I waste in advising others! And how I neglect myself! You may say you are sufficiently selfish; that you do not neglect yourself.

How about that bad stomach? How about the medicine you take? Both indicate the grossest neglect of yourself. How about the debt you owe, which keeps you worrying at night, when you should be asleep and recovering your energy? That debt probably represents neglect of yourself. How about that foolish action that causes you humiliation? You are no better than I am—and I am a fool.—Ed Howe's Monthly.

At Straining Point

Well, with all this modern strain, no wonder the earth's crust cracks.—Charleston Daily Mail.

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer Aspirin"

INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package

which contains proven directions
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists
Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Got His Hair Barbecued

Tommy, age four, who lives on an East side street, called on one of his neighbors one evening recently.

"My, what a nice hair cut you have," remarked the neighbor.

"Yes," replied the little boy, "mother took me to the barbecue last night."—Indianapolis News.

Pain is the outcome of sin.—Buddha.

WEAK, RUN-DOWN NERVOUS, DIZZY

Mrs. Lee Suffered From All These Troubles, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well

Terre Haute, Indiana.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time and dizzy, had no appetite and could not sleep. I tried different medicines for a year but they did not help me. Then my husband saw the ad. for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and had me take it. I regained my strength and never felt better in my life. It completely restored me to health. I had practically no suffering when my baby boy was born and he is very strong and healthy. I know that the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine a woman can take before and after childbirth for health and strength. I would be willing to answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Wm. J. Lee, Route E, Box 648, Terre Haute, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all these troubles.

For sale by druggists everywhere.

Don't hesitate

Dress burns, bruises, wounds and cuts, rashes and sores with soothing "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly. It keeps out dirt and air and hastens healing. For coughs or sore throats take a teaspoonful several times a day. It is tasteless, odorless and absolutely harmless.

CHESEBROUGH MFG. CO. (Cons'd)
New York

Vaseline
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
PETROLEUM JELLY

Look for the trade-mark "VASELINE" on every package. It is your protection.

RESINOL
Soothing and Healing
For Rashes and Chafing

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

California Needs More Dairymen—Write for list of dairy farms for sale. Charles L. Hughes, 211 Ochsner Bldg., Sacramento, Calif.

STOLEN, MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WORTH AUTOS
Not safe anywhere. Ideal Auto Switch Locking Device used with ordinary padlock protects your car from theft. For Fords, Chevrolets, Overland, Star, Gray, Maxwell, etc. Ask your dealer or write direct, enclosing $1.00 and name of three auto accessory dealers. We will mail sample locking device to you postpaid.
IDEAL AUTO LOCK MFG. CO., INC.
Dept. D, 325 Felt Bldg., Salt Lake City, Utah

Women Agents Selling Hosiery Can Largely increase earnings taking orders attractive Lingerie line. Advise territory, refs. Helen Johnson, 511 Speedway, Attleboro, Mass.

INFLAMED EYES
Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater.
Buy at your druggist's or
1161 River. Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Standardize Undies

The bureau of standards now is seeking to standardize underwear sizes. At present the underwear of various manufacturers is just enough different so that many people find suits of the same size but of different makes do not fit them.

A man can laugh and laugh and be a villain still.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless - No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

STILLE COUSINS OF HAYFIELD, NASHUA AND KLEMME HAD BIG GATHERING SUNDAY AT NASHUA, IOWA

Plan To Hold A Re-union Each Year At Some Point Near One Of The Three Towns

About sixty years ago there was a parting of relatives at St. Louis; one family moved to this vicinity of Iowa, the other family moved farther east and settled near Charles City. That long ago transportation was not up to the standard of today and a visit back and forth meant quite a journey and so the two families lost sight of each other and the relationship was forgotten as the following generation grew up.

About a year ago through some corresponding it was found that there were some Stille families residing near Nashua and by more corresponding it was found that the families were second cousins to the Stille's here and other families and were related to families at Hayfield also.

It was finally planned to have a get-to-gether meeting this summer, and Nashua was chosen as the place and Henry Stille's farm near there was decided on as a fine farm for a gathering of this sort. The Nashua Stilles then sent out invitations to the Klemme and Hayfield relatives and the result was that over 100 people attended the re-union and picnic at the Henry Stille home.

Those from Klemme who went: Mrs. G. Heifner, Wm. Stille family, Herman Stille family, J. E. Stille family, Paul Stille family. Lester Stille family, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Gruetzmacher. Those from Hayfield were the following families: John Schram, Wm. Steineker, Ed. McWilliams, Gus. Sschram, Henry Stonbary, G. Geddis, Guy Geddis, Clark Lakore, and Chester Geddis. The Hayfield relatives joined the Klemme bunch and they proceeded on to the Henry Stille farm 12 miles south east of Charles City where they were greeted by the Henry, William and August Stille families, their children and grandchildren.

The Nashua folks had provided a regular banquet for the visiting relatives and had gotten tables and seats from the church and had more than room and "eats" for the one hundred and more who sat down at the big disner.

The Klemme and Hayfield folks say they had a winderful time and are already planning for a big reunion next year. They said the Nashua folks were royal entertainers and showed them a fine time.

NEW USE FOR LIPSTICK

A young man who works in a garage has found a new use for lipsticks. The place was overrun with mice, for which he had been unable to discover any tempting bait until he noticed that they had gnawed a lipstick that someone had dropped on the floor. He tried it and it worked. It always has been understood that lipsticks were used as bait, but not for anything so intelligent as mice.: Renwick Times.

TO STUDY CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING IN SCHOOLS.

A course of study designed for the teaching of co-operative marketing to children in public schools of Iowa will be prepared this fall by the department of rural education of the National Education Association.

The important facts concerning co-operative marketing which should be taught in the schools are being selected and put into textbooks and courses of study. They will be taught as far as possible to all pupils in the public schools city and country alike, that all may have an intelligent and sympathetic understanding of the co-operative mode of agricultural life which promises to be the permanent type of the future.

Educators now know how to develop as good educational facilities for farm children as other children have, when adequate financial support is given. Farmers cannot support good schools except as they get money out of their crops. They can not get it out of their crops until they cease dumping them individually at a loss and begin to market them collectively at a profit. They cannot do this successfully until they understand the basic principles of cooperative merchandising, the forms which the marketing organizations take, and the absolute necessity for loyalty to the marketing group.

The spiritual values which make the farmer and his family good citizens in the economic democracy known as a co-operative marketing association are intelligence, faith in his fellows, willing obedience to self-chosen authority, a sense of economic values loyalty to the group and undaunted courage. These same virtues make the farmer and his family good citizens in the political democracy known as a township a county, a state or a nation.

To give such training in the public schools is an act of the soundest patriotism, because that which increases the strength and prosperiy of agriculture increases the strength and prosperiy of the whole nation. The whole people will utimately go up or down with the farmers.

There is said to be coal enough in China to heat the world for a century, but little of it is being mined or marketed. It is well to realize however, that coal is spread fairly thick all over the world, and it can always beh ad when needed. The hardship may be acute for the moment, but it cannot long endure.

Elephant Most Brainy of the Lower Animals

The elephant is probably the shrewdest and most adaptable of living animals and has no enemies except man. He eats anything that is green, and seems equally at home on the plains or in the forests and jungles, on the high mountain slopes or down in the swampy lowlands. His trunk is one of the most extraordinary organs of nature. It contains the finest smelling apparatus on earth, and when the proximity of man is suspected the trunk is raised in the air and carefully turned in all directions, "feeling" for the man-smell in the wind. Once an elephant gets that smell he does one of two things. He either retreats quietly and rapidly or charges. Years of experience in matching his wiles with those of man and his high-powered rifle has taught the elephant that it is safer to remain in the dense forests. An elephant can move through these forests with no more noise than would be made by a mouse, and the growth in these forests is frequently so impenetrable the hunter can make progress only by following the winding elephant trail.

Look for Treasure Hidden by Alexander

When Alexander the Great was marching against the Persians in 331 B. C. a part of his army mutinied on the shores of the Caspian sea. There is a legend that he hid all his gold, royal possessions and spoils of war somewhere in the vicinity to keep them from falling into the hands of the mutineers. The Archeological society of the Republic of Azerbaijan has begun a search for this treasure. It is believed to be buried about sixty-five miles from the city of Baku. There are no historical data on the subject as to the location of the treasure, but an old man eighty years old living at Andrievka says he owns an ancient map which was stolen from a Turkish sultan many years ago. This map, he says, indicates that the treasure was buried near his village. Whether or not the archeologists locate the treasure, it is believed that they will at least excavate many valuable relics throwing light on the peoples and nations which inhabited the country before the time of Christ.—Pathfinder Magazine.

When Brides Were Bought

Wedding gifts apparently have developed from the earlier custom of exchange of gifts between bride and bridegroom, in turn based upon marriage by consideration, where the suitor had to give to the father of his intended wife a bride price or present and the daughter was provided with a dowry as a return gift.

The price for a bride shows considerable variation, according to the wealth of the interested parties and the accomplishments of the bride. Among certain tribes a couple of pigs or goats seemed to be sufficient capital necessary for investment in one good husky helpmate. Among the Bedouins of Mount Sinai Westermarch tells us the price of a girl is "from $5 to $20," but sometimes amounts to $30 "if the girl is well connected and very handsome."

Plants That Protect Coasts From the Sea

In the struggle to defend our coasts from sea encroachments, seaside authorities have no better allies than the hardy tamarisk and shrubby sea blite. These useful plants are as effective in protecting the lonely stretches of our shores as stout sea walls and far-flung groynes, says a writer in London Tit-Bits. Take, for example, Shoreham, on the Sussex coast. This town was seriously affected by the incoming tides until it was found that the loose shingle that fringes the sea could be bound into a resisting mass by the extensive planting of tamarisk, a hardy little plant whose only real enemy is severe frost.

On the Norfolk coast the same method is adopted, but there the shifting shingle is bound with shrubby sea blite, which grows waist high and covers large areas of the coast. The more this plant is ill-treated the stouter it flourishes. Occasionally a violent storm will result in the shrubs being completely embedded in fresh shingle thrown up by the waves. This, in reality, is an advantage, as the plant puts forth new shoots that bind the fresh stones, still further strengthening the land rampart.

"Sports" a Century Ago Not of Highest Order

Public entertainments in London a hundred or more years ago were more of a sporting than of a dramatic or musical type. In the Observer of a date of 1825 appeared a full report of a dog fight, at the Westminster pit, at which "fifty personages of rank" were among the spectators, and whereat also his grace, the king's rat catcher, entered the arena with a cage containing ninety rats that a dog named Billy killed seriatim in seven minutes and thirty seconds.

Another article recorded that Mr. Wombwell, the preprietor of a lion named Nero, had built a den, ten feet high and fifty-seven feet in circumference, in which a contest a outrance between his pet and six dogs was to take place in June. Still another chronicled the melancholy fact that "John Smith, who was matched to eat a pair of men's shoes in fifteen minutes at the Half-Moon tap, Leadenhall market, has broke down in training, having been seized with indigestion."

Soy Beans Furnish Protein for Stock

Are Superior to Cottonseed Cake for Dairy Cattle.

The past few years has seen a marked increase in the acreage and interest in the growing of soy beans. A national association of growers of soy beans has been organized and they are very actively engaged in popularizing the soy bean in the United States.

The seed of the soy bean plant is the richest in crude protein of all the seeds used in live stock feeding. The percentages of crude protein in soy beans is 36.5 per cent and every 100 pounds of soy beans fed yields 33.2 pounds of digestible crude protein. The soy bean seed is also rich in oil, as it contains 16.1 pounds of digestible fat in each 100 pounds of soy beans fed. Compared to linseed oil meal, soy beans contain 2.9 per cent more digestible crude protein and 9.4 per cent more digestible fat.

Soy beans for dairy cattle are slightly superior to cottonseed cake. Care must be exercised in feeding soy beans to dairy cattle, as excessive amounts cause soft butter.

Cattle have been successfully fattened upon soy beans, and, when compared to cottonseed cake, the soybeans proved just slightly inferior to the cottonseed cake.

In swine feeding, the composition of soy beans, as given above, should be carefully considered. The protein content indicates that it can be used as a protein supplement to carbonaceous grains. Due to its high oil content, soft pork is apt to result, if soy beans are fed to any great extent.

Soy beans should be ground for horses and cattle, but it is not necessary in feeding sheep and pigs.—B. W. Fairbanks, Extension Service, Colorado Agricultural College.

Foreign Clover Seed Is Found to Be Worthless

During the last five years approximately twelve and one-quarter million pounds of Italian red clover seed has entered the United States from Italian ports. This seed is classed by the United States Department of Agriculture and the state experiment stations which have thoroughly tested it as "no good." It is not adapted to the production of clover in this country.

Reports coming from experiment stations in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, New York and several other states, present a body of information which leads to several important conclusions. These are that Italian red clover seed is worthless except in Idaho and Washington, where the climate is mild; that Bohemian red clover is not much better, and that native American clover seed is the best of all to withstand the winter weather and the attacks of mildew and anthracnose.

Too Good to Live

A jury condemned the philosopher Socrates to death, but it is not recorded that they were influenced in this by his statement, in the course of his defense, "While a soldier in the Greek army I went through the snows of a winter campaign barefoot, and no one ever saw me cross a street in Athens in the summer to get into the shade." The mind of Socrates was never much on the weather. He believed that one would suffer less and accomplish more if he did not bother his brains about the temperature, and what it might do to him. That is still very good philosophy.—Detroit News.

Within a radius of 50 miles of Des Moines there are 285 acres of land devoted to theg rowing of gladiolia During the month of August more than 45,000 of these flowers were shipped weekly to Chicago, Kansas City and Denver, through the Iowa Bulb and Flower Growers Association, a co-operative organization formed for the marketing of bulbls and flowers of its members. Member ship is composed of growers at Newton, Altoona, Mitchellville, Valley Junction and Des Moines. Negotiations are under way for the marketing of 18,000,000 bulbs of its members this fall. Over 400 different varieties of "glads" are grown and new varieties are propagated every season. The Rosenfield peony farm of 40 acres west of Des Moines is another line of Horticulture that is taking on large proportions.

DADDY NOW

"Well how's the world treating you?' '

"Holding my own."

"That's good. You can't complain then."

"Yes—I'm complaining. I've only got two arms, and they were triplets."

WOMAN STANDS LOT

Suffers All Kinds of Injuries, Ready For More

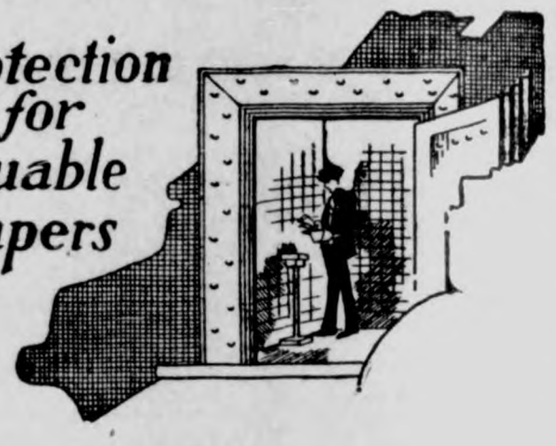
Wausa, Nebraska:—Mrs. N. P. Johnson, of Wausa, is a person of considerable interest because she has proven her ability to stand unusual punishment without complaint.

Arising in the night Mrs. Johnson backward downstairs, breaking both arms. Then ,without being aware that she was severely injured, she arose and started to go unstairs, striking her head against a table. The fall knocked her unconsious and cut a long gash in her scalp.

When she came to, she started up stairs again and then found her ankle was twisted, but she managed to get upstairs without using hands or feet, she does not know how. On gaining her bedroom she turned on the light using her elbow, then stepped on her kimona and narrowly escaped a fall. Retiring then, she slept until morning, when here injuries were checked up.

DR. R. E. PORTER
CHIROPRACTOR
..Every Day — Open Evenings..
Office at John Lieuwen Residence
Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa



Where are your valuable papers? Your deeds, mortgages, insurance policies, and other valuable papers should be in a safe place. Our Safety Deposit Boxes are a protection to you. They are convenient, roomy, and secure. Come in and let us show them to you.

We have just installed some new boxes and have any size you need.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

Some Good Specials in Smoked Meat

We have some very good buys n the Smoked Meat line to which we want to call your attention. This smoked meat we are listing here is very good quality meat, and the prices we are quoting are low considering the high quality:

SMOKED SKINNED HAMS, either whole or half, at per pound
30c

BACON NUGGETS, very good, at per lb.
30c

EAGLE BRAND BACON, this is a high grade sugar cured bacon at, lb.
38c

REX BACON, this is a very good brand of bacon selling at, lb.
40c

Klemme Meat Market

Have You Ever--

Seriously considered the investment advantages of fered in the Electric Light and Power business and particularly those of the Company supplying you with this service?
Investors who have carefully considered the matter and who have obtained the facts have not been slow to take advantage of the opportunity to sec ure an interest in the business while it can be had on attractive terms.

Take this Company's 7% Preferred Stock for exa mple; here is an investment paying 7% Net, Free of Iowa Taxes, and the Normal Federal Income tax, backed by property worth several times more per share than the $100 each share now costs and Earn ings that are equal to 14 Times the amount required for the Dividends.

Here, then is a Safe investment in your Home Com pany that invests the money paid for the Preferred Stock in improvements, extensions and additions that benefit your community, and of course, yourself.

Therefore, isn't it reasonable that the Customers of the Company should be entitled to invest in it and be paid good dividends on their money. We thought o, and accordingly, offered the Preferred Stock to our Customers nd many hundreds of them ffare now part owners of this business and regularly receiving Dividends.

You should at least investigate this soundly found ed and rapidly growing business as then you will probably want to invest.

We do not know of anyone who GOT THE FACTS who did not sooner or later become an Investor in the business.

Now another thing, you can promptly realize the cash if you should need the money you have invested, this is because people who have invested in this business do not sell unless circumstances oblige them to, and because most of the investors are adding to their holdings and many new ones are coming in who are glad to take any of the Stock that is offered and to save you bother we handle the Resales for you.

Why not write your name and address on these lines and GET THE FACTS

Name ..... Address .....

Send to

Securities Department
Central States Electric Company
Cedar Rapids, Iowa 215 S. 2nd St.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Mitchell, of Owea City, visited with relatives here

Clarence Elder drove to Ames on business Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Blumer were visiting at Mason City Sunday.

Mr. Charlie Lenz, of Spooner, Wis. was here to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Henry Beier.

Mrs. Clifford Chase, of Goodell, was a business caller in Klemme last Thursday.

Miss Neota Ridder is visiting with relatives at Watertown, South Dakota this week.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Otto Klinge Monday.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR

Notice is Hereby Given, That the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administrator of the Estate of Jantji Albers, deceased, late of Hancock County, Iowa. All persons indebted to the said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned, for allowance.

Dated at Garner, Iowa, this 27th day of August, 1925.

Lubbe Albers, Administrator.

By Wickman & Hastings, his Attorneys. S-17

FOR SALE—L. C. Smith Typewriter, in fine condition. Can be seen at Northern Lbr. Co. 1tc

ON TRACK this week a carload of WASHED EGG COAL at $8.00 ton. Lau Elevator. 1tc

Car WASHED EGG Coal on track this week $8.00 per ton—a bargain. Lau Elevator. 1tc

Chris Jacobs came over from Garner Saturday evening for a visit with Klemme friends.

The Royal Neighbors have their regular meeting at the hall this Friday afternoon.

KLEMME MARKETS

September 10, 1925

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.31
Shelled Corn	.75—.83
Ear Corn	.75
Rye	.80
Barley	.60
Hogs, top	$13.10
Eggs (Cash)	.27
Eggs (trade)	.28
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.18
Leghorn Springs	.15
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butterfat	.47
Butter (Creamery)	.47

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Miss Marie Gauger spent Saturday and Sunday at home in Klemme. She is teaching near Kanawha this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Marshall attended the round-up at Eagle Grove Sunday.

Grandpa Bailey returned last Thursday from a visit with relatives at Iowa Falls and Dows. He has been away for several weeks.

Phone your news to 12, The Times.

Emil Barz came up from Waterloo Saturday for an over Sunday visit with his son. Max, and other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day and son, Dorance, visited at the D. D. Ross home at Garner Friday evening with friends there from Illinois.

Sheriff Peck Hanson was a caller in Klemme Friday. His visit must have been friendly as the natives all seem to be here yet.

Miss Peggie O'Neil was visiting with Klemme friends over the week end. She is teaching at Dumont, this year.

P. M. Wilson has installed a fine new candy case in his show, which enables him to handle a large line of all kinds of candy.

Henry Ludeke and Albert Fuller have steamed up their sorghum plant and are getting all set for the fall rush.

FEED GRINDING—Am grinding all this week until Sept. 16 when I grind only on Wed. and Sat. at the Klemme Hammermill. J. H. Stevens. 1tpd.

Arthur Wellemeyer opened a new department in his store Monday. A first class beauty shop is the new addition with Miss Eunice Braund in charge.

Adolph Lauritsen went to Renwick last week to get ready for the opening of school there on Monday. "Abe" is cooching at Renwick this year.

The Ladies Aid Society are having a meeting this afternoon with Mesdames C. G. Waterman and Albert Yahnke hostesses. An election of officers will be held.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith and Mrs. J. N. Day were at Mason City last Thursday to see Mrs. J. E. Baumgartner, who is still in the hospital there.

Fred Barz and family returned from their Minnesota trip Sunday.

Mrs. Herbert Stille from Colorado is here visiting relatives and many friends.

Wednesday was "Watermellon Day" over at Meservey and from all reports they had plenty of free melon for all and everybody had a good time.

Emil Barz and son Max, Mrs. Lena Schroeder and daughter, Adella. Grandma Schroeder, Mrs. Croner and daughter Dorothy, Albert Barz and family and Henry Barz and family all enjoyed a picnic Sunday at the Clear Lake State Park.

Martin Jensen is the owner of a Fada Neutrodyne Cabinet Grand radio, which he purchased of H. Lau Sons, who are the dealers for the Fada radios here. This is the very latest in radio and Martin has an outfit he can be proud of.

When "Happy" Johnson and his pardner, "Shorty" Kent were in the garage business at Spencer they had a Ford sedan stolen from them that they had rented to a party. The car was reported in storage at Des Moines and "Happy" went down and got it about a week ago. The car was in good condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blue and son, Donald, of Goodell, were callers at the R. A. Jorgenson home Wednesday evening. Mr. Blue is the superintendent of the Goodell school this year. Mr. G. O. Nelson, the coach, was up from Goodell also.

The Klemme Times is thirty years old today. We wonder how many of our present subscribers have been on the list for thirty years. Let's hear from you. The first one to report having takes the Times continuously since the first issue will be given a year's subscription free.

Mrs. Mabel Cullinan, of Belmond, drove up Friday for a short visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Waterman. Saturday Mrs. Cullinan took Mrs. Waterman and Miss Anna Becker to Mason City where they took the train for the Minnesota State Fair.

MAKE MONEY—Watch for date of R. C. Ludeke's Poland China and Chester White Sale at Klemme, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. McCullough expect to leave in their car Monday for points east and south with Florida as their goal. They will camp out on the way. Mr. McCullough has rented his barber shop to Mr. Harry Rust, of Oskaloosa. Mr. and Mrs. Rust and son will live in the McCullough house.

William Gauger is the new "devil" at the Times Office. He began work in the shop Saturday. William has all the ear-marks of becoming a good printer; he likes the smell of ink and enjoys it so much that he sometimes gets his face all smudged up with it.

A card from Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Barr from Mansfield, Ohio states that they arrived there last week on Wednesday evening and that this week Wednesday they were driving to Niagra Falls with a bunch and will return in time for a big family re-union. They are having a fine time in the east.

Some of the young people of this place are making preparations to go to college this fall. Fred Arnold will return to Ames to continue his study of Mechanical Engineering; Earl Josten goes back to Morningside to continue his study for the ministery; Clarence Elder, who has been employed in The Times Office will go to Ames and pursue a course in Journalism; and Adella Schroeder will enter Ames this fall to take up a course in Home Economics.

Mrs. C. C. Mayne enjoyed an over-Sunday visit from her son who is in the navy and was here on a short visit. He left again on the Monday morning train.

IDLE HOUR THEATRE

COMEDIES

For Saturday, Sept. 12, a Hal Roach comedy featuring Will Rogers in "Jus Passin' Through.' Big program of features also.

Wednesday, September 12 a Mack Sennett Comedy, "Wandering Waistlines," and a big feature.

Special music at the Idle Hour for every show. Miss Viola Freie at the piano and Miss Mildred Johnson plays the violin.

We are trying to please you by showing good pictures. Get in the habit of going to the Idle Hour.

MANY ACCIDENTS THIS WEEK

The past week has been a week full of accidents. The other day "Shorty" Krause stuck his finger in the business end of an ensilage cutter and nearly lost a finger. Monday Frank Terhufen was doing some carpenter work on Ralph Elder's farm and was whittling out a hole in a sill with a jack-knife when it slipped and he jabbed the blade into his wrist, severing the large artery. He was rushed to town and lost a lot of blood before the doctor could get him patched up. Alice Carolus was badly scalded Tuesday in a peculiar manner. She was riding with her brother in their car and sitting in the front seat with him. The hose connection broke from the radiator and threw the scalding water from the engine past the foot boards and her legs were badly burned. Harlan, the little son of Rev. and Mrs. Gauger was badly burned yesterday (Wednesday) when he pulled a tea kettle of hot water off the stove and it spilled on his face, chest and some on the inside of his mouth. The little fellow is having a rather hard time of it. Wallace Pavey nearly lost the first finger of his left hand yesterday when it slipped into the band saw he was operating, cutting the finger to the bone and slitting it up the middle.

Jewell Elevator Burns

Fire at noon Thursday, completely destroyed the Charles Glaman elevator at Jewell. The loss is estimated at $10,000. The $2,500 insurance was carried on the elevator, $1,000 on the grain. The cause of the fire is believed to have been either spontaneous combustion or defective wiring. Mr. Glaman is undecided as to whether or not he will rebuild.

The Cash Store

FALL IS HERE and it is time to think of warmer clothes for the chilly mornings and evenings. You will find just what you are in need of in the line of:—

SWEATERS and LEATHER JACKETS

OVERCOATS—have some real bargains

SWEATERS—for the kiddies to wear to school—in the new styles and shades.

Come in and see our line and be convinced of good quality at LOW PRICES.

Special for Saturday

3 Cans Corn - - - - 37c

—AT—

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

FADA RADIO

FADA stands today as the first radio receiver specifically built for the reception of modern broadcasting.

SELECTIVITY is the first definite advantage of FADA receivers. The dials are set at predetermined points and only the one station selected can be heard.

CLARITY is the second point of FADA superiority. FADA receivers create no squawks or whistles to disturb the neighbors.

DISTANCE is the third FADA advantage. The radio waves from distant stations are brought in with unusual volume.

DEPENDABILITY is the fourth and perhaps the greatest of FADA features. FADA is the set of no apologies; the set of no alibis.

BEAUTY in FADA cabinet design is the product of skilled craftsmanship poured into the mould of distinction.

And there is a FADA receiver to fit every taste and pocketbook.

Come in and see the FADA, hear it and note its quality throughout. We will be glad to demonstrate for you.

H. LAU SONS

Play Safe

THE tremendous power and punch built into the new Philco Drynamic Battery are your "margin of safety"—a safeguard against humiliating or dangerous hand-cranking experiences.

Furthermore, you are always sure to get the full life of the battery because the life of a Philco Drynamic Battery does not start till we pour in the acid just before installing in your car. You can't get a stale Philco!

Come in and let us tell you more about this remarkable battery.

Pavey's

STORMIZING SHOP

PHILCO DIAMOND GRID BATTERIES

Our Klemme Agents

The OLD LINE CEDAR RAPIDS LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, now has two responsible representatives at work in and around Klemme—Mr. J. A. E. Ackerman and Mr. Charles N. White, who will gladly explain any of our policies to you. They have had a great deal of experience in this line of work and are able to give you valuable information regarding a policy that is best suited to your needs—they will be glad to talk to you and you need not feel under any obligation to buy.

Remember! When you invest in Insurance in this Company you are investing your money in a Company with over Sixteen Million Dollars of Insurance in Force. A Company with gross assets of over Two Million Dollars and an annual premium income of Half a Million Dollars! You are investing in a Cmpany that is growing! "A Good Western Company that is as Strong as the Strongest"!

Our representatives will be glad to talk it over with you anytime.

E. C. Ford, General Agent, Iowa Falls, Iowa

The Old Line

Cedar Rapids Life Insurance Company

FORD COMPANY PAYS HIGHEST INCOME TAX

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Largest Individual Taxpayer in United States.

New York.—New York, with its three revenue districts, again this year leads in income-tax payments by a vast margin.

While the largest payment in the country was that of the Ford Motor company of Detroit, with $16,493,160, and while the additional individual payments of Henry Ford and Edsel Ford brought the Ford contributions up to more than $20,000,000, New York city had the largest individual taxpayer in the person of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., whose tax was $6,277,669. The records showed that the assessment of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was $128,420.

A striking exception to the lower taxes this year was shown in J. P. Morgan's return. His assessment of $574,379 is an enormous increase over last year, when his assessment was $98,543. Elbert H. Gary's tax is $322,680, as against $473,364 last year.

The following returns of prominent residents of the United States have been made public at the various offices where they are on file: John D. Rockefeller, Jr., $6,277,669; John D. Rockefeller, Sr., $128,420; Andrew W. Mellon, $1,882,609.25; Senator James Couzens, $1,200,000; Vincent Astor, $642,600; James B. Duke, $641,250; J. P. Morgan, $574,714; C. W. Nash, $459,776; Mrs. Moria De Francis, $347,281.87; Arthur W. Cutten, $540,500; Douglas Fairbanks, $182,190.45; Executor Jams D. Phelan, $143,737; James A. Patten, $425,348; Chauncey Depew, $125,920; John W. Davis, $49,533; Mary Pickford, $34,387.92; Charles G. Dawes, $24,834; President Coolidge, $14,091; Marshall Field, $226,759; Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, $349; Charles S. Chaplin, $345.81; Richard T. Crane, $434,457; Jackie Coogan, $286.20; Jack Dempsey, $267; Will H. Hays, $10,234; Otto Kahn, $391,776; Edward B. McLean, $281,125.

8,000,000 Acres Winter Wheat Increase in '26

Washington. — Domestic requirements will probably be heavily exceeded by winter wheat production in the United States next year if average yields are obtained and if acreage is increased by some 4,000,000 acres, as proposed, it is pointed out by the Department of Agriculture in a report issued here. This would place the wheat market on a world basis, as against the approximate domestic basis believed responsible for the present favorable situation in wheat, it is pointed out. If the intended acreage increase of 9.07 per cent is made, land sown to winter wheat this fall will be about 46,400,000 acres, it is declared. Under average conditions, this would mean the harvesting of about 40,424,000 acres, as against 32,813,000 acres this year.

France to Send Leaders to U. S.

Paris.—M. Caillaux, the finance minister, expects an agreement with the United States debt funding commission within nine days after his arrival at Washington, September 25.

He believes in any event the negotiations can be so nearly completed that unfinished minor points can be settled by some of his colleagues, whom he would leave in Washington. He is determined to depart from New York by the steamer France October 3, so as to be in Paris when parliament reassembles.

Undoubtedly having in mind the fate of the Versailles treaty, he is taking with him influential senators and deputies. His choice has been influenced

Arkansas House Speaker Held on Forgery Charge

Little Rock, Ark.—Thomas A. Hill, speaker of the last Arkansas house of representatives, was indicted by the Pulaski county grand jury on a charge of forgery of public records.

It charges that senate bill No. 519, which provides for holdover committees to complete the work of the legislature, was never read the third time or voted upon in the house and that the speaker forged an entry in the house record to show that the bill was read and passed.

Col. Mitchell in Narrow Escape in Plane Crash

San Antonio, Texas.—Col. William Mitchell, Eighth corps air officer and former assistant chief of the air service, narrowly escaped death when his plane crashed after a forced landing near the new Second division flying field, formerly used as the post remount depot. Colonel Mitchell and his passenger, Harry Short, civilian aircraft expert, were unhurt although the plane was wrecked.

Quakes Jar Three States

Chicago.—Southern Illinois and Indiana and parts of Missouri and Kentucky were shaken by two earthquake shocks. The shocks were of short duration.

$1,000,000 to College

Delaware, Ohio.—It was announced that a gift of $1,000,000 had been received by Ohio Wesleyan university from Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Stuyvesant, Cleveland. The gift is the largest in Wesleyan's history.

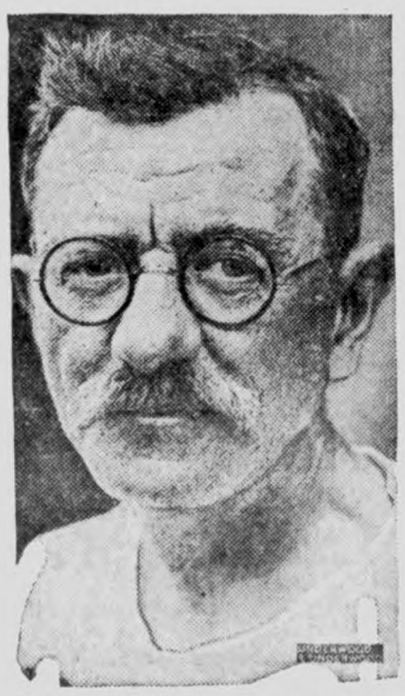
Ambassador Bancroft's Body Brought Home

The body of the late Ambassador Edgar A. Bancroft has been brought from Japan and interred at his birthplace, Galesburg, Ill. The illustration shows part of the procession in San Francisco when the casket was transferred from the ship to the train.

Huge New Commission Mart Opened in Chicago

Commission men of Chicago, who for many years have occupied congested quarters in South Water street, to the inconvenience of themselves and the city generally, have just moved to a new $17,000,000 market on the Near West side. The illustration shows four of the six buildings that comprise the new mart.

MODERN ENOCH ARDEN



Harry Kleinschmidt, fifty-six, a mechanic, who returned to his home in Cincinnati, Ohio, several days ago to find after an absence of seven years that his wife, mother of four children, had remarried after he had been reported killed in an accident in Kansas City. He fell from a scaffold, had amnesia and wandered in various states. Kleinschmidt says he will do nothing that would embarrass his wife in her present marriage.

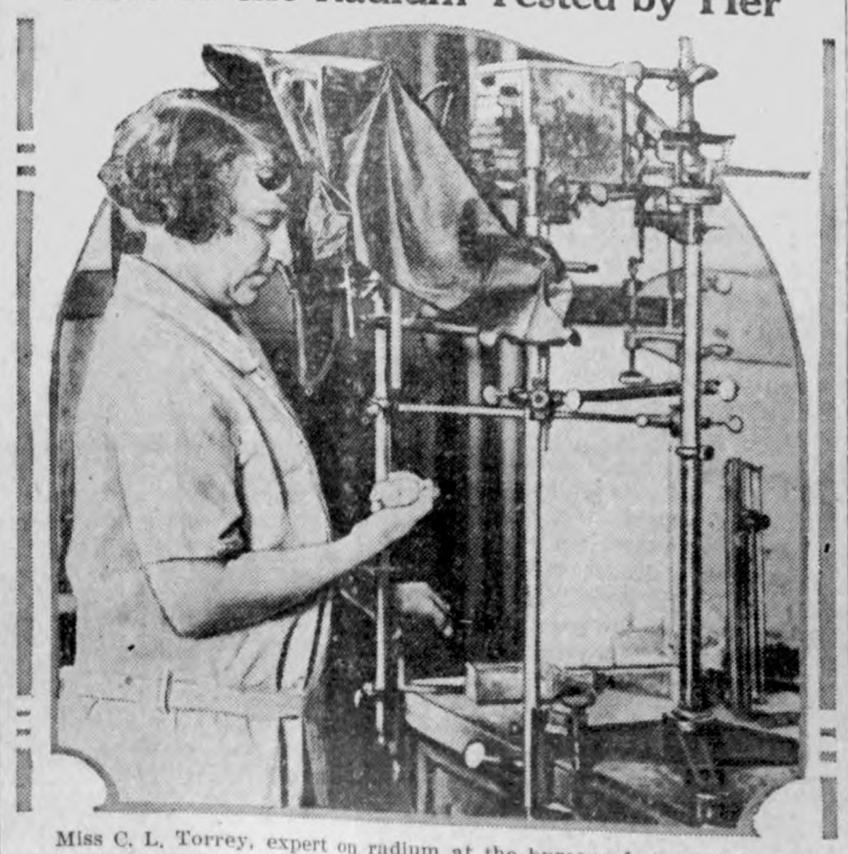
KING'S AIDE HERE

Maj. Enrique Carrion, aide de camp to King Alfonso of Spain, arrived in this country from Manila recently with his family, for an extended tour of the United States before going to Madrid. He is active in international banking circles and proprietor of a big cigar factory in Manila.

Night Photography From Planes

Equipped with a torpedo flashlight, United States army photographers and flyers are now able to take photographs from an airplane at night. The first successful photograph ever made at night from an airplane was made by Lieut. George W. Goddard and Dr. S. M. Burka, government physicist, shown in the photograph with their equipment.

Most of the Radium Tested by Her



Miss C. L. Torrey, expert on radium at the bureau of standards, making some of the daily tests. She tests about 95 per cent of all radium in the United States, and up to the time the mines were discovered in South Africa she was testing all the radium in the world.

REPRESENTS U. S.

Jesse S. Cottrell, special representative, with the rank of ambassador, to represent the United States government during the centennial of Bolivia which is being celebrated in La Paz and Sucre with fetes lasting 40 days.

COOLIDGE FOR FORCED RAILROAD MERGER

Consolidation Should Come After Seven-Year Period.

Swampscott, Mass.—President Coolidge and Senator Watson of Indiana came to an agreement in a conference that an amendment to the Esch-Cummins bill forcing railroad consolidation after a period of seven years should be sought in the next session of congress. Senator Watson is assistant floor leader in the upper chamber and chairman of the interstate commerce committee.

Approval of the Van Sweringen merger, now pending before the interstate commerce commission, would clear the way for other voluntary consolidations, and a seven-year limit on voluntary action would have the effect of assuring the completion of almost all necessary mergers within a reasonable time, the President and Mr. Watson decided.

Watson believes the attempts to abolish the railroad labor board will be defeated.

Passage of a tax-reduction bill before March 15, when first payments on 1926 incomes are due, was predicted by Senator Watson.

Wife of Bootleg King Files Suit for Divorce

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Mrs. Imogene Remus filed suit for divorce and alimony from George Remus, former Cincinnati bootlegger, who was released from the penitentiary at Atlanta at the expiration of his sentence of two years for violation of the national prohibition law.

Remus issued a statement in which he declared false his repudiation of testimony before the senate Daugherty investigating committee last year.

Remus was arrested upon his release here and was taken to Dayton, Ohio, where he will institute habeas corpus proceedings for his freedom on the ground that another sentence imposed on him at the time he was sent to Atlanta was to be concurrent.

Rail Workers Laid Off; Striking Miners Warned

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—Idle anthracite mine workers were warned by Rinaldo Capellini, president of District No. 1, United Mine Workers, not to accept other employment at reduced wages, thus underbidding regular outside labor.

Notices were posted at the Ashley shops of the Central Railroad of New Jersey announcing that they would be closed for one week as a result of lack of work due to the mine suspension. Twelve hundred men will be thrown idle.

Antitrust Probe of Movie Industry Almost Finished

Washington.—The Department of Justice's investigation of the moving picture industry to determine whether the federal "antitrust" laws have been violated is nearly finished and results will be announced shortly by Attorney General Sargent. The inquiry was based upon complaints from moving picture theaters that they were being discriminated against and that combinations in restraint of trade are in existence among distributinig organizations.

Shows $40,000 Loss

New York.—The total income of the Y. M. C. A. for the year 1924-25, was $51,874,400, or $40,000 less than expenditures for the same period, according to the year book for the United States and Canada, issued here. Membership showed a decrease.

Booster Film for Washington

Washington.—The Department of Commerce plans to produce a film depicting the beauties of the national capital.

Two Letters

The first written twenty years ago, the second recently by Mrs. J. H. Bourland, Frankston, Texas.

June 2, 1904, she writes:—

"For twenty-three years I was a constant sufferer from chronic catarrh. I had a severe misery and burning in the top of my head, a continual dropping of mucous into my throat causing frequent expectoration. My entire system became involved and I grew worse. It seemed as if I could not recover from a constant cough and frequent attacks of bilious colic. My bowels were affected, causing alarming hemorrhages. I tried many remedies and finally took Pe-ru-na. In three days I was relieved of my bowel trouble and entirely cured by five bottles. I most cheerfully recommend Pe-ru-na."

June 30, 1924, Mrs. Bourland writes again:—

"I will soon be seventy-nine years old and enjoy god health for one of my age. I still recommend Pe-ru-na and take it myself when necessary."

For more than half a century Pe-ru-na has a proud record of good done. Men and women the world over stand ready to testify to its value in the treatment of all catarrhal disorders.

Send 4 cents postage to the PE-RU-NA COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio, for book on catarrh.

Pe-ru-na in either tablet or liquid form sold everywhere.

ECZEMA

After Others Fail

PETERSON'S OINTMENT

Big Box 60 Cents

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment when eczema or terrible itching of skin and scalp tortures you is known to tens of thousands of people the country over. Often the itching goes overnight.

For pimples, acne, rough and red skin, old sores, ulcers, piles, chafing, sunburn, burning feet and all blemishes and eruptions it is supremely efficient as any broad-minded druggist will tell you. Peterson Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Maine Hen Lore

A contributor to a Cleveland newspaper, telling of a hen running through heavy traffic with a bright ribbon dangling from her tail feathers, adds: "Evidently she had been struck before." Tut! tut! Is it possible that the writer has never heard of that time-honored method of "breaking up" a setting hen by attaching a bit of red cloth to her tail—red flannel preferably? Just why flannel has never been satisfactorily explained, but flannel has always been demanded by the good folk who believe in this plan, and happy was the boy who was called upon to affix the streamer and then watch the crazy antics of its unwilling wearer.—Portland Press Herald.

Woman's Many Honors

Mrs. Arthur Strong, who recently retired from the post of assistant director of the British school in Rome, is said to possess honorary degrees from more universities and honors from more learned societies than any other woman in the world. Mrs. Strong has a worldwide reputation as an authority on art, ancient and modern.

Novelty in Picnic

"How was the picnic?" Jones inquired of his wife one evening as she came up on the porch and laid the empty basket down with a sigh. "All right," she answered. "In fact it was quite a novel affair. Everybody ate chiggers instead of mosquitoes."

Propagating Weeds

The quickest way to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before is to plant a vegetable.—Little Rock Arkansas Gazette.

Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

Clear Your Skin With Cuticura

Soap to Cleanse Ointment to Heal

Absolutely Nothing Better

THE MERICAN EGION

(This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

ING TO MEET IN PARIS IN 1927

of the proposed national of the American Legion in nce, in 1927 was brought ps nearer reality, it was in- national headquarters of at Indianapolis, following recent developments in the nk Line Passenger associa- offered to grant to all Le- a round-trip ticket from in America to the port of on for a one-way fare. John , Jr., of Richmond, Va., of the France convention mittee, predicts that other ssociations will follow suit.

ces have been received iplomatic channels that the government will welcome es with sincere pleasure, er has reported. Word has officials of Paris post of that the people and offi- the city of Paris will co-op- ake the gathering a success. t week in September, 1927, recommended by the commit- e best time for holding the n. Final decision in the sts with the national conven- governing body of the Legion, meeting at which Mr. Wicker report to the national execu- mittee, Garland W. Powell, f the National Americanism n of the Legion, presented ation. Mr. Powell, who be- istant director in 1921 and n 1922 took the lead in cam- r employment of veterans in restricted immigration, for ucation in all its phases, for ization work, against illiter- nst revolutionary radicalism me pacifism. He conducted ican education weeks and the national essay contests.

well, whose home is at Cum- Md., and who was a captain he American aviation forces, to become identified with the ion and administration of Wilson Memorial university sta, Ga.

Clay Cross, of the faculty of ado School of Mines at Gold- , succeeded Mr. Powell. He fame through the nationally opportunity school" in Den- was chairman of the Ameri- committee of the department do during the past year. He verseas for 14 months.

same meeting adequate pro- the federal budget for main- he naval ratio of 5-5-3 fixed Washington conference was Provision for the proper de- the Hawaiian islands by forti- em and improving Pearl Har- also for an increase of 4,000 ised personnel of the navy mmended by the naval affairs e of the Legion, headed by afford of New York.

report submitted by Reed G. of Chicago for the aeronautics ee and adopted by the execu- mmittee, support was pledged master General Harry S. New reported refusal to contract for mail service between the States and South America with mpany financed by foreign capi- oncered by subjects of foreign es. Germans are financing and g a concern which has been ing to obtain such a contract Key West, Fla., and South , according to information laid the committee.

Honored Former Foe

For the first time in the his- of the country, it is be- ved, American Legionnaires ently buried with full milit- honors a German soldier o fought against them in 8 on the battlefields of nce. This took place at irmont, Minn. Military rites, firing squad and taps were corded to Irvin Hoffman, who as drafted by the kaiser in 8 when he was attending hool at the age of fourteen. uberculosis resulting from pri- ations and shrapnel wounds used Hoffman to come to this ountry some months ago. He ied at the age of twenty-one.

"Any man who gave his life r his country, no matter what ountry, is entitled to the ribute accorded a soldier," de- lared O. M. Merry, Fairmont ost commander, who arranged he military funeral.

To Plan for Convention

. H. Richardson, president of a minent oil company in Nebraska, is new general chairman of the com- tee planning for the 1925 national vention of the American Legion to held in Omaha, October 5 to 9. hardson was chosen to succeed the e Everett Buckingham at a recent eting of the convention committee.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Remembrance is the sweetest flower
Of all this world's perfuming;
Memory guards it, sun or shower;
Friendship keeps it blooming.

SOUR CREAM DISHES

When one has a cupful or two of sour cream it is nice to know several ways of using it.

Deviled Eggs.—Cook six eggs in the shell until hard. Cut into halves lengthwise, remove the yolks and mash with a fork, adding enough thick sour cream to moisten. Add mustard, salt and a little red pepper. If the cream is too sweet add a dash of lemon juice and put the mixture back into the whites.

Sour Cream Pie.—To one cupful of sour cream add two-thirds of a cupful of raisins chopped, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, the yolks of the two eggs, and a little salt. Bake in one crust and use the whites of the eggs for a meringue.

Hermits.—Take a cupful of thick sour cream, two cupfuls of brown sugar, one cupful of chopped raisins, two-thirds of a cupful of butter, two well-beaten eggs, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, with flour to make a dough as stiff as can be stirred. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a well-greased pan, leaving plenty of room to spread. A raisin or nut may be added to each to garnish.

Quick Cream Cookies.—To one cupful of sour cream add one cupful of sugar, one egg, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, with salt and flavoring to taste. Drop by spoonfuls on well-greased pans, pat out and sprinkle with sugar, adding a nut or a raisin. Bake in a quick oven.

Sweet Potato Pie.—Take a cupful of sour cream, one cupful of sugar, one pint of mashed sweet potato, the yolks of four eggs, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half a nutmeg; salt all well mixed together. Bake in one crust and spread with strained honey while hot.

Graham Muffins.—Take one cupful of sour cream, one cupful of graham flour, one teaspoonful of soda and one tablespoonful of sugar, a beaten egg, all well mixed. Bake in buttered gem pans.

Sour Cream Dressing.—Take a cupful of sour cream, add a bit of salt, sugar and cayenne, and mix well. Pour over sliced cucumbers or shredded cabbage.

Cream soups, which are so nourishing, may all be made with skim milk, adding a little more butter to the flour when binding.

Everyday Dishes.

Fried salt pork has gone out of style, except in farm homes, where it is served at its best. A few slices of good fat—and a steak of lean (pork) cut into half-inch slices and fried in its own fat until crisp the brown and well-gravy thickened, a cupful or more of milk added and the gravy is ready to serve with the pork and nicely baked potatoes. Such a dinner will be found appetizing and agreeable once in a while on a cool day. A coleslaw will be good to serve with such a dinner. Shred the cabbage and serve with a hot boiled dressing poured over it.

Popovers.—Beat two eggs until very light, add gradually seven-eighths of a cupful of milk, a cupful of flour, a half-teaspoonful of salt; beat all together ten minutes with an egg beater, then add half a teaspoonful of melted butter. If skim mik is used add a teaspoonful of butter.

Cream of Tomato Soup.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three and a half tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until smooth; add a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of chopped onion, then a pint of canned tomatoes, mixing all. Add soda and onion, using a fourth of a teaspoonful of soda. Reheat, then strain and pour this, after slightly cooling, into a cupful and a half of milk. Reheat and serve hot. Do not let the soup boil.

Coffee Cup.—To a pint of strong coffee, strained through a cloth, add one-third of a teaspoonful of almond flavoring and heat to the boiling point in a double boiler. Add two beaten egg yolks, two tablespoonfuls of cream and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Stir until it thickens to a custard, remove and cool, pour into a serving pitcher with a pint of sweetened ice-cold whipped cream, a quart bottle of charged water and a pint of shaved ice. Serve in tall glasses, place a little shaved ice in each, then some coffee, then twice the quantity of charged water, and on top the whipped cream.

Mintade.—To two cupfuls of water add one bunch of mint cut very fine and the juice of six lemons. Let stand one hour. Strain, chill and add sugar sirup to sweeten, and two quarts of ginger ale. Serve at once with cracked ice.

Diced pineapple added to chopped or shredded cabbage, with a good salad dressing, makes a most delightful combination.

Nellie Maxwell

SATIN CREPE FOR AUTUMN; BEADED LACE FALL NOVELTY

ACCORDING to our psychologists, self-expression is the big thought of the present generation. Nor is this characteristic found wanting in the world of modern fashion. There is the matter of silk, for instance. In the days of "lavender and old lace" a silk dress was looked upon as a "possession," as a treasurable frock reserved for "Sunday-go-to-meetin'" wear or for weddings or special festive occasions. For the ordinary affairs of life calico, ginghams, percale and the like were the appointed materials. We modernists, being self-expressionists, take issue with this idea.

So it is silk we are choosing for school, for office, for home, for sports, use is also accented by stylists, throughout autumn fashions. This vogue for lace embraces not only metal and other elaborate types, such as for instance the new beaded laces, but it also stresses chantilly and colored silk laces. This favor for lace emphasizes the tendency to exploit supple and sheer effects for this fall and winter.

One of the elegancies to which much attention is being directed is the graceful lace tunic. To be sure, there is a note of extravagance suggested in the idea, but as a matter of fact, economy is the chief asset of a lace overblouse which can be posed over various silken or satin costume slips, thus supplying for street, and in fact for general utility wear. To substantiate this claim that silk is eminently practical for all occasions, we have taken to making it up in very simple styles which betray no signs of "fussiness" or overdressy effects.

Effective Silk Costumes.

Two interesting silk frocks are illuseloquently bespeak modes especially called informal daytime wear, lines and tie effects. Attention trated. to the girlish collars are the stylists' for this season. The majority of darker silk dresses are enlivened by graceful long ties matched either to the frock or in contrasting color, or a "different" appearing frock suited to the time and the event.

Referring, by way of demonstration, to the lace tunic in the picture. As shown as a it is worn over a black thus proclaims its taste- slip grande dame satin or silver metal cloth, change the girdle for one of the delicately toned ribbon worn with loops en masse at the left hip and presto! the daytime costume becomes a formal evening gown of appealing charm. The fact that this adorable lace tunic is fashioned of several sorts of lace should prove an most popular of all, of pure white washable crepe silk.

Use of Lace Is a Fall Novelty.

Notice, too, the intriguing manner of introducing fullness in the skirt, for the flare is an established fact for forthcoming autumn and winter frocks. The dress in the top foreground charmingly interprets the new vogue for shirred set-in portions, while the continued favor for plaiting is confirmed by the other model. In both instances satin crepe is selected for the making of these frocks, for satin crepe is authoritatively announced as one of the popular dress materials for the forthcoming season.

In modes of the hour, lace is playing a winsome part. Its continued inspiration to the woman of vision, and deft fingers. Most every family's cedar chest holds within its sacred precincts bits of lace treasured from generation to generation. Furthermore the bargain counter in this store and that offers tempting lace lengths to those who will, for a trifling fee, come and partake.

Beaded lace is the exquisite novelty promised for fall. In some instances the richness of lace is enhanced by embroideries in colored silk together with an interspersion of beads. There is a decided movement also toward the use of metal laces especially for evening gowns and for millinery purposes.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Community Building

Many Points Involved in Community Planning

What is genuine community planning? asks a writer in the Detroit Free Press. Our present city planning deals for the most part with the bare physical framework of the city. Community planning comprehends not merely the physical layout of streets, avenues, blocks and traffic arteries, but the whole environment, including the work, the housing, the recreation, the customs and habits of the people who make up the community. Rousseau said that houses make a town, people make a city; and we may add that the combination of houses and people provide the situation for the community planner.

Now, in dealing with his individual client, the architect does not merely pay attention to his rough physical requirements, to drainage and circulation, and so forth; he also pays attention to the specific use or uses to which a building is to be put, and to the needs and interests of his client, interpreted in the broadest sense.

Community planning carries this habit of mind over to the community as a whole. Just as it is impossible to design a good house if the owner wants to spend the greater part of his available capital on a range, so it is impossible to do any effective community planning if the majority of people are more interested in making financial values than in creating for themselves the real good that comes from houses well-placed, and community buildings which serve every member to their maximum capacity.

Writer's Strong Plea for Zoned Villages

During a recent rather extended automobile trip the writer saw two kinds of villages. One kind looked entirely commercialized, unkempt, a hodgepodge. They looked like places without pride of civic spirit.

The other kind were the opposite. They appeared to point with pride to one section and say to the visitor, "This is our business section," and to the other, surrounding section, and say, "Here are our homes, our lawns, our flowers and gardens. This section is sacred from the sordidness of commercialization."

The difference was just this: The beautiful villages were zoned, the unbeautiful were not zoned—ice-stands, ter, here and thn," the hot-dog coun- down. Tom, Dick and Harry, little or big, had been allowed to do as they pleased without let or hindrance. In the zoned villages all was neat and equally as prosperous.—Canton (N. Y.) Plain Dealer.

Before Fire Gets Start

Nobody, whether he be householder or business man, who ever has "had" a fire, can fail to understand how vitally important in combating it successfully are "the first five minutes."

Used intelligently at the very start, a small quantity of water thrown at the base of a fire, or a hand extinguisher well directed, may be effective far beyond the operations of an entire municipal fire department later on.

To keep a small, a trivial blaze from swelling speedily into a big, an uncontrollable fire—this is really the fundamental purpose of such an installation as the automatic sprinkler. Motorization of fire apparatus has for its primary object the extinguishment of that "little fire, which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench"; in other words, the motor-driven engine "gets the jump on" the little fire and, of course, speed of warning, coupled with accuracy, constitutes the whole aim of the new highly developed telegraph alarm.—Safeguarding America Against Fire.

Septic Tank Works Well

The septic tank is approved by health authorities throughout the country. It has been used long enough to establish its desirability. When it is of sufficient size to insure the complete process there is little or no sediment to collect, and if used for what it is intended it will serve for many years without cleaning or other attention.

Unnecessary Fire Loss

Buildings consumed each year by fires in the United States, if placed on lots of 65-foot frontage, would line both sides of a street extending from Chicago to New York. The value of the buildings would be more than $500,000,000. They are burned at the rate of $60,000 each hour, day and night.

Condemns Filling Station

A gasoline and oil service station in an exclusive residence section has been ruled a nuisance in a recent decision handed down by the Fayette county (Ohio) court of appeals. The decision will be of interest to real estate boards of the national association, to property owners and to students of city zoning. "By the universal trend of adjudicated cases," the decision states, "an exclusive residential section is accorded certain immunity against offensive trades and business."

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA

You will appreciate the combination of unusual quality and low price.

35¢ a pound

QUALITY for 70 years

Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.

Reid, Murdoch & Co. Chicago, U. S. A.

Boston, Pittsburgh, New York

Coal Alcohol

Alcohol from coal is being derived by a new process utilized by a Paris company. From 30 to 40 pounds of the fuel alcohol can be obtained from a ton of coal, it has been asserted.

In a single block in New York city assessed valuations of property were reduced from $17,000,000 to $7,000,000 from 1911 to 1917.

The problem of life seems to be: How to make one dollar do the work of two.

"The most beautiful rugs we've ever owned and my old rugs and carpets paid one-half the cost."

Learn how you can exchange old rugs or carpets for luxurious new rugs!

FREE! Book on Rugs and Home Decorating, handsomely illustrated in colors, tells how. Save coupon today for a free copy. Learn about the two unusual plans that have put new rugs within reach of hundreds of thousands of home lovers—at a saving of half!

The secret of such startling economy in rug buying is simply this: Your old rugs, carpets and clothing pay part of the cost. And you have two types of rugs to choose from.

In Olson Standard Rugs we use the best of the old material sent to us. We wash, sterilize, bleach and reclaim it like new, then add sufficient new wool to make a rug that cannot be detected from one made of new wool.

Olson Supergrade Rugs are made of fine, imported new wools. In quality they resemble the finest domestic rugs costing twice as much.

Both Olson Standard and Olson Supergrade Rugs are made entirely in our mammoth Chicago mills—the largest in the world dealing with the home.

Both types are woven in one piece (no seams) with the same deep, luxurious nap on both sides, to give double wear. They are made in any size and any color in the one and two-toned effects now endorsed by leading decorators.

SENT ON TRIAL

Your old rugs and carpets pay part of the cost of new Olson Rugs. That's what brings the price down so low. We pay shipping charges on your old material and send your new rug for a week's full trial. You can't lose a penny. Our iron-clad guarantee protects you fully.

RUGS IN 24 HOURS

We ship your new rugs the same day we receive your order. In other words, these new, up-to-date, reversible Olson Rugs are in your home within two or three days from the time you order them! No delays! And, best of all, a cash saving of as high as 50 per cent. Get all the facts. Mail coupon today for free book that explains everything.

Olson Rug Co., Dept. W-2.
Laflin St., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Please send me, FREE, at once, your latest book on "Rugs and Home Decorating," which explains your money-saving plan that allows me to exchange my old carpets, rugs and clothing for up-to-date new rugs. This obligates me in no way.

NAME .....

ADDRESS (R. F. D.) .....

TOWN..... STATE.....

A Health Builder

HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters is a wholesome tonic. Keeps the stomach in good condition and improves the appetite.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

At All Druggists

THE HOSTETTER CO., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Bark "Wrapping Paper"

The Chopi Tibetans retain their individuality partly because they inhabit inaccessible mountains. At their capital, Choni, on the Tao river, lives the hereditary Chinese ruler of 48 tribes of this people. He can levy taxes, quell rebellions and administer punishment, but the Chinese say of him, "He has the pig's head, but cannot find the door of the temple." They imply that he is willing to give bribes to keep his position, but too many officials expect them, and he cannot tell which deserve the largest. A recent study of the province includes extensive botanical and zoological observations. One tree, known locally as the "red birch," is a boon to traders. It has a shining, brown, papery bark, which peels off in large, thin sheets, which are used by Tibetans and Chinese for wrapping butter and other food articles.

Ostrich Father

"At this season on my South African ostrich farm," said an ostrich farmer, "you will see some male birds strutting proudly about with three or four broods in addition to their own, while other males mope wretchedly without any broods at all.

"The male ostrich, you see, is a very fond parent. He swaggers away from the nest in the morning to give his young ones an airing, and when he spies another male occupied in the same way he puts up a fight and, if he wins, he collars the beaten bird's brood.

"To see one of these proud males in the spring of the year swelling round with goodness knows how many little ones is a sight to bring tears to a true father's eyes."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Mills for Milk

There is a tradition of a boy from London who was disappointed with the country, where he went for a holiday, because he saw them "pump milk from a dirty old cow."

The boy's idea of artificial milk is within realization, for after manufactured butter we are to have artificial milk. It is already consumed extensively in China and a mill is to be set up in France.

The Chinese drop a powder into water, stir it and it becomes milk. The powder is a soja bean crushed. The French mill is to treat the bean so as to enable the milk powder to be sold in packets. It is said that cheese is obtained by the same process.—London Globe.

Rare American Stamps

The first official use of postage stamps was sanctioned by act of congress of March, 1847. On July 1, 1847, the first stamps were issued. They were a 5-cent and a 10-cent stamp. The 5-cent stamp bore the likeness of Franklin, while the 10-cent stamp bore the portrait of Washington from Stuart's painting. Professional stamps were issued prior to 1847 and were used by postmasters at some of the larger offices. They consisted of an impression placed upon letters with impressions such as "paid 5c," the name of the office, etc. These stamps are very rare and are among the most valuable known.

Great Artist Reached Helping Hand to Many

When a man becomes so eminent that he is in a class quite by himself legend springs up all around him and everything that he says is quoted and handed about. Edwin H. Blashfield writes in the North American Review. It is noteworthy indeed that among all the stories not one has ever been to John Singer Sargent's disadvantage. Modest he was and generous to his fellows, delicately considerate and magnanimous.

When Carroll Beckwith, one of the most intimate friends of his youth, died, his widow told me that John, as she always called Sargent, retouched for her many of Carroll's studies to put them in more finished and saleable condition, and when Abbey's hand was arrested in the midst of his decorative work for the Pennsylvania capitol at Harrisburg Sargent hurriedly made a long journey to superintend the completion of some of the panels, superintending, nota bene, with a careful avoidance of personally touching a brush to the canvas. Wise he was, too, as to theory, and valiant as to principle; in the days of reactionaries he was a progressive, and when the race for notoriety at any price began he was a conservative. In one of his letters to me he declares that, as for himself, as he grows old he is "becoming rather proud of being called pompier."

Must Risk Life to Look From Mountain

Do you know that the weather is manufactured on a huge rock on Lookout mountain, Chattanooga, Tenn., and not at Medicine Hat or Washington as we have always supposed? The weather rock is a giant slab of peculiar shape projecting from the mountain top far over the green valley 2,900 feet below. It is necessary to crawl out on hands and knees to look over the edge, but the view is well worth the peril. Farms, villages, white highways, wooded hills and winding rivers are so far below the adventurous spectator that the country looks like a flat map done in emerald and silver, much as it does from an airplane. It takes iron nerves and a clear and steady brain to peer over the dizzy verge, even lying flat on one's stomach—a simple slip means certain death, as there is not so much as a blade of grass to hold on by, only the smooth gray rock and loose pebbles, which roll at a touch and give one the sickening sensation of sliding toward the edge.

Spot That Made History

The bridge over the River Adda at Lodi, Italy, is famous as the scene of a terrible contest between the French under Bonaparte and the Austrians under Beaulieu, May 10, 1796. The Austrians were strongly intrenched on the opposite bank of the Adda and their formidable artillery swept the bridge, but Bonaparte, charging at the head of his grenadiers, bayoneted the cannoneers at their guns and drove the defeated Austrians into the mountains of the Tyrol. As a result of this victory, Milan capitulated to Bonaparte a few days later. This battle is frequently spoken of as the "Terrible Passage of the Bridge of Lodi." It was Bonaparte's first important victory over the Austrians, and, as he afterward declared, kindled the first spark of his ambition.—Kansas City Star.

TWELVE KILLED IN SHENANDOAH WRECK

The United States Dirigible Shenandoah was wrecked in a storm near Cleveland Ohio, about five o'clock last Thursday morning, according to a radio message broadcasted from WHO at Des Moines at noon. Just the annoncement of the wreck and that twelve men were killed and two injured.

The Shenandoah left the naval base at Lakehurst, N. J. shortly after four o'clock Wednesday afternoon on the long promised flight into the middle west. It was scheduled to visit St. Louis, Des Moines, Minneapolis, and return to the east via Milwaukee and Detroit. A trip of five days duration was scheduled to cross Wright county some time Friday.

Have you purchased your car? Nearly all makes of cars dropped is price.

Peck Hanson and Chas. Setwetter, of Garner, were in Kl Thursday on business.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP

NOTICE—The town council of Klemme of Hancock County, Iowa, will meet Sepetember 18, 1925, at 8:00 P. M., at the Town Hall. Taxpayers will be heard for or against the following estimate of expenditures at that time.

A. J. KUDJE, Town Clerk.

	1 Expenditures Est. 1926	2 Balance on hand	3 Income Other Sources 1926	4 Taxes to be raised	5 Expenditures for Year 1924	6 Expenditures for Year 1923
FUNDS
General	1,600.00	150.00	600.00	1,000.00	1,409.50	2,928.12
Grading						1.00
Sewer	500.00			500.00
Waterworks	1,100.00	100.00	600.00	500.00	917.67	556.33
Light	500.00	100.00		500.00	573.41	604.80
Bonds					4,965.00	2,348.25
Other Bonds	800.00	300.00		800.00
Cemetery						56.46
Garbage Disposal	500.00			500.00
Jail—Park		200.00			255.37	158.00
City Bldg. and Fire Sta.		100.00			6.65
Anticipated Levies:
General	2 Mills			2 Mills
Water Bond	10,500.00		4,000.00	6,500.00	2.794.10	7,145.08
Light Bond	1,500.00			1,500.00	75.16	75.16
Sewer Outlet and Purifying Bond	500.00	100.00		500.00
Other Funds:
Fire Bldg. Bond		500.00
TOTALS	17,500.00	1,580.00	5,200.00	12,300.00	10,996.86	13,873.20

Estimated Taxes per $1,000 of assessed value $17.00.

Get Ready--

Hunters Look!

The Fall Hunting Season opens next Wednesday, September 16 and you will want to be right after the Ducks the first day. Be prepared! Select your supplies from our big line of sporting goods:

WINCHESTER GUNS—
12 gauge Repeaters
410 Single Barrel.
16 gauage single barrel.
22. cal. rifles, all kinds.

REMINGTON—we also handle this line of guns.

HUNTING COATS and CAPS.
SHELL VESTS, GUN OIL, ETC.
SHELLS—We carry a complete line of all kinds of shells and cartridges. Every gauge, load and shot size you need.

: CASE LOTS :
: Buy your shells by the case and save :
: money on our special case prices. :
: Ask Us About It :

E. F. Jacobs

Hancock County Fair, Britt, Iowa

September 15th Entry Day

September 15, 16, 17, 18

Three Days of Education and Entertainment!

Three Nights of Pleasure!

Exhibits Of All Kinds

Best Livestock
Poultry
Agricultural Products
Township Booths
Girls Club Booths
Pantry Stores
Fruits
Flowers
Textiles
Etc.

Free Attractions

The "Merry Andrews" and the Duncan Sokols

Base Ball Games, Trap Shooting, Horseshoe Pitching, Merry-go-round and big midway of shows and stands

Cato's Vagabonds, greatest of all dance orchestras, will hold a bowery dance every afternoon and evening

Coupon Books
Worth $2.50 can be bought for $2.00, good at gate and grandstand

Hazel M. Cass Players

Will Present
The Following Latest Popular Plays

"The Unkissed Bride"
Wednesday Night

"The Modern Cinderella"
Thursday Night

"Why Men Leave Home"
Friday Night

Help Make The Fair A Success With Your Exhibits And Your Presence!

J. C. Sheets, President

L. T. Nutty, Secretary

THE KLEMME TIMES

Thirtieth Year—Number 2. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

NEW CASES FILED FOR SEPTEMBER TERM OF COURT

Lamson Bros. & Co., vs. Chris Gillstrap, Plff. asks judgment for $951.39 for purchase of corn, wheat and oats.

First Nat. Bk, Forest City vs. LeRoy Schroeder, et al. Plff asks judgment on note for $274.

Walter R. Ross, vs Ray Lillibridge et al. Plff asks judgment for $12,225.00 & foreclosure of mtg. on NE¼ 11-95-24.

Henry Hesley vs. H. Ruebon Plff. asks judgment for $130 on check.

State S av. Bk, Woden vs. Henry Kelln et al, Plff. asks judgment for $5000 on notes.

State Sav. Bk, Woden vs. J. F. Green, Plff. asks judgment on note for $625.55.

Mary E. Jordan vs. Wm. F. Ewing, Plff. asks judgment for $186.00 and landlard's attachment.

Geo. A. Pabst vs. F. J. Wenck, Plf asks judgment for $4277.13 & foreclosure of mtg. on NE¼ & NE¼ SE¼ 27-95-23.

State Supt. of Banking vs. S. S. Young, et al, Plff asks judgment on notes for $1018.29.

Federal Reserve Bank vs. S. S. Young, et al. Plff. asks judgment for $8300 & foreclosure of mtg. on lots 5-6-7, blk 4, Corwith.

Federal Reserve Bank, vs S. S. Young, et al, Plff asks judgment on note for $778.85.

Wm. E. Fillenwarth, vs. O. S. Bailey et al, Plff asks judgment on note for $927.47.

Chris Gillstrap, vs Judson Laughlin, Plff. asks judgment for $298.-96 & fore-closure of mechanics lien on lot 8 blk 10 Crystal Lake.

Chris Hanson vs. Mae Hanson, Plff asks that he be divorced from deft.

Thompson, Loth & Lowe ,vs Peter Cchreck et al, Plff asks judgment for $603.00.

Mrs. Ada Cole, vs. Max Bode, Plff. asks judgment for $475.00 and landlord's attachment.

Britt Lbr. Co., vs. J. G. Holck et al, Plff asks judgment on notes for $477.43.

F. R. Kopischke et al vs. W. R. Prewitt et al, Plff asks judgment for $9,495.00 & foreclosuie of mtg. on E½ SW¼ 28-97-23.

In the matter of the Guardianship of Chas. Krippell, an absentee.

H. Missman vs. J. C. Hanson, Plff. asks judgment for $356.44 for rent and note.

In the matter of the Guardianship of Mrs. Elizabeth Wolfe, a person of unsound mind.

Vincent Hardware Co., vs. Geo Morgan, Plff. asks judgment on note for $176.75.

Mrs. Cora A. Cook, vs. Fred A. Cook, Plff. ascks judgment on note for $176.75.

Paxton & Gallagher Co., vs John A Bailey, Plff asks judgment on account for 127.24.

J. H. Meyer, vs. A. J. Gosgrove, et al, Plff, asks judgment for $2000

First Nat. Bk, Garner vs. C. C. Locke, et al, Plff asks judgment for $254.35.

Union Bond & Mtg. Co. vs. Harvey Nelson et al, Plff asks judgment for $1309.80 & foreclosure of mtg. on W½ NE¼ 23 & S 60 a of E½ SE¼ 14-96-25.

Union Bond & Mtg. Co., vs. John A. Bailey et al, Plff asks j udgment for $1432.00 and foreclosure of mtg. on W½ SW¼ 22-96125.

John Suurballe, Co. Treas. vs. Plf asks judgment for $3116.89 for 19-20 taxes.

Mrs. L. E. Phillips vs. Ralph Whitney, Plff asks judgment for $2285 on account of auto accident.

F. A. Wright vs. Mamia Costello et al, Plff asks judgment for $604.-00 ond foreclosuree of mtg. on S½ NW¼ & NW¼ SW¼ 16-94-23.

Dwight A. Smith, vs. Elmer Smith Plff. asks judgment on notes for $146.76.

W. K. Skinner vs. Mrs. Cora Durant, Plff asks judgment for $400.00 on note.

Wesley Skinner vs. L. L. Coomes et al, Plff asks judgment for $13,-20 and foreclosure of mtg. on N½ SE¼ 19 & N½ NW¼ 20-97-23.

Otto Larson vs. Vane Malloy, Plff asks judgment for $7390.71 and foreclosure of mtg. on W½ SE¼ 1-97-24.

Therese Crasby et al vs. Antonie Radke, et al, Action to partition lots 1-2 blk 14, Tallmans add to Garner.

Ida Gruetzmacher, vs. Hancock Co. Agl. Society, Plff asks judgment on note for $1072.72 and foreclosure of mtg. on E½ SE¼ NE¼ 32-96-25.

State Supt. of Banking, vs. State Sav. Bk. Klemme et al, Plff asks judgment levying assessment against stockholders of State Sav. Bk, Klemme.

J. T. Jackson vs. Rankin Fish, Plf asks judgment on note for $1487.50

F. W. Senneff vs. John Fank et al Plff asks judgment for $110.00 on account of legal services.

Merchants Nat. Bk. Cedar Rapids vs. L. C. Mnlhous, Plff asks judgment on note for $1081.92.

Merchants Nat. Bk. Cedar Rapids vs C. S. Mayne, Plff asks judgment on note for 2124.94.

Merchants Nat. Bk, Cedar Rapids vs. Curtis H. Luick et al, Plff asks judgment on note for $1873.77.

Merchants Nat. Bk, Cedar Rapids vs. Geo. M. Luick, Plff asks judgment on note for $1560.31.

Merchants Nat. Bk, Cedar Rapids, vs. Herman Baack, et al. Plff asks judgment on note for $1059.87.

State Sav. Bk Ventura, vs. R. J. Brouwer, Plff asks judgment on note for $85.02.

A. E. Haes vs. Nellie M. Hanson et al, Plff asks judgment for $26.75 & foreclosure of mechanics lien on lots 4, blk 3, West Side add Garner.

MANY ARTICLES NOW MADE FROM THE IOWA CORN

Of the more than 200 products from corn the state department of agriculture has assembled some of the most important ones in an exhibit at the Iowa state fair.

These include the following: corn oil, corn syrup, corn molasses, sugar, vinegar gluten feed corn starch oil cake. corn dextrum corn starch. Products made out of corn cobs on display were the following: glue. paste, incense, punk, tarf formix acid, acetonee xyyose wood alcohol, paper and furfural.

Furfural is the chemical used in making dyes. During the war when it was not possible to secure German dyes furfural made from corn cobs was in big demand but now other materials are used in its manfuacture.

The immense sale of corn oil molasses and syrup in recent years has created a new market for corn. These products are now exported in large quantities. In America their use is most universal.

Samples of both the granulated and the brown sugar are in the display. The brown sugar from corn is entering more largely in the manufacture of candy and as a commercial sugar in other lines of manufacturing as the skill of the chemist in its extraction increases.

Manufacturers of food products are not only constantly on the lookout for some new article in their line to make up but are also seeking the most economical ingredients consistent with quality. Their zeal in fact has required the developement of the vast system of fool inspection, both fedral and state which has grown in recent years. Unscrupulous manufacturers who would substitute a poor ingredient in order to put out an article at a lower price have to be watched and the public protected.

Not a few of the products which can be made from corn are not commercially profitable, because similar products can be made more economically from other materials. Paper made from corn stalks is all right as to quality, but costs more than that made from wood pulp. Vinegar made from corn is decidely acid and does not have the flavor of the cidar vinegar made from apple processes.

A bushel of corn will make from 35 to 40 pounds of sugar good for commercial purposes, but the public has not accepted it for table use, since it is not as sweet as cane or beet sugar.

Much of the cider vinegar now is made from apple skins and cores, while the best part of the apple is canned. It is claimed that the best part of the apple for vinegar making

If you are going to have a public sale this fall or winter, get in touch with the Klemme Times for first class sale printing and advertising.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Robert Lucas to Mary Lucas, W. D. date 2-26.42, $1.00 lot 3 & W½ lot 2 blk 12Kiawha.

M. J. Mertz, wf to First M. E. Church, Woden, W. D. date 9-7-25, $1.00 lot 6 blk 2 Woden.

Anna C. Chapman et al to Ray W Babcock Q. C. D., date 9-10-25. $1. ½ int. in N½ S half, and N half NE¼ 26-97-25.

Ray W. Babcock to Anna G. Chapman Q. C. D. date 9-10-25, $1.00 Uni ½ int S½ S half & N half SE ¼ 26-97-25.

Trade Names

Ludeke & Fuller, Klemme, owners Henry A. Ludeke and Albert Fuller Klemme.

Garner Wrecking Co., owner Del la E. Engbert, Garner, Ia.

Sioux City which claims the distinction of being the honey center of the mid-west, will have to look to its laurels, because the claims of Kalona, Washington county. More than 100,000 pounds of honey have been produced there during the present season, and it is expected that 25,000 or 30,000 more pounds will be obtained. Three brothers, J. M. J. E., and L. F. Ginerich are the men who established the honey producing industry near Kalona. They have been in business sixteen years, and report that the yield this year is the largest that they have ever received In 1922, the highest previous year, the Ginerich brothers' bees produced 60,000 pounds, of honey from 430 stands. Honey from Kalona establishment is shipped all over the United States. Last year they shipped one fifteen ton shipment to Montgomery Ward & Co., of Chicago. The three men have 1,200 stands of bees in forty-eight different farmer's yards.

CORN BOTH BETTER AND WORSE

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 17—Iowa corn changed considerably in condition during August. Heavy rains helped greatly in the southwest counties; the drougth became more intense in the northwest; and the good eastern counties became better, except the hail belt from Poweshiek to Henry counties. The indicated average yield per acre for the state as a whole scarcely changed at all.

"About 900 reporters of the combined Federal and State crop reporting service estimate the yield at 40.48 bushels per acre, or a total production of 449,409.000 bushels," states the Iowa department of Agriculture.

Some damage resulted from the unprecedented heat and drouth of the first week in September. About half the the crop is now safe from thef rost. It looks as though there would be about 45 percent more corn in Iowa this year than last.

The New England of Education, published in Boston ,recently paid tribute to the prominent educators that a single Iowa township had furnished to the nation. English River township, Keokuk county, the article says, has given Iowa a state superintendent of schools, twelve county superintendents, and the country several city superintendents and principals of high schools and academies in several states. It has furnished president or professors of note to fifteen universities, colleges, and normal schools. They have been in service in the United States department of agriculture, in the United States bureau of education and in the state department of education of Pennsylvania and Iowa. In law, medicine, the ministry and statesmanship they have honored their inheritance of English River district's common sense of the common school.

Will Be Open Season on Pheasants This Fall

OPEN SEASON ON PHEASANTS SCHEDULED FOR NORTH IOWA

Northern Counties of the State Present Petitions

An open season on pheasants in 10 or 11 counties in northern Iowa is being planned by the state game department, J. P. Gibson, deputy game warden announced.

The season, which will probably be three days, will be held some time in November according to the views expressed by W. E. Albert state game warden, in a conservation with the Mason City man last week. The dates however, have not been set.

Among the counties entitled to the open season are Worth, Winnebago, Kossuth, Boyd, Franklin Butler Blackhawk Hancock and Hardin, according to Mr. Gibson. Each of these counties have come up to the specifications required by the state game laws in suppling a petition signed by 150 farmers.

"Mr. Albert contemplated giving each hunter a bag limit of 15 pheasants when I talked with him" said the deputy. "Whether this will be a three day season with a bag limit of three on each day has not been determined."

Deputy Game Warden J. A. Frech was a caller in Whittemore last week and stated that it was the intention of the state fish and game department to declare an open season on pheasant cocks, the dates to be set sometime in October.

Mr. Frech was in Des Moines last week conferring with department of ficials and reccommended to days of shooting, with but two birds to each hunter, but this was overruled by the head of the department, and it was decided to allow three days with a bag limit of three birds each day to each hunter. The birds shot must be male birds, the open season not applying to hens.

To Kill Over Supply

At present there are localities where there are about as many cocks as there are hens and it is to kill off this over supply of cocks that the open season will be declared. In localities where the cocks are numerous it is found that the birds fight continually and thus do not grow to be the fine birds found in localities where the cocks are not so numerous.

It is thought by the department heads, that if this over supply of cock is killed off, and thus the fighting will be stopped, that the result will be much stronger and healthier birds all over the state. In some localities in northern Iowa they have been considered quite a pest. It is thought that by allowing a short shooting season that the birds will be driven ou over larger territory and thus make conditions better all around.

It is expected that the open season will be declared in eleven counties—Kossuth, Humboldt, Wright, Hancock Winnebago Worth Cerro Gordo Franklin Butler, Mitchell, and Bremer—with a possibility that Black Hawk, Grundy and Hamilton, may be added. In no case will a county be opened up for shooting unless there is a petition presented to the department signed by 150 landowners of the county. By signing this petition a farmer does not obligate himself in any way to allow hunters to come on his place and shoot pheasants, as you cannot hunt on another fellow's property without his consent.

The shooting will be opened in all the counties listed at the same time. Opening one county at a time would prove disastrous to the pheasants in that county because the hunters would flock in from all over the state until all the cocks would have been killed.

The safest place in the world as regards accidents is thec abin of a big ocean steamship on theocean.

Next in safety comes a railroad train, and before long the flying machine will be safer than either.

The man in greatest danger is the fat man past middle age, eating heartily and hurriedly when he is tired. Don't insure him.

OBSERVE FIRE PREVENTION WEEK BY CLEANING UP PREMISES

FUNERAL OF MRS. BEN SWALVE AT 2:00 P. M. TODAY

Passed Away At Her Home Monday Afternoon After Short Illness

Mrs. Ben Swalve, age 63, passed away at her home here Monday afternoon after an illness of only a few hours.

Mrs. Swalve had not been in the best of heolth for some time but her condition was not thought to be of a serious nature, until she became viilently ill Monday at her home and Mr. Swalve called the children to the home as her condition became alarming.

The funeral services will be held today (Thursday) from the home at 1:30 o'clock and at the Reformed Church at 2:00 o'clock, Rev. A. A. Depping officiating.

The obituary will be published in the next issue of The Times.

REPORT OF HANCOCK NO. 3 COW TEST ASSOCIATION

265 cows were on test in the Hancock County No. 3 Cow Testing association for the month of August. Seven of these produced over 40 lbs. and thrre over 50 pounds butterfat. 68 cows were dry.

Innefficient skimming by separators caused a loss of $35.57. The high herd, owned by Fred Kothenbeutal made an average of 616.10 lbs. milk contoining 33.2 lbs. butterfat.

The High Cow was "Hazel" a Grade Holstein owned by Wm. Haberkamp. During the month of August she produced 1751.5 pounds milk and 75.3 lbs. fat. Fred Kothenbeutal's cow, "White Chin" a grade Guernsey was second high cow with a production of 948 lbs. milk and 56.9 lbs. butter fat.

The Following are the three high herds. (Eight cows or more in a herd.

Fred Kothenbeautals' 8 G. G. produced 616.1 pounds milk and 33.2 fat average.

V. A. Haberkamp's mixed herd of nine cows averaged 821.15 milk and 30.6 butterfat.

Other high averages were:

B. H. Katter, 7 P. B. H. ; 897.22 lbs. milk and 30.1, fat.

R. W. Elder, 5 G. H. and G. Sh. 732.22 milk; 28.3 fat.

M. W Sprole, 9 G G.; 666.15 milk; 27.3, fat.

Ben Goll; 7 G. H. and G. Sh.; 702. 32 milk, 27.2, fat.

John Bock; 12 G. H. and G. Sh.; 651.77 milk; 25.6 fot.

Victor Huenaman, 9 P. B. H. & G Sh.; 720.87, milk and 24.8 fat.

Harry A. Gibbs; P. B. and G J.; 597.06; 24.3 fat.

E. G. Beier 8 P. B. H. 684.71 milk 236 fat.

Chas. Haes. 5 G. M ; 68471 milk; 23.5 fat.

Wm. Bell. 13 G. G., G. H and G Sh; 592.1 milk and 23.4 fat.

The following are th ten high cows

"Hazel", G. H. owned by Wm. Haberkamp, produced 1751.5 milk and 75.3 fat.

"White Chin" G. G. owned by Fred Kothenbeutal produced 948.0 milk and 56.01 fat.

"Ayshire" a G. Ayr. owneo by Harry A. Gibbs; produced 1236.9 milk and 56.89 fat.

"White foot" a G. H. owned by Wm. Bell produced 1153.2 lbs. milk and 49.6 lbs. fat.

'Scarecrow" a G. G. owned by Fred Kothenbeutal, produced 917.6 milk and 46.8 lbs. fat

"Grace" a G. J. owned by Harry A Gibbs(produced 1066.4 milk and 45.8 fat.

'Beauty" a P. B. H. owned by Wm Haberkamp, 1165.6 milk and 45.5 fat.

"Snnnyside" a P. B. H. owned by B. H. Katter produced 1404.3 milk anl 42.1 fat.

"Fannie, G. H. owned by V. A. Haberkamp, produced 12927 milk 41.4 fat.

"Lizzie" a G. Sh. owned by Victor Huenaman produced 1072.6 milk and 40.8 fat.

Jis. Stritar, Official Tester.

OCT. 5 to 10 to BE FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Hammill Issues Proclamation Calling on State to Combat Fire

A proclamation by Governor Hammill naming October 5 to 10 as Fire Prevention week in Iowa Saturday called upon the people of the state to "be prepared to combat the fire demon," citing figures to show that Iowa's annual fire lass is in excess of $8,000,000 in property and one hundred lives.

'Most fires are causes by carelessness or ignorance and could be prevented by educating the people to habits of carefulness," Hammill's proclamation read. The proclamation called upon various organizations and civic bodies to join in help ing make Friday, October 9, the day set aside as educational day in the campaign, a success.

J. A. Tracey, state fire marshall said Saturday that there were 5,435 fires in 1924, and asked that during Fire Prevention week every family, business man and manufacturer inspect their premises remove all trash and repair heating plants, chimneys and pipes before cold weather begins.

May E. Francis, state superintendent of public instruction declared today that there are an average of five schoolhouse fires a day in the United States.

"Iowa contributes it share of this disgraceful ash heap," Miss Francis said. "I earnestly urge all school superintendents to co-operate in keeping this strong reminder before ever before the children."

RARE PEARLS, FABRICS TAKEN FROM OHIO MOUND

CHILLICOTHE, O, Sept. 12.—The oncoming autumn season with its uncertain weather conditions called a halt today to the excavations in the great Heip mound near Bainbridge, just as archaelogists announced they had made one of the greatest finds in the history of their explorations into the works of the American mound builders.

'Until next spring the three-foutrhs of the mound which has not yet been opened will retain the secret that has held for centuries. During the winter the curators of the Ohio Archaelogical and Historical society will study their findings of the last few days in the burial place of the Princess of the Pearls.

The skeletons of the four supposed princes were removed last night from the platform on which they have long rested, preparatory to the transfer to the society's museum in Columbus.

An ornament which is thought to be an instrument similar to the"pipes of Pan" will be studied. If the ornament turns out to be an instrument, it will be the first time any record of the mound builder's musical inclinations has been found.

The discovery of a piece of colored cloth in the mausoleum of the four supposed princes yeesterday wrote a new chapter in the endeavors of archeaologists, for cloth has never before been found in the mounds. Be sides the finding of the cloth, imprints of a canopy of fabric were found on the ceiling of the tomb.

The intact piece of fabric was found under a copper plate beneath the skull of one of the skeletons. It bore a circular design done in colors of tan, green, block and white. When exposed to the warm air the fabric began to crumble, but not before artists had sketched the design and it had been photoghaphed.

The early contention of the explorers that the four bodies had been shrouded in a fabric of pearls of varying sizes was borne out by yesterday's explorations. When the skeletons were lifted out from their resting places, it was found that they had lain on a layer of small pearls, all of them pierced as if they had been strung or woven together. Several quarts of pearls were swept up and stored away for transportation to the museum:

Nameless River

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company
WNU Service.

CHAPTER XVI—Continued

—15—

A little later Bossick knew all that Brand and the sheriff knew concerning the hidden passage that opened into Blue Stone, and he was softly profane with amazement.

Fair laughed.

"I've set a guard around the sheriff's house," he said, "put six of his cowboys on double shift. I knew they would find out that he is still alive and might try to finish the job—so he would never talk—Sky Line, I mean. And now, Mr. Bossick, I think we'd better go talk to Jermyn and the rest. I'm only sorry Selwood isn't able to be with us."

* * * * * * *

"This is a pretty bunch to bring back to me, Caldwell," said Kate Cathrew, tapping her foot with a whip, "one man disabled and another pounded into jelly. Who's this d—n stranger who's so handy with his gun?"

"Name's Smith," said the foreman sulkily, "and I'd better tell you right now, that Selwood isn't dead. He's alive and they're waiting for him to come round so he can—talk."

Cattle Kate's face flamed red.

"Not dead? Bring Provine here!"

But she would not wait as was her wont when summoning her men. She whirled and strode along the veranda to meet Provine who came in no good grace.

"I've a notion to kill you on the spot!" she cried furiously, "you fool bungler! Of all the crazy, wild, impossible things! Why didn't you get that man? The one person in the world who knew of the Flange and Rainbow's Pot behind! You let him get away!"

"Done my best," said the man evilly, "and to h—l with those who don't like it."

Quick as a flash the woman raised her whip and struck him.

With a roar he returned the blow, and Big Basford who had followed, leaped for him, clawing with his good hand, but Caldwell knocked Provine down instead.

"Take him away," said Kate Cathrew coldly, her hand at her cheek, "Lawrence Arnold will be here soon. I'll let him deal with this."

* * * * * * *

It was night again and the stars were hung like lanterns in the sky. The little wind was coming up the river, the little soft wind that Nance Allison loved.

Once more she sat in the doorway with Brand Fair beside her. There was no light on the table this time, so that she could not see his face with its quiet dark eyes, its thick hair above and the straight line of his lips with their gentle smile. But the feel of his arm against her own as he held the sleeping child, set up that nameless longing in her, the glowing glory of unknown joy which had become of late a sadness.

She was filled with vague sorrows and premonitions, as if, having found the priceless possession of this man's companionship, she was about to lose it.

It was not death wholly that she feared, but a more subtle thing, an inhibition of the spirit, a gulf that seemed to lie all shadowy between them—a dark, mysterious gulf wherein the imperious face of Kate Cathrew swirled amid the shadows.

But presently Fair spoke and she shook off her depressing forebodings.

"Nance," he said softly, so low that his deep voice was scarce more than a whisper, "I have wanted to tell you more of my life and Sonny's for a long time, but somehow it seemed too bad to add another's burdens to those which you already bear, even though vicariously. However, the time seems nearly ripe for me to reap the reward, one way or another, of those years of effort and hardship which I have spent running Kate Cathrew to earth. What this reward will be I don't know, of course. No one can foretell. The men of Sky Line are a hard bunch, criminals and worse. They'll never be dug out of that nest of theirs without a fight and a hard one. Somebody's going to be killed, that's certain!"

He heard the girl catch her breath in a little gasp, and shifting Sonny, he put his arm around her.

"However it does come out, there's one thing I want to tell you, a package I want to give you for safekeeping. Will you listen, Nance?"

The big girl nodded dumbly. Her heart was throbbing painfully, the breath labored in her lungs. A trembling set up along her muscles, and the stars seemed to dance on the black velvet of the sky.

Gently Fair leaned down until his face was against her cheek, tightened his clasp.

"I have been all over this land of ours," he said presently, "and in some several others. I have met many women—of many classes. I have been no saint and no great sinner. But always in my secret heart there has been a place all swept and garnished—and empty, Nance.

"Since the day in Blue Stone canyon when I first beheld you rocking the child in your lap—this secret place has been gloriously full. Nance—Nance—I have been like a worshiper without, laying my forehead to the sill. All the things I have dreamed of I find in you—the strength, the sweetness, the courage. You are beautiful as few women in this world are beautiful—and you are too good for any man. But I—have dared to love you."

He ceased and turned his lips against her cheek.

For Nance Allison the stars were singing together at the dawn of creation, the glory of the spheres had appeared before her.

"Answer me, girl," said Brand Fair tremulously, "tell me what's in your heart."

"I—I—" said Nance, "I—think it is the light from the open gates of Paradise—the smile of God Himself—because I am so happy!"

"Sonny, old-timer," said Fair, "here's where you take a back seat for once," and he rolled the child, still sleeping like the healthy little animal he was, over on the floor.

* * * * * * *

When the man arose to go some aeons later he gave Nance the package which he had taken from a pocket.

"Keep it, sweetheart," he said, "and open it if—anything happens to me. It contains information vital to Sonny's life and future—the address of the New York lawyer who knows all my affairs and his, and also copies of the proof he holds which can send Cattle Kate and Arnold and all their lot behind the bars for life. Take it straight to Sheriff Selwood if you have to act for me, and if he is alive and conscious. If not, Bossick will do in his stead. He's a good man. There's a picture in that package. Nance—the face of Sonny's mother. But I'm not figuring that you'll have any call to open it—not by a long shot. This is all by way of wise precaution, you know. Now give me one more kiss."

Brand Fair rode away and the girl he left upon the cabin's step was too far adrift on the seas of happiness to realize that he had not told her the one thing vital—who was Sonny's father?

CHAPTER XVII

The Face in the Package.

At last Nance Allison knew the meaning of the great light that seemed to glow upon all the world of the Deep Heart hills.

Instinct awoke in her and she beheld the face of love.

Abasement seized her.

What was she in her loneliness and poverty, that such a man as Brand Fair might find her worthy?

What had she ever done of valor that one might admire her?

She had merely been a drudge, working out her soul to carry on her father's dreams of empire, to hold fast the place which he had left to her and hers.

She had only labored and stood firm, watching with anguished eyes the fruits of those labors being destroyed—she had made no effort to strike back at her enemies.

And despite all this, Brand Fair loved her!

Loved her and had laid his lips to hers in the first love-kiss of her life!

Verily was she blessed beyond all reason and she lifted up her heart in praise.

It was a holy night she spent upon her knees in the soft darkness with her work-hardened hands clasped on the ancient coverlet and the long gold lashes trembling and wet upon her cheeks. It was an offertory, an adoration and a covenant.

She felt the hours pass with benediction.

At the first gray light she lifted her face and with a smile at her lips' corners she murmured the ancient words of David's immortal thanksgiving:

"The King shall joy in Thy strength, Oh, Lord; and in Thy salvation how greatly shall he rejoice! For Thou hast made him most blessed forever; Thou hast made him exceeding glad with Thy countenance. Thou hast given him the desire of his heart. Selah."

"Mammy," she said at breakfast, "I've got to tell you something—you and Bud."

There was a soft radiance about her long blue eyes, a helpless surrender to the smiles that would keep coming on her features.

Her mother looked on her calmly.

"Well?" she said.

But over Bed's young face there passed a spasm of pain.

"You needn't tell it," he said sharply, "we know—don't we, mammy? It's Brand—"

"Sure, we know, Nance, honey," said Mrs. Allison gently, "an' we want to tell you, Bud an' I, how plumb happy we are—how glad we are to see happiness come to the best daughter, the best sister, two people ever had on this here earth. Ain't we, Buddy?"

The boy swallowed once, then looked at Nance and smiled.

It was not the least courageous thing he was ever to accomplish, that smile, and his mother knew it, for he adored the girl, and she had been his only playmate all his life.

But at his mother's subtle words jealousy died and love stepped back triumphantly.

"We sure are, Sis," he said and kissed her on the cheek.

The child slept late that morning. Perhaps he had been more or less disturbed by Nance's wakefulness. She stepped to the bedroom door once and looked at him, but left him there.

"We might as well sit down," she said, "he's fast asleep yet and I can feed him when he does get up."

They talked gayly all through the meal, reviewing the wonder that had come to Nance, and it seemed a new future was opening before them all.

"Brand seems like one of us already," said Mrs. Allison, "an' I think with joy what a help he'll be to you an' Bud—th' land is rich an' will keep us all in plenty with a man like him to manage an' to stand between us an' Sky Line. An' he's like your pappy was—kind an' still, a strength an' a hope for us. If Bud is willin' we'll offer him share an' share."

"Sure," said the boy decidedly.

When he had once capitulated Bud stood firm, wholeheartedly backing his decision.

"I just don't seem able to grasp it all," said Nance happily, "it seems like our whole life has changed overnight. There is light where darkness was, hope again where I'd about given it up—and now we'll never have to give up Sonny."

"That's so!" cried Mrs. Allison, "an' I hadn't thought of that. Never seemed like we would any way—bless him."

"Me?" asked a fresh little voice from the doorway, and the child stood there, rumple-headed, in his small nightgown made from flour sacks. The faded red lettering still stood frankly out across his diminutive stomach.

"Yes—you," said Nance, "come here to your own Nance."

Sonny sidled in, holding up the hindering garment with one hand, the other shut over some small article.

As Nance lifted him to her lap he laid this on the table's edge.

"See," he said, "the pretty lady. She

Cattle Kate Cathrew Sat on the Broad Veranda at Sky Line. She Was Clad Like a Sybarite.

was in a bundle on your bed—where'd you get her, Nance?"

And Nance Allison looked down into the pictured face of—Cattle Kate Cathrew.

For a moment the laughter still drew her lips, the soft light of happiness still illumined her eyes.

Then the light and the laughter were erased from her features as if an invisible hand had wiped them.

In their place came first a blankness, an incredulity—then, as realization and memory struck home to her brain, the anguish of death itself swept across her face.

She stared with dilating pupils at the small picture.

"Nance!" cried her mother, "Nance!"

She raised her eyes and looked at Mrs. Allison and the latter felt a chill of fear.

"Take—Sonny, Bud," she said slowly, "and get his clothes."

Bud, tactful and quiet, did as she asked, and when she was alone with her mother the girl held out the picture.

"Brand told me—last night," she said haltingly, "that a package he gave me—to open in case anything happened—to him—held the face of—of—of Sonny's mother. This is Cattle Kate Cathrew."

"My good Lord A'mighty!" ejaculated Mrs. Allison.

Nance nodded.

"Then—who's his—father?"

"Who d'you suppose, Mammy?" asked the girl miserably, "I'm afriad it's Brand—the man who says he loves me!"

The gaunt old mother came round the table and put an unaccustomed arm about her daughter's shoulders. Caresses were rare with her.

"No," she said decidedly, "Brand Fair ain't a deceiver. I'd stake a lot on that. I feel to trust him, honey. Whatever is wrong in this terrible tangle, it ain't Brand—an' you can take your old mammy's word on that."

The girl straightened her shoulders, lifted her head.

"I do trust him, Mammy," she said gallantly, "whatever has happened in the past I know it has not made him a liar—and I feel to be ashamed of myself."

"Needn't," said Mrs. Allison succinctly, "it's natural—th' age-old instinct of jealousy. Come down from our naked ancestors when th' man was th' feed-getter an' th' woman fought with tooth an' nail if another female hove in sight. You'd like to go right out now an' scratch that woman's eyes out, wouldn't you?"

A sickly smile trembled on Nance's lips.

"I guess I would," she said unsteadily, "because—you see—if—if she's his wife—why—he can't take another."

"There's divorce laws in this country, ain't there? How do you know she's his wife now?"

"Mammy," said Nance gratefully, "you're the most wonderful woman I ever knew! You've got more reason than a houseful of lawyers. And I'm going to take heart right now. I'll put this picture away in the package and wait till Brand is ready to tell me all about it—and I'll stand steady in my love and my faith."

"That's my big girl!" said the mother, "now get to work at something. It's th' best cure-all on earth."

* * * * * * *

Cattle Kate Cathrew sat on the broad veranda at Sky Line. She was clad like a sybarite, in shining satin. Rings sparkled on her fingers, lights sparkled in her hard eyes, a close-held excitement was visible in her whole appearance. She looked down across the vast green-clad slopes of Mystery and held her breath that she might the better listen for a sound in the stillness.

For she was waiting for the writer of those letters, the man from New York who came at regular intervals to bask in the peace of Sky Line—for Lawrence Arnold himself.

It had been months since she had seen him, and the passion in her was surging like molten lava.

She was in a trance of expectation, as exquisite as the fullest realization. She had been so ever since the departure at early dawn of Provine with a led horse—none other than Bluefire whose proud back no one but this man ever crossed, except herself.

For three hours she had sat in the rustic rocker like a graven image, her hands spread on the broad arms, her immaculate black head seemingly at rest against the back.

And not a soul at Sky Line would have disturbed her.

From a distant corral where he tinkered at some trivial task Big Basford watched her with wild red eyes. At these times the man was a savage who would have killed Arnold joyfully had the thing been possible. Minnie Pine, busy at the kitchen window, watched him.

"The Black Devil is in hell, Josefa," she said guardedly, "he knows the master's coming—and that the boss will lie in his arms."

"He pays for his sins," said Josefa calmly, "which is more than the others do."

"Rod," returned the half-breed, "has no sins."

"He-ugh! He-ugh!" laughed the old woman, "so says the young fool because she loves him."

"I know what I know," said Minnie, "the Blue Eyes has a clean heart. One sin, maybe, yes—or two, maybe—but he sits sometimes with his head in his hands, and he mourns—like our people for death. He says it is for death—death of a man's honor killed by mistake. I know, for I've sat with him then—and he has put his face in my neck."

There was a high beauty about the simple words and the ancient dame looked at the girl with understanding. For a moment the cynicism was absent.

"You speak truth," she said softly, "the man is a stranger to these others. Also he is of a white heart. He should have been a Pomo chief in the old days."

Noon came and passed and Kate Cathrew did not eat.

She watched the sun drop over toward the west, the pine shadows turn on the slopes.

And then, far down, she caught the sound of hoofs and rose straight up from her chair, one hand on her thundering heart. The action was her only concession to the fierce emotion which was eating her. When Sud Provine came out of the pines below with Bluefire and his rider in convoy she was seated again in the broad-armed rocker, to all intents as calm as moonlight on snow.

Lawrence Arnold dismounted stiffly and handed the rein to Provine, then raised his eyes and looked at her.

Over his white-skinned, aquiline features there passed a smile of the coolest understanding.

He knew the volcano covered in and shut from sight under this woman's cool exterior—this woman who was his woman.

Cattle Kate rose languidly and came to meet him and her brilliant eyes returned the understanding to the nth degree—they were full of passion, of promise.

"Man," she said under her breath, as their hands met, "Oh, man! It's been so long!"

That was all for the prying eyes that compassed them.

They entered the house and Minnie Pine served the meal which had been waiting and which was the best Sky Line could produce, and afterward Lawrence Arnold reclined on a blanket-covered couch in the living room and smoked in smiling peace.

There was a step at the door, and a dusty rider stood there.

"Want to report," he said, "that I've just come up the Pipe and I found tracks—brushed out—at the mouth in Blue Stone—there were two men on foot. No hoof marks. They looked in behind the willows."

Kate Cathrew rose straight up to her feet.

"H—l's fire!" she said.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Set Civilization Back

The Vandals were a Teutonic race formerly inhabiting the southern shores of the Baltic, who, about the beginning of the Fifth century, ravaged Gaul and overran Spain and northern Africa. In 455 they pillaged the city of Rome, mercilessly despoiling it of its treasures of art, literature and civilization. The Vandals established themselves in northern Africa, but their kingdom was overthrown in 533 by Belisarius.

Hawaii Not Entitled to Credit for "Uke"

The ukulele, so long associated with the weird, plaintive music of Hawaii, is not an Hawaiian invention, but was introduced in the islands by the Portuguese in 1879. This iconoclastic discovery was made during recent researches by Miss Helen M. Roberts, who made a collection of ancient native songs and music for the territorial government.

"Ukulele" is the common term for "flea" and means, literally, "little thing that jumps." The musical instrument obtained its name from Edward Purvis, at one time vice chamberlain of the court of King Kalakaua, a very slight and active man, who became a very efficient performer on the Portuguese instrument.

Miss Roberts ascertained her facts by inquiries among elderly Portuguese residents of Honolulu.

Some Bucket of Water

Robert M. Seebree alleges in a suit for $3,000 damages against the Missouri Pacific that the station mistress at Nearman, Mo., threw a bucket of water out of the station door.

That the water scared a mule tied to the rear of his wagon.

That the mule then kicked a horse tied beside it.

That the horse then reared, scaring another horse hitched to his wagon.

That the latter horse then ran away.

That before it was stopped he was thrown from the wagon and his leg was broken.

One of the defenses of the railroad is that the water was dishwater. Therefore, it was not used in scrubbing the station and the railroad is not responsible for the long chain of circumstances alleged by Seebree.

COLOR IT NEW WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye.

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanen colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings—everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Handy Building Platform

In building operations, a great deal of time and labor is expended in building and moving scaffolds. As a means of reducing this labor and expense and to enable work to be done at an building of a scaffold, a vehicular extenInaccessible elevation without the building of a scaffold, a vehicular extension support has been patented. It consists of a platform on wheels which may be easily raised or lowered. Even when extended to its greatest height, it may be propelled by hand or electric power and steered to any position. Collapsible when not in use, it occupies little space.

His Business Size

Two of his friends were discussing Dick, as friends will. "I hear," remarked one, "that Dick is doing a big business." There was a silence, as there often is under such circumstances. "Well, isn't he?" persisted the first friend. There was another silence and then the second friend replied: "A big business? I'd hardly say that, but he's doing a near-mahogany desk-size business."

Cuticura for Pimply Faces.

To remove pimples and blackheads smear them with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Once clear keep your skin clear by using them for daily toilet purposes. Don't fail to include Cuticura Talcum. Advertisement.

Grounds of Divorces

"On what grounds did she get her divorce?"

"Chicago, I believe."

The average doctor is seldom inclined to leave well enough alone.

AFTER EVERY MEAL WRIGLEY'S makes your food do you more good.

Note how it relieves that stuffy feeling after hearty eating.

Sweetens the breath, removes food particles from the teeth, gives new vigor to tired nerves.

Comes to you fresh, clean and full-flavored.

P 123

QUALITY for 70 years

Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.

Reid, Murdoch & Co. Chicago, U. S. A.
Boston, Pittsburgh, New York

Crop Money and Colt Light

Your splendid crops for 1925 should mean a Fall and Winter of comfort.

Colt Light will insure the comfort and safety of your home for many years to come.

You owe it to your family to provide this Best Lighting and cooking system this Fall.

Your Thanksgiving celebration will be the best ever if you act now!

Address nearest branch office for information.

J. B. COLT COMPANY
1005 Monadnock Block, CHICAGO, ILL.
718 New York Life Bldg., KANSAS CITY, MO.
"COLT LIGHT IS SUNLIGHT"

Practically Impossible to wear them out- USKIDE Soles

The Wonder Sole for Wear.
SEE YOUR REPAIRMAN TODAY
Also Demand USKIDE Soles on New Shoes
United States Rubber Company

ABSORBINE
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Reduces Strained, Puffy Ankles, Lymphangitis, Poll Evil, Fistula, Boils, Swellings; Stops Lameness and allays pain. Heals Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Boot Chafes. It is a

Safe Antiseptic and Germicide

Does not blister or remove the hair and horse can be worked. Pleasant to use. $2.50 a bottle, delivered. Describe your case for special instructions and Book 5 A free.

W. F. Young, Inc., 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 38–1925.

Enthusiasm in the wrong place is gush; as a matter out of place is dirt.

The secret of good bread: Yeast Foam

"I made it all myself"

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

PE-RU-NA

for STOMACH CATARRH

Tablets or Liquid
Sold Everywhere

Are You Ready?

Are you ready to enjoy social duties, sports or recreations?

If not try HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters, for over seventy years noted as a wholesome tonic, appetizer and corrective.

At All Druggists

The Hostetter Company Pittsburgh, Pa.

Sales Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc. New York

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Silence Not Always Good

There may be times when silence is gold, and speech silver; but there are times, also, when silence is death, and speech is life—the very life of Pentecost.—Max Miller.

Genuine BAYER

ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer"-Insist!

For Colds Headache
Pain Lumbago
Neuralgia Rheumatism

Safe → Accept only a Bayer package

which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Three Generations Find Beecham's Pills the Only Remedy

"I have a very weak stomach, and Beecham's Pills are about the only laxative I can take that does not nauseate me.

"I have also found them beneficial to my children. One especially, who inherited her mother's weak stomach. There is no remedy I value as much as Beecham's Pills. I have tried others without success."

Mrs. A. HUMPHRIES
Methuen, Mass.

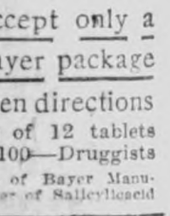
For FREE SAMPLE—write B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal Street, New York

Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

For constipation, biliousness, sick headaches and other digestive ailments take

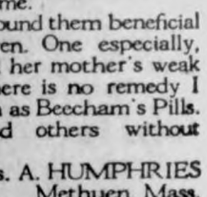
Beecham's Pills

Don't be annoyed by ugly blemishes, when red, irritated, blotchy skins can be quickly cleared by



Resinol

Quick Safe Relief



CORNS

In one minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns. At drug and shoe stores

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

PLAN BIG WEEK AT OMAHA CONVENTION

Horse races, a rodeo, a street fair, a play, "What Price Glory," banquets, a football game, airplane races, the Ak-Sar-Ben $75,000 electrical display, a parade of 10,000 regulars, military demonstrations, fireworks—these are some of the entertainment features planned for the great American Legion convention to be held in Omaha October 5 to 9.

The tentative program as announced by the Omaha convention committee, with possibly a few changes, follows:

Monday—Street fair; horse racing at Ak-Sar-Ben field; rodeo at baseball park; reception for all visiting women; Ak-Sar-Ben initiation for men; states dinner (Auxiliary); dancing; "What Price Glory" every day.

Tuesday—Addresses; street fair; addresses by distinguished visitors; American Legion parade, 100,000 in line; rodeo; Ak-Sar-Ben den for men; banquets; Eighty-ninth division dinner; Wisconsin night, Creighton gymnasium.

Wednesday—Street fair; business meeting and memorial; Eighty-ninth division services; football, Creighton vs. Colorado; horse races; Auxiliary drill teams contest, Ak-Sar-Ben field; airplane races, municipal field; reception to women Legionnaires; Ak-Sar-Ben parade; Forty and Eight initiation; dancing.

Thursday, Military Day—Street fair; military parade, 10,000 regular soldiers of Seventh army corps; military demonstrations, Fontenelle park, Old Happy Hollow club, Ak-Sar-Ben field; rodeo; horse racing; Forty and Eight promenade; fireworks at Ak-Sar-Ben field, originally planned for Coolidge inauguration; finals in band contest in which 250 bands participate; finals in drum and bugle contests in which 750 drum and bugle corps participate.

Friday—Tour of city; dedication of war mothers' memorial; horse racing; tea for Auxiliaries; street dancing, Jackson, Douglas, Lake streets, every night; display of captured German cannon, Capitol avenue and Sixteenth to Twentieth streets; United States exhibits, naval, marine, air, coast guard, signal, ordnance, medical, chemical warfare, engineers, air mail, Red Cross; golf and swimming; contests, rifle, pistol, trap shooting, male quartette, Auxiliary drill teams, drum and bugle corps, bands.

Discover Communism Is Taught in Schools

Investigation is being made of a report that schools for training communistic workers and missionaries are being conducted in this country, according to announcement made recently by Frank Clay Cross, national director of the Americanism commission of the American Legion. Such schools have been conducted at several localities over the country during the present summer, reports laid before the Legion commission indicate.

A special subcommittee was appointed to carry on the investigation for the commission. Its members are: Frank Sieh, Aberdeen, S. D., chairman; John B. Jessup, Wilmington, Del., and John Bullington, Belleville, Ill.

One school is the center of a special investigation by the committee. Fifty students are said to have been in training at this school, to be sent back to their communities and schools to spread communistic propaganda. The students are reported to have come from three states. That the doctrines of communism are being taught, Hayes, the instructor, admitted. Raising of the red flag in the United States is being openly advocated, according to reports. "The Constitution of the United States is the product of fraud," is a part of the curriculum of the Red schools.

Reports to the commission indicated that Soviet Russia has recently sent into the United States $360,000 for communistic propaganda. The commission reaffirmed its opposition to the Bolshevist regime in Russia by the government of the United States.

Four Cities Seeking National Conventions

Florida wants the 1928 national convention of the American Legion. This was learned at the recent semi-annual conference of Legion officials at Orlando where the decision was made to bid for the 1928 meeting.

Miami was the unanimous selection by the real estaters as their candidate for the convention. It is understood that the Miami Chamber of Commerce is ready to pledge $50,000 immediately for entertaining the convention and will put up as much more as may be necessary to provide royally for it.

Philadelphia seems to be the popular choice for the 1926 convention city. The Quakers are seeking the 1926 meeting as a feature of the sesquicentennial celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Paris, France, is widely favored for the 1927 convention. The project of meeting there is being investigated as to its feasibility. The French government will welcome the conclave with pleasure.

Community Building

City Man Has to Cope With Much Discomfort

The high cost of living in a big city, the noise, the smoke and other discomforts are largely responsible for the phenomenal growth during the last ten years of the suburban zones around all large American cities. High land values in the city and high taxes have contributed toward making high rents. These factors are less important in the suburbs. In the cities the police frequently are unable to cope with crime. A city resident cannot always feel safe on the streets after dark or feel certain of the safety of members of his family. In the suburbs he has little cause for worry. If the city man is dependent on street cars or elevated cars for transportation between his home and office he must either live close to his place of business or in a locality that may be undesirable or spend an unnecessarily long time on the cars. A suburban home 25 miles from the city may be closer in actual time spent in travel than a city apartment half of that distance from the downtown area. Most cities have grown faster than their intra-mural transportation facilities; but the man who drives to and from work in an automobile is not much better off unless he can afford a chauffeur or can get down to work and back home before the rush hour.

Vacant Lot Usually More Than Eyesore

Every city has vacant lots. They are a part of the landscape, and lie singly or in pairs or in triplets and other numbers between houses. Vacant lots were meant to have houses built on them. Oftentimes, instead, they lie idle to grow up in weeds. While they are growing up in weeds they also are accumulating taxes and interest, which the owner has to pay. He doesn't wish to sell the lot at a loss and sometimes he doesn't wish to hold it any longer. In addition to growing weeds, a lot may be a convenient dumping ground for the neighbors. The absence of a lot would compel them to put their grass cuttings, tin cans and shrubbery trimmings out for the refuse men to take away. Sometimes, rather than carry ashes to the street front or the alley to be hauled away by the ashes collector, people will dump them on a vacant lot. Then when building operations begin, the ashes, tin cans, broken bricks, old furnace pipe, dead shrubbery, old shoes, old rubbers, etc., must be hauled away by the builder or turned under to furnish further trouble for the house buyer when he starts to dig a garden or flower bed.

Buried Town Hoodoo

At Daytona, Fla., a group of town boosters had a big ceremony on the beach and resolved thenceforth to devote their every effort to promote the welfare of their town and country. They decided never to neglect a civic responsibility, whether that of voting, making true tax returns, supporting the best man for the public job or giving whole-hearted encouragement to the officials who are elected. In token of this they brought out an effigy of the familiar American alibi of "Let George Do It," and after mauling the figure all over the beach, buried it in a grave most wide and deep. It remains to be seen how long this conversion to a better manner of civic life will last. If it endures, other communities could try the plan, to their advantage.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Ford Sees Coming Change

"The modern city has done its work and a change is coming," Henry Ford said, in a recent interview. "The city has taught us much, but the overhead expense of living in such places is becoming unbearable. The cost of maintaining interest on debts, of keeping up water supply, sewage and sanitary systems, the cost of traffic control and of policing great masses of people is so great as to offset the benefits of the city. Industry of the future will be organized on a big scale, but competition will force it to move to parts of the country where labor is steady and overhead costs are low. Instead of making the man come to the city, we will take the work to him in the country."

Home Owning

In a few brief generations men have broken the chains that made the serf the slave of the land, and have made the land the servant of the freeman. He who neglects his opportunity, dearly bought by his predecessors, to shelter his loved ones under his own roof, is sadly like the man who fails to open his umbrella in the rain.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Alaska and Hawaii

The territories of Alaska and Hawaii are represented in congress by one delegate each. These delegates have the right to speak on the floor of the house of representatives, but have no vote. Of the other dependencies, the Philippines and Porto Rico have representatives with similar privileges. These are called resident commissioners, and Porto Rico sends one to Washington and the Philippines two. The commissioners do not vote. All of the territories and possessions have prohibition.

Adrift With Humor

GETTING SERIOUS

"Look here," commanded the traffic cop, "if you're the driver of the car that knocked down this old lady, you're under arrest."

"Wot's the matter?" asked the hardened motorist, in surprise. "Ain't it all right?"

"Oh, sure; but you parked too long after the accident."—American Legion Weekly.

Had Things Mixed

A city man called upon another and, after a glance around the establishment, inquired:

"How's your new office boy getting along?"

"Fine!" was the reply. "He's got things so mixed up that I can't get along without him."

THE LARGEST EXPENSE

Business Partner—Jim, your expenses are immense. You ought to cut off the largest of them.

Jim—Sam, are you advising me to get a divorce?

Cowcatcher as a Churn

The cow stood on the railroad track
A-looking at the sky.
Down the track came the limited;
Oh, see the pretty butterfly.

In Spirit Only

Co—Don't you think Connie looks spirituelle in that gown?

Edna—Well, I'll admit there is not much of the material about her.—DePauw Yellow Crab.

AN EARNEST STUDENT

"Yes, sir, the more I study about this great universe of ours the less I know!"

"You must be an earnest student indeed."

Too Much to Expect

An epitaph must not include
A trace of criticism rude.
So who shall lead a life by half
Deserving of his epitaph?

More Retractions

Mary—I took your advice, mum, and wrote to tell him I didn't mean what I said in my last letter.

Mistress—What did you say in your last letter?

Mary—That I didn't mean what I said in the one before.

Had Been Hardened

Mistress—So you are leaving me to go and work at an asylum, Jane. Do you think you'll be able to stand the strain?

Maid—Well, madam, I've been here for two years.

Thus Shutting Him Up

First Deaf Mute—What's the matter with Dumboy's hand?

The Other One—An accident he had at the club last night. Broke two fingers telling dialect stories.

His Pride

Mrs. Brewer—Mrs. O'Sly says she has never caught her husband in a lie.

Mr. Brewer—Yes, and O'Sly goes around blowing about it.

Wasn't It Sad!

"Would you believe it, we had only been married two days when my husband received a letter informing him that he had won the big prize in the lottery."

"What, only two days too late? That's what I call bad luck."—Stray Stories.

Most Likely

"Why are door nails so dead, paw?"

"They are hit on the head, son, and get in beyond their depth."

MRS. BORGELIN'S REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Gives Credit for Restored Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. All Women Interested

MRS. OSCAR F. BORGELIN
FOREST CITY, IOWA

Forest City, Iowa.—"My first child lived only a short time and I was sick for a year after. When I bent over and raised myself up again I could almost scream with pain in my back. One day I was so bad that I had to leave my washing and get ready to go to the doctor. He gave me medicine, but it did no more good than if I drank just water. Once when we had been in town a little book telling about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was left in our car. I have taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound now and I do all my housework and help with the milking, and taking care of chickens and garden. Besides I have a fine baby girl eight months old, just the picture of health, and I am feeling fine myself. You may use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer any letters asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. OSCAR F. BORGELIN, Route No. 5, Forest City, Iowa.

A Bad Case of Nerves Relieved

Denver, Colorado.—"I was very despondent, blue and sad all the time, which is worse than real pain, and extremely nervous, with no appetite. I was this way for about two years and thought no one cared for me. My mother had had the same trouble and had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it. I tried everything else, then I began to take it. I soon had a better appetite and restored mental condition. I moved to a bright, sunny house, began calling on different people, and changed many other things. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash for my female weakness. With the aid of your medicines I am now a fairly healthy, happy and contented woman. I've used the Vegetable Compound at different times and will say it always helps me over the bad spells that come to every woman past 40 years."—Mrs. HELEN FINE, 35 South Washington Street, Denver, Colorado.

Japs Extend Phones

In a plan to improve the telephone system of the country the government of Japan plans to install 50,000 telephones and 10,000 miles of new toll lines within the next five years.

It is not an uncommon thing for the good to go to the bad; otherwise there would be no missionaries.

Russia Gets Into Line

The telephone system throughout Russia is to be brought up to the American standard, according to plans completed by the Soviet government, which call for an ultimate expenditure of more than $100,000,000. Large American companies have been asked by the Soviet companies to co-operate in the project.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Big American Industry

The manufacture of boots and shoes is pre-eminently an American industry, due largely to the predominance of American inventions, methods and machinery. Since 1870 imports of footwear to the United States have been almost negligible. In 1924, 263,014,000 pairs of shoes were manufactured in this country.

Dancing Old as Race

The oldest people known to have inhabited the earth had forms of dancing not unlike those which still exist. The first ballet, however, was given in Italy in 1439, and was introduced into France a century after.

God sendeth and giveth both mouth and the meat.—Tusser.

In bed four months ... now a well man

Gives Tanlac full credit.

*Over twelve years of stomach misery had made a physical wreck of Jacob Ferdinand. He spent hundreds of dollars seeking relief but every attempt failed until he tried Tanlac.

This great tonic brought him immediate relief. "After seven bottles," he says, "I am a well and happy man. I will gladly talk to anyone personally and will answer all letters regarding my experience with Tanlac. For it proved a god-send to me."

*Authentic statement. Address on request.

Tanlac is Nature's great Tonic and builder. Compounded after the famous Tanlac formula, from roots, barks and curative herbs alone, it is absolutely harmless. Millions owe their health and happiness to this great remedy.

Don't let stomach trouble make your life miserable a day longer. Get a bottle of Tanlac at your druggist's at once. The first dose will make you feel better. You'll be a new person with the sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks that come from perfect health.

NOTE: For Constipation, take Tanlac Vegetable Pills, Nature's own harmless laxative.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

SCHOOL NEWS ITEMS

Schools of Hancock County are closed this week-end for the annual County Institute which is being held at Britt on Thursday and Friday. This will permit school children to attend the County Fair at Britt at the same time without loss of time at school.

Tickets are available for every child of school age enrolled with us for admission to the County Fair on Thursday or Friday of this week. Those who may not have been in attendance on Wednesday to receive them may get them at Mr. Wilson's Drug Store.

We received a friendly call from our County Superintendent, Mr. J. R. Baggs, on Monday evening of this week.

Miss Thompson, teacher of grades 5 and 6, is pleased with an addition to her room in the form of a bookcase recently installed.. Miss Abel, our Home Economics instructor, welcomes the screens provided her room, and as other windows have been screened we should be annoyed less by flies this season than in preceding years.

Our High School Boys Base Ball team crossed bats with Corwith High School on Wednesday of this week with the following results:—Klemme 3, Corwith 6. This was the first high school game of the season. The local boys were a little lame on hitting. Corwith made a good showing with their pitcher who had a lot of speed and good control.

Last week they defeated the town team by 8 to 5. We appreciate the encouragement the local fans are giving our high school team by their attendance and practice with them. We appreciate, too, the sacrifice the boys' parents are making in sparing them for the frequent practice necessary to a winning team.

Mr. Gary, our orchestra leader, has been meeting the members of the high school orchestra at his own home. Favorable reports have been given us on his work. We believe we may expect some good ensemble work from his organization this year.

Our congenial janitor gave us the surprise of the school year thus far in departing for a neighboring state under the pretense of attending a big state fair and coming home with a lady on his arm. We wish him the best there is and can truthfully say Mrs. Patet, we believe, has done well. We are told also that Mr. Patet has made a good choice.

If our pupils were not singing it they were at least thinking the words of the old song, "How Dry I Am," on Monday when the city water was turned off for most of the day during the time repair work was being done on the city water plant.

IOWA BUTTER WINS AT OREGON SHOW

Randall, Iowa, Sept. 17.— Iowa buttermakers have not lost their ability to make first-class butter, according to information which has been received by the Iowa Department of Agriculture from the show which is being held by the National Buttrmakers Association at Portland, Oregon.

The preliminary scores show that the Randall Creamery will receive a gold medal for having the highest scoring cold storage tub of butter. L. E. Nelson is the buttermaker who will receive the high honor. The winning of this prize will help Iowa retain the championship banner which they have held for three years.

Iowa's consumption of cigarettes during August reached approximately 75,000 smokes, according to he estimate of Ray Johnson, treasured of state. Thi is 5,000,000 more than in August 1924. Johnson's estimate is based on the state cigarette tax revenue which amounted to more than $75,000 in August of this year.

Super Power

THE new Philco Drynamic Battery is the highest-powered battery, plate for plate, ever built for starting a car. This means quicker starts—greater protection against hand-cranking ordeals.

The life of a Philco Drynamic Battery doesn't start till you get the battery. This means you get its full life—therefore longer and far more economical service from your battery.

Let us safeguard you against the embarrassments and dangers of battery failure by installing your Philco now.

Pavey's
STORMIZING SHOP
PHILCO DIAMOND GRID BATTERIES

Silo Filling

And Your Meat

SILO FILLING TIME is at hand and we want to remind you that we have the MEATS for those big dinners the busy lady of the house is preparing:—

CHOICE BEEF ROASTS—
CHOICE PORK ROASTS—
WHOLE or HALF HAMS—
JUICY STEAKS—
VERY BEST PORK CHOPS—
SMOKED MEATS of all kinds—

Other Items Fir The Table——

CHEESE—we carry a large variety.
HEINZ "57"—try some of the best.
PORK & BEANS.
CATSUP, MUTARD, Etc.
MEAT SAUCES andRELISHES.
PEANUT BUTTER, Etc.
COLD MEATS OF ALL KINDS.
Full line of PICKLED MEATS.

Klemme Meat Market

News Of Goodell and Vicinity By Times Correspondent

Miss Sromer is the new teacher in the Avery Center school.

J. W. Griggs spent several days at his cottage at Elm Bend He was accompanied by Lew Avery

Lew Remer did the repair work and painting of Avery Center School house.

Mrs. Eliza Cashman entertained relatives from Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gosnold of Fort Dodge spent Sunday at the Lamer home.

Mr. Matson is enjoying a visit from his daughter Mildred and little son of Indianapolis.

School started Monday September 7, with a good attendance and a full set of new teachers.

Mr. McNutt substituted in the Post Office Saturday, Mrs. Lamer being ill.

Lew Avery and daughted Mardel were Garner callers.

Mr. Tierney and Mr. Fritch of Garner were transacting business in Goodell Friday.

The school children will have two more holidays this week, it being Fair time and Teacher's institute at Britt.

Francis Mason and Jay Griggs returned from their Minnesota fishing trip Tuesday.

Mrs. Houghton and Mrs. Harberts were at Hampton to see Mrs. Joe Houghton who is in the hospital there.

Dorothy Allaben and Esther Harberts are attending college at Cedar Falls.

The Boren family have returned from their Wisconsin visit.

Clarence Wiles of Ames was transacting business here Saturday.

Mr. Allie and Joe Houghton were visiting their sick folks in the Hampton Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Chase were called to Garner by the death of the former's grandmother, Mrs. Griffen who suddenly passed away Saturday morning.

THE OTHER NINE HOURS

Going back to school looms large in the minds of most youngsters these days. Their state of mind seems about that of the school kids of a generation age—they'd rather play out doors.

Most parents although it scarcely seems credible, accept the child's judgment in this matter. That is, they decide that summer, the playtime being over it is school that will be the big thing from now until next June.

A child should have nine hours sleep. That leaves 15 waking hours in every day. Of these about six are spent in school. Parents, what are your children of school age doing in the remaining nine hours?

Let's hope they are playing romping, getting into a little mischief now and then, getting scolded and spanked, loved and hugged, eating plenty and eating it slowly, going to bed at night dog-tired.

Those nine hours are the "social hours". Inthem the child learns the lessons of living. While in school, a boy or girl is more or less automaton, receivng lessons and digesting them more or less perfectly.

It is the boy or girl who is too Sheep Run, mumble-peg, marbles, or jack straws that they are learning how to get along with their playmates. They are adjusting themselves to social life. They are becoming citizens of society.

ItIt is the boy or girl who is too much alone, whether in a corner with a fairy story book or plugging away at home study, who is failing to learn the true lessons that school age should teach. The teachers look out for six hours of our children's time every day. Let us pay some attention to the nine other waking hours.

Shape of Egg Is No Index to Sex

Poultry Breeder Must Rely Solely on Mother Nature for Square Deal.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If you are one of the many who believe that the long, slim, heavy hen eggs are the ones which hatch out the male chicks, and that the smaller eggs are the ones which give birth to the future layers of the flock, you need to revise your opinion on the matter, says the United States Department of Agriculture. You may as well leave your tape measure, scales, calipers, and other units at home when you go forth to purchase a "setting of eggs" from your poultry breeder, and rely solely on Mother Nature to give you a fifty-fifty deal in the matter of sex.

Can't Determine Sex.

In answer to the continuous stream of inquiries pouring into the department office relative to determining the sex of the chick in the shell by the size, shape, or weight of the egg, the department says "it just isn't being done." That is, not in a practical way, at least. The scientist is able to identify the sex of a chick in the shell after seven or eight days of incubation, however.

Because of the important bearing on the practical aspects of the poultry industry which the ability to select hatching eggs according to the sex desired would have, if such were possible, a number of investigators have made studies concerning the sex-ratio situation in the domestic fowl. Recently Dr. M. A. Jull, poultry husbandman of the United States Department of Agriculture, completed some observations in which he concludes that there is no correlation between the length, shape, or weight of the egg and the sex of the chick hatched from it. He has also made studies to determine whether or not there is a correlation between the weight of the egg yolk and the sex of the chick, or between the yolk water-content and sex ratio, with the same negative result.

Number of Eggs Counts.

It has been determined, however, says Doctor Jull, that the greater the number of eggs which a hen lays before being put into the breeding pen, the larger will be the proportion of females and the smaller the proportion of males produced by her eggs. The practical poultryman may be able to take advantage of this fact to some extent by making his selection of eggs for hatching with reference to the hen's period of production.

Sweet Clover Cause of Serious Cattle Trouble

The Minnesota experiment station has discovered that when sweet clover hay is fed in large quantities to cattle, it occasionally causes serious trouble. In fact, when two yearling heifers were fed on an exclusive diet of sweet clover hay both of them died in a little over a month. Death appeared to be caused by internal bleeding. It seems, however, when sweet clover hay is fed in connection with other roughages, that it is safe. Sweet clover pasture seems to be perfectly safe, except for occasional bloating of the same sort that bothers with clover and alfalfa.

IOWA VIGILANCE PLAN IS A MODEL

Reports reaching the office of Frank Warner, secretary of the Iowa Bankers association, indicate that the Iowa Vigilance committee plan which has been in operation here for some time is spreading to other states.

This spring and summer the Illinois Bankers association has taken over the work. Last year there were 72 bank robberies in the state of Illinois with a total loss of $347,000 Illinois bankers are paying $6 a thousand for daylight holdup insurance while bankers in Iowa pay but $1 a thousand. There has not been a single bank robbery or attempt in eastern Iowa since 1921 when the vigilance committees killed two bank robbers in Scott county.

A letter from the state of Kansas states that 3,500 Vililantes haveal-ready been selected and trained there already, planning the work, after the Iowa system.

Oklamoha is another state putting the vigilance committte plan in operation.

Calling them "County Rangers" the state of Minnesota is backing a similar movement.

A total of 88 counties in the state oif Illinois have been organized under the plan originally adopted in this state.

Wisconsin and a number of counties in southern Caifornia have asked for information about the plan from the Iowa Bankers Association.

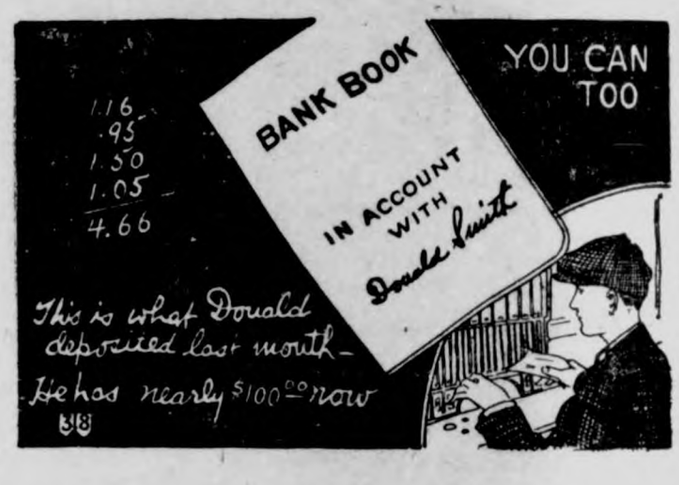
A compilation of figures here shows that the average Iowa bank pays $50 a year fo rinsurance against daylight holdups, while Indiana and Kansas banks pay an average of $150 a year. Missouri banks pay $200 a year, Illinois $300 and Oklahoma banks must pay an average of $700 a year for protection.

Lissen Judge, thems mournful numbers,
A heavy fine, if I must pay,
Honest Judge, I wasn't speedin',
My old car ain't built that way.

Great Britain is in worse shape than we realize. A news dispatch says the aristocracy over there has the ukele craze.

DR. R. E. PORTER
CHIROPRACTOR
..Every Day — Open Evenings..
Office at John Lieuwen Residence
Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa



The Savings Habit

It is a source of pleasure and satisfaction to have your children learn to save. This habit is a fine thing—a habit that may sway the future of your boy or girl.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

Do You Want Rent Only Or some interest in Addition On Your Money?

If rent only satisfies you and you want some one else to use your money and receive the invstment profit while paying you rent, then accept 3½ % or 4% for your money. But if you want the legitimate and conservative profit your money should bring then invest it yourself and receive 7%.

The difference between 4% and 7% repre sents the investment profit.
THIE amounts to $30 per year on $1,000.

If you want this extra $30.00 per year then invest in our 7% Preferred Stock.

It is, and has been for years paying others the extra $30.00.

It will pay you to investigate the 7% Pre ferred investment. You will find it backed by unusually strong property value and earning pow er that the company has for years consistently paid Dividends on its Stock, that it is issued fully paid; non-assessable; exempt from Iowa Taxes; and Free from all Normal Federal Income Tax.

And in addition to these advantages, the busi ness is essential, the Company does a cash business, it is protected by the laws of the State, it is doing business all the time, day and night, and is as much a part of your community as your own home.

Why continue losing money by not getting the worth of your savings?

Let us GIVE YOU THE FACTS concerning our Money Saving Investment.

Securities Department
Central States Electric Company
Cedar Rapids, Iowa 215 S. 2nd St.

e your news to 12, The Times.

. Zeiger, of Garner, was a s caller in Klemme Friday.

White and family were at City Saturday on business.

illing is in full swing in this the country.

Byers, of Garner, was here ness yesterday.

Will Lemke went to the at Hampton last week Thurs- an operation.

ge Albers and family were at City on business Saturday af- n.

Gimer and family drove to

E OF APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR

ce is Hereby Given, That the igned has been duly appoint- d qualified as Administrator Estate of Jantji Albers, de- late of Hancock County, All persons indebted to the are requested to make im- e payment; and those having against the same will present duly authenticated, to the un- ned, for allowance.
d at Garner, Iowa, this 27th August, 1925.
be Albers, Administrator, Wickman & Hastings, his At- orneys. S-17

Nashua Sunday to visit the Little Brown Church.

Mrs. W. F. Pavey was on the sick list a number of days the past week but at this time is much improved.

Rev. Gauger enjoyed a visit Saturday from his sister, Mrs. Bartz, of Rudd, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bachman and daughter, Lela, were visiting ot Mason City Saturday.

Miss Pauline Blackstone, of Garner, was calling on Klemme friends Saturday.

KLEMME MARKETS

Wednesday, Sept. 16, 1925

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.31
Shelled Corn	.74—.80
Ear Corn	.75
Rye	.75—.80
Barley	.60
Hogs, top	13.60
Eggs (Cash)	.27
Eggs (trade)	.28
Heavy Hens	.19
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.18
Leghorn Springs	.15
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butterfat	.48
Butter (Creamery)	.47

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Mrs. Hattie Lanahan visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Musfelt at Clarion Sunday.

C. G. Waterman is percolating around in a new Buick Six coach that he purchased Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Courshon of North Dakota, were visitors at the home of J. J. Poort, Saturday.

Arthur Larsen has been quite ill the past week. His many little friends hope for his speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gruetzmacher drove to Des Moines Monday for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Espe.

M. O. Hocum, of Iowa Falls, was a business caller in Klemme last Friday.

J. N. Day and family and Wm. Smith and family drove to Austin, Minnesota Sunday. J. N. has a farm near Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis drove to Good Thunder, Minn., Sunday for a visit at the Henry Yahnke home.

The new city water tank was connected up Monday evening. The city water can now be supplied from the two large tanks.

John Fuller went to Garden City, Minn., Tuesday to do the fall plowing on the farm which his father, Albert Fuller has rented. The Fuller family will move to the Minnesota farm later.

Mrs. R. W. Elder and son, Clarence, and daughter, Reva, and Grandma Elder were visiting with Mason City friends Saturday afternoon.

Ludeke & Fuller are running the sorghum factory full blast now and are turning out a mighty fine grade of pure cane sorghum.

"Butch" Schroeder and wife drove in from Chicago last Thursday evening for a few days visit with Grandma Schroeder and other relatives.

HOGS ARE MONEY—Big Sale Oct. 3. 75 head Poland China and Chester White boars and Gilts. R. C. Ludeke, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

Dr. D. P. Anderson, Miss Geneva Schuldt and Frank Gibbs visited the Little Brown Church at Nashua last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and son, Buster, accompanied by Mrs. P. M. Wilson and daughter, Gladys, were Mason City visitors Saturday morning.

Meyer's POISON KERNELS are convenient to use; require no mixing are not dangerous to cats and dogs; cannot be carried by rats like poison placed on chunks of meat. For sale at Wilson's Pharmacy. 1tp

A family re-union and picnic was enjoyed at Buffalo Center Sunday by the Yahnke, Elder, Fuller and the Palmby families. All had a good time according to the report of the Klemme tribes who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Titus Davis and two grandsons, Sheldon and David Stiers of Lincoln, Nebr., and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Chapman of Kansas City, Mo., drove in Tuesday afternoon for a week's visit at the R. A. Jorgenson home. The former are Mrs. Jorgenson's parents and Mrs. Chapman is her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. "Zip" McCullough left in their car early Monday morning headed for Florida as their destination. They will take plenty of time to get there and will camp out on the way. They expect to return to Klemme in the spring and are making the trip in hopes of benefiting "Zip's" health. The barber shop is in charge of Mr. Harry Rust.

Last week the Klemme Times was thirty years old and we stated that the first person to call at the office and prove they had been a reader of the paper continuosly since the publication of the first issue would be given a year's subscription free. There were three persons so close in the race that we decided to give each of the three a reward each. Walt Bloom and Frank Gruetzmacher both came through the office door together and nearly got stuck in the door frame getting in first and were tied for honors. Mrs. A. Kirkwood used a better method and called The Times by phone. She has never missed reading an issue of the paper in thirty years, and is a winner.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus entertained a number of relatives and friends at their Clear Lake cottage Sunday. Those who were there are Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, of Swea City, and C. G. Waterman and family and W. C. Keraus and family of this place.

Mrs. Fred Shipley, of Belmond, was visiting at the home of Grandma Schroeder Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Shipley are proprietors of the hotel at Belmond now and have made many improvements since they purchased the building some time ago. Fred is a former Klemme man as at one time he was the editor of The Times.

THEY'RE MARRIED NOW!

Emil Patet and Emma Sampson Married Last Week at St. Paul

Mr. Emil Patet and Miss Emma Sampson quietly left town last week to take in the fair at St. Paul and it was while there that they were married. Rev. Wm. Koerner, of St. Paul tied the knot last Wednesday, September 9th and Mr. and Mrs. Patet spent a few days at the fair and returned to Klemme Friday and began house-keeping in the rooms over the J. N. Day store. The secret kept until Monday and that evening a big charivari crowd furnished the usual tin-can music until the bride and groom appeared for congratulations and—refreshments.

The Times joins with their many friends in extending best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Patet.

Card Of Thanks

Through this medium we wish to thank those who so kindly helped us during our bereavement, the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother, also for the beautiful floral offerings and the kind words of sympathy.

Henry Beier and Children.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
A. W. Gauger, Pastor

Our last Quarterly Conference will be held on Thursday evening of this week in the church in Klemme. Dr. Bushnell, our District Superintendent will preside.

This meeting includes all ogicial members of both Klemme and Liberty, the Presidents of the W. F. M. S., the President of the Ladies Aid and the Superintendents of the Childrens work. All are requested to be present and be ready to give report of the year's work. The meeting begins at 8:00 o'clock.

Next Sunday we will celebrate the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the morning service in Klemme. All Christians will welcome this as a means of grace and as an opportunity to give expression of their loyalty to Christ the great Head of the Church.

IDLE HOUR THEATRE NEWS

Saturday night, Sept. 19 we have one of the most widely talked of pictures of the season—Elinor Glyn in "THREE WEEK." Don't miss this if you want to see something sensational.

The Spat Family in "Hunters Bold," a Hal Roach comedy also on the program.

Get the movie habit!

IOWA'S CORN

"Iowa's corn crop is worth more than the products of all the gold mines of thec ountry," states the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

The Iowac orn crop represents 14 percent of the total corn produced in United States and is almost twice as large as that of any other country.

Forty-five per cent of Iowa's corn crop is fed to hogs, 14 percent to cattle and 11 per cent to horsesandmules . It furnishes the backbone of the livestock industry of the state. 20 percent of the crop is sold and furnishes one of the most important articles of trade.

Iowa's corn is a stream of gold, which carries new wealth from the fertile soils of Iowa to bring prosperity and happiness to the people of the state.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

August3, 1925.

Regular meeting of the town council held at the Mayor's office, Lester Stille and Wm. Smith, members of council absent.

Motion made and seconded to allow the following bills:

Benn J. Coobs; Aug. Salary.	$75.00
First. National Bank; Interest Coupons	15.00
Standard Oil Co.,; Gasoline	19.27
Central States Elec. Co., Street lights	29.90
Frank G. Pierce, Sec.; Dues	10.00
Henry Suckow, Jr. Additional Insurance	21.67
Lloyd Lau; Dray	4.55
Harry Gram; Dray	2.25
Klemme Times; Pub. Council Proccedings	3.09
Klemme Band; Memorial Day Expense	10.00
E. F. Jacobs; Supplies	41.96

Bills allowed.

Meeting adjourned.

A. J. Kudje, Clerk

NOTICE—The town council of Klemme of Hancock County, Iowa, will meet September 28, 1925, at 8:00 P. M., at the Town Hall. Taxpayers will be heard for or against the following estimate of expenditures at that time.

A. J. KUDJE, Town Clerk.

	1 Expenditures Est. 1926	2 Balance on hand	3 Income Other Sources 1926	4 Taxes to be raised	5 Expenditures for Year 1924	6 Expenditures for Year 1923
FUNDS
General	1,600.00	150.00	600.00	1,000.00	1,409.50	2,928.12
Grading						1.00
Sewer	500.00			500.00
Waterworks	1,100.00	100.00	600.00	500.00	917.67	556.33
Light	500.00	100.00		500.00	573.41	604.80
Bonds					4,965.00	2,348.25
Water Bonds	800.00	300.00		800.00
Cemetery						56.46
Sewage Disposal	500.00			500.00
City Hall—Park		200.00			255.37	158.00
City Bldg. and Fire Sta.		130.00			6.65
Anticipated Levies:
Band	2 Mills			2 Mills
Sewer Bond	10,500.00		4,000.00	6,500.00	2.794.10	7,145.08
Int. on Bond	1,500.00			1,500.00	75.16	75.16
Sewer Outlet and Purifying Bond	500.00	100.00		500.00
Other Funds:
Sewer Fdg. Bond		500.00
TOTALS	17,500.00	1,580.00	5,200.00	12,300.00	10,996.86	13,873.20

Estimated Taxes per $1,000 of assessed value $17.00.

The Cash Store

FALL IS HERE and it is time to think of warmer clothes for the chilly mornings and evenings. You will find just what you are in need of in the line of:—

SWEATERS and LEATHER JACKETS

OVERCOATS—have some real bargains

SWEATERS—for the kiddies to wear to school—in the new styles and shades.

Come in and see our line and be convinced of good quality at LOW PRICES.

Special for Saturday

ood Cookies, per lb. 22c

—AT—

no. N. Day's Cash Store

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

FADA RADIO

FADA stands today as the first radio receiver specifically built for the reception of modern broadcasting.

SELECTIVITY is the first definite advantage of FADA receivers. The dials are set at predetermined points and only the one station selected can be heard.

CLARITY is the second point of FADA superiority. FADA receivers create no squawks or whistles to disturb the neighbors.

DISTANCE is the third FADA advantage. The radio waves from distant stations are brought in with unusual volume.

DEPENDABILITY is the fourth and perhaps the greatest of FADA features. FADA is the set of no apologies; the set of no alibis.

BEAUTY in FADA cabinet design is the product of skilled craftsmanship poured into the mould of distinction.

And there is a FADA receiver to fit every taste and pocketbook.

Come in and see the FADA, hear it and note its quality throughout. We will be glad to demonstrate for you.

H. LAU SONS

American-Chinese

Bears' Feet as

Olympia, Wash.—Chinese fa... the curative qualities of portions a bear's anatomy has resulted in se...

Now Showing

Latest Fall Styles

Ladies coats and Dresses
New Millinery Styles
Latest in Dress Goods
New Patterns in Dry Goods
Men and Boys Suits and O'coats
Shoes for the whole Family

Everything new at rock-bottom prices

Chas. Abraham & Sons

COMMANDER RODGERS' OWN STORY OF FLIGHT

Praises Crew of PN-9, No. 1, in Modest Narrative of 9-Day Drift in Pacific.

Honolulu.—Commander John Rodgers of the navy seaplane PN-9, No. 1, issued his first official statement of the attempt to span the Pacific in a non-stop flight from San Francisco to the Hawaiian islands.

In an extemporary report, dedicated to "the American people," Commander Rodgers chronicled the experiences and trials gone through by himself and crew of four men since the plane took off from the waters of San Francisco bay, August 31.

By COMMANDER JOHN RODGERS
[In command of navy seaplane PN-9, No. 1.]

For the benefit of the interested public, I desire ot make at this time a definite statement of facts in regard to the voyage of the P-N9, No. 1, from San Francisco to Nawiliwili.

The PN-9, No. 1 and No. 3, left San Francisco approximately at the same time on August 31. The PN-9, No. 3, was not sighted by No. 1 after departure. Plane PN-9 No. 1, proceeded as per instructions, sailing on a straight course to Kahului.

The navigation was done entirely by dead reckoning, no attention being paid to radio bearings.

The engines worked perfectly. In the morning it became evident that the gasoline supply was running short and it would be doubtful if we could reach Kahului. I therefore decided to land at the Aroostook,

I started to write a message which would give her some clue ot our whereabouts but just then the gasoline gave out. Both engines were cut out simultaneously and we started to glide from about 800 feet.

Lieutenant Connell, who had the contacts, made a beautiful landing in the heavy swells, both engines being dead, having no power. Due to total expenditure of gasoline, we could not use radio and were therefore out of communication at twilight. I determined our position to be fifty miles north of the Aroostook's station.

We rigged a radio antennae on the plane and received without much difficulty everything that was in the air. We sailed before the wind, endeavoring to work the plane in toward the Hawaiian islands, hoping to make Oahu. We made fifty miles a day.

We knew we could get along with our food, of which we had small emergency rations. We were depending on a small water still for water.

This supplied water, but the still required gasoline as fuel. We managed to get the still going on the sixth day by burning wood from the trailing edges of the lower wings. On the seventh day we made a canteen and a half of water in about five hours.

On the eighth day a heavy rain squall passed over us and we caught about two gallons in the fabric which had been cut from the lower wings. This enabled us to survive.

All during the trip we realized that an extemporized radio sending set would solve our difficulties in a few hours by giving our position to the search ships. We tried rigging one up, bat were unable to make one which worked a sufficient distance. The receiver, as I have said, functioned perfectly all the time. We knew just what was going on about us.

Crossing the steamer lane from Honolulu to the coast a steamer crossed our bow about five miles ahead, in the early morning. Due probably to the fact that the sun was low and directly in the eyes of observers, we were not seen.

We passed Oahu at about 40 miles distance, the island being clearly visible, the afternoon of the eighth, and headed and close hauled for Kauai. We had reached a point about 15 miles off Nawiliwili and were trying to signal that port when we were sighted by the patrolling submarine, ten miles of Nawiliwili, were taken in tow and towed into the harbor, where the whole island greeted us.

The most exciting part of the whole journey was getting the plane anchored safe in the harbor of Nawiliwili. Finally we got it well secured in a safe place and went ashore. We were taken care of by the good people of the island, who insisted on treating us as invalids, whereas, as a matter of fact, we were in very good shape and perfectly capable of taking care of ourselves.

We believe the PN-9 is a great plane in the air, capable of maintaining itself on the surface of the water in ordinary weather almost indefinitely.

The morale of the crew was high. As a matter of fact it appears from what we heard after our arrival that we were the least concerned people in the world as to our safety.

I wish to say finally that as Hawaiian flight commander I was fully supported by all units of the navy.

Coolidge for U. S. Ship Sales

Washington. — President Coolidge has indicated that what he prefers most in solving the marine problem is the speedy sale of United States vessels to private interests with the provision they fly the American flag.

Former Congressman Dies

Washington.—Patrick H. Kelley, former congressman from Michigan, died here after a lingering illness. He served five terms in congress from 1913 to 1923.

COMMANDER RODGERS

(©, International.)

Commander John Rodgers, who was in command of the crew of the navy seaplane PN-9 No. 1, which was saved by a submarine ten miles off Nawiliwili, Hawaii, after drifting eight days in the Pacific.

COOLIDGE GETS TAX CUT AND BUDGET DATA

Mellon Shows Reduction of $400,000,000 Possible.

Washington.—One of the first tasks undertaken by the President after his return to Washington was to tackle the problem of tax reduction and the national budget. Treasury department figures prepared for Secretary Mellon have been put in approximately final form, both on expected receipts and disbursements for the fiscal years 1926 and 1927 and on the working out of various suggested plans of tax reduction.

These figures are under consideration by the President and will guide him in the final draft of the sections of his message to congress dealing with the national budget and tax reduction.

The first cabinet meeting for several weeks was held. Secretary Mellon attended and he had an estimate on the sums involved. In addition, he was prepared to discuss the proposals for tax reduction put forward during the congressional recess.

One of the most important developments involved was the condition of the treasury. There is every indication that the balance for the present fiscal year will be larger than expected. As a result the administration's recommendations or suggestions to the ways and means and finance committees may contemplate a tax reduction of at least $400,000,000 and perhaps as much as $500,000,000.

A cut of 50 per cent in surtax rates right down the line, with a maximum of 20 per cent, will be recommended.

It will be suggested that the nuisance taxes be largely abolished and that the unprofitable tax on smaller incomes be eliminated.

Plane Commander Rodgers' Family Joyful Over Rescue

Havre de Grace, Md.—Members of the family of Commander John Rodgers of the seaplane PN-9 No. 1 were overcome when informed that the entire crew of the plane had been found alive and well.

Robert Rodgers, brother of the commander, expressed the family's relief and happiness.

"We had always been optimistic," Mr. Rodgers declared, however, adding that the commander's mother had been the most hopeful of all the family. Rear Admiral John A. Rodgers, U. S. N., retired, father of Commander Rodgers, the brother said, was the least optimistic, knowing better than the others the condtions faced by the aviators.

Ex-Convict Arrested as "Bank Examiner" Bandit

Bloomington, Ill.—Harry Funk, ex-convict, was arrested in Urbana and identified as the man who, posing as a bank examiner, robbed the Farmers' bank at Chenoa of $184,000 last January.

It is said Funk has nearly $100,000 safely deposited.

Funk was identified by J. F. Kelle., president of the bank, which was sent to the wall by the robbery, as the "Mr. Andrews, examiner," who with his pal "inspected" the bank's books and then roobed it.

Coolidges End Vacation; President and Wife Tanned

Washington. — Washington people who saw President Coolidge upon his return from eleven weeks at Swampscott were impressed by his trim physical appearance.

He had acquired just a bit of tan. He walked with a springy gait. He seemed healthy and happy.

But he didn't put on a pound at Swampscott. He tipped the scales at 162.

Mrs. Coolidge was as brown as a berry.

Ford Bid for Ships Likely

Washington.—A bid for the purchase of four shipping board passenger and freight ships of the Pan-American lines is expected to be submitted by Henry Ford, it was announced following conference of officials.

Bryan Memorial Meeting

Washington.—A conference on plans for the erection of a memorial to the late William Jennings Bryan was held by friends of the "Commoner." Josephus Daniels was present.

Southern Farmers in Washington for Ideas

Farmers from the vicinity of Salisbury, N. C., make a tour of inspection in their automobiles early each fall, securing information and ideas in farming from their brethren in neighboring states. Here is a group listening to a lecture by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dunlap, who greeted them when they called at the Department of Agriculture in Washington.

Vienna Troops Dispersing Anti-Zionist Rioters

This is the first photograph to reach America showing the rioting in the streets of Vienna which was caused by the assembling there of the Zionist congress. The military dispersed the mobs and arrested many persons.

Novel Room in Cincinnati Home

Breakfast room in the new home of R. K. LeBland in Cincinnati, Ohio. The home cost $700,000, and has an original interior decorating scheme, done by Louis Kuertz, artistic cement worker. Kuertz, with mud molds, transformed an ordinary room into a beautiful mountain scene with miniature lakelet into which trickle little streams wending their way through the miniature mountains made of cement.

Survivor Explains the Catastrophe

Lieut. W. L. Richardson, chief aerial photographer on board the ill-fated Shenandoah, was the first survivor to return to Washington with an eyewitness story of the catastrophe. Photograph shows Lieutenant Richardson explaining to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur how the disaster occurred.

HE WINS CONSUELO

Above are pictured Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, and Earl E. T. Smith, son of Mrs. C. Whitney Carpenter. They are to be married after the holidays, very likely early in January. Mr. Smith is a junior at Yale. Miss Vanderbilt is a sister of Muriel Vanderbilt who a few weeks ago married F. Cameron Church.

YOUNG DOUG HONORED

Douglas ... famous ... Prin... pa...

U. S. REPORTS YIELD OF CORN IS REDU

Forecast Indicates Crop 2,885,000,000 Bu.—Wh... Oats Show Gain.

Washington.—The indicated ... yield has been reduced by 6... bushels in the last month as a ... of drought and continued hea... cording to the government ... made here, which placed the ... able crop at 2,885,000,000 b... The estimate was 2,950,000,00... previous month and 2,437,000,... the same month of 1924.

The crip is extremely spotted ... the reduction of 42,000,000 bush... South Dakota and 9,000,000 ... each in Minnesota and Illinois ... Illinois the total of 378,982,000 ... surprise in view of recent pess... reports. The Iowa crop was ... unchanged, while the Ohio es... was raised 9,600,000 bushels, ... ing a record yield for that ... Nebraska's estimate was inc... 13,500,000 bushels and that of ... sas, 7,000,000.

Gains of 21,000,000 bushels in ... wheat, 75,000,000 bushels in oats ... 8,000,000 bushels in barley were ... ported, with the gain for the five ... ing grains 37,000,000 bushels ... August, raising the total to 5,2... 000. This is an increase of 473,0... bushels as compared with 1924.

Based on the prices prevailing ... September delivery of wheat, ... rye, and barley at Chicago and ... cember delivery on corn, the five ... ing grains have a valuation of $... 000,000 as of September 1.

The winter wheat crop is 416,0... bushels and the total of all ... 700,000,000 bushels compared ... 873,000,000 bushels harvested ... year, which is also the five-year ... age. Late oats are yielding much ... ter than was expected, and the ... mated crop is now 1,462,000,000 ... els, an increase of 75,000,000 bu... This crop figure has been exc... only four times in the country's ... tory. The harvest last year ... 1,542,000,000.

Navy Chiefs Happy Over Rescue of Seaplane C...

Washington.—Officials of the ... department were deeply stirred by ... news that the officers and men o... seaplane PN-9 No. 1 had been f... in the Pacific alive.

"Thank God for that," exc... Secretary Wilbur when apprised ... the telephone of the rescue.

Admiral Eberle, chief of operat... made this statement:

"It is wonderful news. It is ... fine. I can hardly find words t... press my gratification."

San Francisco.—Capt. E. Sta... Moses, U. S. N., the man who ... charge of preparations for the ... Francisco-Pearl Harbor sea... flight, was so overcome with em... by news of the finding of the ... of the PN-9 No. 1 that he begg... be excused from making a state...

President Coolidge Has Attack of Hay Fe...

Washington.—President Coolid... suffering from a severe head ... which his physicians say is a ... of hay fever. He caught the pr... cold while returning from Salem, ... has visited his physician twice ... his return.

While on his vacation these ... to which he is subject, did not ap... The salt air and absence of dust ... vented their recurrence. If his ... dition does not improve the Pres... will spend the week-ends on the ... flower, it was said.

Negroes Kill White Man in Race Riot at Det...

Detroit, Mich.—Leon Briener ... shot and killed and Eric Hou... was shot and seriously injured ... riot in the residential section. ... trouble started when a negro f... moved into a section previously li... ited only by white persons. The ... shot were white.

Several thousand persons ... ered around the house, but mad... attempt to injure the property. ... negroes, seeing the persons on... opened fire, witnesses stated.

More People but Less Money in United St...

Washington.—A Treasury de... ment estimate made public here ... the population of the United S... on September 1 at 114,340,000, a... 112,922,000 September 1, 1924. E... sive of funds held by the treasury ... Federal Reserve banks, money in ... culation the first of the month ... $4,784,024,000, an increase for t... months of $10,146,000. The per ... ita circulation, however, show... falling off, being only $41.84, as ... pared with $42.28 a year ago.

Predicts Cold Weathe...

Middleton, N. Y.—Caterpillars, ... corn and rabbits are getting ready ... a cold winter, according to Harv... Dill, a close student of the wea... Heavy snowfall and severe cold ... indicated, he says.

Heads Federal Employe...

Boston. — The National Federa... Federal Employees, in conve... elected Luther C. Stewart ... Mo., over Howard ... its president.

ells of Flight Made to Morocco

my Officer Describes Trip aken by France's Leaders to War Zone

ashington.—"The recent spectacu- journey by airplane of Marshal in from France to Morocco to take eme command of the French s fighting in that country, and the ar air voyage of Premier Pain- to look into the political aspects e war, were over one of the most resque air routes of southern Eu- " says a bulletin from the Wash- n headquarters of the National graphic society.

e bulletin quotes as follows from mmunication to the society from t. J. Parker Van Zandt, U. S. Army service, who covered this route, ing from Toulouse, France:

n answering roar from the engines e throttle was advanced, wheels ing through the deep dew-laden s, tail poised for flight—and I was n what was destined to prove my memorable air ride in Europe.

Mediterranean Appears.

he gentle valley of the Garonne sleeping under a fleecy sheet of fog. Like a child's ribbon, the l lay curled at the base of the fur- d hills, a solemn double row of ars guarding its banks. The black d of the railroad now ran close de it, now struck out boldly across rich farm land toward where the y narrowed before the encroach- Pyrenees.

half hour passes. We dodge ugh a winding pass ahead, swing he east again, and abruptly there s before us a glorious picture of breaking day. The walled city of assonne slips by, sharply etched ght and shadow, and the glistening rs of the Mediterranean appear d. As we swing by the eastern s of the Pyrenees, the clouds that seemed so black and ominous over- d now appear snow-white, soft, va- us, streaming south.

A Sun-Baked Land.

erpignan lies in a fertile valley at eastern foot of the Pyrenees, and we make our first landing, one from Toulouse, to pick up the from Marseille. The connecting e has arrived before us with an- r passenger, a young Frenchman military clothing samples for his ts among the fonctionnaires at t.

t is noon and we are approaching nte, 6,000 feet above a tangle of y slopes bordering the sea. Sun- d white huts cling precariously to idges. Terraces, burnt dry, strug- up the hillsides. On our right the ntains rise sharply pointed, pre- ous, gullies and pockets in their sides, patches of rough cultiva- on their lower slopes. Dried river lie parched in the heat of the mer sun.

n our left the great bowl of the diterranean, green to deep indigo- along the rocky shore line, silver- on the shimmering horizon; a few fishing boats motionless on its pla- surface.

From Cool Clouds to Heat.

We leave our cool height and glide n slowly, skim over a fence of piled stones, and settle to the , kicking up a great cloud of yel- dust behind us, as we taxi to the ar. What a contrast with the cool n field at Toulouse a few hours er! Here the barren, sandy ground s to settle in heat and the air is with suspended dust.

o time for lunch. A cup of black ick coffee while the mail is being sferred to a waiting plane, and we off, happy to rise quickly above the ile of dust and breathe the clean gain.

A snow-clad peak appears, dimly le above its companions upon the on; two hours, and it has passed ath us and lies indistinguishable g its neighbors, now far to the Thus does air travel obliterate ent barriers. Tiny white villages, clustering flights of egrets, begin ot the great brown slope rising up the shore.

Europe to Africa in a Flash.

valley opens out and Malaga ap- , a welcome sight after four . It is hot on the ground, and tropical palms, their fronds gray with dust, border the field. In ten minutes we have transferred to a new plane, and with another pilot are off down the coast, the lower contours flattening out as we rise above them.

"Here at last the long Spanish coast ends at the Strait of Gibraltar, culminating in that strange, formidable outthrust of the earth named after a long-dead Moor (Tarik). The wind sweeps through the narrow strait, scattering sudden flashes of white foam in the Mediterranean blue, like fireflies against a twilight sky, while beyond lies Ceuta on the Moorish coast, with the highest peak of its headland, the African 'Pillar of Hercules,' standing out menacing, portentous.

The Riff, Where Spain Bleeds.

"The international port of Tangier beneath our wings, white, flat-roofed houses rising above each other in tiers of cubes, a solitary minaret jutting into the air, a gray line marking the trace of ancient battlements, Portuguese or English.

"To our left lie the Riff hills, where Spain is vainly bleeding herself to death; before us, brown, burnt, and dead, the wide, rolling world of the Bled, the Moroccan veldt; on our right, the restless blue of the Atlantic. This is the East, bright and shining as a sword, under a pitiless sun.

"The heat at this hour of the day, even at 2,000 feet, is stifling. From my exposed perch on the sack of mail, the blast from the propeller is like that from the opened grate of a furnace; impossible to look westward, toward the burnished sun low on the horizon.

Rabat, the Imperial City.

"I crouch down to find shelter in the shadow of the cockpit, but the oppressive air seeps up and stifles with its stagnant warmth.

"Our pilot descends to a few hundred feet above the Bled, where it is surprisingly cooler. The white-dove-like glitter of an Arab town appears by the blue rim of the Atlantic, the plunging breakers crashing soundlessly at its feet. Then Sale (Salli) of a dazzling whiteness, ancient home of the 'Sally Rovers,' the Rabat-el-Fath, the Imperial city, on the banks of the Bu Regreg, winding down to meet the blue of the ocean under high cliffs, through a brown-velvet valley.

"As we glide down over the Residency, the sun slips at last behind the low, banked clouds on the horizon, in gray mist and secret splashes of fire, and the red cliffs across 'the Father of Glittering' are reflected like a flame in the river."

Naturalist Says Luminous Fish Produces Cold Light

New York.—Broadway can be thirty times brighter without the cost of another cent if somebody will find out what happens when one of William Beebe's deep-sea fish switches on its headlights.

Mr. Beebe, author and naturalist, just returned from his search for the Sargasso sea and the Humboldt current, said that he was in the dark concerning the electric power plant of luminous fishes.

"If we knew what happens we'd be billionaires," he said humorously. "The electric bulb is only 3 per cent efficient. The rest of the energy goes into heat. But the luminous fish is 100 per cent efficient. It produces cold light.

"I have a feeling that direct commercial research will not discover the lighting principle. I think some research worker will stumble onto the secret."

Teacher Says Oil, Prayers and Books Brought Wealth

Chicago.—A romance of the triple tincture of oil, education and religion was disclosed at the University of Chicago. A. G. Koenig, once a poor teacher, who struck oil in Texas, has resumed his study of chemistry at the University of Chicago.

He started his course in 1917, but lack of funds caused him to abandon it. In 1921, when he had saved enough to produce a small income, he made two pledges.

One, that he would give one-fifth of his earnings to the churches and humanity, and the other that he would continue in the teaching profession as the best field of human service.

He began teaching at Mexia, where he made an investment in land that has a gas well which under his analysis showed a gasoline content. A well was sunk, oil was found, and his yearly income increased in six months to $100,000. The same year he gave $20,000 to education and charity.

Koenig says prayer harmonizes with scientific thought. He reconciles modern science and religion, saying there are spiritual laws which transcend material things and remain outside the pale of analysis.

Mrs. Coolidge Refuses to Autograph American Flag

Swampscott, Mass.—Mrs. Coolidge does not intend to become a party to anything she interprets as misuse of the American flag.

The story came from White Court that a group of middle-western women sent a quilt in which a large flag was embroidered, and asked her to autograph it so it could be sold at auction. She did not consider a bed quilt an appropriate place for the emblem and returned it without her signature. Finally, when the women sent her a plain white quilt she affixed her signature.

Ten Persons Living in One Room in Dublin

Dublin.—The Dublin city commissioners, who have just completed 248 new houses for the working classes, have had 4,400 applications for the houses and have decided to allot them in accordance with the size of the families.

There are 21 families of at least 12 persons each, 400 of 11 persons, and 76 of 10 persons. There are in Dublin many families of 10 persons who are living in single-roomed tenements.

"Great Music Chief" Sousa

When John Philip Sousa arrived the other day at the File Hills Indian reserve near Regina, Canada, the Star Blanket tribe conferred on him the name Kee-Too-Che-Kay-Wee-Okimow, which means Great Music Chief. He is shown shaking hands with Chief Ohoo.

OUND WAVES OF THE BRAIN ARE PICKED UP BY RADIO

essor Says He Heard Signals From Persons Shut Up in Insulated Cabinet.

ris.—Sound waves from a human have been picked up by a radio ver on a four to ten meter wave th.

e experiment is described by Prof. linando Cazzamali, head of the rtment of neurology and psychi- at the University of Milan, in an e prepared for the forthcoming of Revue de Metaphysique and ewed by Le Matin.

a result Professor Cazzamali ees the transmission of sound s from one brain to another. says he operated with highly ex- persons or those suffering from ous diseases as well as the noted n medium, Signore Maggi. The nt was shut up in a perfectly in- ed cabinet. The sounds he heard through the receiver ranged from signals akin to ordinary wireless signals, to whistling to soft violin or cello notes.

Similar results were obtained, he declares, from persons under hypnosis. In every case, however, the emanations stopped where the subject resumed a normal and peaceful frame of mind.

Professor Cazzamali says he is led to believe that the waves sent out from the brain of one person under certain conditions might be picked up by the brain of another person, under similar nervous, mental or hypnotic stress.

American-Chinese Use Bears' Feet as Charms

Olympia, Wash.—Chinese faith in the curative qualities of portions of a bear's anatomy has resulted in several unique assignments for government hunters operating in this state, says Dr. Glenn R. Bach, field leader for the federal bureau of the biological survey in the Washington district.

Recently a Chinese resident of Washington, D. C., requested the feet of a bear, while some months ago another asked for a bear's gall bladder. In the case of the gall bladder the information was volunteered that it was wanted as a health charm.

Although the supposed curative qualities of bears' feet were not disclosed, the hunters have been instructed to forward the first set of bruin's feet available to the Olympia office for reshipment to Washington.

Prison for Matricide

Reno, Nev.—John H. Randolph, slayer of his seventy-three-year-old mother, was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury here and sentenced to death, which in this state means asphyxiation by lethal gas. Randolph beat his mother to death with his fists. He is the third man sentenced to death by lethal gas in Nevada. The two others have appeals pending.

SIMPLE FROCKS FOR SCHOOL; FLARE IN COATS PARIS EDICT

HERE'S guessing, Miss Schoolgirl, as to a very important subject which will be receiving your due attention this semester, together with your perusal of Latin, Greek, higher mathematics and kindred kind. Clothes! Aye! there's a study which never loses in interest to the feminine mind. Indications are that the subject is going to prove more fascinating than ever this season.

Of course if you are to prove an apt student in the art of good dressing, it is necessary to first of all aim to wear clothes appropriate to the time and enough to supply a dash of color. Be it said that these velveteen frocks prove very serviceable.

Bolero effects in misses' fall frocks are being featured, and these insure a youthful aspect. Necklines in daytime dresses are youthful, one might almost say boyish, especially the little turn-down shirt collars with narrow ties or ribbon bows. Sleeves, barreled from elbow to wrist, peasant sleeves puffed and cuffed characterize some of the newer gowns.

Let there be a decided flare, so comes the edict from Paris, and the Pretty Models for Schoolgirl.

the occasion—which for the schoolgirl may be expressed in one word—simplicity. There is no costume quite so apropos for schoolgirl needs as the one-piece frock, or two-piece if you will, fashioned of fine cloth, navy blue the preferable color. By the way, how good it is to know that navy blue is "the style" this season. In fact all shades of blue are coming in for a successful run, be they classed as royal, copen, navy or pencil blue.

The frocks here pictured are well chosen models for "first day of school" wear as well as for the time to follow. Smart style places particular stress on the long sleeve. This matter of wrist-length sleeves foretells an incoming era of dainty lace and lingerie, with collar or frilly accessories to match.

Example of Coat Flare.

Graceful streaming ties, too, are given much consideration when it comes to designing schoolgirl modes.

Wool rep is a favored medium for the practical frock with bright colored flannels competing in no small degree. Balbriggan, and jersey dresses are at the height of their popularity. The smart new note is sounded in the simply tailored velveteen frock. These may or may not display a quantity of tiny buttons not so much in a trimming way but as if fastening the frock at the front. Sometimes there are plaid silk facings or pocket flaps, just thought is vizualized in the newer coats and frocks which abound in fullness below the knee, attained through clever insets, shirred portions or circular portions. There is also in the smartest Paris costumes a suggestion of the semi-fitted effect. With all this infusion of refreshingly novel ideas into its styling, it is not to be wondered at that the tailored coat for fall and winter has become a subject of zestful interest in the realm of fashion.

If there is one thing more than another that the new modes teach us it is that even our tailored topcoats and dresses have departed from the straight and narrow silhouette. As to fullness about the hemline fashionists do not hesitate, but as to whether the flare shall be back or front or all around, is a matter of spirited discussion. Some there are who prefer that the flare locate itself at each side. The model in the picture admirably defines this effect, in a most successfully devised flare. A coat or frock of cloth thus designed carries convincing style.

Many of the best known French designers sponsor the back flare. To be sure the change is radical and some of us will require being educated up to the point of enthusiasm for this innovation. In some instances the introduction of plaits, ruffles and extra fullness comes near suggesting a bustle effect. Of course this is the extreme of the mode. The conservative couturier is content to apply fullness sufficiently only to give grace and ease.

Fine cloth whereon much of intricate detail is applied in the way of braiding, embroidery, fur and the like, furnishes the basic idea for daytime frocks and coats, which promise to be dressier than for many seasons past. It is noted that gray is being featured throughout fall modes, while blue in tones from navy to pencil blue are conspicuous. Sumac red and soft dull greens indicate new color tendencies.

As to fabric, woolen rep is a favored medium. There are many trotteur dresses and coats of navy rep trimmed with details of red, rust, or violet.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

Help That Bad Back!

Is a bad back wearing you out? Are you lame, achy, nervous and depressed? Suffer headaches; dizziness and disturbing bladder irregularities? These are often signs of kidney disorder and too dangerous to neglect. Your kidneys keep the blood stream pure. Once they slow up, poisons accumulate and upset the whole system. Why risk neglect? If you suspect your kidneys, give Doan's Pills a trial. Doan's have been used successfully over thirty-five years. Are recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

Mrs. C. E. Smith, 408 E. Second St., Vinton, Iowa, says: "I had such severe pains in my back, I could hardly do my work. When I stooped I got dizzy and mornings I felt tired and worn out. I used Doan's Pills and they relieved me of the dizzy spells and pains in my back."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Tells Why He Can Now Eat Hearty

"A letter which I read in the paper about Carter's Little Liver Pills fitted my own case so closely that I could not help trying them and am very happy I did." So writes Mr. Frank J. Trumbull of Jersey City, N. J., whose letter goes on to say, "I had heard about Carter's Little Liver Pills for years but never knew they helped overcome poor appetite and sour stomach, until I read about another man in the same plight who took Carter's with good results. I tried them and can honestly say that they freed me of nasty gas on stomach, so that I can now eat without getting bilious, and they improved my appetite fully 100%. You can rest assured that from now on I will boost Carter's Little Liver Pills whenever I can."

Recommended and for sale by all drug stores.

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

Creation

What can be more foolish than to think that all this rare fabric of heaven and earth could come by chance, when all the skill of art is not able to make an oyster!—Jeremy Taylor.

The Lesser Half

"They're getting married soon."

"Does he know her age?"

"Yes—part of it!"—Good Hardware.

Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkgs. Sold Everywhere

Boschee's Syrup for Coughs and Lung Troubles

Successful for 59 years. 30c and 90c bottles—ALL DRUGGISTS

The New Freely-Lathering Cuticura Shaving Stick For Tender Faces

EMOLLIENT MEDICINAL ANTISEPTIC

Fits Stop the attacks at once. FREE sample and treatise mailed to any one giving age, just to prove what it will do. In use 51 years. Why suffer longer when relief is offered FREE? Address Towns Remedy Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

BATHE YOUR EYES

Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 168 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Strain of Early Tomato Propagated at Michigan

A new strain of early tomato is being propagated at Michigan State college under the direction of George E. Starr, assistant professor of horticulture.

"The experiment," says Mr. Starr "is being carried out with the intention of producing a tomato that the Michigan gardener can get on to the market in time to get the benefit of the high prices that prevail a week to ten days before the usual crop is ready for sale. The experiment includes selecting and breeding primarily for earliness. However, size, color and quality have not been neglected and a choice, attractive, as well as early fruit is expected to result. Mr. Starr is at present experimenting on a seedless tomato.

Farm Hints

How about that new alfalfa seeding you were planning to put in?

* * *

Some say dust potatoes, and some say spray, but either is better than neither.

* * *

To pour feed into a dairy cow of unknown productive ability is like sinking money into wildcat oil stocks.

* * *

Early plowing is best for wheat. The seedbed should be fairly deep, with a loose surface, but well firmed.

* * *

Most farmers think late afternoon is the best time to cut alfalfa. The hay is apt to look better for it, and more of the leaves will stay on.

* * *

The use of improved machinery makes the average agricultural worker able to care for three times as many acres of crops as he could handle 75 years ago.

* * *

A substantially made well curb and platform help to keep the drinking supply pure and uncontaminated. Use a 1-2-3 mixture—one part cement, two parts sand and three parts pebbles or crushed rock.

* * *

Short pastures now will be shorter next season if nothing's done to improve them. Manure is one of the best helps for run-down grass; ten or fifteen loads to the acre will be needed next summer.

Totality

The little fellow at the corner, selling papers, looked so forlorn and wistful that the passing stranger couldn't forbear speaking to him.

"What's your name, sonny?" he asked.

"Jim," was the reply.

"Jim what?"

"Just Jim."

"Well, what's your father's name?"

"Ain't got no father."

"Well, who's your mother—brothers—sisters?"

"Ain't got none."

"No one at all?" asked the man in pity.

"Nope," the boy answered. "When you seen me you done seen all there is of us."—American Legion Weekly.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP

Two "New Breeds" Are Investigated

Believed That "Turken" Is Nothing Else Than Transylvania Naked-Neck.

There is no lure like that of the cross of widely separated species of animals and birds. That nature frowns on such crosses is evidenced by the failure of repeated and persistent experiments under favorable conditions. Where progeny has followed violent crossings, it is sterile as a rule. The Department of Agriculture has issued a press release in this connection, which is as follows:

"The United States Department of Agriculture has received many requests from all parts of the country for information concerning two so-called new "breeds" of poultry, the 'Turken' and the 'Kiwi.' The department has been aware of advertisements concerning these new and novel 'breeds,' for which some rather remarkable claims have been made. The advertisements and literature describing the origin and qualities of these 'breeds' seem to have aroused much interest on the part of the public, since the department has receivd several urgent requests for an explanation regarding the reliability of the claims made.

How "Turken" Was Produced.

"The statements in the advertisements and literature claim that the 'turken' was originally produced by crossing a male turkey with a female chicken, and that the 'Kiwi' was produced by crossing a male ostrich with a female chicken.

"Successful crosses have been made between the pheasant and the chicken, and in practically every case the progeny has been of the male sex and sterile. Also, successful crosses have been made between the guinea and the chicken, and here again the sex of the progeny has almost invariably been male and the hybrids have been sterile. Both of these crosses have been made with great difficulty and, so far as known, no cross giving any progeny has ever been reported between the turkey and the chicken. Furthermore, it is highly improbable that the progeny, if any have ever been secured, would breed at all, and certainly not readily. In such wide or violent crosses the progeny is always sterile, and the claim for the 'Turken,' which is reported to be the hybrid progeny of a cross between the turkey and the chicken, is in all probability not founded on fact.

Is Naked-Necked Chicken.

"One other point must be made concerning the so-called 'Turken.' The illustrations accompanying the advertisements and literature are in all probability photographs of the Transylvania Naked-neck chickens. According to the best information obtainable this odd-looking breed originated in West India, and the characteristic naked neck has bred true for many years. It is a distinct character of the breed. The department believes that the so-called 'Turken' is nothing else than the Transylvania Naked-neck chicken, which apparently possesses no qualities superior to the more important standard breeds and varieties, and has not been shown to be particularly well adapted to conditions in many parts of our country.

"As far as the reported cross giving rise to the 'Kiwi' is concerned, there is much less evidence to support such a cross than in the case of the 'Turken.' This is too violent a cross to produce any results whatever.

"The burden of proof that such crosses as those giving rise to the 'Turken' and the 'Kiwi' must remain with the sponsors of such novel productions. In the meantime, the interests of the public should be safeguarded."

Feed to Maintain Cows of Different Weights

Extensive detailed experiments have been made to determine the average amount of protein and other food nutriments needed to maintain cows of different weights. Also, the different feeds have been tested to determine the average amounts of digestible protein and other nutriments. This data has been arranged in table form and may be found in various books, experiment station bulletins, etc., but is too extensive to reproduce here. These experiments also show the amounts of food nutriments required to produce different amounts of milk. By taking the data from these tables, showing how much is required, the balanced ration is worked out by grouping together the necessary amounts of the different feeds to give the correct total and proportion of nutriments. Rations as worked out by this process can only serve as a guide because of the great variation in individual cows, but they are very valuable in actually obtaining the best rations.

Exercise Mare and Foal in Cool of the Evening

In the evening when it is cool and the flies are inactive, turn the mare and foal out on pasture. This will allow the colt to get plenty of exercise, grass, and fresh air with the least possible interference from flies. When the mare is not working, the pasture is the best place for both mare and foal, but they should be provided with shade of some sort. When natural shade is not available, a cheap structure should be built to meet the needs. Hang a few sacks under the trees or in the shed so that the mare and foal can use them to chase off flies.

Grain for Mature Bull Depends Upon His Size

The grain a mature bull should be fed depends, of course, upon his size and the amount of work he is doing. If he is getting around 12 or 15 pounds of good clover or alfalfa hay and some silage, grain may not be necessary. Many men prefer to feed some grain and either eliminate the silage or feed it in small amounts.

There is some question as to the advisability of silage in a bull's ration. Fed in amounts not in exces of 15 pounds for a large animal, there is very little danger of his becoming too paunchy for service. On the other hand, there is no particular reason why a bull should receive silage if his other feeds are right.

The amount of grain allowed must vary with conditions and service. Usually from four to eight pounds is fed. A good mixture of corn meal, three parts; ground oats, three parts; wheat bran, three parts, and oilmeal, one part. A reasonably accurate guide is to feed a bull the same as a cow in full milk.

The Fly Flew

An art critic, speaking of the virtues of this painting and the faults of that one, finally came to a picture in the gallery and said: "Now, you see in this picture the artist has not learned his trade—it lacks technique and understanding. His trees seem to have no form; they do not stand up; the grass has no roots. His clouds look like bits of paper stuck on the canvas. And here you see he has resorted to a trick to catch the public eye and has attempted to paint a fly. Now, I would not object to the fly, had he been able to draw better and make it look like a fly. This fly looks like a lump of mud and has not the character of a fly."

At this point the fly, having tired of the critic's rambling, took wing and flew away.

Nature of Pinchbeck

This is the name of an alloy of copper and zinc and was so called from its inventor, a London watchmaker who died in 1732. Pinchbeck made cheap jewelry from this alloy which had the appearance and luster of gold, although the counterfeit could easily be detected by its weight being less than that of gold and its want of resonance. The most common pinchbeck consists of about 10 or 15 per cent of zinc and the remainder copper—although tin is sometimes also added. The word "pinchbeck" is frequently applied to anything which is counterfeit or spurious. For instance, Anthony Trollope says: "Where in these pinch beck days can we hope to find the old agricultural virtue in all its purity."—Exchange.

There Were Others

The young man hesitatingly entered her father's presence. With a preliminary clearing of the throat and a nervous twitch of his fingers, he said:

"I have come to ask you if I may marry your daughter, Gertrude."

"You may," said the father, promptly, as he passed the cigars. "And now that you're in the family, may I take you into my confidence?"

"Why—er—" exclaimed the happy man.

"Well, my boy," said his future father-in-law, "I just want to say that as you pass around among your friends I wish you'd get some of them excited about Margaret, Dorothy, Bella and Nancy. And put a couple of cigars in your pocket."

Billets Doux

There is a peculiar and subtle and quite indefinable pleasure that comes to a man when the woman he loves first writes to him. Soever curt, soever banal the letter, there is no matter. It is something from her to him; something altogether private and secret; something she has set down for him to read; something not to be shared with a sordid world.—From "The Rasp," by Phillips Macdonald.

Tests Prove Beet Sugar in Jelly Making

Judges of the beet sugar test at work. Inset at the left, Miss Gail Redfield, Davenport, Iowa; at the right, Associate Professor Belle Lowe, both of whom conducted the test.

Impartial tests just concluded in the Home Economics Division of Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, have again proved that beet sugar is unsurpassed for use in the making of jellies and cakes.

The tests were made by Associate Professor Belle Lowe, specialist in experimental cookery, and Miss Gail Redfield, of Davenport, a senior home economics student.

At one time a belief prevailed widely among housewives that beet sugar was not suitable for jelly making. Much of this belief disappeared years ago with the acceptance of research work that had proved sugar had no part in the jelling process—that fruit juice jelled only because of the presence of sufficient pectin and acid in the fruit juice itself.

Beet and cane sugar for these tests was purchased through Iowa home demonstration agents from grocery store stocks and the identity of each sugar was carefully concealed until after the tests were completed.

The jellies and cakes were judged by a competent committee of experts and homemakers.

"The judges did not know what jellies were made from beet sugar and what from cane sugar until after they finished their work," the official report states. "They found no difference in any of the jellies. Though twenty lots of jellies were used they were proven all of like value for jelly making."

"Causes of failure in jelly making," the experts said, "are lack of enough natural or added pectin in the juice, wrong amount of acid or sugar, or wrong cooking—and never what sugar is used.

"Whether beet or cane, all are of like value for jelly making," so the judges found.

"Success in jelly making," they say, "lies in the study of the real causes for failure. To lay the trouble to the sugar used is wrong—because it blinds the woman who would be a good jelly maker to the real facts."

Twenty cakes were also submitted to the judges, half made from beet sugar and half from cane sugar. Slight differences were found but none due to what kind of sugar was used. For cake making, beet sugar was reported as equal to any cane sugar.

Professor Lowe says also that "the whiteness of any kind of sugar (whether beet or cane) is due to the sparkling of small crystals and to the clarifying methods used. The size of the grain depends upon the speed or slowness of crystalizing; the hardness of the crystals is a matter of temperature in the making of the sugar at the factory, this hardness affecting the quickness of the solution of the sugar when used. These differences in sugars are not at all, as so many suppose, due to the source of the sugar but to differences that may occur in both cane sugar refineries and beet sugar factories, with any lot of any kind of sugar."

NOTE: An interesting practical series of three recipe books on jelly making, canning and preserving, desserts and candies may be obtained free by addressing Household Department, 309½ Sugar Building, Denver, Colorado. These booklets were written by Mrs. Ida Bailey Allen, noted cookery expert.

Coming Soon--

Order Now--

Carload of Fire Wood--

Carload of American Fence

Carload of Barb Wire

Get the Benefit Of Our Carload Prices

Northren Lumber Co.
"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

New Fall Material-

Just Arrived

BLANKETS

We have received our new line of Fall and Winter BLANKETS. They are all the very best and are real beauties. Made of the very best material to withstand hard usuage.

PURE WOOL BLANKETS—WOOL MIXED BLANKETS—
COTTON FLEECED BLANKETS—
INDIAN DESIGN BLANKETS—

Our Blankets come in all sizes to suit your needs. Buy your Winter Blankets now while our selection is complete.

Our prices on these fine quality blankets this year is very reasonable.

FOR FALL WEAR

We have a real nifty line of SWEATERS for both Men and Women, Boys and Girls. These Sweaters come in all the very latest knits, designs and colors.

The Men and Boys will like the new SPORT JACKETS we are showing. Also a full line of LEATHER VESTS and JACKETS now on hand.

See The

NEW DRESS GOODS OF KINDS

A Complete Stock

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

One Iron in the Fire For Thirty-three Years

THIRTY THREE YEARS of straightforward merchandising.

For thirty three years Patton Brothers have been selling mens and boys clothing——with none of the quack devices. For thirty three years we have held fast to our original policy——quality, first, last and all the time. ....

The growth of this institutiin has proven that we were right.

THIS FALL WE ARE IN BETTER SHAPE THAN EVER TO SERVE YOU. WE WANT MORE PEOPLE TO ENJOY THE SATISFACTION OUR MERCHANDISE GIVES.

Patton Brothers Co.
Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY, IOWA

Globe Furnaces---

The GLOBE is the most modern and the most complete furnace built. It is equipped with the greatest heat generating fire pot. It burns the soot and is a wonder for fuel economy and duability...The GLOBE has a larger and more powerful heat radiator—a radiator that works 24 hours of the day.

The GLOBE is more easily managed. The improved shaking device removes the ashes from the grates without labor or dust. Clinkers can be removed in a few seconds time. The doors are large—the feed section short, making easy to fire. The water reservoir is conveniently located.

The GLOBE is built of special analysis metal which accounts for the noted durability of all the GLOBE products. The GLOBE will not leak smoke or gas. GLOBE casings are double and fitted to the furnace by the special 'casing clamps', making all joints air tight and preventing circulation of basement dust. Let us tell you of the many other good GLOBE features.

Order your GLOBE furnace niw. We can supply you with a furnace to suit your requirements.

GLOBES come in PIPELESS, PIPE and 3-WAY systems.

Order your furnace pipes and repairs now.

E. F. Jacobs

THE KLEMME TIMES

irtieth Year—Number 3. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

REIESEMER & WENCK CASE IN GRAND JURY SESSION

AND JURY HAS LONG SESSION OF WORK AHEAD

tit Jury Excused Until Monday, October 5th

The Grand Jury of Hancock Coun- is in session all of this week hear- the case of the defunct State Sav- s Bank of Klemme, and with P. Greiesemer, president and F. J. enck, cashier, the defendants in case. It is thought this case ll take the entire week of the and Jury.

Judge Kepler has excused the Pet- Jury until Monday, October 5th. e court adjourned until next week esday.

The above is all of the information could gather at this time regard- the case against Greiesemer and enck.

CK BROOD SOWS CAREFULLY

ey Should Be Deep and Long In Body With Straight and Strong Feet and Legs

It is the size of litter raised per w that largely determines the cost each pig at weaning time. Large ters mean lower cost per pig. In nry County, Iowa, a survey show- that the cost of producing each in litters of four was practically ice as much as litters of eight. ilar results were secured in mboldt county.

These facts are stated by E. L. aife, livestock extension specialist Iowa State College, in Extension rvice Bulletin 126. He further says t if the litters in Iowa averaged ht it would only require keeping d feeding 55 to 60 percent as many ws as are now kept in order to oduce the same number of pigs.

The kind of rood bsows selected w for next spring farrow will par- ly determine the number of pigs sed per sow. One factor to con- er in brood sow selection is breed- . Mr. Quaife says that a study of pedigrees of the dams of most of winning ton litters during the t few years shows that these sows nerally have been from large litt- . Other tests tend to show that ws coming from large litters are re likely to produce large litters emselves than are sows farrowed small litters. Farmers should mark gilts from large litters at farrow- time.

The type of sow also affects the e of litter farrowed. Brood sows ould be selected which are long d deep in body. Stretchy sows are re likely to farrow large litters n are short bodied ones. The cor- ation has been definitely proven the Iowa and Illinois experiment tions.

Other points to look for in select- brood sows are a long clean face, th fair width between the eyes d a clean, trim jowl. The face ould be free from wrinkles and eyes should be large and open. e sides should be smooth and deep d free from wrinkles. The back ould be arched and the rump g and not too drooping. The legs ould be straight and strong, with od size bone, and they should not too short. Shortlegged sows drag eir udders and teats on the ground hich is undesirable. The pasterns ould be short and straight. Sows ould also be selected which have ough good teats to feed a fair siz- litter.

CKWELL FARMER HAS 105 POUND SQUASH

ROCKWELL, Sept. 24.—Thus far, o Meyer living a half mile west of ckwell, is the champion squash iser of this locality having one on hibition in the display windows of e Kruggel Hardware Company at weighs 109½ pounds. This monstrates anew the truthfullness "Sid" Foster's old-time saying: That in all that is good, Iowa af- rds the best."

OBITUARY—MRS. BEN SWALVE

Mrs. Behrend Swalve, nee Fuls, was born September 19, 1863, at Freeport, in Stephenson County, Ill. There she spent the days of her youth attending the religious and public schools of the community, until she grew to womanhood and was joined in marriage to Mr. Behrend Swalve on the 28th day of February, 1882. This union was blessed with ten children. Two of them died in infancy and those serviving are: Mr. Dick Swalve, Mrs. Herman Priebe, Mr. John Swalve, Mrs. Gilbert Schaper, Mrs. Ingverd Lauritsen and Mr. Ben Swalve, all of whom live in Klemme or vicinity; Mrs. Henry Behrends of Ackley, Iowa, and Mrs. Charles Schuetzpelz of South Dakota.

After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Swalve lived on a farm near Freeport, Illinois, for five years and then moved west to Dakota Territory which was then but a wilderness. After they had been engaged in farming there for several years, they realized that progress would be very slow there, and returned to Iowa, locating at Ackley, where they stayed one year and then moved in the vicinity of Klemme which was their home ever since. At all three of these places they did their share of the pioneer work of those days. Many were the difficulties in the way of progress in those days, and many were the reverses they experienced in their struggle for success. After returning from the dry and barren plains of Dakota they soon settled on the swampy prairies of Hancock County, confronted with new difficulties in the farm life of those pioneer days. The labors of their hands were often blessed by the good Lord from whom all blessings flow. However, at times, the labors of their hands, their golden grain fields, were destroyed by the intense heat hail and storms. In all these hardships and reverses Mrs. Swalve bore her share of the burden. After all, when the 29 years of their hard farm labor near Klemme had come to an end, they could look back upon the many achievements, that in the beginning would have seemed impossible.

Mother Swalve was of a kind and peaceful disposition, a real example of a mother and housewife. She was kind to her children, true to her husband and a friend of her associates.

For many years her heart had not been strong and as time went on this condition did not improve but got worse and those that knew her condition expected that she might some day drop off very suddenly.

Last Sunday afternoon Mother Swalve had the pleasure of yet going out for an auto ride visiting friends. Monday morning she was in her usual health and attended to her duties about the house as usual. It was about eleven o'clock when it suddenly appeared that one of her old attacks was coming upon her. Medical aid was summoned at once and it soon became apparent that she was in a very serious condition. Children and relatives were called to her bedside to bid her farewell, and to draw a last word from her closing life. But these efforts were in vain and within a few hours her journey here below came to an end when at 4:30 o'clock her spirit fled to the One that gave it.

Mrs. Swalve was for many years a faithful member of Immanuel Reformed Church where she showed great interest in the services which she attended regularly until her illness made this attendance impossible. Strengthened by the Lord she has kept the faith, she has finished the fight. She attained the age of 62 years, 11 months and 14 days. She leaves her bereaved husband, eight children, eighteen grandchildren, two sisters, two brothers, and many relatives and friends to mourn her rather unexpected departure.

Dust thou art and unto dust shall thou return, saith the Lord.

—Rev. A. A. Depping.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to all who assisted us in any way during our recent bereavement. We wish to thank those who contributed flowers, those who took part in the singing at the services and all who expressed comforting words of sympathy.

Ben Swalve and Children.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral of Mrs. Ben Swalve were: Mrs. Charles Schuetpelz and children of Wessington Springs, S. Dak.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Behrends and children, of Ackley; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Fuls, of Dell Rapids, S. Dak.; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Swalve, of George, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. John Swalve, of Ocheydan, Ia.; Rev. and Mrs. G. Tilken, of George, Iowa; Miss Steffa Fuls, of Baileyville Illinois; Mrs. H. Jakobs, of Clara City, Minn.; Mrs. Wm. Kaufen, of Twin Brooks, S. Dak.; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Tuffen, of Parkersburg, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. John Swalve, of Titonka, Iowa; Mr. E. Schulte, of Parkersburg, Iowa.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation to the friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us by filling my silo, and also helping at other places during my absence the past week. Dick Swalve. 1wp

VIRGIN LAKE TO BE GAME RESERVE

EMMETSBURG, Sept. 24.—The state game warden has announced that Virgin lake and all state ground adjoining is to be turned into a game refuge and that no hunting will be allowed. It will even be unlawful for anyone to carry a gun within the preserve. For several years the state has charged a fee for fishing and the money thus raised used to provide fish for the sportsmen and as a result Iowa fishemen have better fishing. The game warden expects to put on a campaign of restrictions over the state that will give the hunters better hunting.

ROCK ISLAND ENLARGING THE KLEMME STOCK YARDS

More Side Track Will Also Be Added To Accomodate Large Shipments

On information gathered from our local live stock buyers we learn that the Rock Island is to enlarge the Klemme stock yards by adding two or three more pens and to extend the side tracks to accomodate twelve cars for immediate loading and to make room to accomodate ten additional cars. Plans are to have two loading chutes and if a rush is on they can accomodate thirty cars of livestock a day.

For the last ten years Klemme has been handicapped on account of lack of sufficient space and has lost considerable business on account of conjestion at the yards.

Our local live stock buyers, W. F. Lau, and Joe E. Johnson of the shipping association are instrumental in bringing the change about as they circulated a petion for the new accomodations with the above results. They are both working for the interests of the live stock business at Klemme, and have for the past fifteen years put up with conditions at the yards as they were.

We say, bring your livestock to Klemme—it will pay you.

WATER SYSTEM COMPLETED

All of the work on the water system has been completed. The last pipe has been connected and the plant is in fine working order. The old tank was jacked up and a new foundation put under it and the tank painted inside and outside. A new floor will be laid in the plant as a finishing touch and everything will then be ship-shape.

The United States imported over 11 million pounds of butter in 1924.

Items of Interest To The Farmer and Dairyman

GOT $101 PROFIT PER COW

Testing Association Records Forced Scrubs Out Of Herd

C. L. Funk, of Osterdock, Clayton county, last year had the highest average herd production in the Colesburg cow testing association and his 12 grade and purebred Jerseys brot him an average profit of $101.53 per head after all feed costs had been deducted. The herd average was 31.9 pounds butterfat per cow.

When Funk joined the cow testing association two years ago, he had a herd of common red, scrub cows. He had never kept account of the production nor the feed cost of his various cows. The association records soon convinced him that he had the wrong kind of cows to secure profits dairying.

A neighbor had a herd of grade and purebred Jerseys which he had never tested, but they appeared to Funk to be able to produce well if given good feed and care. Accordingly, he purchased a number of the Jerseys at prices ranging from $37 to $60. He was able to purchase them at this low figure because the former owner had no idea of the value of them. It was these cows last year that after paying for $62.38 worth of feed per head, left $101.53 to pay Funk for his labor, interest on his investment and any other costs.

KEEP UP MILK FLOW IN FALL

It Will Mean More Prifits Rest Of The Year

Too many folks forget to take care of their cows about the time corn husking arrives in Iowa. As a result the cows take a slump in milk flow which means smaller production the remainder of their milking year. Avoiding this fall slump will mean more profits.

Burt Okerkirk, dairy production extension worker of Iowa State College, made the above observations. He believes it will pay dairymen well to prevent this rather universal fall slump.

Sweet clover pasture will often afford late fall feed that will tide over the herd from bluegrass until silage. If no pasture is available, but the dairyman has a silo, then Oderkirk believes that it will pay to start feeding silage. The point is that the herd should not be allowed to go down in production because of a temporary feed shortage or because of rushing fall work.

Another suggestion is to kep the milking herd out of the cornstalks. If there are cornstalks which the farmer feels he should feed, then it is better to put the young stuff out to clean them up rather than the milking herd. Cornstalks do not furnish the right food materials to maintain fair milk production. They contain too much fiber and altho cows will milk fairly well for a time running in the stalk field, they will be forced to tax their systems and will eventually fall off in production.

COWPEAS GOOD GREEN MANURE

Have Proven Valuable In Building Up Sandy Soils

Geo. Schurk, commercial fruit grower near Keokuk, tried out a number of different legumes this year for green manure crops to fertilize his 40-acre apple, peach and cherry orchard. The soil is sandy and of the legumes tried, cowpeas gave far the best results, producing more organic material per acre than any other crop.

Schurk's experience has been duplicated by other men in the state who have light sandy soil, F. C. Churchill of Iowa State College has found. On the heavier soils, soybeans are superior, but do not equal cowpeas for building up the light sandy areas. Mr. Churchill has observed quite a number of satisfactory fields of cowpeas the past two years growing on sandy soils.

The average dairy cow in the United States produces enough milk for four average American citizens, but the human population is consistently increasing faster than the cow population.

Skimmilk is great for laying hens.

FIRST PARENT-TEACHER MEETING TO BE HELD OCT. 6

FAREWELL

Master Arthur Albert Larsen

Master Arthur Albert Larsen, whose early death we lament, was born on Saturday, February 2, 1918, in Klemme, Iowa, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Larsen. He died Saturday, September 19, 1925 in the hospital at Hampton, Iowa, at the age of 7 years, 7 months and 17 days.

Some over a year ago Arthur had a long siege of illness, which gave his parents much concern. However, after many lingering weeks of pain and suffering, the patient little sufferer apparently conquered the ills of his body and once more seemed well. As time went on he recuperated more fully so that with the opening of this school year he seemed one hundred per cent a boy. He enjoyed the companionship of his little playmates more than he had for some time; he enjoyed and indulged in the little games, pranks and adventures so facinating to one of his age; he delighted in and did well in his school work.

Alas, this star of hope and health which seemed to have risen for Arthur soon set and things were not what they seemed, when once more he was stricken in this his final illness. Despite all the medical aid that was summoned he did not react but went on to join his grandmother who left us just a few weeks ago to join that innumerable host of the Celestial City.

May we think of him among that great throng of little children who make up a part of the host of Heaven and who are gathered about Him who one day proclaimed to this world: "Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

He leaves to mourn his going so soon, his parents, one sister LaVon, two grandfathers, one grandmother and one great grandmother, beside many other relatives.

THE LORD GIVETH

God lent him to me for my very own,
Let me become his Father, me alone,
Gave him to me not for an hour—
for years,
(Tis gratefullness gleams in my eyes not tears)
No joy that Fathers know but it was mine
In fathering that Laddie strong and fine.

Time after time I said: Tis but a dream,
I shall awake to find things only seem
Grand as they are. Yet still he lingered on Till year on sweeter year had come and gone.
My heart is filled forever with a song
Because God let me have my Lad
so long.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon in the Methodist Church conducted by Rev. A. W. Gauger, assisted by Rev. Gedye and Rev. Howdeshell. The service was very largely attended by sorrowing friends. A beautiful and impressive evidence of this sympathy was given when the entire room of which Arthur was a pupil along with their teacher, Miss Loverin attended in a body and filed by the casket each placing a rose onto the casket. Music for the service was furnished by four little girl friends dressed in white. Six boys of the Junior High school acted as pallbearers. He was laid to rest in the local cemetery.

—Rev. A. W. Gauger.

Expression Of Thanks

We desire to thank every one, who in any way helped us, either by kind word or deed, during the illness and death of our darling.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larsen and daughter, La Von.

KLEMME BOY HONORED

Earl Josten, of Klemme, has been honored by being elected president of the Delta Theta Pi fraternity of Morningside College, Sioux City, for the fall term. The Delta Theta Pi is one of the foremost men's organizations of the Morningside campus.

K. H. S. WILL CROSS BATS WITH GOODELL THIS WEEK

Will Play Crystal Lake Here Next Week

Our boys will play at Goodell this week end and we hope to have better luck than last week with Corwith. We are planning to schedule games with Crystal Lake, Swaledale, and Meservey. We play Crystal Lake here next week.

Parent-Teacher Association To Hold First Meeting October 6

The Parent-Teacher Association of our community will have their first program on Tuesday, October 6. The following program will be rendered:

Community Singing, led by Miss Abel.
Cornet Solo, Mr. J. J. Poort.
A Welcome to the New Faculty, by Rev. A. W. Gauger.
Response, Supt. M. F. Penrod.
Violin Solo, Mr. Gary.
Business Session.
Refreshments and a Social Hour.

We are glad to find a P. T. A. in Klemme and believe we receive valuable assistance from it. We hope to see a large attendance at this first meeting. We believe a closer acquaintance between parents and the teachers will make for more certain co-operation.

All those in attendance at the County Institute seemed to enjoy and appreciate the addresses provided us by our genial County Superintendent, Mr. Baggs.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

Our services last Sunday was one long to be remembered.

The attendance was good, the interest manifested was splendid, and the spiritual atmosphere was refreshing.

Next Sunday will be special in several respects. It is the last Sunday of this Conference year and therefore should command.

A class of young people will be received into Church at the morning service. To date fifty have been received into church during this conference year.

An election of a delegate and reserve to our Conference which convenes next Tuesday in Le Mars, will be held, at the conclusion of the morning service. This election will take place in both churches. The following judges and tellers will conduct this election: Klemme, H. L. Suckow, judge; A. H. Ridder and Herbert Bailey, tellers.

Liberty, Herman Gast, Judge; Ben Ridder and Albert Borchers, tellers. All members twenty-one and over have a vote.

The reception for our school teachers is announced for Friday evening. Let all come to this "Get Acquainted Gathering" in the Parish House.

NOTICE!

Those who have not been notified otherwise will bring enough sandwiches for their own family needs and six extra ones to the Methodist Parish House Friday evening when a reception will be given the teachers. Everyone bring plate, cup and spoon.—Committee.

SORGHUM PLANT REACHING FULL PRODUCTION NOW

Ludeke & Fuller are getting their Sorghum Factory well under way at this time and are getting it going to full production. At the present time they are producing 100 to 150 gallons of fine sorghum daily. They will be operating to full capacity in a short time when production will reach 200 gallons per day.

They are producing a very fine grade of sorghum which should find already market for lovers of buckwheat cakes who like their sorghum spread thick. Yum-m-m!

REACH AGREEMENT ON FRENCH DEBT

Interest Rate to Be 3½ Per Cent—Both Sides Are Pleased.

Washington.—Broad outlines of the French debt settlement have already been practically agreed upon in preliminary negotiations, it has been disclosed, virtual agreements having already reached a point which insures the success of the formal negotiations.

Briefly the fundamental principles, which seem satisfactory both to the French and the administration include:

1. Consolidation of the three classes of debt into one. These three are the prearmistice loans, the postarmistice loans, and the price of the war supplies sold to the French government in 1919.

2. Fixing of the period over which payments shall be made at sixty-two years, the same term as adopted in both the British and Belgian settlement.

3. An interest rate of three and one-half per cent.

4. Reduction of the acumulated interest which had been figured at 5 per cent, thus bringing the present total of the debt up to $4,500,000,000 roughly speaking by making the rate of 3½ per cent retroactive.

5. Further reduction of the present total of the debt by a retroactive adjustment of the interest actually paid on the $400,000,000 of debt for war supplies. France has actually paid $20,000,000 a year since 1919, or six years, at the rate of 5 per cent. This adjustment will practically credit France with the excess 1½ per cent or some $6,000,000 a year for these six years, with a further adjustment for compounding.

6. Very low payments during the first few years of the refunding period. This period of smaller payments is fixed tentatively at not less than ten years nor more than fifteen, but probably approaching the latter figure.

Both the administration and the French, it may be stated, are very much pleased with this progress toward the settlement.

Mulcahy Eggers Warned to Fight It Out in Erin

New York.—Declaring that Ireland, and not Hoboken, was the place to settle their troubles, Recorder Carsten suspended sentences on Mrs. Annie Skillen, Mrs. Alice Tennyson, Michael Quilty and Thomas Reilly, arraigned before him charged with attacking Gen. Richard Mulcahy, former defense minister of the Irish Free State, when he arrived on the President Roosevelt.

"You acted outrageously!" the recorder said to the prisoners.

Patrick Keenan was held in $200 bail for the grand jury on a charge of assault and battery.

Eggs, tomatoes, sticks, fists and epithets were used in the attack on General Mulcahy, who is here with dail members to attend the interparliamentary congress at Washington.

President Coolidge O. K.'s Ban on British Communist

Washington.—Secretary of State Kellogg had no discretion under the law with respect to the barring of Shapurgi Saklatvala, Communist member of the British parliament, from admission to this country, in the view of President Coolidge.

The law makes it mandatory, according to the President's view, that the State department should refuse visas to persons who carry on revolutionary propaganda looking to the overthrow of American institutions.

In view of the provision in the immigration law, President Coolidge regards criticism in Saklatvala's case unwarranted.

President-Elect of Bolivia Forced to Flee

Arica, Chile.—Jose Gabino Villaneuva arrived here and said he had to flee to avoid arrest.

La Paz, Bolivia.—The government decreed a state of siege in the provinces of La Paz, Oruro and Cochabamba. Jose Gabino Villaneuva, who was elected President in May, but prevented from taking office, has been deported. Several politicians have been imprisoned in Bolivia and a censorship established. It is impossible to transmit news regarding the situation, but general tranquility prevails.

Scopes Case Appeal Filed

Knoxville, Tenn.—The Scopes evolution case tried at Dayton, Tenn., came to Knoxville when the bill of exceptions, pleadings and proof, forming four volumes of 200 pages each, was filed in the office of the Supreme court.

Regulates Coal Sales

Boston.—Delivery of domestic size anthracite coal to consumers who have half their winter's supply in stock and delivery of more than three tons at a time to householders was prohibited by the state emergency fuel administration.

Hunt Is Reappointed

Washington.—President Coolidge on Friday appointed Charles W. Hunt of Iowa a member of the federal trade commission.

ON THE AIR BOARD

Congressman James Parker of Salem, N. Y., who was named by President Coolidge to serve on the air service inquiry committee, is chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce and is considered an expert on aviation.

NAVY AVIATOR FLIES 5 MILES IN MINUTE

Lieutenant Flashes Through Air 302.3 Miles an Hour.

Mitchel Field, N. Y. — Flashing through the air at the speed of 302.3 miles per hour, better than five miles a minute, Lieut. Alford Williams, U. S. N., gratified a lifelong ambition and set a new unofficial speed record. The 2,200-pound plane which Lieutenant Williams piloted is the new Curtis racer with which the navy hopes to win the Pulitzer race in October.

Climbing in steep spirals, the plane poised hawklike at 3,000 feet and then dived toward the earth. Barely 300 feet from the ground it flattened out and Williams shot off on the straightaway one kilometer course.

After landing, Lieutenant Williams said it always had been his ambition to travel 300 miles an hour.

Lieutenant Williams said the airship balances perfectly and that the faster it goes the more sensitive are the controls..

Driven by a Curtiss V-1400 motor, the plane measures twenty-two feet from wing tip to wing tip, nineteen feet eight and one-half inches in length, and stands eight feet and one-half inch high.

The speed attained by Lieutenant Williams, although unofficial, breaks the world's record set by a French aviator, Adj. Florentin Bonnet, of 278 miles per hour, last December.

The plane will be taken to Manhassett bay, where it will be equipped with pontoons. Here the plane will be put over a course of approximately four miles in a tryout for the Jacques Schneider trophy race at Baltimore later in October.

Nine Dry Agents Fired by New Administrator

Chicago.—Coming without warning as the preface to a great organized smash at Chicago cafes and cabarets, nine prohibition agents, considered aces of the service, were summarily discharged on orders of the new area administrator, E. C. Yellowley. The action was followed by a declaration that 35 more agents are to be dismissed.

The promised housecleaning by the new administrator will be followed by an influx of "under-cover" dry sleuths from the East, who will be marshaled for a powerful thrust at the cafes and cabarets that form the night-and-bright life of Chicago.

Public Inquiry of Air Service Wins Approval

Washington.—Public inquiry into the air service of the government was determined upon here by the special board created by President Coolidge to investigate this branch of the national defense and to devise the best means for its improvement.

The members of the board, after a preliminary meeting with the President, followed by luncheon at the White House, announced the decision that public hearings would be conducted here.

Dwight W. Morrow of New York, friend of the President and a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., was chosen chairman of the board.

Jap Parliament Burns

Tokyo.—A huge wooden and stucco structure, temporarily housing the diet (parliament) was destroyed by fire. The entire building, covering a block, was consumed. The loss is estimated at about $1,000,000. Gendarmes saved the imperial portraits and the brocade covering the throne.

Work Visits Son, Ill in West

Washington.—Secretary Work left for Denver, Colo., where his son is ill.

Go to Help in South American Boy Scout Drive

J. D. Makgill and A. D. Jamison of Detroit, Mich., will shortly go to South America on a drive for the increase of the number of boy scouts on that continent. In the group, left to right, are: Frank Presbury, member of the executive committee of the International Bureau of London; J. D. Makgill, special scout commissioner; Daniel Carter Beard, national scout commissioner; A. D. Jamison, scout executive, and James E. West, chief scout executive, Boy Scouts of America.

Big Group of Chinese Students for U. S. Colleges

This picture, made at Seattle, shows a group of 150 Chinese students about to start East to be scattered among the many colleges and universities they are to attend. Most of them already have studied at the University of Tsinghau, which is maintained by Boxer indemnity money turned back to China for educational purposes.

Army Flyers Have New Uniforms

Brig. Gen. James E. Fechet, assistant chief of the army air service (left), and Capt. Ira C. Eaker of the air service, photographed at the War department dressed in the new distinctive air service uniforms. General Fechet is in dress uniform and Captain Eaker is dressed for flying duty.

Where Cyclone Struck an Iowa Town

Scene near Persia, Iowa, where hundreds were made homeless and property damage of thousands of dollars was done by a cyclone. Members of the American Legion of Council Bluffs were first to aid the stricken residents of the district by providing supplies and in rebuilding operations.

TODAY'S "AGAMEDE"?

Miss Martha Van Rensselaer, head of the department of home economics in Cornell university, it is rumored will be the modern "Agamede." A nation-wide movement is under way by the Women's Foundation for Health of New York to find a present-day counterpart of that Grecian woman who, 4,000 years ago, as mentioned in Homer's "Iliad," brought health and happiness to human beings. The present-day "Agamede" will get the gold Agamede medal from the foundation.

HE SUED A MARCHESA

Harold J. Brennan, a Chicago grocery clerk, has begun suit for $1,000,000 for slander against the Marchesa Adelaide de Jannilli, and also has sworn out a warrant for her arrest for attempted extortion. The marchesa, who is said to be the widow of a former Italian minister to Japan, was formerly Adelaide Rees, daughter of an American army officer. The suit and warrant are the aftermath of a week-end party when the marchesa said her jewels were taken.

LA FOLLETTE WINS SENATE NOMINATIO

Given Big Majority Ove Rivals in Wisconsin Republican Primary.

Milwaukee.—Young Bob LaFollet in Tuesday's primary won bett than two to one the Republica nomination for the vacancy in th United States senate caused by th death of his father. The figures fro more than four-fifths of the pr cincts indicate his final plurality ov Roy P. Wilcox, the choice of the Os kosh convention, will range sou were around the 100,000 mark. Yoru Bob has a large majority over three of his opponents combined.

In 2,260 precincts Bob has a plura ity of 82,143 over Wilcox. These pr cincts yielded: LaFollette, 160,45 Wilcox, 78,314; McGovern, 17,50 Woodward, 36,425.

Former Governor McGovern is fourth place. Daniel Woodward of Os

Robert LaFollette.

kosh, the clergyman who is the bene ficiary of the Ku Klux vote, is gettin twice as many votes as McGovern.

On the Democratic side Willia George Bruce has a walkaway ove Judge Charles B. Rogers.

Young Bob swept practically all th state except the First congressiona district, the conservative stronghold where Wilcox rolled up the votes.

Charles MacVeagh Picked for Ambassador to Japan?

Washington.—A report persisted i Washington that President Coolidg has selected Charles MacVeagh o New York city and Washington, to b the next American ambassador t Japan, to succeed Ambassador Ban croft. Confirmation of the report wa not obtainable.

Mr. MacVeagh is a lawyer who main tains a residence in Washington, bu who has practiced in New York sinc 1883. He is a member of the firm o Jennings, Russell and Davis, and ha been general solicitor and assistan general counsel for the United State Steel corporation since 1901.

Peoria Judge Assails Federal Dry Officer

Peoria, Ill.—Sweeping investigation of the operations of "Lone Wolf" Asher, United States dry agent, whos wholesale liquor raids here six week ago resulted in 200 arrests, was or dered by Circuit Judge T. N. Gree in his charge to the September gran jury.

The judge's charge consisted mainly of a scathing arraignment of th methods used by Asher and his as sociates. His reports, the judge said indicated that the constitutional right of the people had been violated an arrests were made without due proces of law.

Walker Wins Democratic Nomination for N. Y. Mayo

New York.—State Senator James J Walker won the Democratic nomina tion. Walker was backed by Tam many Hall and Gov. Alfred E. Smith His plurality over Mayor John F. Hy lan was estimated at 100,000.

The Republicans nominated Fran D. Waterman, millionaire fountain pen manufacturer and organization candidate, who received a vote several times the combined vote of his two rivals, John J. Lyons and William M Bennett.

J. H. Jewett, Author, Dies

Syracuse, N. Y.—John Howard Jew ett, eighty-two, veteran of the Civ war and author of "Bunny Stories," and many other children's stories popular a generation ago, died here a the home of his nephew, F. L. Lyman.

Chicago Living Cost Up

Washington.—Cost of living in Chi cago increased about one-half of one per cent from July 15 to August 15, according to figures issued by the De partment of Labor.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

LITTLEFIELD GETS RESULTS FOR A. L.

Friends of Raymond B. Littlefield say he once had intentions of following the profession of civil engineering as his life work. "Should he not have changed his mind," they say, he would have been infinitely successful, for he is always engineering something or other to a successful completion."

The latest engineering feat to win him credit was the building of the department of Rhode Island of the American Legion into one of the strongest beams in the national structure of the Legion. This was done during his administration in 1924.

Legion work has been a particularly favorite objective for Mr. Littlefield's engineering genius. He began serving the Legion as a charter member of James Stanton post of the Legion, Central Falls, R. I. He served in post offices until the bigger job came in 1923 when at the department convention he was elected department adjutant, which office he held for one year. Indication of his efficiency and popularity as a department adjutant is revealed by the incident of his election to the department commandership by acclamation at the department convention in August, 1924. He is at present serving as alternate national executive committeeman.

Raymond B. Littlefield.

The same gradual steps that took him from just a buck Legionnaire to the department commandancy, he followed in the great adventure of 1917-1918. He enlisted in the Rhode Island National Guard on May 23, 1916, and served in that organization with ranks of private, corporal and sergeant. Then came the World war, and he went overseas with the Seventy-third Art. C. A. as a sergeant major, where he served in the line of advance. He was recommended for a commission when the armistice was signed.

Mr. Littlefield was born in 1895 at Central Falls, R. I., where he was educated in the public schools.

Junior World's Series for Boys' Ball Teams

Holding of a junior world's series for boys' baseball teams throughout the country under the auspices of the American Legion will be proposed at the national convention of the Legion at Omaha from October 5 to 9 by the National Americanism commission.

Decision to this effect was reached following a recent conference between Legion officials and Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western conference, who offered his assistance in working out the idea.

Recent developments portend success for the plan, if it is approved at the national convention.

Kenesaw M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, placed his stamp of approval on the plan to form the boys' league.

J. A. Butler, a member of the staff of the National Amateur Athletic association, and Allan Waters, of the Legion's community and civic betterment bureau, are co-operating in working out the details of the plan. Mr. Waters conceived and worked out the details of the plan of the junior baseball league for possible sponsorship by the Legion.

The present intention is to promote the organization of baseball leagues for boys of fourteen to seventeen in all parts of the country, according to Frank Clay Cross, director of the Americanism commission. Championships will be staged by districts, by states and regions, leading up to the national contest to be held each year at national conventions of the Legion. As the junior world series, as it will be called, the victor of all states east of the Mississippi river will play the champion of the West.

The junior world series is one feature of a general plan for Legion activity in sponsoring and promoting a greater active participation on the part of the general public in athletics.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

The garden still is green
And the green trees around,
But the winds are roaring overhead
And branches strew the ground,
And today on the garden pool
Floated an autumn leaf;
How rush the seasons, rush the years,
And oh, how life is brief.
—Richard Watson Gilder.

WHOLESOME FOODS

Sour cream is not enough prized. By keeping a little on hand from day to day one may have delicious cakes without butter, salad dressings, cookies, doughnuts and various other dishes which will appeal to all appetites.

One will have to use judgement in regard to the amount of cream used as it will vary with its richness. The following is a doughnut recipe which has been worked out and tested and found to be the "best ever." If the directions are carefully followed the cakes will be rich without soaking, tender and very moist. This kind will keep without drying out.

Best-Ever Doughnuts.—Beat two eggs in an aluminum bowl, add one and two-thirds cupfuls of sugar and beat until the sugar is well dissolved, then add a half teaspoonful of salt and one and one-fourth cupfuls of thick sour milk with a teaspoonful of soda well dissolved in it; then one-fourth cupful of rich thick sour cream, so thick that a spoon when dipped into it will stay well heaped with the cream. Powdered mace or grated nutmeg makes the best flavor. Vanilla never seems to be an appropriate flavor for doughnuts, and never, if you must use vanilla, use the substitute commonly called vanillin; it spoils the flavor of any food. Now the aluminum dish is set directly on the ice after just enough flour has been added to make a thick mixture that will still stir with the spoon. The secret of moist, tender and altogether delicious doughnuts is to cut them as moist as possible. The chilling process makes them easy to handle with no more flour. Work quickly, have the fat just right and carry the cakes to the fat on a broad knife, so they will not lose their shape; being soft they are hard to handle. This makes three dozen doughnuts cut in the usual size.

Sour Cream Dressing for Salads.—Add a tablespoonful of any good salad dressing to a cupful of thick sour cream, mix until well blended, add such seasonings as onion juice, red pepper or any chopped green pepper and onion with a bit of fresh red pepper. With this as a foundation one may vary it to suit any salad. For cucumbers add a bit of vinegar; also for chopped or shredded cabbage.

Sour Cream Cake Filling.—Cook together one cupful each of sour cream and brown sugar; when thick, add one cupful of hickory nut meats and beat until stiff enough to spread on the cake. Add any flavoring desired; maple is especially good with this filling.

Seasonable Foods.

Oysters are now coming into the market and should be served occasionally by those who enjoy them. An oyster stew is a simple dish to prepare, but it is too frequently poorly made and served. Oysters should be carefully looked over to remove any bits of shell, then put under the tap and rinsed in a sieve. The liquor should always be reserved and used, but carefully strained. The amount of oysters to serve depends upon the number to serve and their fondness for the shell fish. Enough should be used to give the broth a flavor; many like the broth who care little for the oyster.

Drop the oysters into the strained oyster liquor, adding enough cold water to cook the oysters until their edges curl. Remove them to the soup tureen, adding plenty of butter and salt and pepper to taste. To the hot liquor add fresh scalded milk, pour over the oysters and serve at once. Too long cooking of the oysters will make them tough and too little will make them most unpalatable. Serve at once with crisp oyster crackers.

Grilled Oysters.—Put a large piece of butter into a hot pan; when smoking hot drop in the oysters, a few at a time. When the oysters are browned remove to a hot dish and pour over them a sauce made by using the liquor from the oysters, thickened with flour and butter well blended. Season with worcestershire sauce, salt and cayenne and serve on buttered toast.

Fried Oysters.—Drain and wipe the oysters dry, roll in cracker crumbs seasoned with salt and pepper, dip into egg which has been beaten with a tablespoonful of milk, then dip again into cracker crumbs. Fry quickly in deep fat; drain on paper as fast as taken up. Serve very hot with parsley and lemon.

Colonial Cabbage.—Shred a hard head of cabbage which has been allowed to crisp in cold water. Drain well and add sweet cream, using enough to moisten the cabbage, a few tablespoonfuls of sugar, a little salt, and just enough vinegar to give zest to the dressing.

Grated carrot, chopped celery with a few minced nuts, mixed with a good salad dressing makes a good salad or sandwich filling.

Nellie Maxwell

MODES FOR SLENDER WOMEN; LOVELY PARIS EVENING GOWNS

THAT much heralded and discussed fullness of skirts, which is the high light of fall styles, has been very adroitly managed by designers of dresses and coats. How to make the fall skirt answer "present" when calling the roll of apparel for the stout woman, takes much sophisticated diplomacy on the part of designers. Fullness is introduced where it will do the most good for the too-slender woman, and where it will do the least harm, or no harm, for the stout woman. For the latter it is placed across the front or to one side, and inverted or plain plaits that lie flat are used. The designer must keep a rein on his fancy and suggest rather than actually introduce greater fullness.

But, in designing for the slender woman, the task is not only easy but pleasant. The very means for improving her figure are in the smile of fashion and the pretty frock pictured shows what can be done with them. This dress, of a wool fabric, has a long bodice, plain at the back but full at the front where it is laid in plaits along the shoulder seam and gathered into a wide, plain band at the hips. A long overskirt is shirred to this band and reaches within a few inches of a narrower underskirt.

The treatment of the sleeves and the neck finish is very successful and becoming to every one, the long ties, attached at the neckline, across the back, and knotted low at the front, make a graceful finishing touch that is one of the new season's best ideas. Ecru lace, or tucked net and lace, are most commonly used for the undersleeves and vestee and look well with any of the popular colors for frocks. Fashion emphasizes cloth in fall dresses, including tailored styles for the street, the coat frock and afternoon dresses, as well as those which are expected to do service for any daytime wear—like the handsome model pictured Frock That Improves the Figure.

We may not always agree with the French in their interpretations of tailored styles, but when it comes to evening and dinner gowns—well, we are willing to kiss the hems of these adorable expressions of lively fancy, at least nine times out of ten. Perhaps the French are inspired by the daintiness and splendor of fabrics provided for them, and perhaps they prefer to occupy themselves with the poetry of apparel rather than its prose. Anyway French evening frocks are all that we expected them to be this fall, and even more.

It is evident that georgette crepe is foremost in the minds of Paris designers of evening and dinner dresses and that they fairly revel in autumn's fashionable shades of red, blue and green. Besides the plain georgette they have at hand georgette brocaded with velvet and otherwise embellished. Combinations of this exquisite fabric with chiffon velvet, and with all-over gold lace are emphasized in the new imports. This gold lace appears in many patterns and is usually posed over georgette, as in the pretty frock shown here.

This simple affair has several style points that are noteworthy besides the application of gold lace—as the drapery over one arm, the flare in its skirt, sash made of the material and fastened near the front with a gorgeous but fragile looking flower. There are many models with sashes tied directly in front and nearly all of them have more or less full skirts. Some of them have one draped sleeve and dinner gowns often have long, full sleeves embellished with embroidery.

Has Several Noteworthy Style Points.

Red, in many rich shades, is sponsored everywhere, in vivid tones for young women, and in American beauty and purplish shades for mature wearers. Both the soft French blues and the new vivid shades are well represented and so are vivid greens. Sand and gray and white hold their own and silver or colored silk embroideries, discreetly used, look well with all colors.

Just now black has little representation in dinner and evening gowns, except in lace or sheer fabrics posed over a color. Beading is introduced on all colors.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Community Building

State of Transition Mars Beauty of City

The bent of our towns and cities to ugliness is no doubt an effect resulting from two causes. The first and more important of these causes is the loss of tradition and a consequent blind uncertainty of purpose; the second is the state of transition between one motive and another. Was ever transition beautiful? Never. Shifting standards are productive of a thousand inharmonies. Every one of our cities is a clamorous discord.

Even where the old dirt or gravel path between the lilacs and the cinnamon roses remains, its simple beauty is an affliction, because the neighboring concrete walk or motor car track laughs it to scorn. In front of the grave and sweet colonial dwelling, a square two-car garage squats in absolute ferocity on the very edge of the sidewalk. The necessary telephone poles spoil the beauty of the surviving old trees.

Everywhere, the effort to do something; everywhere, no doubt, the effort to create something beautiful, or at least something pretty; but nowhere any intelligent concurrence in a plan, nowhere a suggestion of harmony. We have wonderful, splendid business buildings, and between them rows of one or two-story business barracks, with poles, billboards, vacant lots with the rubbish of waste or construction. Things are in the making, and making is disorder.—Boston Transcript.

Septic Tank Makes for Safe Sewage Disposal

In the country, where wells are used, care should be given to a safe disposal of sewage. The introduction of the water system and modern plumbing has brought about a much greater use of water and a consequent question as to the safe disposal of the increased sewage, the New York World says.

The old-fashioned cesspool in a loose soil might be able to take care of a larger amount of sewage, while the pores of the more compact soil are apt to clog with semi-solid matter and require frequent cleaning. It is possible to place a cesspool so that the sewage will not contaminate the water supply, but its continued safety is always open to question.

The improved method of sewage disposal requires a septic tank through which all sewage passes slowly and is then distributed over a suitable area through tile pipe just below the surface of the ground.

This treatment of sewage is highly scientific and costs but little more than the cesspool. The best feature is that it is safe. The septic tank is placed below frost outside, or if necessary in the cellar, the point being that it must not be colder than 50 degrees and pipe line connecting must be able to carry off and dispose of the fluid discharged, and the tank should have capacity enough to insure time for the septic action to take place.

Distinctive Town Styles

The time is not far distant when our countrysides will be dotted with villages, each employing a distinctive style of architecture, imparting an atmosphere of foreign lands to the traveler. The designing of buildings for such a village provides large and fascinating fields for the architect, and the problems to be solved have unlimited possibilities.

A successful solution must first preclude monotony that usually is associated in cases where one style of architecture is used. The entire village must be fundamentally a composition of mass and color; the details and variations will follow in the natural course of development. This method of building entails no greater expense than the usual way, but requires a greater amount of study and thought. The results obtained, however, are gratifying and worthwhile.—Exchange.

Building Better Homes

The building industry is perhaps the nation's most accurate index of improved standards of living by the people. It is in the home that one finds expression given to the universal desire of all persons to live more conveniently, comfortably and efficiently. One of the outstanding characteristics of Americans is our spirit of progress. As succeeding generations become better educated and more prosperous, there is fostered a corresponding desire to live in more agreeable and comfortable surroundings. Inventions and innovations are constantly being introduced which raise the standards of convenience and efficiency in the average American home.

Plan to Shift Taxation

Los Angeles will vote on an amendment to the constitution of the state which exempts from taxation $2,000 worth of improvements on land to each individual taxpayer, and exempts all personal property from ordinary taxation. This, it is contended, will shift some of the burden of present taxation from the active business of farming, home owning, merchandising and manufacturing, to the less useful business of owning and holding vacant land for speculative profits.

WRIGLEY'S
AFTER EVERY MEAL

affords benefit as well as pleasure.
Healthful exercise for the teeth and a spur to digestion. A long-lasting refreshment, soothing to nerves and stomach.
The Great American Sweetmeat, untouched by hands, full of flavor.
SEALED TIGHT KEPT RIGHT

Sovietizing Gypsies

Soviet Russia is attempting to tame the gypsies. Recently representatives of these wanderers—who are of East Indian origin and have been roving through Europe since the Fifteenth century—formed an association, obtained recognition from the Soviet as a juridical body, and announced their intention to win their brethren away from nomadic habits and induce them to give up fortune-telling and horse-trading and settle down on farms or in industrial communities. In printing this report from Moscow a Budapest paper notes that a similar experiment with Hungarian gypsies was a failure.

Women and Employment

Fifty-four per cent of the female negro population of the United States is gainfully employed, 17.1 per cent of the native white of native parentage and 16 per cent of the Indian.—Science Service.

Dreams are the children of an idle brain, begot of nothing but vain fantasy.—Shakespeare.

Flying Into Matrimony

A young Swedish couple were recently married while flying through the air on board an airplane. When the machine, carrying a full complement of passengers, had risen to a height of 1,500 feet an altar was erected in the cabin, before which a Swedish clergyman performed the marriage ceremony, with a lawyer and his wife as witnesses. A wedding breakfast was then served, and the health of the couple drunk in champagne by all the passengers. The clergyman and the lawyer left the machine at Hamburg, but the couple continued their honeymoon trip to Amsterdam.

FACIAL ERUPTIONS unsightly and annoying . . im proved by one application of
Resinol

News Of Goodell and Vicinity By Times Correspondent

This vicinity was well represented at the County Fair Thursday.

Miss Thomas and Miss Litzswagger were Belmond "hikers" Saturday.

The teachers and pupils have all returned to their school work after two days vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Neeble, of Hartley, Iowa, were guests at the Cook and Sherwood homes last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harve Christensen are taking a vacation fishing in Minnesota.

Mrs. Hemingway, Sr., was called to Applington by the serious illness of her sister.

Veronica Finn left Thursday for Iowa City where she will attend the Iowa University.

Mrs. Joe Houghton returned from the Hampton hospital and is staying a few days at the Houghton home.

Wm. Greimanns gave an old time dance Monday night. All present report a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter, Sr., drove to Traer, Saturday, for a short visit with relatives. They returned Sunday.

Marie Smith came home for a few days visit. She left Friday to attend the Iowa University at Iowa City.

CROPS DAMAGED BY HAIL NEAR VENTURA

Severe Storm There Last Friday And Saturday Nights

VENTURA, Sept. 24.—The hail storms of Friday and Saturday nights did considerable damage on the farms near here. The hail, which is said to have been the size of hen's eggs and larger, injured the corn on a number of farms near the St. Johns Corners. The ears of corn were stripped from the stalks and kernels of corn were scattered about. Eighteen windows were broken in the church at St. John's Corners. One farm house has as many as 25 windows broken. Many chickens were killed, being struck down while roosting in the trees. Branches of trees were torn off in great numbers.

It cost an average of 30 cents to test each head of cattle for tuberculosis in the United States last year.

ELL TOWNSHIP CLOTHING CLUB LEADERS MEET

The leaders of the Ell Township Clothing Course met at the home of Mrs. R. W. Elder Saturday, Sept. 19. Ten leaders were present. This was an instructive lesson on choosing and cutting collars to fit and become the different types of figures to choose and combine colors. This lesson was given by Miss McIllrath. There is one more lesson in this course to be given in October at the home of Mrs. Hampel.

The follow up meeting for the north half of the township will be held Wednesday, September 30, at the home of Mrs. Clark Nelson; for the south half Thursday, Oct. 1, at the Wm. Becker home.

Plan to attend these meetings.

LOUIE KATTER VISITS COLARADO

Louie Katter returned last Friday from a week's trip to Colorado. He says that although the time was short he got around and covered a lot of territory and saw much of interest. While in Colorado he visited Pike's Peak, Garden of the Gods, the Seven Falls, Cave of the Winds, Buffalo Bill's Tomb and other places of interest.

NEWBERGERS TAKE TRIP

The Lewis and John Newberger families returned from a three day trip to Canistota South Dakota where they visited their father and his family, it being twenty-three years since they had seen them.

The roads were excellent there as they have had no rain since the 3rd of July. Most wells are dry and the people have nothing but cistern water to use.

The corn crop is an entire failure, but the oats and wheat crops were good.

The round trip totaled about 525 miles.

WHEN IT'S REALLY COLD!

The lowest atmospheric temperature ever read and recorded appears to be —133 degrees F., obtained with a registering thermometer attached to a sounding balloon sent up from Batavia, Java, in November 1913, says the Weather Bureau of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. The exact height at which this rreading was recorded is uncertain.

The lowest temperature ever recorded at a meteorological station on the earth's surface was 90 degrees below zero (F.), recorded at Verhoyansk, Siberia, February 5 and 7, 1892.

LETTER ON WAY FOR 37 YEARS

Eventually Reaches Addressee at Tacoma, Wash.

Tacoma, Wash.—Haakon Bader, who left Norway in 1888, recently received a letter mailed from his birthplace shortly afterward. During its 37 years' wanderings, the missive had been handled by the postal services in five different nations.

The letter written by Bader's father, long since dead, expressed his love and good wishes for his sailor son and contained photographs of Bader's parents.

When Bader, a lad of eighteen, went to sea from his native village of Kragero, Norway, the letter followed him to Cardiff, Wales, but arrived shortly after he had sailed for Buenos Aires. He had also left Buenos Aires when it reached that city, and it was turned over to the Danish consul there.

There it lay in the consular files, while Bader pursued his seafaring life over most of the world, including a visit to his home village. Later he joined the gold rush to Alaska and then came to Tacoma, where he opened a cigar store.

Some two months ago someone discovered the ancient letter in the consular files at Buenos Aires, and it was returned to its place of origin. There friends gave postal authorities Bader's last known address in Tacoma.

SAVES MANY LIVES

Chief Boatswain's Mate Thomas T. Moore, United States coast guard, who during the last nine years has rescued no less than sixteen persons from drowning and assisted in the rescue of many others, being decorated with the coast guard life-saving medal by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lincoln C. Andrews. Mr. Moore has served at various coast guard life-saving stations and is now officer in charge of the Fenwick island station, Delaware.

War Vet, Picture Bride, Must Wed in Bermuda

New York.—Red tape was so tightly bound around John Alexizakes, war veteran, of Billings, Mont., and his picture bride, Theodora Giataganas, recently arrived from Greece, that they had to leave the United States to marry.

The two sailed on a steamer for Hamilton, Bermuda, where government officials have arranged for their marriage. Then they will go to Mr. Alexizakes' home in Billings.

Theodora came to Canada to become John's bride. John had fallen in love with Theodora's picture, sent from his old home in Greece. A marriage was arranged.

The bride-to-be inadvertently informed Canadian officials that the two were planning to make their home in the States. So she was sent to Ellis island for deportation.

The government wouldn't allow the two to be married on American soil. In order to overcome the technicalities of the law, the government informed Alexizakes and his picture bride that they could wed in Bermuda, and the girl then could return to this country as the wife of an American citizen.

Commercial Fertilizer Encourages Big Yields

The continued use of commercial fertilizer over a series of years will encourage the production of large yields and it may be at the end of such a period it will be found impossible to raise as good a crop without the use of fertilizer. However, this is not due to any injurious effect of the fertilizer itself, but rather to the fact that the fertilizer has stimulated the crop, and caused it to remove from the soil even more plant-food elements than are supplied by the fertilizer. But if either large or small amounts of fertilizer are used in connection with a good system of cropping, and every care is taken to return all the manure to the land, there will be no reduction of yield due to soil depletion. The fact is, commercial fertilizers have a very definite value, more especially when proper use depends on such factors as crops, soils, rotation systems, etc.

Axle grease is cheaper than horse flesh.

The number of farms in the U. S. decreased 30,000 last year.

Easily Explained

Bluebelle is a lovely girl. People like her. She has a way with her, a way that invites confidences. But sometimes one of her confiding friends has to take her to task mildly.

"Bluebelle," said one of these, "I don't know who gave that secret away. When I told it to you the other evening I made it between you, me and the gate post."

"Well, you remember it was a strange gate post," responded Bluebelle gravely.

OMAHA GAS DOWN TO 12.9; DES GAS DROPS 2 CENTS

According to a news dispatch gasoline was selling at 12.9 to 14 cents per gallon at Omaha Tuesday. This price included the state tax of two cents per gallon.

Gas had also dropped at Des Moines and the price quoted at filling stations was 15.5 with the two cent tax to be added.

According to Secretary L. T. Nutty, the Hancock County Fair was well attended and was considered to be quite successful. Thursday was the biggest fair day the county has ever had and the night crowd was the largest ever on the fair ground before. The exhibits were all good and the attractions were better than usual. The men in charge are to be complimented for making the fair a success.

Clarence Elder and Fred Arnold drove to Ames Monday morning in the former's car to begin their work for the school year at the State College. Fred is in his Junior year taking a course in mechanical engineering, and Clarence is beginning his first year with a course in journalism. Adella Schroeder went to Ames Sunday to take up a course in Home Economics. Earl Josten has returned to Morningside to resume his studies in ministerial work.

IDLE HOUR THEATRE THIS WEEK

For Saturday, Sept. 30 "The Rose of Paris," starring Mary Philbin. A delicate love story adapted from the famous French novel, "Mitsi," by Delly. As the shy little convent rose in the midst of the tinsel glitter of Parisian gaieties Mary Philbin will steal another corner of your heart.

The comedy, Glenn Tryon in "The Goofy Age," a Hal Roach production.

Wednesday, Sept. 30—Tom Mix in "Bursted Trails." This is a real ne as you know Tom Mix pictures are the very best.

Also a good comedy!

ONLY $2,406 SPPENT SO FAR TO COLLECT IOWA GASOLINE TAX

The expense of collecting the gasoline tax in Iowa since the law became effective last spring has been $2,406, or only .06 of 1 per cent, and the amount so far collected is $1,481,494, State Treasurer Johnson has announced. The result of the three and one-half months collections leads officials to believe the estimate of the legislature that the annual gas tax revenue would be $4,500,000 was a conservative one.

Each of the three road funds—primary, county, and township have been allotted $485,144 from the collections.

Refunds have totalled 1.5 per cent of the gross collections, the amount thus far being $14,459. Refunds to municipalities amounted to $5,876, and to individuals $9,433.

Carrying Out A Systematic Program

A systematic program is carried out by the successful feeder when he is getting his cattle ready for market. They are fed a certain amount at the same hours each day. Why? He wishes to get the best possible returns—to top the market.

The same holds true with the person who wishes to save. He must do as the feeder—adopt a systematic program. This means setting aside a certain amount each month.

We welcome the small Savings Account as well as the larger business.

First National Bank
KLEMME, IOWA.

Silo Filling

And Your Meat

SILO FILLING TIME is at hand and we want to remind you that we have the MEATS for those big dinners the busy lady of the house is preparing:—

CHOICE BEEF ROASTS—
CHOICE PORK ROASTS—
WHOLE or HALF HAMS—
JUICY STEAKS—
VERY BEST PORK CHOPS—
SMOKED MEATS of all kinds—

Other Items Fir The Table——

CHEESE—we carry a large variety.
HEINZ "57"—try some of the best.
PORK & BEANS.
CATSUP, MUTARD, Etc.
MEAT SAUCES andRELISHES.
PEANUT BUTTER, Etc.
COLD MEATS OF ALL KINDS.
Full line of PICKLED MEATS.

Klemme Meat Market

4th ANNUAL

HOG SALE!

BIG TYPE

Poland China & Chester White Hogs

Saturday, Oct. 3

Located on my farm one-fourth mile west of Klemme. Sale starts at 1:00 P. M. Sharp.

Offering 75 Head of Fine Pure Bred Hogs

Poland China
25 BOARS AND 15 GILTS

These big rugged Boars and Gilts are sired by Big Armistice Boy, an exceptional son of Armistice Boy 512275, World's Champion Boar 1924; World's Junior Champion 1923; Grand Champion of Iowa 1923-24-25. Surely stock from such a breeder will make money for you. Also offering one litter sired by Armistice Boy.

Chester Whites
20 BOARS AND 15 GILTS

This is as good a bunch of Chester Whites as I ever raised. They are sired by High Rainbow, an outstanding son of Iowa Rainbow 238537, first prize Senior Yearling Boar National Swine Show 1924. Also offering one litter by Grant's Rival 228291, Grand Champion National Swine Show 1924.

BETTER HOGS FOR BIGGER MONEY—

Hogs have always been characterized as "The Mortgage Lifters," and truly they are more so today than ever. But as land values are higher, all expense proportionally greater it requires better farming and management to meet these demands. Statistics proves the hog carries the burden. But the old time "scrub" or "razorback" is not capable of meeting the present demands. It takes a real "Big Type Hog" with a big assimilating capacity, a good strong arched back, strong underpinning, a real "Hoggy Hog." We have them, come and judge for yourself.

IMMUNITY—All hogs have been vaccinated against hog cholera.

TERMS:—Cash, or 6 month's time on approved notes at 8 per cent interest.

R. C. Ludeke, Owner

Klemme, Iowa

L. A. Matern, Auctioneer. First National Bank, Klemme, Iowa. CLERK.
Try to attend this sale. If impossible, send bids in our care to Auctioneer or clerk.

We are closing out for a Whole- e Rug Firm 100 small rugs at ces which will save you from 10% 25% at Wellemeyer's. 1tc

Dr. R. W. Specht

—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!

Pavey's

STORMIZING SHOP

Clamp Down On Dances

SEXTON, Sept. 24.—The authorities here have refused to grant dance hall licenses. The public dances had grown to be of too rough a character, it is said.

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, Sept. 24, 1925

Eggs (trade)	.32
Eggs (cash)	.31
Heavy Hens	.19
Light Hens	.14
Standard Springs	.17
Leghorn S rings	.14
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butterfat	.49
Butter (Klemme Creamery)	.49

DR. R. E. PORTER

CHIROPRACTOR

..Every Day — Open Evenings..

Office at John Lieuwen Residence

Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Phone your news to The Klemme Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fuller went to Vernon Center, Minn., last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Kirkwood drove to Minnesota Monday on business.

Have your sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop, Klemme, Iowa.

Ed. G. Ell, wife and son, Milvern, of Mankato, Minn., came Tuesday to attend the funeral of Arthur Larsen.

9x12 Rugs. Wiltanna Velvets, Khorassan Axminister. Special Price $47.50 at Wellemeyer's. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus expect to leave this Thursday for Clear Lake, Minnesota for a fishing trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Allie White and son, Albert, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. A. D. White at Goodell.

Mr. Philip Ell, of Mason City came Tuesday for a few days visit in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis drove to Hampton Sunday for a visit with relatives.

Miss Alice Caroles was operated upon at a Mason City hospital last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hod Lawhorn, of Garner, were Klemme visitors this week Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Gedye and daughter, Beulah, of Whittemore, were Klemme callers Tuesday.

Miss Maurine Hake has been employed in the Belmond Candy Kitchen since last week.—Herald-Press.

Rev. Howdeshell, a former Klemme pastor, now of Williams, Iowa, was here Tuesday to assist with the funeral service of Arthur Larsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Skow and daughter, Margaret, of Watertown, S. Dak., came Sunday afternoon for a visit with Klemme relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day, and Mr. and Mrs. Skow drove over to Mason City this afternoon to visit with Mrs. John Baumgartner at the hospital.

We note in the Ventura news that Prof. and Mrs. Neese and daughter, of Titonka, spend their week ends at their Ventura home.

Mrs. H. Coobs came from McGregor and is with her daughter, Mrs. W. F. Pavey at the hospital at Mason City.

Robert Schneider of Goodell, won first prize with his calf at the Hancock County Fair. His brother, Frederick came in for sixth prize with his calf.

Mr. and Mrs. Neebel, of Hartley, Iowa, visited at the Sherwood, Cook, Griggs and Carpenter homes the past week. All these families enjoyed a picnic at Clear Lake Sunday.

Before you move out to Canada or Florida, see Wellemeyer's; they will buy your old Furniture, or keep for you in Storage until you get back. 1tc

Warner Butts, Walt Mason, Lee Robbins and Roscoe Wiles, of Goodell, and Oscar Carlson of Klemme, left Monday for northern Minnesota on a fishing trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gimer and children drove to Sioux City last Thursday and then on to White Lake, South Dakota for a visit, returning to Klemme Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wiles, of Ames, drove up Sunday for a short visit with Klemme friends. Miss Adella Schroeder returned to Ames with them to begin work at college.

Wm. Schlawin's son, Gerald, had the misfortune of breaking his arm last Thursday evening when he jumped from the car to close the gate and fell.

We had a light frost Monday of this week but it did no damage to crops or plants. Corn is well out of the way of frost danger at this time and farmers say it is about three weeks ahead of usual ripening time. Prospects look rosy for a big corn crop here.

Walt Bloom left Wednesday evening for his home at Los Angeles, California, after spending a couple of months here. Walt comes to this town as regular as summer comes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jacobs have rented the Ing. Lauritsen house and will move in the first of the month. Mr. and Mrs. Lauritsen will reside with the latter's father Mr. Swalve.

Al Emerson accompanied C. W. Wiles, of Ames, to Minnesota yesterday. Mr. Wiles went up to look after threshing on his farm and Al will put in a few days fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus, W. C. Keraus and family, C. G. Waterman and family, Mrs. Mabel Cullinan and Mrs. Mary Waterman spent Sunday at the former's cottage at Clear Lake.

Mrs. W. F. Pavey was operated on for appendicitis at the Mercy Hospital at Mason City Sunday. Late reports are that she getting along fine, which her many friends here will be glad to hear.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Harberts of Klemme, Geo. Harberts and family and J. and H. Harberts, of Belmond, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Houghton and son of Kanawha, were guests at the Hio Harberts home at Goodell Sunday.

In the fall, when the trees dress up in red and gold, that's the time when Wellemeyer's Used Furniture Department is the most active. It seems people like to buy and sell this class of merchandise in the fall. 1tc.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Chapman of Kansas City, and Mr. and Mrs. Titus Davis and two grandchildren, of Lincoln, Nebraska, left yesterday morning for their homes after spending a week visiting at the R. A. Jorgenson home.

The Belmond Herald-Press of this week carries the information that LuVerne Smith, of Klemme, is the new manager of the Standard Service station at Belmond, succeeding Gerhard Johnson, who is now driving the tank truck.

At a meeting of the Board of Supervisors Tuesday material was contracted for to build a quanity of snow fence which will be placed near Crystal Lake and Garner. Fourteen hundred steel posts were purchased of the Ft. Dodge Culvert & Steel Co. and 18,000 feet of snow fence was purchased from the Wheeler Lumber Company.

If you insure your property against fire you should insure against rats and mice. Rats and mice destroy more property than is destroyed by fire. Kill them with Meyer's Poison Kernels. For sale at Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1tp

Arthur Larsen, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larsen was taken to the Hampton hospital last Friday. His condition was too serious to warrant an operation and the little boy passed away Saturday. The obituary is published elsewhere in this issue of the Times.

Friday R. A. Jorgenson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Davis and two grandsons, of Lincoln, Nebr., and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Chapman, of Kansas City, Mo. drove to West Bend to visit the Grotto. Sunday the same party drove to Nashua to visit the Little Brown Church In The Vale.

The Rebeccah Lodge gave a surprise party and reception on Mrs. Adna Church Ward Monday evening at the hall. Refreshments were served after a social time was enjoyed and the lodge then presented Mrs. Ward with a carving set as a wedding gift. All report having had a fine time.

Floyd Ringenberger moved to northern Minnesota, G. W. Chamberlain has gone to California and the Shaw family have migrated to Ohio. Yes, these people have gone, but their Used Furniture is at Wellemeyer's Store. Rather than move their furniture so far, they sold it to Wellemeyer, and we invite the public to call and inspect the bargains offered at this time in Wellemeyer's Used Furniture Department. 1tc

HANCOCK COUNTY REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Edd. B. Schoenwetter et al to Emil Prengnitz et al W. D. date 9-14-25, SW¼ 9-94-24 ..... $1.00.

J. S. Young wf to F. L. Young. W. D. date 9-11-25, lots 5-6-7-8 and all blk. 3 and all blk. 4 Stilsons 2nd add. Corwith ..... $1.00.

Fred W. Walkner wf. to E. D. Phipps, W. D. date 9-12-25, SWfr¼ 31-97-25 ..... $1.00.

Ollie Mrnka hus. to John M. Greekmur, Q. C. D. date 9-10-25, lots 1-2-3-4-5-6 blk. 1 Corwith .... $1.00.

J. J. Cosgrove et al to Christian Nyman, Q. C. D. date 8-29-25, NE¼ 9-95-26 ..... $1.00.

Trade Names Filed

Garner Oil Co. Owner: Geo. G. James, Garner, Iowa.

Figure It Out For Yourself!

If you wish to compare prices paid by THE KLEMME CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY COMPANY as compared to those paid by the cream station of which you are a patron, we will be glad to furnish you information that will enable you to check up closely.

Upon request we will furnish you a statement of prices paid by this creamery over a period of several months.

Secure the same information from your station and COMPARE RESULTS.

We are confident that you will be surprised at the comparative figures.

You aim to secure the very highest price for your grain, eggs and poultry.

Why not secure the HIGHEST PRICE FOR YOUR CREAM?

It Pays To Patronize The—

Klemme Creamery Co.

The Improved

Ford Car

Carload Due To Arrive Any Day This Week

Come in at once and get your order placed with us for one of these Latest Improved FORD CARS. All the very latest improvements and body styles in this car load.

RADIOS

We are the exclusive dealers in this territory for—

ZENITH RADIO and—

SUPER-HETRODYNE RADIO

This is RADIO SEASON—buy your Radio of us now and get the full benefit of wonderful entertainment. We handle only the best makes which have proven satisfactory. We are glad to demonstrate.

Greimann Motor Co.

Authorized Ford Sales and Service

Built To Operate And Furnish Service

The dominant purpose in the developement of the great Public Service System called the DOWS, SMITH, REED ORGANIZATION, has consistently been to develop these properties as operating concerns—and not as merely a combination of capital formed for easy control through the medium of holding Companies.

This distinction is important to both the customers and the investors as on the one hand, direct investment is made in improvements and extensions at a relatively lower cost for the capital actually invested in the tangible property used by the customers, and a closer community of interest exists between them, and the Company, while on the other hand, the investors are direct investors in the property—through their ownership of the Bonds, Notes and Stock of an operating Company, and not merely, as in the case of holders of holding Company Securities, holders of proportionate intersts in the stocks of the operating Companies in a holding corporation.

The mutual interest of IOWA and the customers and investors of CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY through its association with the DOWS, SMITH, REED ORGANIZATION, is clearly evident in the many millions of dollars that have been invested in the State for Public Service, and the fact that about 1,000 employees are on the payrolls of the Companies, and that about $9,000,000 annually is cleared through the Banks of the State by this organization.

The headquarters being located at CEDAR RAPIDS, further indicates the identity of these Companies with the State of Iowa. All this means that the Income so far as possible is dispersed within the State and adds materially to the general prosperity. These are important points for both Customers and Investors to consider.

Respectfully,

Central States Electric Co.

215 South Second Street
CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA

New Goods Arriving On Every Train!

Ladies Ready-to-wear
New Fall and Winter Coats
Latest Style Dresses
New Dress Goods
Curtains and Drapes
New Fall Millinery
Shoes for Everybody
Blankets of all kinds
Suits and Overcoats for Men and Boys

And Mr. Abraham says, "Move these new goods fast! Make the price rock bottom. I want small profits and quick sales."

Chas. Abraham & Sons

S. E. Adams, Mgr. GARNER, IOWA

NAMELESS RIVER

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company

WNU Service.

CHAPTER XVIII

—16—

The Fighting Line at Last.

Brand Fair haunted the Selwood ranch. He hung to the side of the unconscious man almost night and day.

"What do you think, doctor?" he asked anxiously of the medical man brought in from Bement.

"Frankly, I don't think," said that worthy, "these lapses, superinduced by concussion, are treacherous things. He may recover suddenly, or he may die without regaining consciousness. It's a gamble."

But anxious as he was to know the secret locked in the unconscious brain of Price Selwood, Fair had not been idle.

He and Bossick had been very busy. Many things had been done, a plan arranged, secret conclaves held at which grim and determined men sat their horses and pledged themselves to do a certain thing.

Then Fair went to the cabin on Nameless, for the longing in his heart to see Nance Allison grew with every passing hour.

He held her in his arms and kissed her forehead and her smooth cheeks, touched the shining coronet of her hair with reverent hands.

"Sweetheart," he whispered, after the age-old fashion of lovers, "there was never a woman like you! You are my light in dark places, my rain in the desert. Oh, Nance, what if I had never found you!"

And the girl leaned on his heart in an ecstasy of love that was shot with sadness, holding fast to her trust with desperate hands.

"It's bound to come soon now," he told her, "we are organized and ready—only waiting for Selwood, poor fellow, to regain his reason that he may tell us where to strike."

"There'll be gun play and—blood," said Nance miserably, "and I pray God that you will not be taken. I—I couldn't lose you, Brand, and live. I wouldn't dare to live—for if they kill you—Oh, that black hatred which has stirred in me so long, is getting beyond my strength to hold it! I'll go mad and turn killer, Brand if they kill you! I know it—I feel it here—" she laid eloquent hands on her heart—"and then my soul will go into the pit of damnation."

"Buck up," scoffed the man playfully, "we'll all come through with colors flying and see this nest of vipers caged. Then think of life on Nameless, Nance—safe and happy, with our fields and our herds and peace in all the land. I shouldn't have suggested anything else. Come—be my brave girl again, my good fighter."

Obedient to his words, Nance straightened and tried to smile in the starlight.

"That's it," he said, "you're resilient as willow wood—ready with a comeback. You'll never leave the line, sweetheart, never in this world!"

It was late in the night when Fair rode away.

He went south, going back to look again on the quiet face of Sheriff Selwood, then on to the Deep Heart fringes to meet Bossick and Jermyn.

As for Nance Allison, she was seized with a great restlessness that made inaction unbearable.

"I think I'll ride the lower slopes of Mystery, Mammy," she said next morning, "and look for that black shoat that's missing. I can't afford to lose it."

The mother looked at her with worried eyes.

"You take your pappy's gun," she said at last. "I feel to tell you so. Th' time has come."

But the girl shook her head.

"I don't care," she said, "I can't trust myself of late." She kissed Sonny, ran a hand over Bud's bronze hair, and went out to the stable where she saddled Buckskin and rode away.

In every likely place she looked and listened for the black shoat, but it seemed to have disappeared from the face of the earth, like the six fat steers. She followed a small ravine for longer than she had intended, sat for a while in a sunny opening high along the breast of Mystery, and sidled back toward the west again.

And here it was that two men far above looked down and saw her with ejaculations of delight.

"Well, if this ain't luck!" said Provine grinning, "then I'm a liar! I thought this morning when Arnold handed us that last bunch of instructions that he was due for once to come out th' little end of th' horn. I didn't see how any human was goin' to be able to carry them out. I didn't think we'd ever get near enough to get her and do it on th' q. t. But she's brought herself to us!"

"If she's armed," said Caldwell shortly, "it's not time yet to crow. I think she'd fight."

"Fight, h—l!" said the other, "she don't believe in fightin'. She's religious. We'll pick her up too easy an' present her to th' boss with our compliments."

An hour later Nance, riding along a dim trail made by the traveling hoofs of deer, came out above a spring in a pretty glade.

She was warm and thirsty, so she dismounted and pushing back her hat from her sweated forehead, knelt on the spring's lip and putting her face to the limpid water, drank long and eagerly a foot from Buckskin's muzzle.

As she straightened up, wiping her mouth with the back of her hand, she caught a sound where had been silence before—the sound of something moving, the rattle of accoutrements, and turning quickly, still upon her knees, she looked up into the grinning face of Sud Provine, the frowning one of the Sky Line foreman.

"By Jing!" said Provine wonderingly, "never havin' seen you outside that there ol' bonnet of yours I didn't know how purty you was! Them eyes now—they're right blue, ain't they? An' that wide mouth—all wet where you stopped wipin' it—"

"You d—n fool!" said Caldwell disgustedly, "shut up and mind the business entrusted to you. Miss Allison," he said to Nance, "you're just the person we wanted to see. We were sent this morning to fetch you to Sky Line, so you may as well go along sensibly, for we'll take you anyway."

Nance rose to her feet.

"Then you'll have to take me," she said curtly, "for I'll not ride a step with anyone from Sky Line."

She swung into her saddle and struck her heels to Buckskin's sides in a forlorn hope of escape—little Buckskin, stock, slow and faithful.

Provine laughed again and dashed forward with a leap of his gray Silvertip that put him alongside in a second.

"Ain't no use, purty," he said and caught her rein.

He turned the little horse up the slope, Caldwell fell in close behind and Looked and Listened for the Black Shoat.

in a matter of two minutes Nance Allison was a prisoner headed for Sky Line ranch.

The pink flush was gone entirely from her face, leaving it pale as wax. Her lips were faintly ashen.

"Help me, Lord!" she whispered inaudibly, "Oh, my God, be not far from me!"

There was no fear in her, only a deep and surging anger that seemed to make her lungs labor for sufficient air. Her usually smiling lips were set together in a thin line.

So, in silence, save for Provine's occasional jesting observations, they climbed the breast of the great ridge and presently struck into the well-worn trail which led direct to Sky Line.

At the broad steps to the right Nance was ordered to dismount.

Provine took Buckskin and Caldwell motioned her to ascend the steps. With her head up and her mouth tight shut Nance Allison strode forward into the stronghold of her enemies.

The door was open, and she saw first only a pale darkness within as she stopped on the threshold.

Then, pushed forward by the foreman with a none too gentle hand, her eyes slowly became accustomed to the shadowy interior and, in spite of herself, they widened with amazement at the splendor she beheld.

A man was sitting on a broad couch, a cigarette in his fingers. He was a stranger to Nance, a stranger to the country, but she catalogued him swiftly as the man from New York of whom all Nameless had heard. He was slim and fair skinned, and the gray eyes, set rather close together across the arch of the high-bridged nose, were the sharpest she had ever seen in a human. A fox she had once seen caught in a trap had had just such eyes.

They were cold and appraising, without a spark of kindness.

In one of the gorgeous chairs Kate Cathrew, dressed like a princess, sat bolt upright.

At sight of Nance in her faded garments, straight and defiant in her controlled anger, her handsome face flushed beneath its artistry.

"Ah!" she said, like a vixen, "get—out—of—that—door. Step over to the right a bit, you obscure the light."

The big girl did not move.

She stood with her hat pulled down above her narrowed eyes, one hand on her hip.

"If you've got anything to say to me," she said coldly, "say it."

Kate Cathrew leaped to her feet, but the man put out a hand and touched her.

As if a spring had been released she sank down, obeying that calm touch like an automaton.

"Miss—ah—Allison," said Arnold, "there is no need for dramatics. Neither will they avail you. We wanted to see you—to talk business with you. So we sent for you."

"So I see," said Nance, "or rather you kidnaped me."

"Not so decided, please. We don't like such words. They are—ah—crude, I might say."

"Not half so crude as you will find the methods of Nameless when this gets out, I guess," said Nance. "Heaven knows I don't amount to much, but I am likely to be a torch for a fire that's smoldering."

"We have extinguishers," smiled Arnold. "Sky Line is a pretty fire department, if I do say it. The thing for you to do just now is—think. I'll give you ten minutes."

"I don't need them," said Nance. "I've thought for several years—about my father's death—my brother's crippled body—my missing cattle—my burned stacks—and many other things. I'm thinking now about Sheriff Selwood—and Bossick's latest loss."

The man's face hardened, yet a reluctant admiration drew a slight smile across it.

"You take liberties, Miss Allison. Are you not—speaking in jest—a little—ah—afraid to speak so broadly?"

Nance laughed bitterly, shifting her feet in their worn boots.

"Afraid? No—not of you—nor of your hired rustlers—nor Cattle Kate, there, with her paint and her tempers. I'm not afraid of anything but the wrath of God."

At that Arnold laughed outright.

"You have something yet to learn, I see. Very well, since you do not care to think I will outline briefly your situation. You know, of course, that you are at present in the power of Sky Line ranch. Reasoning backward you will come to the conclusion that there is a primal cause for this. Reasoning forward you will know that there is something which you can do for Sky Line, which it wants of you."

"Of course," said Nance, "the whole country knows that—my flats on the river."

Arnold frowned.

He did not like that answer.

"And how, may I ask, does the country know this?"

"It knows what has happened to me for several years now—and it judges the faces of your riders and their boss."

"If you please, we'll leave Miss Cathrew out of this," said Arnold crisply.

"Yes?" asked Nance. "She's been the backbone of my troubles—under you, no doubt—and it isn't likely I'll leave her out. If you have anything to say to me I'd advise you to say it and get it over before Nameless comes hunting me."

"All Nameless may come hunting you, Miss Allison," returned the man, "but it will not find you. Now put your wits in order. Sky Line wants those flats on the river—and means to have them. We don't do things by halves. What we undertake we finish. The time has come for decisive action. You have had many—ah—hints to vacate and have foolishly disregarded them. That is like a woman. A man would have gone long ago."

"Not any man," interrupted Nance, "my pappy didn't."

"No?" said Arnold cruelly. "Is he here?"

Quick tears misted the girl's eyes, but the slowly throbbing anger burned them out.

"Yes," she said promptly, "and always will be—at the foot of our mountain—and in Bud and me. He has not yet been conquered."

Arnold dropped his dead cigarette into a tall brass receptacle, rose and stepped into the other room. He picked something from the desk there and came back.

"We come to cases," he said sharply. "I have here a properly-made-out deed, conveying to Miss Cathrew for the consideration of one dollar, the quarter-section of land herein described, lying along Nameless river, owned by the widow of John Allison, deceased, who took up said land under the homestead act. This paper needs only the name of John Allison's widow and two witnesses to make it a legal transfer of property. I am a notary. We can supply the witnesses—the highly important and necessary signature of John Allison's widow you will obligingly furnish—at a price."

Nance swept off her hat and struck it down against her knee. A laugh broke stiffly on her tallow-white face.

"If I could swear," she said, "I'd tell you where to go, and what I thought you were. You may consider yourself told as it is."

Arnold became coldly grave.

"You refuse?"

"What do you think I do? Put your wits in order!"

The man turned and struck a bell which stood on a rosewood pedestal. Minnie Pine responded with suspicious promptness.

"Send me Provine and Big Basford," said Arnold briefly, and the girl departed.

The man did not speak again, nor did Nance.

There came a shuffle and rattle of spur and the two Sky Line riders stood in the doorway of the room beyond, having come through the kitchen.

"Miss Allison," said Arnold, "I own the men of Sky Line, how or why is unimportant. What I tell them to do, they do. Am I not right, men?"

Provine nodded easily.

Big Basford spoke sullenly.

"Yes, sir," he said.

"All right. Now, my girl, consider. There is on Sky Line a secret place—"

"I've always thought so," said Nance decidedly.

"Be quiet. A place which the whole of Nameless is not likely to find, so mysteriously is its entrance hidden. One could live there for a lifetime undiscovered—or be taken out as if on wings—"

"Like Bosswick's disappearing steers!"

Arnold was exasperated, but held his temper.

"Exactly," he said, "if you will. Now consider again. You are a pretty fine specimen of a woman—quite likely to appeal to men—especially to men long denied feminine companionship—like Basford there."

Nance flung a glance at Basford. His sullen, lowering face set in its thicket of beard with the red-rimmed eyes above was enough to chill the heart of any woman. The great ape-like body added its own threat. Her own intrepid spirit felt a shock of horror, but that deep anger in her left little room for fear.

She seemed to hear again Brand Fair's exultant words: "You'll never leave the line, Nance, never in this world!"

With a dogged courage heaving through the anger she looked back at Arnold.

"Well?" she said.

"Big Basford hasn't had a woman of his own for many moons, I know. Now—will you sign this deed—or will you go with Basford to Rainbow's pot—his blushing bride?"

Nance's breast was heaving. Great breaths dilated her lungs and whistled out again. Her hands were shut tight, the fingers on her hat brim crimping the weathered felt.

She thought of her mammy—of Bud—of their long labor and the hardships they had borne. She thought of the cabin on Nameless—of its white scrubbed floors—its homely comforts—and all it meant to them and to her. It was her pappy's dream of empire—it had been hers. She thought of Brand Fair and of Sonny. Of Brand and Bud who would sure start the fire to burning in all the lonely reaches at news of her disappearance—and—

"I'm as good as most men," she said, "to take care of myself. I wouldn't sign that paper to save you and all your rustler nest from eternal damnation! And that's my last word."

Arnold snapped his fingers.

"Enough," he said, "we'll see what a night in Rainbow's pot will do for you. Basford—my compliments. I give you the beautiful lady. Properly disciplined she'll make you a fine wife."

But Big Basford shook his unkempt head.

"She's a yellow woman," he said contemptuously, "I don't want her," and his hungry eyes went helplessly toward the dark splendor of Kate Cathrew in her velvet chair.

Provine surged forward, a sudden excitement in his snaky orbs.

"I do," he cried, "try me!"

Arnold laughed.

"Good! I like an eager lover. You may guard Miss Allison inside, and Basford shall take the place I had intended for you outside the Flange. We'll talk business some more tomorrow. We bid you adieu, Miss Allison. I hope by morning you will be more amenable to reason."

Without a backward glance Nance turned and strode away between her guards. Resistance was useless, she well knew.

"The hand of God," she said calmly, "is ever before my face. Neither you nor yours can do me harm for the Lord shall preserve me from all evil. He shall preserve my soul. And He did not make me strong for nothing," she added. "I shall leave it all to Him."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Protection for Big Game

Sleeping sickness and malarial fever will perpetuate big game in Africa; the realization has been forced on hunters that they cannot defy microbes when they invade the haunts of the big mammals.

Enjoyment on Tour

Tony—"What sort of time is Frank having on his motor tour?" Jim—"Great! I've had two letters from him—one from a police station and the other from a hospital."—Good Hardware.

The Old Standby in a New Dress

The New Package

—the same dependable remedy that over a period of more than fifty years has been found so reliable in the treatment of catarrh and diseases of catarrhal nature.

The outside of the package only has been altered. To facilitate packing and reduce breakage in shipping, the paper wrapper which has identified the Pe-ru-na bottle for many years has been displaced by a substantial pasteboard carton.

Pe-ru-na cannot be made any better. Three generations of users testify that Pe-ru-na is the best remedy in the world for catarrh and diseases of catarrhal origin.

The remedy our fathers and grandfathers used with so much satisfaction is still the standby for the ills of everyday in thousands of American homes.

PE-RU-NA

The Original and Reliable Remedy for Catarrh

Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid

Send 4 Cents for booklet on catarrh to the Pe-ru-na Company, Columbus, Ohio

Possibly Terrier May Become Musical Critic

A tenor, letting his eyes rove over the audience as he waited for the accompanist to get through the introductory measures, was astonished to see a brindle bull terrier occupying one of the best seats in the house. So great was his wonderment that he sang that song directly to the dog, which cocked an alert head inquiringly to one side in an attitude of rapt attention.

After the concert, the tenor asked the manager of the hall to explain the presence of the dog.

"That's all right," soothed the manager, "'at dog's seat was paid for."

"But why was the dog there, I'm asking?" persisted the tenor.

"Well, it's this way: His owner, one of the rich women of this town, hates to be disturbed during a concert by having some restless person sit in front of her, so for the course she buys two seats, tandem, assigning the one in front of her to the dog; and blame me, mister, that terrier is beginning to enjoy the music!"—Boyden Sparks in the Saturday Evening Post.

BEAUTIFY IT WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings — everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Combination of Motions

Motion pictures are in reality a combination of still pictures. The first picture of the automobile shows the spokes of the wheels in one position. If the next exposure of the film were made when spoke No. 1 had advanced far enough to be in the position of spoke No. 2, the picture would show no motion, as spokes are identical. If spoke 1 had advanced less than halfway to position of spoke 2, the forward motion would be noticed. If, however, spoke 1 advances more than half way to the observer, it would have the effect of spoke 2 moving backward, as that distance would be shorter and the apparent motion would be in that direction.

A Substantial REWARD

Thousands of people in America have been liberally rewarded for insisting on having USKIDE Soles on their shoes. USKIDE wears and wears and wears. It is made only by the United States Rubber Company, the world's largest manufacturer of rubber products. The money it saves on shoe bills is remarkable. Have your old shoes re-bottomed with USKIDE. Buy new shoes with genuine USKIDE Soles. USKIDE is comfortable, healthful, waterproof, good-looking. Protects against slipping. Look for the name USKIDE on the sole.—Adv.

Wise Fire Chief

When fire destroyed a tailor shop at Glen Ridge, N. Y., $20,000 worth of clothes belonging to wealthy people were burned. The only suit saved belonged to the chief of the fire department.

Italians Win Macaroni Trade

Italian macaroni is winning over that from America in Great Britain, and shipments from this country are dropping in volume.

No Weakness There

"Is your baby strong?"

"Well, he seems able to lift his voice many times a day."

Business success is won by a brain that does not go woolgathering in a crisis.

Subject to Release

She—But, Algy, I'm very cross with you, really! You promised faithfully to bring your engagement ring tonight.

He—Believe me, dear, I'm sorry. The truth is—the other girl hasn't returned it yet.—Stray Stories.

Dog Finds Gold

A boy playing with his dog, which scratched up a sample of gold from the surface of the ground, was responsible for the latest gold "strike" in New South Wales.

Watch Cuticura Improve Your Skin. On rising and retiring gently smear the face with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. It is wonderful what Cuticura will do for poor complexions, dandruff, itching and red, rough hands.—Advertisement.

Might Try It

"Counting sheep is good for insomnia." "But baby doesn't know what sheep are. How about moo-cows?"

A man who is "just as content" in one environment as another, has never enjoyed much.

Genuine BAYER

ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer Aspirin"

INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package

which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets

Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Thirty Running Sores

Remember, I stand back of every box. Every druggist guarantees to refund the purchase price (60 cents) if Peterson's Ointment doesn't do all I claim.

I guarantee it for eczema, old sores, running sores, salt rheum, ulcers, sore nipples, broken breasts, itching skin diseases, blind, bleeding and itching piles, as well as for chafing, burns, scalds, cuts, bruises and sunburns.

"I had 30 running sores on my leg for 11 years, was in three different hospitals. Amputation was advised. Skin grafting was tried. I was cured by using Peterson's Ointment."—Mrs. F. E. Root, 287 Michigan Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Green's August Flower

for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver

Successful for 59 years.

30c and 90c bottles—ALL DRUGGISTS

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling

Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair

60c and $1.00 at Druggists.

Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Calluses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Kremola

the wonderful face bleach makes the skin beautiful.

At all drug and dept. stores or by mail $1.25. Booklet free.

Dr. C. H. Berry Co., 2975 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago

RUB YOUR EYES? Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1165 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

SICK WOMEN SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED

Letters Like This Prove the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Turtle Lake, Wisconsin. — "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness, backache and nervousness. I had these troubles for years and had taken other medicines for them, but I have found no medicine so good as the Vegetable Compound and I recommend it to my friends who have troubles similar to mine. I saw it advertised and thought I would try it and it has helped me in all my troubles. I have had six children and I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound before each one was born, for weakness, vomiting, poor appetite and backache, and again after childbirth because of dizzy headaches. It is a good medicine for it always helps me. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for the last eight years for constipation." — Mrs. MABEL LA POINT, R. F. D. No. 1, Turtle Lake, Wisconsin.

In a recent canvass, 98 out of every 100 women say they were benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Central Europe Sorry It Imported Muskrats

Recently hunters shot a muskrat near Salzburg, Austria. Other muskrats have been seen near Vienna. Before 1906 this North American animal was unknown in Europe, but during that year a pair was brought from America and released on an estate near Prague. The progeny of these rats multiplied so fast that they soon spread to the Bohemian lakes and forests in spite of efforts to exterminate them. By 1913 they were all along the Moldau and along the Eger river in Bavaria. In 1914 they reached lower and upper Austria to the south and Saxony to the north. Soon they crossed the Danube but seem to have been stopped by the Austrian Alps. When the first muskrats were brought to Bohemia it was thought that they would furnish fur, but the climate of Europe does not seem to develop a suitable growth. Central Europe suffers the damage caused by the rodents without the compensation of being able to use the skins.

ALL RUN DOWN, NOW HEALTHY

"Honestly, in all my 15 years of experience as a nurse I have never known of a medicine that compares with Tanlac," is the glowing tribute of Nurse M. E. Chappelle.

"Time and again I have recommended Tanlac and always with surprising results. Some time ago my Mother complained of being generally run down and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had no appetite, her stomach was disordered, digestion weakened and her bowels were most irregular.

"Tanlac came to her aid at once, brought on a vigorous appetite so that she began to eat with the greatest relish, and made the digestive organs function properly once more. In a short time she was well, happy and strong, and although over 80 years of age she is now vigorous enough to look after her household duties and go out quite a little, too. This is why I praise Tanlac and consider it the best tonic and health builder ever discovered."

What Tanlac has done for others it can also do for you. Tanlac is for sale at all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation. Made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

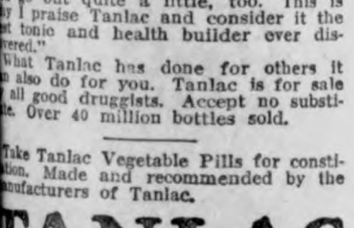
TANLAC FOR YOUR HEALTH

Foreign-Born Farmers

Comparatively few of the foreign-born in the United States make their living from the soil. In many cities foreigners predominate, but the land is tilled by about 5,000,000 native white farmers as compared with about 1,000,000 foreign-born white farmers. Native farmers outnumber foreign-born farmers two to one. The largest proportion of foreign-born farmers is in California, the figures being 75,000 to 35,000 non-native. Other states which have the most foreign-born on the soil are Michigan, Montana, Nebraska, South Dakota and Washington. New York farms are operated by 100,000 foreign-born and 165,000 native farmers. Throughout the country there are 7,000 Japanese and 600 Chinese farmers.

A little durg oft brings relief.—Ovid

Sure Relief



6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

5¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

Teach Children To Use Cuticura

Soothes and Heals Rashes and Irritations

Cuticura Soap Keeps the Skin Clear

SLOT-MACHINE OF THE STORMS

By WILLIAM CALHOUN

(© by Short Story Pub. Co.)

"LOOK, Wilson see what I've found!"

Bowen held in the hand a shining five-dollar gold piece which he had just picked up from the rocks.

We were on our annual outing. We had run up the river in a small steamer to the head of navigation. In a large rowboat, loaded with necessary camping outfit, we laboriously continued our course till we reached the wilderness. Here we found an old hunter and trapper named Gibbons, with whom we rested for a night. Gibbons had spent the evening telling tales of his adventures in that region. Just before retiring he told us of the cliff at which we were now snugly camped.

"You'll be apt to like it there. Plenty of game and the best fishin' along the river. A fine spring bubblin' out o' the solid rock at the foot o' the cliff. Can't recommend you to a better place. Always camp there when I'm up that way. Used to go there for money from the rocks," said Gibbons, warming up to the occasion. "For ten years, after every storm, I found gold coins scattered about on the flat rocks below the cliff. Sometimes there was much, sometimes only a little. I went often in mild weather, but never found gold except when a storm had passed over. Once I stayed a month, but not a thing did I get till a terrible wind came along, after which I found five ten-dollar gold pieces as bright as the blaze in the fire there, and though I watched for two weeks I found nothing else. Another time, when a cyclone had gone through, I found three twenty-dollar pieces. Spent a week tryin' to explain the mystery, but had to give it up. No human hand put that money there. It just rained out o' the clouds. One day, when it was blowin' a hurricane, I heard something strike the cliff, as if it had been shot from the sky; then it fell jingling on the rocks below. Known that to happen several times.

"For ten years it was always the same old story, money after a wind and nothin' any other time. Eight years ago it stopped fallin' and, no matter how hard the wind blew, from that day to this no more money has ever been found. I guess it has all rained out. I'll take you there tomorrow."

For a half hour he answered the questions our curiosity prompted, and then we went to our cots. On the morrow Gibbons guided us to the spot and, promising to return in a week, left us. We had established our camp under shelter of the precipitous cliff which overhung the river, eaten our supper, and were leisurely strolling about admiring the romantic surroundings, when Bowen found the money. Our surprise is now easily understood.

Under ordinary circumstances a man is surprised to find gold coins, but, with Gibbons' strange tale fresh in our ears, we stared at each other in speechless amazement. We looked the shining money over and over to make sure. We scanned the bald face of the cliff, glanced at the wild forest and the river, peered into the blue sky above, all in vain, for some clew as to the presence of the money. Then we tried for signs of recent human presence, but none existed. We searched for other coins, but found no more. Finally, we went to our couches in the tent, there to speculate and theorize on a possible explanation of the mystery, until, through sheer exhaustion, we fell into a flighty sleep.

The next morning Bowen built a fire while I went to the spring for a pail of water. On my way I passed the edge of the steep cliff and along over the rock floor, level and white as a city pavement. I was returning when my eye caught the glitter of a twenty-dollar gold piece lying at my feet. In my excitement I called to Bowen and together we examined the rock thoroughly and found three pieces. As we had investigated well the evening before, it was clear the coins had arrived in some manner during the night. That any human being would deliberately put them there, even had it seemed possible that one could be near enough, was preposterous.

We went around to the other side of the highland, from which we could reach the top of the cliff, where we found ourselves on a grassy level of perhaps an acre in area. It was a beautiful spot, covered with trees and singularly free from undergrowth. The surface sloped gently away from the ledge, finally forming the floor of the dense forest in the rear.

Gibbons had told us of an Indian trader named Groom who had dwelt there in an early day and whose house was a favorite resort of Indians, trappers, and overland travelers for the Far West. When a lad, Gibbons had often seen the great log cabin full of strangers. At last the Indians were removed to other lands, the overland route gradually changed to better paths, and Groom was deserted by his old customers. One day he was found dead. He was buried beneath his hearthstone, and then the locality slowly drifted back to its primitive condition. All that remained of the house was a tall stone chimney, near the edge of the precipice. By this old ruin stood the trunk of what had once been a great sugar tree.

Nothing about the place, however, seemed to have any possible connection with the gold. The history of the spot gave no explanation of the presence of coins at the base of the ledge fifty years later. Bowen and I examined the chimney, but found naught save the ragged stones. The stubby old sugar tree by it creaked in the breeze. This forsaken acre furnished no trace at all, and we descended. We did little else for several days, except to fruitlessly investigate and theorize. Strangely, too, we found no more coins, though we watched persistently.

At the end of the week, according to promise, Gibbons arrived. He heard our experience with interest on only one point, the fact that the phenomenon should recur after years of cessation. To our conjectures he paid little attention.

"No use tryin'," said he skeptically, "I've investigated every nook and cranny. Spent ten years watchin' and pryin', off and on, 'round this old headland, crackin' my brain over the cause. Have sat all night and all day, more time than I'm years old, tryin' to discover the secret, and all I ever learned was to hear the sudden jingle of the metal when it struck the cliff in time of storm and rattled down. It wasn't thrown from the top, for I've heard it while sitting at the foot of the chimney up there in broad daylight. You may study it till you're old, and that's all you'll ever know."

As we discussed the matter a gale began blowing. It grew stronger rapidly and was accompanied by the rumblings of distant thunder. Huge black clouds approached with frightful velocity. In our location under the precipice, protected from the gathering storm, we could watch the trees lash each other like whips.

Suddenly, as if by magic, two gold eagles dropped straight from the clouds overhead and rang resonantly on the stones near. No chance this time for mistaken senses, as three of us witnessed their descent. They came from the storm-laden sky, no doubt at all about it. Then came another and another, and following them a shower of coins. It seemed a dozen or more were jingling around us. A fearful peal of thunder heralded a fresh burst of the angry elements and the wind raged with the fury of demons. We heard a deafening crash overhead and the old chimney came tumbling in a heap to the foot of the cliff, the sugar tree with it. Then the velocity of the wind began to slacken, the sound of crashing timber ceased, and the storm gradually subsided.

When our fears were somewhat allayed we began to reconnoiter. Near the heap made by the fallen chimney we found a distorted tube, resembling the gutters and conductors placed at the eaves of houses. It was battered, rusty and rotten with age and contained several heaping handfuls of coins and a number of musty parchments and papers. On examining the wreckage of the chimney we found that the tube had been carefully placed in a chamber specially arranged for its reception. Two slits had rusted in the sides of the tin, one a few inches from the bottom and the other higher up. It was evident that the heavy winds, shaking the sugar tree and the chimney, had made of the tube a nickel-in-the-slot machine, by forcing coins through the narrow apertures. After the coins had worked down to the level of the higher slot it was eight years before the second and lower one rusted through, thus causing the dropping to resume. As the tube, by the weathering of the chimney, lay inclined, it formed a sort of chute. A coin, once slipping through, slid along the spouting for a few inches and finally shot over the precipice; having the appearance of coming from skyward.

We found papers recording the honorable discharge of Malachi Groom as a veteran of the War of 1812, and a package of letters written by his sweetheart, Cecilia Bliss, concerning whom we learned some strange facts from a faded manuscript. She had been captured by the Indians. On Groom's discharge he had made diligent search and ascertained that she had perished at the stake a few feet from the old sugar tree. He gathered the ashes and buried them where the stake had stood and erected the stone chimney above the spot, adding to it the cabin that he might dwell near her resting place. On the will was the indistinct signature of the old soldier, bestowing the money to the finder, on condition that the letters be laid by Groom's side. Under Gibbons' guidance we reburied the letters beneath the old hearthstone near which the ashes of his sweetheart had reposed for ninety years.

Apt Pupil

Some friends were chatting with Mrs. Carter, the energetic young matron who, more than any other one individual, brought the Hollywood bowl into existence. "You remember Betty Stokes? Well, she went abroad to study music and already she's engaged to the son of a very wealthy man."

Mrs. Carter smiled.

"I'm not at all surprised at the news," she said, "for as I remember Betty, she was always very quick at picking up heirs."—Exchange.

Peru's Match Monopoly

Matches and similar products are under a government monopoly in Peru. The manufacture and sale of these products, regardless of their class or condition, are under government supervision. The effect of the monopoly is not definitely known yet, as it has not been established very long.

WANTED JUST SOAP

Plain Lady at Counter—I want a cake of soap.

Fancy Young Clerk—Yes, madam, here is Prince Domitroeo's Boudoir soap, highly milled and finely scented. This here is Madam Nix's Velvet Cuticle soap, while this here was named after the prince of Wales. Which one would you prefer, madam?

Plain Lady—Have you any soap that will take the dirt off?—Bronx Pharmacist.

Those Floating Clouds

Teacher—Have you been smoking in here?

Coed—Er—no, Miss Pinch.

"Well, then, what makes the room look so hazy?"

"Why—er—I opened a window and a cloud blew in."—Rutgers Chanticleer.

That Ready Money

Betunklicker leaves his club with a troubled face.

"What's the matter?" asks a friend.

"I've lost 50,007 marks at cards!"

"By I. O. U., I suppose?"

"No. That's the worst of it. The seven marks were ready money!"—Neteispalter, Zurich.

ADVANCING IN AGE

He—Strangely enough, in the fall and not the spring my fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. Wonder why it's so?

She (coldly)—"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love" I believe the line runs.

Among the Snows

The Eskimo I long to hear
In melody expand his soul.
He lives a life of chilly cheer
And does not mind the price of coal.

Hit With Saxophone

Jennings—Baxter has made a big hit in a jazz orchestra with his saxophone.

Shumway—Why, I didn't even know he could play one.

Jennings—He doesn't. He beats it against the wall.

Never Can Tell

"Well, girlie, how do you like teaching summer school?"

"I'm a little afraid of my pupils. They watch me ominously."

"Well?"

"Am I violating the law in anything?"

Keep Walking

He—Will you come for a walk in the park?

She—O, no; I mustn't go without a aperon.

He—But we won't need one.

She—Then I don't want to go.

A PLACE FOR JAZZ

Highbrow Musician—Of course, there's a place for jazz—

Jazz Enthusiast—So delighted to hear you say so, Professor!

H. M.—But I refrain from naming it in your presence, Madam.

Four Words

Just four little words
Well worth a try:
These four little words—
"Ask—'em—to—buy!"

All Over

Finally the orator himself realized that his discourse had been somewhat prolonged.

"I beg to be excused if I have detained you too long," he remarked.

"Oh, not at all," said the voice, "it has only just stopped raining."

Ring History

"This man made ring history, you say?"

"Yes, he was lightweight champion once and married six times."

Yeast Foam makes bread that tastes better

Nothing has such hunger-satisfying flavor as the home loaf made with Yeast Foam.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

"No wonder the men folks eat twice as much of it"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Wax for Records

Carnauba wax, used in the manufacture of phonograph records, comes from Bahia, and several other states in Brazil.

Will Rebuild Temple

The ancient Greek temple of Demeter Selimus in Sicily, which collapsed in an earthquake, is to be rebuilt by the Italian government.

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

How Much Are Poor Roads Costing You?

5,000,000 of America's 18,000,000 motor vehicles are recognized as an economic necessity on the farm.

Is your car giving the full efficiency of which it is capable—and at the lowest cost per mile possible?

Not if you are jolting over bumps and ruts. Not if you get stuck in the mud.

In addition to the time you thus lose along the way, you also pay from one to four cents a mile more in gasoline, tire and repair bills than you would pay on permanently paved highways.

Think, too, how many so-called improved roads have gone to pieces within the past few years, thereby piling up huge maintenance and rebuilding costs.

Contrast all this with the record of Concrete Roads—the roads that have repair built out and maintenance built in. Firm, rigid and unyielding, free of bumps, ruts, holes, mud and dust, they are, in every way, the most economical roads.

Tell your highway officials you want more Concrete Roads. Such an investment will pay you big dividends year after year.

• • •

Let us give you all the facts about Concrete Roads, including the experience of other communities. Ask for our free booklet, R-3.

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION
111 West Washington Street
CHICAGO

A National Organization to Improve and Extend the Uses of Concrete

Offices in 30 Cities

Sedan $775, f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

MORE POWER! MORE PULL! MORE PEP!

Low-cost Transportation

Star Cars

PRICES: f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

COMMERCIAL CHASSIS	$425
ROADSTER	$525
TOURING	$525
COUPSTER	$595
COUPE	$675
COACH	$695
SEDAN	$775

DURANT MOTORS, Inc.
250 West 57th Street, New York
General Sales Dept.—1819 Broadway, New York

Dealers and Service Stations throughout the United States Canada and Mexico

PLANTS: Elizabeth, N. J. Lansing, Mich. Oakland, Cal. Toronto, Ont.

Only Good Alfalfa Seed Is Profitable

Use Hardy Seeds Where Winter-Killing Is Likely.

Alfalfa growers should purchase their seed with care.

"There are several things to consider in seed selection," says L. F. Graber, alfalfa specialist at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Where winter-killing is known to occur, hardy strains such as Grimm and Cossack should be sown, as the extra cost is returned in better yield. Where winter-killing is not serious and short rotations are practiced, good common strains have proved successful.

Strange as it may seem there is less winter-killing in the northern half of the state because of the better covering of snow which they have in that section.

Another advantage of Grimm alfalfa is in seed production which may occur every other year or so. The higher price received for the seed makes this strain much more profitable. Some growers have realized as high as $60 an acre from this source. A crop can be expected only when the season is dry at blossoming time. In regard to a seed crop, alfalfa does not differ so much from clover, as seed from that crop is not a certainty

"The safest Grimm seed to buy is that which has had a field inspection and certification by the officials of the western states where it is produced," Graber states. Of this there is an enormous quantity, much of which is in bags, branded or sealed, or both, by these officials, which certifies its purity. This seed is available through regular commercial channels of dealers and seed companies.

The strains which Graber has found best because of the resistance to winter-killing are those from South Dakota, Montana, and Kansas.

Care for Cows Through Dry Period Important

Several weeks before the prospective mother cow's time comes for freshening, she should be "dried off."

This should be done for the reason that the cow is preparing for a hard ordeal and she needs and should have all her strength reserved for the event. She should not be required to divide her strength with the production of milk.

True it is that some cows are such persistent milkers that it is quite difficult to get them dry, but just as sure as water runs down hill they will not produce as much milk after freshening if they do not take a vacation from milk production previous to the arrival of the new-born calf.

One way to "dry up" a persistent milker is to skip one milking, then milk her dry next time, then skip two milkings, and milk her dry, then three, etc., until dry, meanwhile keep her off good pasture and feed her nothing but timothy hay, do not let any one handle her udder between milkings.

When the cow is dry she should be fed generous rations of bran and oats, the oats may be fed whole or ground. The bran contains minerals and the oats provide strength. In winter on dry feed the cow should have oilmeal included in the ration.

Whey Is Found Excellent as Skim Milk Substitute

Dairy farmers who have a supply of whey available will also be interested in the tests at the Wisconsin station in which calves were fed whey as a substitute for skim milk. A grain mixture of three parts ground corn, three parts standard middlings and four parts linseed meal was fed in addition and hay, salt and water were provided as in the other lots. Calves thus fed gained 1.49 pounds per head daily as an average, or practically as much as the calves fed ten pounds of skim milk daily. The average feed cost to six months of age was $21.58 per calf. It was necessary to take a little more care in changing over from whole milk to whey than from whole milk to skim milk. The whey was fed in a sanitary condition and was never allowed to stand in a filthy tank or can. The results show that when a little care is taken calves can be raised satisfactorily on whey supplemented with grain and hay.

FARM NOTES

About 19 per cent of the land area of the United States produces crops.

* * *

Whitewash is one of the old reliable substances that have held their own against all newcomers.

* * *

Crushed rock salt is the best chemical to use in killing the common barberry which spreads the black stem rust of cereals.

* * *

Valuable feed may be saved by culling the poultry flock this summer. Those hens that molt early, that are old and inactive, are generally boarders and should be sold or put in the pot.

* * *

Cattle need liberal amounts of salt and should have free access to it at all times. They will eat more ground rock salt than unground rock salt and ground evaporated salt than any other kind. The ground rock salt seems to furnish enough for good results.

Boss Bans Nude Colors; Girl Employees Protest

Cardiff.—The manager of a large business house has created consternation among his women employees and those of other concerns, by issuing instructions that his staff must not wear champagne-colored or flesh-colored stockings during business hours.

This has developed into quite a controversy and the great question of the day is "Are light stockings and abbreviated skirts permissible for business girls?"

One girl has revolted and resigned rather than wear the orthodox black stockings. She says: "My stockings do not interfere with my efficiency, and there is no reason why, because I am a business girl, I should not be smart. Besides, in this hot weather light stockings make one feel cooler. Anyhow, they look cooler."

Resents Slur

Fresno, Cal.—John W. Benton, thirty-eight, World war veteran and itinerant automobile tourist, shot and killed an unidentified youth on the state highway near here. Benton shot the youth, who was apparently about twenty years old, because he called Benton an abusive name as he strode past the roadside camp which Benton and his wife had established.

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blume[illegible]'s

REPAIR SHOP

Coming Soon--

Order Now--

Carload of Fire Wood--

Carload of American Fence

Carload of Barb Wire

Get the Benefit Of Our Carload Prices

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

THE BANKER-EDUCATOR PLAN TO PROMOTE BETTER AGRICULTURE

By D. H. OTIS,
Agricultural Director, American Bankers Association

Whenever bankers desire to promote actively agricultural improvement in their communities, the state agricultural colleges stand ready to show them the way and to give expert assistance. The purpose of this article is to illustrate the way in which the colleges are getting in contact with the banks, and the kind of assistance they render.

D. H. Otis

As soon as the college has a list of the banks in the state desiring to adopt plans to aid agriculture as indicated by project blanks sent out to all the banks in the state, by the State Bankers Association Agricultural Committee, it gives practical suggestions to each banker on the list as to what he can do to stimulate, organize, and conduct the work in the particular project he has selected. Then either a department specialist from the college or the county agent gets in personal touch with the banker to assist him in an advisory capacity.

Samples of the project outlines are given below to illustrate the details of the procedure the college takes in accomplishing its plan.

College Provides Expert Advisers

In counties with no county agent a list of the banks desiring to carry on a project is sent to a specialist at the state college, according to the project listed. For instance, the banks desiring to carry on the farm accounts project are assigned to the farm management specialist, those desiring to carry on the legume project to the agronomy specialist, those interested in boys' and girls' club work to the junior extension specialist, and so forth.

In counties that do have a county agent a list of the banks and the projects in which each is interested is sent to him with a request that he get in touch with the bankers and help them in regard to the various projects.

The next step by the college is to write to each banker on the list sending him project outlines and informing him that the county agent or a specialist from the college will get in touch with him. If there is no agent in the county this letter reads as follows:

Union State Bank,
Bankville.

Gentlemen—You will find enclosed a brief outline of the farm accounts project in which you have indicated your interest to your State Agricultural Committee and to the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association.

I am sure that the specialist from the agricultural college will be pleased to assist you in carrying out the suggestions indicated. We have asked him to get in touch with you.

Director, Agricultural Extension.

The letter to bankers in counties that do have a county agent informs them that he will get in touch with them.

Suggests Things the Banker Can Do

The project outlines sent to each banker give specific suggestions as to the things he can do to organize the work in his project, and the part he can take in carrying out the work. The more simple and concrete these suggestions are the more valuable they are to the banker. Following are samples of such project outlines:

Farm Accounts Project

1. Banker can select group of farmers who can and should undertake the work of farm accounts.
2. Arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for first meeting of the group and select an account book.
3. Assist individuals at their request with information relative to entering accounts and other data properly.
4. Act as or select leader for the group.
5. Assist in checking inventories as a means of securing individual financial statement at close of the year.

Boys' and Girls' Club Work

1. The banker can arrange with the county agent or the specialist of the agricultural college for organizing a club.
2. Plan to present various types of club work at the next meeting and perfect the organization of a local club.
3. Banker may act as local leader of the club.
4. Cooperate with county agent or specialist in annual "Achievement Day."
5. Banker may offer prizes for club work or otherwise assist in financing same.

Legume Project

1. The banker can get information from county agent or specialist from the agricultural college on the value of alfalfa, soy bean, or sweet clover crops to farmers of the community.
2. Arrange for meeting of interested farmers with county agent or specialist.
3. At this meeting county agents, specialists, or others will discuss:
   (a) Value of crop.
   (b) Seed supply and varieties.
   (c) Methods of handling the crop.
   (d) Use and disposition of crop.
4. Plan with county agent or specialist meetings and demonstrations on plots or fields.
5. Secure exhibits for community or county fair.

Cow Testing Associations

1. The banker can arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for meeting of interested group of farmers in the community for the purpose of organizing a cow testing association.
2. Banker may act as leader, and with county agent or specialist plan to visit prospective farmers who may join the association.
3. Organize for work and assist in securing testing equipment and other materials whenever necessary.
4. Call meetings periodically to discuss association business and hold picnics or tours.
5. Banker with county agent or specialist may arrange for C. T. A. booth at community or county fair giving testing demonstrations and explaining work of association.

This constitutes the preliminary work by the college which paves the way for constructive work by the bankers in banker-farmer projects.

UNEARNED CRITICISM

By FRANCIS H. SISSON
Chairman, Public Relations Commission American Bankers Association

There has been some disposition to criticize the administration of the country's banking system for the sudden collapse of prices and curtailment of credits in 1920 and 1921, and the subsequent financial difficulties of the farmers. As a matter of fact, whatever blame may attach to bankers must be for the too generous financing, in many cases, of speculative investment in farm property during the period of inflation. If any just criticism could be directed at the manner in which the Federal Reserve System functioned in this situation in the opinion of many it would be that the Reserve banks delayed too long in raising the rediscount rates. An earlier effort might have stayed the process of inflation.

Francis H. Sisson

The collapse of 1920 was by no means confined to agriculture, and was the inevitable sequel to the inflation period. All branches of business suffered in this period of reaction and perhaps none more than banking against which this criticism has been levelled. The financial situation of the farmers was greatly aggravated by the fact that the high land values and high prices of agricultural products had led many farmers to incur obligations based on the inflated values. If the farmer was victimized at all, indeed, he was the victim of too much rather than too little consideration. The real progress which has been achieved in agricultural finance in recent years lies more in the intelligent distribution of farm credit than in volume.

With agencies now functioning for the provision of ample credits for the American farmer, his enduring success depends upon the wisdom and foresight with which he meets the problems of production and marketing. More than ever before, his activities must be regulated with reference to world conditions, and his profits, like those of the manufacturer or merchant, will reflect the measure of his success in adjusting his activities to these conditions.

BANKERS HELP

The banks of Linn County Oregon, are showing more enthusiasm than ever this year in behalf of a county corn exhibit similar to that held last year at the Linn County Fair. Last year's exhibit was the result of a contest for a prize offered by a number of local banks. This was so successful that this year ten out of the eleven banks in the county will subscribe to the effort.

The Agricultural Committee of the Alabama Bankers Association has recommended that a scholarship fund be established for the education of worthy young men and women along agricultural and home economics lines. It is estimated that if each bank in the state were to contribute 25 cents per thousand capital, five to six thousand dollars per annum would be realized.

The Agricultural Committee of the Oklahoma Bankers Association, in its report, recommends that the bankers see that a competent agent is appointed in each county and that he has a degree from some agricultural college. They believe that the agricultural possibilities of the state should be better advertised and that each county bankers association should do some work along that line.

Searcy County Bankers Association, Arkansas, entertained as its guests recently some seventy-five farmers and business men. The result was the organization of the North Central Arkansas Agricultural Association. Its purpose will be to co-ordinate the efforts of the farmers and business men in promoting a better agriculture. Searcy County bankers are giving 100 settings of purebred eggs for distribution to the boys' and girls' clubs in the county.

H. S. Mowrer, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the New Jersey Bankers Association, together with H. J. Baker, director of extension work in the College of Agriculture, made a complete tour of the state this spring, calling on the county agents and agricultural committees of the various county organizations to get a definite line-up on the work done and the plans for the coming year. Ways and means for furthering the program of the state committee were considered at these conferences.

Fall Footwear-

A Point of Argument

Is always reached in any discussion regarding the unusual qualities of our—

Our Shoes & Oxfords

They look so stylish—fit so perfectly and wear so well. There is always an unanimous verdict in favor of STAR BRAND SHOES and OXFORDS for Men, Women and Children. Specially priced to offer you the most for your dollar in the finest footwear.

Come in and look over our wide variety of exclusive and distinctive models.

Latest style n Shoes for Men and Boys. Oxfords for those who prefer this style, and the high-cuts for Fall and Winer.

All the newest styles in Oxfords for the Ladies and Girls.

Shoes for School

We are showing a very fine line of strong, sturdy built-for-wear School Shoes for Boys and Girls. We also have 16 inch and 18 inch high-tops—just the thing for Fall and Winter.

FINE HOSIERY

We carry a full line of Hosiey for all. Full fashioned silk hosiery for Ladies, silk hosiey for Men, in all the new shades and styles.

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

PURE CANE

Sorghum!

We are now manufacturing PURE CANE SORGHUM every day at our plant just west of Klemme on the Wilson Highway.

Our Sorghum is manufactured by the Steam Process and is clear in color and very delicious in flavor—once tried you will want more.

We sell our Sorghum in 10-pound pails in any quantity you may wish.

Patronize a home industry—buy your supply of Sorghum from us—

Ludeke & Fuller

Phone 4516

Order Now--Stove & Furnace

Repairs

Now is the time, before cold weather sets in, to look over your furnace and your heating stoves to see if new grates, new pipes or other repairs are needed.

Check up your order at once and give it to us—we will tend to the rest.

SAVE MONEY

ON REPAIRS

We are taking orders for repairs, pipes etc. and are "bunching the order" so that it can all be shipped at once to save freight. Get your order in at once and get in on this saving.

How about a new Globe Furnace or a New Heating Stove? See us first for best prices—

E. F. Jacobs

THE KLEMME TIMES

Thirtieth Year—Number 4. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

LATE NEWS FROM ALL OVER THE STATE OF IOWA

BRONZE TABLET WILL MARK SITE OF FIRST STATE FAIR IN IOWA

First State Fair Was Held At Fairfield In 1854

OTTUMWA, Oct. 1.—The site of the first Iowa State Fair, which was held at Fairfield in 1854, was being marked by a bronze tablet, placed by Log Cabin Chapter of the state society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The tablet has been placed on a native boulder that marks the entrance to the grounds that comprised six acres and now lie within the city limits of Fairfield. A rail fence 10 feet high surrounded the grounds at that first fair and the race track was 1,500 feet long. Tents and sheds housed the exhibits, and 8,000 persons are said to have attended, arriving at the grounds in wagons drawn by horses and oxen.

RADIO AND YOUTHS RESCUED SEED CORN FROM FROST PERIL LAST YEAR

AMES, Oct. 1.—The radio started it and the boys finished it!

That is the short of the story of how a good many farmers about Bloomfield saved their seed corn from a killing frost last year—and it may contain a tip for farmers this fall.

Last fall, C. G. Steinsmeyer, vocational instructor at Bloomfield heard a frost warning over his radio on Sunday morning, Sept. 29.

He immediately called up the members of his agricultural class and told them to get after their fathers and neighbors about gathering their seed corn at once.

Mr. Steinsmeyer found out later that a number of his students gathered seed corn as a result of his advice but it was only recently that he learned how valuable this service had been to the community.

Not long ago he met the father of one of these boys. "Whenever I see you," the farmer told him, "I think of the message you sent out last fall. As a result of your warning 13 farmers on our telephone line gathreed 110 bushels of seed corn that afternoon. If we hadn't we wouldn't have got any seed from our fields for the frost arrived as predicted."

LEONARD LAU, DEAF GARNER BOY IS MAKING GOOD

Awarded Scholarship for College Course at Capital; Edited Class Annual at C. B.

GARNER, Oct. 1.—Leonard Lau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Lau of this place, when fourteen months old lost the ability either to hear or speak. He was graduated in June '25 as honor student at the state institution at Council Bluffs. This entitles him to a free scholarship at the Gallandet school at Washington, D. C., which is the only advanced school in the United States for the deaf.

Leonard matches in intelligence and ambition with normal high school students. With his alert mind and industry Leonard was not only honor student of his class but editor-in-chief of the very creditable annual put out by the Council Bluffs institution and on the school roster by popular vote "did most for his class."

Leonard at first hoped to prepare himself to teach other deaf mutes but the decree has gone forth that only people who can hear well may serve as teachers. So he now plans to qualify as bookkeeper or stenographer.

The Gallandet college use the combined system, partly oral, partly sign manual and also lip reading in their training and give a five years course. Leonard's father acompanied him as far as Chicago where they found two other students bound for the same school, which opened last week.

Anyhow, why should anybody want to swim the English Channel when you can get a good boat every thirty minutes.

2½ YEAR OLD BOY GOES HIKING FOUND AFTER NIGHT IN HEAVY RAINSTORM

INDEPENDENCE, Oct. 1.—A motorist on the Grant Highway near here spied a weary young pedestrian in the early morning last Sunday. It was Bobby Hutchins, just "half past two" who had made a five mile hike from his home near Masonville during the night while distracted parents and two hundred men search the countryside for him.

The child had gone with two older children to the field with the hired man on his father's farm and started to the house alone. He was not missed until supper time when the hunt began, which was to last all night. How the thirty month's old child ever made the trip through the night was a mystery. He was drenched to the skin by the heavy rain of the night and one shoe and stocking was missing.

FORT DODGE MAN PREDICTS THE FINEST WINTER IN YEARS

FORT DODGE, Oct. 1.—A nice fall followed by a mild winter is the prediction of E. M. Dunning, who has forecast weather here for the past thirty-five years with startling accuracy. The fall and winter will be the nicest he country has had for many years, according to Mr. Dunning. He bases his prediction on conditions existing at the time the sun crossed the equator.

MESERVEY SCHOOL HAS RELIGIOUS CLASSES

The Meservey school is one out of twelve schools in the state that have religious education classes. The Belmond Independent in their Meservey section, gives the following report:

"The religious classes were begun last Friday for all the grades from the 5th through the high school. Rev. Pannkuk, Rev. Chol, and Mrs. D. P. Hackett are teaching the Bible courses this year, having the same grades as last year. One 40-minute period each Friday is devoted to this study. The classes begin at 9:15 a. m. Parents and others interested are invited to visit school and see the fine work being done in this line. The Meservey school is one of only 12 schools in Iowa which have regular religious education on its curriculum."

CLEAR LAKE FARMER SHIPS 73 CAR LOADS OF ONIONS

With 36,500 bushels of onions off his mind, Sam Kennedy is beginning to plan for the harvest of his sugar beets, cabbages, potatoes, and some 20 cars of turnips.

His onion season is over and during the harvest he has shipped 73 carloads. A number of these went to towns in Iowa, 25 of them are in cold storage in Des Moines but some went to New York, Atlanta, St. Louis, Louisville, and towns in Oklahoma.

Although Mr. Kennedy has not computed the actual yield per acre, he estimates that it has run approximately 400 bushels for according to him the crop has been a little light.

The onion farm near Clear Lake owned by Mr. Kennedy, yearly attracts quite a number as it is one of the few large truck farms in Iowa.

GETS $700 A MONTH BUT GOES ON PEELING SPUDS

OMAHA, Oct. 1.—His income of $700 a month and interest in a $700,000 estate has not caused Chris Tiernan, 59, to throw over his job of potato peeler in a restaurant here at $15 a week. Tiernan returned to the job yesterday after attending the funeral of his father at Lincoln, Nebraska, where he learned the extent of his fortune.

The elder Tiernan tied up the big estate, however, in a trust arrangement wherein Chris and a sister divide the income on the principal until the principal would revert to an orphanage at Lincoln, when both are dead.

Tiernan asserted he intends to fight to break the trust provision to obtain half of the estate at once.

ANCIENT TREES SHOW THAT WEATHER RUNS IN CYCLES

Mild Winters Will Be Equalized Over Long Run Period, Says Reed

DES MOINES, Oct. 1.—The best proof that the weather is not changing is found in a study of the giant trees of California, Charles D. Reed, director of the weather and crop reporting service said. He said that a study of the annual rings of these 3,000 year old trees shows that while there are differences in the ings from year to year—yet in the long run there are no consistent changes in any direction.

"To be sure," Mr. Reed said, "there are changes in the weather from day to day and from hour to hour, but assertions that the winters are milder or that the rainfall is lighter than formerly is not brought out by a painstaking study of the records."

Mr. Reed admits that winters may be steadily growing milder or colder within any one man's memory but even the comparitively inadequate data which is available shows that such changes run in cycles and that over a long period of years these fluctuations tend to "flatten out."

Mr. Reed uses conditions in the Muscatine territory to illustrate his point. "For many years," he said, "there has been a complaint from Muscatine that the annual rainfall was decreasing each year. A study of the records shows that this is true since 1885. But, a study of the records before that date show that a similar falling off in the rainfall occurred. It is is highly probable that the rainfall in the Muscatine area runs in cycles of years and that within a comparatively short time an upward trend will be noted.

An invention which is badly needed is a maxim silencer for the other fellow's radio.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

Last Sunday's services concluded another year of church activities. It was a most profitable day.

The conference year as a whole was marked with success along the several lines of action.

Elections have been held recently in the several societies of the church, preparatory for advancement along their lines in the coming year.

At the S. S. election in Klemme Mr. Thos. Nelson was elected superintendent. The teachers for the different classes either have been or will be chosen in the near future.

At the election of the Ladies Aid Society Mrs. C. Gram was elected president for the coming year and promises are for a splendid year. The past year was a profitable one for the society.

Both W. F. M. Societies held their election with Mrs. John Tanner, president for the Liberty auxiliary, and Mrs. Clarence Arnold was elected president for the Klemme society. Both auxilliaries made commendable showing last year.

As next Sunday is conference Sunday we will have no services in either church. Thus giving you an opportunity to visit some other church.

At the election for delegates to the conference Erick Josten was elected with Tom Nelson as the reserve.

The reception for our school teachers was a most enjoyable event. We are sure that much good will result from such gatherings.

Let all parents and patrons of our public schools plan to attend the first P. T. A. meeting next Tuesday evening in the school house.

The anthracite miners dropped their tools and went out on strike cheering and singing. Everybody seems to be happy but the public.

Iowa "Burbank" Produces Many New Plant Varieties

IOWA "BURBANK" WORKS TEN YEARS ON NEW MELON

Developes Fifteen Varieties of Potatoes; Improves Corn

CRESCO, Oct. 1.—Luther Burbank has nothing on Warren B. Perry of Cresco as a plant wizard.

Mr. Perry has lived on his forty acre tract one mile south of Cresco for the past thirty-six years, running a truck garden, and part of the time a greenhouse.

During the past few years he has made a specialty of developing new varieties of vegetables and corn. Twenty years ago he had developed a new variety of sweet corn which was the earliest in the state.

One kind of sweet corn contained seven different varieties with various colors and shapes of ears and kernels.

He crossed rice popcorn with golden bantam sweet corn ten years ago and made the best selections year after year until he had developed a perfect variety which has the rice corn shape and size with the golden bantam color and flavor, and pops out full and flaky with no hard kernel center. The whole of the kernel when popped can be crumbled between the fingers. In 1922 he sold $2,300 worth from ten acres, one Iowa firm buying 100 pounds which they paid $200. In smaller quantities it retails for $3 per pound.

Mr. Perry has also developed fifteen varieties of potatoes, and for ten years he has been developing a new muskmelon which he has named "Surprise Princess." It is of very fine flavor. As soon as entirely satisafctory to him he will place the seed on the market.

One of the varieties of sweet corn the "Alpha," was so indorsed by the seed men that a Detroit company paid $100 for a half bushel of seed and had it listed in their catalog of 1923.

Burbank Perfects New Corn; Flowers

Santa Rosa, Cal., Oct. 1.—Three new plant creations, a new type of sweet corn and new varieties of the aster and rose have been created by Luther Burbank, plant scientist.

The corn specimen perfected by Burbank is much more productive than any he has produced, he states. It is much sweeter, more tender and palatable and comes much earlier in the season.

60 Varieties of Flowers

BOONE, Oct. 1.—Mrs. C. W. Eppert of Boone has raised sixty varieties of flowers in her 1925 garden and has picked from it more than 300 bouquets.

LARGE SHEETS ARE DESIRABLE

They Dispense Need of Blanket or Comfort Protectors

Large bed sheets, 90 inches wide and 99 or 108 inches long, are desired by most homemakers because they permit tucking in thoroughly at the sides of the bed, and eliminate the need of comfort or blanket protectors by alowing a goodly amount to be turned back. This is the opinion of Miss Mary Gabrielson of the home economics department, Iowa State College.

"It is just as economical to buy sheets ready made as to make them" says Miss Gabrielson. Only 10 to 20 cents is saved on each sheet by making them. If they are made at home the top hem should be 3 inches wide and the bottom hem 1 inch.

FORT MADISON TO HAVE THE LONGEST DRAW BRIDGE IN THE WORLD

Fort Madison, Iowa, will be able to boast of the longest revolving drawbridge in the world when the draw of the new Santa Fe bridge at that place is completed. The draw span will be 531 feet long, and the pivotal pier on which it will be placed will be a solid block of concrete fifty-two feet square and about eighty feet deep. The pier is now being built by workers who are laboring at the bottom of the river, protected by a caisson.

FIRST PARENT-TEACHER MEETING TO BE HELD TUESDAY EVE.

WOOD PRESERVED FOR 20,000 YEARS IN HANCOCK COUNTY

J. A. Treganza, Britt, Goes To Considerable Work In Getting Rare Specimens

Britt News-Tribune:—

Pilot Knob State Park and Eagle Lake State Park will soon have displays of preserved wood taken from the bottom of a drainage ditch in Section 7, Boone township, Hancock County, Iowa, on what is known as the Nathan Studer farm, which it is estimated is 20,000 years old.

Some of our readers may remember that when E. L. Hatten was digging a drainage ditch southwest of Hutchins some two years ago that the News-Tribune gave a brief account of the discovery of wood deposits. From time to time J. A. Treganza, H. C. Meyer, Wm. Mantie and others have gone out to explore these deposits and it is now thought certain that the deposits covers a large area for a distance of two miles in the vicinity south of the Spangler school house, as in all places where investigation has been made the wood is found. It lies about six feet below the surface. There is a layer of black soil on top, then a layer of gravel and below this a layer of fine grey sand and clay in which the trees lie. Along the berme of the drainage ditch many specimens of the wood lie that were thrown out by the dredging machine when the ditch was dug.

Mr. Treganza is not certain what kind of wood it is but has sent specimens to Dr. L. H. Pammel at Iowa State College, Ames, for classification, and when he learns he will place the displays of specimens gathered in the parks mentioned above, with a printed card explaining what the wood is and a bit of scientific data in connection.

We have prevailed upon him to give us the following statement in reference to this deposit—which is, as far as we can learn, the largest ever located in Iowa.

"Beds of vegetable material, scattered logs, stems and roots are often found in the drift, but always show proof that they had been subject to the grinding power of the glacier. In this deposit many of the limbs and small branches are attached to the trunks, and even the bark is on many pieces. This mass of wood must have been so incorporated into or on the glacier that it's movements did not grind or crush it, and was dropped here just as it grew in the forest.

"Finding the lignite coal mingled with the wood would indicate that these trees were taken from some Cretaceous (the period in which the elements of lignite were laid down) hills in the north, more than likely in Minnesota, and was left here on the retreat of the glacier. The time which has elapsed since its journey from the north was completed is, of course, not accurately known, but it is safe to say it is somewhere near 20,000 years. This estimate of age is based on estimates since the final retreat of the ice sheet, and this s estimated by studying the rate of erosion in streams which is known were crowded into new channels by the debris of the glacier."

BETTER BE SAFE THAN SORRY WITH NEW EXPLOSIVE

A Few Good Pointers On Handling Dynamite and Pyrotol

According to A. W. Clyde, who has charge of the distribution of government explosives for use in Iowa agriculture, says that pyrotol, which is being quite generally used by Iowa farmers in place of dynamite, is no more dangerous than the latter, but that great care should be exercised in handling it. "The cause of practically all accidents," says Mr. Clyde, "is about as follows: Going up to see why a shot did not fire. The only safe way to treat a misfire is to stay away from it until the next day. Then another should be placed two feet away from it. Do not dig out a misfire. Carelessness with caps is another cause for accidents. Keep caps away from the explosives until time to use. Do not carry them in your pocket, and by all means keep them away from the children.

PROGRAM SCHEDULED TO BEGIN AT 8:00 O'CLOCK

Other Items Of Interest in the High School and Grades

We wish to remind the parent and friends of the school of the Parent-Teacher Program on Tuesday evening of next week at 8:00 p. m. We place it at 8:00 for we desire to have many of our rural parents present and 7:30 may be too early for them.

For those who may have overlooked it last week we are giving again the program as outlined by the program committee.

High School Orchestra.
Community Singing, led by Miss Abel.
Cornet Solo, Mr. J. J. Poort.
Selection by H. S. Orchestra.
A Welcome to the New Faculty, Rev. A. W. Gauger.
Response, by Supt. Penrod.
Violin Solo, Mr. Gary.
Business Session followed by refreshments and a social time.

Baseball

The baseball team won their game with Goodell last week, 9 to 1. The team was to play Meservey Wednesday afternoon but the game was called off on acount of the rain. Crystal Lake plays here Friday afternoon.

Basket Ball

Mr. Hockey is busy these days lining up games for the basket-ball season.

Volley Ball For All

The volley ball and net ordered for the gymnasium classes have arrived and students are learning the game of volley ball. It can be played by all of the high school boys or all of the girls at a time and furnishes good exercise for all.

Other Items

Not all who enter high school conclude the course. Some quit voluntarily and others are forced out by circumstances beyond their control.

Lela Bachman has been advised by her physician to discontinue her school work this year, and Elmer Schwartz also of the Freshman class has apparently deserted us. We regret to lose either of them.

New Song books have been ordered for the high school and next week we hope to have some assembly room singing.

Mr. Gary reports the high school orchestra class as doing well and parents will be able to hear them play next Tuesday eve at the P. T. A. meeting.

K. H. S. Subjects

Below are the subjects offered in high school this semester:

Freshman Class:
- Algebra
- English Composition
- Home Economics or Manual Tr.
- General Science.

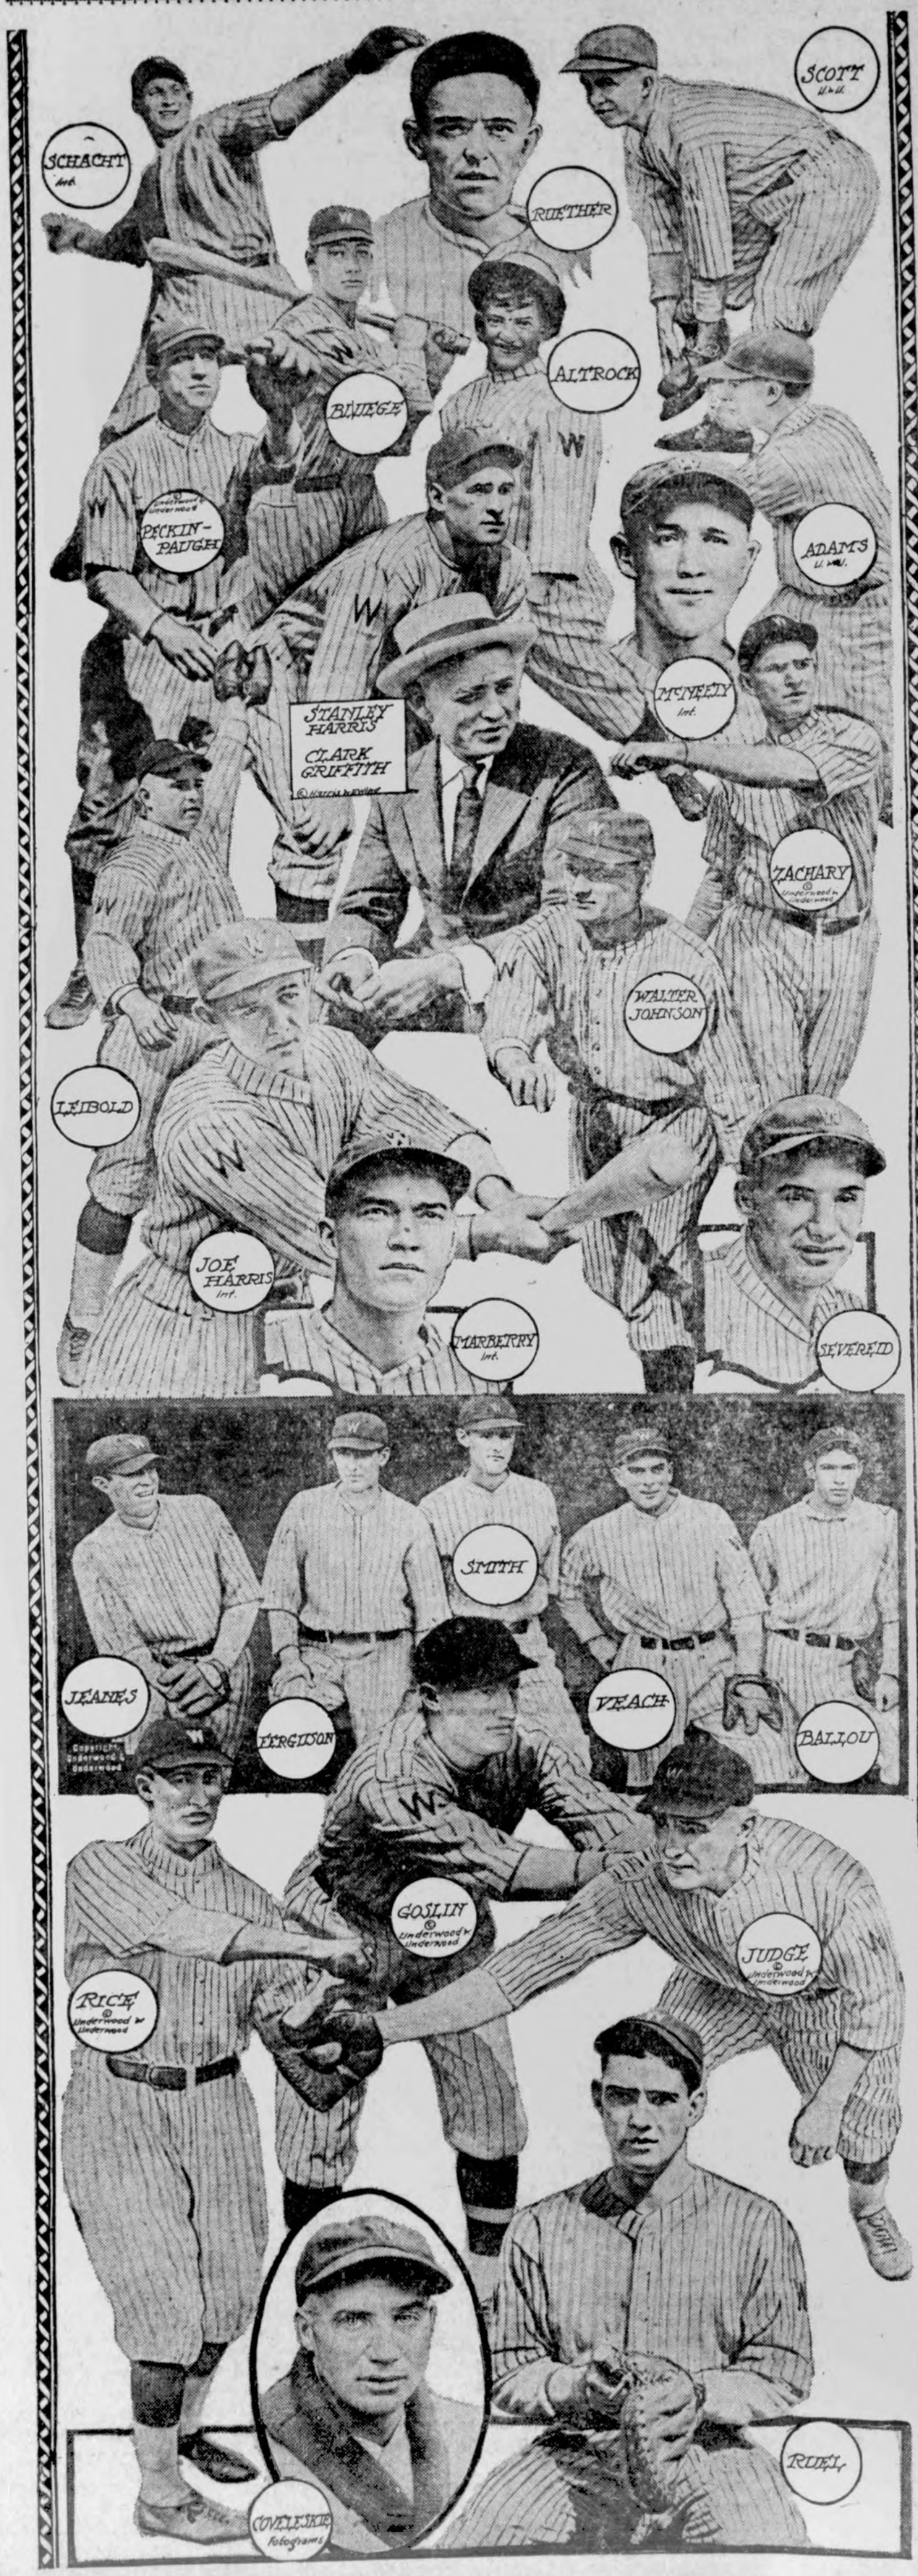
Sophomore Class:
- English Composition
- Ancient History
- Plane Geometry
- Agriculture

Junior Class:
- Modern History
- English Literature
- Home Ec. or Manual Training
- Commercial Law

Senior Class:
- English Literature
- Physics
- American Government
- Economics.

Iowa people now enjoy 314 miles more of Federal aid highways than they did a year ago. This mileage, completed in the year ending June 30, cost a total of $4,076,507.00, of which the federal government furnished $1,870,000. Highway construction under this plan now under way in the state totals 434 miles, while the total mileage completed previous to last year was 1682 miles.

WASHINGTON NATIONALS CAPTURE FLAG IN AMERICAN LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP STRUGGLE



37 DIE WHEN SHIP SINKS SUBMARINE

S-51 Rammed by Steamer Off Rhode Island—Three of Crew Rescued.

Providence, R. I.—The submarine S-51, while on a practice cruise, was sunk 20 miles east of Block island after collision with the steamship City of Rome.

It is reported that 37 men of the submarine's crew were drowned.

Three of the crew were picked up by the City of Rome, which sent a radio message to the submarine base at New London telling of the accident.

At the submarine base it was said that 40 men were aboard the S-51.

The S-51 mounted a four-inch gun forward and five torpedo tubes firing 21-inch projectiles. The vessel's complement when filled was 36 men and four officers. The commander was Lieutenant Dobson.

Lieut. G. Bannerman and Lieut. H. M. Pino were also on the submarine's complement. The S-51 was of the first line of that class of ships in the navy. She was attached to the patrol force operating in the Atlantic under the flagship U. S. S. Camden and was a member of division No. 2, stationed at New London.

French Rout Moors in Drive on Krim's Capital

Fez, French Morocco.—A French offensive on a large scale was launched on the eastern sector of the Moroccan front, with the advance of strong elements of French troops from Kifane toward Ajdir, which lies forty miles due north. The French troops reached all their objectives, occupying Djebel Kounsoun and Djebel Rouchum, northeast of Kifane.

The extent and scope of the offensive, whether it is designed to effect a junction of the French troops with the Spaniards who are moving down from Alhucemas bay toward Ajdir, the capital of Abd-el-Krim, or is simply to relieve the Riffian pressure on France's allies, has not yet been officially announced.

The French report says that the enemy appeared completely stunned by the suddenness of the attack and abandoned two cannon and a quantity of ammunition.

Miss Isabel Rockefeller Weds Her Old Playmate

Greenwich, Conn.—Isabel Rockefeller became the bride of Frederick W. Lincoln, Jr., a childhood playmate, at the fashionable Christ church here. Their homes in Greenwich lie in the same locality and for years they have golfed, ridden, fished, rowed and played tennis together. After the ceremony they left for South America and will duplicate the prince of Wales' trip over the Andes. Rev. Dr. John Lewis of Waterbury, Conn., performed the ceremony and was assisted by Rev. Dr. George Alexander of the First Presbyterian church of New York. A reception followed at the Rockefeller estate.

Legion, Citizens Greet Col. Mitchell at Capital

Washington.—A rousing reception was given Col. William Mitchell upon his arrival here from Texas, to appear before the President's air board. The aviator himself, however, had nothing to say concerning the controversy he has aroused over the nation's defense.

A drum and bugle corps supplied by two American legion posts and several hundred citizens greeted the former assistant army air chief at Union station. The colonel was hoisted to the shoulders of his admirers and carried through the station to an automobile behind which a parade followed.

Woman Is Held as Slayer of Wealthy Texas Widow

San Antonio, Texas.—Mrs Ada McCobb, fifty-nine, wealthy widow, died in a hospital soon after she had been found on the floor of an apartment in Harlandale, a suburb. Mrs. Mable Longworth Sheridan, thirty, who lives in the same building, was locked up, charged with murder. Diamonds valued at $10,000 were missing. When officers entered Mrs. McCobb's room they found her with her head crushed. Near her Mrs. Sheridan was lying, apparently in a swoon. Nearby was a carpenter's hammer smeared with blood.

Ray Picture Firm Fails

Los Angeles, Cal.—Charles Ray Production, Inc., organized several years ago to produce motion pictures featuring the actor, Charles Ray, was adjudged bankrupt in Federal court here and an order was signed for the company to file schedule of its assets and liabilities.

John Jacob Astor Ill

Paris.—John Jacob Astor, posthumous heir of Col. John Jacob Astor, who was drowned in the Titanic disaster, is lying ill of typhoid fever in the American hospital, Neurilly. It was stated that he is "doing nicely."

Curb Bread Riots

Teheran.—Persian authorities have declared martial law to stop bread riots. Police guard the Russian legation and patrols are walking the thoroughfares.

CONSUL FOR MEXICO

Miss Edith V. Johnson of Providence, R. I., who has been appointed Mexican consul in that city, being the first woman in the diplomatic service of Mexico. This post is particularly important because of the numerous oil tankers which ply between the Rhode Island port and Mexico. She was born on Saba island, Dutch West Indies, coming as a child to Providence in 1905.

SEE GREAT PROGRESS FOR U. S. IN AVIATION

Hoover and New Give Views to Coolidge Board.

Washington.—We, here in the United States, are right on the threshold of the development of the greatest commercial air transport system in the world—provided the United States government does its part in paving the way.

At least this is the opinion of two members of President Coolidge's cabinet—Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Postmaster General New, both of whom gave their views at length to the President's special aircraft investigating board.

Mr. Hoover told the board that commercial aviation can be established on a vast scale in this country without the payment of the large government subsidies to private enterprise.

But it will be necessary for congress to enact air transport legislation analogous to the merchant marine laws, he said, and to provide for air navigation service by the government such as is afforded water navigation.

Postmaster General New stated as fast as private enterprise qualifies to carry the mails by airplane the government will withdraw from the operation of mail planes and let contracts for the service.

After Secretary of the Navy Wilbur had told the President's aircraft board that the divorce of the aeranautics arm from the navy arm would be a "well nigh irreparable mistake," and Admiral Eberle, chief of naval operations, had asserted that William Mitchell's aviation proposals if adopted, would "bring disaster to national defense interests," Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, showed how aircraft are destined to become one of the principal, if not the foremost, weapons of navies in the sea fighting of the future.

Princess Mafalda Weds Nephew of Former Kaiser

Racconigi, Italy.—Princess Mafalda, daughter of the king and queen of Italy, renouncing all rights of herself and her heirs to the throne of Italy, became the bride of Philip of Hesse, prince of Germany and nephew of the former kaiser.

A civil ceremony, at which Premier Benito Mussolini was the notary for the crown and in which the distinguished former Premier Tittoni read the civil marriage service, was carried out at 10:30 in the morning. It was followed by the marriage service of the Roman Catholic church, under special dispensation of Pope Pius.

Trains Collide Head-On; One Killed, Fifty Injured

Chattanooga, Tenn.—One woman was killed and fifty others injured, several seriously, when the Dixie Flyer, northbound for Chicago on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad, and the Dixie Limited met in head-on collision at Worley, near here.

Both trains rolled over an embankment, the Dixie Limited landing bottom side up.

Mrs. H. C. Byers of Cloquet, Minn., was killed instantly.

Meat Exports Decline

Washington.—Meat and meat product exports during August were 64,083,255 pounds, valued at $9,374,110. August animal oil and fats exported were 84,793,775 pounds, valued at $12,388,707. These are below 1924 export levels.

Brooklyn Yard to Build Ship

Washington.—One of the two big cruisers authorized by congress will be built at the Brooklyn navy yards, Congressman Black was assured. It will cost $11,000,000.

Had Lost All Hope of Ever Being Well

Read story of the fight for health and final victory as told by Mrs. James A. Hall, Box 31, Norris City, Illinois.

"About twelve years ago my health failed. I could not eat anything without suffering. I had heartburn, sour stomach, palpitation of the heart, smothering spells, pains in my back and sides and a cough almost like consumption. Nothing helped me. I grew worse and was able to sit up only part of the time. I had lost all hope of ever being any better when someone gave me a Pe-ru-na book. The book described my case so truly that I began to take Pe-ru-na. After two and a half bottles I could eat without suffering and improved from then on. I took eight bottles and felt like a new person. That was fourteen years ago. So many diseases are due to catarrh that I think Pe-ru-na the greatest family medicine in the world."

For more than half a century Pe-ru-na has been doing just such work as this.

Send 4 cents postage to the PE-RU-NA COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio, for a booklet on catarrh.

Pe-ru-na is for sale EVERYWHERE

Tablets or Liquid

What Pretty Girl Did for Sick Stomach

Miss E. Rich of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I don't know what the cause was, but every few days my stomach would feel all bloated up with gas, my appetite was poor and I felt sick to my stomach—to say nothing of headaches.

"I never thought of using Carter's Little Liver Pills until nothing seemed to help. After using Carter's I felt relieved at once—and now as soon as my stomach 'talks' back I answer with Carter's and have the last word."

Recommended and for sale by all drug stores. 25c.

Farmers in Hard Luck

Farmers of Spain, in the last five years, have not received sufficient prices for grain to pay for the production.

Brought Up on a Farm

As a young man Dr. Pierce practiced medicine in a rural district and was known far and wide for his great success in alleviating disease. He early moved to Buffalo and put up in ready-to-use form, his Golden Medical Discovery, the well-known tonic for the blood, which is an extract of native roots. This "Discovery" of Dr. Pierce's clears away pimples and annoying eruptions, tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. It corrects the disordered conditions in a sick stomach, aids digestion, acts as a tonic and enriches the blood. Vim is sure to follow its use. All dealers. Tablets or liquid.

SKIN IRRITATIONS

For their immediate relief and healing doctors prescribe

Resinol

SAVE YOUR EYES! Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1167 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Man is not merely the architect of his own fortune; he must lay the bricks himself.

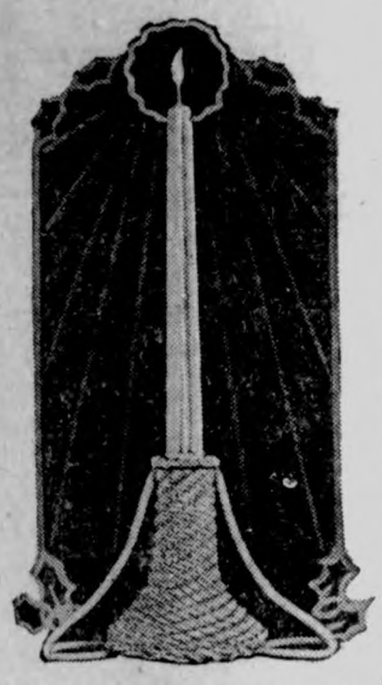
Sure Relief

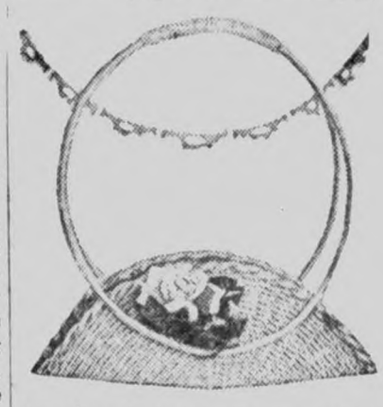
BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

Pretty Things that are made at Home





IF ALL the women who love to adorn their homes with pretty little home-made furnishings could hold a convention, they would come to order and immediately voice a rising vote of thanks to those who design beautiful objects made of paper—and to those who make beautiful papers.

About the most important item among the newly arrived furnishings shown in the crepe paper shops, are lamp and candle shades, made over wire foundations. These wire frames are first covered with a thin strong muslin stretched smoothly over them. Designs cut out from figured crepe papers of floral or geometrical patterns, landscapes, sea views, figures of all kinds, in fact any appealing and appropriate picture, are used for decorating the shades. The figures are pasted to the muslin. By a simple process either ground glass or something that has that appearance is blown over the surface. Fringe or metallic braids make the usual finish.

The fascination of candles for living and bedrooms will never end. Sealing wax flowers and gold or silver paints are the usual mediums for touching up plain wax candles in white or colors, and giving them added artistic value. Graceful candle sticks and even lamps are made of paper crepe and wire and finished with shellac, and all sorts of pretty and useful baskets are made in the same way.

The woman who is clever at handling paper will delight in making personal adornments of ribbon or silk. Many simple evening and afternoon frocks depend upon a corsage or shoulder flower for class or chic. A cluster of roses, made of folded silk mounted in long ends of baby ribbon, to be worn at the girdle, and a conventional rose and buds of silk veiled with silver tinsel, are shown in the picture. The buds are suspended on silver cord and the ornament may be worn on the shoulder or corsage.

Long before there was any other hint of autumn abroad in the land, Madam Milliner everywhere saw to it that her clients were supplied with simple little velours and felt hats. It was easy to slip from the white and light colored felts of late summer to the darker and more glowing colors for fall and to be forearmed against the first cool days, for nothing is more pathetic than a summery hat on a shivery day. Having tided her people over to the time when they must confront winter, this same efficient lady is now presenting real winter millinery in all types of hats.

In many representative displays of new millinery there are hats that divide their responsibilities and travel in the company of neckpieces made to match. These neckpieces are of several kinds, scarfs, ties and collarettes, but nearly all designed to be worn in the choker effect, high up about the throat. Collarettes are small, merely high turnover collars made of velours, felt or other millinery fabrics. Three hat-and-scarf sets are shown here along with the always popular fox scarf, which is worn with any sort of hat. A bit of modernistic art is shown at the upper left of the picture with curious cutout felt figures applied to a velvet scarf. The hat, of velours, is faced with velvet and has velvet and satin-covered cord wandering in devious ways over the crown. Next to it a wide-brimmed hat, of hatters' plush, is faced with velvet and trimmed with an applique of velvet petals forming a huge conventional rose. Velvet in three shades of one color makes the chic turban with coronet covered with folds and a jeweled pin at the front. Small cabochons of silk braid in three colors are scattered over the crown and clustered on the scarf. Folded ribbon and a gilded leather blossom adorn a small velvet hat with matching scarf of ribbon. These sets have much style.

THREE HAT-AND-SCARF SETS

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Be consistent in your economy. Don't try to save on the necessities of life. To do so is false economy, but practice your economies on those things you do not actually need—the luxuries of life."

SIMPLE GOOD THINGS

Arrange cubes of bread in a bowl and pour over them enough fruit juice to be well absorbed. Chill and when cold unmold and serve with cream or a thin custard for sauce.

Lemon jelly served with a chocolate blancmange is a combination not often seen but is very good. By serving both, the amount of jelly will serve twice as many.

Grape Sago.—Wash and soak over night one cupful of sago. Cook until transparent, adding one cupful of grape juice. When cool turn into a glass dish and serve with sweetened cream. Any good fruit juice may be used in place of the grape.

Mississippi Chicken.—Put through the meat grinder one-fourth of a pound each of veal and fresh pork, two slices of bacon, a chicken liver, half a green pepper and a sprig or two of parsley; add a teaspoonful of scraped onion, a tablespoonful of worcestershire sauce, half a teaspoonful of salt, paprika to taste; mix well and stuff the chicken. Baste often and serve with sweet potatoes or cooked rice.

Strawberry Gateau.—Bake a round of sponge cake; when cold cut off the top and scoop out the center, leaving a two-inch shell. Heap with strawberries which have been well sweetened, cover with whipped cream and serve at once.

Stuffed Rabbit.—Mix a cupful of bread crumbs, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, two tablespoonfuls of poultry dressing or any desired herbs, four tablespoonfuls of chopped suet, one teaspoonful of grated lemon rind, one egg and pepper and salt to taste. Add milk if more moisture is needed. Fill the well-cleaned rabbit with this mixture and sew up carefully. Simmer for an hour or longer, adding a tablespoonful of vinegar to the water in which it is cooked. Serve with buttered onions, and parsley butter. To prepare this, cream butter and stir in as much minced parsley as it will take.

Pineapple juice is especially refreshing, and is also valuable as a medicine.

VARIETY IN COMMON FOODS

Chicken is so well liked that it may be served frequently and is always a welcome dish.

Chicken With Corn.—Scrub and clean a fowl well by using a handful of soda in the water; cut up as for frying, roll in seasoned flour and brown in a little hot fat. Lay the pieces in a baking dish and cover with milk, simmer slowly for two hours or longer, depending upon the age of the fowl. Season well when half cooked and add a cupful of corn (fresh) cut from the cob—canned will do. Serve the chicken with corn and the gravy poured around it.

Parisian Sandwich Filling.—Soak one cupful of prunes over night, drain, remove the stones and put through a meat chopper with one cupful each of dates and figs. Add enough orange juice to make a paste that will spread easily. Butter graham or whole wheat bread and spread with the filling. This will keep some time if covered, and is very good for a cake filling.

Mutton Broth.—Take three mutton bones, one tablespoonful of rice and six cupfuls of water. Add salt and simmer for five hours. Skim and remove all fat, add pepper and serve hot. This is especially good for children.

Mutton en Casserole.—Brown a pound or less of mutton cut from the shoulder, cut into serving-sized pieces. When well browned season with salt, pepper and dredge with flour. Add one cupful or more of carrots, a cupful of peas, and one onion. Place in a casserole to bake for several hours. Serve from the casserole.

Fried Green Corn.—Cut as much corn from the cob as will be eaten. Into a hot frying pan put a generous portion of butter and when melted turn in the corn and stir constantly until the milk has moistened it well. Season and set on the back part of the range to cook for five or ten minutes, then serve. A green pear finely chopped and added to the butter, cooking a minute or two before the corn is added, makes a fine flavor well-liked.

If a few pieces of fried chicken are left from dinner, use them as follows for a luncheon or supper dish: Remove the meat from the bones in as large pieces as possible, mix well with any gravy left over; if none, cover the bones with a little cold water and extract all the flavor; add that with a bit of thickening. Into a small baking dish slice two or three good-sized potatoes, cover with a sprinkling of finely sliced onion, using one small one; cover with the meat and gravy, then add enough thick canned tomato to cover the dish, a cupful or more. Cook for three quarters of an hour in a moderate oven. Serve from the baking dish.

Nellie Maxwell

Community Building

Any Attention Paid to Lawn Is Fully Repaid

Thoughtful builders always save the top six or eight inches of soil excavated and use it as a top dressing over the remainder of the lawn. The more fertile, of course, a lawn can be made the quicker and better the grass and other plantings will grow.

One of the best methods for improving the fertility of a lawn is by the application of well-rotted stable manure. Frequent top dressings with a good complete fertilizer add much to the fertility of a lawn.

Old lawns, if the weeds and coarse grasses have driven out the finer velvety grasses, may be improved much by plowing or spading the sod, turning it under to a depth of eight or ten inches, following this by a thorough cultivation, and then reseeding at the rate of one to two bushels of June grass to one to two bushels of red top, and eight pounds of white clover per acre. Some of the commercial lawn mixtures may be substituted for this mixture with less trouble. A smooth, well-sodded lawn can be obtained in two or three years by frequent clipping.

For the average person wishing to beautify a lawn, the suggestion to study carefully lawns laid out and landscaped by experts as well as home-planned lawns is well worth while. Many useful ideas can thus be picked up and applied.

To Co-Ordinate Ideas for City Beautifying

Bringing the most foresighted ideas in city planning and regional planning to focus through the tests of practicability and experience will be the purpose of a newly formed joint committee on the establishment of standards in subdivision planning and subdivision control, which will represent the National Association of Real Estate boards, the National City Planning conference and the American Institute of City Planning.

Irenaeus Shuler of Omaha is chairman of the committee of the National Association of Real Estate boards authorized by the directors of the association to co-operate with similar committees of the planning organizations to make possible unification of effort of the specialist in city planning with the realtor who is actually engaged in the work of city building. The joint commission will study methods of controlling growth of new residential and industrial areas, particularly of areas contiguous to cities but outside their corporate limits.

Have Fixed Plan for City

Greater value may be derived from a plot of ground that is to be developed for building purposes, providing a comprehensive plan is first prepared. The adoption of a limited number of styles of architecture to be employed is the next step to be determined. The village or community idea embodies a comprehensive plan and a protective one. The purchaser of a home in this sort of development is then assured of a house equal or better than his own and, in addition, enjoys the privilege of cementing a closer friendship with his neighbors. Such a home-owner will naturally evidence a keen desire to do his share towards the proper care of his own particular unit in the village. Quaint winding streets or roads, properly shaded with trees and dotted with ornamental lamp standards and sign posts, at once impart an air of distinctiveness to a community. Comparing such an arrangement with the usual stereotype right-angle intersections of roads found in most communities makes one wonder why the village idea was not developed long ago. Then, too, a great deal of thought and study is required for a proper landscape treatment of a village; this, in itself, is a most important factor in the success or failure of the undertaking.—Philadelphia Ledger.

City Looks to Future

Durham's (N. C.) new source of municipal water supply, situated on the Flat river above the present site will be provided by a modern dam which will impound sufficient water to make the city free of the fear of drought for years to come, even considering the rapid growth of population and industry which will require water far beyond the present amount of supply. In determining to spend liberally for the provision of this fundamental civic equipment, the city has also given much thought to the future and is seeking scientific advice in the acquisition of data, so that when the problems arise the facts will be obtainable upon which to cope with them.

Provide for Soft Water

One of the requirements of houses in suburban villages, particularly those whose source of water supply is an artesian well, is soft water.

Hard water has its uses, and to be frank, they are many, but when the housewife wants to turn out a dainty job on her personal garments, or for the table linen, there is nothing like soft water to do the work. Clothes washed in soft water turn out much whiter and snowy than those washed in hard water.

Looks 20 years younger say his friends

McDonald had heartburn and dizzy spells; now thanks Tanlac for perfect health.

*"My health was slipping," writes Charles McDonald. "Finally I became so run down and weak I couldn't hold my body straight. My back ached like it was breaking in two."

His appetite disappeared and after eating, heartburn and shortness of breath brought extra hardships. Finally he tried Tanlac. It added 10 pounds to his weight and left him feeling so well and strong that he now "faces life with a smile."

*Authentic statement. Address on request.

Tanlac revitalizes the liver, tones up the whole digestive system, and benefits the vital organs of the body. It is Nature's Greatest Tonic and builder. It puts new life in your veins.

Tanlac is absolutely free from harmful drugs. The famous Tanlac formula contains only roots, barks and curative herbs brought over the seven seas for your health.

Don't gamble with your health a minute longer. Get a bottle of Tanlac from your druggist today. After the very first dose, you will feel better. You will soon enjoy refreshing sleep, be able to eat heartily, and feel the full pleasure of health regained.

NOTE: For Constipation, take Tanlac Vegetable Pills, Nature's own harmless laxative.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

The man who tells you that all men are equal really believes that he is a little more so.

Love and death are the two great things on which all human sympathies turn.—Haydon.

Children Cry for

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless - No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

A man judges all other women by his wife.

It makes any man nervous to have a woman gaze at him.

BAYER

Genuine

ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" and INSIST!

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Why have RHEUMATISM?

OH, what a wonderful feeling to be free from that miserable rheumatism. To know again the joy of limber joints and active muscles—freedom from that agonizing pain!

How often have you longed for some relief as you suffered torture from swollen, inflamed muscles and joints—how often have you said you would give anything in the World for a few hours comfort!

But you didn't know that all you had to do to get real relief from this nerve wracking misery was just to build rich, red blood, did you? You didn't know that rheumatism had to be stopped from the inside by destroying the impurities that cause it—by building millions of red cells in your poor, weak blood, did you?

Until you fill your system full of healthy, rich, red blood you will never end your rheumatism. S. S. S. will surely help you. That's because S.S.S. helps Nature build the red-blood-cells that fight off the impurities that cause rheumatism.

Conquer rheumatism! S. S. S. has shown the way. For generations S. S. S. has brought blessed relief and comfort to thousands of rheumatic sufferers.

When the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build goes coursing through your system, it purifies the blood in your body. Rheumatism vanishes—skin blemishes disappear—you begin to get hungry again and enjoy your food—strength and power fill your body—you are vigorous—red-blooded and ready for action. Know this joy of living again! Take S. S. S. and banish rheumatism!

S.S.S.

Get S. S. S. from any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

J. N. DAY STORE SCENE OF FIRE

FIRE DISCOVED LAST NIGHT BY JACOBS

GOODS DAMAGED BY WATER AND SMOKE

Fire broke out in the J. N. Day Cash Store last night, which was discovered by Ed. Jacobs ase he was closing up his own store, and it being his custom to go back of the store to see if there should be any fire in the alley, he saw smoke coming from the rear of Day's store, next door. Doc. Anderson who was with him and Sumner Trumbell turned in the alarm and notified Mr. Day.

When the fire company arrived the blaze was located in the rear of the store where kerosene is kept. The fire had already filled the store with heavy smoke and the flames were going up the inside walls. It took about an hour to get the fire put out. The origin of the blaze is not known.

Mr. Day did not know the extent of the damage this morning but he will have quite a loss as a lot of goods were damaged by smoke and water. Whatever los he may have is covered by insurance.

Household Goods Damaged

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Patet who live above the store suffered a loss when their household goods were damaged by water and smoke. Luckily Mr. Patet had taken out insurance only a few days before.

Jacobs removed a lot of his heavy hardware from his store when it was thought the fire might not become controlled.

HANCOCK COUNTY REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Week Of Sept. 21 to Sept. 26

German M. E. Church to English M. E. Church, Klemme, W. D. date 9-17-25, lots 5-6-7-8, block 14 in Klemme's addition to Klemme.

Edward M. Hoffman wf. to Frank L. Smith, Trustee. Trust deed date 3-1-25, due 5 years, S½ SE¼ 8 & NW¼ 9-96-25 ..... $16,000.00.

Gilmore Johnson wf. to John H. Johnson, W. D. date 9-21-25, W½ NW¼ 12-96-26 ..... $1.00.

Gilmore Johnson wf. to Olive Johnson, W. D. date 9-21-25, E½ NW¼ of block 4, Stubbin's addition o Britt ..... $1.00.

M. F. Pfeffer wf. et al. to Charlotte Hatterscheid, W. D. date 9-10-25, part of lot 1 block 5, Corwith.. ..... $1.00.

Chas. Schoenwetter wf. to Township of Liberty, W. D. date 9-7-25, a strip of land 20 feet along North side of SW¼ 32-95-24 ... $121.12.

A. Carolus wf. to School Township of Liberty, Easement date 8-31-25 A strip of land 40 feet wide extending from SW corner of NWfb 32-95-24 to NW corner of said quarter section.

A. Carolus wf. to School Township of Liberty, Easement date 8-31-25, a strip of land 20 feet off South side of NW¼ 32-95-24.

J. C. Johansen to Maria Johansen, W. D. date 9-17-25 lots 1-2-3-4-5-6 block 23 Anderson's addition Britt, ... $1.00 etc.

Miss Vane Valley to Otto Larson, W. D. date 8-27-25, W½ SW¼ 31-97-24 ..... $1.00.

Fred J. Albers wf. to Geo. Albers, Q. C. D. date 9-25-25, SE¼ 21-95-23, ... $1.00.

Size of Postcards Has Been Increased

The maximum dimensions of postcards which can be sent through the mail at the two cent postage rate has been increased, according to post office officials. The new size is increased from 5 9-16 inches in length by 3 9-16 inches in width to 6 inches in length and 4 -15 inches in width.

THE WORLD SERIES

Get your radio sets in good working order. The world series starts October 7. As usual there will be a number of sets tuning in about town where the fans will gather to keep tab on the games.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON "GOLD BONDS"

"Before I go to the bank to ask advice about investing the money mother left me, I wish you would tell me something more about bonds," said Helen to Aunt Emmy. "Am I right in thinking that gold bonds are absolutely safe? Are gold bonds what people mean by gilt edge securities?"

"What a child it is!" laughed Aunt Emmy. "I can see that you do need to learn something about bonds. The term 'gold bond' does not have anything to do with the term 'gilt edged security.' The latter is nothing more than a commonly used phrase that means a safe security. Companies that issue gold bonds usually agree to redeem them in United States gold coin of the weight and fineness of the gold coin issued by the United States Treasury at the time the bonds are put on the market. This is done in order to protect the bondholders from the very remote possibility of a radical change in the value of United States currency, such as, for example, the changes in the values of German and other European currencies as a result of the war. While such a thing is unlikely to occur in this country, financiers always try to guard against every possible trouble. Although a bond may be payable in gold it is unnecessary to demand payment in actual gold coin since our American money is on a gold basis anyhow and our good old paper dollars have exactly the same value as golden dollars.

"But you want to bear in mind one thing. Because you buy a so-called 'gold bond,' that does not mean that the bond is secured by gold in any way, or that it is stronger than any other bond. The strength of a bond lies simply and only in the ability of the company that issues it to pay its debts. And of course you should consider the value of the property pledged or mortgaged to secure the bond, if any property is given as security."

"Dear me, Aunt Emmy," exclaimed Helen, "I never realized how much one needs to know before investing one's money. In my case it's awfully important not to have a loss, because although I have only a tiny amount of money it is all I have in the world. How can I ever learn to tell what is good from what is bad?"

"I am not sure you ever can rely on your own judgment, my dear," smiled Aunt Emmy, "but if you will be guided by your bank, you needn't worry."—A. B. Aymes.

ON GUARD AGAINST FARM CROOKS

With every constructive movement for the improvement of agriculture, one is likely to find men who will attempt to capitalize it for their own personal benefit. This may take the form of shipping in poor and unprofitable livestock to palm off on unsuspecting farmers, or it may sometimes be selling fair to good livestock at exorbitant prices under promise of taking back some of the offspring at high figures.

There are several instances where the college of agriculture through its county agent system has co-operated in heading off the introduction of undesirable or extravagantly priced livestock. In other instances the state bankers association, through its agricultural committee or the secretary's office, has sent warnings to its member banks relative to individuals or firms operating on an unsound basis. It is as important to head off undesirable and unprofitable investments as it is to encourage constructive and profitable ones.—Banker-Farmer.

BANKERS HELP

The banks of Bedford county, Tennessee, are furnishing pure bred eggs to all who will agree to return one pullet for each fifteen eggs in the fall.

The Missouri Bankers Association issued the first number of the "Agricultural Information Service Quarterly" in April. This publication deals with timely agricultural subjects of interest to bankers. A discussion of the various projects proposed as a basis for the program of banker-farmer co-operation in Missouri appears in the first issue.

Clearing houses in Georgia have approved a proposal for the expenditure of $30,000 annually for the next three years for the purpose of carrying out a program of farm development and crop diversification in Georgia. The proposal was initiated by the Georgia Bankers Association. The plan calls for the creation of a state-wide development committee of thirty members which will function under the direction of the Agricultural Committee of the Georgia Bankers Association.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTIII

Oh merchant in thine hour of eee,
If on this paper you should ccc,
Take this advice and be you yyy,
Go straightway out and advertiii.
Be wise at once, prolong your daaa
A silent business soon d-kkk.

Cheap for $1,200

A western young man visiting New York city thought it would be fine to buy his sweetheart's engagement ring there. Entering a Fifth avenue store he was waved from one lordly clerk to another down a long aisle and at last reached the counter where there was a personage who sold engagement rings. "Here are some rather neat rings," said the distinguished one. "Small, of course, but in good taste." Our young friend liked their looks, but was pained to learn they ran from $3,500 to $5,000 apiece. He admitted, in some confusion, that he wished something a little cheaper. Then the mighty one reached into a bin and brought up a handful of sparklers. "Take your pick," said he, politely repressing a yawn, "$1,200 each." The home-town jeweler sold that ring.—Capper's Weekly.

Old Superstition

Much quaint, mythical superstition centers around ancient Dover castle, which overlooks the English channel. It is unique among English castles in more respects than one. No other ancient fortress in this country has maintained its practical usefulness so long and no other has been accredited to the industry of the devil. According to the Bohemian Leo von Rotzmital, "it was built by evil spirits and is so strong that in no other part of Christendom can anything be found like it." It is easy to see the reason for this ascription. Foreigners casting covetous eyes on this gateway to the rich lands of England may well have found something diabolical in this fortress frowning down on them.—London Mail.

When conditions in China get settled again somebody can make a lot of money by going over there and teaching them to use chop suey!

It is announced from Paris that the French Debt Commission will bring along its own champagne so that the experts won't suffer. Evidently the fame of our deadly corn liquor has spread as far as ancient Gaul.

Dr. Mayo says that the value of the chemical constituents in a man are worth ninety-nine cents, but did he take into consideration the imitation Scotch at ten dollars a quart found in some?

The best one we heard for a long time was a joke Clarence Gram pulled off on himself Monday. He was at the Greimann garage and was repairing an inner tube. He cleaned the tube, cut out a nice patch and took down a tube of cement from Bernard Smid's private shelf. He applied the cement, waited for it to dry, pumped up the tube and the patch came off. The operation was repeated and the results were no better. That patch wouldn't stick! About that time he discovered he was using "Smidy's" tooth paste instead of rubber cement.

It is said that native girls in Africa are demanding more clothes, which indicates that instead of becoming civilized, they are slipping backward.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP

BUILDING UP AN ESTATE

One of the quickest and easiest ways of building up an estate is through life insurance.

By investing a small amount of your yearly income in life insurance you are able to protect your family's future—safeguard your savings—increase your credit, and at the same time you are cultivating the savings habit.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

GRAND JURY MEET ON BANK CASE TODAY

INDICTMENT EXPECTED TO BE RETURNER TODAY

As we go to press we learn by a special long distance call that the Grand Jury is in session today on the Klemme Bank case and developments can be looked for.

Griesemer and Wenck, bankers in the case are still out under bonds of $10,00 each.

The findings of the Grand Jury will possibly become public today or this evening.

HOGS DESTROY APPLE MAGGOTS

Turn Swine In Orchard To Clean Up Fallen Fruit

One way to help get rid of apple maggots is to turn the hogs in the orchard in the early fall or late summer to clean up all fallen fruit, This suggestion is offered by B. B. Fulton of the entomology department, Iowa State College.

The apple maggot burrows thru the flesh of apples, forming winding tunnels which are often just under the skin. At this time of year the maggots are maturing in fallen apples in large numbers in certain sections. When the maggots become full grown they leave the apple and burrow into the soil where they remain over winter. In July they emerge as flies with handsomely banded wings.

Hogs, if allowed in the orchard to clean up the dropped fruit before the maggots mature, will aid greatly in checking the pest. It is not a good plan to leave the pigs in the orchard permanently, however, because they tend to pack the soil to the detriment of the trees.

SHOOTS CHICKEN THIEF

Algona Republican— Sunday night chicken thieves arrived at the Lloyd Phillips home, about five miles west of town, prepared for business. It seems they had a truck and automobile, ready to make their getaway. waiting for the. Mr. Phillips heard them and went out prepared to meet them. He fired, and from the screaming that followed a man must have thought he was killed. His partner picked him up and carried him to the car. Nothing has been heard as to the present whereabouts of the men, although the doctors' offices have been watched. Perhaps a few more experiences such as this would teach those chicken thieves that it is better to get their fowls somewhere else than in the other fellow's back yard.

IDLE HOUR THEATRE

For Saturday evening, Oct. 3rd— "The Rejected Woman," from the story by John Lynch.

For the comedy we have a famous "Our Gang," in "Every man For Himself." You know this comedy alone is worth the price of admision.

Big Dance at this theatre on Tuesday evening, Oct. 6th. Music by the Nix 5 Arcadians.

For Wednesday, Oct. 10th a big feature program and good comedy in addition.

Special music for all the shows.

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED

In the district court of Hancock county last week two divorces were granted. Mrs. Fred Cook, of Britt, was granted a separation from her husband. Chris Hanson, Jr., who lives at Old Concord south of Garner, was granted a divorce from his spouse.

WEEK-END SPECIAL SALE!
Extraordinary Bargains on Armour Quality Products for balance of this week only!
Smoked Hams and Bacon WHOLE OR HALF PIECE

STAR Skinned Hams 60 ways to serve, at lb.	31c	STAR Bacon Fancy sugar cured	43c
SHIELD Skinned Hams Mild cure, per lb.	28c	SHIELD Bacon Mild Cure, per lb.	36c
SHIELD Picnic Hams Mild cure, per lb. only	21c	BANQUET Bacon Mild Cure, per lb.	31c

BACON NUGGETS, 2 to 4 lb. pieces, lb. 29c

Sale Closes Sat. Night Oct. 3

Klemme Meat Market

Mr. and Mrs. John Day and Mr. and Mrs. Skow visited with Mrs. J. Baumgartner at a Mason City hospital Sunday.

Dr. R. W. Specht

—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING

Bring Your Work To Us!

Pavey's

STORMIZING SHOP

Figure It Out For Yourself!

If you wish to compare prices paid by THE KLEMME CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY COMPANY as compared to those paid by the cream station of which you are a patron, we will be glad to furnish you information that will enable you to check up closely.

Upon request we will furnish you a statement of prices paid by this creamery over a period of several months.

Secure the same information from your station and COMPARE RESULTS.

We are confident that you will be surprised at the comparative figures.

You aim to secure the very highest price for your grain, eggs and poultry.

Why not secure the HIGHEST PRICE FOR YOUR CREAM?

It Pays To Patronize The—

Klemme Creamery Co.

—FOURTH ANNUAL—

Hog Sale

Big Type

OFFERING 75 HEAD OF PURE BRED HOGS

Poland China & Chester Whites

Saturday, October 3

At Farm 1-4 mile west of Klemme. Sale Begins at 1:00 p.m.

Poland China- 25 boars, 15 gilts.
Chester White- 20 boars, 15 gilts.

Terms—Cash, or 6 mo. time on approved notes at 8 percent.

R. C. Ludeke, Owner

—Klemme, Iowa—

L. A. Matern, Auct. First National Bank, Clerk

FOR SALE—20 head of feeding cattle. Geo. Buseman. 2wc

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, October 1, 1925

Eggs (trade)	.35
Eggs (cash)	.34
Heavy Hens	.17
Light Hens	.14
Standard Springs	.17
Leghorn Springs	.14
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butterfat	.50
Butter (Creamery)	.50
Wheat	1.45
Oats	.30
Shelled Corn	.60—.68
Barley	.60
Rye	.75—.80
Hogs (top)	13.70

DR. R. E. PORTER

CHIROPRACTOR

..Every Day — Open Evenings..

Office at John Dieuwen Residence

Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Cups and Saucers 39c per set of six at Wellemeyer's. 1tc

Miss Genevie Schuldt was a Garner visitor Monday.

This vicinity had a real soaker of a rain Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jacobs visited at Clear Lake Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis visited at Ackley, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fritzell drove to Grundy Center Sunday for a visit with her folks.

FOR SALE or TRADE—Residence property in Klemme, modern house and 3½ lots. Inquire at Times. 3p

Al Koerner and family are riding around in a new Ajax car. It is a real nifty looking six cylinder sedan.

Mrs. P. M. Wilson accompanied her brother to Vinton Monday where she wil visit for a few days.

Dad Jorgenson was over from Garner Tuesday to do some repairing at the Print Shop.

LOST—A 200 lb. red calf, spotted, about a week ago. Notify Wm. Ax. 1tfc.

R. A. Jorgenson and family visited at Garner and Mason City Sunday with relatives.

Miss Marie Gauger, who teaches near Kanawha, spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus are visiting at the T. F. Mitchell home at Swea City this week.

A. D. Gimer and family drove to Riceville, Iowa, Saturday evening for a Sunday visit with relatives.

Rev. A. W. Gauger left Tuesday for Le Mars to attend the Methodist Conference now in session.

Arthur Kudje and family will move into the Albert Yahnke house as the Yahnkes are moving to their new home at Garden City, Minn.

W. F. Pavey and son, Wayne, and daughter, Jaunita, visited with Mrs. Pavey at the Mercy hospital at Mason City Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus entertained the Arthur Wellemeyer family at a six o'clock dinner Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis, and Mrs. Clarence Kluckhohn and son, drove to Mason City Thursday for a visit with friends.

The Ell Township Farm Bureau held their first meeting of the season, at the Center School house last week Thursday evening.

Mrs. Fred Musfelt and granddaughter, Laura Lanahan, of Clarion, came Monday for a few days visit with relatives and friends.

Adolph Lauritsen, of Renwick, was a week-end visitor with Klemme folks. "Abe" is the coach for the Renwick high school this year.

Mrs. W. F. Pavey is getting along nicely at the Mercy hospital at Mason City. Reports are that Miss Caroles, a patient there, is also on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Lena Schroeder and Mr. and Mrs. Will Barz leave today from Garner for a visit in Wisconsin with Rev. Gutterman and others until next Monday.

The new barber working for C. A. Bachman is Mr. Baumgartner, who comes from Greene, Iowa. Mr. Baumgartner is a married man and expects to live here.

The Reformed Ladies Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Henry Barz Wednesday afternoon. An enjoyable and profitable meeting was reported.

Mrs. Fuls returned to her home at Freeport, Illinois Monday morning. She had been here to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Ben Swalve.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Schaper and son are staying at the Ben Swalve home during his absence in South Dakota where he and Mrs. Lauritsen are visiting.

WANTED—Students to fill part-time positions while attending school You can defray your expenses and get a good education if you write at once. The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. 1tcF

Many cellars in Klemme were full of water yesterday morning after the heavy rain of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. This is the heaviest rain we have had this year, or for a number of years, for that matter.

There will be a dance at the Idle Hour Theatre here next Tuesday evening, October 6th. Mr. C. A. Bachman, who is managing the fall opening dance has secured Nix and his 5 Arcadians to furnish the music.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Barr returned from their three week's vacation Sunday night. They made a tour of the eastern part of the United States and took in all the important places in the east. They report having had a wonderful trip.

Leonard Sampson and wife left Saturday morning for Illinois for a visit with her folks. On the 30th Mrs. Sampson's parents celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary and it was for this great event that the trip was made at this time.

Mr. Ben Swalve and daughter, Mrs. Ing. Lauritsen, accompanied his other daughter, Mrs. Charles Schuetpeltz and two children to their home at Wesington Springs, S. D., for a coulpe of weeks visit. They made the trip in Mr. Swalve's car.

Mrs. J. J. Poort went to Spencer the latter part of last week for a few days visit with relatives there. Saturday Mr. Poort and son Orvis and daughter Leona, drove to Spencer to spend Sunday and Mrs. Poort returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jacobs are moving this week into the Ing. Lauritsen home in south east Klemme. Mr. and Mrs. Lauritsen will reside with Mr. Ben Swalve and keep house for him at his home. Chris Gram and wife are moving into the house vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman and daughter, Marion, Mrs. Mary Waterman and Mrs. Hattie Lanahan drove to Blue Earth, Minn., Sunday where they met Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Mitchell, and other relatives and all enjoyed a picnic dinner at the tourist park there.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet next week Thursday October 8, at the Parish House. Each member requested to bring a paper bag lunch. If there are any blocks out for the quilt, either finished or unfinished, please hand them to Mrs. P. M. Wilson this week, as the quilt must be completed soon.

Death entered the Gottlieb Gobeli home last Thursday morning when their sixteen year old son passed away at a Mason City hospital, death being caused by intestinal influenza. Funeral services were held Sunday at the Evangelical Church at Meservey and burial made in the Meservey cemetery.

A fine time was enjoyed by all at the reception given the teachers at the Parish House last Friday evening by the Methodist church. The orchestra furnished some very fine music and some fine solo and duet numbers were enjoyed. After the entertainment light refreshments were served by the Ladies Aid.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yahnke and daughter, Alva, expect to leave this week for Garden City, Minn., where they will make their future home. Mr. Yahnke recently bought a farm near Garden City on which there are two sets of buildings. Mr. Yahnke and his family will live on the farm in one of the houses, while Albert's son, Walter Yahnke, and family who at present are on a farm at Buffalo Center, will move on the other place and run the farm. Klemme people will miss Mr. and Mrs. Yahnke as they were both active in church as well as social circles of the town. However, the Times joins with their many friends here in wishing them much happiness in their new home.

A large shipment of common dishes has arrived at Wellemeyer's, priced as follows per set of six:—

Dinner Plates	95c
Pie Plates	69c
Oatmeals	88c
Fruits	33c
Soup Dishes	69c

Platters and deep dishes at about one-third what you usually pay. These dishes are seconds but they sure run good in quality. Wellemeyer's. 1tc

8,400 Acres in Beets

The acreage of beets this year for the sugar factory at Belmond is estimated at 8,400 acres and it is expected that the campaign will last 80 days, and will start between the fifth and tenth of October.

The Improved

Ford Car

Carload Due To Arrive Any Day This Week

Come in at once and get your order placed with us for one of these Latest Improved FORD CARS. All the very latest improvements and body styles in this car load.

RADIOS

We are the exclusive dealers in this territory for—

ZENITH RADIO and—

SUPER-HETRODYNE RADIO

This is RADIO SEASON—buy your Radio of us now and get the full benefit of wonderful entertainment. We handle only the best makes which have proven satisfactory. We are glad to demonstrate.

Greimann Motor Co.

Authorized Ford Sales and Service

Special Week End Sale

Friday & Saturday

On all new fall Ready-to-wear
Ladies and Misses
NEW FALL COATS
LATEST DRESSES
NEW MILLINERY
At Prices That Will Make You Glad You Bought Here!

Clothing & Shoes

We have a full line of Mens and Boys Clothing—New Fall and Winter Suits, New Overcoats, Dress Shirts, Ties, Sweaters, Hosiery, etc., and you will find that our prices are extremely low for high quality merchandise. We carry a full line of shoes for every member of the family.

Trade at Abraham's where your dollar goes the farthest. Bring us your eggs—taken same as cash.

Chas. Abraham & Sons

S. E. Adams, Mgr. GARNER, IOWA

SICK WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Can Be Carried Comfortably Over The Critical Period by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound —Note Mrs. Headden's Case

Macon, Georgia.—"During the Change of Life I suffered with my whole right side and could not lie on my left side. I was in bed about two months and could not get up only as my son would lift me. After doctoring without relief a man who was rooming with us told my son that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured his mother at the Change of Life, so I began taking your medicine. After taking it for two weeks I could get out of my bed by myself. I am now 53 years old and in better health and stronger than ever in my life. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to many suffering women, young and old, and you may use my name anywhere as long as you please. I will be glad to answer any letters sent to me."—Mrs. F. B. HEADDEN, 5 Holt Avenue, Macon Georgia.

In a recent country-wide canvass of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 200,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 reported they had been benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

The earliest recorded eclipse of the sun occurred in 2137 B. C. It was visible in China and is recorded in the Chinese classic, the Shu Ching.

Get Back Your Health!

Are you dragging around day after day with a dull backache? Are you tired and lame mornings—subject to headaches, dizzy spells and sharp, stabbing pains? Then there's surely something wrong. Probably it's kidney weakness! Don't wait for more serious kidney trouble. Get back your health and keep it. For quick relief get Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. They have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

J. T. Hamley, retired butcher, N. Prospect St., Maquoketa, Iowa, says: "My kidneys were disordered, acting first not often enough and then too freely at night. Mornings I was dull and my back was lame and stiff. Doan's Pills corrected the trouble and my kidneys were regulated."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Healthy, Happy Babies

The best way to keep baby in crowing, contented health is Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. This safe, pleasant, effective remedy regulates the bowels and quickly overcomes diarrhoea, colic, flatulency, constipation, and teething troubles.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

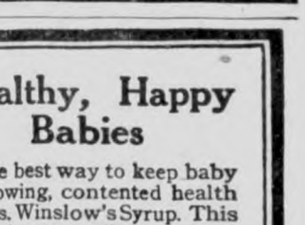
The Infants' and Children's Regulator

is best for baby. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Open formula on every label.

At all Druggists

Write for free booklet of letters from grateful mothers.

Anglo-American Drug Co.
215-217 Fulton St.
New York



ARE you ready to enjoy your social duties, sports or recreations?

Try HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters—a wholesome tonic, appetizer and corrective.

At All Druggists

The Hostetter Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Quick Safe Relief

CORNS

in one minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns At drug and shoe stores

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on - the pain is gone

KEEP YOUR SCALP Clean and Healthy WITH CUTICURA

NAMELESS RIVER

VINGIE E. ROE

COPYRIGHT BY THE McCALL COMPANY.

WNU Service.

CHAPTER XIX

—17—

Riders of Portent.

Minnie Pine could get from one place to another more quickly and with less noise than any one at Sky Line.

When Rod Stone came in at dusk she came running to him in the shadows to whisper in his ear.

"The sun woman from the flats on Nameless," she said, "has thrown their words back in the faces of the master and the boss—and they have given her to Sud to guard—in Rainbow's pot with Big Basford at the Flange. It's devil's work."

Rod Stone put out an arm and hugged the girl gently.

"You're a real woman, kid, if your skin is brown," he said admiringly, "and after all, it's heart that counts. Now tell me about this."

"I came," said Minnie frankly, "to you, because you are the only man at Sky Line. The rest are skunks. Josefa says you have the heart of a Pomo chief."

Stone stood for a long time considering.

Then he drew a deep breath and flung up his head.

"You're right," he said, "it's devil's work and something must be done. I am the one to do it, too."

He was silent for another space. Then he turned to the girl.

"Kid," he said. "I've been thinking about you lately—about making a getaway down the Pipe some night and striking across the desert for Marston—we could find a parson there and drop over the line into Mexico. Arnold hasn't much on me—perhaps less than on anyone at Sky Line—and we could make a new start—"

There was the soft sound of an indrawn breath and Minnie Pine's hand went to her shapely throat.

Stone went on.

"If I do this—if I hit down for Cordova tonight—you know, of course, that it is very likely to be the end of me one way or another, in the general stir up that will follow. I want you to know any way before I start—that I'd like that new beginning—with you."

For a long moment there was no sound save the myriad voices of the conifers talking mysteriously with the winds of night.

Then the Pomo girl put her hands on the white man's shoulders.

"A chief," she said, "does what must be done—without fear—and a chief's woman follows him—even to death. Saddle two horses."

* * * * * * *

At Sheriff Price Selwood's ranch an anxious circle watched the still form on the bed. The doctor from Bement had not left his station for seven hours. Outside cowboys, all armed, walked here and there, and on the deep veranda sat the prospector, Smith, smoking innumerable cigarettes and waiting on destiny.

"It may be an hour—it may be ten—but something is going to happen soon," the doctor had said at dusk, "he will either rally or sink. If he speaks he will be rational, I think."

And on that chance the stranger waited to ask one question, namely: "What is the secret of Sky Line? Where is the other end of the passage?"

For all the hours that Price Selwood had lain unconscious, fourteen men under Bossick had camped in a glade under the flaring skirts of Mystery's western end, ready to answer Fair's summons.

Fair's thoughts were of the girl on Nameless—of her long blue eyes with their steady light, of her smiling lips and the golden crown of her braided hair.

He drifted away, as lovers have done since time was, and it was the low-toned voice of the doctor which recalled him.

"Mr. Smith," it said without a change of inflection, "come in carefully."

He rose and, tossing away his cigarette, stepped softly across the sill.

In the faint light of the oil lamp on a stand Sheriff Selwood looked up into the face of his wife, bending above him.

"Sally," he said weakly.

Then he turned his head and looked slowly around at the others.

"Hello, Doc," he whispered, then—"they didn't get me—after all! Smith—Smith—" a sudden light leaped into the dazed eyes, "I saw—them drive Bossick's—Bossick's steers into the face of—Rainbow cliff a mile west—of Sky Line—"

"That's plenty," said Fair quickly, "you mustn't talk, Selwood—mind the doctor—I'm leaving now."

And with a gentle touch on the sick man's shoulder he was gone.

He ran to the stable and got Diamond.

Five of Selwood's riders were throwing saddles on horses.

In less time than seemed possible the six men were riding for the rendezvous on Nameless.

All along the flowing river there was the seeming of portent, a strange sense of impending tragedy, for many riders were abroad in the quiet night.

One of these was Bud Allison, his young face set and awful, his pappy's old rifle grasped in a steady hand, pushing Big Dan to an unaccustomed limit of speed toward Sheriff Selwood's ranch.

The boy was praying that he might find Brand there—and the old gun was destined for action.

But within the narrow margin of a mile Fair was passing toward the north as he went south—and thus Bud missed him with the news of Nance's disappearance. Had they met, the happenings of that night might have had a different ending, for Fair would have stormed the citadel of Sky Line like a fury, forgetting all things in his fear for the woman he loved—the ends of justice which he sought to serve, Bossick's steers and everything else.

And in the shadow of Rainbow cliff Rod Stone and Minnie Pine waited patiently for the ranch to settle down that they might slip away.

At the camp on the skirts of Mystery, Fair found Bossick ready.

"Selwood's conscious," he told him quickly, "and his first thought was of his race for life. He said 'they didn't get me after all,' and 'I saw them driving Bossick's steers into the face of Rainbow cliff a mile from Sky Line.' That's the secret he discovered and for which they tried to kill him.

"There's some sort of opening in the rock face which connects with the subterranean passage that leads to Blue Stone canyon, the desert range beyond, and finally to Marston on the railroad. That, gentlemen, is the secret of your disappearing cattle. Selwood said they always vanished at the same time Kate Cathrew drove her stock down to Cordova and out to the station—do you see?

"The drive, coming down to the river, obliterated all tracks of those going up. Now that we know I think we've got the Sky Line rustlers dead to rights. There are twenty-one of us.

"We'll divide you; you, Bossick, going with your party up to Rainbow cliff, and I striking up through the mysterious passage. This trip will take a long hard grill, for it is far up Blue Stone to the south, and none of us know the length of the underground way.

"However, it must lead to some pocket not far from the cliff itself and on the inside. A gunshot will locate us when we are ready for each other. Lord knows what we'll find, or what the outcome will be. Let's go."

And so it was that some time later Brand Fair with his posse passed close along the upper edge of Nance Allison's ruined field and thought tenderly of the blue-eyed girl with her dogged courage and her simple faith, little dreaming that she was not safe in her bed in the cabin.

The hours of the night wore on.

Crossing diagonally down, Rod Stone, safe away from Sky Line at last, made for Cordova with Minnie Pine behind him.

Bossick, having the shortest journey of all, sat in a clump of pines with his men around him, and waited in strained silence for a distant shot.

It was well after midnight when two things took place at almost the same moment—Brand Fair rode in behind the clump of willows that were always blowing out from the canyon's wall with his men in single file behind him—and Rod Stone got off his horse at Cordova. He handed his rein to the Pomo girl and went swiftly up the steps, opening the door upon the lighted room where a group of men were playing. They were mostly from the Upper country, though one or two were Cordovans. Among them were the bearded man who had sat on McKane's porch that day in spring and watched Cattle Kate come riding in on Bluefire, and the young cowboy with whom he had spoken concerning them.

Stone, a Sky Line man, received cold glances from the faces raised at his entrance. All Nameless knew and disapproved of Sky Line. But the boy was made of courageous stuff and he tackled the issue promptly.

"Men," he said sharply, "I'm from Sky Line, as you all know, and you may class me now as a traitor to my outfit. Perhaps I am. That's neither here nor there. I don't give a d—n whether I am or not. I'd have stood true in all cases but one. That one has happened. There's a good girl—a Bible girl, like I used to know back in the Middle West—shut up in a secret spot with Sud Provine—and I've got to have help to save her and that quick. She's a fighter, I think, and is strong—but—you all know Provine. I don't know what I'm stirring up and I don't care. Will you come?"

Every chair at the dirty canvas-covered table but one shot back and outward as the players rose.

"Where's this here spot—an' who's th' girl?" said the cowboy. "Lead us to 'em."

"In Rainbow cliff—and the Allison girl from the homestead on the river."

"Th' h—l you say! Ain't that poor kid had enough trouble?"

But McKane the trader spoke from where he sat, frowning.

"Ain't you all taking a lot for granted?" he asked, "and mussing in Kate Cathrew's business?"

The bearded man turned on him.

"D—n Kate Cathrew's business! She can't give a decent girl to that slimy rep-tile Provine and get by with it in this man's country—not by a d—n sight! Get your horses, boys!"

As the players surged out, McKane, obeying some apprehensive instinct which pulled at his heart like a cold hand, rose and followed.

"Wait till I get mine!" he shouted as he ran.

CHAPTER XX

—

Conclusion.

When Nance Allison mounted Buckskin at Kate Cathrew's door a terrible weight hung at her heart, yet a current of strength seemed flowing in her veins.

"'The Lord is the strength of my life,'" she thought valiantly, "'of whom shall I be afraid?'"

The courage of the familiar words had been with her through many bitter trials—it did not fail her now.

So she rode in silence with Provine's lascivious eyes upon her from behind, and Big Basford glowering in self-centered inattention ahead.

The way led close along the foot of Rainbow cliff among the weathered debris which sifted always down the rock face, and presently she was amazed to see the wall itself seem to slice in between Basford and herself, and in another second she was riding into a very narrow defile in the living stone with Provine close upon her horse's heels. There was just room for horse and rider in the echoing aisle and none to spare. It was dimly lighted by what seemed a crack in the earth's surface high up among the clouds. The girl looked up in wonder.

This, she knew, was the secret of Rainbow cliff and Mystery ridge. Despite her danger she noted the passage with keen interest. The way was short for in a few minutes the rock-walled cut turned sharply to the right and ended abruptly.

Before her startled vision lay spread out a little paradise, round as a cup, green with tender grass, dotted with oak and poplar trees beside its countless springs—and grazing contentedly on its peculiarly rank forage was a band of cattle, each one of which bore on its left the "B. K." of Bossick's brand!

This, then, was Rainbow's pot of which Arnold had spoken.

In utter astonishment she drew Buckskin up and looked at the "secret spot" of Sky Line ranch.

"Well," said Provine amusedly, "how do you like it?"

The girl did not reply, but sat still with her hands crossed on her saddle horn.

The snaky eyes under the black brows lost their drowsy pleasantry.

"I wouldn't advise you, purty," he said, "to come the high-and-mighty with me. A little kindness, now, would go a long way toward an understandin'. Get off that horse."

Without a word Nance obeyed.

A little cold touch was at her inmost heart, but that tight, tense feeling of strength was still with her. She measured Provine's shoulders with her eyes as he unsaddled the animals and turned them out to graze. She looked at his long arms, his lean and sinewy back.

"I've handled my plow all spring," she said to herself sagely, "I pitched hay all day and was not too tired at night. I can lift a grain sack easy. I'll sell out hard if I have to—for Mammy and Brand and Bud and Sonny."

And when Provine turned and came toward her, smiling, he was met by blue eyes that were hard as shining stone, a mouth like a line of battle and hands clutched hard on folded arms.

"Oh, ho," he said, "we're goin' to butt our head agin a wall, ain't we? Cut it, kid, an' kiss me—you might as well now as later. An' besides, I don't like a mouth all mashed up from discipline."

"The hand of God," said the big girl stiffly, "is before my face. His host is round about me. I'd advise you to let me alone."

The man threw back his head and laughed.

"I don't see no host," he said, "an' I ain't superstitious," and with a leap he swung one long arm around her neck.

"Help me, Lord!" said Nance aloud, and bowing her young body she pulled her forehead down his breast and slipped free.

Next moment she had struck him in the mouth with all her might and followed through like any man.

Provine roared and swore and came for her again, head down and small eyes blazing.

"Now," he said, "I'll have to hand you discipline, you d—d hell-cat!"

* * * * * * *

So the night that was so full of portent dropped down upon the country of the Deep Heart hills and Destiny rode the winds.

Sky Line ranch was stirring early, even before the first gray light had touched the east.

There was much afoot. Bossick's steers were going down the Pipe that day—and perhaps Sud Provine and Nance Allison would go with them, bound for the Big Bend country in Texas whence the man had hailed.

"I think she'll sign this morning," said Arnold easily as he sat down to Josefa's steaming breakfast by lamplight, "and keep her mouth shut, too."

In the shielding clump of pines Bossick waited for Fair's signal somewhere inside the cliff.

Not so far down the great slope of Mystery Rod Stone was climbing up with the Cordova men behind him and Minnie Pine like his shadow at his side.

And deep in the heart of the earth Brand Fair was slowly forging upward toward that coup of justice for which he had labored so long and patiently.

Not least of the actors in the coming play, set to function on the stage of Rainbow's pot, was Bud Allison urging his exhausted horse slowly up toward Sky Line.

* * * * * * *

There was a cold breeze blowing when Arnold and Kate Cathrew rode along the rock face to the Flange. They spoke in low tones to Big Basford standing like an image and slipped into the wall. They rode in silence down the defile, dark as Erebus and full of wind, and came out into the ampitheater where the pale light was breaking.

At first they saw no sign of anything human in all the shadowy place. Arnold's keen eyes swept the pot from side to side, while Cattle Kate's went slowly round the wall.

"That's funny," said the man, "Provine—"

"Look," said Kate, "over toward the left—against the cliff."

The light in the east struck first at the western face of the precipice, so that an object standing back against the perpendicular surface got its full benefit.

Arnold bent forward in his saddle and looked long at this object.

Then he touched his horse and rode forward.

"Good Lord!" he said as he pulled rein a distance from it, "Good Lord!"

For the object was Nance Allison—or what had been Nance Allison some few hours back.

Now it was a tragic wreck of a woman whose garments hung in fantastic shreds upon her body, whose white skin shone through in many places and whose great eyes gleamed from her ghastly face with awful light. One long gold braid of hair hung from her head in a dangling loop. The other was loose to its roots and swept in a ragged flag to her hip. Long wisps of it shone here and there upon the trampled grass around.

And over her from head to foot was blood—blood in clots and streaks and splotches, while from a small gash on her temple a red stream slowly dripped.

The man was awed for once in his relentless life.

"Heaven!" he said, "what have you done? Where's Provine?"

"Dead, I hope," said Nance Allison dully.

Arnold struck his horse and dashed away, riding here and there as if he must know the ghastly finish quickly.

For a while it seemed that the man was gone entirely.

Then suddenly his horse shied from something moving in the deep grass by a spring and Arnold dismounted.

He had found Provine—Sud Provine rolling in agony, his face in the mud. With no gentle hand he grasped his shoulder and pulled him up.

"What's all this?" he rasped. "What's the matter with you?"

For answer Provine took his hands from the left side of his face and looked up at his master.

Arnold dropped him back with an oath, which Provine echoed.

"Gone!" he cried hoarsely, "gouged—slick an' clean! An' she tried to get 'em both—d—n her hussy's soul!"

Arnold rode slowly back to where that grotesque caricature of a woman still stood by the wall. She seemed immovable as the rock itself, part and parcel of the waiting world and the gray shadows.

"You young hellion!" he gritted through his teeth, "you have blinded my best man!"

"Have so," said Nance, still in that dull voice, "yes—I have so." She nodded her disheveled head.

"Oh, what's the use to fool with her!" cried Kate Cathrew furiously, "I'm done!"

With a flare of her unbridled temper she snatched her gun from its saddle loops and flung it up.

As her finger curled on the trigger Arnold plunged his horse against Bluefire.

"No!" he cried as the report rang out clear and sharp in the thin air of dawn. The bullet struck with a vicious "phwit" ten feet above its mark, and a little rain of rock dust fell on Nance's hair.

From all the sides of Rainbow's pot that shot came back in echoes, a roaring fusillade—and Bossick, waiting in his clump of pines, straightened in his saddle. He picked up his hanging rein and spoke in a low voice.

"Ready, men?" he asked, "then let's go."

Cattle Kate had fired her own signal of fate and her enemies heard it.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Billion Really a Vast Sum

When a billion is spoken of it means a huge sum to the average mind, but to express or visualize the sum in any unit that can be comprehended quickly is not easy. Probably one of the easiest ways of comprehending it is to imagine spending a dollar a minute and then realize that since the birth of Christ there had been only a little more than a billion minutes. By the end of 1925 there will have passed just 1,011,990,000 minutes.

WRIGLEY'S

AFTER EVERY MEAL

THE FLAVOR LASTS

Probably one reason for the popularity of WRIGLEY'S is that it lasts so long and returns such great dividends for so small an outlay. It keeps teeth clean, breath sweet, appetite keen, digestion good.

Fresh and full-flavored always in its wax-wrapped package.

Reflect before criticizing.

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA

When this unusual quality Cocoa is served, a request for a second cup naturally follows.

35¢ a pound

QUALITY for 70 years

Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.

Reid, Murdoch & Co.
Chicago, U. S. A.
Boston, Pittsburgh, New York

The New, Two-Toned

RUGS at a saving of ½

Write today for beautiful rug book describing the OLSON patented process by which we reclaim the materials in Your OLD RUGS

Carpets and Clothing

First, we wash, picker, card, comb and bleach your material, and then spin, dye, and weave it into lovely, new, seamless, reversible rugs—any color you want, any size—firmly woven rugs that rival the high-grade Wiltons and Axminsters, and will stand the hardest kind of wear. In use in over one million homes. FREE TRIAL—satisfaction guaranteed. We pay you for your material if not satisfied. Every order completed in ONE WEEK

FREE BOOK In Colors Full of suggestions. Supply is limited. We pay express, freight or parcel post from all states. Don't delay! You can still order at the lowest prices in years.

Olson Rug Co., Dept. W-3, 36 Laflin St., Chicago
Largest rug factory in world dealing direct with home

Monthly bills knock you cold

You must eat! You must dress. But no one can make you use inferior oil and pay cold cash for the repairs that must result.

MonaMotor Oil will eliminate at least one of the bills that knock you cold. MonaMotor will stop all repair bills from faulty lubrication.

Buy only MonaMotor Oil.

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, O.

MonaMotor Oils & Greases

RINGGOLD COUNTY Iowa Farms for Sale

at bargain prices, will be sold on reasonable payment down, balance carried long time at 5%. Write for information. F. E. Sh'don & Co., Mt. Ayr, I.

100 Hunting Hounds Cheap—Fur finders money-makers. Kuskuskennels, Herrick, I.

Boschee's Syrup for Coughs and Lung Trouble

Successful for 69 years. 30c and 90c bottles—ALL DRUGGISTS

THE MERICAN LEGION

(r This Department Supplied by the erican Legion News Service.)

NSON ACT WILL BE UP FOR ACTION

e provisions of the Johnson act, war legislation drawn up and ed by the American Legion, ught in the legislative jam at se of the last congress, will be for passage at the next session national rehabilitation committhe Legion, according to Wat- Miller, chairman.

ng the provisions to be pressed ssage are: To permit the payf disability compensation retroy to April of 1917; to provide anent rate of compensation for d cases of tuberculosis; to prothe reinstatement of insury disabled veterans who are unpay the back premiums and into provide family allowances beneficiaries who are totally d; to remove all dates for the sion of vocational training; to all time limits for the filing of ity claims; to provide for the up of a permanent medical in the veterans' bureau service. irman Miller declared that it e necessary to secure an appron from congress at the Decemssion amounting to approximate,850,000 so that the veterans' can carry out its program for nstruction of new veterans' hos. During the last two sessions rization was granted to the directhe bureau to expend $16,850,000 is purpose, but due to legislative ications arising at the end of session only $3,850,000 actual was appropriated.

son Memorial Backed by Georgia Department

nds of Woodrow Wilson in all of the United States will con- to a fund to establish a colas a national memorial to him orgia, the state where he grew nhood, in the opinion of Col. rd M. House, intimate friend and nal adviser of President Wilson. memorial college to Wilson was sed by the department of Geor- American Legion.

a recent interview with a repretive of the temporary board of es for the proposed college, el House declared that he would l in his power to assist in the lishment of such a memorial. ant A. Stovall, former minister itzerland during the Wilson adtration, who is leading the ment to found the Wilson college, "The value of Colonel House's rt in this undertaking cannot be nphasized. He is known the over as one of President Wil closest friends."

ere Penalties for Embezzlement of Funds

ardians embezzling funds paid by government to their wards as d war beneficiaries will be subto prosecution by the federal govent as a result of legislation d at the recent session of con- American Legion officials anced at Washington recently. Punent is fixed at a fine of $2,000 or risonment at hard labor for five s or both. The Legion supported legislation.

tters were sent recently by the rans' bureau to clerks of Probate rts inquiring into guardianships of mpetent veterans and children of rans, many of them orphans. As sult, guardians in six months re- ed to the government $100,000, ly in uncashed government checks. ingle letter contained an entire es of uncashed $100 checks going to 1919.

here are, according to Veterans' au records, 9,519 guardians of ors and 15,000 guardians of adults ermanent total cases. The number inors under guardianship is esti- ed at 30,000.

ered to Pay His Way to Any Foreign Country

he successor to "The Man Without ountry" was found at Omaha, Neb., ently—almost.

. M. Merriam, commander of Se- d post of the American Legion, s commissioned to go to Omaha and for a youth who, in the columns an Omaha newspaper, begged to told one good reason why he should tinue to grace the United States America with his presence, co-opation and endorsement. The distented youth said: "The time is ning when millions of Americans enrich other nations with their sence and leave the United States, h as it is, to an anti-liquor organiion, as it deserves to be."

The Seward post replied promptly t it would pay the disappointed ng man's way to some foreign land he would promise never to return. e young man in another letter acted the offer—provided that he ht return to this country as often he wished "on visits."

FRENCH TANKS ROUT 10,000 TRIBESMEN

Smash Through the Walls of Suedia and Relieve Garrison.

Suedia, Palestine.—The French have completely defeated Druse tribesmen and Suedia, capital of Jebel Druz, has been relieved after its French garrison had been penned up for sixty-six days. Ten thousand Druse tribesmen were scattered by the attack of the French column, aided by air bombers and tanks.

The tanks, advancing in a triangular formation, reached the walls of Suedia and made themselves into a battering ram, beating down the walls and blockading houses and allowing the infantry to enter the city. All the Druse forces were engaged in a battle which lasted five hours before they were scattered.

There is a human interest side to the attack and relief of the French garrison of 700. Commandant Tommy Martin, previously rumored to be sick, wounded and dead, was found alive and well. Major Martin joined the attack the moment the French tanks reached the old Turkish citadel, thereby forming his first liaison with the French army for sixty-six days. During these days they were fed by airplanes and communicated with by radio. When the tanks knocked against the gates of the citadel, the heroic garrison streamed out, joining the infantry and tanks in fighting the Druses until they were driven out of the city.

Paris.—News of the defeat of Druse tribesmen, received here, led to the prediction that it meant the beginning of the end of French troubles in Syria.

Maharajah of Kashmir Dies; Hari Singh to Get Throne

London.—News reached London of the death in Kashmir of Sir Pratab Singh, maharajah of Kashmir, and of the probable succession to the throne of his nephew, Sir Hari Singh, central figure of the "Mr. A" case in the London courts last year. Sir Hari was blackmailed by a gang who used as a decoy Mrs. Robinson, pretty wife of a broken racetrack gambler, and obtained £100,000 ($500,000) from the young Indian prince.

It is virtually certain that Sir Hari will succeed to the throne.

The throne of Kashmir is one of the wealthiest and the country one of the most romantic regions in India. The income of the ruler is more than $5,000,000 yearly.

Robert Goelet Makes Third Plunge Into Matrimony

New York.—In his marriage to Miss Roberta Willard at her parents' home at Fairhaven, near Newport, R. I., Robert Goelet, multimillionaire son of the late Ogden Goelet, is making his third plunge into matrimony.

His first wife was Miss Elsie Whelan, noted society beauty of Philadelphia, whom he married in 1904. After a decade of happy life temperamental differences arose, and in March, 1914, Mrs. Goelet was granted a divorce in Newport, R. I.

In 1919 Goelet married in Paris Mme. Fernanda Riabouchinsky, the former wife of Prince Nicholas Riabouchinsky of Russia.

Goelet is said to be worth about $40,000,000.

Wood Campaign Cost Is Placed at $1,750,000

Chicago.—The campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood in 1920 cost $1,750,000 up to May, a month before the Republican convention met, according to testimony produced in Federal Judge Thomas W. Slicks' court in the suit of Col. William Cooper Procter, Cincinnati millionaire, against Col. A. A. Sprague, Chicagoan commissioner of public works. Procter is seeking to make Sprague pay half of a $100,000 note given for campaign expenses during the fight.

It was brought out that the Wood campaign collapsed in May, 1920, because funds ran out. Colonel Procter was chairman and Colonel Sprague treasurer of the Wood campaign.

Washington Wins Second Consecutive League Flag

Washington.—Washington captured its second American league pennant, and will face Pittsburgh, which clinched the National league title, in the world series, starting at the latter city October 7.

The American league race ended suddenly, as the champions won two games from Cleveland, while St. Louis came from behind to nose out Philadelphia, sole remaining contender, in an 11-inning contest. The Senators won the first game 4 to 8 in ten innings, and the second, 6 to 2.

Opposes Unified Air Force

New York.—Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, president of the army war college, declared in an address before the Military Order of the World War that a unified air force would prevent efficient operation of the field army.

Jap Statesman Dies

Tokyo.—Severely burned when his clothing caught fire from a bonfire in his garden, Viscount A. Hamsao, president of the privy council, died in a hospital here.

ROAD BUILDING

ROAD UPKEEP COST ELEVEN MILLIONS

Ohio will spend close to $11,000,000 this year in the upkeep of the 10,000 miles of inter-county highways designated as state routes. Of this amount, slightly over $1,000,000 will be derived from county funds, while the remainder will come from state funds.

In addition to the $11,000,000 for maintenance, $124,000,000 is to be spent in new highway construction through the combined efforts of federal, state and county governments.

This combined maintenance and construction cost, totaling $23,400,000 does not represent the total expenditure on Ohio highways for the year, for it does not take into account tens of thousands of dollars spent by counties and townships in the upkeep of roads of lesser importance. Neither does it take into account the expenditures of cities in paving and maintaining their streets, many of which are used by through traffic.

There are 85,000 miles of public roads in Ohio outside of municipalities and 12,000 miles of streets in Ohio cities. Out of total thoroughfare mileage of 97,000 miles in the state, 10,000 miles comprise the inter-county highway system, 6,000 miles of which are kept up by the state.

When the budget was made up for the maintenance and repair of state highways, the availability of gas tax funds was not yet assured, so the budget was based on funds outside the revenue from the new 2-cent tax on fuel. Gas tax money has begun to come into the state treasury so that at present there is available $1,700,000 more for maintenance and repair of highways than the budget estimate took into account.

The gas tax revenue will be used in various places over the state as it is needed at points not already provided for in the budget, H. J. Kirk, chief engineer of the bureau of maintenance and repairs, said. In 1926, Kirk estimates, there will be still more money available.

Ohio is enabled to spend nearly twice as much for the maintenance of state routes in 1925 as it was in 1921 and more than $4,000,000 more than it was able to spend in 1924.

The increased expense is necessary, Kirk points out, because the state is now confronted with the proposition of rebuilding roads constructed years ago, and now worn out or inadequate for present-day traffic.

Wider Roads Are Needed to Handle Motor Flood

The marked congestion of motor vehicles on roads and streets, together with the fact that automobile factories have been turning out cars faster than crews have been building pavement enough to park them, has elicited a lively discussion of the amazing growth and the future of the automobile. With a registration of 17,500,000 cars in the United States and a factory output in 1924 amounting to 4,000,000 cars, the problem assumes proportions of first magnitude.

As the Glens Falls (N. Y.) Post-Star views the situation "there can be but one answer to the question—more roads, and that means, very largely wider roads." Quoting further:

"The task of road building which started with the advent of the automobile has only begun. It will not be ended for years to come. There is no other solution. The increase of automobiles cannot be stopped. People will buy them and run them as long as they have money. The highways must be expanded to accommodate the traffic. Traffic cannot be cut down to fit the highways. It is fast overburdening them. The program of road building must be hastened to keep pace with traffic, or confusion will ensue."

The Engineering News-Record, a leading engineering construction journal, believes that no one can see the congestion in our city streets and on our country highways without realizing that "the saturation point of automobile production is not going to be measured by the purchasing power of the people but by the capacity of our highways" and advises the automobile manufacturer to do all he can to help get new roads and streets if he wants to keep his market for automobiles unimpaired.

Surface for Earth Roads

Development of earth roads will be the subject of a nation-wide investigation to be conducted under the auspices of the highway research board. Prof. S. S. Steinberg of the University of Maryland has been made acting secretary of the investigation. The object is to find an inexpensive surface that will carry intermediate traffic at low construction and maintenance cost.

To Relieve Traffic

In order to relieve motor traffic between New York city and Washington, D. C., the Lee Highway association perfected plans for a wide boulevard connecting the Arlington Memorial bridge to be erected over the Potomac and the bridge which is to be erected over the Hudson river connecting Manhattan island and New Jersey at One Hundred and Seventy-eighth street in New York city. Officials of the association are already conferring with government officials on the subject.

DIRT SOAP

Plain Lady at Counter—I want a cake of soap.

Fancy Young Clerk—Yes, madam, here is Prince Domitroeo's Boudoir soap, highly milled and finely scented. This here is Madam Nix's velvet cuticle soap, while this here was named after the prince of Wales. Which one would you prefer, madam?

Plain Lady—Have you any soap that will take the dirt off?—Bronx Pharmacist.

Pointed

Homeseeker—How much did you say this house is which you want to sell me?

Agent—I am instructed to let it go for $18,500, and it's a bargain.

Homeseeker—Haven't you got the decimal point in the wrong place. It looks to me to be worth just about $1,850. Good-by.—Pathfinder.

Still Worse

Dora—I think Mary is mean! I showed her my engagement ring and she said it was always too tight for her.

Gladys—Yes, that's exactly what she said to me last summer when I was wearing it.

BIG GAME HUNTERS

Mr. Filmfan—At the movies they're showing a picture of a woman shooting a lion.

His Wife—That's nothing. Don't you remember the time I killed a mouse with a broom?

Ill-Rewarded Effort

When Controversy takes command
Of mortals here below,
The more you try to understand,
The less you seem to know.

Explained

"It only takes me 20 minutes to get to my office," said Mr. Chuggins.

"But you didn't arrive until an hour after you telephoned that you were leaving home."

"Yes, it took me the other 40 minutes to get the car started."—Washington Star.

At the Track

"Can't bet on your horse, Maude."

"Why not?"

"He has been scratched."

"I thought that barbed wire would injure some of these spirited nags."

Plain, on the Face

Nellie—Marion is always borrowing my powder puff.

Bertha—She must have a lot of cheek.—Good Hardware.

FINISHING TOUCHES

Mother—Whatever have you been doing to my portrait?

Philippa—I've been making it up a little. The artist left the face dreadfully unfinished.

She'll Find Out

In ignorance
You'll never keep her
If your sweet bride
Is a light sleeper.

Leveling Up

Mistress (to new maid)—Why, it seems to me that you want very large wages for one who has had so little experience.

Maid—Sure, mum, ain't it harder for me when I don't know how?

Sounds Fishy

"But, my dear," she replied, coyly, "you must remember how crazy I am about lobsters."

With a glad cry he took her in his arms—Capetown Caper.

Yeast Foam makes good bread

Bread making is easy to learn and is an education in other cooking.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Lightning Statistics

"Lightning is a gentleman and observes the rules of the Marquis of Queensberry—it won't strike a man when he's down," according to electrical engineers quoted in the bulletin of the Pennsylvania public service committee.

The possibilities are that a man standing directly under a storm cloud would be struck 15 times in 100 strokes, while a man flat on the ground only once in a hundred strokes.

Two million volts of electricty, having characteristics of lightning, have been made by scientists for experimental purposes. Lightning has an average potential of about 100,000,000 volts, about a million times the voltage of house-lighting current.

"DIAMOND DYES" COLOR THINGS NEW

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings—everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Australian Marriages

Australian marriages during 1923 included 483 brides under seventeen years of age, the youngest being only thirteen and 73 women of sixty-five years and over. The oldest bridegroom was eighty-six. Among the young mothers was a child of twelve, while six girls of only thirteen years gave birth to children.

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Take Tablets Without Fear If You See the Safety "Bayer Cross."

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Better Belgian Roads

Considerable strides in automotive transportation are being made in Belgium. Neglected roads outside of the larger cities are being repaired and put in condition to receive heavy traffic.

Don't Forget Cuticura Talcum

When adding to your toilet requisites. An exquisite face, skin, baby and dusting powder and perfume, rendering other perfumes superfluous. You may rely on it because one of the Cuticura Trio (Soap, Ointment and Talcum), 25c each everywhere.—Advertisement.

Many a man starves today while feeding on tomorrow's hopes.

Champion will render better service for a much longer time. That is why it is outselling throughout the world.

Champion X for Fords 60c. Blue Box for all other cars, 75c. More than 95,000 dealers sell Champions. You will know the genuine by the double-ribbed core.

Champion Spark Plug Co.
Toledo, Ohio
Windsor, Ont., London, Paris

Robust Mother of Five Healthy, Happy Children Keeps Fit with Beecham's Pills

"When I feel a dizzy headache coming on, I take one or two Beecham's Pills.

"I am 33 — a healthy, robust mother with five happy children, thanks to Beecham's. I do all my own housework, besides sewing, washing, ironing and caring for the children."

Mrs. ALBERT ORMEROD
Fall River, Mass.

For FREE SAMPLE—write B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal Street, New York
Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

For constipation, biliousness, sick headaches, and other digestive ailments take

Beecham's Pills

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

Now a Better Way to keep toilet vaults sanitary

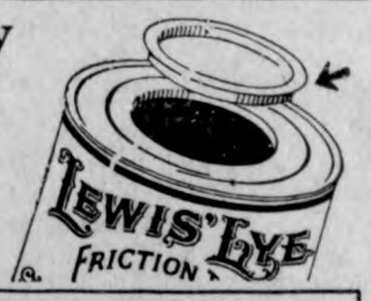
Destroys Germs . Kills Odors



TYPHOID strikes like lightning. Medical aid is often too late. That is why Doctors, everywhere, urge you to use Lewis' Lye to keep outside toilets and drains safe Its protection is complete.

Sprinkle a can of Lewis' Lye in the vault each week. It destroys the germs. Kills disease carrying flies. And it prevents fermentation which is the cause of noxious gases and odors.

Make this a regular habit—for your own peace of mind.

The Lewis' Lye can has a safety friction top. Easy to open and close. Always seals tight and safe

It's cheaper to buy by the dozen—Order from your Grocer today

Nothing takes the place of

LEWIS' LYE

The Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. Co.
Philadelphia, Pa.

IOWA BUTTER BEST IN UNITED STATES

This is Verdict in National Buttermakers' Contest for Third Consectutive Year

Iowa butter for the third consecutive year has been declared the highest quality of any in the nation. Each of the last three years Iowa buttermakers in competition with those from other states and Canada in the National Creamery Buttermakers' Association scoring contest have taken five of the six medals offered to individual buttermakers and the national banner in addition, which means the butter made in Iowa had the best average score.

The last national contest was held in Portland, Ore., the fore part of September and ther in competition with 12 other states and Canada, the Iowa men again triumphed. In the last five national butter scoring contests, Iowa buttermakers have won 26 of the 30 medals offered and they have captured the national banner every year since 1921, except in 1922.

The individual medal winners of Iowa were: Cold storage class—L. E. Nelson, Randall, first, gold medal; Phil L. Lusson, Festina, second, silver medal; Peter Pefsdahl, Grafton, third bronze medal. In the fresh butter class Frank T. Shipton, Alta Vista, secured the second and the silver medal, while F. H. Harms, Olwein, placed third getting the bronze medal.

Why have the Iowa buttermakers won so consistently? M. Mortensen, a former Iowa buttermaker and at present head of the dairy department at Iowa State College, says that cooperation and skill are the two main reasons. "No buttermaker, regardless of how skillful he may be, can make good butter from poor cream," Prof. Mortensen declares. In his opinion, the fact that Iowa farmers now days take better care of their separators as regards cleanliness than formerly, and the fact that they cool and handle their cream more efficiently than in former years has helped the Iowa buttermaker to win. The dairy extension workers of Iowa State College have helped improve Iowa cream by conducting cream scoring in many creameries.

Finally, it is the real skill possessed by the Hawkeye state buttermaker that has made possible the fame of Iowa butter. High quality butter is bringing many extra dollars into the hands of Iowa dairymen each year because good butter out-sells poor butter. This means a higher price to the farmer for his butterfat. Iowa manufactures approximately 150,000,000 pounds of butter each year. Adding one cent in selling price to each pound of butter, means an increased revenue to Iowa dairymen of a million and a half dollars.

PREPARE POULTRY FOR WINTER

Clean Houses and Right Kind Of Birds Are Essential

Clean, sanitary houses and strong healthy birds are two of the factors that will largely determine whether or not the poultry enterprise this winter will be profitable, in he opinion of J. H. Bardsley, poultry extension specialist of Iowa State College.

Wash the windows so that all of the scant supply of winter sunlight will be secured in the poultry house, Bardsley advises. The house should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Remove the dust from the muslin curtains, clean out the old litter and supply fresh material. Most any of the common commercial dips or disinfectants are satisfactory in spraying the house.

To get rid of mites, paint the dropping boards, roosts, nests and other parts with carbolinium, a commercial preparation sold by drug stores. At this time of year, chickens may be rid of lice by applying a pinch of sodium fluoride (the amount that can be gotten between the thumb and forefinger) around the vent, another on the breast, one under each wing, one about the neck and one on the back.

Select rugged, well grown, early maturing pullets to put in the house for winter, culling out most of the old hens. Avoid crowding in the winter quarters by allowing three or four square feet of floor space per bird.

CAN'T LOCATE IOWA TOWNS BY NAMES OF COUNTIES

Town of Hancock Is Not In Hancock County But Is In Pottawattamie

On the map of the state of Iowa you will find many times that the names given to the counties are the same names that Iowa towns and cities bear. But they are often far apart. For instance, you'd think that Des Moines would be in Des Moines county, since there is a Des Moines county, but it isn't that way. Des Moines county is a hundred and fifty miles away—down on the Mississippi river, surrounding the city or Burlington.

Some Are; Some Aren't

Audubon is in Audubon county, Boone is in Boone county, Carroll is in Carroll county, Clinton is in Clinton county, Marshalltown is in Marshall county, Pocohontas is in Pocahontas county, Muscatine is in Muscatine county, Tama is in Tama county, Washington is in Washington county, and there are some more, but—

Benton isn't in Benton county. It's in Ringgold.

Cedar Falls is in Black Hawk county. Cedar Rapids is the county seat of Linn county. Cedar county is further down the Cedar river.

Clarksville isn't in Clarke county. It is in Butler.

Crawfordsville isn't in Crawford county. It is in Washington.

Dallas is in Marion county, though Dallas Center is in Dallas.

Marion is in Linn county, not in Marion.

Linn Grove is in Buena Vista county, not in Linn.

North Buena Vista is in Clayton, far away from the county of the Good View.

Not In Davis County

Davis City is in Decatur county, not in Davis.

Emmetsburg is the seat of Palo Alto county—Emmet county adjoins it.

Franklin is in Lee county, not in Franklin. Speaking of Lee county, it has two county seats—Keokuk and Fort Madison. Keokuk county and Madison county are elsewhere in the state.

There's an Iowa street and the University of Iowa in Iowa City. But Iowa City is in Johnson county. Iowa Falls is in Hardin county. Driving from one to the other you would traverse Iowa county.

Fremont isn't in Fremont county. It's in Mahaska.

Greene is in Butler county. Green Island is in Jackson county, Greensville is in Clay county, Greenfield is the seat of Adair county. Jefferson is the seat of Greene county. Jefferson county is somewhere else yet.

How They're Mixed

Hamilton is in Marion county, not Hamilton.

Hancock is in Pottatattamie county, not Hancock.

Jackson Junction is in Winneshiek. a long, long way from Jackson county.

Mitchellville is in Polk county, but not in Mitchell.

Monona is in Clayton county, but not in Monona.

Monroe isn't in Monroe county, its two counties north in Jasper.

Osceola isn't in Osceola county. It is in Clarke.

Plymouth isn't in Plymouth county, but in Cerro Gordo.

St. Lucas isn't in Lucas county. but in Fayette.

Sioux Center is in Sioux county. But Sioux City is in Woodbury and Sioux Rapids is in Buena Vista, the Good View.

West Union is the county seat of Fayette county rather than of Union. But Fayette is in Fayette county.

Webster City is the county seat of Hamilton county. which Webster county adjoins.

And Wapello is in Louisa county, but not in Wapello.

How many more can you find?

EASING THE BURDEN OF STATE TAXATION

Banker Points Out Benefits of Community Property System in Some States.

Favorable aspects of tax systems are now among the most highly prized assets of our states, it is pointed out in the American Bankers Association Journal in connection with an article on how California, which has never had a state income tax, cuts state and Federal death taxes nearly in half by the "community property" system. L. H. Roseberry, Vice President Security Trust and Savings Bank, Los Angeles, author of the article, says that a recent amendment to the tax law enables future residents of the state to take advantage of it. Reference is made to a former article by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Dewey, voicing the need for death tax reform and citing a hypothetical case involving California inheritance taxes which might have been levied in 1920. Since that time the laws have been changed, Mr. Roseberry declares, so that the figures then given do not correctly represent the present situation. He says:

"Ever since its admission California has had the 'community property' system. Eight other states have a similar system. 'Community property' is property accumulated by married persons during their marriage, except that which is acquired by gift, bequest or inheritance. Approximately 65 per cent of all property in the state is 'community property.' Such property in California enjoys the most favorable position in regard to death taxes, both state and Federal, of any state in the Union (excepting possibly the eight other states having a similar property system) including states boasting of no inheritance tax whatever. The California 'community property' system isrecognized for the purpose of levying Federal estate taxes, and only one-half of it is now so taxed, while in Florida the whole estate of a decedent is subject to the Federal levy.

How the Law Works

"California's law expressly provides that upon the death of either husband or wife, testate, only one-half of their net 'community property' shall be subject to inheritance taxes. The same exemption applies upon the death of the husband, intestate, while the whole net 'community property' is totally exempt from all state inheritance taxation upon the death of the wife intestate. The Federal estate tax law now follows precisely the California law in this respect.

"As the result of an amendment made to the California inheritance tax law by the 1925 Legislature, this immunity from state inheritance taxes likewise now extends to 'community property' of non-resident married persons, who hereafter take up their legal residence in the state. This puts 'community property' in a more favorable position regarding death taxes than exists in any other state in the Union, with the possible exception of the other community property states. This extension of the exemption will add 15 per cent to property in the state coming under this definition, which means that approximately 80 per cent of all property probated in California will enjoy the lightest death taxes in America.

"To illustrate, the following example of a man survived by a wife and two minor children is computed, the estate consisting of 'community property' all left by will to the wife and children. One-half of such property would go under the law to the wife without any death taxes, and the other half only would be subject to both state inheritance and Federal estate taxes.

"As a subject of comparison, take a state which has no inheritance tax, such as Florida. If the comparison were made with the states which impose inheritance taxes but do not have the 'community property' system, the advantage in favor of California would even be more striking.

	Total Tax
Estate of $100,000
California	None
Non-inheritance-tax state	$500
Advantage in favor of California	500
Estate of $200,000
California	905
No-inheritance-tax state	3,000
Advantage in favor of California	2,095
Estate of $400,000
California	5,779
Non-inheritance-tax state	13,000
Advantage in favor of California	7,220
Estate of $10,000,000
California	1,249,155
Non-inheritance-tax state	2,543,500
Advantage in favor of California	1,294,345

"If the two children were adults, the California tax would be increased only $280 in each case.

Another New Amendment

"Another feature of the recent amendment to the California inheritance tax law is a section fixing the inheritance taxes on stock in California corporations owned by non-residents at a flat sum of 2 per cent on their actual value. When considered in conjunction with the ruling that no inheritance taxes can be levied upon any stock in foreign corporations, or upon bank accounts, bonds, notes, debentures, or similar securities belonging to a non-resident but located in the state at the time of such non-resident's decease, it will be observed that at present the inheritance tax situation in California is most favorable, both to non-residents who have property in this state and to married people who live here or who may subsequently move here from elsewhere."

Fall Footwear.

A Point of Argument

Is always reached in any discussion regarding the unusual qualities of our—

Our Shoes & Oxfords

They look so stylish—fit so perfectly and wear so well. There is always an unanimous verdict in favor of STAR BRAND SHOES and OXFORDS for Men, Women and Children. Specially priced to offer you the most for your dollar in the finest footwear.

Come in and look over our wide variety of exclusive and distinctive models.

Latest style n Shoes for Men and Boys. Oxfords for those who prefer this style, and the high-cuts for Fall and Winer.

All the newest styles in Oxfords for the Ladies and Girls.

Shoes for School

We are showing a very fine line of strong, sturdy built-for-wear School Shoes for Boys and Girls. We also have 16 inch and 18 inch high-tops—just the thing for Fall and Winter.

FINE HOSIERY

We carry a full line of Hosiey for all. Full fashioned silk hosiery for Ladies, silk hosiey for Men, in all the new shades and styles.

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

PURE CANE

Sorghum!

We are now manufacturing PURE CANE SORGHUM every day at our plant just west of Klemme on the Wilson Highway.

Our Sorghum is manufactured by the Steam Process and is clear in color and very delicious in flavor—once tried you will want more.

We sell our Sorghum in 10-pound pails in any quantity you may wish.

Patronize a home industry—buy your supply of Sorghum from us—

Ludeke & Fuller

Phone 4516

A Magnificent Display Of New Fall Styles

This store is again demonstrating its ability to present the newest and largest assortments of New Fall Styles for men.

Among the suts you will find the wedge shaped coat with broad shoulders, tapering waist line and snug hips, in the season's smartest fabrics——Handdington, Fancy Cheviots, Wide Wale Worsteds. Many fabrics are exclusive with us. Both single and double breasted models are offered.

This store is the Home of the Overcoat. We show the popular box back coats in the finest foreign and domestic fabrics, Cheviots, French Boucles, Whitneys, Glen Sprays. In fact every popular overcoating is represented here.

Nowhere will you find such large stocks or remarkable values. Words are cheap. WHO says it is often more important than WHAT is said.

These Groups Are Unusual Values

$35 $40 $50

Patton Brothers Co.

Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY, IOWA

Galena Brand Husking Gloves and Mittens

Large Shipment Just Received

Yankee Doodle Husking Mitten

We are again handling the famous GALENA Brand of Husking Gloves and Mittens—the heaviets we could buy. Galena Brand are GUARANTEED NOT TO RIP—try this mitten once and you will buy no other. Our stock is complete and we can give you either Single or Double Thumb in these Gloves and Mittens:

YANKEE DOODLE SPECIAL
COCK-A-DOODLE-DO.

Full line of Husking Hooks, Pegs, Thumb Stalls, All kinds of Wrist Straps, etc. Buy your supplies here.

E. F. Jacobs

THE KLEMME TIMES

rtieth Year—Number 5. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

GRIESEMER & WENCK INDICTED ON FIFTY COUNTS

RS. VALENTINE JOSTEN PASSED AWAY SUNDAY MORNING

UNERAL SERVICES HELD WEDNESDAY

S A LONG TIME RESIDENT OF HANCOCK COUNTY

eral Services Were Held Wednesday Afternoon From The Reformed Church Here

he people of Klemme and this mmunity were greatly shocked n the sad news became known Mrs. Valentine Josten had pass- away at the Mercy Hospital at on City, early Sunday morning. as not generally known that Mrs. ten's condition was so serious ough it was known to her closest nds that she had been ailing for e time. She was taken to the pital Friday suffering from a se- attack of gall stones and she operated upon at once in the es that she might find relief and chance of recovery, but all that led surgeons could do was of no l, for she passed from this life :30 o'clock Sunday morning.

rs. Josten came to this country her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Juli- Priebe, Sr., and family when she a little girl of ten years of age. grew up to womanhood in a good istian home and was well versed oth church and home life.

n July 18, 1890 she was united arriage to Mr. Valentine Josten, to this happy union two children e born, Edwin, who now resides he home farm near Klemme, and e, who is now Mrs. Fred Becker also resides near Klemme. Be- s her husband and the two child- she leaves to mourn her loss e brothers, Julius, Herman and ries, all of Klemme, and her e sisters, Mrs. Wm. Lau, Mrs. d Haupt, and Mrs. Henry Josten, all live in or near Klemme. Be- s these immediate relatives she es many other relatives and a e host of friends.

t the time of her death Mrs. Val- ne Josten had reached the age 5 years, 8 months and 1 day.

uneral services were held at the ormed Church of Klemme Wed- ay afternoon, October 7th and e conducted by a former pastor an old friend of the family, the Muehlmeyer, who came from consin. Rev. Muehlmeyer was as- d by Rev. A. W. Gauger, pastor he Methodist church, and by the C. A. Schmid, pastor of the own Reformed church.

nterment was made in the Klem- Cemetery.

r. Josten and family have the pathy of the entire community heir sorrow.

ote: The obituary of Mrs. Josten be published in next week's is- of the Times, the copy being un- ilable at this time for publica- Editor.

LTY SCALES COST FARMERS FIVE DOLLARS

RAND JUNCTION, Oct. 8.—The y repair work on the part of a repair man cost farmers five ars every time they sold a load ogs, according to the report of . Nolan, weight inspector of the Department of Agriculture, found the error.

hen the scales were tested, they e found to be incorrect. A careful mination lead to the discovery ieces of lead, shot and an iron her in the sliding poise or weight the scale. These had been put e by a repair man to balance scale.

owever, instead of balancing the e, the additions made it weigh pounds short on every full load. of the duties of the Agricultural artment is to test every scale is used for public weighing.

ANCIENT WOOD PLACED AT PILOT KNOB

(Last week The Klemme Times carried an article clipped from the Britt News-Tribune telling of the discovery of a large amount of preserved wood. The following article gives a further story of the 20,000 year old wood.)

Some days ago Mr. Treganza of Britt, brought to Forest City several pieces of wood, which has since been placed among the collections of natural curiosities in the log cabin at Pilot Knob State Park.

A peculiar interest attaches to this little bit of wood. It was found 12 feet below the surface of the ground, in a ditch that was being dug near Prairie Creek in Boone township, Hancock County. Considerable quantities of this wood were found for a distance of about one-half mile in the section traversed by this ditch, and it is said to be the largest deposit of prehistoric wood in Iowa.

Beginning somewhat east of Mason City, and extending to a considerable distance westward of Forest City, is a range of low hills, among which Pilot Knob is the highest point. It is supposed that these hills and hummocks were caused by a readvance of the ice sheet after the glaciers had partially melted. These hills mark the dumping ground of the glaciers, which here unloaded their huge burdens of sand and shale and other debris carried down from the north. It was in this way that this wood was transported from the remains of some distant forest. together with some lignite coal found in the same vicinity.

If this bit of wood could speak, it would unfold a tale of wonders for which the great newspaper syndicates would pay almost any sum. Prof. C. T. Chapman, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, now of the University of Chicago, one of the ablest and most conservative geologists of the Middle West, says that this wood has been sleeping in s grave in Boone township for not less than twenty-thousand years.

This opens up an inviting field for speculation, in which we have some facts to guide us. Twenty thousand years is a long period as we count time. According to H. G. Wells, the human race made its first faint attempts to emerge from barbarism, by developing a rudimentary form of agriculture, not more than sixteen thousand years ago. When this wood was buried in the mud and slime of the terminal moraine of some retreating glacier, such human beings as inhabited the globe at that time were still living the nomadic life f the hunter, roaming through dense, interminable forests, and bedding themselves in caves and other precarious shelters as they might find them. Thousands of years were still to elapse before some of the more advanced tribes began to make their attempts at the first crude beginnings of civilization.

This was the time when this bit of wood was being slowly borne to its grave in the cy hearse of the glacier. Northern Iowa then presented a scene much like that of the snowy wastes of Greenland today—illimitable fields of ice, swept by the fi rce storms or enshrouded in the brooding silence of the artic regions. Then came a gradual change of climate, the southern exposures of the ice sheet began to melt away, and torrential rivers roared through our valleys, gouging deep channels to carry their turbulent floods. It was then that this wood was buried, to lie undisturbed for twenty thousand years.

When did it live? Where grew that far northern forest that was finally ground down by the glacial ice and carried to the south? Certainly away back in the dim vistas of geological periods, when the world was young, and even the polar regions basked in the warmth of a climate now unknown. What a tale this piece of wood could tell.

(Forest City Republican)

EARL JOSTEN MEMBER OF COLLEGE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Is Also Appointed On Staff Of College Paper

Earl Josten, of Klemme has been announced as one of the members of the Morningside Symphony orchestra following try-outs held last week by director Leo Kucinski of the Morningside College conservatory of music. The Morningside Symphony is composed of nearly fifty pieces and next spring will join with the orchestra of South Dakota State University in two concerts, one to be held at Morningside and the other at Vermillion.

Mr. Josten has also been appointed to the news staff of the Collegian Reporter, Morningside college student publication, according to an announcement made by Robert Snyder, editor-in-chief. The Collegian Reporter is a weekly publication devoted to the activities of the Morningside campus, and last year won third place among college papers of e North Central Press Association.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
A. W. Gauger, Pastor

All services will be regular next Sunday. It being the first Sunday of the new conference year, let us try to make it outstanding by having every member present. All friends will plan to be there.

At this service a resume of last year's work, especially along financial and benevolent lines will be given.

Special music is being provided for.

Our midweek prayer meeting will be held on Thursday evening in the church.

REV. GAUGER BACK TO THIS CHARGE

At the conference which has just come to a close at Le Mars, Ia., Rev. A. W. Gauger was elected to fill the pulpits at the Klemme and Liberty charges for at least another conference year.

Rev. Gauger has done a lot of good work during his pastorate here the past years and has accomplished a great deal for the up-building of the churches.

Klemme people are glad to have Rev. Gauger returned for another year.

SECOND FIRE WITHIN A WEEK

At about nine thirty o'clock last Friday night the fire alarm was again sounded when a blaze was discovered by George Lau as he was passing the old barn at the rear of the Schaefer building, and just south of the Farmers Lbr. Co. office.

The fire boys were on the job in a jiffy, but the fire was easily put out with a pail of water before they arrived.

As a precaution they turned on the water later and drenched the building to prevent an outbreak should the fire be smoldering.

Only two nights before the J. N. Day store was discovered to be on fire. No cause was seen for either fire unless carelessness of a smoker in throwing a cigar stub or match could have been the cause in either case.

The fire did little or no damage to the old barn.

Cigaret Tax Increases

DES MOINES, Oct. 8.—A total of $73,854.50 was collected by the state in cigaret tax sales during the month of September, Ray Johnson, state treasurer announced. This was a gain of $5,846.95 over September of last year, figures revealed.

Old King Corn Has Many Uses, Science Finds Them

MANY ARTICLES NOW MADE FROM THE IOWA CORN

One of the more than 200 products from corn the state department of agriculture has assembled some of the most important ones in an exhibit at the Iowa State fair:

These include the following: corn oil, corn syrup, corn molasses, sugar. vinegar, gluten feed, corn starch oil cake, corn dextrum, corn starch. Products made out of corn cobs on display were the following: glue, paste, incense, punk, tar, formix acfd, acetonee xyyose, wood alcohol, paper and furfural.

Furfural is the chemical used in making dyes. During the war when it was not possible to secure German dyes furfural made from corn cobs was in big demand but now other materials are used in its manufacture.

The immense sale of corn oil molasses and syrup in recent years has created a new market for corn. These products are now exported in large quantities. In America their use is most universal.

Samples of both the granulated and the brown sugar are in the display. The brown sugar from corn is entering more largely in the manufacture of candy and as a commercial sugar in other lines of manufacturing as the skill of the chemist in its extraction increases.

Manufacturers of food products are not only constantly on the lookout for some new article in their line to make up but are also seeking the most economical ingredients consistent with quality. Their zeal in fact has required the development of the vast system of food inspection, both federal and state which has grown in recent years. Unscupulous manufacturers who would substitute a poor ingredient in order to put out an article at a lower price have to be watched and the public protected.

Not a few of the products which can be made from corn are not commercially profitable, because similar products can be made more economically from other materials. Paper made from corn stalks is all right as to quality, but costs more than that made from wood pulp. Vinegar from corn is decidedly acid and does not have the flavor of the cider vinegar made from apple processes.

A bushel of corn will make from 35 to 40 pounds of sugar good for commercial purposes, but the public has not accepted it for table use, since it is not as sweet as cane or beet sugar.

BEEVES MAKE MONEY FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

DES MOINES, Oct. 8.—"The results of the baby beef club work, which has been conducted under the supervision of the Iowa Beef Producers Association, has been very encouraging," states M. G. Thornburg, Secretary of Agriculture.

"At the Iowa State Fair, the boys and girls sold 352 of the calves which they had developed and shown These calves brought $48,671.33. This is an average price of $138.26 per head and 14½ cents per pound."

Many of the other fairs have held local sales or shipped the calves to market with correspondingly good results. John A. Day, the Association representative in charge of the work, states that the outlook is good for an enlarged enrollment next year.

Pressure cookers save time for the busy housewife and they are guarantees against spoilage and botulinus poisoning.

GRAND JURY BROUGHT IN COUNTS LAST THURSDAY AFTERNOON

PUPILS OF SUNDAY SCHOOL AT CEDAR RAPIDS WILL COPY THE BIBLE

CEDAR RAPIDS, Oct. 8.—The 9,000 Sunday school students in this city who are old enough to write are going to copy the New Testament tomorrow. Blanks have been distributed in each of the Protestant Sunday schools and when classes convene in the morning the students will write their verses, sign their names and turn them in to the teachers. It is hoped that when all the duplicates are discarded there will still be left every verse contained in the Testament.

The verses will be bound in a book and exhibited here next week, after which the book will be sent to every religious conference in the United States, it was said. The object of the plan is to encourage study of the Bible.

The plan was announced early in the week and since then more persons than usual have studied the Bible daily, preachers say. Each verse copied must be committed to memory. This is said to be the first time since the middle ages when Holy Writ was copied with pen and ink.

PEANUT FARM IN CITY HOBBY OF COUNCIL BLUFFS MAN

Hasn't Had A Crop Failure In Last Twenty Years

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Oct. 8.—Mr. Frank Fauble of this city is a brick mason with a hobby. It is raising peanuts.

Mr. Fauble has been producing peanuts for twenty-five years and he never fails of a crop. Each year he harvests from fifteen to twenty-five bushels of the gubers. His peanut farm consists of two city lots adjoining his home.

Mr. Fauble says that he likes peanuts and that he gets a lot ofenjoyment out of their culture. But he eats them raw, that is after they have been baked in the sun. He says they are better, more digestible and more palatable when cured that way than when roasted.

Fauble says that it is a profitable crop. In addition to having enough peanuts for the use of himself and family each year he has about fifteen bushels for sale and they always bring a good price. The work, he says, in producing the peanuts, is light and not of long durations.

Because of the short season in this section his crop averages about 60 per cent of what is regarded as a normal crop in peanut growing sections. This year he says his crop is about 50 per cent of normal.

On the two city lots Fauble plants about one peck of seed. One seed. or peanut kernel will produce a plant that spreads over several feet of ground. The plants hug the ground, sending roots from the stems. At the end of each root there should be a peanut. The idea that peanuts have to be covered with earth is a mistake he says.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Chas. C. Davis, wf. to Chas. C. Davis, Trustee, et all. W. D. 7-1-25 all that part lying N. of M. & St. L. Ry. in NE¼ NE¼ 14-94-26 and also a strip along the south side of M. & St. L. Ry. in NE¼ NE¼ 14-94-26 898.7 feet by 48.47 feet, $1 etc

R. E. Hunsley to Henry Lolling, Q. C. D. date 10-3-25, NE¼ 22 96-26, $1.00

C. H. Morris wf. to E. P. Gallup, W. D. date 9-12-25, SE¼ blk. 4, Lattimores add Britt, $2550.00.

Floyd Chisel wf. to W. L. Waller, W. D. date 9-15-25, lot 3 blk. 30, Andersons 2nd add Britt, $1.00.

Chas. Steiner et al to B. R. Boldt, W. D. date 9-24-25, E½ lots 1-2 in blk. 10 Andersons add Britt, $3,000.00.

KLEMME BANKERS APPEARED BEFORE JUDGE KEPLER FRIDAY MORNING

Griesemer and Wenck Each Placed Under $40,000 Bonds

Things are happening fast in the famous Klemme State Savings Bank case. The facts are pretty well known to residents of Klemme and comunity and this article is published largely to the interest of readers of The Times located outside of he county and state who are eagerly watching levelopements of the case through the columns of this paper.

The Grand Jury has been in session for some time, up until Thursday afternoon of last week, one of the longest grand jury sessions in the history of Hancock County courts. Fifty indictments were returned against Paul Griesemer, president, and Frank J. Wenck, cashier of the State Savings Bank of Klemme last Thursday afternoon. Twenty of these counts were against Griesemer and thirty were against Wenck.

The indictment counts included charges of forgeries, embezzlements, the making of false entries and the making of false bank statements, according to County Attorney Verne Grau, and his two assistant lawyers, who had made preparations to arraign the two men before Judge M. H. Kepler last Friday morning.

Bonds Fixed At $40,000 Each

Bonds for P. M. Griesemer and F. J. Wenck were fixed at $40,000 each by District Judge M. H. Kepler when the two men were arraigned before him last Friday morning at ten o'clock. The bonds were arranged for by their Attorney, L. R. Boomhower of Mason City.

Monday at 10 o'clock was fixed as the time for the pleading. The attorneys for the state had that time in which to file exceptions or demurrers to the bonds. However, Judge Kepler was called away on another case and this was postponed until this Thursday morning.

As there has been such a long session of the grand jury which leaves no time before the opening of the district court, the Klemme bank case will not come up until the November term of court.

PIGS TO TELL STORY NOV. 20

Will Compare Profits From Pasture and Dry Lot Feeding

Some 400 pigs are "working" at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station, preparing some stories to tell Iowa hog feeders when they gather at Ames next Nov. 20 for the annual Swine Feeders' Whoo-o-o-ey! day.

One of the problems the station workers are trying to solve this year is whether it pays to feed pigs that are being fattened during the summer months in dry lots. Pigs fed in this manner will be compared with others which are fed grain and are running on rape pasture, and with still other pigs which are fed in dry lots, but have rape forage supplied to them twice daily.

Altho it is known that pigs will make good gains running on pasture with grain supplied them, it is not known whether the pasture saves enough of the grain and high priced protein supplements to make pasture feeding more profitable than dry lot feeding.

These questions and others will be at least partially answered by the results from the 400 pigs Whoo-o-o-ey! day.

The average American consumed seventeen and one-fourths pounds of creamery butter last year against 17 pounds in 1923.

PITTSBURGH PIRATES WIN CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE NATIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE FOR SEASON 1925

RODGERS DEFENDS NAVAL AVIATION

Trans-Pacific Failure and Shenandoah Wreck Not Due to Neglect.

Washington.—Commander John Rodgers, flight commander in the effort of the PN-9 No. 1 to reach Hawaii, took issue with Col. William Mitchell, army aviator and critic of administration of the air forces, on two main points in the army man's contentions.

Rodgers declared that he challenged "anyone to make a just criticism of the Hawaiian flight," and defended the navy against other charges of Mitchell in regard to the Shenandoah flight and other mishaps.

He declared in his opinion that it would be impossible for this nation to be attacked by airplanes of a foreign power capable of crossing the ocean with 2,000-pound bombs.

He supported critics of the air administration, however, in their contention that a reorganization of national defense is needed to give more latitude to airmen, and he argued for a department of national defense, under which the navy and all the departments of national defense might be better co-ordinated.

The need for a scientific reorganization of the national defense, Commander Rodgers told the board, was plainly apparent. Defending the navy from blame for recent disasters, he added that there was "something vitally wrong with the Navy department."

Two U. S. Deputies Ousted for Joyride With Druggan

Chicago.—Terry Druggan, supposed to be on his way to the De Kalb county jail, went on a seven-hour joyride and precipitated a new scandal—this time in the Federal building.

The two deputy United States marshals who were with him on the party were discharged by United States Marshal Palmer D. Anderson.

Discharge of the federal deputies, Walter Zippman and Anton L. Polak, makes a total of eleven federal and county officers who have lost their jobs through Druggan's efforts to soften jail life.

Druggan, Zippman and Polak set out from the Federal building for Sycamore at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and they did not reach Sycamore until 11 o'clock at night. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson had ordered Druggan held there until he makes his findings in the county jail contempt proceedings in two weeks.

Grace Lusk Gets Liberty; Was Married September 22

Madison, Wis.—Grace A. Lusk, Waukesha school teacher, who in 1917 shot and killed the wife of the man she loved, was given a commutation of her nineteen-year sentence at the state prison by Gov. John J. Blaine.

Miss Lusk was released from prison on a conditional pardon January 17, 1923, because of poor health, and in announcing the commutation of sentence, Governor Blaine said that Miss Lusk had married "a professional man of good standing" on September 22, 1925. The governor refused to say where Miss Lusk is living now or to whom she is married.

Failures for Week, Also for September, Show Decreases

New York.—A small reduction appears in the number of commercial failures in the United States the week ending October 3, a total of 351 being reported to R. G. Dun and company. This compares with 360 last week. For the fifth consecutive month the number of commercial failures shows a decrease, the September total being 1,465. Last month's liabilities of $30,687,319 are the smallest reported in two years.

Calles Proposes Bill to Fix Foreigners' Property Rights

Mexico City.—A bill to fix the land rights of foreigners under the first section of Article 27 of the Mexican constitution was introduced by President Calles in congress. It provides rules for holding both land and water rights. Under it foreigners who now own properties within the forbidden zone along the borders and the coasts must sell them within three years after the law takes effect or apply for Mexican citizenship.

Heiress Weds Fifth Time

New York.—The fifth marriage of Mrs. Aimee Crocker Gourand, heiress of the Crocker family of California, became known when she arrived on the Berengaria with her husband, Prince Mistislaw Galatzine, twenty-five, a Russian.

Votes to Join Los Angeles

Venice, Cal.—Los Angeles, the ever-expanding city, added 27,000 acres to its area and 25,000 people to its population when the citizens of this seaside city voted to annex it to the metropolis.

To Deport Alien Prisoners

Indianapolis.—Thirty or more unnaturalized prisoners in the Indiana reformatory at Pendleton will be deported, if plans of Governor Jackson are carried out.

DAWES PLAN HELPER

Jesse H. Riddle, chief of the section of statistics in the United States Treasury department, has been made special aid to S. Parker Gilbert, who is directing foreign reparations adjustments in Europe under the Dawes plan. Mr. Riddle first attracted attention as an instructor in economics at Dartmouth college, from where he went to the Federal Reserve bank in New York.

DIVERS FIND CREW OF SUBMARINE S-51 DEAD

Sailors Perished Soon After Craft Was Rammed.

New London, Conn.—The lives of the men who went down on the submarine S-51 were snuffed out almost immediately after she was rammed and sunk by the steamer City of Rome off Block Island a week ago. The death toll stands at 33.

This was established when divers found that the last two compartments in which it had been hoped there might have been air—the motor and torpedo rooms—were filled with water. None of the crew who went down had a chance for his life.

The submarine sank so quickly that they were unable to shut the watertight doors connecting the compartments and give themselves a fighting change of being brought to the surface with their ship.

Al that remains now for those who have tailed at the task of rescue is to recover and identify the bodies, after which the submarine will be turned over to wreckers for salvage.

Of the 36 men who were aboard the S-51 when she was rammed three were picked up alive and the bodies of four men have been taken from the wreck. Two of these were recovered Friday. They were those of Walter E. Lawton, electrician's mate, of New London, and Brady D. Lindsay, engineman, of Pensacola. Fla.

The divers who recovered the bodies came upon them as they were forcing their way through the engine room.

Sprague Must Pay Procter $62,697 in Campaign Suit

Chicago.—Col. A. A. Sprague was ordered to pay $62,697 to William Cooper Procter by a jury in Judge Thomas W. Slick's court after it had had this noted controversy over campaign funds under consideration for 22 hours.

This is the full amount for which Mr. Procter sued his old friend and co-worker in the campaign of Gen. Leonard Wood for President, a piece of political adventuring which Colonel Procter now admits was the "work of amateurs." In addition to paying half of the $100,000 note which Colonel Sprague signed in 1920, he must pay 5 per cent interest from the date of signature.

A motion for a new trial was entered immediately by Colonel Sprague's attorneys.

Bricklayers' and Plasterers' Unions Sign Peace Pact

Atlantic City, N. J.—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor announced that an agreement had been reached in the jurisdictional dispute between the bricklayers' and plasterers' unions, which has tied up $250,000,000 in construction throughout the country.

The agreement, which was signed by the officers of the unions and Mr. Green, provides that hostilities shall cease immediately and that all work shall be resumed at once.

Calls U. S. Crime Intolerable

St. Louis.—A. V. Lashley, director of the Missouri Association of Criminal Justice, said in an address before the Missouri Bar association that crime conditions had never been so intolerable in the United States.

McNamara Gets Prison Term

Indianapolis.—John J. McNamara, labor leader who served a prison term in California for the Los Angeles Times dynamiting, was sentenced to from one to five years on an extortion charge.

Promote good Health

Take care of your stomach. It is the best friend you have. HOSTETTERS Celebrated Stomach Bitters taken before meals—improves the appetite, aids digestion and imparts a feeling of robust health.

At All Druggists

The Hostetter Company Pittsburgh, Pa.

Sales Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc. New York

Bright Idea

"I'm going to the masquerade as a clown."

"How original."

Well-Merited Success

Honored politically and professionally, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears here, made a success few have equalled. His pure herb remedies which have stood the test for fifty years are still among the "best sellers." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and stomach alterative. It clears the skin, beautifies it, increases the blood supply and the circulation, and pimples and eruptions vanish quickly. The Discovery of Doctor Pierce's puts you in fine condition, with all the organs active. All dealers have it.

Send 10 cents for trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

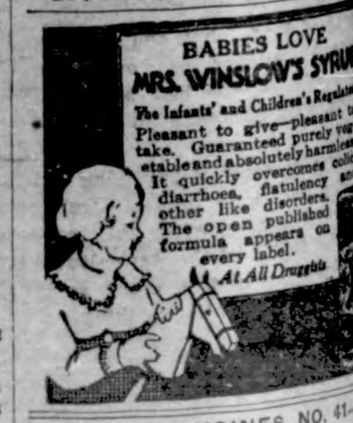
Some folks have very few faults done them. They won't permit it.

Light is the symbol of truth.—Lowell.

Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere



Community Building

Interest in Schools Highest Civic Virtue

It is estimated in the bureau of education, Department of the Interior, that there are approximately 12,000,000 children enrolled in the different types of rural schools in the United States. About nine million of these children come from farm homes. The others live chiefly in small villages, but are part of the farm population. To provide the best modern educational advantages for these children is a cause worthy of generous sacrifice if that sacrifice is necessary. The money that we pay in taxes for the education of our children is our very best investment, provided that we are wise enough to insure that it is well spent. How can we do this? Generally, so far as the ordinary farm citizen is concerned—the man in the road, to paraphrase a popular expression—by showing an intelligent interest in the school all the year round. Not spasmodically, but constantly. Is there a board member to be selected? Then go to the voting place and help select the best person for the job. Is a new schoolhouse, or are repairs for an old one needed? Then do your part to insure that the building is the best the community can afford. Is a teacher to be employed? Do all you can to see that the school board members are encouraged to get the best teacher available. Raise the salary if necessary, but do not be satisfied with a cheap teacher. The board will follow the sentiment of the community in regard to the qualifications and salary of the teacher.

Do your part in creating a community sentiment favorable to a good school. The citizens of the community are responsible for the quality of the farmers' school—not just the members of the school board.

New Jersey's Plan to Preserve Shade Trees

The New Jersey state highway commission, which is constructing and improving a vast network of roads all over that state, has just adopted a rule which is heartily to be commended for imitation by road builders everywhere. That is, that for every shade tree by the roadside which it is compelled to destroy, it will set out two new ones.

This will check a great evil, and effect considerable positive good. In the last few years thousands of fine shade trees have been destroyed along the roads of that state, some by the state and some by local authorities. Roads have been improved, so far as the pavement is concerned. But they have been damaged, so far as comfort and appearance are concerned, by being denuded of trees. In some cases this was inevitable, where it was necessary for safety or convenience to widen the roads, or to eliminate dangerous curves. In others, probably in half the cases, it was entirely needless and wanton.

Under the new rule it is obvious that greater care and discrimination will be exercised, so as to destroy no trees which can possibly be preserved. When any must be removed, they will be doubly replaced, so that roads will actually have more trees than before. —Exchange.

Have a Home

Many years ago, Abraham Cowley, in his poem, "The Wish," wrote:

. . . Ere I descend to the grave
May I a small house and a large garden have;
And a few friends, and many books, both true,
Both wise, and both delightful, too.

After all, the fundamental desires of men have changed very little since these lines were penned. Which one of us would not be happy today with a comfortable little house, filled with human and book friends that were true, wise, and delightful—and a garden, small enough not to have its care a burden, large enough to allow for winding walks which lead to shady nooks where one may experience a sense of remoteness from the city's bustling roar? We all want these things. How to achieve them is the question.

That is why the home-building activities of others are so interesting; in some of them we may find the answer to our problem.—Western Electric News.

Avoid Combustible Material

The food upon which the fire demon feeds is carelessness and combustible materials used in building. Carelessness cannot be entirely eliminated, but houses can be built fire-safe. The man who builds a fire-safe home is a good citizen. He is adding something permanent to the wealth of his community, and he has provided a fire barrier that in itself will tend to lessen serious conflagrations.

Guard Young Trees

In the care of one's yard caution should be taken against irregular growth of trees, and means adopted to rectify any fault in the tree's growth at the start. Many trees are inclined to lean in a certain direction through being forced into that position by prevailing winds from the opposite point, and unless braced while young it will be impossible for them to grow upright as they should. It is well that a sufficient space be spaded up around the tree.

MODES IN YOUTHFUL FROCKS; KNITTED COSTUME POPULAR

WHEN the feminine world grows restive in its search for something new to add zest to even the most satisfactory modes, stylists always recommend a journey into new fields and a decided change of scene. This fall they took womankind firmly by the hand and led her to the realm of fuller skirts, higher and more defined waistlines and greater elaboration. In frocks—this is all they can do. The question now occupying their minds is—"Will she or will she not take kindly to these innovations?"

The edict of fashion for fuller skirts has been generally accepted but in tailored and utility dresses this greater fullness is not allowed to interfere with straight, slim lines. Therefore it is introduced by means of plaits that lie flat and are pressed or stitched down. There is considerable enthusiasm for greater fullness in afternoon and particularly in evening dresses, where it is introduced in many ingenious and graceful ways. But the utility dress has not said good-by to the simple, straight line and has not been introduced as yet to the high waistline. As for elaboration, it has developed an acquaintance with varied new neck treatments, but remains loyal to extreme simplicity in other details. A very good example of the youthful, everyday dress, such as the college or business girl will rejoice in, is shown here. It is developed in navy blue twill or rep, or in plain flannel or other dependable wool cloths, with vestee and collar of ecru crepe de chine. A bit of filet lace on the sleeves and belt, and a tie of velvet ribbon, in a bright color, complete its engaging but simple story. It has little points of difference in its construction from the frocks of yesterday. Greater fullness is introduced in the front of the bodice, giving the skirt portion a little extra width, the sleeves are long and the skirt is lengthened by several inches.

Youthful, Everyday Dress.

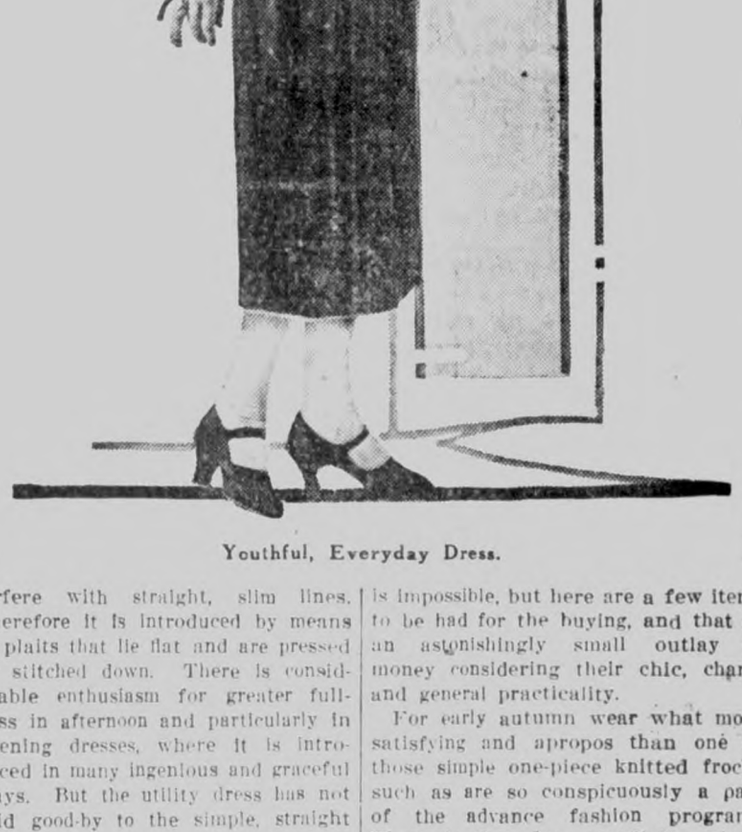
Is there a hint of frost in the air? A prophecy of winter in the cool autumn breeze? Summer frocks and furbelows but a memory? Too early for winter-weight cloth and fur? Why be cast down with "betwixt and between" season perplexities, since nowadays knitted costume so handsomely answers the question "what to wear?"

It is a fact when it comes to the problem of suitable attire, the knitted arts are proving equal to every demand of time, occasion and the elements. Just now interest is divided between elegant knitted ensemble costumes, two-piece suits, two-piece jumper frocks, one-piece dresses and crowning glory of all, wondrous full-length coats than which nothing more attractive in the way of wraps has ever been devised.

To enumerate all the lovely garments created by knitted stylists for the present and coming season's wear, is impossible, but here are a few items to be had for the buying, and that at an astonishingly small outlay of money considering their chic, charm and general practicality.

For early autumn wear what more satisfying and apropos than one of those simple one-piece knitted frocks such as are so conspicuously a part of the advance fashion program? There is that fine simplicity about these correctly styled dresses which bespeaks refinement and gentility. They come in such interesting colors, too, such as pencil blue, navy, mellow greens, and the new wine, fuchsia and red shades.

Colorfulness coupled with novelty patterning characterize both suits and coats. There is a trend toward gay futurist designs such as the knitted suit in the picture stresses. Another note of luxury is expressed in lavish fur trims, wool fur being one of the most interesting decorative features. Just now, in knitted coats there is a movement toward Indian blanket designs with novelty fur, either of sheared wool, or animal pelt, this blended to the grays, browns or tans predominating in the color scheme of the garment. When it comes to knitted ensemble suits, they serve not only when the thermometer registers low, but with coat removed, the one-piece or two-piece frock to match is just the thing to wear on glowing autumn days.



For Early Autumn Wear.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

NEEDED IDENTIFYING

They sat at table, he and she, and gazed into each other's eyes, what time he mechanically consumed the food which was set before him.

"Aa," she said, "I am glad you like it. Mother says that there are only two things I can make properly—potato salad and marmalade tart."

"Indeed," said he, "and which is this?"—Lustige Blaetter, Berlin.

Positive Proof

"The missus wasn't feeling very well this morning," remarked the bookkeeper to the cashier in the office downtown. "Guess I'll call her up after a while."

"How's the wife?" asked the cashier later.

"Oh, she's all right now. I called up and the line was busy."

A Bit of Talk

The partners, Hirsch and Reiss, went to the office one morning and found that burglars had attacked the safe without being able to open it.

"What a disappointment they must have had," said Hirsch.

"Yes, but not so bad as it would have been if they had opened it," replied Reiss.

NEEDED BADLY

Traveler—Do the natives of that island need a missionary?

Captain—Yes, their crops were a failure, and they're starving.

Make Us Sore

Riches are things
That we adore.
Riches take wings
And make us sore.

Forgot Something

"Who is that young woman over there in the sensationally scanty costume?"

"That is Professor Blank's daughter—you know, that very absent-minded professor."

"Hm! I should judge that she inherited her father's absent-mindedness."

Within Fashion

Mother (at a fashionable resort)—Elsie, look at your dress, it's a sight! And that's the third dress I've put on you today.

Elsie—That's nothing, mother. Look at Mrs. De Styles over there, she's had on four.

Not Interested

"You had better not come in; you know father has forbidden you the house."

"That's all right—I don't want it!"

UNCERTAIN

"Mother, George paints a wonderful future for us."

"Yes, but somehow I can't understand those futuristic paintings."

The Almighty Chef

There never was a man so great
In matters of finance or state
But that, in spite of every care,
His chef might drive him to despair.

Convinced

"Are you getting anything out of that course in salesmanship?"

"Not much. I'm afraid I'll never be one-tenth as good a salesman as the man who sold me the course."—American Legion Weekly.

No Let-Up

Mrs. Fozzleton—Woman's work is never done.

Mr. Fozzleton—That's right! It's just one make-up after another, isn't it, my dear?

"DIAMOND DYE" ANY GARMENT, DRAPERY

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings—everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

First Time Teller

The first dated scientific instrument known is a Persian portable astrolabe used by travelers to calculate time in the year 984.—Science Service.

GAINED 17 NEEDED POUNDS

Adding her voice to the thousands who are praising Tanlac for the return of health and strength, Mrs. George Hernigle, relates her remarkable experience with the medicine.

"To me Tanlac is the grandest medicine in the world. It has not only increased my weight 17 lbs., but it has also brought me the best of health. I had suffered from nervous indigestion for five or six years and had reached the point where it was either get relief or break completely down.

"When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 99 lbs., I couldn't sleep, felt tired all the time, and was often unable to do my housework. Since taking Tanlac I weigh 116 lbs. and am a new person. Tanlac is also helping my little eight year old girl. It makes her eat more and sleep better, and I consider it deserving of only the highest praise."

What Tanlac has done for others it can also do for you. For sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation, made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

We are all of us more or less the slaves of opinion.

Cuticura Comforts Baby's Skin

When red, rough and itching, by hot baths of Cuticura Soap and touches of Cuticura Ointment. Also make use now and then of that exquisitely scented dusting powder, Cuticura Talcum, one of the indispensable Cuticura Toilet Trio.—Advertisement.

How quickly vacation ends.

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Aspirin Marked With "Bayer Cross" Has Been Proved Safe by Millions.

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Romance was not built in a day.

Over 2,400 Miles on One Pair Soles

H. H. Roehrig, a postman of Richmond Hill, N. Y., wore a pair of USKIDE Soles for over 7 months, averaging 12 miles a day in all kinds of weather on hard, rasping pavements—and the soles are still good for more wear! That is USKIDE every time. USKIDE—the Wonder Sole for Wear. It is made by the United States Rubber Company, the world's largest manufacturer of rubber products. Wears twice as long as best leather. Tell your shoe repairman to re-sole your shoes with USKIDE. Ask your shoe dealer for new shoes with USKIDE Soles.—Adv.

Flat feet never won fair dancer.

The House behind the goods

Our 35 years of improvement and perfection of oil and grease have made MonaMotor the pass word of proper lubrication. Say MonaMotor.

Every quart of MonaMotor Oil, each can of MonaMotor Grease is backed unconditionally by Monarch Manufacturing Co.

Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor
Oils & Greases

WHY SHOULD ANYONE SUFFER WITH INDIGESTION OR ANY STOMACH MISERY?

If you want to fix up your dyspeptic, out of order stomach so that you can relish what you eat with not the least bit of after distress, do what tens of thousands of people have already done.

Getting rid of gas, bloating, belching, heaviness and that feeling of near suffocation isn't such a hard matter as you may think—You've been getting hold of the wrong medicine—that's all.

But better late than never—ask your druggist for a bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin—a real stomach medicine and a very pleasant one. For acute indigestion one or two doses is enough, but when the trouble is chronic, two or three bottles may be needed to put your disordered stomach in good healthy condition and make life worth living.

Making a start is the main thing, so why not get one bottle today with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't help you the purchase price will be returned.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE
FOR NERVOUS AILMENTS

PRICE $1.50
Write for FREE BOOKLET
If your druggist cannot supply you, order forwarding charges prepaid, from
KOENIG MEDICINE CO.
1045 N. WELLS ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83

"In children's ills, a harsh, sickening 'physic' often makes matters worse by lowering the child's resistance."
—DR. CALDWELL

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every day or two was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

NO SOFT CORN PROBLEM THIS YEAR

DES MOINES, Oct. 8.—"More than 90 per cent of the Iowa corn crop is now safe from frost, as compared with a ten year average of 76 per cent. Though the drouth and excessive heat shortened the yield, it practically eliminated the soft corn problem," states the Weather and Crop Division of the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

This calls to mind the guesses of certain unofficial weather forecasters last fall, that 1925 would not have much of a summer, that corn would not mature, and frost would come abnormally early. At the end of June, the Iowa Weather and Crop Bureau of the State Department of Agriculture, pointed out that the chances were about 8 out of 10 that the average temperature of the next three months, July, August, and September, would be above normal.

More than the usual amount of corn has been cut for fodder, and put in silos, particularly in the north west counties, to make up the hay shortage. In many localities, this work is completed or nearing completion.

After all the ups and downs, including the driest spring in 37 years and some broken heat records, Iowa will have a corn crop fully up to the 10-year average of 38.4 bushels per acre, and maybe slightly above that figure, depending upon the amount of damage done by the abnormal heat of early September. The corn failure in the northwest counties is offset by a bumper crop in the eastern counties.

The BULL'S EYE

Editor and General Manager
WILL ROGERS

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

Improving on History

I just finished hearing a Politician, one of the Washington Boys, talk on Abraham Lincoln. The only thing I could picture in common between him and Lincoln was that they had both been in Washington. When a Politician aint talking about himself he is talking about Lincoln. Lincoln has had more Public men speak of his good qualities, and fewer copy any of them, than any man America ever produced. His famous address was only about two hundred words long. No Politician has ever been able to even copy his briefness. In fact that is the last one of his qualities that they would try to copy. Lincoln said more in those 200 words than has been said in the entire City of Washington in the last 10 years, and here is a quality that no historian or speaker has ever brought out before. At the completion of the Gettysburg speech, he wisely refused one of Grant's Cigars, and borrowed a sack of "Bull" Durham from an Ex Southern private, rolled his own, got on his Mule and went back to Washington.

Will Rogers

P. S. There will be another piece here two weeks from now. Look for it.

"BULL" DURHAM
Guaranteed by
The American Tobacco Co.
INCORPORATED
111 Fifth Avenue, New York City

HANDLE APPLES CAREFULLY

It Will Prolong Keeping Period Of Stored Fruit

Careful harvesting, with special attention to keeping apples free from bruises, will result in a much longer keeping period for the stored apple crop, says H. E. Nichols, fruit specialist with the extension service of Iowa State College.

Instead of picking the fruit in sacks, as is often done. it should be harvested in barrels, boxes, or crates to avoid so much bruising. Soon after picking, the fruit should be sorted over to separate the bruised and diseased apples from the sound ones. Those which are unsound should be used as soon as possible.

To get the best results in keeping apples, the storage room should be kept at a temperature of about 32 degrees. The storehouse should have a humidity of around 70 per cent. Apple scald which often affects the Grimes Golden, Black Twig and the Winesap varieties, can be controlled by wrapping the apples in paper containing 20 per cent of animal oil.

HOG CHOLERA IS ON INCREASE

Failure to Vaccinate, Dr. Stouder Says, Is Main Reason for Spread of Epidemic

Slightly more hog cholera is to be found in Iowa as a whole this year than a year ago, is the belief of Dr. K. W. Stouder, extension veterinarian of the Iowa State College. Dr. Stouder believes that in some communities the increase is due to neglect to immunize the hogs by vaccination because the disease may not have appeared there for some time.

It pays to vaccinate and immunize the pig crop, Dr. Stouder maintains. He says that it costs less than formerly because serum is being produced at lower costs. A double treatment, immunizing shotes against cholera permanently, will not cost to exceed one cent per pound of pork. This figure includes veterinary fee in addition to paying for the materials.

"It should be remembered that vaccination is not a cure for hog cholera," Dr. Stouder says, "but it is the only known preventative measure known. Hog cholera is a contagious disease and the feeding of green corn or other feed has nothing to to with the disease so far as known. despite the fact that some folks believe certain feeds may induce cholera."

GAS SUBSTITUTES COMING

500 Per Cent Increase In Gasoline Used

Washington, D. C., October 8.—During the last ten years the production of gasoline in the United States increased 500 per cent.

This huge increase in the use of our natural resources has failed to alarm oil authorities.

The Society of Automotive Engineers reports, "A sufficient supply of motor fuel and lubricants is assured for the national defense and for essential uses beyond the time when science will limit the demand by developing more efficient use of or substitutes for oil or will displace its use as a source of power by harnessing a natural energy."

Although 1,500,000,000 gallons of gasoline were used in the United States in 1914 and 9,000,000,000 gallons were consumed in 1924, automotive authorities believe that the future will bring a reduction in the consumption of gasoline by measure of new scientific inventions.

Returns From Germany Visit

Mr. U. G. Smid returned Saturday morning from a four month's trip to Germany where he visited relatives and old friends. He reports having had a fine trip. Conditions in Germany are not the best he says. Money is scarce and interest rates are very high. He saw a great many former friends while in Europe.

Suggest Programs for Rural Meetings

The material available and suggestions for programs in rural township or community meetings is listed in a new circular just issued by the Extension Service of Iowa State College.

The college sends suggestions for meetings each month to a certain list in Iowa. The new circular, "Program Service for Meetings," can be obtained free by asking for Rural Organization Circular 13.

GOODELL AND VICINITY

Mr. and Mrs.rles Cha Chelsvig mourn the loss of their infant babe who passed away Saturday afternoon after a short illness. They have the sympathy of the entire community.

Mr. Rierson is in the hospital suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Kenseth came up to get her little son who had been staying with his grandparents (Avery) for the past week.

Daphney Houghton attended a telephone operators convention in Garner.

Miss Schneider of Garner was entertained at the Houghton home.

Goodell and Meservey high school teams crossed bats Friday afternoon. Meservey won the victory.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Griggs and daughter, Mae, were Clear Lake visitors Saturday.

A farewell party was given in the church parlor for Mr. and Mrs. Thompson who left Saturday for their new charge in Marshalltown.

A reception was held for the school faculty in the church parlor. A large crowd was present and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Light refreshments were served.

Miss Thada has been ill and Vida Conlan has been substituting for her in the Thada store.

Promotion Day in Sunday school has been postponed on account of the rainy weather, until next Sunday.

Mrs. Savogue spent Friday at the Hampton hospital with her husband who is recovering from a serious operation, which his many friends are glad to hear.

J. J. Cook and brother, Virgil, attended the funeral of their aunt in Clear Lake Saturday.

The Avery Township Farm Bureau held a successful meeting in the Center School house Monday night. New officers were elected. Motion pictures were shown and refreshments were served.

Verner Hamilton is the new clerk in Thada's store.

Rev. Scott, the new minister f the U. B. Church, arrived Saturday.

Obituary

Charles Chelsvig, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chelsvig, of Goodell, died Saturday afternoon, October 3, 1925, death being caused by cholerea infantum. He was born June 11, 1925 and was 3 months and 24 days old. Funeral services were held at Goodell Monday with Rev. Scott officiating. Burial was made in the Godell Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Chelsvig have the sympathy of the entire community in their sorrow.

Birthday Party

Marian Stille was five years old Monday and to make the event a successful one she invited a number of her little friends to spend part of the afternoon with her, from 3:00 until 5:00 o'clock. Many were the fine gifts she received from her little friends. The afternoon was spent in playing various games until the appointed time when her mother served a delightful lunch. All report they had a fine time.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to the Firemen and all those who assisted in extinguishing the fire and saving our goods during the recent fire at the store. Also extend our appreciation to A. Wellemeyer for storing our goods. Again we thank one and all for their kindness.

JOHN N. DAY. 1tc

THREE DAY OPEN SEASON ON MALE PHEASANTS OCT. 20 IN HANCOCK COUNTY

Male Pheasants may be shot in Hancock county for three days, beginning October 20th. About 11 or 12 other counties in this part of the state will also be included in the open area, according to an announcement issued by W. E. Albert, state fish and game warden. The limit will be three male birds a day.

Mrs. Maggie Smith and daughter, Mrs. Stone and her son, of Evanston, Illionois were visiting at the John Day home Friday afternoon. Mrs. Smith is an aunt of Mr. Day and she brought with her a rare treasure which she presented to Mr. Day, it being a letter that she had received from John's mother forty-three years ago. She also gave John a jack-knife that had been in the family for a long number of years.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP

ARE YOU GIVING YOUR BOY EVERY ADVANTAGE?

How about the future of your little man? Are you making provisions to give him an education—an opportunity to develope hs talents?

Every boy dreams of doing big things when he grows up. While his special trainng should be along the line in which his ambition lies, no matter what his vocation may be, business trainng s very essential.

You can start that training now by opening a savings account for his education, allowing him to make the deposits himself.

First National Bank.
KLEMME, IOWA.

The Worth Of Your Money

Issued Fully Paid and Non-Assessable

Is Seven Per Cent

Central States Electric Co.

(Dows, Smith, Reed Organization)

7 Per Cent Cumulative Preferred Stock

DIVIDENDS PAID QUARTERLY

PAR VALUE $100 PER SHARE

Tax Exempt in Iowa and Free of Normal Federal Income Tax

This is an Iowa Company under the jurisdiction of the Public Utility Laws of the State.

Organized ten years ago, the Company's Earnings in 1924 were over FIVE TIMES the Earnings in 1916.

The 7 per cent Preferred Stock is backed by property conservatively valued at over FIFTEEN TIMES the outstanding Preferred Stock, and by applicable earnings of more than Ten Times the requirements of the outstanding Preferred Stock.

The 7 per cent Preferred Stock has preferences over the Common Stock to the full amount of $100 per share, and Dividends of 7 per cent. ....

This Common Stock is outstanding at present at the rate of 7 to 1 of Preferred, and was sold by the Company for cash at par and is now bid for in the market at $105 per share.

The Seven Per Cent Preferred Stock IS SAFE

PAYS EVERY THREE MONTHS

FREE OF TAX

Can be promptly sold if desired.

Is a Bargain at the present price of $100 Per Share.

Special

On orders received before October 15, 1925, the Certificates will be dated October 1st, and will carry the full Dividend from October 1st, payable on JANUARY FIRST.

SEND YOUR ORDER NOW

to

SECURITIES DEPARTMENT

This Company serves more than 11,000 Customers living in more than 60 communities.

It owns 6 Electric Power Plants, 2 Gas Plants, and 1 Water Plant, and hundreds of miles of transmission and distributing lines.

This property s worth Millions of Dollars and has been built to meet the ever increasing need for Electric Service.

This property is maintained in first class conditon and is protected against loss by ample insurance.

This Company is closely associated with three other large Public Utility Companies constituting the largest Public Service System in IOWA.

The Management has been successful in the Electric Light and Power Business for over 40 years.

Central States Electric Co.

215 S. 2nd ST., CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA

Wm. Schlawin and County Agent T. Nutty drove to Ames yesterday attend a Farm Bureau meeting. Schlawin was a delegate from county.

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!

Pavey's

STORMIZING SHOP

Conrad Quandt was at Garner n business Monday morning.

DR. R. E. PORTER
CHIROPRACTOR

..Every Day — Open Evenings..
Office at John Lieuwen Residence
Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

News of Klemme and Vicinity

FOR SALE—20 head of feeding cattle. Geo. Buseman. 2wc

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sampson returned Sunday evening from their Illinois trip.

R. A. Jorgenson and family were visiting at the Lyle Liebendorfer home at Mason City Sunday.

Wm. Bachman is the owner of a new Ajax Sedan which he bought a little over a week ago.

Mrs. W. F. Pavey returned from the Mercy Hospital at Mason City Monday morning.

A. D. Gimer and family enjoyed company from South Dakota last Thursday evening.

Miss Neota Ridder returned from her visit at Watertown, South, Dak., last Thursday evening.

Mrs. C. A. Arnold and Miss Minnie Lenz visited with friends at Charles City Sunday.

Miss Esther Jante was an over Sunday visitor at her home at Garner.

Miss Luella Fiero was at Des Moines Sunday and Monday visiting with her sister, Mrs. Leo Brennan.

Harry Gibbs and family drove to Rockford, Sunday, for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. John Josten left Tuesday for Monona, Iowa, for a visit with her sister.

FOR SALE or TRADE—Residence property in Klemme, modern house and 3½ lots. Inquire at Times. 3p

Either printed or engraved Xmas Greeting Cards can be had at The Times Print Shop. Order early!

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day drove to Mason City Tuesday to visit Mrs. John Baumgartner at the hospital.

Grandma Fuller visited with Mrs. Elmer Fuller and daughter, Mavis, at Clear Lake last Friday afternoon.

Mrs. P. M. Wilson returned last Friday from Vinton where she visited with friends for several days.

Mrs. Benn Coobs and son, Milvern, left last Friday for Indiana for a visit with her folks.

Quite a number of Klemme folks attended court at Garner last Friday morning to hear the Griesemer and Wenck case.

Klemme baseball fans are having a real treat these days getting results of the world series over the radio.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Elder, and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and son, Buster, were visiting friends at Mason City last Friday afternoon.

Ben Swalve and daughter, Mrs. Ing. Lauritsen, returned from their South Dakota trip Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Harrison Taylor and Mr. G. Schultz, both of Hayfield, were in Klemme Saturday. They came to attend Ralph Ludeke's hog sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Trumbell and Florence, of Mason City, visited the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell here.

G. W. Kluckhohn has been "courting" the past week. By that we mean he has been sitting on the grand jury.

Mr. Baumgartner, who is working in Bachman's barber shop, has moved into the house vacated by the A. J. Kudje family.

FOR SALE—8 good milk cows, one fresh soon; also some fine Poland China Boars for sale. Emil J. Kraus. 2wp

Mrs. LuVerne Smith of Belmond, was a Klemme visitor last week Thursday. Mr. Smith is running a filling station at Belmond now.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brouwer Monday morning. All right Art, let's have the cigars!

Mrs. Ed. G. Ell underwent an operation at a Mankato, Minn., hospital over a week ago and reports are that she is recovering nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spitler were here from Belmond Tuesday to look after some work on their house where the W. C. Keraus family live.

Miss Abel went to Des Moines Friday for an over Sunday visit with her folks. She returned to Klemme Monday morning.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chelsvig died Saturday at their home at Goodell. Mr. and Mrs. Chelsvig have the sympathy of their many Klemme friends.

Clarence Elder came home from Ames Saturday afternoon for an over Sunday visit with home folks. He says he likes his work at Ames real well.

Order your Xmas cards early. We have our line of samples ready for your inspection. Remember we were unable to fill late orders last year. Call at the Times Print Shop. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus returned home Monday from their visit at Swea City with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mitchell. They also spent sometime in Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary and daughter drove to Rutland, Iowa, Friday afternoon and remained there until Sunday evening visiting with Mrs. Gary's parents.

Little Max Barz has been enjoying life in the country for several days at the Albert Barz home, while his aunt, Lena Schroeder has been away on a visit. Mrs. Schroeder returned home Monday.

FOR SALE, Big type Poland China Boars, March farrowing, weigh over 200 lbs. sired by the sire of The Progresive. Cholera immune. Farm 4 miles north of Meservey. Gottlieb Lauster, Thornton, Iowa. 4tp

Mrs. Robert Espe, of Des Moines, came Friday evening for a visit of a day or two at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gruetzmacher. She was formerly Glenna Gruetzmacher, before her marriage.

Miss Edna Scharlach, a former Klemme teacher, who teaches near Estherville this year, came Saturday for a visit over Sunday with Miss Buchanan and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

No church bells rang in Klemme Sunday, perhaps the first time in the history of the town. Rev. A. W. Gauger, pastor of the Methodist church was away at conference, and the Reformed church is without a minister as Rev. Depping has resigned.

Mrs. Lloyd Carpenter was taken to the hospital at Cherokee Saturday for treatment. Mr. Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carpenter accompanied her. Her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

Dr. D. P. Anderson and Miss Genieve Schuldt left last Friday morning for Kansas City, for a visit with relatives and friends, returning to Klemme yesterday. Dr. Anderson's nephew returned with him for a visit here.

Mrs. Valentine Josten was taken to the Mercy Hospital at Mason City last Friday and underwent an operation for gall stones. Her condition was very serious and she was too weak to withstand the operation and passed away Sunday morning.

This vicinity had a light snow on Wednesday morning. Just enough to make it look like winter is coming. The cold snap made a rush f business all over town. Coal dealers were especially busy the first of the week.

In the electrical storm Tuesday night the school house No. 8 in Twin Lake township was struck by lightning, damaging it so that school couldn't be held for a few days. It also struck Pat Fuller's barn, near Godell, the same night, damaging one end of the barn badly.

Mrs. C. M. Bredbenner and Mrs. A. G. Koerner were at Mason City last Friday for a visit with Mr. Bredbenner who was at the Mercy Hospital. He has been removed to the Iowa City hospital where he is now receiving care. Mrs. Bredbenner is there with him.

George Lau, Jeff Bell and Verner Lewis left Sunday for Omaha to be there for the opening of the big national Legion Convention. Tuesday about everybody who owned a radio or who could get to their next door neighbor listened in on President Colidge's address and later the big Legin parade broadcast from WOAW, Omaha.

HAMPTON FACTORY PACKS 4,5000,000 CANS OF CORN

The canning factory at Hampton completed their 925 season last week with a total pack of around four and one-half million cans of sweet corn. It was the largest ever made by the factory. Quality of corn this year is said to have been the best ever received.

THE easily driven "RED TOP" steel drive post has made fence building possible at this season. With this post there are no post holes to dig, so it doesn't matter how hard or dry the ground may be. With the "RED TOP" One Man Driver you can drive 200 to 300 of these superior steel posts a day.

At the low prices we are quoting on "RED TOPS" and fence there's a double advantage in building new fences and repairing old ones now.

A good many farmers around here are doing the bulk of their fencing during the fall season—right now. When the spring rush of work comes on they will have that much less to do.

"RED TOPS" for Low Cost Temporary Fences

We've been selling lots of "RED TOPS" for temporary fences this season. They are easily driven and the wire quickly attached. They can be pulled and the fence moved with so little labor and in such a short time.

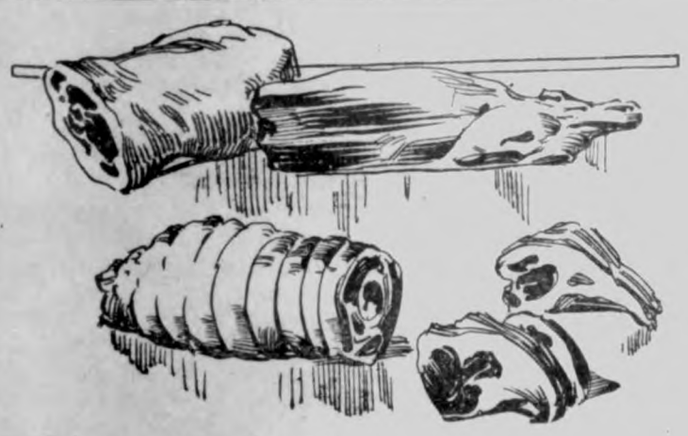
It is a pleasure for us to sell you "RED TOP" Posts. We know they will give you lasting satisfaction. They have been doing it in this community for years.

Come in right away and arrange for the posts and fence you will need to put your fence lines in tiptop shape this fall. We are always glad to help you get the biggest value going for every dollar you spend with us. "RED TOPS" are one of our best offers today.

Red Top
GUARANTEED
Steel Fence Posts

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"



Your Daily Meat--

Roasts--Pork or Beef
Juicy Steaks, all kinds
Home-made Sausages
Home-made Bologna
Star Brand Hams
Finest Breakfast Bacon
Full line of Heinz "57"
Cheese, Etc.

We are always glad to serve you.

Klemme Meat Market

At Your Service

Super-Zenith Radios

TUNE THROUGH EVERYTHING

The new Super-Zenith is NOT regenerative. It is a six-tube set with a new unique and really different patented circuit controlled exclusively by the Zenith Radio Corporation. For the first time, you can have a set that—

1.—Tunes through everything and selects the station you really want.
2.—Requires only two hands—not three—to operate.
3.—Brings in each station at only one point on the dial.
4.—Affords such mathematical precision and simplicity that you can run over the entire dial in 1½ minutes and pick up more stations with greater clarity and volume than any other set on the market. Direct comparisons invited.

WE EXCLUSIVE DEALER FOR ZENITH RADIOS IN THIS TERRITORY

Greimann Motor Co.

For pen or typewriter
HAMMERMILL
BOND
Stationery is Equally Satisfactory
We have a complete line of samples

Job Printing

We are equipped to handle any size job neatly and quickly

We can give you valuable help on planning Public Sales

Business Stationery
Personl Stationery
Society Forms
Cards, Etc.

Times Print Shop

Nameless River

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company
WNU Service.

CHAPTER XX—Continued

—18—

Brand Fair heard it in the strange dark passage far down in the heart of Mystery ridge. Rod Stone, climbing the stiff slopes, heard it, and so did the boy on the staggering horse a little farther over toward Sky Line. He altered his course a bit toward the west.

"What do you mean?" said Arnold sharply, "would you kill her before she signs the paper? Or after—and have the finger of the law point at the new owner of the flats? Use your wits."

"Kill her—and the old woman will take the boy and go," said Kate, "she's the stubborn element. I warn you now—she must never go out of this place alive. She knows us now."

"Unless she goes down the Pipe with this morning's drive—the boys should soon be here to start."

"She will come back."

"Not if I send Basford to take her over the Line."

"Enough!" said Kate, "I'm uneasy about the whole thing—the brushed-out tracks at the mouth of the Pipe—"

"A trifle. And the boys will soon be here. Hark—they're coming now."

There was a sound in the rock face, a shout and a rumble of horses' feet hurrying.

The man and the woman looked that way—to behold Big Basford come boiling from the narrow opening with a string of men behind him.

"H—l's fire!" whispered Cattle Kate Cathrew.

Like a Nemesis, Bossick and the ranchers behind him pushed Big Basford down the sloping floor of Rainbow's pot.

"A plant!" screamed the latter, "we're caught!! We're caught!"

A hundred feet away Bossick stopped.

His angry eyes flashed over Arnold and the woman beside him, then scanned the green basin where the peaceful cattle lay.

Bossick threw back his coat. A star shone faintly in the light.

"You can thank Sheriff Selwood's tireless work for this," he said, "and so can we. The whole country's deputized. Your work is known. You may as well give up without a fuss for we—"

He stopped, for an odd sound had become apparent—a deep, echoing sound, as of many waters beating on a hollow shore.

The roar of waters became the rumble of hoofs and up from the bowels of the earth came Brand Fair and his men.

"Good morning, Katherine Fair," he said.

"You!" screamed Cattle Kate, "You! You! It was you who did the trick—not that fool Selwood! I might have guessed!"

"Sure you might have guessed," he said. "When you and your paramour there robbed the Consolidated and wound the coils of guilt around Jack Fair—you might have guessed that his brother would follow you to the ends of the earth to get you. And he's got you—got you dead to rights."

He, too, showed a deputy's star.

"Jack Fair died in prison—of shame and of a broken heart. For three years I worked in New York to get the goods on you, Arnold, and never could—definitely. Then I hired a better man who could—and did. I have a precious package in a safe place with enough proof in it to have sent you over long ago—but I wanted you both—together—a grand finale. It has been a long trail—long—for me—and for Sonny, the child whom you abandoned, Kate, five years ago.

"I've lived for months in Blue Stone canyon. It was I who found where the willows blow out from the wall. It was Sheriff Selwood who took his life in his hand to help your men drive Bossick's steers into Rainbow cliff. It was all of us together, as you see us here, who put two and two together and determined to get you—and to get you good—you and all your outfit of rustlers—all of whom owe something to Lawrence Arnold yonder. We've picketed the mouth of your passage into Blue Stone and would have caught you there—or rather at Marston, where I have had arrangements made for some time. We've been holding off for Selwood's word—he's worked too faithfully all these years to lose the credit now."

Not once had Fair taken his eyes from Kate Cathrew's face, else he might have seen the tragic figure by the wall at the right, the grotesque woman whose blood-stained features worked with hysterical laughter.

"Brother!" whispered Nance Allison to herself, "it was his brother—not—not—himself! Oh, Lord, I—thank Thee!"

Neither did he see the newcomers streaming through the cut into the basin—the men from Cordova under Rod Stone.

There was one other actor in the small drama whom no one noticed—Bud Allison, on foot now, since Big Dan stood at the base of the last rise, completely done—Bud Allison dragging his lame foot wearily, his pappy's old gun on his shoulder.

The boy stood between the last riders and the wall, looking at them all with puzzled eyes. Brand Fair continued:

"While we are about this we'll finish it completely. I want the men of Nameless and the Upper Country to know just what sort of criminals they have been dealing with—to know that Lawrence Arnold there is a clever New York lawyer who defends guilty men and frees them—by buying juries. That he is getting rich by selling through agents and aids the cattle which you, Kate, steal here, drive into the river, up to the cliff, down this wonderful underground passage into Blue Stone canyon and out across the desert to Marston for the shipping. It has been an amazing system in a more amazing setting. The mystery of the steers that left no tracks is solved by the fact that every time you stole a big herd you drove them up the night before you drove your own brand down—therefore, they left no trace. Also, I want to say here and now before these witnesses, that all the money you brought with you into the Deep Heart hills belonged to poor Jack Fair, the father of your child—the man you betrayed into prison through the devilish legal trap laid by Lawrence Arnold—and that is why I've followed you. Sonny Fair has a right to his father's property—and I intend to see that he gets it. Have you anything to say?"

Lawrence Arnold, trapped and conscious of the fact, wet his thin lips and glanced desperately around. He saw only stern faces, cold and angry eyes.

But Cattle Kate Cathrew was made of different stuff. She flung up her clenched fists and shook them at the clear skies where the rose of dawn was spreading.

"You—!" she swore, "I always hated your narrow eyes and that mouth of yours! So you are the prospector, Smith, who has been so inquisitive at Cordova!

"And it is you who've done all this! Oh, d—n your soul to h—l!"

She dropped her hands, caught the rein hanging on Bluefire's neck, struck her heels to his flanks and quick as thought whirled him away toward the cut. The group between her and the entrance fell floundering apart before the stallion's charge.

With a dozen leaps she almost reached the wall.

"You can't get away with this, Brand Fair!" she screamed, "I'm a match for you!" and jerked at her rifle in its loops.

In her rage she was inept, so that the weapon caught, hindering her purpose for a moment.

Nance Allison, standing in her trampled spot, knew that the moment she had dreaded for so long was come. Knew that danger threatened at last some one whom she loved—the stark danger of death—and as if something broke within her, the "stirrings" crystallized. Without taking her eyes from the frantic woman on the big blue horse, she began to feel with her foot for something in the grass—something long and dark and cold, but which seemed to her now more precious and to be desired than anything upon the earth—namely, Sud Provine's rifle.

Gone was all the stern restraint, the earnest supplication to be kept from spilling blood. The hatred which had smoldered in her leaped to its fulfillment.

She had believed in the hand of God that had been her shield and buckler, had been patient in adversity, meek in her dogged courage.

Now, as Kate Cathrew clawed for a weapon to kill Brand Fair sitting on his horse at the cave's mouth, she become a killer herself, joying in the fact.

Her foot touched the rifle.

She bent and took it up.

As Cattle Kate straightened in her saddle, Nance dropped stiffly to her knee and raised the gun.

Her blue eyes caught the sights and drew down steadily upon the woman's heart.

Just so had those forgotten Allisons drawn down upon their enemies in the Kentucky hills.

Her finger touched the trigger.

And here the hand of destiny reached down—or was it the hand of God?—and ordered the puppets playing out their little tragedy in the heart of Rainbow cliff.

As Kate Cathrew flung up her gun the furious rage that fired her stiffened body in the saddle, shot her bolt upright, standing in her stirrups.

Perhaps some unaccustomed pressure of her posture angered him—perhaps the excitement of the moment loosed something wild in his hybrid heart—perhaps it was something else.

The bearded man from Upper Country said afterward it was.

At any rate, with the woman's spectacular and dramatic action, Bluefire, the stallion, who hated her but obeyed her, gave one scream and rose with her.

It was a magnificent leap, high spread-eagling, with the flowing silver cloud of his mane tossing in the rosy light.

From the peak of its arc the woman, good rider though she was, but taken by surprise, fell loose from her stirrups, cascading in a flare of booted feet straight down his hips and tail.

At the same moment two shots rang out—her own and Nance's both gone wild with Bluefire's interference.

Still on his hind feet, the stallion whirled, turning once more toward the cut in the wall, and came down—his shod forefeet full upon her breast. He leaped over her body and was gone, his empty saddle shining with its vanity of silver.

A silence of death fell for a moment in the peaceful pot.

Then two men moved.

McKane, the trader who leaped from his horse and knelt by Kate Cathrew, and Big Basford who flung up his arms and shook his clawing fingers toward the western wall.

"You killed her!" he shrieked, "You yellow devil—you've killed Kate Cathrew! And I'll kill you!"

He kicked his horse viciously and shot forward.

Bud Allison, the boy whom none had noticed, raised his pappy's gun and fired.

Big Basford toppled to the left and slid out of his saddle with an audible grunt. He rolled over, shook his good fist toward the serene skies, and was still.

Slowly the group drew in to look at Cattle Kate lying so quietly after the storm.

McKane was holding her hand between his own and murmuring foolish, endearing words. Lawrence Arnold pushed him aside with an oath.

* * * * * * *

But Brand Fair turned his eyes for the first time toward that farther wall. For a moment he did not recognize the creature which knelt there, the smoking rifle across its knee, its face covered with both hands.

Then something familiar in the drooping shoulders, the ragged veil of shining hair, struck home to him.

Without a word he went forward and dismounted.

Incredulously he stooped and took the hands away.

Wide eyed he looked at her.

"Nance!" he cried in horror, "Nance—Nance—Nance! Good God Almighty! What's this?"

"I am forsaken of my God," said the girl piteously, "I had to kill her—or she'd have killed you!"

"You didn't," said Fair sharply, "the stallion killed her. Your shot went wild."

She looked at him dully, uncomprehending, and Fair repeated his words. As she realized their import her lips began to quiver, she rolled down upon the trampled grass with her face to the sod, and wept.

Brand Fair, knowing that this matter was between her soul and its Maker, wisely did not attempt to comfort her.

He sat with his hand on her heaving shoulder and watched the tragic scene.

Bossick and his men surrounded Arnold. Big Basford was dead. And here was Nance Allison in Rainbow's pot at dawn, ghastly with blood and weariness.

A thousand questions burned in his brain, but he waited.

From the right Rod Stone was coming forward, followed by the half-breed girl and the rest of the men from Cordova.

Bossick took Stone into custody and called to Bud Allison, who came limping forward, his blue eyes glittering with defiance.

Fair stooped and lifting Nance bodily carried her into the heart of the group.

"Men," he said, "here's something more to add to our score against Sky Line. Look!"

They looked in astonishment.

"Great Scott!" said Bossick wonderingly, "it's Miss Allison, ain't it? What's she doing here?"

"That's a question I'll ask Lawrence Arnold," said Fair in a voice like a blade, but the bearded man from the Upper Country spoke up promptly.

"I think young Stone and Minnie Pine can answer that, since that is why we're here. Speak, Stone."

The rider shook his head.

"Let Minnie," he said, "she was first to know about it."

All eyes turned to the Pomo girl, among those of Lawrence Arnold, still holding in his arms the body of Kate Cathrew, and they were cruel as a hawk's.

"I listened," said Minnie calmly, "I always listened when there was devil's talk at Sky Line. I've heard much. This time the Sun Woman yonder stood in the inner room where they had brought her, and gave back in their teeth the words of the boss and the master. They wanted her to sign her mother's name to a paper which would give to Kate Cathrew the homestead on Nameless—"

"Great Scott!" said Bossick again.

"She wouldn't," went on Minnie, "and so they gave her to Sud Provine to keep all night in Rainbow's pot, with Big Basford standing guard outside."

There was the sound of an indrawn breath from Fair.

"We know Provine, Rod Stone and me," continued the girl, "and so we went to Cordova for help to get her out. We had to wait so long to get away from Sky Line—"

"But they came, men," cut in the bearded man, "don't forget that in the final settlement. They dared Arnold and Cattle Kate to save a woman's honor—and that's no small thing."

"Shucks!" said Stone disgustedly, "what would any halfman do?"

Fair stood Nance upon her feet.

She raised her unspeakable head and glanced at the tense faces.

"Where's this Provine? Tell us, Nance," said Fair still in that thin, hard voice. He hitched his holster a little farther forward on his thigh.

"I don't know," she said. "I tore his face to ribbons—I'd have killed him if I could. He crawled that way."

She nodded toward the north.

Fair loosed her gently and was turning away, when Bossick caught his arm.

"Hold hard, Smith—Mr. Fair," he said, "not in your condition. Jermyn—go see what you can find. In the meantime—there's Big Basford. The boy was quick—"

Here Rod Stone broke in, speaking frankly.

"I'd like to say, men, that when young Allison killed Big Basford he got the man who threw his father down Rainbow cliff and stretched the rope that lamed the boy. John Allison had found the only outside way to the rim and was looking down into the Pot here, when Basford went to meet him."

For a long moment there was silence.

"It would seem to me," said Bossick slowly, "that there has been a deal of justice done here this day—a very great deal of justice. It's destiny."

Nance Allison looked up at him with a light in her blue eyes.

"It's the hand of God, Mr. Bossick," she said gravely, "no less."

The rancher nodded.

"Maybe," he said, as Jermyn and several others who had accompanied him, came back across the basin with Sud Provine among them.

One look at the man was sufficient.

"I guess he's had all that was coming to him for the present," said Bossick grimly. "Take him along to the house. We'll go gather in the rest."

And so, in the full day, with the risen sun touching all the tapestried slopes of Mystery with gold, Cattle Kate Cathrew went back to her stronghold under the tinted cliff—went in state with a retinue behind her.

She had died as she had lived, spectacularly, and her turbulent soul should have been satisfied.

With her went one man who had loved her after his selfish fashion, another who would have crawled in the dust to kiss her feet, while a third, borne rolling limply on a saddle, followed after more closely than any other.

The young cowboy from the Upper Country absent-mindedly rolled a cigarette.

"She was worth it," he said softly to the bearded man beside him, "in spite of all!"

"H—l!" said the other, "look yonder! One square foot of his satin hide was worth her whole body! I always thought he'd get her, some time, some way. I'm going to dig up my last dollar an' buy him from whoever owns him now."

Bluefire stood against the cliff, watching with interested eyes this strange procession passing.

* * * * * * * *

On the broad slopes, the towering slants, the conifers sang their everlasting song, tuned by the little winds from the south.

White clouds sailed the vault above leading their shadows for a little space upon the soft green country.

Another spring was smiling on the Deep Hearts hills.

On the wide brown flats by Nameless the young crops were springing, vigorous and safe, and some few herds browsed peacefully on the rugged range.

In the doorway of the cabin by the river, Nance Fair sat with Sonny in her lap, watching the slope beyond.

"Won't Brand be coming soon?" the child wanted to know. "The Rainbow cliff is shining, so it's getting late."

"Soon—very soon, honey," said Nance smilingly, "I heard Dirk bark in the buck brush yonder a little while ago."

In the room beyond Mrs. Allison rocked contentedly.

"Nance," she said, "you know this here carpet always makes me think of the floor of the woods, somehow, with its brown an' white. It's so fresh an' fair an' soft."

"That's why I got that warp," said Nance happily, "I felt it would—and it does so. Yes, it does so. Run, Sonny—yonder's Brand and Bud!"

Brand and Bud, riding up from the waters of Nameless in the evening haze, Diamond and Buckskin drawing long breaths of satisfaction at the sight of home.

Nance rose and waited for the lean dark man who swung down and came to her with Sonny on his shoulder. As he stooped to lay his lips to hers he looked long and tenderly into her blue eyes.

"Heart of my heart!" he whispered.

"How's all, Brand?" called the mother as she spread a cloth on the scoured table preparatory to "feeding her menfolk" as she phrased it.

Brand hung his hat on a nail and turned to the well as Bud came whistling up the path.

"Fine, Mammy," he called back, "everything at Sky Line's doing well. Rod and Minnie make things move, and I can trust them. The only thing that jars is old Josefa who never fails to tell me that all half-breeds are fools, and that white men can't be trusted. And then she bakes an extra pie for Rod and smiles at Minnie proudly. Yes—all's well. All's well on Nameless, eh, old-timer?"

And swinging the boy once more to his shoulder, he followed young Bud in across the sill.

[THE END.]

Jar 4,000 Years Old

A jar full of beads of agate, china beads, beads of crystal, bracelets and medals has been found at Byblos. On a disc is the name of the camel driver who, 2,000 years B. C., transported Pharaoh's offerings to Byblos.

Husky Norwegians

The breadth of chest of Norwegians enlisted in the Union army during the American Civil war was greater than that of any other nationality.

Eat Yeast Foam this easy way

Drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let it stand for 5 minutes; stir with spoon; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate.

Nothing could be easier or more palatable than this way of eating Yeast Foam. Yet you get its full tonic value.

Eat Yeast Foam for constipation, indigestion, lack of weight and strength, boils, pimples and run down condition.

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 North Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health", also a Sample of Yeast Foam, without obligation.

Name _____

Address _____

W. N. U.

The Lewis' Lye can has a safety friction top. Easy to open and close. Always seals tight and safe.

Soap 1c a Bar

Make it yourself this easy way—No Boiling!

Now make your own hard soap—without boiling. Use grease you otherwise waste. Save 5 to 6 cents a bar. It's easy with good Lewis' Lye. Actually easier than putting up fruit.

Get a can of Lewis' Lye from your Grocer today. Full directions come with it, how to make fine pure homemade soap without boiling.

Write today for FREE 56-page book The Truth About a Lye. Gives over 50 tested ways to save money and labor with Lewis' Lye. Just send a postcard. No obligation whatever.

The Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. Co. · Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Nothing takes the place of

LEWIS' LYE

'Ruff-Shod' Boots

long wear means less cost

'RUFF-SHOD' Boots will give you a new standard of value. There is longer wear. There is greater comfort. The Converse "foot-shape" last is the final word in footease—no breaking at instep no shucking at the heel. The heavy extension sole and exclusive 'Stubgard' toe saves the uppers—from wear and leaks.

CABOOSE—The best known and longest wearing work rubber made. Identify it by the White Top Band. There are Converse 'Big C' shoes for every member of the family. Look for the 'Big C' on the sole.

CONVERSE RUBBER SHOE CO., 618 W. Jackson Blvd. Chicago, Ill.

See the CONVERSE BIG C LINE Rubber Footwear

LOOK FOR THE WHITE TOP BAND

If in doubt use CALUMET

THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

the next time you bake—give it just one honest and fair trial. One test in your own kitchen will prove to you that there is a big difference between Calumet and any other brand—that for uniform and wholesome baking it has no equal.

Sales 2½ Times Those of Any Other Brand

A hasty demand requires a leisurely reply.

Don't Suffer With Itching Rashes Use Cuticura

Soap, Ointment, Talcum sold everywhere. Samples free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass.

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Fa
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded
60c and $1.00 at Druggists
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Calluses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.

Syndicate Desires to Purchase Florida acreage and lots. Give price, legals and particulars in first letter. G. A. HOOVER, St. Paul St., Denver, Colo.

BATHE TIRED EYES with Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1169 River, Troy N. Y. Booklet.

A HOME WITHOUT CHILDREN

Lacks the Greatest Joys of Life

Many Wives are Childless Because of Ill Health. Read How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Mrs. Benedict

MRS. MARY R. BENEDICT
313 PAYSON STREET, KEWANEE, ILLINOIS

Kewanee, Illinois. — "When I was married about a year and a half I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because of ill health. I did not have any children. I now have two healthy little girls and I am sure I would not have had them had it not been for your medicine. Last spring and summer I got all run down, irregular, and I had awful headaches, and my back and side hurt me so that I could stay up only a short time. My limbs would get so tired and ache till I could cry. I started to take the Vegetable Compound again and used the Sanative Wash, and it was not long till I was relieved. Now I do all my own work and help others. I sure praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines to any one I meet that is suffering from similar troubles. I think if mothers with girls would give it to them when they come to womanhood it would make them stronger. People who have known me all my life are astonished to see me now as I was always sickly when in my 'teens until I started taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MARY R. BENEDICT, 313 Payson Street, Kewanee, Ill.

Has a Beautiful Baby Girl Now

Bridport, Vermont.—"In the first place I wanted a baby, but none seemed to come to me. I just love children and my husband is away all day, so I was not happy at all. A doctor told me I could not have a baby until I went to a hospital. But my sisters said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you will be O.K.' I was nervous, had organic weakness, with backache, sideache, headache and no strength. I had been in bed nearly a week when I began taking the Vegetable Compound. It was all that ever helped me and I just wish you could see my beautiful baby girl. I am fine now, and so is she. I am still taking the medicine as it keeps me well. You may be sure I am recommending the Vegetable Compound and always will."—Mrs. A. W. HOWE, Bridport, Vermont.

Green's August Flower
for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver
Successful for 59 years.
30c and 90c bottles—
ALL DRUGGISTS

BLOTCHY SKIN
need not annoy you. Pimples blackheads, etc. are quickly dispelled by Resinol

Sea Salt Content Shown

The salt content of the sea is about pounds to 1,000 pounds of water.

Constructive criticism is as much criticism as any other kind.

Calumet Wheat Cakes

2 c. flour
2 level tsp. Calumet Baking Powder
1½ c. milk
1 egg
¼ level tsp. salt
2 tbsp. melted butter

Sift flour, baking powder and salt well together. Beat eggs until light and combine with milk. Add to flour making a soft batter. Bake.

Stolen kisses are always sweetest.—Leigh Hunt.

Stop the Pain.
The hurt of a burn or a cut stops when Cole's Carbolisalve is applied. It heals quickly without scars. 30c and 60c by all druggists, or send 30c to The J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

Getting home to a porcelain bathtub and an electric fan is very inviting.

FOR Colds

BAYER

ASPIRIN

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago
Pain Neuralgia Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe → Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

It is expected that the value of foodstuffs exported from the United States this year will exceed $1,000,000,000.

The city of Rome is planning the erection of a municipal bath house, built on the lines of the ancient Roman baths.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

COMMANDER McIVER IS STRONG LEADER

Independence Day was not the only thing American Legionnaires of South Carolina celebrated on the Fourth of July, 1924; the second cause of jubilee was the election on that date of E. Rick McIver, of Florence, as 1925 commander of the South Carolina department of the Legion.

"There's nothing spectacular or theatrical about Rick McIver," declared a rural friend, "but its a mighty comfortable feeling to have him at the head of affairs; you can always bank on the cart getting there that Rick McIver is pulling, because he never rears nor kicks over the traces."

That astute observance of Commander McIver is about as true as anything can be. He is a man who has gone quietly and calmly about his duties, leaving bombast and blah to others while he worked. Which doesn't imply that he has led a cloistered and protected life by any means. He's a fighter and a virile, two-fisted leader of men, at present engaged in the business of maintaining law and order as the chief of police of Florence, which office he has held since 1921.

E. Rick McIver.

Something of the energy of Rick McIver is revealed by the records of Clemson agricultural and mechanical college from which institution he graduated in 1915. In addition to scholastic honors, the athletic records show that as captain of the track team, he won in one meet the high jump, broad jump, 100-yard dash, the 140 and 220-yard hurdles. This is mentioned as an indication of what might be expected of such a man in the big track meet of 1917-1918 as a member of the A. F. team.

At the beginning of the Mexican border fireworks "Rick" went to the border as first sergeant of company E, Second South Carolina infantry. On November 20, 1916, he was commissioned a first lieutenant and assigned to the same unit. When called to the service in the World war he was made a captain. Captain McIver sailed for France in May, 1918, and served with the One Hundred and Fifth ammunition train until his discharge in 1919.

Aside from soldiering and policing, Commander McIver is a farmer.

Education Week Is Set for November 16 to 22

"American Education Week" will be observed throughout the nation the week of November 16 to 22, 1925, it has been announced at national headquarters of the American Legion at Indianapolis.

The National Education association and the United States bureau of education co-operate with the Legion in the perpetuation of Education week, which was first suggested by the Legion at the annual meeting of the National Education association in 1921. The week has since been observed annually by presidential proclamation.

The program for the week embraces Constitution day, Patriotism day, School and Teacher day, Conservation and Thrift day, Know Your School day, Community and Health day, and For God and Country day.

President Coolidge, in commending Education week, said: "It is not too much to say that the need of civilization is the need of teachers."

Requests Purchase of Historic Billop House

A proposal that the city of New York purchase historic "Old Billop House," at Tottenville, N. Y., which housed the first peace conference after the War of the Revolution, was included in a petition sent to Mayor Hylan recently by the American Legion post of Staten island. The house was erected in 1668.

Benjamin Franklin and John Adams met Lord Howe, representing the British, there to decide peace terms. The Legion would convert the ten acres surrounding Billop house into a public park.

Interesting opposition to the acquisition of the property has been raised on the grounds that Christopher Billop, original owner, was a Tory actively and brutally engaged in the War of the Revolution.

SPANISH TROOPS IN KRIM'S CAPITAL

Believed Victory Will Go Far Toward Breaking Back of Riffian War.

Madrid.—Spanish troops are in Adjir, the capital of Abd-el-Krim, leader of the Ruffian rebels.

News of the victory which has carried their soldiers at last to the stronghold of the enemy was received in Madrid with great rejoicing. King Alfonso appeared at a window of the palace and was greeted by the acclamations of the populace. Flags were flown from most of the houses of Madrid.

The king and the military directorate sent messages of congratulation to Gen. Primo de Rivera, who has been in charge of the Moroccan campaign. The advance on Adjir has been made by both Spanish and French troops, the Spanish troops working from Alhucemas bay and the French on their left from Kifane.

Military authorities believe the victory will go far toward breaking the back of the Riffian war.

Fez.—An official communique says the offensive has ended with every objective taken, the French troops having carried their lines twelve kilometers (7½ miles) north of Kifane.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson in New Romance, Is Report

Paris.—A possible romance, in which the names of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Dr. Sterling Ruffin of Washington, D. C., have been linked together, has been the subject of much speculation in Geneva and Paris in the last few weeks. Mrs. Wilson is being entertained by her friends here, but Doctor Ruffin sailed for New York September 23 on the steamer Majestic.

Rumors of the impending engagement of Doctor Ruffin and Mrs. Wilson brought the following statement from a close companion of the former President's widow:

"Mrs. Wilson adheres to the policy she has followed since she was in the White House and refuses to confirm or deny any newspaper reports concerning her."

Landslides Bury Many in Tokyo and Yokohama

Tokyo.—More than thirty persons are dead, scores injured, and many more are believed to be buried alive by landslides in Tokyo, Yokohama, and vicinity.

Thousands of houses were inundated, nearly a hundred being demolished under the landslides. The damages total several million dollars.

The Tokosua naval station reports damage to the naval yards and many narrow escapes. As the retaining walls in a Tokyo building broke many crippled girls were pinned under the ruins of the structure and tons of earth, but were extricated unscratched. Two women were killed by falling debris in the same house.

Mrs. Kresge Asks Probe of Spouse in $1,000,000 Suit

New York.—Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, wife of S. S. Kresge, the chain store head, asked for examination of her husband in connection with her suit to make him fulfill an alleged ante-nuptial agreement.

Mrs. Kresge charged that prior to their marriage he promised her $7,000,000 in securities but afterward gave her only a ten-cent toy dog from one of his stores. Mrs. Kresge later reduced her demand to $1,000,000, plus a 50 per cent stock dividend declared since the alleged agreement, and interest on the principal to date.

Atterbury Succeds Rea as Head of Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, Pa.—Samuel Rea retired from the presidency of the Pennsylvania railroad on Tuesday and Gen. William Wallace Atterbury took charge as president. General Atterbury, vice president of the company for the past fifteen years, was elected to the presidency at a meeting of the board of directors at which President Rea presided.

Prior to becoming a vice president, General Atterbury was general manager of the company. He was born at New Albany, Ind., fifty-nine years ago.

Scopes Enters U. of C. for Course in Evalution

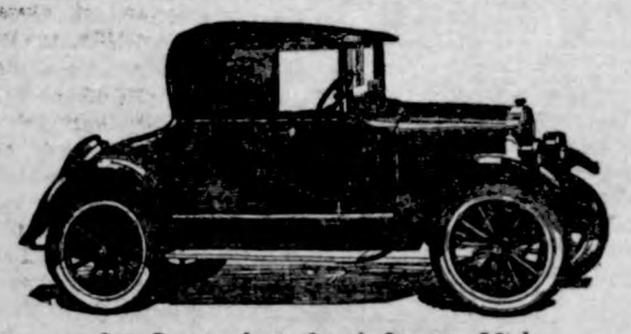
Chicago.—John Thomas Scopes, central figure in the evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn., hasn't enough of that subject. At the University of Chicago, where he will do postgraduate work, he said he would attend lectures on evolution to be given by Prof. H. H. Newman. He also signed up for a course in geology, which plays a big part in the evolution theory.

"Brokers" Get Long Terms

Los Angeles.—Harry Hibbs and Thomas Hennessey, who were convicted of defrauding thousands of railway stock investors by a tale of a $6,000,000,000 merger, were sentenced to from 30 to 300 years in the state prison.

Yank Bodies Brought Home

Chihuahua City, Mex.—Bodies of five American soldiers killed during the Pershing expedition in 1916 have been exhumed and more are to be taken up to be transported to the United States.



Star Coupster $595, f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

MORE POWER

Low-cost Transportation

Star Cars

PRICES: f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

COMMERCIAL CHASSIS	$425
ROADSTER	$525
TOURING	$525
COUPSTER	$595
COUPE	$675
COACH	$695
SEDAN	$775

DURANT MOTORS, Inc.
250 West 57th Street, New York
General Sales Dept.—1819 Broadway, New York
Dealers and Service Stations throughout the United States Canada and Mexico
PLANTS: Elizabeth, N. J. Lansing, Mich. Oakland, Cal. Toronto, Ont.

Cautious

"Do you like rural scenery?"

"That depends. Are you a real estate man?"

Now It's His Car

"Clothes certainly make the man."

"Not any more, my dear—now it's his car."

Concrete protects against Fire, Tornado and Earthquake

Ask Dad— See If He Knows

Father and mother are always thinking of your welfare—there isn't a thing within reason they wouldn't do for you.

But they may unknowingly have been risking your life every day.

When you are at dinner tonight with dad, ask him this question:

"Dad, is our school firesafe?"

Perhaps he won't be able to answer—he may not know.

Ask dad if he knows that somewhere in the country a schoolhouse burns every day. Ask him if he knows that one-third of all the schoolhouses in the country are nothing better than firetraps — maybe your school is one of them.

Of course dad knows that buildings can be built that will not burn. They are being built everywhere, every day.

If your school is firesafe, you're lucky. If it isn't, ask dad what he is going to do about it. You have a right to know.

• • •

The highest type of firesafe construction is concrete. Our illustrated booklet "Concrete Schoolhouses" contains a wealth of information on firesafe construction with which every parent ought to be familiar. Write today for your free copy.

"Build So It Won't Burn"

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION
111 W. Washington St.
CHICAGO

A National Organization to Improve and Extend the Uses of Concrete

OFFICES IN 30 CITIES

Definitions

Nerve—Asking a man just back from his vacation to lend you ten.

Miracle—Having him do it.

Softening the Sound

Coed—"Your new overcoat is rather loud." Frosh—"It's all right when I put on a muffler."

BURGESS RADIO BATTERIES

The next time you buy radio batteries, ask for Burgess. Don't accept any substitute.

Try Burgess "A" "B" and "C" Batteries and notice the difference in noiselessness, dependability and long life.

Ask any Radio Engineer

BURGESS BATTERY COMPANY
General Sales Office: CHICAGO
Canadian Factories and Offices:
Niagara Falls and Winnipeg

THE FEDERAL RESERVE A NATIONAL PROBLEM

By WILLIAM E. KNOX
President, American Bankers Association

The Federal Reserve situation is the paramount problem before American banking today. The time is approaching when it will be necessary for the nation to consider the question of rechartering the Federal Reserve Banks.

William E. Knox

The Federal Reserve System must be preserved. It is one of the most scientific banking systems in the world. During the last ten years, through all the stress of war, inflation, depression and revival, it served this country as no country was ever served by a banking system. We know that without it our nation would have had a financial disaster far more devastating than any that ever assailed it.

While we have this great loyalty and obligation to the System, we must recognize that among its friends there has risen serious controversy over many matters of detail. There are many demands for change in the methods of its management and in details of its operation. Where these demands represent broadly the greatest good of the greatest number we should support them. Where they represent merely narrow, diverse interests of one part of the country or one type of business or finance, they should be subordinated to the common good. We should meet on the great broad ground of the common welfare—first to preserve the system in general as it is now constructed, and secondly to bring about, carefully and soundly, such changes as are required to adjust it to circumstances of today.

The task of considering, sifting, weighing and co-ordinating discussion and suggestions regarding the Federal Reserve System has been confided to the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. It is hoped that thereby the Federal Reserve System will be given the best thought and the best support of banking. There is no greater service banking can render the nation than this. It goes right to the heart of good management of the public economy of America.

The Mint's Sidelines

The United States mints make other objects besides coins. All of the medals for the army and navy are turned out by the mints. Medals of all the Presidents, the Secretaries of the Treasury, the Directors of the Mints, have been designed and executed by the mints. Recently the mints inaugurated the practice of making medals of the Under Secretaries of the Treasury. Congress has authorized the mint to make up 40,000 medals to commemorate the arrival of the first shipload of Norse immigrants on board the sloop Restaur Ationen, which is to be celebrated at the Norse-American Centennial in Minnesota next summer.

At the last session of Congress there was a flood of bills seeking to have commemorative half dollars minted. The prior session authorized the minting of the Huguenot half dollars and of 5,000,000 half dollars to signalize the start of work on the Stone Mountain carving, which will serve as a monument to the valor of the soldiers of the South. On the Federal coins appear Generals Lee and Jackson, the two leaders of the Confederate forces in the Civil War.

A Flood of Coins

With the 150th anniversary of the great battles of the American revolution approaching, bills were passed last winter to issue coins commemorating the stand of the minutemen at Lexington and Concord and the battle of the Green Mountain patriots at Bennington in Vermont. Proposals were made to pay tribute in a similar way to the battle of Bunker Hill, the victory at Yorktown and other events in American history, such as the 200th anniversary of the founding of Stoughton, Mass., and the 50th anniversary of the admission of California to the Union.

Fearing that the growth of this practice would open the way to counterfeiting and make the protection of the integrity of the coins more difficult, Secretary Mellon openly opposed the creation of these special coins, but was not entirely successful in his efforts. He insisted that the practice introduced confusion into our system of coinage, brought about an unnecessary expense and satisfied a very limited demand because the public generally has never shown a special liking to the commemorative coins.

However, Congress felt that these great events were worthy of commemoration and authorized the coins—all of which are to be sold at a premium so that the promoters of these events may raise funds by this extra charge to defray part of the expense attached. The records of the Treasury show that the special coins, as a general rule, are seldom absorbed in circulation. The Monroe coin issue was a dismal failure—217,000 of the 274,000 struck off were turned back to the Treasury for melting up. — Journal American Bankers Association.

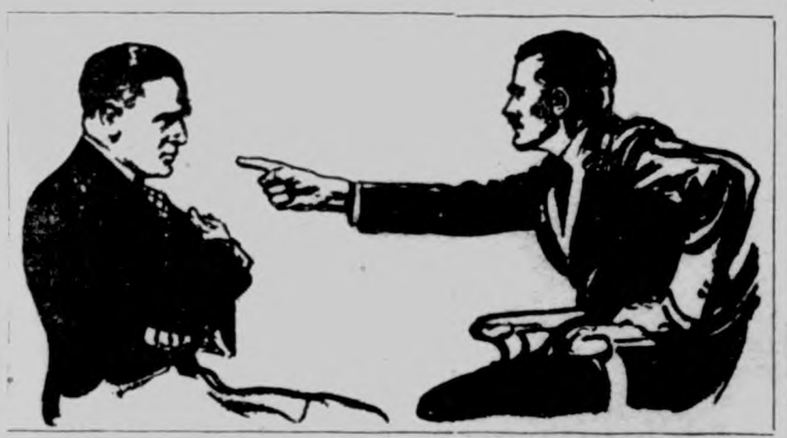
Ridders Return From Eastern Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ridder left Klemme about a month ago in their car for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Sam Harvey, Mr. Harvey and little daughter Enid. While in the east at Jersey City, where the Harvey family reside, they made trips to points of interest. On the return journey to Klemme they were accompanied by the Harvey family who intend to live here or near here in the future. The party got back to Klemme last Thursday afternoon.

Correction

An item in last week's issue of the Times stated that the Ell township Farm Bureau held their first meeting at the Center school house on Thursday evening. It should have read that it was the last meeting of the season. This was their annual meeting.

A Good Tip!



Order Your Coal Now.

RIGHT NOW is the time to put in your supply of Coal for the winter. We can supply you NOW with high grade coal—why take chances by waiting? Order now!

Semi-Anthracite Coal

Have just received a car load of this high grade coal. You know Semi-Anthracite can't be beat. Try a load.

Miller Creek Coal

We have another car load of this popular coal on the road due to arrive any day. If you have never used this kind of coal you have missed something. Order a load now.

Our warehouse is full of all kinds of Feed. We have just unloaded a car of SWIFT'S TANKAGE, come in and get all you need. A full line of MILL FEEDS of all kinds. Have on hand DRY BUTTER MILK FEED and SUGAR FEED. Drive in and load up on Feeds—prices right!

MAPLE SOTA and WHITE ROYAL FLOUR

Klemme Grain Co.

The Farmers' Elevator

EARTHQUAKE A DAY KEEPS KILAUEA GAY

Count 82 Shocks in Twenty-four Hours.

Honolulu.—The temperamental nature of Kilauea, on the Island of Hawaii, which maintains a fire pit filled with constantly spurting lava, is shown in a report by L. W. de Vis-Norton of the Hawaiian Volcano Research association, concerning the activities of the volcano in 1924.

"The Kilauea observatory on April 7 issued a warning of possible earthquakes, and shortly after this date heavy shocks were felt in the Puna district along the seacoast three miles away. During the 24 hours ending at 11 a. m. on April 22, the observers counted 82 earthquakes, and during the following night the shocks were practically continuous. At this time the ground cracked open in many places, trending roughly parallel to a line of cones and old fissures. About 200 main shocks were felt in all. Land subsidences took place in many sections, automobile roads were blocked by yawning crevices, and in one place a new salt-water lagoon was formed.

Heavy Avalanches.

"Meanwhile, a great subsidence was taking place in the Halemaumau fire pit of Kilauea. By May the bottom of the pit was more than 600 feet below the rim and heavy avalanches were in progress. The observatory instruments indicated increase of local earthquake, and this fact suggested underground lava surgings, with a possible subterranean flow.

"The Kilauea volcano entered upon an explosive phase on May 11, which steadily increased until the maximum was reached on May 18. Heavy explosions took place from May 11 to 24; immense clouds of dust and ash rose to great heights; bowlders were ejected in quantities and there were heavy electrical storms accompanied by mud rains. Many strange features were noted, among them a surf-like roaring, preceding explosions, a marked air concussion being felt before the larger explosions. The seismographic records of these earthquakes are peculiar in that many of them, instead of starting suddenly as in ordinary earthquakes, rose gradually to a maximum and then receded gradually.

"The force of this great explosive eruption shows great changes at the Halemaumau pit, which, as June opened, appeared as a vast cauldron oval in shape, about 3,400 feet in its two diameters and 1,832 feet deep. There was a rapid increase of small earthquakes from June 8 to 10, accompanied by puffs of dust-laden clouds, and on the 8th there was a mud-rain, producing dust balls. On the night of June 12 a glowing area 600 feet long by 300 feet high was seen on the north wall of the pit, 600 feet below the rim.

Blowing Noises.

"Early in July blowing noises in Halemaumau heralded the coming back of the lava on the 19th. It spread out across the pit and built up a new cone and floor. The active flooring ceased on July 31 and the entire month of August was exceptionally quiet. A sharp earthquake, felt generally throughout the island of Hawaii, took place on August 20, its center being apparently in the Kau district."

Throughout September earthquakes were frequent, the report related, and there was almost incessant avalanching within the walls of the Halemaumau pit. Strong windstorms swept up immense clouds of volcanic dust from the Kau district to the south. During the first week of October 21 earthquakes were recorded, and in the last, 46. One of these, on October 28, was strong enough to be alarming, although its effects were only local. During the remainder of the year avalanching continued and earthquakes decreased.

The only fatality in recent years in the neighborhood of the fire pit occurred on May 17, when an eruption of red-hot lava spread the molten rock for nearly a mile in all directions. A Hawaiian who was watching the eruption 1,800 feet from the pit was knocked down by rocks and his legs were broken. He was not found until hours afterward. He died soon after being taken to a hospital at Hilo.

Vanity Ruling Passion of Noted German Crook

Berlin.—Pride in his personal attire so dominated Bernard Pulkowsky, a convict, that when a new charge was discovered against him before the expiration of his sentence, he escaped from prison to replenish his wardrobe and then later voluntarily returned to court clad with sartorial excellence and carrying himself with jaunty pride.

Before the date fixed for his appearance on the new charge, Pulkowsky asked the warden for leave of absence to purchase the proper clothes, saying: "It is quite out of the question for me to appear before the high court in this squalid prison dress."

When his request was refused, he simply made his get-away, leaving behind a courteous note to the warden in which he wrote: "My sense of decency simply won't allow me to appear before the court in prison clothes. But don't fear. I shall not fail to be there at the proper time." And he was.

ANCIENT SUMERIANS' VERSION OF CREATION

Six Tablets Give Their 4,000-Year-Old Story.

Philadelphia.—Man in his early stages propelled himself along the ground with all four limbs, "ate grass with his mouth, like a sheep," and drank from the ditches, according to a translation of six Sumerian tablets, written about 2000 B. C.

A story of the early history of the human race has been pieced together by Dr. Edward Chiera, assistant professor of Assyriology at the University of Pennsylvania.

The presence of the six tablets bearing different copies of the same text proves that the story they tell was considered quite important by the ancient Sumerians, according to Doctor Chiera, who believes that a wide difference of opinion regarding the origin of mankind existed as early as 4,000 years ago.

Story Staged in Seat of the Gods.

The story told by the tablets is staged in the Mountain of Heaven and Earth, the seat of the gods and close parallel to the Olympus of Greek mythology. In fact, the Sumerian mountain and Olympus might prove to be one and the same because of the likelihood of finding Sumerian influence in Greek religion, according to Doctor Chiera.

Geographically the Mountain of Heaven and Earth cannot be placed, although the old Babylonians may have thought it was somewhere to the north near Kurdistan or even on the Caucacus range. Close to the mountain may be placed the Garden of Eden.

The Sumerian tale begins with a description of conditions following the creation by the great god Anu of a lower order of deities called the Anunna. At that time there had not yet come into existence the god representing cereals, the story declares. Hence there were no grains to eat. Likewise the god representing the flocks and herds had not yet been made, and so there were no animals and meat to eat. Even the semi-divine being more or less corresponding to the Biblical Eve had not yet appeared, according to the Sumerian chroniclers, who apparently summed up their conception of conditions on earth with the following six lines:

Mankind, in the day of their appearance,
Bread for eating they knew not,
Garments for wearing they knew not,
The people walked with the (four) limbs upon the ground,
They ate grass with their mouth like sheep,
They drank water from the ditches.

Patrons of Foods Provided.

Then followed the creation by the gods of the two patrons of cereals and flocks, interesting figures because they resemble the Ceres and Pan of the Roman and Greek religions. With the creation of these two patrons, conditions changed, and the Anunna had plenty of food.

Next there appears in the story the god Enki, who is always represented as being a good friend of mankind, and who intercedes with the god Enlil in behalf of his friends by pointing out that the flocks and grains had multiplied in the Mountain of Heaven and Earth and suggesting that they now be permitted to leave the mountain and spread over the rest of the earth.

The desired permission is granted and the cereals and flocks then replenish the earth for the benefit of mankind. With their coming, the land experiences abundance, and mankind, according to the version on the Sumerian tablets, gets its first start toward civilization.

Irrigation machines and the yoke appear, granaries are built and filled with food, living creatures come into existence, laws are established, and wherever the cereals and flocks, as exemplified by the two patrons, appear prosperity reigns.

Japs Take Measures to Increase Food Supply

Tokyo.—The food and population problem still continues the most serious one confronting Japan. At a recent meeting of high officials of the department of agriculture and forestry, it was decided the government should revise the regulations for opening up and bringing land under cultivation.

The officials were of the opinion that there are considerable areas in Hokkaido and Korea which might be tilled if proper encouragement were offered settlers.

It was stated that, while the area of land in Japan and the volume of foodstuffs have been materially increased, the rate of increase has begun to fall off lately and is not keeping pace with the increase of population. Consequently, additional inducements are to be offered newcomers in districts still open to settlement.

Bandit Plies Trade While Studying to Become Cop

Los Angeles, Cal.—Before receiving his diploma from the Los Angeles police training school, George A. Mollet, twenty-four, was a pay-roll bandit, detectives said when they arrested the man as he walked his patrolman's beat in the Hollywood district.

After acquiring his diploma and police uniform, Mollet is alleged to have spent his spare evenings robbing romantic couples who parked their automobiles beside a shaded highway in the Hollywood hills.

He was booked at the city jail as a robbery suspect.

Cold Weather Clothes

For Men and Boys

Coming right at the start of the Fall and Winter Season, here's a real opportunity. When you consider the quality of this merchandise and the low prices, you will appreciate the values offered. Herewith we list a few items:

Sheep Lined Coats

We have them in all sizes and all styles, both long and short lengths.

LEATHER VESTS

A full line of high grade vests in all leather, mohair, corduroy, etc. The price on these is right!

Heavy Shirts

WOOL and FLANNEL SHIRTS

A big variety of patterns, novelty plaids, fancy checks and plain colors in our heavy shirts. "Full cut for Comfort," ready for your inspection. Come and see them and provide for cold weather. All sizes.

LUMBER JACKS and SWEATERS

A full line of the new Sport Jackets in all colors and styles. A fine line of sweaters and Jerseys.

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

New Fall Goods

WE HAVE ON HAND A FULL LINE OF NEW FALL AND WINTER GOODS—

MENS' DRESS OVERCOATS
$15.00 to $18.00

MENS' LEATHER JACKETS
$6.00 to $15.00

Mens' and Boy's Sweaters Caps Hose
Mittens Mufflers Felt Slippers
Overshoes Rubbers, Etc.

Just the things to keep you warm!

SATURDAY SPECIAL

5 Bars of Luna Soap For only - - - - 19c

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Galena Brand Mittens and Husking Gloves

Large Shipment Just Received

Guaranteed Not to Rip

699

8077 One of The Big Six

E. F. Jacobs

THE KLEMME TIMES

Thirtieth Year—Number 6. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

GRIESEMER & WENCK TO BE TRIED IN NOV. TERM

GRANTED A CONTINUANCE THEY WAIVE CHANGE OF VENUE

WENCK BUCKED BOARD OF TRADE

NOVEMBER TERM OF COURT CONVENES NOV. 16 BEFORE JUDGE M. F. EDWARDS

Case Was Again Presented Before Judge Kepler Monday Morning

Paul M. Griesemer and Frank J. Wenck are not to be tried until the November term of court which is slated to begin at Garner on the 16th of next month with Judge M. F. Edwards on the bench.

Court was again called into session Monday when the Klemme bank case was again brought up for further hearing before Judge M. H. Kepler, at which time the Court sustained the motion of L. R. Boomhower and W. L. Bliss, attorneys for the two officers of the closed Klemme State Savings Bank, who were recently indicted by the grand jury on charges of forgery, fraudulent banking, uttering of false bank statements and other charges.

Motion For Continuance Granted

The motion for continuance was made on the grounds that the defense attorneys could not prepare for trial in such a short time in view of the deluge of indictments and also because of the alleged prejudice in the community which the attorneys stated in their arguments, was so intense at this time that the defendants could not obtain a fair and impartial jury for trial.

In case the motion for continuance had been denied the defense attorneys were prepared to ask for a change of venue to the court of another county.

Bankers Waive Change of Venue

The plea for continuance of trial however was granted, whereupon a waiver of change of venue was filed and the trial will be held in Hancock county at the November term of court.

It is said that Joe Wenck, father of F. J. Wenck, against whom thirty indictments were returned by the grand jury, circulated a petition among friends at Garner and vicinity asking them to give their signature for a change of venue to another court. It is said that he got quite a number of signers.

Had the change of venue been granted it would have thrown a lot of extra expense upon Hancock county. In view of that fact it is understood here that a counter petition would have been circulated in the county to keep the trial at home and cut down needless expense as many claim the bankers would be given a fair jury and that prejudice is not so strong over the county as the defense claims, it is said.

Out Under $40,000 Bonds

Griesemer and Wenck are at liberty until the November term of court under bonds of $40,000 each. F. Griesemer obtained signers in Klemme and John Gruetzmacher, F. Gruetzmacher and A. Wellemeyer signed them for him. Mr. Griesemer has stayed in Klemme ever since the bank was closed and has assisted the examiner in charge to straighten out the affairs at the bank.

Frank Wenck had his bonds for $40,000 signed by his father, Joe Wenck of Garner, and by Mrs. Anna Figi, of Renwick. Mrs. Figi is a twin sister of Mrs. F. J. Wenck, the Clerk of Humboldt county certified to Mrs. Figi's bonds it is alleged.

Since the bank closed here Wenck has been seen but seldom in Klemme and we are told that he does not stay at Garner but a small part of the time.

Wenck Played Grain Market

One of the witnesses before the grand jury was a Mr. Kelly of the Schaffer Grain Company, according to an item in the Mason City Globe-Gazette. He testified that between the dates of Dec. 1924 and March 1925, an individual representing himself as Mr. Wenck, purchased grain margins through his firm at Mason City. Mr. Kelly estimated that $48,000 was lost on several ventures into the Chicago grain market by Mr. Wenck.

Other Banks Held Notes

The amount of alleged forgeries is said to total $264,000, and it appears that gross irregularities had been carried on by the accused men as far back as 1916. Practically all of the forged papers issued by the two officers of the closed State Savings Bank was in the hands of Iowa banks at the time it was closed.

How Wenck Played The Game

The following article was clipped from the Garner Leader and gives a better view of Wenck's activities as told by Mr. Kelly. The article is as follows:

"Naturally, there is much speculation as to where this money went. This may be divulged later, but at present what disposition was made of it is but a matter of conjecture. However, the testimony of Mr. Kelly, a representative of the Schaffer Grain Company, gives an idea of where at least a portion of the money went. He testified that between the dates of Dec. 1924 and March 1925 an individual representing himself to be Mr. Wenck, purchased grain margins through his firm located at Mason City. One of the accounts which this Mr. Wenck took care of was in the name of Wenck & Co. In making settlement on this account currency was sometimes used and again checks were drawn. The checks were written on the First National Bank of Mason City, and under at least some of them was written the initial C. A. Still another account looked after by this same man representing himself to be Mr. Wenck, was carried in the name of E. S. Wenck, while another in the name of O.H.Wenck. Mr. Kelly's testimony was that the same man attended to all the accounts, and estimates that $48,000 was lost on the several ventures into the Chicago grain market by Mr. Wenck."

The Times will endeavor to give a full report of the news concerning this now famous bank case and our readers will know of every move that comes up and we shall endeavor to get the news as "straight" as is possible to do so.

DENISON BANKER IS SENTENCED TEN YEARS

Charles L. Voss, Denison banker, convicted of forgery at Sac City in June, and sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary, abandoned his fight for freedom at Dennison last week. He was taken to Sac City by deputy sheriffs and left for Fort Madison two days later, accompanied by the sheriff.

Mr. Voss was committed to the Crawford county jail after his bonds had been forfeited and he had dismissed his appeal to the supreme court.

He was being tried at Denison on another forgery charge, but it was ruled that the state of Vermont had jurisdiction in the case.

This case has stirred up statewide interest. For years Mr. Voss had been active in all church and community affairs and was one of Iowa's best known bankers.

One hundred Marshall county farm girls who are members of girls clubs are keeping personal accounts of all their expenditures.

40,000 HEAD OF CATTLE UNDERGOING TESTING PROCESS TO CLEAN HERDS

Will Mean 10% Increase In Price For Hogs Sold By Hancock County Farmers

Invading Hancock county with a dozen or more veterinarians, the final test of all cattle is being made to cull out all tuberculosis infected individuals from the 40,000 head of cattle within the county. The work progresses under the orders of Dr. E. G. Dunn, inspector in charge. He is being assisted by Drs. O'Brien Jargo, Weinegar, Beard, Weirs, Langenhausen, Wilson, Beaumont, Wesson and Anderson. Others will be in the county next week assisting in completing the work.

The object of this final test is to make Hancock county a modified free area. When this is effected farmers will get a 10% premium on all hogs sold.

In Orthel township the final test of 1800 head revealed only two reactors, and in Bingham township, the work is almost completed, there have been no reactors.

All farmers are being notified when the veterinarian to test their herd will appear. It is a huge task and one that can be greatly hastened if the farmers will co-operate with the testers by having their herds up when they arrive and thus save time of corraling them.

ANNUAL MEETING OF HANCOCK COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Will Be Held at Britt Friday Of This Week

The annual meeting of the Hancock County Farm Bureau will be held at the Coliseum at Britt, Friday October 16th.

Mr. Chas. Hearst, President of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, and Mrs. Gene Cutler of Logan will be the speakers. Mr. Hearst and Mrs. Cutler are both very good speakers and the Farm Bureau is very fortunate to have them on the program for the meeting.

The morning session will start promptly at ten o'clock. Reports will be given at this time by the different officers of the Farm Bureau and the election of officers will be held. Those attending are requested to bring picnic dinners. Free coffee will be furnished by the Farm Bureau.

The afternoon session will start at 1:30, and will be turned over entirely to the program, which will consist of the addresses by Mr. Hearst and Mrs. Cutler, community singing, and other entertainment will be announced later.

This meeting is of considerable interest to the farmers of the county and has always drawn a large crowd, and it is the hope of the Farm Bureau officers that even a larger attendance will be held this year.

Activities Of The Klemme Schools The Past Week

HIGH SCHOOL BALL TEAM IS WINNING GAMES

New System Of Marking Reports is Installed In School

OTHER NOTES OF INTEREST

Our baseball team seems to have reached a good stride as they have won at present five of their six games played, giving them a percentage of .833. They play Corwith again on Friday evening of this week at Corwith and hope to avenge their defeat suffered here a few weeks ago.

Next week they play Swaledale at Swaledale. Swaledale is said to have a splendid team. If weather and the roads are favorable they will play us a return game here on Oct. 30.

The Superintendent will attend on Thursday evening of this week a meeting of the Hancock County School Masters' Club at Britt. The object of the meeting is to talk over plans and work toward securing a school nurse for the graded and high schools of the county.

Society is waking up to the fact that health of children must be given adequate attention in order to avoid future lossess. Many children, it has been discovered, have physical defects, that if found out, can be much more easily and quickly corrected during childhood than by wait ing until maturity. Besides school work can be better done and doctor bills saved that would follow if the weakness were allowed to continue uncorrected. We hope the plan meets with approval on the part of parents and the Board of Klemme.

This week parents will receive on Wednesday evening a report of the work done by each pupil the first period of six weeks just concluded They are urged to look over the letters awarded and assist, whenever assisstance seems necessary, in getting more and better work done. Some are doing unsatisfactory work and for various reasons. Sometime it is because the child is not well. Eye strain, adenoids, diseased tonsils, or other physical defects may be the hindrance. In some cases there may be lack of sleep. In others a lack of application or work necessary to achieve the desired results. In some others there may be simply a lack of ability. Whatever the hindrance may be we would like to confer at any time with those who are not satisfied with their children's progress. We are very anxious that every pupil make good and we stand ready to do whatever is humanly possible to help them succeed.

We are making a change in the grading system this year and instead of numbers representing percentages we are using letters to indicate the ranking of each pupil with respect to others in the class. Pupils vary in accomplishment from unsatisfactory work or failing work to superior work, or a quality of work far above the average. Most of them do average work while some do slightly better than average and others slightly below average work. These letters will be found on the back of each report card with their respective meanings and if pupils have E's and F's to their credit and parents can stimulate greater effort they had better do so. E. means that failing work has been done in a given subject and unless improvement is shown the subject or grade may need to be repeated. F. means that wholly unacceptable work has been done and that a very great improvement must take place or the subject, if in the high school, be dropped.

Both E. and F. represent a serious condition and will mean failure unless a change takes place in the quality of work done in the future. Repeating work by some pupils seems to be necessary at times but it is costly to both parents and the community, and should be avoided when ever it is possible to do it.

The Parent-Teacher Association of Klemme gave their first program a few evenings ago and at their business session elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

For President, Mr. J. J. Poort.
For Vice-Pres., Mrs. A. D. Gimer.
For Sec., Miss Pauline Stoner.
For Treas., Mrs. C. G. Waterman.

The following have been appointed members of the Program Committee, Miss Abel, Mrs. A. G. Koerner, and Mrs. A. W. Gauger.

Mrs. Frank Kluckhohn has been appointed to look after refreshments.

We believe these folks will be able to render the Association excellent service and feel certain that all will give them good support in their work. We hope to have one of the best P. T. A.'s in northern Iowa. The next program will be announced in due time.

THREE DAY OPEN SEASON HERE PHEASANTS BEGINS OCT. 20

TO THE CREDITORS OF THE STATE SAVINGS BANK OF KLEMME, IOWA

You and each of you are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, a report and application of L. A. Andrew, Receiver of the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa, as to the classification of claims with said Receiver.

You are further notified that the District Court of Hancock County, did on the 3rd day of October, A. D. 1925 make an order in the cause entitled L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of the State of Iowa, vs. State Savings Bank of Klemme, that the hearing on said classification as set out in report and application above mentioned has been set for the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1925, at the Court House in the City of Garner, Iowa, at which time and place you may appear and show cause if any you have, why this report and application should not be approved in all particulars.

For further particulars and more specific notice of the contents of said report and application see the same now on file as aforesaid.

You are further notified that unless you appear thereto and defend prior to 10 o'clock A. M. on the said 17th day of November, A. D. 1925, said report and application will be granted and said claims allowed as set forth herein.

L. A. ANDREW, Receiver of the State Savings Bank,
Klemme, Iowa.
Wichman & Hastings
Attorneys for Receiver.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

We hope that the first Sunday of the new conference year was indicative of the year's work. The attendance measured up well and the fine spirit was heartening.

We wish to mention the fine duet sung by Prof. Penrod and Miss Abel. It was greatly enjoyed. We hope to be favored again by their singing.

The orchestra music furnished by Messrs. Poort, Waterman, Turgason and Gary, accompanied by Miss Mildred Johnson, was likewise enjoyed very much.

We will be favored again next Sunday, so come and enjoy the service with us.

All services will be held per schedule on the coming Sabbath. This applies to the services in Liberty church as well.

The Ladies of the Ladies Aid Society will hold a Bake Sale on Saturday afternoon of this week at the John Day store. This will give you an opportunity to buy your baked goods for the week end. Be sure to come early to be in on this.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank all those who assisted us in any way during our recent bereavement, for the kind acts and words of sympathy in our sorrow and for the beautiful floral offerings, and extending our thanks to those who sang at the services.

Valentine Josten and children.

CASEY BLANK MARRIED

As we go to press we learn of the marriage of Casey Blank, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blank of this city.

Casey Blank and Miss Lucille Miller, a young lady of Goodell, were married yesterday afternoon at Garner, Rev. C. H. Van Metre officiating.

The happy couple will live at Dysart, Iowa, where Mr. Blank is depot agent for the Rock Island.

The Times joins with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Casey Blank in extending best wishes for a long, happy married life.

OPEN SEASON ON PHEASANTS FOR THREE DAYS

Limit Of Three Male Birds A Day, Season Opens Next Tuesday

State Game Warden W. E. Albert has declared an open season on pheasants in a number of northern Iowa counties for three days, commencing Tuesday, October 20 at daybreak. It is the first open season hunters have had on pheasants in Iowa since they were imported several years ago.

Under the new law passed by the legislature last winter, the state game warden can declare an open season on pheasants when petitioned by 150 land owners or farmers in the respective counties.

Some of the counties included in the open area are Hancock, Cerro Gordo, Butler, Bremer, Winnebago, Mitchell Franklin, Kossuth, Floyd, Grundy and Black Hawk, according to news dispatches.

The season will last only three days. It will be confined to ring neck pheasant cocks and the daily limit will be three birds to each person. The season will open and close in all counties on the same day.

COUNTY SCHOOLS GET STATE AID

MORE THAN $600 RECEIVED FOR AID OF RURAL SCHOOLS IN HANCOCK COUNTY

State Money Is Destributed Only To Standardized Schools

County Supt. J. R. Baggs has received warrants totalling $614.02 from the State Department of Public Instruction for distribution among the standardized schools of Hancock county.

There are nine schools in this county which have met the requirements in the standardized class. To be in the standardized class a school must have a complete set of buildings, must have a teacher who is fully qualified, and must come up to the standards laid down by the state department. The Hancock county schools which have reached this standard and are receiving aid from the state are:

Ell No. 4, Amelia Huenemann, teacher. Received from state aid $62.23.

Ellington No. 6, Mabel Larson, teacher, $62.23.

Garfield No. 1, Edith Casperson, teacher, $70.53.

Garfield No. 6, Mrs. Fern Katter, teacher, $78.83.

Garfield No. 9, Mrs. Eleanor Truitt teacher, $66.38.

Liberty No. 9, Dalia Stromer, teacher, $78.83.

Magor No. 1, May Graeber, teacher, $62.23.

Twin Lake No. 2, R. F. Kerman, teacher, $62.23.

Twin Lake No. 5, Nora Eliason, teacher, $70.53.

The apportionment of the state aid is made according to the daily average attendance in each standard school during the preceding school year.

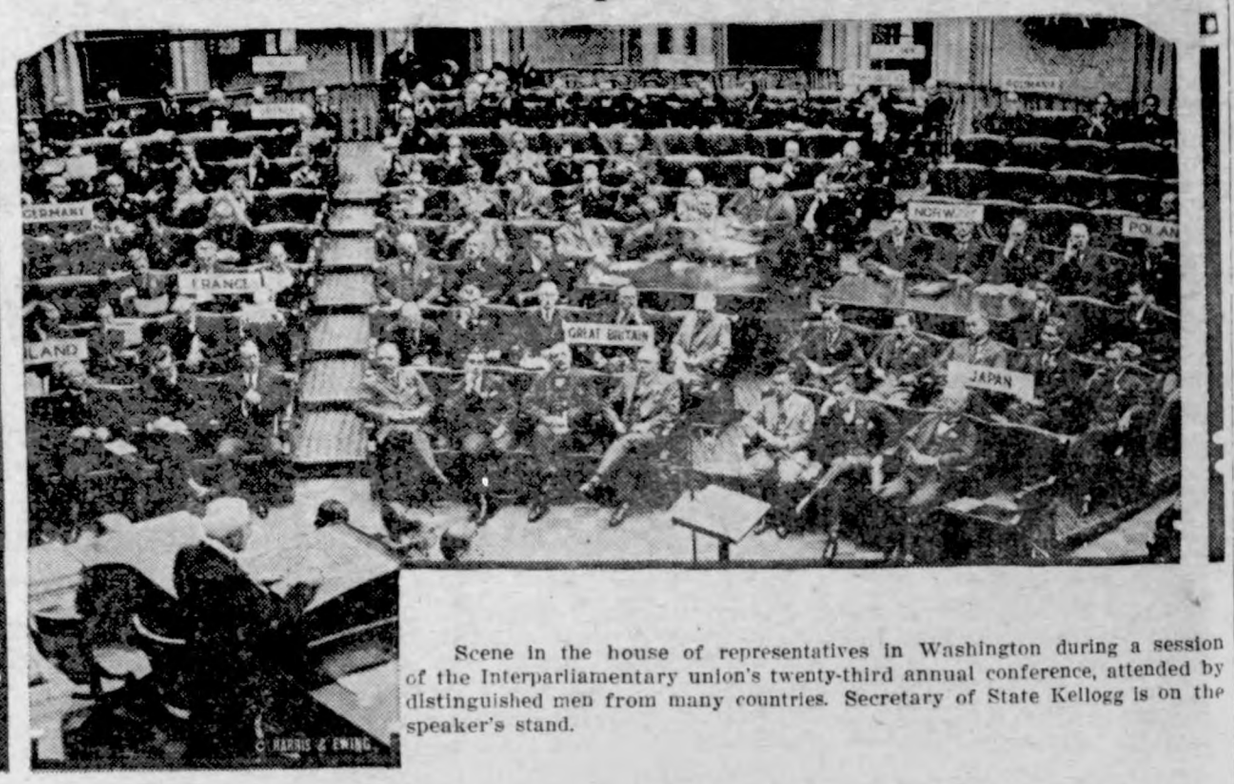
The money for distribution among the standardized schools of the state is the remainder of the state school fund after all expenses have been taken out.

Corn Husking Begins Here

We have noticed a number of farmers in this vicinity who have begun husking corn within the past few days.

We expect that before the week is over that husking will become a general thing. The corn is in fine shape this year.

Session of the Interparliamentary Union



Scene in the house of representatives in Washington during a session of the Interparliamentary union's twenty-third annual conference, attended by distinguished men from many countries. Secretary of State Kellogg is on the speaker's stand.

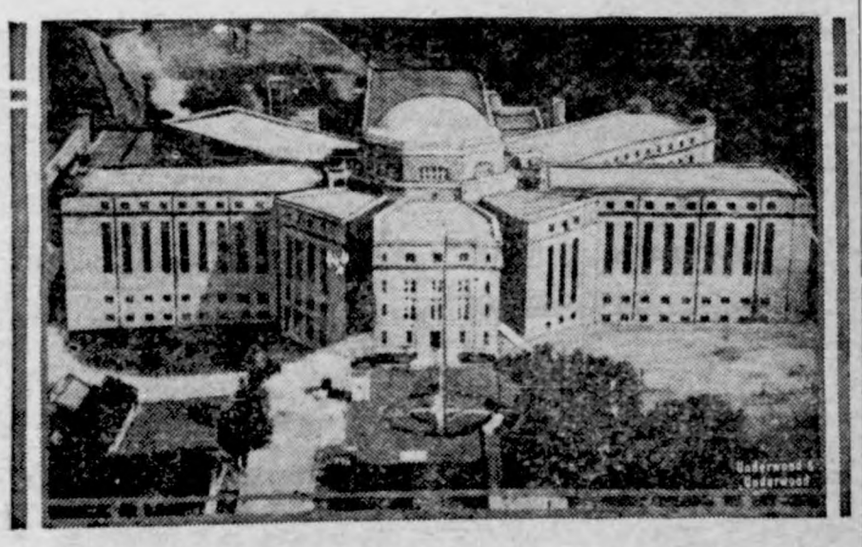
Wall Street "Attacked" From the Air and Defended

There was great excitement in lower Manhattan the other day when the army staged a mimic airplane attack on Wall street, with antiaircraft guns defending. When the bombs began falling someone turned in a fire alarm and the soldiers, firemen, police and curious crowds of spectators were all tangled up.

Helps "Archies" Find the Target

Officers looking at the belemeter, the newest device aiding anti-aircraft guns to locate the target and helping to obtain the slant range for the guns. This and other new devices were demonstrated at the seventh annual meeting of the Army Ordnance association, and other organizations interested in ordnance and defense.

Quick Transmission of Photograph



The army demonstrated the other day that the transmission of photographs by wire during a war emergency can be accomplished with most gratifying results as to both speed and accuracy. An airplane flying over the disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., took this air view of the building and developed the negative and dropped it from the plane in a miniature parachute in seven minutes. It was handed the American Telegraph and Telephone company at 5½ minutes after 10 o'clock and a negative and prints were delivered to a representative of Underwood & Underwood in Chicago at 18 minutes and 40 seconds after 10—a total elapsed time of 13 minutes and 10 seconds.

WILL WED MILLIONS

Latest portrait of Prince Nicolas of Rumania, son of Queen Mary, who is to be married in the near future to the eighteen-year-old countess of Seafield, youngest and wealthiest heiress known. She inherits over $30,000,000 from a New Zealand relative, and has in hand the vast estates of her late father since his death at the battle front. Prince Nicolas is an upright young man, English-trained, as he studied at Eton, adopting all British ways, and is now a sublieutenant on a British warship in the Mediterranean.

LEADS AUTO THIEVES

Mrs. Velma Tilpitt, twenty-nine, of Dodge City, Kan., arrested in Los Angeles for stealing an automobile, boasted that she was the leader of a a gang that had stolen at least 250 cars.

CHICAGO GRAIN PIT BOWS TO U. S. DECREE

Limit Is Placed on Markets' Fluctuation—Reform Rules Adopted.

Chicago.—Warned twice by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, the last time less than two weeks ago, that its long-promised housecleaning would have to begin immediately, the Chicago Board of Trade adopted stringent rules to prevent market manipulation and other practices complained of.

One of the new regulations places in the hands of the directors of the board almost complete control of the market during wild price swings. On ten-hours' notice, without appeal to the members as a whole, the directors may place an arbitrary limit on price fluctuations. Thereafter they may prohibit trading during any day at prices above or below a certain percentage of the closing price the night before.

To declare such an emergency, twelve directors must be present and two-thirds must vote in the affirmative. Heavy penalties are provided for violators of this rule.

A second rule provides for creation of a business conduct committee of five members, who will have full power to regulate the ethics of trading and to protect interests of the public.

Under the third new rule, the 600 out-of-town members of the board are allowed to vote by mail. The first and second rules were passed by a vote of nearly 5 to 1; the third by 2 to 1.

It is believed that other grain exchanges will adopt similar revisions. Minneapolis approved almost the identical set of rules. The belief is general that the changes will end the war between grain exchanges and farmers' organizations, which began with post-war deflation in the prices of agricultural products. The government will keep close watch on the board.

Worthington, Con Man, to Prison on Stretcher

Chicago.—John W. Worthington, the "Wolf of La Salle Street," is now in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. His plea for a stay so that he might die in Chicago having been denied by the Federal courts, Worthington left the Dearborn street station on the Dixie Flyer. He was carried into court on a stretcher.

In a pullman drawing room with him were Deputy United States Marshal Andrew Jostock and Dr. Edward I. Sloan, the government physician who had pronounced him able to stand the trip to Atlanta. The Wolf had finished the task he came to Chicago to perform, that of making a will to dispose of his fortune, estimated at $2,000,000, he said. Most of his fortune will go to his two daughters.

Eighteen Killed, 40 Hurt in Rioting at Florence

Paris.—L'Humanite says 18 persons were killed and 40 wounded in the Florence rioting.

Following the killing of one of their leaders, Fascisti started a reign of terror against Free Masons of Florence.

The London Daily Express says the Fascist reprisals in Florence for the assassination, October 3, of Cavalier Luperini, a member of the Fascist party directorate, included the killing of a number of anti-Fascists and the former Socialist deputy, Pilati.

$30,000,000 Coal Merger Announced at Nashville

Nashville, Tenn.—A merger of coal, gas and coke companies, involving properties worth about $30,000,000 and backed by large capital interests of Chicago, New York and various eastern cities was announced by the Bon Air Coal and Iron corporation.

By the merger the Bon Air corporation takes over the properties of the Tennessee Consolidated Coal company and the Chattanooga Gas and Coke company. The sale of the Chattanooga Gas and Coke company is subject to ratification by the stockholders.

Bishop's Conviction of Heresy Upheld by Court

New Orleans.—The house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States of America approved the finding of a court convicting Bishop William Montgomery Brown of heresy. Bishop Brown addressed the house of bishops on his case. The vote was 95 to 11.

Eighteen Indiana Aliens in Prison to Be Deported

Gary, Ind.—Eighteen Lake county aliens, confined in Indiana prison, are to be paroled by Governor Jackson and turned over to the immigration authorities for immediate deportation. Twelve others, from other parts of the state, will be affected by the governor's move to rid the state of undesirable aliens.

Bandits Miss $2,000,000

Los Angeles.—A band of robbers which held up a mail truck here and escaped with six pouches of registered mail allowed a mail truck to pass which was carrying $2,000,000 in bonds and securities.

May Eliminate President

Buenos Aires.—The proposal to eliminate the presidential office, which is only ornamental, is gaining headway in Uruguay, according to the newspaper Telegrafo.

NORSE PRINCE TO WED

Recent and excellent portrait of Prince Olaf of Norway, whose engagement to a Swedish princess is rumored. He is heir apparent to the throne of Norway.

"GO-GET-'EM" M'QUIGG NEW LEGION HEAD

To Meet in Philadelphia in 1926 and Paris in 1927.

Omaha, Neb.—American Legion's seventh annual convention ended with the elevation of John R. (Go-Get-'em) McQuigg of East Cleveland, Ohio, fifty-nine-year-old lawyer and banker and wounded over-seas engineer officer, to the honor of national commander. Commander McQuigg also served in the Spanish-American war and on the border.

Most of the reports and resolutions adopted had to do with services for World war veterans or interests peculiar to the Legion. One, however, sought to have the Legion go on record as favoring United States adherence to the policy of the World court of the League of Nations, but was amended so as to favor adherence to a court of international justice.

The next meeting will be held in Philadelphia in 1926, and that of 1927 was awarded to Paris, France.

The Rev. William Patric of San Francisco was elected national chaplain. A sister of the late Jack London was chosen to head the Women's auxiliary of the American Legion. She is Mrs. Eliza London Shepherd of San Francisco.

Racing Plane Falls at New York Meet; 1 Killed

New York.—A perfect opening for the New York air races at Mitchel field, L. I., with the largest assembly of military and civilian planes ever brought together in this country, was marred by a crash in the first race which killed one man and badly injured another.

The Ballanca plane, piloted by Clarence D. Chamberlain in the contest for civilian machines, fell in Hempstead, badly injuring him and instantly killing Lawrence Burnelli, his passenger.

The race in which Burnelli was killed was won by Basil Rowe in a Thomas Morse with a speed of 102.9 miles an hour.

Christy Mathewson, Idol of Baseball Fans, Is Dead

Saranac Lake, N. Y. — Christy Mathewson is dead.

Baseball's "Big Six" lost his fight against tuberculosis.

More than five years ago the great pitcher, loved and honored wherever the game is played, began what was to be a losing struggle. Gassed in the World war in France, where he served with distinction, Mathewson returned from overseas to coach with the Giants, the club with which he won his fame, but the illness which was finally to take his life forced him to retire for recuperation in 1920.

Noel, Confessed Kidnaper, to Be Tried for Murder

Newark, N. J.—Harrison W. Noel, confessed kidnaper and slayer of six-year-old Mary Daly of Montclair, N. J., and murderer of Raymond Pierce, negro taxi driver, whose car he used in kidnaping the child, is sane, and must stand trial on a charge of murder in the first degree for the killing of Pierce. Judge Edwin O. Caffrey, in the Court of Common Pleas, made the ruling.

Loses Eye in Operation

Tarrytown, N. Y.—Mrs. Katherine Blake, widow of Dr. Joseph A. Blake, the famous surgeon, and former wife of Clarence Mackay, has lost her right eye in an operation for a tumor, it was learned.

New Polish Envoy Named

Warsaw, Poland.—The cabinet approved the appointment of John Ciechanowski as Polish minister to the United States to succeed M. Wroblewski, resigned.

From School Teacher to Great Eminence

A young man who was brought up on a farm, qualified for district school teacher, then managed to save enough money to put him thru medical college.

Later, he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and today the name of this man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known blood medicine and tonic. More than fifty million bottles have been sold. If your dealer does not sell the Discovery, in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a pkg. of the tablets by sending 65c to the Dr. Pierce Clinic, in Buffalo, N. Y.

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER COMPOUND

Keep your horses working with "SPOHN'S." Standard remedy for 32 years for Distemper, Strangles, Influenza, Coughs and Colds. Give to sick and those exposed. Give "SPOHN'S" for Dog Distemper. Sold by your druggist. If not, order from us. Small bottle 60 cents, large $1.20. Write for free booklet on diseases.
SPOHN MEDICAL CO. Dept. GOSHEN, IND.

For Pimply Skin
Peterson's Ointment

"All pimples are inflammation of the skin," says Peterson, "and the best and quickest way to get rid of them is to use Peterson's ointment." Used by millions for eczema, skin and scalp itch, ulcers, sore feet and piles. At druggists, 60 cents

Element of Pure Value

Doubtless there is in every art an element of mere knowledge . . . and that element is progressive. But there is another element, too, which does not depend on knowledge, and which does not progress, but has a kind of stationary and eternal value like the beauty of the dawn, or the love of a mother for a child, or the joy of a young animal in being alive, or the courage of a martyr facing torment. We cannot for all our progress get beyond these things; there they stand, like light upon the mountains. The only question is whether we can rise to them.—Sir Gilbert Murray, in "The Legacy of Greece."

There were 14,000 houses in Reims, France, in August, 1914; at the end of November, 1918, only 14 were not struck by German shells.

A golden plover on the Pacific coast flies 2,000 miles from Alaska to the Hawaiian Islands.

Sure Relief

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief
BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION
25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL

Quick Safe Relief

CORNS

In one minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns. At drug and shoe stores.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on - the pain is gone

Harmless, purely vegetable, Infants' and Children's Regulator, formula on every label. Guaranteed non-narcotic, non-alcoholic.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator

Children grow healthy and free from colic, diarrhoea, flatulency, constipation and other trouble if given it at teething time.
Safe, pleasant—always brings remarkable and gratifying results.
At All Druggists

Boschee's Syrup for Coughs and Lung Trouble
Successful for 89 years
30c and 90c bottles
ALL DRUGGISTS

Get Acquainted With Little Polly

A friend of America's Housewives since 1896—29 years of constant demand that must be merited.

Only superior selected broom corn is used in making the Little Polly broom.

They sweep easily—never tire you out.

At All Good Grocers

Harrah & Stewart Broom Mfg. Co.
Des Moines, Ia.

Magnanimous

Owner—Didn't you promise me to win this race?

Jockey—Yes.

Owner—And didn't I promise to fire you if you failed?

Jockey—Yes, but as I broke my promise, I won't hold you to yours.

COLOR IT NEW WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye.

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or true rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

A Nice Distinction

"I am speaking the truth, not facts," said a witness in an English court.—Boston Transcript.

Mother! Don't "Physic" a Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all the children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 50-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Phones in Esthonia

Reval, Esthonia, is gradually adopting the telephone, 600 instruments having been installed in the last year, and a modern exchange with 10,000 lines will soon be installed at a cost of $460,000.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Feel Young~

Take care of your stomach and preserve your health.

HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters tone up the digestive organs, stimulate the appetite and promote a feeling of physical fitness. At all Druggists.

The Hostetter Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

PRUDENCE'S DAUGHTER

By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.
W. N. U. SERVICE

THE MODERN GIRL

This is a story of love and heart interest without a villain in it, a story of everyday people, their problems and joys; a story of delicious humor, of cheerfulness and optimism without a Pollyanna character. The stories of Ethel Hueston are immensely popular. Her Prudence, in "Prudence of the Parsonage," "Prudence Says So" and "Prudence's Sisters," has become one of the famous girls of fiction. But Prudence is no longer a girl. She now has a grown daughter and this latest book in the series is mostly about her, although Prudence still figures in it as joyously and as charmingly as of yore. This daughter is a modern girl, typical of the times and like so many girls of today engaged in a search for what she calls freedom, soul expression, etc. The story opens in Greenwich Village, with its picturesque and hectic life. Then the heroine, having learned several things about life, goes back to Des Moines. Yet true love seems to be the same—whether in Greenwich Village or Des Moines.

Part One

CHAPTER I

—1—

Jerry Was Not Deceived

It was lacking but twenty minutes of midnight. At the top of four staggeringly steep flights of dusty stairs the studio apartment of Carter Blake was ringing with unaccustomed blaze and blare of wild hilarity, supplanting the dull drab of steady slavery at the easel for the first time in nearly two years.

At twenty minutes to twelve the gayety was at its height.

On a stool in the center of the room a small phonograph shrilled out the melody of the latest tango, and three couples danced intermittently about it, stopping at will to light a cigarette, to drain a glass from the tray on the table, or to join for a moment in the conversation that went on among the others scattered about the room.

Among the cushions on the wide couch, her feet crossed beneath her, in a startling gown of orange and black, a girl with vividly reddened hair, with crimson cheeks and impeccably painted lips, leaned drowsily against the shoulder of Korzky, the young Russian sculptor, her slender profile lifted to his face. In her slim, nervous fingers was a cigarette, which she held first to his lips, then to her own, with easy impartiality.

In the window-seat, alone, strumming soft southern melodies on a banjo, in discordant defiance of the blatant jazz, half reclining upon the cushions, lay Mary Donya, a glass on the window sill at her side, a cigarette dropping futilely away to ashes in a tray, while Aimee Glorian perched like a pretty, angelic imp on the heavy, old-fashioned table against the wall, her fair face seraphic in its gentle sweetness, swaying to the rhythmic motion of the cocktail shaker, of which she had proclaimed herself officiating goddess.

At twenty minutes to midnight, a yellow taxi stopped before the entrance, four flights below, and Rhoda La Faye, in a golden cloak, her golden hair an aureole in the reflection of the bright street-lights, sprang out at the instant of its stopping, her sharp eyes on the registering meter as she said:

"One seventy! Right!"

She hurriedly pressed two one-dollar bills into the hand of the driver.

"Come, Jerry!" she cried, with the quickness that characterized her every word and motion, and thrust out a nervous, hurrying hand from the folds of her cloak. Fairy Geraldine Harmer clasped it eagerly, almost shyly, as she followed breathlessly up the four long flights of stairs to Carter Blake's studio on the top floor.

Rhoda lifted the knocker, let it fall heavily, and, waiting for no response, opened the door and ran in, drawing Jerry with her. They were greeted with a burst of merry laughter, noisy welcome. Bertrande Rochester, abandoning the discussion before the picture, joined them immediately, catching Rhoda about the waist with a deft arm, and whirling her unceremoniously into the dance around the phonograph.

For a moment Jerry stood alone, slender and lovely, with glowing, questioning eyes, and quickening pulses.

"It's Jerry!—Jerry Harmer!" Rhoda tossed lightly over her shoulder, interrupted in what she would say by Bertrande Rochester, who kissed her as they danced. "Awfully nice little kid!—From Iowa!—We went to school together—until I got fired!"

Aimee Glorian, of the angelic sweetness, slipped at once from the table, and drew away Jerry's cloak, which she piled with the others on a chest near the door.

"What will you have?" She turned hospitably to the table, with its brave display of bottles and glasses—a nondescript lot, those last, of every conceivable size and shape, and including three cracked teacups. "These are orange blossoms—I am making them for myself, I can't stand Scotch—plenty for you, too, if you like. Duane Allerton is mixing highballs in the kitchen. And there's apricot brandy with cream if you want to start easy. Duane, bring the highballs, the girls are here!" she called, prettily imperative. Then to Jerry again, "You'd better stick to orange blossoms with me—three parts gin to a whiff of orange—and you can love your wickedest enemy. Carter Blake has gone down for champagne. He'll be back in a minute. What—"

"I—I hardly know." Jerry flushed, stammered a little, in some confusion.

Aimee swept her a quick, appraising look, and smiled in friendly fashion.

"I see," she said. "You want apricot brandy with cream, and mostly cream, don't you?"

"Who called for a highball?"

Duane Allerton came in from the kitchen, laughing, his cuffs pushed high, a bottle in one hand, a medicine glass in the other. "Mixed, or straight?"

Aimee laughed softly, slipping her hand cozily into the curve of Jerry's pretty, bare, white arm.

"Brandy, weak, oh, awfully weak," she told him. "She hadn't registered when I called you. This is Rhoda La Faye's little protegee from the Middle West—Jerry Harmer. Isn't she beautiful, Duane? Miss Harmer, this is Duane Allerton. He's nice enough, but stupid. He's in business, isn't that disgusting? Duane, since Francy isn't here tonight, why don't you take Jerry under your wing and make a little love to her? You're so good at love-making. Like his looks, Jerry? Don't be bashful. If you see anyone you like better, just say so. You're company, so you can take your choice."

"Oh, no—really—I think—"

"Well, I think myself you're getting the pick of the party," Aimee agreed

He Put His Arm About Her and They Danced Twice Across the Room.

pleasantly. "Try him out, anyhow. If you don't like his method, bring him back and I'll give you Billy Sparr. And welcome. He does nothing but stand over there and measure chins and ankles with a pencil. Now show her a good time, Duaney. Give her brandy, and keep it weak. She hasn't the slightest rudiments of a real thirst."

Aimee touched Duane's arm warningly, caressed Jerry with a light, fleeting gesture, and turned away to reach for a cigarette.

Jerry lifted her blue, bright, happy eyes and looked at Duane Allerton. With that look, she forgot the great smoke-clouded room. She forgot the strange effrontery and the flagrant intimacy of the looks, the words, the attitudes, of those about her. She gazed into Duane Allerton's eyes, and a great happiness swelled in her gentle breast.

He took her hands, both hands, smiled at her, seeming in that smile to draw her physically, intimately, into the affectionate warmth of his charming camaraderie.

"You beautiful thing!" he whispered.

Jerry's heart sang within her.

He put his arm about her, and they danced twice across the room. Not one word could Jerry speak. Twice she lifted her dark misty lashes, and lowered them quickly, thrilled with the breathless pleasure she felt in his touch, in the light of his eyes intent on her lovely face.

As they came up to the door on the third round, he guided her neatly into the small kitchen—a scant and impoverished relation to the kitchens Jerry had known—and came to a stop before the bottles on the rickety table.

"You can't have a real good time when you are thirsty. Aimee said apricot brandy—it's trash. It takes hours to get happy on it—and then you're not. I know what you want."

He filled a small glass for her, a large coffee cup for himself. Jerry sipped at it daintily, not liking it, barely able to repress a shudder of distaste. But under the warmth of his eyes she steeled herself to Spartan resolution, and drained it to the last drop. And rejoiced that she did so, because he smiled at her gladly, as he tossed off his own.

He put the glasses back on the table again, took her hands in his and glowed upon her.

"You are beautiful, you are perfectly beautiful," he said. His voice was low-pitched, caressing, his eyes very direct and very earnest. He lit a cigarette and gave it to Jerry, lit another for himself.

Jerry had smoked before, in college—for fun—with the girls of her sorority, behind stuffed keyholes and carefully blanketed windows. That was mischief. This was another matter. But she took the cigarette when he gave it, tugged at it determinedly but with distaste, and was ashamed because she got smoke in her eyes, and because bits of tobacco came out between her lips.

She wished he had not thought of smoking. It seemed such idle waste to use those tender fingers of his for holding cigarettes. She liked that intimate, boyish way he had of catching her hands in both of his when he said: "You beautiful thing."

"Is—is it your studio?" she asked, suddenly embarrassed because she said nothing.

"Your voice is just like music," he told her, and the earnestness of his voice was almost like a sadness. But he smiled immediately. "Lord, no! I wouldn't have it. Looks like a barn to me. I hardly know the chap. Some artist. Carter Blake his name is—nice fellow, he seems, too. They just asked me to come along, and so I did."

"You seem so much at home—the way you go from room to room—I thought perhaps you lived here."

Duane smiled his pleasure. He liked that type. Ingenuous, artless—he knew what unerring pains, what constant alertness, it entailed for a girl to retain that pretty assumption of artless innocence. He admired one who could do it, one who would take the trouble. It was the type that most intrigued him.

"You are adorable," he said, and then, smiling, his arm about her, he drew her into the dance once more and back into the studio.

In the doorway they encountered Carter Blake, hatless, his bottle of champagne wrapped in a handkerchief, just coming back.

"Come on, quick," he called to them, without waiting for introduction. "You're the girl from Iowa, aren't you? We want you to launch the contract. Here's the champagne. It'll be midnight in a minute."

The phonograph was turned off, and the others straggled over toward the easel in the corner. Carter Blake pulled it about until it faced them and they saw a printed contract securely fastened upon it with brass thumbtacks. The girls ran quickly about the studio to fetch the flowers from every vase and jar, piling them in a rosy heap beneath the precious bit of paper on the easel.

"To launch the contract?" Jerry was greatly puzzled.

"It's his five-year contract with International," explained Aimee, who stood near her. "Picture a month for five years! That's what the party is for, you know, to celebrate the contract. They only signed this morning."

They pressed more closely about the easel, Jerry standing out before them all, the bottle of champagne in her hand.

"Now, just a minute," Carter Blake ordered briskly. "I'll fire the revolver on the stroke of twelve. Then you souse the contract—"

"Souse it?" Jerry was deeply anxious, not understanding.

"For luck. Didn't you ever see a ship launched? It's a contract party, as I told you," explained Rhoda. "How is she to smash the bottle, Carter?"

Some one hastily brought an electric iron from the kitchen, and Duane held it for her.

He smiled at her anxious uncertainty. "Be careful! Hold the bottle away from you when you break the neck off; don't soil your gown! Then just throw it over the contract."

"Be ready now," cautioned Carter. "It lacks but a minute."

The clock on the mantel chimed the hour, and on the last stroke, Carter fired his revolver into the air.

"Quick," whispered Duane in her ear.

With a strong sure blow, Jerry struck the neck from the bottle and flung a stream of the golden fragrant liquor over the contract on the easel.

The others applauded gayly, clapping their hands, crowding about Carter to shake his hand in congratulation. The girls kissed him, many times, telling him how wonderful it was, and how happy they were.

When Jerry was drawn up to him in the pressure about her, "Oh, it is just wonderful," she breathed ecstatically, still but half comprehending what it was all about. But because the others did, and because he seemed to expect it, and Jerry would not for the world have hurt his feelings, she kissed him, too.

Carter Blake, seeing her in that moment for the first time, amazed and delighted with her loveliness, put both arms about her and kissed her again and again, until Duane pulled him away, reminding him that he had signed but one contract and was taking the privileges of a score!

Then they had supper, a generous, conglomerate supper, erratic in its variety, sandwiches, Russian soups, strange things en casserole, quaint foreign pastries, Italian ices, and cheeses from every land. Duane and Jerry sat together, very close, very quiet, in the wide window-seat, looking out over the East river to the misty midnight towers of New York on the other side. The others talked of art, of colors, schools and contracts. But Jerry and Duane in the window heard not a word that was spoken, and hardly talked at all.

It cut into a particularly long and sober silence between them when she said, "Are you an artist?"

Duane laughed. "Oh, Lord, no. I'm on Wall Street. And heaven knows it's where I should be any place but! They're fleecing me right and left."

"Who are?" Jerry was almost resentful in his behalf.

"Heaven knows. Somebody. At least it would seem so. I'm getting the ragged edge of it on all ends. I'm not slick enough. I never catch on to what's going on until it's gone. And then it's too late. Don't make me talk about business. I'd rather go on thinking how beautiful you are,"

After a while someone started the phonograph once more and they danced. And he took her again to the kitchen, where she had a tiny highball, which she merely touched to her lips, and he had a very large one, and another, and then another. And finally, laughing at what he called her intemperate temperance, he drained her glass as well.

They were a long time in the kitchen, laughing for no apparent reason, looking at each other deeply, with pleased and intimate understanding, while Duane drank and smoked. When they went back to the studio, the lights were dimmer, the music softer, the voices more subdued.

Aimee, with the face of angel sweetness, dancing by the door as they came in, released the tip of the bearded man's lips from between her lips to call to them:

"Do you like him, Jerry? Pretty well satisfied?"

And Rhoda paused in the midst of a particularly daring rendition of the tango to wave a friendly hand to her.

Jerry flushed deeply, with the unconscious, instinctive recoil of her innocence and her inexperience. Her eyes clouded a little. But she smiled forgivingly.

"Rhoda's really a very nice girl," she said apologetically to Duane. "They are all nice, of course, I know they are. But I have known Rhoda a long time, and she is quite—or, really, she is quite proper. Of course, Iowa would be shocked!"

Duane drew her closer in his arm, so that her breath, with the slight scent of her first highball, touched his face. He did not leave her. The others came and went at will, flirted here, and loitered there, but Duane held his place at Jerry's side, kept her slender hands within his hands, touched the velvety folds of the seductive gown with tender fingers. And Jerry remained blind to the careless familiarity of it all, deaf to its blatant noise, seeing his warm eyes alone, hearing only his gentle voice, feeling but the caressiveness of his wandering touch.

It looks as if Jerry from Iowa had plunged into troubled waters. Is she a strong swimmer?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Earliest Book Plates

It probably was because books were so few and precious in that early dawn of bookmaking and printing and illustrating that the first book plates were not as book plates are today. A king or queen or lord or lady did not have printed a mere tag, reading: "This book belongs to Beatrice Aragon." Instead, Beatrice of Aragon, for her book plate, had her picture together with the picture of her husband, Matthias I. Cornius, king of Hungary 1443-90, at the foot of page two in their joint book. "De Spiritu Sanctu," written by Sigismundus de Sigismundus and illuminated by Attavante deli Attavanti.

All in all, those early days of books had much in their favor. You didn't have to worry much about borrowed volumes. You had no worries, either, about sectional bookcases. Your one volume was per se a first edition.

Pertaining to Ages

A century begins with the beginning of the first day in its first year, and does not end until the close of the last day in its hundredth year. The mode of reckoning is often confused with the common mode of stating the age of a person. A person born at the beginning of the Christian era would be called one year old during his second year, that is during the course of the year two; he would be called two during the year three; and forty during the year forty-one, etc.

Why That Bad Back?

Is backache keeping you upset? Feel all tired out—so nervous and dispirited you can hardly keep going? Then look to your kidneys! Your kidneys rid the body of poisonous waste. But if they lag, impurities accumulate and poison the whole system. Then one is apt to suffer backache, stabbing pains, headaches, dizziness and other annoying kidney irregularities. If your kidneys are sluggish, help them with a diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. They are praised the world over. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

Mrs. John Anderson, 513 Third Ave., N. E., Independence, Iowa, says: "My kidneys were weak and I had attacks of backache. My work tired me mornings. Headaches were frequent and I felt dizzy and my kidneys acted too often. I used Doan's Pills and my back was soon strengthened and my kidneys didn't trouble me."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Record of Ste. Lucy Old in Church Annals

Ste. Lucy was a native of Syracuse and sought in marriage by a young nobleman of that city. She, however, had decided to devote her life to God and refused him.

Enraged, he accused her to the governor of professing Christian doctrines, and she was prosecuted. A curious legend regarding Ste. Lucy is that her lover complaining that her eyes haunted him day and night, she cut them out of her head and sent them to him, begging him to leave her to her devotions. It is added that heaven, to reward her, gave her new eyes more beautiful than ever.

She is generally represented bearing a platter on which are two eyes, and her intercession is frequently sought by those suffering with eye troubles.—Chicago Journal.

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Take Tablets Without Fear If You See the Safety "Bayer Cross."

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Ancients Were Advertisers

In ancient Greece certain spaces on the outer walls of homes were used for advertising purposes, either to offer real estate or homemade articles for sale or to designate a place of residence or barter. In Pompeii, when it was uncovered, many such walls were found and Roman ruins revealed that real estate especially was offered in that way. The first newspaper advertisement did not actually appear until about 1647, it is said. The cost was about $1 for 2 inches per person reached. In big dailies now the cost is about 1 cent per page per home reached.

Cuticura Soothes Itching Scalp.

On retiring gently rub spots of dandruff and itching with Cuticura Ointment. Next morning shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Make them your everyday toilet preparations and have a clear skin and soft, white hands.—Advertisement.

Telephones in China

If China had as many telephones per capita as the United States, the number would total 100,000,000. As it is she has but 75,000 against our 25,000,000.

Heroes did not make our liberties; they but reflected and illustrated them.—James A. Garfield.

DON'T BROOD OVER STOMACH DISTRESS

Don't lay awake nights and feel miserable all day—there's one right way to fix up your gassy, rebellious disordered stomach in such a short time that your heart will be gladdened.

Today Dare's Mentha Pepsin is the one remedy supremely efficient where acute or chronic indigestion or gastritis is making your days and nights miserable.

Reports of its mighty power to overcome unbearable, near suffocating stomach agony have swept the land until today its sales are marvelous.

Get one bottle of this pleasant speedy acting medicine today with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't help you—your money will be returned.

The Household Necessity

For cuts, burns, blisters, rashes, wounds, or skin troubles of any kind. Soothing and healing. Keep it always in the house. In tubes or bottles. Look for the trademark "Vaseline" on every package. It is your protection.

Chesebrough Mfg. Co. (Cons'd)
State Street New York

Vaseline
PETROLEUM JELLY

GOODELL AND VICINITY

Mrs. Ray Christie was taken to the Hampton hospital Saturday.

Mrs. Elva Chase spent Wednesday with her son, Clifford.

Verdie Anderson returned from the Hampton hospital Saturday much improved in health which his many friends are glad to know.

Meservey and Goodell high school "Kids" crossed bats Friday on the Goodell diamond. Our "Kids" won the victory 2 to 1.

Mr. Engeseth, of Frost, was transacting business here Friday.

Raymond Chelsvig had the misfortune to break his wrist while he was cranking a Ford.

Fred Grasz and little son came from Brock, Canada, for a visit with his home folks. He reports some very cold weather and three inches of snow when he left Brock.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McNutt were entertained at the Larner home Sunday.

Miss Louisa Ahrenkeil accompanied by her mother and sisters were Mason City shoppers Saturday.

Miss Thomas spent Sunday with folks in Meservey.

Mrs. Finn returned from Estherville Saturday where she spent several days with her daughter.

The North Avery Progressive club held a business meeting at the J. J. Cook home Friday evening.

Relatives of the Chelsvig family came from Des Moines to attend the funeral of Baby Chelsvig Monday.

Mr. McNutt and Lew Reamer are building a barn near Meservey.

Mr. Thada has installed some fine new counters in his store.

Sunday was promotion day in the U. B. Sunday School.

The 8th Grade pupils entertained the 7th Grade pupils to a Hallowe'en party in the Church Parlor.

Mr. Sherwood and family spent Sunday at the Reibe home near Forest City.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. D. Kahrs, of Ventura, were entertained Sunday at the Lamer home.

Mrs. Kinseth of Belmond spent several days at the Avery home.

Mr. Geo. Nelson spent the week with home folks at Albert Lea.

A New Sunday School Class

A new Sunday School Class is being organized at the Methodist Sunday School and next Sunday the class will be started. This class will be instructed by Supt. Penrod and is for all young people of Klemme and vicinity. School teachers, all young married people, bachelors and young ladies are invited. Let's start with a bang! There will be room for all in this class who otherwise would not be in a class.

Diphtheria At Mason City

A few cases of diphtheria have appeared in the Lincoln and McKinley schools, at Mason City, with one death to date. The buildings have been fumigated and strict quarantine placed on some homes where the children have found to be carriers. Health physician Dr. A. F. Kober and Miss Joy Harmon the school nurse are on the alert and they feel there will be no further spread of the disease.

While we were at Garner Monday we learned that the state checkers had completed their work at the court house and left Saturday for Elkader to go over county records. Hancock County officers have a fine record this year and their books are as straight as any county. County Treasurer Suurballe has perhaps as good a set of books as can be found in the state. John's books were 39 cents long when the checkers got through with them. John is all smiles and has a good right to feel proud. Other county officers had their records in good shape and within a few dollars of being correct.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERES

Oct. 5 to 9, 1925

Frank Lewis wf. to H. L. Trelaor, W. D. date 7-1-25, $1.00, lots 1-2-3-4-5 block 7, Grand View add to Kanawha.

Alice E. Ingraham hus. to Evaline Ellis Keat, W. D. date 9-16-25, $1.00, SE¼ 11-96-26.

C. S. Terwilliger Est. to Frank Thada, Executors Deed date 10-2-25 $9933.65, SW¼ 15-96-23.

W. S. Kaufman wf. to Malcolm R. Black, Q. C. D. date 9-12-25, $1.00, E½ 7-96-24.

Huskers Get A Nickel

GRUNDY CENTER, Oct. 15.—By an agreement between farmers of Grundy county the prevailing price for husking corn will be five cents a bushel where there is an elevator at the crib and six cents a bushel where it is necessary to scoop the corn.

IOWA BUYS DAKOTA FEEDER PIGS

DES MOINES, Oct. 8.—Iowa's good corn crop has attracted a heavy movement of feeder pigs from South Dakota where the corn crop is light, according to the figures of the Animal Health Division of the Iowa Department of Agriculture which keeps a record of such shipments.

The total number of pigs brought into the state in September this year was 14,659, as compared to 7,187 in September last year. The total of feeder pigs purchased during the year is still less than for a similar time last year, the totals for this year being 45,985 as compared to 61,429 last year.

SERVE IOWA GRAIN SHOWMEN

State Association Sending Man To Chicago To Tend Exhibits

The Iowa Corn & Small Grain Growers' association will have a representative at the International Grain and Hay Show, held in connection with the International Livestock Exposition, Chicago, Nov. 28 to Dec. 5 to care for exhibits sent by Iowa growers.

The above announcement has just been made by Joe L. Robinson, secretary of the Iowa Corn & Small Grain Growers' association, Ames. Mr. Robinson reports the cash premiums offered this year are very liberal. These good premiums, together with the high quality of grain this year, should bring out many fine samples from Iowa.

Last year Iowa samples made a creditable showing at Chicago, winning more than half of the corn prizes in region three.

Premium lists and entry cards for the show may be obtained by writing to Joe L. Robinson at Ames. It is important to know who is sending the samples and what these are so that the association representative may be on the lookout for them when he arrives in Chicago.

No. 6659 Reserve District No.
Report of the Condition of

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

At Klemme, in the state of Iowa
At the close of business on Sept. 28, 1925

RESOURCES

Loans and discounts...	327,289.56
Overdrafts, unsecured..	2,694.47
U. S. Government securities owned, deposited to secure circulation (U. S. bonds par value)	25,000.00
All other United States Government securities	114,550.00
Other bonds, stocks, securities, etc.:	23,606.05
Banking house, 8,000.00 Furniture and fixtures, ... 3,515.00	11,515.00
Real estate owned other than banking house..	3,426.46
Lawful reserve with Federal Reserve Bank...	27,389.79
Cash in vault and amount due from national banks	59,838.64
Amount due from State banks, bankers, and trust companies in the United States.....	8,882.77
Checks and drafts (including Federal Reserve Bank) located outside of city or town of reporting bank..	919.62
Miscellaneous cash items	3,215.80
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer and due from U. S. Treasurer	1,250.00
TOTAL	$609,578.07

LIABILITIES

Capital stock paid in..	$ 25,000.00
Surplus fund	15,000.00
Undivided profits..... ..... 8,504.85 Less current expenses, interest, and taxes paid. 7,034.04	1,470.81
Circulating notes outstanding	24,595.00
Certified checks outstanding	4.50
Demand deposits subject to Reserve.
Individual deposits subject to check.....	150,451.38
Certificates of deposit due in less than 30 days	53,600.00
Time Deposits subject to Reserve.
Certificates of deposit..	339,104.49
Liabilities other than those above stated...	351.89
TOTAL	$609,578.07

State of Iowa
County of Hancock, ss.

I, C. G. Waterman, Cashier of the above named bank do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

C. G. WATERMAN, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10 day of Oct., 1925.

A. J. Kudje, Notary Public.

(SEAL)

Correct—Attest:

AUGUST BARZ
M. H. WIEGMAN
F. A. ARNOLD, Director.

TWO "WOODEN" ARMS BUT HE PLAYS A TROMBONE

Popular Recorder of Mahasko Co. An Armless Wonder

David B. Hawkins is recorder for Mahaska county and vice president of the state association of county recorders. But here's an interesting story concerning the popular recorder of Mahaska: In 1905 at the age of sixteen he left the Oskaloosa high school when in his junior year and joined his father, who was a contractor, in erecting a school building at Buxton. One evening he was riding a bicycle upon a paved street in Oskaloosa and he took hold of a passing street car and traveled along with it for some distance when the front wheel of the bicycle struck a bump and hurled young Hawkins from the saddle, directly under the wheels of the street car. Both arms were amputated, one below and the other above the elbow. As soon as the members were healed he secured artificial arms and hands, went back to high school and finished the course and then spent a couple of years at Penn college. He became proficient in the use of his artificial hands and can write, feed and dress himself, use a typewriter, play a trombone, and drive an automobile, cranking it with his feet. He studied law, wrote insurance and finally gravitated into politics, a democrat, but elected justice of the peace in a republican township. He then ran for county recorder in a republican county and won. He is now serving his fifth term, having been reelected last November by a majority of nearly 3,000.

TOBACCO AN IOWA CROP

S. B. Carter, of West Union, Fayette county, grew 11 acres of tobacco last year and he has it safely harvested and stored away in his large tobacco sheds. He expects from his crop about 15,000 pounds of tobacco fit for binder, and perhaps 2,500 pounds more that will have to be sold as filler. The crop was exceptionally good this season, with a large proportion of the leaves measuring 7 inches or more, and some reaching the remarkable length of 32 inches. Mr. Carter's planting machinery puts in 7,500 plants to the acre with very accurate count so in his 11 acres there were 85,000 plants.

STATEMENT of the Ownership, Management, etc. required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912, of

THE KLEMME TIMES

published weekly at Klemme, Iowa, for October 1, 1925.

STATE OF IOWA)
)ss.
County Of Hancock)

Before me, a notary public in and for the State and County aforesaid, personally appeared R. A. Jorgenson, who having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Publisher and Owner of The Klemme Times and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc. of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in Section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations to wit:

That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

R. A. Jorgenson, Klemme, Iowa.

That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are, NONE.

R. A. JORGENSON.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 1st day of October, 1925.

(SEAL)

C. G. WATERMAN, Notary Public.

My commission expires July 4, 1927.

RATTLESNAKES IN IOWA

In constructing a bridge in Keokuk county near Keota the workmen, in tearing out part of the old structure, uncovered 42 rattlesnakes. They were young ones. The old ones were not found. Dale Burgess, a farmer near Colesburg, Delaware county, killed 114 rattlers inside of two weeks and he received a bounty of 50 cents for each. Some years ago Senator Byron S. Newberry, of Strawberry Point, was bitten by a rattlesnake and came near dying. This incident served to call the attention of the legislature to the danger to human life from these poisonous reptiles and a law was passed placing a bounty of 50 cents upon them. There are some men in northeastern Iowa who make the hunting of rattlesnakes a business.

FORMER KLEMME MAN MIXES WITH BULL PUP TO HIS SORROW

Mailcarrier Harry Bonwell, who is one of those fellows who won't take anybody's word for anything without looking at their teeth, has been making friends with all the dogs around on his route, probably so he would be safe in case he wanted to visit a melon patch. However, one of his patrons has a young bull pup who is just beginning to how his stuff, and when Harry renewed advances toward him one morning recently said pup closed down on his hand and Harry has been doctoring several mangled fingers since.—Renwick Times.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP

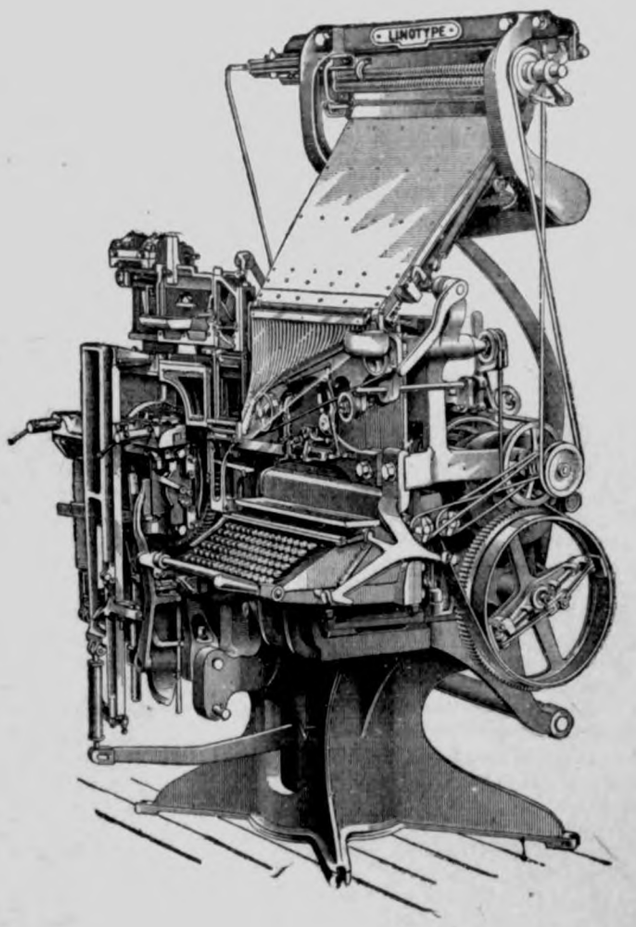
Modern Methods

As the hand labor of housework has been supplanted by mechanical devices, so has banking progressed.

The convenient, systematic way of handling a bank account now appeals so strongly to customers that they would not think of going back to the old way. Our equipment is modern and we can give you the best of service in every department.

First National Bank
KLEMME. IOWA.

Public Sale Bill Printing



Why Look Further?

When Our Prices Are Right
Our Work Is Attractive
Our Service Is Quick--
Free Stock Cuts--

Modern Equipped Printery

"We Admit We Know How"

The Times Print Shop

Send your news to The Times.

Grandma Schlawin is on the sick list this week it is reported.

Sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop.

Ladies Aid Bake Sale at J. N. Day Store Saturday. 1tc

FOR SALE or TRADE—Residence property in Klemme, modern house and 3½ lots. Inquire at Times. 3p

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction
Thursday, Oct. 15, 1925

EGGS (trade)	.38
EGGS (Cash)	.37
HEAVY HENS	.16
LIGHT HENS	.12
STANDARD SPRINGS	.16
LEGHORN SPRINGS	.12
DUCKS	.12
OLD ROOSTERS	.07
GEESE	.08
BUTTERFAT	.50
BUTTER (Klemme Creamery)	.50
WHEAT	$1.45
OATS	.30
SHELLED CORN	.60—.68
BARLEY	.50—.55
RYE	.65—.70
HOGS (top)	$11.85

DR. R. E. PORTER
CHIROPRACTOR

..Every Day — Open Evenings..
Office at John Lieuwen Residence

Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!

Pavey's
STORMIZING SHOP

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Koerner drove to Mason City yesterday on business.

WANTED—Class of music pupils. Mrs. Sam Harvey. 1wc

Order your Christmas Cards now at the Times Print Shop.

Ralph Elder drove to Dexter, Minnesota, yesterday on business.

FOR SALE—12 Polled Shorthorn Bulls, 10 to 14 mo. old. Roans and Reds. E. J. Arnold. 2wp

Mr. and Mrs. Peters, of Ackley, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis Sunday.

Erick Josten has moved to his brother Valentine's home, where he will room in the future.

Come to Abraham's, Garner, Ia., Friday and Saturday for their extra specials. 1tc

Byrnes Missman spent Friday evening visiting with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ely, at Belmond.

Marie Gauger, who teaches near Kanawha, spent Sunday at home in Klemme.

Abraham has special prices on all Ladies Coats Friday and Saturday. Garner's Big Store. 1tc

Arnold Neuhring returned from Iowa City Tuesday, where he has been taking treatments.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jante, from Garner, were calling on Miss Esther Jante Sunday.

Abraham's big Friday and Saturday Special Sale on Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Suits. Garner. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Anderson visited at the Verdie Anderson home near Goodell Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rank Buss and children, of Goodell, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Buseman.

Don't miss the Friday and Saturday Special on Ladies new Millinery at Abraham's, Garner, Iowa. 1tc

Rev. and Mrs. H. R. Schmidt, f Reinbeck, were visiting with Rev. A. W. Gauger and family here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Patet moved into the Geo. Kessler house Saturday.

Allie White and son, Albert, spent Sunday visiting Allie's mother, Mrs. A. D. White at Goodell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stokesbary and son, Orvid, spent Sunday at the Ed. Evanson home at Miller.

FOR IMMEDIATE SALE—19 head of Steers, good quality, weight about 950 to 1,000 pounds. Call the LAU ELEVATOR, Klemme, Ia. 1tc

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Big Specials for Friday and Saturday at Abraham's big store at Garner. 1tc

Supt. Earl Blue and son Donald, of Goodell, were in Klemme on business Saturday.

There will be a regular meeting of the Eastern Star at Garner Friday evening this week, at 7:30 o'clock

Jim Pavey, of near Cedar Rapids, came last week for a visit with his brother, Wallace and family here.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grange and son Dorance, and Albert Keeper were entertained at the L. Neese home at Ventura Saturday to dinner.

Mrs. Clark Bredbenner returned from Iowa City yesterday morning. She reports that Mr. Bredbenner is getting along well at this time.

Meyer's Poison Kernels are made from the natural grain of wheat—the natural food of the rodent. For sale at Wilson's Pharmacy. 1p

Mrs. Allie White was taken to the hospital at Hampton, Saturday, for treatment. Mrs. White's many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

Rev. C. A. Schmid, pastor of the Ell Town Reformed church, was at Menno, South Dakota, Sunday to preach at a Mission Festival.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus were week end visitors at Clear Lake. They went over to close up their two cottages for the winter.

Be sure and buy your Baked goods for Sunday from the Ladies Aid Bake Sale at J. N. Day's Store Saturday at 2 o'clock P. M.

Mrs. George Ulrich and Mrs. Harry Gram and baby, were at Clarion Tuesday visiting at the John Ulrich home.

The Klemme high school ball team defeated the Goodell high school team 10 to 0 in a game here Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman, and daughter, Marion, and Mrs. C. F. Keraus, were Mason City visitors Friday.

FOR SALE—8 good milk cows, one fresh soon; also some fine Poland China Boars for sale. Emil J. Kraus. 2wp

The Royal Neighbors lodge met Friday afternoon with Miss Viola Freie, and Mrs. M. O. Barr, hostesses. An enjoyable meeting is reported.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 2tc

Don't forget the Ladies Aid Bake Sale at J. N. Day's Store Saturday afternoon, Oct. 17th. Buy your pies, cake, bread, etc. for Sunday. Sale begins at 2 P. M. 1tc

Mrs. Fred Ridder, Mrs. Sam Harvey and daughter, Enid, Miss Neota Ridder and Miss Dolores Koerner were Mason City visitors Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Gus Abels, proprietor of the pool hall here, left Friday for Newton to spend the week end with his family. He returned to Klemme Monday.

Rats and mice are just as universal in the "pesterence" as taxes—the families increase every year. Kill them with Meyer's Poison Kernels. For sale at Wilson's Pharmacy. 1tp

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Schlei and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Weisbrod and daughter, of Fenton, were here last week to attend the funeral of Mrs. Valentine Josten.

Will Wright and family, Harry Wright and family, of Britt, and Lippo Wessels and family, of Klemme, were visiting at the Wm. Wenz home Sunday.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 2tc

Clara Larsen returned from the Hampton hospital Saturday. She underwent an operation there about four weeks ago. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Larsen.

The Ladies Aid will have a baked goods sale at J. N. Day's Store on Saturday, October 17th. Come and buy your cakes, pies, bread, etc for Sunday. Sale begins at 2 P. M. 1t

Ray Albertson, of Rutland, Iowa, is opening a cleaning establishment at Garner in the former Smith shoe store building. He is a brother of Mrs. Gary of Klemme.

Miss Mildred Johnson of this city, entertained the Belmond high school students Friday morning with some violin selections. Miss Johnson has a class of violin students at Belmond this year.

FOR SALE, Big type Poland China Boars, March farrowing, weigh over 200 lbs. sired by the sire of The Progresive. Cholera immune. Farm 4 miles north of Meservey. Gottlieb Lauster, Thornton, Iowa. 4tp

We had a real frost Friday night. This was the first real killing frost of the season and the next morning garden stuff was dead and the trees were shedding their leaves by basketfuls.

Mrs. Henry Suckow and son, Louie, returned from Milwaukee, Wis., Monday evening. They had been there for a visit with Mrs. Suckow's daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Schaefer and family.

Chas. Abraham & Sons Store at Garner is offering a big Friday and Saturday Special on Ladies new fall Coats, new fall Millinery and Mens and Boys Suits and Overcoats. Don't miss this big special at Abraham's at Garner. 1tc

FARMERS NOTICE!

I have decided to quit Shelling Corn, Sawing Wood, and Grinding Feed for the public. I want to take this means of also thanking you for your business and kindness of the past. Respectfully, WM. BELL.

The Ladies Aid have announced that they will hold their annual bazar on Thursday, Nov. 19 at the Parish House starting at 2:00 P. M. In addition to their sale of goods the ladies will serve light refreshments during the afternoon and evening.

Rev. Gauger, Frank Gruetzmacher and Ye Editor attended the Garner-Greene football game at Garner Friday afternoon. The game resulted in a 7 to 0 score for Garner and was a well played game. Two of Garner's star players were out on account of injuries and this made a better game as the teams were evenly matched.

Mrs. Hattie Lanahan was called to Clarion last Wednesday evening by the illness of her little daughter, Laura, who was suffering with an attack of summer "flu." The little girl made a rapid recovery and Mrs. Lanahan was able to return to her work in Klemme Saturday. morning.

The annual mission festival of the Elltown Reformed church will be Sunday, with services in the forenoon, afternoon and evening. Rev. Geo. Schmid, of Hamburg, Minn., a brother of the pastor, Rev. C. A. Schmid and Rev. D. E. Bosma, of Baxter, Iowa, will assist with the services.

The city water has been what we would call "very punk" for some time after the new tank had been installed and the old one repaired. The bad smell and worse taste was due to the paint used in the tanks. However, the mains have been flushed out several times lately and the water is again fit for use.

Leonard Lau, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blank, of this city, is attending the Gallandel College at Washington, D. C. this year. He graduated from the state school for deaf at Council Bluffs this year. He was ranked as one of the highest in his class which won for him a scholarship to the Gallendel College with all his expenses paid.

A picnic dinner at the Ames tourist park was enjoyed by a number of Klemme people Sunday. Henry Barz and family, Albert Barz and family, Fred Barz and family, Mrs. Lena Schroeder, Grandma Schroeder, Mrs. Marlin Croner and daughter, Dorothy, all of Klemme and vicinity, and Wm. Barz and family, of Garner, all drove down to Ames Sunday for a visit with Miss Adella Schroeder. A big picnic dinner was enjoyed at the Ames tourist Park. In addition to all the Klemme people, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wiles and Mrs. Behringer, of Ames attended the picnic. All report a good time.

HAD SQUAW WINTER, NOW FOR SOME INDIAN SUMMER

The cold wave over the state experienced the past week is broken and weather predictions point to a warm spell.

Now that we have gone through a siege of "Squaw Winter" we can look forward to a beautiful "Indian Summer."

At Your Service
Super-Zenith Radios

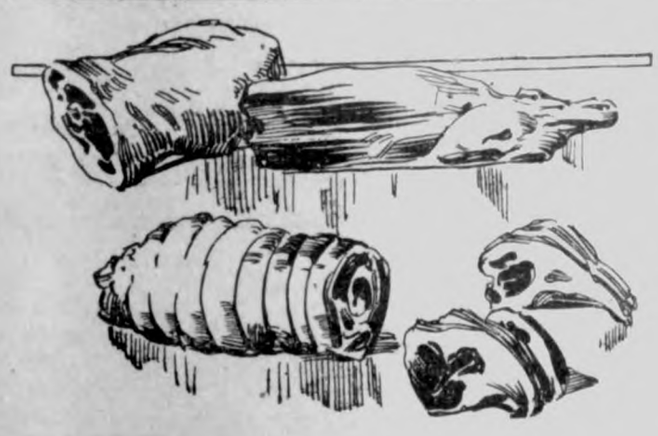
TUNE THROUGH EVERYTHING

The new Super-Zenith is NOT regenerative. It is a six-tube set with a new unique and really different patented circuit controlled exclusively by the Zenith Radio Corporation. For the first time, you can have a set that—

1.—Tunes through everything and selects the station you really want.
2.—Requires only two hands—not three—to operate.
3.—Brings in each station at only one point on the dial.
4.—Affords such mathematical precision and simplicity that you can run over the entire dial in 1½ minutes and pick up more stations with greater clarity and volume than any other set on the market. Direct comparisons invited.

WE EXCLUSIVE DEALER FOR ZENITH RADIOS IN THIS TERRITORY

Greimann Motor Co.



Your Daily Meat--

Roasts--Pork or Beef
Juicy Steaks, all kinds
Home-made Sausages
Home-made Bologna
Star Brand Hams
Finest Breakfast Bacon
Full line of Heinz "57"
Cheese, Etc.

We are always glad to serve you.

Klemme Meat Market

For pen or typewriter
HAMMERMILL
BOND
Stationery is Equally Satisfactory
We have a complete line of samples

Job Printing

We are equipped to handle any size job neatly and quickly

We can give you valuable help on planning Public Sales

Business Stationery
Personl Stationery
Society Forms
Cards, Etc.

Times Print Shop

WRIGLEY'S

AFTER EVERY MEAL

affords benefit as well as pleasure.

Healthful exercise for the teeth and a spur to digestion. A long-lasting refreshment, soothing to nerves and stomach.

The Great American Sweetmeat, untouched by hands, full of flavor.

SEALED TIGHT KEPT RIGHT

Finished

Hotel Clerk—Hey, you dropped your pocketbook.

Guest—Oh, that's all right. I'm through with it.—Judge.

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA

The popularity of Monarch Cocoa was gained by its unusual quality. It is sustained by its reasonable price.

35c a pound

QUALITY for 70 years

Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.

Reid, Murdoch & Co.
Chicago, U. S. A.
Boston, Pittsburgh, New York

Strength and Energy this easy way

Simply drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let stand for five minutes; stir; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate. Or, if you prefer, eat the cake with a cracker or a piece of butter.

Easy, simple, palatable. Yet you get the full tonic value of the marvelous yeast plant.

If you suffer from constipation, anaemia, boils, pimples, indigestion—don't fail to eat Yeast Foam regularly. Its beneficial effects will amaze you!

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 North Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health", also a Sample of Yeast Foam, without obligation.

Name_____

Address_____ W. N. U.

Ask your Shoe Dealer for Shoes with USKIDE Soles

The Wonder Sole for Wear

United States Rubber Company

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

Florida Property Owner, we have customers for your Florida property. Send legal description, price and other information. The Gables Co., 1027 Collins Ave., Miami Beach, Fla.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 42–1925.

Community Building

Call for Similarity in Building Designs

The American home builder is constantly casting about for something new, something unusual, in domestic architecture. Architects, therefore, have a difficult task designing new creations that will satisfy for a time, at least, the whims of a public. Due to this constantly changing, restless desire unusual houses have been created, and our country is gradually accumulating a collection of interesting types, whose equal is nowhere to be found.

At the present time the village or community idea is gaining favor with the home builders and buyers. Here and there, dotting our landscapes, villages are being constructed, each one employing a different type of architecture—in one case a French village, in another Italian or Spanish and in still another Mexican. The village idea is not a new one, but the adhering to a particular style of architecture for all the buildings is a comparatively new practice in this country.

The American home builder craves community spirit when he erects his home beyond the confines of the city; hence the village scheme appeals. Heretofore, when a parcel of ground was purchased for the purpose of erecting a home upon it the purchaser had no protection against the possibility of his neighbor erecting a house of a nondescript type. Usually that is what happens in most of our new land developments. The erection of houses of various styles of architecture, some unnameable, is the result of the lack of comprehensive planning.

As City Grows, Wise Planning Is Needed

It is said with a great deal of truth that you cannot keep a good city down. People are attracted to the cities which have the most to offer in the way of employment, homes, institutions and public improvements. It necessarily follows that the city which has something to offer must increase in population.

But when a city grows it is not all gain. It is the concensus of opinion that the larger a city becomes the less comfort there is for those who live in it. As a city grows its workers must move farther away from their places of employment or live in congested and sunless tenements. Traffic congestion increases with the population and the problems of government tend to become more complex. None will deny that after a city passes a certain stage in population the disadvantages of living in it outweigh the advantages.

The evils of the big city, however, will not dissuade the civic booster from working for his "greater" city so as his dream materializes great foresight must be shown to soften the hardships occasioned by the greater population. Cities that want to grow should at least grow wisely. The time to plan a city is while it is expanding.—Newcastle (Ind.) Courier.

Artistic Road Signs

Artistic roadside signs of Colonial days are due to supplant the cold, stark uninteresting signs of the present. In early Colonial days, great care was taken and also a lot of pride, in the designing and making of roadside signs, whether they were for the direction of the traveler or whether they were used for the labeling of a roadhouse.

Due to the launching of town-betterment campaigns, the roadsides of our country are dotted here and there with artistic signs of every description and they attract more attention than the average signboard. These signs are designed in a great measure to harmonize with the architecture of the surrounding communities. English architecture demands that signs will be designed in that style, and the lettering likewise.

This practice should be encouraged in every community, as it will be a factor in adorning them and adding to their interest.

Build for Beauty

A rare thing, indeed, is to find a street where the homes collectively form a really artistic architectural setting. Individual examples of homes both artistic and beautiful are, indeed, found in every community, but an entire block of such homes is hard to find.

Many builders follow a given line of monotony in the exterior plan of their houses leaving the artistic touches to be furnished by the landscaping. True, a plan like this will make the individual dwellings cheaper, in the long run, but what is the saving of a hundred or two dollars, to making a community a thing of beauty and a place worth living in.

Illegal Use of Flag

Use of the American flag as lot markers by real estate agents was criticized by the Harvey Seeds post of the Miami American Legion. "Such practice is prohibited under the federal statute," Legionnaires pointed out.

Honor Massachusetts Men

Questionnaires are being mailed out by the commission on the history of Massachusetts in the World war for information concerning Massachusetts men who died in the service.

BLAMES NAVY FOR LANSDOWNE'S DEATH

Widow of Commander of Shenandoah Testifies He Objected to Trip.

Washington.—Charging the navy with full responsibility for the loss of the Shenandoah, Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne, widow of Commander Zachary Lansdowne, captain of the destroyed airship, reiterated under oath before a naval court of inquiry that the navy had sent the airship on its disastrous Mid-West trip over her husband's protest and for political purposes.

She read a prepared statement.

"Immediately after the wreck of the Shenandoah and the death of my husband I stated in the newspapers that my husband was ordered by the Navy department to proceed on this flight to the Middle West in spite of protests made by him to the department and that the flight was made solely for political purposes," Mrs. Lansdowne read.

"Secretary Wilbur was quoted in the press as saying that my husband had made no protest against going at this time; and one of my reasons for appearing before this court is to emphasize the fact that my statement has been substantiated by official correspondence read into the court record."

Mrs. Lansdowne then read from a letter written to her husband from the chief of naval operations, dated August 12, 1925, in which the recommendations of her husband that the flight be made in the second week in September and that a trial flight be first made to Detroit before the regular trip were disapproved.

In the letter it was stated that various state fairs occur the first week of the month and that the fairs must be flown over as scheduled. It was further stated that the department felt a trial flight to Detroit was not necessary.

"Because of weather conditions during the long thunderstorm period in the Middle West the long legs on rigid schedule and the untried mast, my husband was very much opposed to this flight and protested as vigorously as any officer is allowed to do to his superiors."

Col. Mitchell Refuses to Testify Before Board

Washington.—"I've been under coercion ever since I was ordered to Washington. Threats of court-martial were hanging over me while I was testifying before the President's aircraft board. Do you think I'd give the navy a chance to get statements from me that the War department might use against me? Not on your life-"

This was the statement of Col. William A. Mitchell after he had refused to testify before the naval court of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah disaster.

"At first I didn't object to testifying," he said. "But Congressman Frank R. Reid, my counsel, did. He was right. A member of the general staff, Col. Charles B. Stone, was in the room with a stenographer prepared to take down my testimony.

"And no matter what I would have said, this navy board would have twisted it around and put me in a bad light.

"As soon as we are through this court-martial, then I'll be glad to testify, and under oath."

Three Killed, Forty Hurt in Ammonia Tank Blast

St. Louis.—Three known deaths occurred in a terrific explosion that enveloped the ten-story Laclede Gas Light building in the downtown business district here.

The list of injured who received hospital treatment stood at forty. The dead are Mrs. Anna Stoll, clerk; Carl T. Brewer, engineer; Armund Marquardt, maintenance man.

Company officials said the explosion apparently was caused by an expansion of ammonia fumes in pipes leading to a refrigerating plant in the basement of the building.

Auto Employment Is Largest in History

Detroit, Mich.—More men are employed in the automobile industry in Detroit plants now than ever before in the history of automobile making. The number of employees increased last week by 2,422. The total employed now is 260,316. This is an increase of 64,320 over the corresponding week of 1924. All plants are running at capacity and enlarging their facilities.

Wins Roosevelt Prize

Washington.—John Rusell Pope, New York architect, was awarded the $20,000 prize offered by the Roosevelt Memorial association for the best design submitted.

Gov. Pinchot Ill With Flu

Dubois, Pa.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, touring the state by automobile, was advised by physicians to go to bed, after they discovered that he was suffering from a light attack of influenza.

Buys Building for $17,000,000

New York.—August Heckschner, millionaire president of the Amahna Roller company, bought the 32-story building at 61 Broadway for $17,000,000 cash.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Art thou poor, yet hast thou golden slumbers?
O, sweet content!
Art thou rich, yet is thy mind perplexed?
O, punishment.

SEASONABLE DISHES

At this time of the year when pears are plentiful they may be used for breakfast fruit, baked; as a dessert for dinner and a salad for luncheon. They are especially nice baked with a bit of grated lemon rind, butter and a few teaspoonfuls of the lemon juice with sugar to sweeten.

Bake plain and serve with cream for a breakfast fruit, or if ripe and good flavor, the fresh fruit is delicious.

For a salad the combination of ripe tomatoes and pears cut into quarters then into eighths and again sliced, is good; serve with a rich mayonnaise. Pickled, canned and preserved pears are so well known and liked that they need but be mentioned. In winter the canned pears cut into halves make such tasty desserts and salads.

Salmon Souffle.—Season one can of flaked salmon with salt, paprika and two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Cook one-half cupful of bread crumbs with one-half cupful of milk five minutes. Add the salmon, the yolks of three eggs beaten thick, then cut and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Turn into a buttered baking dish, set into a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with:

Spanish Sauce.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three tablespoonfuls of flour, stir until well blended, then pour on gradually one cupful of milk and one-half cupful of cream. When boiling add one-half cupful of pimentoes put through a sieve, one teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne and paprika.

Cheese Straws.—Roll out any small pieces of leftover pastry very thin, cover with grated cheese, season with a dash of cayenne; fold up in thirds, folding in the cheese, roll again into a long narrow sheet, cut into strips and bake in a hot oven.

Turnovers may be made with small pieces of leftover crust. These are good for the lunch basket, as they are easier to carry without crushing than ordinary cut pie. Pastry shells are dainty small receptacles for holding preserves, jams or sweetened fresh fruit. Line small gem pans and bake.

Hawaiian Dessert.—Soak one cupful of tapioca in one cupful of cold water overnight. In the morning place in a double boiler with three cupfuls of brown sugar and enough water to cover. Add pineapple juice as liquid is required and cook until the tapioca is transparent. Serve with pineapple and whipped cream.

For a change, roast a fresh ham. Roast as usual until well done, seasoning well with salt and pepper and pieces of garlic thrust into the meat. Baste while baking and serve with apple sauce.

Meals for the Day.

Cottage cheese which is such a wholesome dish if well prepared, may be made at home when there is an excess of milk. An easy way to make it is to pour boiling water (equal parts of water and milk) into the well-soured milk. Let stand until the curds are formed then pour into a colander or cheese cloth bag to drain. Remove the curd, add salt and white pepper or cayenne and plenty of thick cream. Place on ice. If cream is not at hand use melted butter, mixing well.

When serving cream soups add a spoonful of nicely-flavored grated cheese to each bowl or cup; it adds to the flavor and also the food value.

Chicken Jelly.—Cut up a large chicken into small pieces. Take each piece and pound on a board until the flesh and bone are well-mashed. Put the chicken into a kettle and add a teaspoonful of salt and a quart of cold water. Simmer closely covered twenty minutes, then simmer for four hours on the back of the range or eight hours in a fireless cooker. Strain and mold; serve with lettuce and any desired dressing.

Horseradish Sandwich.—Cream three tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of freshly-grated horseradish, one-half teaspoonful of lemon juice and a dash of salt. Spread this on rounds of bread and decorate with slices of stuffed olives.

Graham Muffins.—Take one cupful each of graham flour and sour milk, one-half teaspoonful of soda, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one egg and three tablespoonfuls of melted shortening. Bake in gem pans in a moderate oven.

Sardine Scramble.—Add the juice of half a lemon to one cupful of finely cut sardines. Use the oil instead of butter in the omelet pan when hot, add the sardines to six well-beaten eggs and cook as an omelet. Serve with lemon and parsley.

Stuffed prunes are a dainty as well-liked as stuffed dates.

Pineapple is a great addition to any fruit cocktail or salad and may be used in numberless ways as desserts.

Nellie Maxwell

The Old Standby in a New Dress

The New Package

—the same dependable remedy that over a period of more than fifty years has been found so reliable in the treatment of catarrh and diseases of catarrhal nature.

The outside of the package only has been altered. To facilitate packing and reduce breakage in shipping, the paper wrapper which has identified the Pe-ru-na bottle for many years has been displaced by a substantial pasteboard carton.

Pe-ru-na cannot be made any better. Three generations of users testify that Pe-ru-na is the best remedy in the world for catarrh and diseases of catarrhal origin.

The remedy our fathers and grandfathers used with so much satisfaction is still the standby for the ills of everyday in thousands of American homes.

PE-RU-NA

The Original and Reliable Remedy for Catarrh

Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid

Send 4 Cents for booklet on catarrh to the Pe-ru-na Company, Columbus, Ohio

Helsingfors Harbor Work

Helsingfors, Finland, will build new docks equipped with cranes, tracks, wireless station and warehouses, and will install an ice breaker in the harbor to induce ships to dock there in cold seasons.

Wanderers

Adam and Eve had just been turned out of the Garden of Eden.

"Here's where we start the trouble for the entire human race," said he.

"Yes; we are confronted with the original housing problem."

The Nights were Torment

Now, thanks to Tanlac, Mrs. Bradley "really and truly" feels like a brand new woman!

Mrs. M. J. Bradley had come to the point where she could scarcely do her housework. Two years of suffering from indigestion had shattered her health. What little she ate caused stomach fermentation, gas bloating and pain. She lay awake through the long hours of the night and was tired out through the day.*

"That four bottles of Tanlac should correct my troubles when all other attempts had failed makes it seem altogether wonderful to me. Now I enjoy a fine appetite, good digestion and really and truly feel like a new woman. It is the ideal tonic."

*Authentic statement; address on request.

* * *

You don't have to wait long to see the results from Tanlac. That's the wonderful thing about this great tonic. It works fast.

Like a flash it goes to the seat of trouble. It cleans the blood and drives out the poisons that are tearing down your health. It tones up the stomach and aids digestion—gives you a real appetite for wholesome food.

Don't drag on from day to day putting off the time of reckoning. Start taking Tanlac this very day. Your druggist can supply you.

NOTE: For Constipation, take Tanlac Vegetable Pills, Nature's own harmless laxative.

TANLAC

FOR YOUR HEALTH

Famous Crater Uncovered

At Petersburg, Va., General Grant ran a gallery 500 feet to plant a huge mine under the Confederate earth work, resulting in the death, it is said of 5,000 men July 13, 1864. Recently this old crater was uncovered by the United States battleground commission and found intact. It is regarded as the "greatest battlefield work" in history. The tunnel runs 35 feet under ground and is shored up by timbers. It is expected to reveal evidences of heavy carnage. It has been closed up since the day of the explosion.

A Good Joke

Father (to son returning to college)—Don't you want some money?

Son—No; thanks just the same, dad. I have some left from last term.—Life.

Cole's Carbolisalve Quickly Relieves and heals burning, itching and torturing skin diseases. It instantly stops the pain of burns. Heals without scars. 30c and 60c. Ask your druggist, or send 30c to The W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill., for a package.—Advertisement.

After a man has lost 11 jobs, he wants to get into a rut.

BAYER Genuine ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" and INSIST!

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Colds	Headache	Neuritis	Lumbago
Pain	Neuralgia	Toothache	Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets. Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

RS. WM. BUTTS WAS VERY SICK

es Full Credit to Lydia E. nkham's Vegetable Compound for Remarkable Recovery

ellston, O.—"I took Lydia E. Pink-'s Vegetable Compound to make me strong. I was troubled with my back and sides hurting me till I could not do my work, and whenever I caught cold it made me irregular. Since I have taken the Vegetable Compound my side and back don't bother me and I can do my housework and care for my children now, re before I did not feel like doing thing or going around. After my child was born about four years ago w an advertisement in the paper ut the Vegetable Compound. I knew ould help me, but I was afraid to it because people said it would help to have children and I knew I was ing children fast enough. But I ught if it would help me it would be er to have a whole house full of dren and have good health. I be-e stronger from taking it and my band says I look like a live woman ead of a dead one. When Spring es I am going to take your Blood dicine as I am very thin. I will an-r letters from any woman who es to ask about your medicine."—WILLIAM BUTTS, Wellston, Ohio.

AKE up your sleeping youth! Look younger! Be younger! ge has little to do with your looks your feelings. It's the condition of r blood that counts! nd blood will tell! It tells in a dred ways. If your system is starv-for rich, red blood, you may look feel old at thirty. But if you build the red-blood-cells with S. S. S. 'll quickly see the wrinkles fade y—the sagging pouches give way firm, solid flesh—and the fresh, wing beauty of youth take the place a skin sallow and disfigured with mishes.

Rich, red blood means youth, vim d energy! S. S. S. helps Nature ld red-blood-cells by the millions. generations S. S. S. has been ping people looking and feeling ng.

resh, cleansing, purifying, rich, red od that S. S. S. helps Nature ld, nourishes every muscle, organ d tissue of the body. mples, blotches and ckheads disappear. lls, eczema and rashes up. Your face—r body—your whole ng takes on the look l power of youth.

Wake up your system with S. S. S. ld red blood and you rebuild youth! Get S. S. S. from any druggist. The ger bottle is more economical.

S.S.S.

Common Practice

The Girl—Oh, don't some people get pensive when they own a car?

The Man—Well, some certainly do a habit of running other people n.

Conquers Bad Breath and is Popular Again

"The day I started taking Carter's ittle Liver Pills," says Mr. John A. erry of New York City, "my habitual ad breath and bad stomach stopped. strongly recommend them to all those fflicted with these nasty troubles. I ssure you that my own case was a ad one, causing me untold embarrass-ent, and Carter's helped me right rom the start."

Bad breath comes from sour stomach nd can usually be relieved quickly by arter's Little Liver Pills.

They are wonderful for constipation, ick-headache and indigestion and they hysic the system in a mild and gentle anner, no bad after effects.

Recommended and for sale by all rug stores.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Keep the Scalp Clean and Healthy Promote Hair Growth

EEP EYES WELL! hompson's Eye Water will hen them. At druggists or Hires Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

COATS WITH DIGNIFIED APPEAL; SIMPLE COATS FOR CHILDREN

THE two types of coats mainly in lemand, as the season advances, are those that are luxurious and rich looking, and those that have a flavor of sports styles in mannish, plain, sturdy garments. The latter depend upon cut and the right choice of pattern, in familiar materials, to give them their character, but dressier types call upon fabrics, furs and embroideries, the new silhouette and endless individual touches and variations, for the distinction to which they may rightfully lay claim.

All these elements that go to make up dressy coats are meat and drink to French designers, who fairly revel in soft, supple fabrics, intricacies of cut, splendor in embroideries and new style ideas. They are sending over rich coats, of dignified appeal, that rival fur coats in opulent but conservative

All in the blue October weather, when crisp, bright days do their part toward making shopping tours a pleasure, little maids may expect to acquire their new winter coats. In the meantime mothers are taking thought as to what is best suited to the needs of her girl and is pleased to find that fashion still dictates simple styles for children—both in practical coats for school or general wear and in coats somewhat more dressy.

For all-round wear, bold plaid fabrics and mixtures are shown, cut either straight or in lines that flare from the shoulder down. There are some blocked materials among the lighter wools, that are attractive and made warm enough by interlining and twill linings. Very small girls are provided with coats of wool bengaline, among other fabrics, with sateen linings and styling. One of these, as sketched and shown here, is made of dark green cloth, with embroidered bands in green and gold and decorations of beaver fur. The oddity of fur emplacements on collars and sleeves and the long revers, is distinctly Parisian. The lower edge of the collar is scalloped, disclosing glimpses of embroidering beneath it, the deep cuffs leave a portion of the sleeves at the wrist uncovered and the revers is graduated in width. Embroidered banding emphasizes the flaring hemline. This model would make a good choice when velvet is used.

Decorated With Beaver Fur.

In a great many fur-trimmed coats the straightline silhouette has been retained, and on some of them fur is so lavishly used that it covers about half of the garment. Worth has sent out a cloth coat with border of fur that reaches to the knees, cuffs of it that end at the elbow, shirt-bosom front and rolling shawl collar that need not fear comparison with the most sumptuous all-fur model.

For All-Around Wear.

Both long and short haired furs are used on coats and those garments made of pile fabrics in brown or other fur colors, with collars and cuffs of fur dyed to match are as beautiful and luxurious as fur coats.

warm interlining. Tucks are a favored decoration for the smaller coats, while machine stitching is popular on coats for larger girls.

Pile fabrics, including those of the needlepoint variety, suede and smooth-finished cloth, with velveteen make up a large part of the fabric list for children's coats. Colors, in addition to the usual dark browns and blues, include new shades of blue, the wine shades and rosewood, and velveteen is used for trimming the plain cloths. Fur collars are conspicuous by their presence on all sorts of coats and krimmer in collars and cuffs is the most popular choice on velveteen.

One of the most important style points in children's coats appears in the shoulder cape, which, in some instances, extends to the hipline. Usually, with these coats, a choker collar of fur carries out the military suggestion in the cape. Cape coats and one-piece frocks with shoulder capes have the support of French designers and are very becoming to children.

Besides the cape coat there are some striking novelties in autumn coat styles for young misses. Strong color contrasts in blocked patterns, as red and black, are used for straight box coats, smartly collared and cuffed with long-haired furs. Such coats are fastened with three large buttons at the front. Chinchilla cloth, in a variety of colors, lined with bright flannel, makes a cozy and substantial garment usually boasting a raccoon collar. Unique, and very American, are novel coats with scarfs to match, made of Indian blankets. The native colorings and primitive, but effective designing in the figured patterns, make them conspicuous, but good looking.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

COSTLIER THAN BURIAL

A doctor was called in to see a negro who was down with influenza.

"What I gwine to git him?" asked the wife.

"Give him whisky," the physician responded.

"How much does it cost?"

When the doctor named the price of good whisky per quart the wife responded:

"I can bury him cheaper dan dat."

Quite Different

Mrs. Brimstone (to her long-suffering husband)—John, what is the difference between "exportation" and "transportation"?

Mr. Brimstone—Well, dear, if you were on your way to Timbuctoo you would be "exported" and I should be "transported."

Not So Good

Fuller—Life is full of ups and downs. At present I am in full enjoyment of one of the ups.

Miller—I congratulate you.

Fuller—Don't. It's a case of hard up.

Explained

Mr. Suburbs—Why is dinner an hour late?

Mrs. Suburbs—I ran over to Mrs. Nearson's to borrow an egg.—American Legion Weekly.

ALSO THE BANK ACCOUNT

He—We ought to be very happy—we have so many things in common.

She—And after marriage we'll have our bank account that way, too, eh?"

Fame

Lives of football men remind us
That we, too, can push and shove,
And departing leave behind us
Hoof prints on another's mug.

She Wins

Widow Flannigan—Pat was such a brilliant lad that he read all of Shakespeare's works before he was ten years old.

Widow Hannigan—Bedad and that's nothing, me Michael read them before that age in the original Greek.—Lafayette Lyre.

Turning Bad Luck to Good

"We can turn even our misfortunes into triumphs."

"That's right," said the jazz composer. "I hit my finger with a tack hammer and had to play the piano just the same. The result was one of the trickiest little syncopations you ever heard."—Washington Star.

NOTHING TO DYE

She—You say you love me more than life? And would you die for me

He—I've nothing to dye.

Philanthropic Penitentiary

The criminal's a happy elf
Who carelessly enjoys himself.
When he has squandered all his hoard
The public has to pay his board.

A Considerate Employer

Publisher—You seem lame. Have you been kicked out much?

Book Agent—About a dozen times.

Publisher (kindly)—Well, leave your sample encyclopedia here and canvass with this sample Bible until your back gets well.

Traps

Small Boy—Dad, how do they catch lunatics?

Father—With face powder, beautiful dresses and pretty smiles, my son.

For sweet dough set your sponge with Yeast Foam

The wife who is a good bread maker is a real helpmate for the bread winner.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

"Good bread is the pride of the thrifty bride"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Take care of the interesting landmarks. In these motor-touring days they are worth money.

It's harder to back out after she's announced the engagement—maybe that's why she does it.

Now—Make Better Soap

Without Boiling

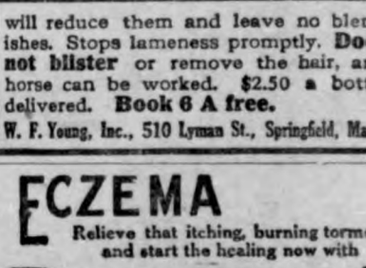
The finest hard soap you ever saw. With good Lewis' Lye you can make it yourself—without boiling. A tested recipe. Less trouble than putting up fruit. Make the finest toilet soaps too. Olive oil soap. Perfumed. Floating soap. All so easy you'll be surprised. Think what a saving!

Order a can of Lewis' Lye from your grocer today. Write for FREE 56-page book—The Truth About a Lye. Tells all the secrets of soap making and gives over 50 tested ways to save time and money with Lewis' Lye. Just send a post card. No obligation.

Nothing takes the place of

LEWIS' LYE

The Lewis' Lye can has a safety friction top. Easy to open and close. Always seals tight and safe.



The Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. Co.
Philadelphia, Pa.

Jefferson's Old "Desk" Prize for Collectors

Thomas Jefferson had a far-sighted appreciation of the historical value of articles which were commonplace enough but which, because they were associated with the genesis of the United States were certain to create in future generations a reverential attitude of mind. For instance, he wrote to his granddaughter, Ellen W. Coolidge, from Monticello, November 14, 1825, that he still had the "writing box" on which the "great Charter of our Independence" was written, says the Antiquarian.

"It was made," he told her, "from a drawing of my own by Ben Randall, a cabinet-maker of Philadelphia, in whose house I took my first lodgings on my arrival in Philadelphia in May, 1777; and I have used it ever since. It claims no merit of particular beauty. It is plain, neat, convenient and taking no more room on the writing table than a moderate 4to volume. Its imaginary value will increase with the years."

A Different Matter

"Did you have any epistolary communication with your opponent prior to that date?" asked the pin-feathery young attorney.

"Nope!" returned Newt Strodder. "We just met at the crossroads store. Nobody had no pistol, that I know of. We clinched when he called me a liar, rolled around on the —p'tu—ground for a spell, and tore things up gener'ly. That's all."—Kansas City Star.

Kept His Word

"Before Bill was married he said he'd be boss in his own house or know the reason why."

"And now he's married?"

"He knows the reason why."

Persia, with an area of 628,000 square miles and 9,000,000 population has only 150 miles of railroad lines.

Gains 20 Pounds

Never knows a sick headache; stomach perfectly well, after taking Beecham's Pills.

"I have taken Beecham's Pills and NO OTHER MEDICINE with the best results for the past fifteen years. I started taking them for sick headaches, from a catarrhal stomach, and general debility. Now I don't know what a headache is, and my stomach is perfectly well.

"From a frail woman weighing less than a hundred pounds, I have become well and healthy and tip the scales at one hundred and twenty."

Mrs. Fanny A. Burgess, Billerica, Mass.

A clean inside means a healthy body. Sufferers from constipation, sick headaches, biliousness and attendant ills should keep the system clean by the regular use of Beecham's Pills.

FREE SAMPLE—Write today for free sample to B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal St., New York
Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

for Better Health, Take

Beecham's Pills

Don't Cut Out a Shoe Boil, Capped Hock or Bursitis for will reduce them and leave no blemishes. Stops lameness promptly. Does not blister or remove the hair, and horse can be worked. $2.50 a bottle delivered. Book 6 A free.

W. F. Young, Inc., 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

ECZEMA

Relieve that itching, burning torment and start the healing now with

Resinol

Not Worth Two Cents

Johnny—I always say what I think.

Helen—I always wondered why you were so quiet.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
Absolutely Harmless—No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

TREASURER IN WINNEBAGO HIT

CASH ADVANCED COUNTY OFFICIALS ON SALARIES AS LOANS

Copy of Checker's Report Filed With Attorney General Gibson

Charges of misappropriating funds are made against W. C. Haugland, county treasurer of Winnebago county, in a report of state checkers, filed with State Auditor J. C. McClune.

According to the report, made by L. J. Truax, F. J. Todd and A. W. Blackburn, they found that cash was advanced county officials on salaries as loans. The checkers declare the money was repaid, but the practice constitutes misappropriation.

A copy of the report was filed with Attorney General Gibson.

The amounts vary, totalling $498.-10, and were used for paying light bills and other monthly bills of the persons to whom loaned, the report declares. In addition there were eight irregular checks totalling $884.32, varying in amount from one dollar to $700, found in the cash drawer, the report said.

The checkers also reported the Winnebago county supervisors made a compromise tax agreement with banks which was illegal. They declare the three banks involved owed taxes and penalties of $11,213.80, and the supervisors agreed to accept as full payment of taxes $8,120.23, which was collected by the treasurer. This leaves $3,093.47 of the taxes unpaid.—Des Moines Capital.

OUSTER UNLIKELY IN IRREGULARITY CASES OF COUNTY OFFICERS

DES MOINES, Oct. 10.—Ouster proceedings against any county officials in which irregularities in financial matters are alleged to have taken place are extremely unlikely, officials in Attorney General Ben J. Gibson office said.

The county attorneys in each of the counties where state checkers have found irregularities have been called in for a conference, however.

G. E. Osmundson, Winnebago county attorney, has been here for a conference with members of the state auditor's staff concerning alleged irregularities in his county. The state checkers reported that the supervisors made a compromise settlement in some of the larger tax cases, which is an illegal procedure, state officials contend. Mr. Osmundson said that the supervisors secured a bond from three banks in case the settlement was declared illegal.

In three Iowa counties officials have been sentenced for illegal irregularities.

H. J. Houstman, clerk of Osceola county district court, and M. F. Taylor, former county auditor, were sentenced to the reformatory at Anamosa on charges of embezzlement.

W. H. Neighbor, former auditor and Lloyd A. Waters former clerk in Monroe county received sentences to Anamosa.

A. W. Patrick, Monona county treasurer plead guilty recently to a charge of embezzlement and received a ten year sentence.

Violations of the law have been discovered in checking over the business affairs of Wapello, Allamakee, Fremont and Dallas counties also.

MORE IN PRISONS OF IOWA NOW THAN TEN YEARS AGO

DES MOINES, Oct. 15.—A study of the records shows that Iowa penal institutions house slightly larger numbers of inmates now than they did ten years ago, and the cost of maintenance of the prisons and reformatories has increased somewhat per capita.

In this state, the average daily population of the state prison in 1915 was 530. For the fiscal year ending in June 1925, it was 830. This would indicate that about the average number of older criminals were being imprisoned, the institution being only for prisoners of 30 years or more, unless they are convicted of serious crime. The average per capita cost ten years ago was $276. It is now $340 a year.

The Anamosa reformatory for younger prisoners housed a daily average of 675 ten years ago. This year it is 945. The increase is due in part to more strenuous prosecution for minor crime. The average per capita cost is $322.

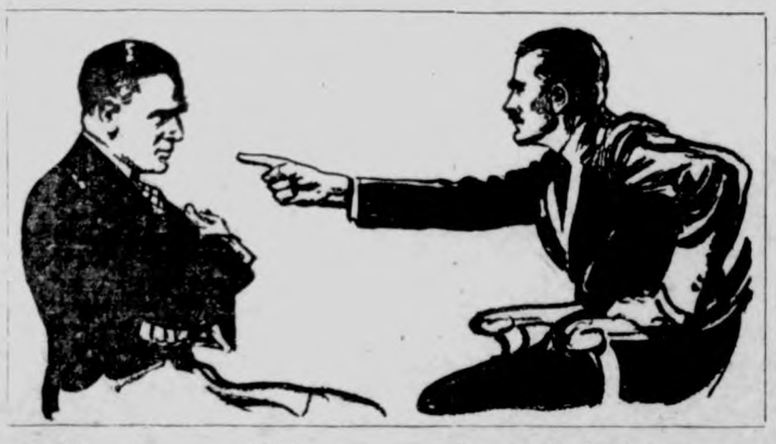
The women's reformatory at Rock well City houses 91 inmates at an approximate per capita cost of $530. It has been established only recently so no comparable figures are available.

New Commandments

We want all our citizens to stick to the original ten commandments, but here are some new ones going the rounds of the press that they can also observe and profit:

1. Honor thy town and keep its sanitary laws.
2. Remember thy house cleaning days and keep them holy.
3. Love thy children and provide for them decent schoolrooms.
4. Thou shalt not keep in disorder thy alley, yard or street.
5. Thou shalt not endanger thy neighbor's health by disease breeding weeds or filth.
6. Thou shalt not let the deadly housefly live.
7. Thou shalt not bear false rumor and gossip in the neighborhood.
8. Thou shalt keep fresh air in thy house by day and by night.
9. Thou shalt not steal thy children's happiness from them by neglecting their health.
10. Thou shalt not spit on the sidewalk, nor on the floor, nor in any public place whatsoever.

A Good Tip!



Order Your Coal Now.

RIGHT NOW is the time to put in your supply of Coal for the winter. We can supply you NOW with high grade coal—why take chances by waiting? Order now!

Semi-Anthracite Coal

Have just received a car load of this high grade coal. You know Semi-Anthracite can't be beat. Try a load.

Miller Creek Coal

We have another car load of this popular coal on the road due to arrive any day. If you have never used this kind of coal you have missed something. Order a load now.

Our warehouse is full of all kinds of Feed. We have just unloaded a car of SWIFT'S TANKAGE, come in and get all you need. A full line of MILL FEEDS of all kinds. Have on hand DRY BUTTER MILK FEED and SUGAR FEED. Drive in and load up on Feeds—prices right!

MAPLE SOTA and WHITE ROYAL FLOUR

Klemme Grain Co.

The Farmers' Elevator

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON A NARROW ESCAPE

"Oh, Aunty, I just have to talk to you," said Maud, bursting in on Aunt Emmy. "Those bonds Tom's father gave us for a wedding present have matured and Tom has the money. A man is trying to get Tom to invest in a radio company. I want your opinion on it."

"Don't hurry; tell me everything you can remember," said Aunt Emmy.

"Well, Tom didn't seem enthusiastic. Then Mr. Brown, the salesman, said that if he bought stock in his company, and wanted his money at any time, the company would buy back his stock."

"Are you sure he said that?" interrupted Aunt Emmy. "That is a claim that is not made by people connected with dependable investment houses. Unless you have an agreement with the company clearly stating that it will repurchase its stock, signed by one of its officers, you would have great difficulty in getting the company to buy back your stock. A company cannot be compelled to repurchase its own stock. Do you know who Mr. Brown is?"

"No," replied Maud. "Neither does Tom, but he seems awfully nice and Tom liked him right from the start. He is good looking, well dressed, and has beautiful manners."

Aunt Emmy sniffed. "Did he offer to sell you preferred stock on which dividends are guaranteed?"

"Why, how did you know, Aunty?" exclaimed Maud. "That is exactly what he did."

"I thought so," said Aunt Emmy. "Reliable stock salesmen don't promise that a company will repurchase its stock, nor do they promise guaranteed dividends. Unless a company operates profitably, it cannot pay honest dividends of any sort, guaranteed or otherwise. You can see how foolish it is to believe that you can get dividends just because some one says they are guaranteed. The only guarantee in the world for dividends is the successful operation of a company. Guaranteed dividends is a glib phrase used by unscrupulous persons to get money from unthinking ones. A while back the country was flooded with fake oil stock. Now dishonest promoters are trying radio stock."

"What shall I do?" cried Maud. "Tom is with Mr. Brown now at the store to buy the stock with the bond money."

"You just go to the phone and call Tom," said Aunt Emmy. "Ask him and Mr. Brown to meet you at the bank at ten o'clock. Tell him not to buy the stock until you talk with him again. Half the money is yours. Then call the bank and make an appointment with the vice president to discuss an investment."

About noon Aunt Emmy's telephone rang. It was Maud. "The queerest thing happened, Aunty," she said. "Mr. Brown agreed to meet us at the bank at ten o'clock. Tom and I waited until eleven and he never showed up. Then Tom told the vice president about it and he said we had a lucky escape. Only last week the bank looked up the company Mr. Brown represented and it is absolutely no good!"—A. B. Aymes.

TO MAKE FARMING YIELD BETTER RETURNS

The outstanding possibilities of co-operative marketing are more largely along the lines of standardizing and improving production, eliminating excess varieties, standardizing and improving grade and pack, stabilizing production, regulating flow to market, improving distribution as between markets, developing new markets, collective bargaining, betterment of financing, correcting trade abuses, and representing producers before legislative and administrative bodies, says H. E. Erdman, associate professor in California College of Agriculture. All of these should, of course, result in higher net returns, he says, adding:

"If I were to list the limitations I should put them about as follows:

"1. Co-operation cannot fix prices that are out of line with supply and demand conditions.

"2. Co-operation cannot eliminate the middleman. It can, and does, of course, establish the farmers' own agencies to take the places of private agencies and often puts one co-operative agency where several dealers formerly operated.

"3. Co-operation cannot reduce costs greatly except in so far as an increase in scale of operations makes for lower costs. Some of the gains of large scale operation, however, are dissipated because of tendencies toward extravagance.

"4. Co-operatives will not run alone. Constant attention is required on the part of the membership because 'what is everybody's business is nobody's business.'

"5. Co-operation does not permit the farmer to hold his products for a higher price without also compelling him to assume the risks of getting a lower price.

"6. The outsider often gets as much of the benefit of co-operative marketing as does the member, and in some cases gets more because he does not have to bear his share of certain development expenses. This is a decided handicap to co-operation."

FEDERAL RESERVE HELPS FARMERS

How Its Aid to England's Return to a Gold Standard Benefits American Agriculture.

By M. A. TRAYLOR
Second Vice President American Bankers Association.

There has been no more important event for the American farmer and stock man since the Armistice than the recent return of Great Britain to a gold standard. It seems a long distance from the Montana farm to the gold vaults of the Bank of England, but the price the farmer gets for his wheat and cattle depends not a little on that gold.

M. A. Traylor

The farmer sells his wheat to the elevator man and yet the real buyer, in many cases, is an Englishman, a Frenchman, a German, or an Italian. About one-third of the wheat crop is usually sold abroad and this part is a large factor in fixing the price of the entire crop. Between the farmer and the foreign buyer there are many steps. In recent years the most important step has been that at which the foreign buyer has to pay the American exporter, for the international mechanism of payment has been badly out of order because Europe was off the gold standard. It was just as though an English buyer drove up to your farm house, bargained for your wheat and drew up the contract. But when you discussed payment, he said: "I'm sorry I haven't any good United States money to pay you with; I'll have to pay you in my English paper money, which isn't worth its face value in gold. I don't know what it may be worth next week, but that is your risk."

A Deadly Foe of Trade

How many would be willing to sign contracts on this basis? Yet that is the way most of the world's trade has had to be carried on since the Armistice. In practically all countries except the United States the currencies have had no fixed value in gold, but have changed in value from day to day. Whenever one country sold anything to another country, somebody had to take the risk of loss because the value of the money might change before payment was made. Such uncertainty of payment is a deadly foe of trade, and people were afraid to do any larger international business than they had to.

Exports of food stuffs from the United States fell from two and a half billion dollars in 1919 to eight hundred millions in 1923, and the difficulties of European buyers in making satisfactory payment for American farm products was one of the large factors in the drop in the prices of farm products. But now the recent action of Great Britain in declaring that it will again redeem its paper money in gold means that British buyers of American products can pay for them with money which is accepted the world over at its face value in gold. With the return of Great Britain to the gold standard, a majority of the countries of Europe have paper currencies equal to gold.

How Reserve Banks Helped

American bankers have assisted in the British return to the gold standard by giving a $100,000,000 credit to the British government. But more important than this was the action of the Federal Reserve Banks in granting the Bank of England material co-operation. They placed $200,000,000 gold at the disposal of the Bank of England for two years, to be used by it, if necessary, in maintaining the gold standard. The readiness of the Reserve Banks thus to co-operate was an important influence in the willingness of the British to take this all important step.

This action of the Reserve Banks was a most constructive step in aid of American farmers and producers who will benefit greatly by the removal of this element of uncertainty from their export transactions. If all the sins of omission and commission charged againts the Federal Reserve System by banker, business man, live stock man or political blatherskite in the last five years were true, and practically none of them are, the service rendered commerce and industry by the System in connection with the restoration of the gold standard in so large a part of the world would far outweigh any mistakes that those in charge of the System may have made. No banker, business man or farmer should permit any self serving declaration by favor seeking demagogue to swerve him from a determination to see that the System is maintained for the future welfare of the country.

Fundamentally conditions are very sound and we are doing a very large volume of business, no little part of which is due to the equalizing and stabilizing effect exercised by the Federal Reserve System on the credits of the country. Throughout all the stress of the last five years there have been no times of either stringency or plethora of bank credit. Rates have run along on a rather level keel and in my judgment have had much to do with the stable volume of business which we have enjoyed, and which is quite contrary to the old experience of the aftermath of panics. With a credit structure such as only the Federal Reserve System can guarantee, I feel we need have no apprehension but on the contrary sound optimism for the future.

Cold Weather Clothes

For Men and Boys

Coming right at the start of the Fall and Winter Season, here's a real opportunity. When you consider the quality of this merchandise and the low prices, you will appreciate the values offered. Herewith we list a few items:

Sheep Lined Coats

We have them in all sizes and all styles, both long and short lengths.

LEATHER VESTS

A full line of high grade vests in all leather, mohair, corduroy, etc. The price on these is right!

Heavy Shirts

WOOL and FLANNEL SHIRTS

A big variety of patterns, novelty plaids, fancy checks and plain colors in our heavy shirts. "Full cut for Comfort," ready for your inspection. Come and see them and provide for cold weather. All sizes.

LUMBER JACKS and SWEATERS

A full line of the new Sport Jackets in all colors and styles. A fine line of sweaters and Jerseys.

G. W. Kluckhohn & Sons

New Fall Goods

WE HAVE ON HAND A FULL LINE OF NEW FALL AND WINTER GOODS—

MENS' DRESS OVERCOATS
$15.00 to $18.00

MENS' LEATHER JACKETS
$6.00 to $15.00

Mens' and Boy's Sweaters — Caps — Hose
Mittens — Mufflers — Felt Slippers
Overshoes — Rubbers, Etc.

Just the things to keep you warm!

SATURDAY SPECIAL

A nice line of LADIES HOUSE DRESSES and APRONS for Fall, $1.50 to $2.25 values, going at 89c

(Ladies Aid Bake Sale Here Saturday)

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Globe

RANGES HEATERS
FURNACES

We have on hand a complete line of GLOBE RANGES and can make immediate delivery on any style you choose. Come in and look over our fine line of ranges—and at prices that will suit you.

We have a good assortment of GLOBE HEATERS in all sizes. If you need a good heater it will pay you to come here.

"A Houseful of Clean Heat," at a small cost is what a GLOBE FURNACE will mean to you. Investigate today.

E. F. Jacobs

THE KLEMME TIMES

irtieth Year—Number 7. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

FIRST BASKET BALL GAME HERE NOVEMBER 25

LEMME HIGH SCHOOL SQUAD HAVE FOURTEEN GAMES

THER SCHOOL NEWS OF INTEREST

TTERS AWARDED TO MANY STUDENTS FOR GOOD SCHOOL WORK

avy Schedule Ahead For Basket Ball Team; First Game Here Wednesday, Nov. 25th

Miss Colcord, of Des Moines, who ched our declamatory contest- s here last year, has written to ure work with us again this year. will be secured if dates can be eed upon for her work here last r seems to have been very satis- tory.

Corwith Wins Last Ball Game

The seats ordered for the primary m have arrived and our little k are now much more comfortably ted. They had been sitting in ts too high for them.

Our boys lost their last game of eall to Corwith. We have had ee other games scheduled this but weather has become a little cold for games recently and we not play the others this season.

Schedule Basket Ball Games

We have scheduled 14 games of ket ball for the high school boys hope our boys observe the train- rules laid down by Mr. Hockey, r coach, as to diet, hours sleep, Unless this is done we cannot e to have as successful a season this game. Our boys have done te well in baseball and have had endid support on the part of the unspeople. We believe we may ex- t as successful a season of basket- l. Our first game will be at stal Lake on November 20. Our s should be in good trim ere that e. New goals have been secured our gymnasium and backboards e been re-inforced and painted ich should make for more satis- tory practice.

Our schedule is as follows:

Crystal Lake on Nov. 20, there.
Crystal Lake, Nov. 25, here.
Alexander Dec. 4, here.
Hayfield, Dec. 11, there.
Rowan, Dec. 17, here.
Ventura, Jan. 8, here.
Renwick, Jan. 12, there.
Alexander, Jan. 15, there.
Hayfield, Jan. 22, here.
Rowan, Jan. 29 there.
Renwick, Feb. 2, here.
Swaledale, Feb. 5, there.
Ventura, Feb. 12, there.
Swaledale, Feb. 19, here.

Students Receive Letters

We are listing below students who e awarded for the last six weeks iod letters indicating more than rage quality of work. As we in- ated last week "A" indicates su- ior or the highest quality of work, siderable above average. "B" in- ates above average work.

Esther Fuller, 2 A's.
Donald Gibbs, 1 A and 1 B.
Hallie Greiman, 4 A's and 1 B.
Myrtle Irving, 4 B's.
Vernon Turgeson, 1 A and 4 B.
Martin Barz, 1 A and 3 B's.
Mabel Schaffer, 3 A's and 1 B.
Elvira Stille, 1 A and 4 B's.
Ruth Fuller, 1 A and 3 B's.
Kenneth Gast, 2 A's and 2 B's.
Lawrence Greimann, 2 A's and 2 B's.
Irene Johnson, 1A and 3 B's.
Lucille Kraus, 1 A.
Ethel Johnson, 2 A's and 2 B's.
Harvey Nelson, 1 A and 4 B's.
Gladys Wilson, 4 A's and 1 B.

here are several others whose es will be published next week.

The Ladies Aid Bazar, Nov. 19th. e buy your Xmas Gifts, at the ish House. 1tc

MONSTER EAGLE KILLED BY FARMER NEAR HANLONTOWN

Bird Has Wingspread of Over Six Feet, Mountain Variety

A large Rocky Mountain eagle, measuring 6 feet and 8 inches from tip to tip of wing and weighing 12 pounds, was killed last week by Nels M. Brunsvold, a farmer living about two miles northeast of Hanlontown.

Mr. Brunsvold's attention was attracted at dawn by a commotion among his chickens roosting in the trees near the farm house, taknig the large bird to be a hawk. Mr. Brunsvold procured his gun and shot the eagle. After it was brought to earth it took two more charges of shot to kill it, which upon examination proved to be a fine specimen of the Rocky Mountain eagle, a bird seldom seen in this region.

The size, weight and color of the bird corresponds with that of the Mountain eagle liberated at Pilot Knob two years ago.

A taxidermist will mount the bird for Mr. Brunsvold.

OBITUARY—CLAUDE FULLER

Death came suddenly and claimed Claude Fuller on Sunday morning. He had been in the best of health apparently and after partaking of a hearty breakfast was about to pass from the dining room to the reception room when he dropped dead.

Mr. Claude Luolphicus Fuller was born in Avery Township, Hancock County, and lived all his life in this county. At the time of his death he was 57 years, 5 months and 1 day old.

After the death of his parents the deceased made his home for a time with his brother, Sumner, and family in Avery Township. He died Sunday morning, October 18, 1925.

One by one they are summoned from this life to the other world. We thus sustain the losses of loved ones. But may our losses be only gain for those gone before.

Our sympathy goes out to the bereaved brother and sister, and other relatives of the deceased.

He is survived by his brother, Sumner G., of Goodell, Iowa, and one sister, Mrs. Myra Metcalf, of Butte Montana. The latter was not present for the funeral.

Funeral services were held from the home of the brother and in the United Brethern Church of Goodell, conducted by Rev. A. W. Gauger, of Klemme. A mixed quartet of the U. B. church furnished the music and sang a number of beautiful songs.

Interment was made in the Goodell cemetery.

—Rev. A. W. Gauger.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

All our services will be regular next Sunday. This does not mean, however, that the service should be commonplace, for any service is and should be extraordinary in some feature. But it does mean that we should be regular in our attendance upon the Means of Grace. We are sure that the fine spirit of past times will prevail in these services.

The new Sunday school class with Prof. Penrod at the helm took off last Sunday, and we predict a large class to be the outgrowth. This class is and should be quite inclusive. So, if you do not belong to the Adult Class nor fit into the classes below, you will no doubt be eligible for this class. If you belong to the Adult class, however, or to another class then help make that class the best ever.

The W. F. M. S. will hold its first monthly meeting of this year in the parsonage on Thursday, Oct. 29. Fine things are in store for those who attend.

WILL CELEBRATE THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE AT PHILADELPHIA IN JUNE

The Declaration Of Independence Was Adopted One Hundred Fifty Years Ago

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

The difficulties between England and her American Colonies which led to the Revolutionary War and the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of which will be observed next year by the Sequicentennial International Exposition at Philadelphia, can be tbraced back to 1733.

In that year the British parliment passed the first of a series of acts which so tried the patience of the colonists that they began thinking of separate political existence.

The first act, passed in 1733, was known as the Molasses act. It placed a tax of six pence a gallon on molasses. It was followed by the Sugar act of 1764, placing a tax on sugar, and a year later by the Stamp act, which ordered a duty on all legal documents, pamphlets, newspapers, advertisements and almanacs.

The stamp act was repealed in 1766 and in 1767 the passage of the Townsend act placed a tax on tea, glass, paper and painters materials. This act particularly incensed the Colonies. It provided that some of the proceeds would pay the salaries of colonial governors and judges and ordered the trial cases growing out of collecting of revenue to be heard before judges without the presence of juries.

At this time Connecticut sent a representative to England to protest against "Taxation without Representation." Virginia passed a resolution against the acts and Patrick Henry delivered his famous speech, "Give me liberty or give me death."

The people of the Colonies suffered under these various forms of taxation, but boycotts against taxed articles became wide-spread. Then, on December 16, 1773, a party of men disguised as Indians boarded a British vessel in Boston harbor and emptied its cargo of tea into the bay. On October 16, 1773, Philadelphia had its own tea party in the State House Square, at which strong resolutions were adopted, refusing to pay the tax on tea. At that meeting a committee was appointed to wait on Captain Ayers, of the ship "Polly" and instruct him not to attempt to land his cargo. It was on December 27 that the "Polly" arrived in the harbor and Captain Ayers was met by a crowd of eight thousand excited people. He was given to understand that he must take the ship back to England after one day's grace allowing him to obtain food and water.

Klemme Firemen Getting Plenty Of Practice Lately

FIRE BROKE OUT IN GREIMANN GARAGE AT 2:00 O'CLOCK WEDNESDAY MORNING

Fire Company Makes Another Quick Run To Scene Of Fire

Two young Klemme men returning home from a dance at Garner discovered heavy smoke rolling out of the Greimann Motor Co.'s garage building Wednesday morning at two o'clock.

Shortly after the alarm was given the fire company was on the job and had a hose at work getting the flames under control.

The fire originated and was confined to a furnace room pit near the middle of the building and the thick smoke coming from the pit made it difficult to work for a time as the boys had to crawl on their hands and knees to get to the pit with the hose. Water was poured into the furnace pit until the fire was extinguished.

The fire no doubt originated in the pit as a pile of corn cobs was in one corner and a spark from the furnace perhaps started a blaze.

About two years ago Mr. Greimann suffered a $15,000 fire loss in the building which then stood on the same block to the east of his present location.

The fire Wednesday morning did not do a large amount of damage. Most of the damage was done by he heavy smoke and some water.

This is the third fire at night in Klemme within the past three weeks and the fire company are getting a real work out. They are to be complimented on their speedy work of getting their equipment to a fire at night.

Check Forger Gets 90 Days

Joseph Schruder who forged several small checks on Goldfield merchants a few months ago, plead guilty Monday before Judge Thompson and was given a three months sentence in the county jail. The court took into consideration the fact that the defendant had already spent a couple of months in jail not being able to furnish bond.—Clarion Monitor.

CHARLES PAPOUSEK SERIOUSLY HURT AT BELMOND

The following account of Charles Papousek's serious accident is clipped from the Belmond Herald-Press of this week:

"Charles J. Papousek suffered a dislocated collar bone and a broken arm besides many serious and painful bruises last Saturday morning. The accident occurred while he was taking a Delco Light Machine into the basement of the Morris brothers farm home south of Belmond. Charley was sliding the machine down a plank on the cellar steps, something he has done frequently with the same machine, one of his demonstrating machines, when his foot slipped on the stairs and he fell under the weight of the machine which slid down to the cement floor with great speed and force enough to dent the concrete. Dr. Steele was called immediately and first aid administered. Charley was then removed to the Steele hospital where his injuries were dressed and his whole left side and arm were put in a cast. He suffers a great deal of pa'n and distress but his general condition appears all that could be expected and his rapid recovery is hoped for."

"Pap" has many friends in Klemme who are sorry to hear of his misfortune. Mr. and Mrs. Papousek seem to have more than their share of ill-luck. Last winter their little baby daughter was killed in an auto accident when their car skidded and over-turned on the ice covered highway south of Goodell and at which time Mrs. Papousek suffered a broken arm and other injuries. Mrs. Papousek is a sister of our townsman Ed. Jacobs.

OVERLOOKED THE COMMA

The wife of a man who had enlisted in the navy handed the pastor of a church the following note: "Peter Bowers having gone to sea, his wife desires the prayers of the congregation for his safety."

The minister glanced over it hurriedly and announced:

"Peter Bowers having gone to see his wife, desires the prayers of the congregation for his safety."

FOR SALE or TRADE—Residence property in Klemme, modern house and 3½ lots. Inquire at Times. 3p

THREE DAY OPEN SEASON WAS ENJOYED BY HUNTERS

NEW RADIO DEVICE WILL AID IN WAR ON BANK ROBBERS

Warning Will Come Through Radio Station Operator At Des Moines

DES MOINES, Oct. 22.—A new device brought recently from New, York, which it is expected will be installed in the office of every bank, sheriff's office and police station in the state, will enable police to learn instantly if there has been a bank robbery committed, officials at radio station WHO have announced.

The device which is said to be fool proof is fastened to an electric light socket—doing away with the necessity of a battery, and is tuned in constantly with station WHO.

When a robbery is reported to the radio station, operator rings a bell and flashes a light in each of the offices where one of these instruments has been placed, and the bankers or police officer simply has to listen in to get the location of the last bank robbery.

The system is so arranged, officials said, that officers in certain sections of the state can be called, as well as all of them.

Frank Warner, secretary of the Iowa Bankers association who is cooperating with the radio station said that Iowa will be the first state in the union where such a plan has ever been tried. He said it would doubtless make it much easier to catch bank robbers than has been possible heretofore.

"The officers of this association," he said, "and the WHO station are setting about at once to have the equipment installed throughout the state."

The County Bankers associations in Iowa will have direct charge of it."

Red Cross Roll Armistice Day

WITH ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND MEMBERS AS GOAL

Big Annual Red Cross Drive Begins Armistice Day Until Turkey Day

One hundred thousand Iowa members of the American Red Cross will be the goal sought in the ninth annual Roll Call which is now scheduled to open throughout the state on Armistice Day, continuing through Thanksgiving.

State Red Cross headquarters said that this would be the most intensive effort of its kind launched in Iowa since the record breaking world war days. One hundred and thirty-two chapters and scores of branches in cities and towns all over Iowa will conduct the Roll Call. Rural communities as well as cities will be canvassed.

The dollar Red Cross membership will be chiefly emphasized, although the larger memberships of $5, $10, $25, $50, and $100 will be available as usual. All except fifty cents of each membership remains in the community in which it is raised for local Red Cross work. The fifty cents goes to the national organization is used to carry on disaster relief, maintainance of hospital service for disabled veterans, international humanitarian work, etc.

Regional meetings in all parts of the state are to be held during the coming three weeks, through which detailed plans for the roll call will be worked out with local leaders. These meetings will be attended by officials from both state and national headquarters, including Wm. M. Baxter, Jr., of St. Louis, head of the midwestern Red Cross, Judge Hulbert Utterback, chairman of the Iowa Council of Red Cross Chapters and Pres. D. W. Moorehouse of Drake University, chairman of the Roll Call for Iowa.

KLEMME FARMERS WERE LIBERAL

GET THEIR LIMIT SHOOTING RING KNECK PHEASANTS

Open Season Proves To Be Good Sport For Local Hunters

Hunters in this vicinity have been getting their limit of three pheasant male birds each day they have been going out during the three day open season in this part of the state.

Farmers in this vicinity have been very liberal to hunters in letting them go on their land to shoot the pheasant. Quite a number of farmers had put up "No Hunting" signs along their farms, but usually they would grant permission to hunt despite the warning. Most farmers do not object to hunting if the hunters will first get permission, and we do not blame the land owners as they want to know who is shooting on the lands owned or tenanted by them. They find that the hunter who first asks permission to hunt uses every precaution not to injure or damage fences, stock or crops. It is the unscrupulous hunter who damages fences, crops and sometimes stock who the farmer objects to have running around on his land.

We believe the hunters are good sportsmen around here and do not try to get more than their limit of three birds a day during the open season.

The open season has provided good sport and hunters will be glad to be granted an open season each year.

A few ducks have been bagged the past few days, but as a rule, this sport has not been good this season as the ducks have not come from the north in very large flocks.

"Bill" and Aaron Greimann brot in six or seven fine geese about a week ago, and have also been getting a number of ducks. So far they win the brass medal.

MEETING HELD IN BRITT FRIDAY SHOWED PROGRESS MADE DURING YEAR

Officers Were Elected For The Coming Year; 1004 Members

Theannual meeting of the Hancock county Farm Bureau was held in the Coliseum at Britt last Friday.

Reports show d that progress had been made in the work during the year, especially in the women's work and the girls and boys clubs.

County Agent L. T. Nutty outlined the program for the coming year and laid plans for its execution.

Mrs. Cutler Talks

Mrs. Glenn Cutler of Logan, committee woman for the ninth district, gave a very interesting and practical address on women's work in the Farm Bureau.

C. W. Huntle, vice president of the Iowa federation of the Farm Bureau told of some of the achievements in legislation through the organization.

A picnic dinner was served at the noon hour which proved to be very enjoyable event.

At the opening of the afternoon program Rev. E. D. Calkins conducted the community singing and C. O. Stith sang two solos.

Officers Elected

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, W. L. Lawhorn, Garner; Vice Pres., T. R. Reihm, Garner; Treasurer, Ren Smith, Britt; Secretary, Antony Baker, Britt.

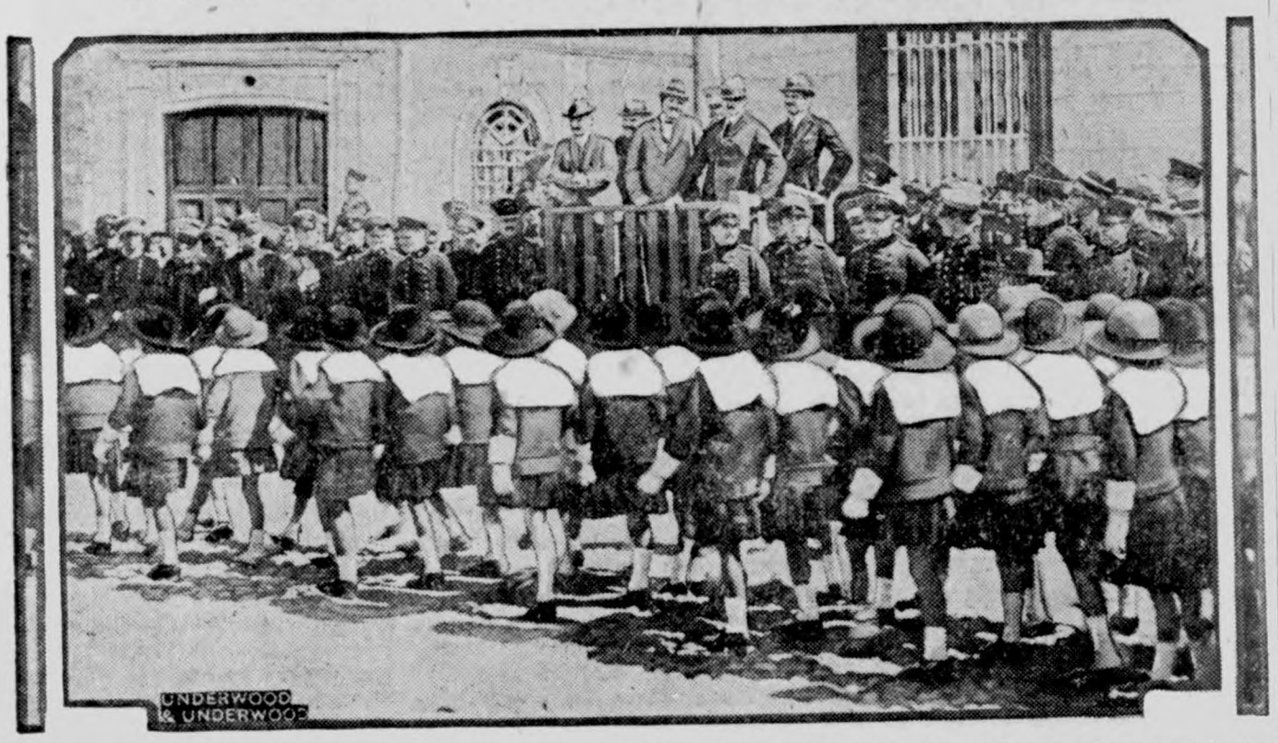
Mrs. A. R. Lewison, of Britt, was elected president of the women's work and Mrs. E. J. Schneider, of Goodell, was placed in charge of the girl's club work.

The secreary's report showed that there are 1004 members in the county with dues paid.

Motorcade From Central States Travels to Florida

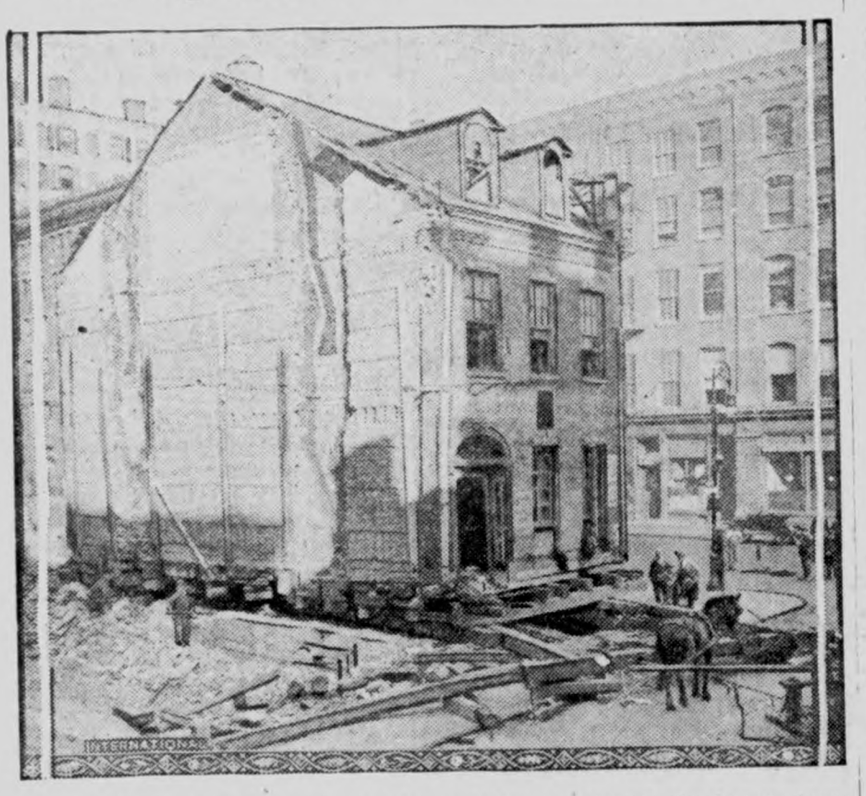
A national motorcade, in celebration of the completion of Dixie highway, started at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., gathered hundreds of recruits all through the central states and proceeded on its way to Florida. The plan was to divide into three parts at Memphis and to reunite at Jacksonville and go thence to St. Petersburg. The illustration shows the start of the Chicago contingent, and, inset, Capt. W. L. Gilbreath of Detroit, honorary marshal of the motorcade.

School Girls of Tacna Reviewed by Gen. Pershing



General Pershing, Ambassador Edwards and General Morrow reviewing schoolgirls of Tacna, who paraded during the Tacna-Arica plebiscite in South America.

Moving Monroe House to New Site



Efforts of historical and patriotic societies to preserve the former home of President James Monroe at 63 Prince street, New York, have been successful at last. The dilapidated house was removed to its new site at 95 Crosby street as a memorial to the fifth President of the United States.

Panama Riots Suppressed by Yanks

United States troops, at the request of President Chiari of Panama, entered Panama City and suppressed the rent riots started by bolshevists. Above is the White House of Panama, the residence of the President.

TREATY OF LOCARNO FORMALLY APPROVED

Treaty Seeks to Make War Impossible for Europe—Disarmament Next.

Locarno, Switzerland.—The treaty of Locarno, carrying elaborate machinery to prevent war between the jealous powers of the European continent for all time, has been signed.

The pact, which seeks to make war suicidal for the nation which opens hostilities, was initialed by France, Germany and Belgian as the makers of the security treaty, and by England and Italy as guarantors.

Under its terms, France, Germany and Belgium pledge themselves never to attack or invade the others' territory and England and Italy agree to use their might against any of the three which breaks the agreement.

Arbtration between any of the nations signatory to the pact, which become involved in disputes, is made compulsory, with the World Court of International Justice, the council of the League of Nations and boards of conciliation alternative means for the arbitration.

Corollary to the main security treaty are other agreements dovetailing with it to establish an inviolate Rhine zone between France and Belgium and Germany and an arbitration treaty between Germany and Poland and Czechoslovakia, which contains means of settling by arbitration all disputes between those three countries both as to eastern boundaries and all other differences and the provision that if Poland or Czechoslovakia is attacked France shall aid them.

The corollary treaties are to be signed in London. The conference adjourned after the main security treaty was signed, amid rejoicing in Locarno and the hailing of the success of the conference as the dawn of a new era of peace and confidence in Europe and the world.

Contained in the agreements is a pledge that Germany will join the League of Nations and the league is anxious that Germany enter it at the earliest possible date, to make way for the next step in the bringing of a new day to Europe.

This step will be the calling by the league of a conference to limit the armaments of the European powers on land, sea and air.

Out of the signature of the Locarno treaties and the results of the disarmament conference which it is intended to have follow as soon as security is attained are expected the following changes in Europe:

The wiping out of the fears of the French for the Germans, Germans for France, Czechoslovakia and Poland for Germany and Russia—in fact, to destroy the constant jealousy and hatred, born of fear of their neighbors, under which the inhabitants of central and western Europe have lived for centuries.

To remove from these peoples the burden of economicaly crushing armaments, disordering economic conditions and high taxes resulting therefrom.

8 Planes Fall in Gale; Three Flyers Lose Lives

Wheeling, W. Va.—Scattered by a heavy rainstorm encountered over the Allegheny mountains, 48 airplanes which hopped off at Bolling field, Washington, en route west, are all accounted for.

One of the planes, an army machine, crashed to earth near New Salem, Pa., killing its three occupants; one landed at Roscoe, W. Va.; five others who lost their way came down in pastures near New Martinsville, W. Va., while an eighth made a landing in a small valley east of Wheeling.

The planes were en route to their varous stations in the interior after having participated in the air races at Mitchel field, New York.

The killed are George H. Burgess of Wilbur Wright field, Dayton; Maurice Hatton, representative of a Dayton aero trade journal and Verne Timmerman, Dayton Herald photographer.

MacNider Sworn in as Assistant War Secretary

Washington.—The people of the nation are vitally interested in national defense and would like to see the full provisions of the national defense act carried out, Col. Hanford MacNider of Iowa declared after being sworn in as assistant secretary of war.

He added that he would attempt to carry out the policies initiated by his predecessor, Secretary Davis, and declared that as an ex-service man he was tremendously interested in the nation's defense.

Colonel MacNider was sworn in at noon in the presence of Secretary Davis, Chief of Staff Hines, Deputy Chief of Staff Nolan and other bureau chiefs.

Pershing in Difficulties

Washington.—Continued friction between the Peruvian and Chilean delegates is causing officials here to fear that Gen. John J. Pershing may lose control of the Tacna and Arica plebiscite situation in South America.

1,456 Climb Long's Peak

Estes Park, Col.—Twenty per cent of the people who essayed the climb of Long's peak this year were successful. The number who climbed the peak was 1,456.

SECRETARY OF WAR

Dwight F. Davis of Missouri has been appointed by President Coolidge to succeed Mr. Weeks as secretary of war. Mr. Davis had been assistant secretary, and before that was chairman of the finance corporation.

GREEN RE-ELECTED HEAD OF A. F. OF L.

Labor Opposed to Recognition of Russian Soviet.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The American Federation of Labor re-elected President William Green and his associate officers by acclamation; chose Detroit as next year's convention city; declared against formation of an independent labor party and opposed recognition of the Russian Soviet by the United States.

Many other resolutions also were adopted.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, made the nominating speech. He brought the delegates to their feet cheering when he recounted that Mr. Green was the son of a coal miner; "had labored in the dungeons and learned the language of those who toil," and had risen to a position where he was "a great American, great and wise in council, and great in battle."

The resolution proposing support of a movement to bring about a world conference of trade unions was defeated unanimously.

United Mine Workers Hit by Permanent Injunction

Charleston, W. V.—Injunctions against the United Mine Workers of America and its officers and members, granted on behalf of virtually every mine in a belt south of the Kanawha river and running almost to the southern end of the state, were made permanent by order of Judge George W. McClintic, in United States District court.

The judge in his finding of facts held that the United Mine Workers had "unlawfully combined and conspired absolutely to monopolize and control all labor in the United States and on the American continent engaged in mining and producing coal."

The union, he held, engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to exclude from interstate commerce all coal produced and shipped by nonunion or unorganized mines.

45,000 Baseball Fans See Pittsburgh Win Flag

Pittsburgh, Pa. — Pittsburgh was crowned a new world's champion after the maddest, wildest, and most pathetic battle in the history of America's pastime.

With 45,000 fanatics screaming in delirious joy, then roaring in partisan rage when the Senators forged ahead, the old and crippled Walter Johnson fell before the youth and speed of the Pirates by a score of 9 to 7.

With two out in that inning, with the game seemingly saved, Johnson's strength at last failed. Before the wildly joyous Pirates could be stopped they had scored three times, and, for the first time in the feverish battle, were leading. Aldridge and Kremer were the winning pitchers.

Bandits Get $7,000 Loot

Huntington, W. Va.—After locking 15 employees and customers in a vault, two bandits, robbed the Guyandotte State bank here, escaping with $7,000.

Bag 1,500 Deer in Colorado

Denver, Colo.—Colorado hunters killed 1,500 deer during the four-day open season.

U. S. Files Porcelain Suit

Washington.—The Porcelain Appliance corporation and sixteen other corporations manufacturing porcelain insulators were made defendants in an equity suit filed by the United States government at Cleveland, under the Sherman antitrust law.

Vanderbilt Hotel Sold

New York.—The Vanderbilt hotel was sold for approximately $6,000,000 cash by Vanderbilt heirs to Walton H. Marshall and three associates.

CHIEF OF THE 40 AND 8

Stanley "Larry" Doyle of Montana who is the newly elected president of the 40 and 8, the fun-making organization within the American Legion.

COEDS PAY PENALTY

Coeds at the University of Cincinnati are punished in various ways when they disobey the rules laid down by the women's vigilance society. Patricia Ziske shared the automobile of an upper-class girl and paid for it by riding on a "kiddie car.

Free Farm Building Helps

"Concrete Around the Home" tells in everyday language how to use concrete for building drives, walks, steps, porches, and other permanent improvements which every home needs. Complete instructions make it easy to estimate the materials and to mix, place, and finish the concrete for these improvements.

"Permanent Repairs on the Farm" tells you how to repair old buildings quickly and easily, and at low cost. The information on Concrete Barn Floors and Feeding Floors will help you add many a dollar to your net profits.

"Plans for Concrete Farm Buildings" contains supplies of blue prints, and shows you, step by step, how to put up Concrete Silos, Dairy Barns, Hog Houses, Milk Houses and many other forms of Concrete Construction.

Whether you are going to build a new building, or repair an old building, these free booklets will show you how to do the job for all time. Send for them today.

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION
111 West Washington Street
CHICAGO

A National Organization to Improve and Extend the Uses of Concrete

Offices in 30 Cities

A Health Builder

HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters is a wholesome tonic. Keeps the stomach in good condition and improves the appetite.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

At All Druggists

THE HOSTETTER CO., Pittsburgh, Pa.

A man makes more good resolutions when he's broke than at any other time.

BROUGHT RELIEF AFTER 2 YEARS SUFFERING

"The makers of Tanlac will always have my warmest thanks, for I don't consider any exaggeration to say I owe my life and present good health to Tanlac," is the striking statement of Andrew Groesch, fireman.

"Words simply can't express the misery I endured for 2 years from indigestion. Sometimes gas pains would catch me around the heart and almost cut off my breath. The awful pains would last two and three hours. My nerves were all unstrung. I slept poorly and got in such a bad way that my condition seemed to be shortening rapidly.

"I tried everything, but disappointment was my only reward until I began taking Tanlac. I have been taking Tanlac off and on for a year now and feel so different that there's no room for comparison. I eat good and sleep good and feel that Tanlac has given me a new lease on life."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

TANLAC FOR YOUR HEALTH

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.Y.

Clear The Pores Of Impurities With Cuticura Soap

Soap, Ointment, Talcum sold everywhere

Dr. Isaac Thompson's EYEWATER
HELPFUL EYE WASH
1159 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Everybody knows a serious, whispering man who always professes to have "inside information."

Sure Relief

6 BELL-ANS for INDIGESTION 25 CENTS
Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION
25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

It is astonishingly easy to smile when things are going our way—but to smile when the other person is insulting, speak in a low tone when someone else is shouting, and then go home and make no complaint about his dinner, marks a really remarkable man.—Lloyd.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

A most attractive salad may be prepared with a grapefruit, an orange and a red skinned apple. Peel the orange and grapefruit and separate into sections, removing all the tough stringy fiber of the fruit. Cut the apple without peeling into eighths, removing the section of core. Arrange a section of grapefruit, then pieces of the red apple, a section of orange, another of grapefruit and apple, making a small hemisphere. Place on lettuce and serve with a spoonful of rich mayonnaise at the side of the salad.

Chili Con Carni.—Take one-half pound of fresh pork, lean and fat; one and one-half pounds of round steak, three good-sized onions, two cans of kidney beans, one chili pepper, two quarts of tomato, salt, pepper and chili powder—two or three tablespoonfuls of the powder will be needed. Chop or grind the meat (it is much nicer chopped) brown with the chopped onions, then add all of the other ingredients except the beans, which will be added just long enough to heat through well. Cook slowly for three hours, stirring often. Remove the chili pepper after the dish is well seasoned with it, or it may be too hot for some tastes.

Sweet Potatoes, Southern Style.—Boil or steam three medium-sized sweet potatoes. Pare, slice and place in overlapping rows in a shallow baking dish. Add to one-half cupful of water, one cupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, mixed with one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon. Cook these for ten minutes until sirupy. Add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and pour over the sliced potatoes. Bake covered for fifteen minutes, then brown.

Prune Whip.—Stew half a dozen prunes with a little sugar in the same water in which they were soaked overnight. Put them through a sieve, add the beaten white of an egg and serve heaped in a glass with a spoonful of whipped cream.

Food for the Family.

A white-meated fish makes a most delicious dinner dish when boiled. Wrap in a cheesecloth and simmer until tender in boiling water salted lightly. Serve with a drawn butter sauce or parsley butter, or with:

Venetian Sauce.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until well-blended; then add two cupfuls of water, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point, add the juice of half a lemon, one-fourth of a cupful of capers chopped, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley and two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped pickles. Again bring to the boiling point, season with salt and two tablespoonfuls of butter added bit by bit.

Cream Delights.—Mix and sift one and one-half cupfuls of pastry flour with one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Add very slowly enough thick cream to make a soft dough, roll out as thin as possible. Shape with a cooky-cutter, prick with a fork and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with salad.

Currant Nut Muffins.—Mix two tablespoonfuls of sugar with three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one well-beaten egg, two cupfuls of sifted flour and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add one-fourth cupful of dried currants and nut meats, one cupful of milk, and beat well. Drop into greased muffin pans and bake one-half hour in a moderate oven.

Chicken Souffle.—Make a sauce of two cupfuls of scalded milk, one-third of a cupful each of butter and flour, one teaspoonful of salt. Melt the butter, add the flour and when well-blended add the milk and the seasonings with a dash of cayenne. Remove from the heat, add two cupfuls of finely-chopped chicken, the yolks of three eggs well-beaten, then fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of three eggs and a tablespoonful of minced parsley with one-half cupful of soft bread crumbs. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake thirty-five minutes in a slow oven. Serve with mushroom sauce.

Brown Stew of Carrots.—Wash and scrape a dozen large carrots. Drop them into boiling water and cook until tender. Cut into balls with a potato cutter; add to a pint of rich brown sauce, prepared from stock, with seasoning of catsup, cayenne and onion juice. Simmer twenty minutes; thicken the sauce after removing the carrots; return to the sauce and serve.

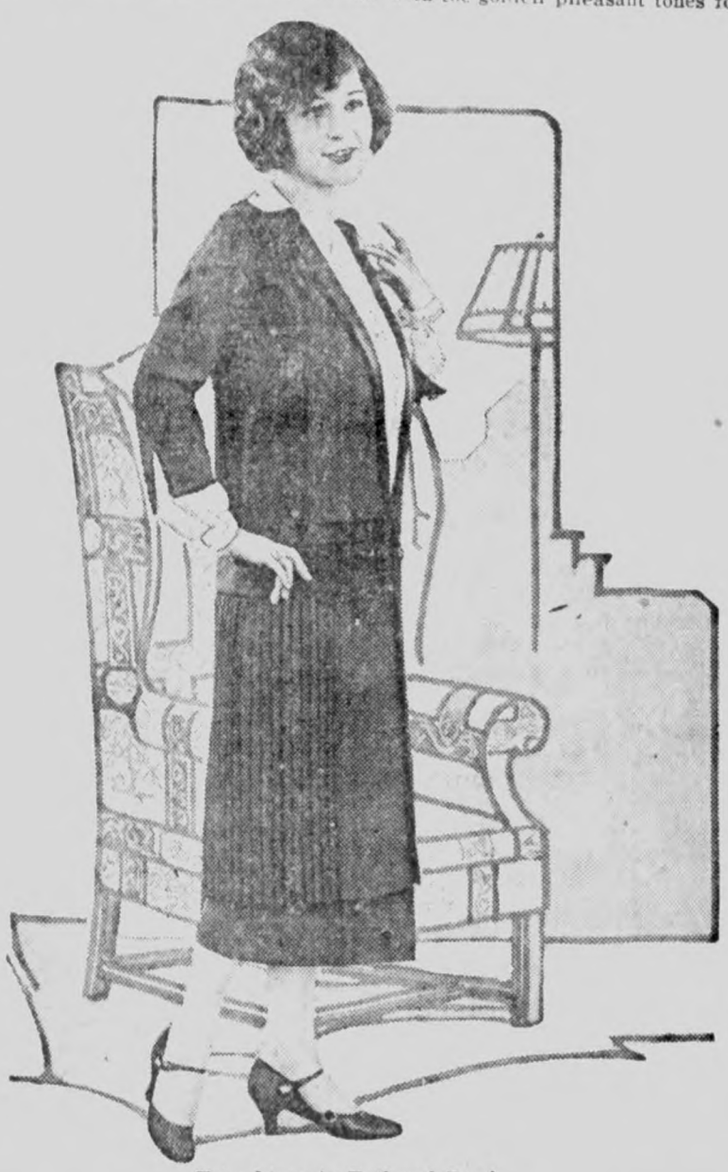
Molded Salad.—Add gelatin to tomatoes that have been put through a sieve, season and mold in small egg cups. Serve on lettuce with small spoonfuls of minced pineapple heaped around the tomato. Add a spoonful of mayonnaise at the side of each and serve.

Nellie Maxwell

ADOPTS NEW STYLE POINTS; GOLD IN SHEEN OF FABRICS

ALMOST every new tailored frock, presents itself as another good reason for clinging to simplicity of line. But, at the same time, it shows itself another good reason for adopting graceful style points in the autumn modes. The minds of stylists have ceased to dwell on the mannish note in utility clothes—it is there, but only as an accompaniment to dominating feminine tones. Therefore our street frocks have taken on plaits or flares, intricacies in cut, button and fabric details, varied new and becoming neck treatments and daintiness in accessories.

A fine exponent of this womanliness of the tailored frock is shown in the illustration, in a model that retains trim lines and the straight silhouette.



Trim Lines in Tailored Frock.

It has a long tunic, open at the front with plaited panels at each side, a narrow girdle of the material, and the popular "V" shaped front opening of the bodice. The vestee and turn-down collar may be of crepe de chine or batiste, adorned with tucks and tiny buttons, with undersleeves to match. Milady may be a picture in many of her more frivolous clothes, but she will never command more valuable admiration than comes to her in her clean-cut tailored frocks. She looks so "fit" and capable in them and so much the gentlewoman. There are many dependable wool fabrics for frocks of this character—twill, flannel, charmeen, rep, and broadcloth.

The two-piece mode is a rival of the tailored frock in the field of utility clothes and makes a welcome change—which is the spice of life in dress as in other things. Jumper dresses, in the softer unmussable cloths, as jersey, and balbriggan, are usually as plain as possible. But in smart belts and neck treatments, decorative jackets and frivolous handkerchiefs, made to be seen—not used, the eternal feminine manages to include a few vagaries.

Whereas, summer is gone, taking with it all those gay little flowerlike street hats and diaphanous picture hats that made most every girl a beauty, and whereas, there is no "if" in the matter of Winter's coming—he has sent advance heralds; and whereas, the skies will soon be dark, the landscape and streetscape dun-colored; therefore be it resolved, that we extend the glad hand of welcome to the brave, beautiful and brilliant millinery which has come to our rescue.

Everywhere in millinery there is the sheen of rich fabrics, the glow of live colors and the glint of gold and silver. Not a somber note, even in black hats, which are made of high-surfaced satin and wear sparkling jeweled adornments—no millinery, it seems, is without a sparkling touch. The range of colors is wide and beautiful, leading off with the golden pheasant tones followed by wine and other luscious reds, green, from light to Russian, blue in vivid and in soft shades, rosewood of every hue, many warm browns, maroon and some gray, beige and tan.

Pheasant-colored velvet and gold are combined in the rich hat that leads off the group pictured here. It belongs to the family of winsome poke shapes. Gold roses set in a scroll-work of narrow gold braid furnish its adornment. It is narrow at the back. A somewhat smaller shape called the Hollywood poke is very handsome in dark-brown velvet with a wreath of silver grape leaves about the crown and an ostrich pompon at one side. The small hat at the left in black and gold has a prankish brim which widens and droops at the right and completes a brilliant performance with a jeweled pin at the front. Next to it a turban of draped velvet, in the deep maroon shade called 'Black Prince," needs nothing by way of ornament. Petals made of ostrich flues adorn the large velvet hat at the lower right and they are joined by tiny gold cord. A twisted collar and tie of moire ribbon completes the design, which is attractive in any color. The always handy small black satin hat finishes up the list, trimmed with wide folds of satin and a pearl and rhinestone pin.

Hats for Winter Wear.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

SENATOR RALSTON DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Lawmaker Succumbs on His Farm, "Hoosier Home," Near Indianapolis.

Indianapolis.—Samuel M. Ralston, United States senator from Indiana, died at his country home just north of this city.

Senator Ralston's death was preceded by a long illness, caused by a kidney disorder. He returned from Washington last March in poor health.

On September 5 his condtion became aggravated and he was ordered to bed.

He would have been sixty-eight years old December 1.

Death came to the statesman at the place he loved best, "Hoosier Home," located just outside the city limits of Indianapolis.

"God is good and I am His child." So wrote Senator Ralston to a friend shortly before his death.

It is said he refused to accept the Presidential nomination at the last Democratic convention because he had a premonition he would not serve out the term at the White House.

Samuel Moffet Ralston was born on a farm in Tuscarawas county, Ohio, December 1, 1857.

Senator S. M. Ralston.

Through all of his civic and community life Mrs. Ralston, whom he married in 1889, and who was Jennie Craven of Center Valley before her marriage, took an active part.

"Dead" Kentuckian Held; Wife Barred From Jail

New York.—Mrs. William H. Turner, wife of William H. Turner, who "came back to life" via a steamship from Germany after he was believed to have been the victim of a mine explosion at McCarr, Ky., which killed two men, was denied permission to visit him in Tombs prison.

Facing charges of murder and swindling life insurance companies of $85,000, Turner is held pending arrival of extradition papers from Kentucky, which are expected tomorrow.

Turner reiterated his innocence and claimed he had no part in the alleged fixing of electrical wires which prematurely set off the dynamite charge.

President Seeks Check on Highway Expenditure

Washington.—Federal aid to the states in the construction of good roads should be kept within reasonable bounds and expenditures for this purpose applied to important highways in the opinion of President Coolidge.

In response to requests as to what recommendations he might make toward re-enactment of the federal plan, which expires next year, the President authorized the statement that he believes the government should adhere to the principal of federal aid in the future, but that the expenditures should be more wisely applied than they have been in the past.

Bishop Murray Is Named to Head Episcopalians

New Orleans.—From Methodist and bookkeeper to presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States is the ecclesiastical romance of the hour in this country.

That is what the election of Rt. Rev. John Bardner Murray, bishop of Maryland, to this office accomplished. Bishop Murray is sixty-eight years old.

Blames City of Rome

Boston.—Michael Lira, a survivor of the S-51, testifying before the naval court, declared that the City of Rome's search for survivors after the collision lasted only twenty minutes.

First Violence in Mine Strike

Scranton, Pa.—First violence in the mine strike came when state troopers dispersed miners who attempted to attack ten workers at the Carlucca washery at Throop, according to advices received here.

238 Rum Vessels Sold

Washington.—Two hundred and thirty-eight "rum running vessels" and 400 prisoners have been captured by the coast guard's dry navy in the last seven months.

'Caboose'
The World's Best Work Rubber

THAT'S not an idle boast. It's what railroad men, postmen, creamery workers and farmers voluntarily tell us. The astonishingly long wear they get—not sometimes, but always—is easily accounted for. Examine the extra tough white tire tread soles; the heavy four-ply uppers and the reinforced toe cap. You'll never again waste money on ordinary rubbers.

'Chief'—an extra high all rubber overshoe. Warm, easily cleaned, and very durable. There are Converse Shoes for all the family—look for the 'Big C' on sole—it is your guarantee of extra service.

CONVERSE RUBBER SHOE CO., 618 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

See the BIG 'C' CONVERSE LINE Rubber Footwear

LOOK FOR THE WHITE TOP BAND

Old Timers

Artist—"Did you see the jokes I left this morning, sir?" Editor—"I did—before you were born."

BEAUTIFY IT WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings — everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Suburban Life

"Any birds in your bird houses, Tommy?" "Not yet, but several families have inspected 'em."

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Aspirin Marked With "Bayer Cross" Has Been Proved Safe by Millions.

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Would Like to, Though

Teacher—Robert, name a bird, other than the ostrich, that doesn't fly.

Bobby—The jailbird.

Sure Method of Keeping Heels Neat

Women need no longer have the discomfort and untidy appearance of ragged or "run over" heels. They now have available a toplift (bottom cap of heel) that is absolutely flat on the bottom, stays firmly in place and wears and wears. Just ask your repairman to put USKIDE Toplifts on your heels. USKIDE is the famous material that has been giving such remarkable service as a shoe sole for years. Made by the United States Rubber Company. Wears twice as long as best leather. Important—you can put USKIDE Toplifts on new shoes.—Adv.

After all, man is improving. As a rule, he doesn't swear very much when he is tinkering up the family automobile.

Corn Flake Griddle Cakes

1 c. flour	1 c. milk
1 c. corn flakes	2 tsp. sugar
2 level tsp. Calumet Baking Powder	2 level tsp. butter
	1 egg
	½ level tsp. salt

Prepare and bake the same as Plain Griddle Cakes. Use any kind of package corn flakes, but dry them out if they have absorbed moisture. Any cooked cereal may be used in the place of corn flakes.

Men are not thankful enough for the decadence of the frock coat.

To Have a Clear, Sweet Skin

Touch pimples, redness, roughness or itching, if any, with Cuticura Ointment, then bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Rinse, dry gently and dust on a little Cuticura Talcum to leave a fascinating fragrance on skin. Everywhere 25c each.—Advertisement.

Premature gray hair often causes the good to dye young.

BURGESS FLASHLIGHTS & BATTERIES

The HEART of Your Flashlight

The life of your flashlight, or any flashlight, depends upon the electrical, chemical and mechanical efficiency of the battery and case. That's why you can always depend upon Burgess Flashlights and Batteries. They will give you strong white light when and where you want it, and as long as you want it.

Ask Your Dealer

BURGESS BATTERY COMPANY
General Sales Office: CHICAGO
Canadian Factories and Offices:
Niagara Falls and Winnipeg

CHAMPION X 60c

For more than 13 years standard equipment on Ford Cars, Trucks and Fordson Tractors—ample proof of its great dependability.

Blue Box for all other cars, 75 cents. The genuine have double-ribbed sillimanite cores.

Champion Spark Plug Co.
Toledo, Ohio
Windsor, Ont., London, Paris

CHAMPION

RUG

YOU'LL BE PROUD OF YOUR RUG

QUALITY RUGS Lowest Prices

Fancy rag rugs and mats; double band, crowfoot inlaid and stenciled borders; oil painted designs; basket weave and fancy ovals, latest thing for bedrooms, bathrooms, sunparlors and porches; every home needs these rugs; satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded; write for prices.

City Rug Manufacturing Co.
(Not Inc.)
611 E. 63rd St. CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

WEAVERS

IOWA "U" PLANS NEW BUILDINGS TO COST 3 MILLIONS

IOWA CITY, Oct. 22.—Architects were authorized to draft final plans for more than $3,000,000 worth f new buildings at the University of Iowa by the state board of education.

A $2,000,000 hospital, the major unit of the $4,500,000 building now under way a $700,000 heating plant and an athletic field house and gymnasium to cost over $400,000 have been decided upon by the board.

A special committee was named by the board to select a successor to E. A. Grover, as uperintendent of the school for deaf, and plans for the operation of the institute were formulated under which the state board is to have general supervision.

The BULL'S EYE

Editor and General Manager
WILL ROGERS

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

The Wise Guy
and
The Clown

A constant reader of my "Bull" Durham Ads writes in and says; "If there was another smoking Tobacco the equal of "Bull" Durham a lot of us would quit you no matter how much it cost. But alas there is no equal at any price as we have all found out at various times. So we must hasten to turn the pages and groan, whenever we encounter the CLOWN Ads of Will Rogers, who is trying to discredit the worth of the WORLD'S FAVORITE TOBACCO."

See that Bird wrote this whole Ad for me himself. He knocked me but he boosted "Bull" Durham. He fell right into my hands. Its only by the wisdom of our smart people that us CLOWNS and Fools are allowed to ride in Limousines. They say "The Lord protects the foolish," so, I am nestling right under his wing. So thanks Mr. Smart Man, write us another Ad. It will only cost you two cents

Will Rogers

P.S.—There will be another piece here two weeks from now. Look for it.

"BULL" DURHAM
Guaranteed by
The American Tobacco Co.
INCORPORATED
111 Fifth Avenue, New York City

11,111 HEADS IN ONE HUGE CAVE

Martyrs Buried Under Bowlder in Japan.

New York.—Dr. Earl R. Bull, missionary of the Methodist Episcopal church in charge of the work in the Loo Choo islands district of Japan, reports that, in his travels about the island of Amakusa, he recently came across a huge cave marked by a large stone bowlder on which it was stated that the heads of 11,111 Christians lay buried there.

The grave dates back to the year 1637, when the Japanese practically wiped out all the Christians who had been converted to that faith by Roman Catholic missionaries.

The inscription over this grave tells that 33,333 Christians were slain, beheaded and buried. Their heads were buried in graves many miles distant from the rest of their bodies. Only one-third of the Christian heads were buried in this particular island.

When Doctor Bull made inquiries as to why the heads were buried in graves miles distant from the other parts of the bodies, he was told:

"When the Catholic priests preached about the resurrection, they said Christians would rise again. Fearing it might be true, the officials of the persecuting shogun determined they would make it impossible for them to rise again by separating different parts of the bodies of the dead Christians. If their heads were buried in one township and other parts of their bodies in another township, they concluded the resurrection would then be impossible."

Ship Rides on Iceberg for Hour, Skipper States

New York.—That his ship had ridden on the edge of a mountainous iceberg for more than an hour was the strange story told by Capt. A. G. Velten of the shipping board freighter Saugus.

"It was a little before 4 a. m., June 23," Captain Velten said. "We were taking the great circle route, which at this season abounds with icebergs. The night was as dirty and foggy as I've seen and I had been at the wheel guiding the ship through the mass of ice for 12 hours when the lookout called:

"'Berg on the port bow, sir!'

"I ran the engine room telegraph for power astern, as I saw looming out of the fog a towering pile of ice. The quartermaster swung the wheel over and we cleared it.

"We had just caught our breath and thought we were safe when the lookout sang out again:

"'Berg ahead!'

"There was a dull crash. We felt the motion of the vessel cease. Joined by a ridge of ice to the berg we had shaved was a still larger one. The ship had slid up onto a submerged ledge of it."

Captain Velton told of ordering out the lifeboats and sending an S. O. S. when, through some unexplainable movement of the ice, the ship was allowed to go free, uninjured.

Buried in Coffin Made From Bar He Once Kept

Nome, Alaska.—Barney Gibney, sixty-nine, a sourdough of Dawson, Yukon River, Nome and Teller gold rush fame, will be buried in a handmade coffin fashioned from the mahogany bar of the Gold saloon, in Dawson, of which he once was proprietor.

Gibney died recently after an illness of three years. He was born in Plattsburg, N. Y., and was known as one of the most benevolent men of the Northland. He preserved the bar when prohibition put the establishment out of business, and expressed the wish that it be made into a coffin.

25 Volumes of Jap Poetry Given U. of Washington

Seattle, Wash.—Twenty-five volumes of Japanese poetry depicting vividly life in Japan in the Eighteenth century recently were presented to the University of Tokyo. The volumes, which took nine years to compile, are part of an edition made from two copies of a collection saved from destruction in the Japanese earthquake in September, 1923. All but two unbound sets were destroyed by the earthquake.

Gulps Nickel; Dies

Toledo, Ohio.—A nickel swallowed by three-year-old Louis Roberts two weeks ago caused the boy's death at a hospital here. The child became ill shortly after swallowing the coin and was taken to the hospital.

Bird Dog Owner Says Pet Can Catch Trout

Saranac Lake, N. Y.—Chappie, a bird dog owned by R. W. Joy of Schuyler Falls, champion muskrat catcher of the Adirondacks, has now turned his attention to trout fishing. The dog can swim like an otter.

Chappie recently arrived at his owner's home wild with excitement. He barked until his master accompanied him to a field about half way to Salmon river, where Joy found a three-pound rainbow trout the dog had caught and started to drag home. The owner is now counting on a mess of fresh trout to be brought to his door daily.

For pen or typewriter
HAMMERMILL
BOND
Stationery is Equally Satisfactory
We have a complete line of samples

SHERIFF'S SALE

W. R. BLOOM
vs.
Peter Merkel, Katherin Merkel, State Savings Bank, Klemme, Iowa, W. H. Brenton, L. A. Andrew, Receiver of the State Savings Bank, Klemme, Iowa.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of a Special Execution issued out of the office of the Clerk of the District Court, in Hancock County, on a judgement rendered September 30th, 1925 Term of said Court, A. D. 1925 for the sum of Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred Sixty Two & 10-100 DOLLARS debt, and Three Hundred Forty-Four & 37-100 Dollars costs, in favor of W. R. Bloom and against Peter Merkel & Katherin Merkel, and to the Sheriff of Hancock County directed, I have levied upon the following described property, to-wit:

The Northeast quarter, (NE¼). and the East Half of the Southeast quarter (E½ SE¼), Section Thirty Five (35), Township Ninety-Five (95), North Range Twenty-Three (23), West of the 5th P. M. Hancock County, Iowa.

NOW, THEREFORE, Public Notice is hereby given that I shall, on the 31st day of October 1925, at 10:10 o'clock A. M., at the front door of the Court House, in Garner, in Hancock County, offer and sell at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, all the right, title, and interest that the above named Defendants had on the 1st day of October A. D. 1925, or now have in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy said execution together with costs and all accruing costs, unless the same shall be sooner satisfied.

Dated at the Sheriff's office in Garner, this 1st day of October, A. D. 1925.

E. P. HANSON,
Sheriff of Hancock County, Iowa.
(Publish Oct. 22-29-'25)

SHERIFF'S SALE

WALTER ROSS
vs.
Ray Lillibridge, Grace Lillibridge, P. M. Griesemer, Huldah Griesemer, F. J. Wenck, Catherine A. Wenck, and Fred Knoke.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of a Special Execution issued out of the office of the Clerk of the District Court, in Hancock County on a judgement rendered September 30th, 1925 Term of said Court, A. D. 1925 for the sum of Twelve Thousand One Hundred Sixty Three & 62-100 DOLLARS debt, and One Hundred Seventy Five & 85-100 Dollars costs, in favor of Walter Ross and against Ray Lillibridge, Grace Lillibridge, Huldah Griesemer, Catherine A. Wenck, and Fred Knoke, in rem. and to the Sheriff of Hancock County directed, I have levied upon the following described property, to-wit:

The Northeast quarter (NE¼), of Section Eleven (11), Township Ninety-Five (95), North Range Twenty-Four (24), west of the 5th P. M. Hancock County, Iowa.

NOW, THEREFORE, Public Notice is hereby given that I shall, on the 31st day of October 1925, at 10 o'clock A. M., at the front door of the Court House, in Garner, in Hancock County, offer and sell at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, all the right, title, and interest that the above named Defendants had on the 1st day of October A. D. 1925, or now have in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy said execution together with costs and all accruing costs, unless the same shall be sooner satisfied.

Dated at the Sheriff's office in Garner, this 1st day of October, A. D. 1925.

E. P. HANSON,
Sheriff of Hancock County, Iowa.
(Publish Oct. 22-29-'25)

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

September 7, 1925.

Regular meeting of Town Council.

All members present.

Motion made and seconded to allow the following bills:

Benn J. Coobs, August Salary	$ 75.00
Leighton Supply Co., Water Tank	1169.32
Gerald Koerner, Wiring Town Hall	7.09
M. O. Barr, Agent, Frt. on Water Tank	56.33
H. S. Schwartz, Mowing Weeds	4.55
Central States Electric Co., August light	25.20
Harry Gram, Dray	2.00
John N. Day, Curtains	4.30
Klemme Times, publishing Council Proceedings	2.80
M. C. Oil & Grease Co., Gasoline	35.86
W. S. Nott & Co., Raincoats for Fire Department	21.75

Bills allowed.

Meeting adjourned.

A. J. KUDJE, Clerk.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

September 28, 1925.

Adjourned meeting of the Town Council held at the Town Hall.

All members of Council present.

Upon motion the following bills were ordered paid:

Geo. M. Bechtel & Co., Principal & Interest	665.25
Benn J. Coobs, September Salary	75.00
W. J. Pech, Repair Old Tank	158.91
Community S. S. Co., Gasoline	26.83
Lloyd Lau, dray	.35
H. S. Schwartz, Hauling 40 loads Gravel	34.00
State Bank of Belmond, W. J. Pech, New Tank	385.00
Arthur Wellemeyer, 7 chairs	12.95

Bills allowed.

Motion made to adjourn.

A. J. KUDJE, Clerk.

WOULD HARNESS MISSISSIPPI WITH MANY POWER DAMS

Plenty Of Power In Mississippi To Care For Needs Of Entire Valley

John W. Murphy, the sage of Burlington, suggests that if, instead of squandering many millions each year in trying to maintain a navigable channel in the Mississippi river, the government were to construct a power dam every fifty miles from its source to its mouth then some substantial profits might be soon. It would produce millions upon millions of horse power. And for purposes of navigation the stream would be improved immensely. Then the whole tonnage of the valley might be carried on its bosom. It is not wild guess to assert that the potential power of the Mississippi is equal to all of the requirements of the industries situated in its drainage area.

GARNER TRUST & SAVINGS BANK WAS CLOSED MONDAY

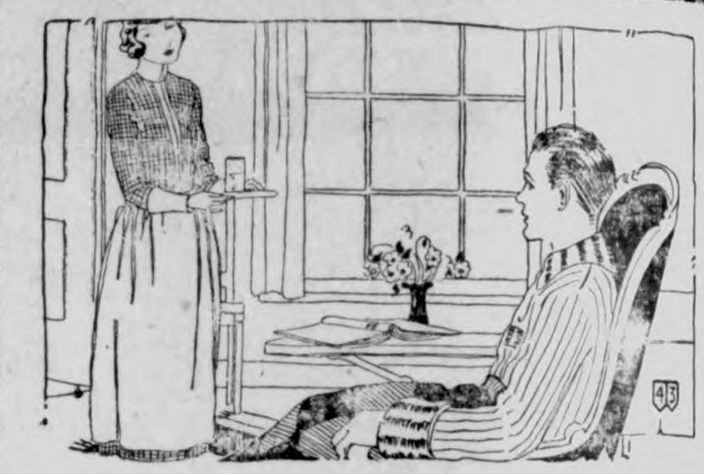
The Garner Trust & Savings Bank was closed Monday morning and Mr. George E. Saunders, receiver of the closed State Savings Bank of Klemme was placed in charge until an auditor of the banking department arrives to check up acounts, and it is expected that a receiver will be appointed in a few days.

The bank had been in operation a little over four years and its business was not large and it is said its deposits were not enough to keep it going and was a losing proposition. Officials of the bank are alleged to have claimed that the bank will be able to pay out without much loss.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP



A SPEEDY RECOVERY

To be able to receive the proper care when it is needed, is worth considering. Nothing s more comforting when disabled than a good bank balance.

Ths knowledge often makes possible a more speedy recovery. You can relax. You do not need to worry because there are funds on hand to take care of yourself and your family.

We invite you to build up a bank balance with us.

First National Bank.
KLEMME, IOWA.

Confidence

This Company has faith in the people it Ser ves and is building with their cooperation an efficient system of Public Service.

This building is going on all the time to meet the increasing need for the essential service this Company furnishes.

Some idea of the amount of money used in this work of extending the lines and in improvements is shown by the over $150,000 so invested during the 2 1-2 months period from June 29th to September 21st this year.

And this large sum of money did not include the New Power House at Armstrong or the new Hydro-Electric Power Plant being built at Iowa Falls.

Every Cent of the large sums of money already invested and continually being added to in extensions and improvements is nvested not only in the actual physical property required for the furnishing of service, but with confidence in the farness of the people we serve and n the permanence of our busi-ness and the stability of the territory served.

This good faith has been justified and we have endeavored to fully mert the confidence in us of the people of the various communities.

This mutual good will we are sure will grow with the extension of our service and the closer association of our customers with us and their more complete understanding of the benefits and advantages to them and their communities of this fundamental Public Service well and efficiently conducted on a fair and impartial basis.

It is upon this firm foundaton of good servce that this Company owned largely by Its own customers, is being built, and has the confidence of the customers and the investors who have confidently invested their capital and savings.

Efficient service, courteously rendered is our Watchword and the cooperation of our customers through constructive criticism and suggestions is earnestly requested.

Respectfully,

Central States Electric Co.

CEDAR RAPIDS — General Offices — IOWA.

Send your news to The Times.

Sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop.

Miss Marie Blank visited with her sister, Mrs. Ahrenkeil this past week.

Miss Marie Gauger, of Kanawha, spent Sunday at her home here.

EXCHANGE—Have a good single tube radio to trade for 18 inch soft coal heater. Karl Krause. 1tc

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, October 22, 1925

EGGS (trade)	.38
EGGS (Cash)	.37
HEAVY HENS	.16
LIGHT HENS	.12
STANDARD SPRINGS	.16
LEGHORN SPRINGS	.12
DUCKS	.12
OLD ROOSTERS	.07
GEESE	.08
BUTTERFAT	.53
BUTTER (Klemme Creamery)	.53
WHEAT	$1.45
OATS	.30
SHELLED CORN	.50
BARLEY	.50—.55
RYE	.65—.70
HOGS (Top)	$11.00

DR. R. E. PORTER
CHIROPRACTOR

..Every Day — Open Evenings..
Office at John Lieuwen Residence

Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!

Pavey's
STORMIZING SHOP

Mrs. Sumner Trumbel visited at Goodell Tuesday with her mother and sisters.

We now have on hand a large supply of Denatured Alcohol for auto radiators. E. F. Jacobs. 1tc

APPLES—Order your apples of G. W. Kluckhohn & Sons. Carload of New York Baldwins coming. 1tc

FOR SALE—12 Polled Shorthorn Bulls, 10 to 14 mo. old. Roans and Reds. E. J. Arnold. 2wp

Miss Mary Leach, of Dows, came last Thursday for a visit with Klemme relatives and friends. She is a cousin of Mrs. R. W. Elder.

FOR SALE—8 good milk cows, one fresh soon; also some fine Poland China Boars for sale. Emil J. Kraus. 2wp

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Musfelt and grand daughter, Laura Lanahan, of Clarion drove up Sunday for a visit with Klemme relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Wilson entertained Mr. and Mrs. Walter (Happy) Johnson and baby Shirley, and Miss Gladys Buchan at dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Auchampach, and Mrs. Henry Auchampach, spent Sunday at Popejoy, visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Brownlee.

Grandma Fouts, who is staying at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. D. Gimer, has not been as well as usual this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Griewe, and the Arthur Wellemeyer family had dinner with the Rev. Ortmeyer family Monday evening.

A large eagle was shot near Twin Lakes Monday by C. J. Bode. The bird measured six feet from tip to tip of wing. The specimen is being mounted.

APPLES—Coming a car load of New York Baldwins, fine winter eating apples. Place your order with us at once. G. W. Kluckhohn & Sons, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

"Shorty" Courtney came Tuesday evening from Kansas on his annual tour to Iowa to help do away with the big corn crop. Welcome back to Klemme, Shorty!

The Ladies Aid Bake Sale was a very successful one the ladies report. They wish to thank J. N. Day for his store space and to all who purchased goods:

A news dispatch carries the information that the Higley Co. at Mason City have sold their plant to the Swift & Co. interest. We understand the Higley Co. will continue to manufacture ice cream, but are giving over the poultry and creamery business.

News of Klemme and Vicinity

BREEDING EWES FOR SALE
Will have 100 Western and Native Breeding Ewes in Garner, Saturday. Call Jim Young for information. C. E. GIBBS. 1wc

Sunday was almost a sample of winter weather. The wind blew a stiff breeze with a mixture of snow which in many places resembled a real blizzard while it lasted.

Henry Ludeke has closed his sorghum factory for the season and has sold every gallon of the product. The demand this year was greater than the supply.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Ibach started this week Wednesday morning on their return trip to their home at White, South Dakota, after several days visit in Klemme.

If you keep a Rat and Mouse expense account for a month you will kill them without being told. Meyers Poison Kernels are made to kill. For sale at Wilson's Pharmacy. 1tp

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 2tc

Mr. Rosendahl, who lives on the Louden farm, had the bad luck of breaking his leg Sunday. We did not learn how the accident happened.

Miss Esther Greene returned to her home at Bascobel, Wisconsin, Saturday, after having spent several weeks here visiting and helping her sister, Mrs. Henry Ludeke during the sorghum making season.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Fouts, after several days visit at the Gimer home, left for Hardin County and Riceville for a visit with relatives. From there they will return to their home at Brooks, Minn.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 2tc

John Borchers, who lives on the August Schuldt farm in Liberty twp., had the misfortune of breaking his leg Monday morning. The break is near the ankle.

FOR SALE, Big type Poland China Boars, March farrowing, weigh over 200 lbs. sired by the sire of The Progresive. Cholera immune. Farm 4 miles north of Meservey. Gottlieb Lauster, Thornton, Iowa. 4tp

Clarence Elder and Fred Arnold, accompanied by Fred's chum, drove up from Ames Saturday afternoon for a visit with home folks. The young men returned to Ames Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus entertained a number of relatives from Iowa Falls, Sunday. C. G. Waterman and family and W. C. Keraus and family were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keraus.

Rev. Gauger drove over to Mason City Monday and made arrangements there for Mrs. Gauger's mother, Mrs. Josten, of Garner, who will enter the hospital for a few week's treatments.

Klemme football fans listened in and got the results of the Iowa-Illinois game direct from the field at Iowa City Saturday afternoon. It was an exciting game and ended 10 to 12 in favor of Iowa.

A baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bachman Wednesday, October 22nd. "Backy" is all smiles and says the young lady is a very fine specimen. All right, Clarence, we are out of smokes here at the print shop!

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus drove to Iowa Falls Tuesday and expected to return today. Mrs. Keraus was going to visit, but "Dad" had more important things to do; as he intended to put in over time hunting while there.

Mrs. Marlin Croner and Grandma Schroeder entertained Sunday at their home, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Davis and children of Mason City, and Mr. Henry Freie and daughter, Miss Viola, and Miss Eunice Braund, of this city.

The next regular meeting of the W. F. M. S. will be held on Thursday, October 29th at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Gauger. All the members are requested to be present as business for the new year will be taken up.

It seems to have become known that Klemme is without a dentist, and during the past week three different men called who were looking for a place to locate. Klemme is a good town for such a location and we see no reason why a dentist would not do well here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and son, Buster, accompanied by Clarice Wellemeyer, drove to Iowa Falls Saturday afternoon for a visit with the M. O. Hocum family over Sunday. This former Klemme family is nicely located in a new house, all well and Mart is doing a fine business.

The following were guests at the A. D. Gimer home on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Ibach, of White, S. Dak., Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Fouts, of Brooks, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Fouts and two children, of Riceville, Iowa, Mrs. C. Christensen of Boise, Idaho and Mr. and Mrs. C. Johnson and little Robert, of Klemme.

All members of the Methodist Church or any others who wish to donate any article for the Aid Bazar may do so by giving it to any Aid member or leave it at the Times Print Shop. We do not expect to go around and solicit this year, but anyone wishing to help a bit will be greatly appreciated. Committee.

It was not an unlucky day for Orvis Poort when he celebrated his 13th birthday Tuesday, as his mother had planned a surprise party for him by having his boy friends all come after school and give him a real surprise. A good time was had by all but the boys say the best part was the fine supper Mrs. Poort had prepared for them.

There was quite a fire at Hayfield Saturday forenoon when their old frame school house, being used as a tenant house caught fire and was a toal loss. The flames endangered other buildings nearby and the Forest City fire department was called to help fight the flames. A number of roof fires started but were easily put out. Insurance covered part of the loss. Hayfield has a fine new brick consolidated school building.

Grandma Schroeder and Mrs. Marlin Croner planned a surprise birthday party on Mrs. Lena Schroeder at her home Tuesday afternoon there being fifteen guests present. The afternoon was spent in a social way and at four o'clock a delightful chicken dinner was served. The center piece on the table being a beautiful birthday cake. Nice gifts from the ladies were presented to Mrs. Schroeder. All report having had a good time.

We don't know whether it is because Marshall Ben Coobs don't like to get up in time or because a complaint has been put in that it disturbs the beauty sleep of the natives, but anyway the fire siren will only be sounded at noon hereafter. This arrangement will give us undisturbed repose in the morning and will be less shocking on the nerves as we will not be thinking there is another fire every time the whistle blows. Salritewithus!

"Abe" Lauritsen, coach at the Renwick high school drove over to Klemme Saturday morning for a Sunday visit at home here. "Abe" looked as though he got the worse of an argument and we will a little bashful about asking him how come he had two black eyes, however, we got around the subject in such a way that we learned he got them by accident. While out with the boys on baseball practice he forgot to dodge the ball quick enough and the result was that it "beaned" him between the eyes, breaking his nose and giving him two "shiners." Tough luck "Abe," but you got the right idea: Keep your eye on the ball!

28 FARMERS IN ONE COUNTY HAVE TWO HIRED MEN

DES MOINES, Oct. 15.—Agricultural figures for Delaware county released Saturday by Lou F. Morgans, director of the state census bureau, revealed the fact that 247 farmers in the county have at least one hired man and 28 others have two hired men.

Of the 348,568 acres of farm land found in the county, 211,045 acres are in crops, 97,704 acres are in pastures, 12,894 acres are in woodland, and 4,493 acres are in rough, swamp or waste land. Because of crop failures and destruction due to the elements, no crop was harvested from 1,005 acres of land in the county.

Getting Ready To Gravel No. 15 In Wright County

The Wright County Board of Supervisors has advertised for bids for graveling Primary No. 15 north of Belmond to the Hancock County line south of Goodell. The work is to be done this fall.

No. 15 was recently straightened and graded south of Goodell in the Wright county district. Two railroad crossings were eliminated.

What A Farmer Can Do

Shell Rock News: A man in Black Hawk county has accumulated enough money in 12 years of farming to buy and pay cash for a 90-acre farm. He also has accumulated a wife and six children in that length of time. That's nothing. A man in Butler county started in life with an 80-acre farm which his father gave him. He has accumulated a wife and four or five children, besides $30,000 in debts and two automobiles.

At Your Service
Super-Zenith Radios

TUNE THROUGH EVERYTHING

The new Super-Zenith is NOT regenerative. It is a six-tube set with a new unique and really different patented circuit controlled exclusively by the Zenith Radio Corporation. For the first time, you can have a set that—

1.—Tunes through everything and selects the station you really want.
2.—Requires only two hands—not three—to operate.
3.—Brings in each station at only one point on the dial.
4.—Affords such mathematical precision and simplicity that you can run over the entire dial in 1½ minutes and pick up more stations with greater clarity and volume than any other set on the market. Direct comparisons invited.

WE EXCLUSIVE DEALER FOR ZENITH RADIOS IN THIS TERRITORY

Greimann Motor Co.

Oysters
EVERY DAY NOW.
Fresh Fish--
Nice choice fish in stock now.

Your Daily Meat--
Roasts--Pork or Beef
Juicy Steaks, all kinds
Home-made Sausages
Home-made Bologna
Star Brand Hams
Finest Breakfast Bacon
Full line of Heinz "57"
Cheese, Etc.

We are always glad to serve you.

Klemme Meat Market

Nothing to equal these Blue Cheviots
$35
Two Trousers

These suits are made in the smart double-breasted model from the most popular fabric of the season—fine twill cheviot—in two shades.

Everoyne needs a blue suit to complete his- wardrobe. It's time to buy. Be sure to see them.

Patton Brothers Co.
Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY, IOWA

All Other Remedies Failed

The Test of Time Proves the Value of

PE-RU-NA

Under the date of March 6, 1902, Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 139 Riverside Ave., Little Rock, Arkansas, has this to say about her experience: "I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, others consumption of the bowels. The medicine I took did no good. A friend advised me to try PE-RU-NA. I did. After taking two bottles I found it was helping me and continued. Am now sound and well."

A letter from Mrs. Durbin, dated December 12, 1923, shows that, even after twenty-two years, she is in the best of health: "I still recommend PE-RU-NA to my friends who need a good medicine and everybody is pleased. I thank you many times for what PE-RU-NA has done for me."

There is nothing strange in this experience of Mrs. Durbin. It has been repeated thousands of times by sufferers from catarrh and catarrhal diseases.

For sale everywhere in tablet or liquid form

Send 4 cents postage to the PE-RU-NA COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio, for booklet on catarrh.

WHY SUFFER ANOTHER DAY WITH INDIGESTION?

The big seller today for acute and chronic stomach misery is Dare's Mentha Pepsin and it is such a fine, pleasant and supremely good medicine that if the first bottle you buy doesn't help you—your druggist will return the purchase price.

One man writes, "I Cannot understand why any person will continue to suffer from gastritis or indigestion when Dare's Mentha Pepsin is available."

And tens of thousands of people—many of whom almost died with stomach agony—think the same way.

It's the right medicine for any person who suffers from bad digestion, gas, heaviness and that feeling of suffocation which is always dangerous.

For gastritis, indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach agony—acute or chronic, keep Dare's Mentha Pepsin in mind.

Artificial Silk Expansion

One plant manufacturing rayon, or artificial silk, in the Netherlands, employs 5,000 people and plans to enlarge the output to include the making of artificial horse hair, artificial straw and other cellulose products.

Build Up Your Health With
DR. PIERCE'S
GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

If You Would Avoid COUGHS, COLDS, GRIPPE.

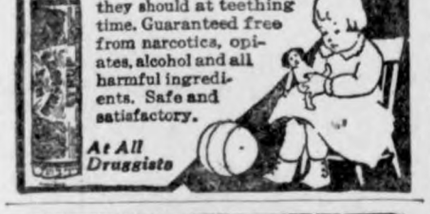
A Tonic which Dr. Pierce prescribed when in active practice 60 years ago.
In Liquid or Tablets, at your Dealers.
Send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. Tablets.

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right
By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.
At All Druggists



PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE
FOR NERVOUS AILMENTS
PRICE $1.50
Write for FREE BOOKLET
If your druggist cannot supply you, order forwarding charges prepaid, from
KOENIG MEDICINE CO.
1045 N. WELLS ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

CLEAR YOUR SKIN
of disfiguring blotches and irritations. Use
Resinol

Green's August Flower
for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver
Successful for 59 years.
30c and 90c bottles—
ALL DRUGGISTS

Prudence's Daughter

"WENT HOME"

SYNOPSIS—PART ONE—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, New York, Jerry (Geraldine) Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He admires her tremendously and she likes him. But Allerton gets a bit exhilarated, with unfortunate results.

By Ethel Hueston

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.
WNU Service

CHAPTER I—Continued

—2—

At three o'clock in the morning they went again to the kitchen for something to drink. His eyes were heavy now, his voice a little thick. He had been drinking more than Jerry realized, for she, having barely moistened her lips with the potent liquor, was still alert with the glamor of youth, and excitement, and romance, her natural brilliance only slightly fanned, not feverishly inflamed, by the seductive drink. Duane filled the small glass for her again, but as she put out a reluctant, unrefusing hand to take it from him, he withdrew it suddenly and placed both bottle and glass on the table behind him.

"Jerry," he whispered, his low voice a little strained, "you beautiful thing!"

Irresistibly stirred by her beauty, emboldened by the extent of his drinking, his hand audaciously left her fingers, crept toward her shoulder, pressing in suddenly upon the soft flesh beneath her arm where the flame colored gown drooped away. And then, with increasing eagerness, he bent over her and pressed his hot lips upon the tender softness of her slender throat, and again, before she could move to repel him, upon her innocent and trusting lips. Jerry lay limp in his arms for a moment, and then went suddenly rigid, tearing herself away as though he had struck her.

Humiliation, mingled rage and scorn blazed in her bitter and disillusioned eyes.

"Oh, that" she cried, her voice, though harsh with the pain of her accusation, still carefully controlled that none in the room outside might hear, "That! It's all you think of—any of you— It's—"

A wave of shame, disappointment, swept over her. Tears came to her eyes. "And I thought—I was fool enough to think—"

"Wh-what did you th-think?" he asked encouragingly, rather pleased than otherwise by the initial denial which would give her final yielding only a greater charm. "Wh-what did you th-think, you beautiful thing?"

"I thought it was falling in love—like Prudence." She confessed humbly, crushed by the completeness of her disillusionment.

His infatuation fanned by the frankness of her admission, he reached out a hand to her again, a hand that trembled a little.

"Love!" he repeated. "It is love. This is what love is."

"Don't touch me, you horrible—" Words failed to express the extent of her scorn. "There's no such thing! I was a fool to have expected it."

He was surprised that she waited for no further argument, but whirled about, an outraged, lovely figure in the seductive flame-colored gown, and ran from the room. At the door, though, she paused, turned back. He had reached for the glass upon the table, had it within his grasp.

She spoke to herself, not to him. "And to think I was looking forward to it all my life—sure of it—and now—"

"Sure of wh-what? Expected wh what?" He delayed to take the glass.

"That it would come to me the way it came to—Prudence."

Then she went out. Duane waited a moment. She did not come back. He filled his glass and drained it. Then he straightened his collar, unsteadily, and went into the studio to find her. She was not there. He wandered about the room, aimlessly for a while, waiting for her. She did not come. He crossed to where Rhoda, indifferent, misty-eyed, sat with Carter Blake in the window seat.

"Where is she?" he asked. "Your little friend from Iowa?"

Rhoda lifted her head drowsily from Carter's shoulder. "Went home," she said, and her head drooped again.

"She said she had a headache or something," Carter explained. "Got her cloak and went out like a flash. Korzky's gone down to put her in a taxi."

Duane was irritated. The little quitter! And after the way she had encouraged him all evening. He held it a manifest unfairness to end a game so pleasant in such a silly, childish manner. He went out and down the stairs, hoping to overtake her. On the second landing he met Korzky coming up.

"Has she gone? I was going to take her home," he explained lamely.

"Said she was feeling rotten," Korzky told him. "I fancy she was requiring a shock absorber for her morals. They don't abandon their conscience stays in such a hurry, these Middle Westerners. Take them off one at a time, you might say. Beautiful thing, though, isn't she?"

CHAPTER II

The Going of Jerry

At the tender age of eight years Fairy Geraldine Harmer was deposited in one of the forty seats devoted to the primary department of one of the public schools of Des Moines, Iowa—a wide-eyed and wondering martyr, along with thirty-nine other wide-eyed and wondering martyrs, upon the altar of education.

"And what is your name, my dear?" questioned a well-meaning teacher with a kindly although stereotyped smile, gazing down into the depths of the solemn blue eyes.

"Fairy Harmer." The voice was soft but confident. Fairy Geraldine was not a timid child.

A wave of muffled giggling swept through the ranks of the thirty-nine.

"Beg pardon, dear—what?"

"Fairy Harmer—Fairy Geraldine Harmer," said Prudence's daughter firmly, though hurt, cut to the quick, in this, her first encounter with the thoughtless cruelty of childhood.

A painful flush suffused the fair, soft face as the laughter swept the serried seats again.

The small face, barely visible above her plate, as they sat at dinner that night, was pale with the first great conviction of her life. She looked at her father, looked again to her mother.

"I want another name," she said, in the tone of one long accustomed to the receiving that comes fast on the heels of the asking.

"Will you take it now, or wait until you get married?" queried her father facetiously.

Prudence was never facetious at the expense of a troubled daughter.

"Why, sweetness?" she questioned gently. "Why?"

"The teacher said, 'What is your name?' and I said, 'Fairy Harmer.'" The childish bosom rose with the weight of indignation it had borne throughout the bitter day. "I didn't blame them for laughing," she went on in a tone of dispassionate justice. "I would have laughed, too, if it had been anybody else's name."

"Don't Touch Me, You Horrible—" Words Failed to Express the Extent of Her Scorn.

Her parents digested this in sympathetic silence.

"And when we had recess," the wounded voice went on, "the boys said, 'Fly away, Fairy, 'cause fairies have wings.' It is a crazy name, mother," she finished with vast conclusiveness.

Prudence was the soul of gentle sympathy, but what could one do? Her baby had been christened in a thoughtless hour for Fairy, the deeply loved sister.

"It might hurt feelings, sweetness, if we should call you something else," she pleaded.

Fairy Geraldine said no more. But she was not dissuaded. She merely waited until the propitious moment to take the bull by the horns. When Aunt Fairy came to Des Moines for the next annual visit, a wheedlesome niece, Fairy Geraldine, sat in the lap of the lovely auntie who had no baby of her own, caressed her with tender dimpled fingers, adored her in pretty childish gurglings, and when Aunt Fairy was reduced to the point of abject worship, she whispered softly:

"Auntie, dear, sweet auntie, would it hurt your feelings if we call me something else besides Fairy?—I think you're the loveliest auntie that ever was, but it is a crazy name, and they laugh at it."

"I've laughed at it myself a good many times," agreed Aunt Fairy amiably. "I don't blame you a bit for changing it. Your uncle says he wouldn't call a nice dog 'Fairy.' Change it, by all means, my dear. Anything from Fay to Florietta is better than Fairy."

The "Geraldine" that had been christened neatly in between the Fairy and Harmer obviously suited her purpose to perfection and was solemnly agreed upon and pressed into tardy service.

And in time Geraldine became Jerry, and little Jerry Harmer smiled forgiveness upon the relenting of an unkind fate. It was difficult at first—but the small Jerry was a child of deep purpose and strong conviction.

Every spoken "Fairy" was softly but firmly corrected. "You mean Jerry." And in a surprisingly short time Fairy was forgotten and Jerry held the day.

Jerry's attitude toward life in general was much like that—what she liked she adored, what she disliked must be changed as quickly as possible. Until it could be changed, she endured it with Spartan resolution.

When Jerry was twenty years old, having been graduated from the state university, where she had acquired fair honors in things scholastic, unrivaled ones in things social, she cast about in her truanting thoughts for a legitimate avenue of action for those boundless, effervescent spirits of hers.

She was a long time making up her mind, there were so many places one might go, so many things one might do.

"I think perhaps I'd better go to New York and study art," she said. But long before she said it Jerry had quite decided that she would go.

Prudence, with a great sinking in her breast, agreed by all means that she should certainly do that very thing. So much being settled, Jerry went on to discuss her plans, and to air her views of life in general.

"It isn't that I resent your authority, not in the least," she assured them. "But I want to be thrown on my own, you know—I want to be free."

She crossed the room to the golden cage where a golden canary sang blithely in the sunshine. She opened the door. Upon the instant the bird leaped out into to brightness of the room, and circled once about it, with a brave flashing of its yellow wings.

"Like that," Jerry said. "He wants to be free."

The bird flew contentedly back into its golden cage.

Then Jerrold, the father of Jerry, walked slowly across to the cage, his hand outstretched to close the tiny door. But before he could lay his finger upon it the flashing bit of gold leaped out into the brightness of the room, and then back at once into the familiar confines of the cage, still with his sharp eyes on Jerrold's hand, to make a dash for freedom at his slightest movement toward that door. Again and again he reached toward it, and each time the bird leaped out to freedom. And each time returned quickly to the spacious cage.

"It isn't freedom itself that he wants," said Jerry's father gravely. "He doesn't know what freedom is. He likes the cage much better than the open spaces, but he hates that closed door. He is glad to come back to the cage, but he wants to think he is free. Is it the same with you, Jerry?"

"You can be free here, Jerry, if that's all you want," Prudence put in quickly. "Do what you wish, go where you wish, think what—"

Jerry shook her lovely head, smiling. "Perhaps you do not do it on purpose," she said. "But you are a closed door, mother, and you can't help it. Prudence either by name or nature is a restraint—no fault of yours, you understand."

Jerry was vastly pleased with her decision to study art. Art seemed of all things in the world the most glamorous avenue to life. She had always taken a pleasant interest in pictures, and in college had been quite a favorite in the art department, where her work both in water colors and in oils, with somewhat of judicious oversight by a friendly instructor in the department, had received warm praise.

Perhaps, however, she was a little troubled in the secret places of her own heart, for she reverted to the subject many times every day, although it was already fully settled she should go.

"One has to do something, you know," she said. "One isn't born just for the sake of living and dying and getting it over with. One has to do something!"

"Of course!" Prudence was very positive in her agreement.

"Give you a job in the plant any time you say," her father offered quickly, who as president of one of the largest motor corporations in the Middle West was in a position to indulge in such largess if he chose.

"You don't understand, father," she said patiently. "Taking a job from a good worker who needs it to give to a poor one who does not need it, will never solve any labor questions. It isn't a matter of physical labor, you know. It's adding to the general richness of the world—it's putting something of yourself into circulation."

"Don't get you." Jerrold was frankly puzzled.

"I—I think I know what you mean," Prudence said pleasantly.

"Oh, no, you don't, mother," Jerry contradicted promptly, with laughing, tender eyes—not rudely. Jerry was obliged to contradict her mother many, many times, but it was always with laughing tenderness that she did. "You just say so because you think it is your duty, having me for a daughter, to try to account for my foolishness."

Prudence blushed.

"Anyhow we have all agreed that I must go to New York to study art."

"I never agreed to any such thing," said Jerrold flatly.

"I—I did," said Prudence weakly.

Jerry laughed softly at her mother. "You didn't, either," she denied tenderly. "You're just siding with me to make father ashamed of himself. You think it makes me less ridiculous when you agree with me."

Prudence blushed again.

Prudence, at forty-four, with a daughter twenty years old, was but a deepened, sweetened, softened molding of the Prudence who, at nineteen, had taken such gay and masterful charge of the parsonage, and the houseful of younger girls, and her gentle father. So slender she was now as to appear almost frail, and she was very pale, with but the slightest hint of rose in her lips, the lips that had the old whimsical, humorous droop of her girlhood days. In spite of the delicate frailty of her face and figure, and the pallor of her creamy skin, Prudence did not look her years, nor did her appearance in any way suggest the dignity of a grown-up daughter to her credit, even with the humorous depth of understanding and the warmth of sympathy that showed in every word and gesture. Prudence at any age would be ageless, old and young, with the youth that has seen both heights and depths, and trembled with great emotions, the age that defies time with a dauntless bravado and a glad acceptance.

To Prudence sometimes, looking backward, it seemed a long way she had come from the cares and the responsibilities of that simple parsonage life. Times had changed, conditions, interests had changed. It seemed to Prudence that she alone remained steadfast and the same. Her father had died ten years before, and after that Aunt Grace, with Carol and Carol's baby, continued on in the home they had chosen in Mount Mark, remaining there to be near Lark and Jim, on their rich, far-reaching farm.

Aunt Grace had lingered but a few years longer, and then slipped on into the shadows, having left the full of her modest means to Carol, the only one of the parsonage girls to be left alone and without resources. Fairy and Gene, the college lover who became her husband, had suffered a long series of financial reverses in their effort to forge to the front, but finally, after so many years, were comfortably settled in Chicago, seeming at last to have exhausted their store of ill fortune.

The youngest of the sisters, Constance, who had astounded them all by abandoning her dreams of literary fame to marry her prince among cowboys, Martin Ingram, had never regretted her judgment. Martin's vast and barren Arizona acres had been found to overlay an inexhaustible treasure house of oil, and Connie and her husband with their two small children were now living in affluence, and, better still, in matchless domestic bliss, in Englewood, one of the most charming suburbs of New York.

Jerrold was consoling himself with the knowledge that this level-headed and serene young auntie, supported by an imperturbable husband, would be at hand to see to willful Jerry on her arrival in the terrible city.

"We must write to Connie at once," he said complacently.

Jerry was quick to protest. "Now, father, please! Is that your idea of freedom? Why, if I go to Englewood to settle down with Aunt Connie I might as well move into a parsonage and be done with it! Freedom! Of course I shall visit them very often, but I shall not live with them, by any means. And I think we'd better not tell her I am coming until I am all nicely settled and running on my own. Then she can't talk me out of it, and all those Starr girls are such good talkers."

To Jerrold's surprise, Prudence agreed to this drastic inhibition.

"I must be independent, you see," Jerry explained.

"Of course," assented Prudence.

"I think I shall write to Rhoda La Faye, and ask her to get me a little studio apartment near her."

"Rhoda—Rhoda La Faye—who's that?" Jerrold wanted to know.

"Oh, she's a girl I knew in college."

"Rhoda— See here, Jerry, you don't mean the girl who—"

"Rhoda was a very nice girl if she was expelled," Jerry said. "She—she was a little too—well, emancipated for Iowa, perhaps, but there was nothing in the least bad about her. She was a very talented girl, and now she has a studio in New York, and has illustrations in the very best magazines, and everything. She can help me a great deal, I should imagine."

"Well, I am certainly not in favor—" Jerrold had assumed his most paternally dictatorial voice.

"I am," interrupted Prudence quickly. "I am most heartily in favor of it. Rhoda was not at all an evil-minded person, just mischievous, as I remember it, and her experience will be of great value to Jerry."

"What was she fired for, anyhow?" Jerrold wanted to know, moodily, feeling the handicap of his position between the two of them.

"Well, here's a glimpse of Jerry in home surroundings and of what she wants out of life. Will she find it in New York?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

T. R.'s Three Speeches

Sir William Reach Thomas, English war correspondent, in his book, "A Traveler in News," tells the following anecdote about Colonel Roosevelt, whom he met in the United States:

"Whether or no he possessed a great brain may be debated, but I never met a man who had so much control over his mental processes. A friend told me that he had heard him address a crowd in the open air on a windy day. Only those toward whom he turned could catch what he said; so he spoke three speeches—one to those on the left, one to the center, one to the right. The three speeches were different and were given in alternate sentences; but he managed the triple feat without confusion, without pausing for a word or thought.

WRIGLEY'S
AFTER EVERY MEAL

THE FLAVOR LASTS

Probably one reason for the popularity of WRIGLEY'S is that it lasts so long and returns such great dividends for so small an outlay. It keeps teeth clean, breath sweet, appetite keen, digestion good.
Fresh and full-flavored always in its wax-wrapped package.

F122

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA
The low price of this unusual quality Cocoa is made possible by superior buying power and greatly increased sales.
35c a pound

QUALITY for 70 years
Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.
Reid, Murdoch & Co.
Chicago, U. S. A.
Boston, Pittsburgh, New York

The miser hoards himself poor.

teaspoonful equals 2 of many other brands—That's why CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER
Goes farther lasts longer

It Contains more than the ordinary leavening strength

BEST BY TEST
Sales 2½ times those of any other brand

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

Many children are constantly complaining of Headache, Feverishness, Stomach Troubles and Irregular Bowels and take cold easily. If mothers only knew what MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS would do for their children no family would ever be without them for use when needed. So pleasant to take and so effective that mothers who once use them always tell others about them. At all Druggists. Trial Package FREE. Address Mother Gray Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

TRADE MARK
DON'T ACCEPT ANY SUBSTITUTE

FIFTEEN HUNDRED ACRES LAND near Portland, Arkansas, at eight dollars acre. timber cut off, ready to clear up into farms. Surrounded by plantations. Bargain; gilt Investment. H. A. Bennett, Ridgewood, N.

A COVINGTON, KY., WOMAN

Makes Remarkable Recovery

Mrs. Harry Ashcroft Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Severe Illness and Pain

MRS. HARRY ASHCROFT
632 BEECH AVENUE, COVINGTON, KY.

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength, but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines." —Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

Mrs. Boyer Also Found Help

Gilman City, Missouri.—"I was in such a condition that I could not eat nor sleep to do me any good and I felt draggy all the time. My head ached, my right side and back would almost kill me at times, and I could be on my feet only a short while at a time. I was irregular and so nervous, irritable and despondent that I thought I could not stand the strain much longer. I had been this way more or less for ten years, but the last two years was just terrible. I took medicines, but got little relief until I began to take the Vegetable Compound. I took three bottles before I could see any change at all. I have taken seven in all and am improving right along. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and take the Liver Pills. I can do most of my work now, and I live on a farm and there is lots of it to do. I wash, iron, hoe the garden, raise chickens and tend to the milk." —Mrs. T. M. BOYER, Gilman City, Missouri.

Money is the root of the manufacring plant.

Why isn't it whipped cream when the cat gets through licking it?

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Headache	Colds	Neuralgia	Lumbago
Pain	Toothache	Neuritis	Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe → Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Hawaiian Islands Growing

According to scientists, the Hawaiian islands are gradually pushing up out of the ocean, and within a generation may form a territory as large as Japan.

You can say you bet a million dollars, but if you bet a dollar you have to pay it if you lose.

Poverty wants much; avarice everything.

Burning Skin Diseases quickly relieved and healed by Cole's Carbolisalve. Leaves no scars. No medicine chest complete without it. 30c and 60c at druggists, or J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

The toothless woman never sees anything worth laughing at.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83

"Age is not the time for constantly whipping the bowels into activity. A lash can not be used every few days."
—DR. CALDWELL

If Past Forty, Adopt a Regulating Laxative

Most men and women past forty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting regularity for weeks and often for months—or must you "purge" and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

One dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even for those chronically constipated.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

SHE EXPLAINS

Mabel—You and Harold seem inseparable.

Gertrude—We are together a great deal; you see, Mabel, I take a peculiar interest in him.

Mabel—Oh, you do?

Gertrude—Yes. I was engaged to him at one time, and in love with him at another.

Efficiency

"Er . . . Peters—on passing the servants' hall today—I am under the impression that I—er—saw you—ah—embracing one of the maids."

"Yes, madam—what time would that be, madam?"

"About three o'clock."

"Oh, yes, madam. That would have been Ellen, madam!"—Passing Show.

HAD UTILIZED THE FAT

"What attraction can you find in that fathead you go with, Maud?"

"That fathead has made soap enough to net a million, my dear."

Hopeless Crudity

We turn to vitamins so strong
As a nutritious means,
Yet in our secret hearts we long
For plain old pork and beans.

Developmen.

They were having one of those little spats so common among married couples.

"And to think," sniffed the wife, "that when you married me you used to call me a 'little dear.'"

"Perhaps I did," hubby grimly replied, 'but since then you've developed into a big expense."

Bad Start

"I love you with my whole heart," averred the young man.

"No, you don't," said the girl.

"Huh?"

"One does not love with his heart, but with his brain."

"Well, do you mean to imply that I have none?"

Honesty

Mrs. Hoyle—You have a car, of course?

Mrs. Doyle—Yes.

Mrs. Hoyle—What make is it?

Mrs. Doyle—The same as the others on the trolley line.

Shopping

"It's so hard to find what you want when you're shopping."

"Isn't it, though? Especially, if you don't know what you want."

MONSTER

Wife—I have to do all my work single-handed!

Hubbie—Have you hurt one of your hands, dear?

Helpful!

Lives of great men all remind us
We should all be great also
If we only had behind us
What it was that made them go.

Hopeful

Teller—Sorry, madam, but I can't cash this check unless you get some responsible person to indorse it for you.

Mrs. Newed—Oh, won't you do that, please? You look responsible enough for me.

Argument for Divorce

"What makes you say your husband is domineering?"

"Your honor, he wants me to bait my own hook when fishing."

Community Building

City Healthful Comes Before City Beautiful

"Public health is basic municipal work, and should be accorded a more important place among municipal activities," said William P. Capes, secretary of the New York state conference of mayors and other municipal officials, in a talk broadcast from station WGY, Schenectady, recently, the New York Times states.

"Unless a municipality is healthful," said Mr. Capes, "it is no fit place in which to live, to work and to play. Before we can have the city beautiful, the city contented, the city efficient, we must have the city healthful. That is why the New York state conference of mayors and other municipal officials always has been keenly interested in health work; that is why this organization of 60 cities and 30 first-class villages has for the last 15 years been promoting efficient health regulations and organization and keeping local health officials informed about public health activities and proper public business management.

The first gathering of city officials, which resulted in the organization of the mayors' conference, was called in 1910 for the sole purpose of considering public health questions. This epoch-making event was the beginning of the movement which later resulted in a reorganization of the state health department, and following it 92 per cent of the annual messages of the mayors dealt principally with local health problems.

"A few years later the conference urged the scoring of city health work. A member of the state department of health, trained in both public health and municipal work, went annually from city to city and, by a scientific method of scoring, learned the efficiency and value of each local health activity. This not only showed each city administration where its public health work was effective or weak, but also created a rivalry among the municipalities and succeeding local health administrations which produced better health protection.

The work of the mayors' conference leaves no doubt about its attitude on public health. It is basic municipal work.

Principle of Zoning Cities Making Gains

More than 26,000,000 people were living in zoned municipalities at the close of the first six months of 1925, according to a report just issued by the division of building and housing of the United States Department of Commerce.

The report shows that in the last four years the principle of zoning cities so as to define districts for various uses, residential, commercial or industrial, has come so generally into adoption that the number of people living in zoned communities has in that period increased more than 130 per cent.

In the past four years the number of municipalities which have zoning ordinances has increased more than seven times. The number is now 366.

Of the 33 largest cities in the country 27 now have zoning ordinances. Three cities of more than 100,000 population, Denver, Colo.; Hartford, Conn., and New Bedford, Mass., have adopted zoning ordinances within the last six months. Altogether, 46 cities adopted zoning ordinances during the period from January to July, 1925.

Five states hitherto without enabling acts for zoning have enacted zoning legislation during the first half of 1925. They are Maine, New Hampshire, Utah, Idaho and Arizona.

Harmonizing Planting

No grounds are too small that planting will not greatly enhance the desirability of the home. Too much cannot be said on harmonizing the planting with the adjoining property. This is particularly true of the parkways, where uniform trees through the entire block are necessary, and ordinances generally protect the larger suburbs, but are overlooked in the smaller ones, and in the city it is not enforced consistently. Nature will express herself around the home soon and out-door living rooms can now be realized with bloom and fragrance in just a few short weeks so that back yards and front yards should be no more and in their places a new attitude.

Playgrounds in 700 Cities

Since 1885 more than 700 American cities have established public playgrounds and recreation centers for children. The first was in Boston and was called a "sand garden." The idea was imported from Germany and is being copied the world over.

How to Paint Wickers

Wicker furniture should be washed in strong soda water (one tablespoonful of washing soda to a quart of water). Allow to dry, then paint any color with a standard enamel paint, being sure it does not settle in the openings of the wicker, as it will dry too thick if not brushed out.

The Mercenary One

Cupid is satisfied with love; it is cupidity that tries to get alimony.—Boston Transcript.

EAT YEAST FOAM for Boils and Pimples

Don't endure an unsightly skin with this simple, effective remedy available!

Yeast Foam not only clears the skin but it overcomes constipation, relieves indigestion and most astonishingly builds up weight, strength and energy in run-down sickly people.

Drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let stand for five minutes; stir; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate. Or, if you prefer, eat the yeast with a cracker or a piece of butter.

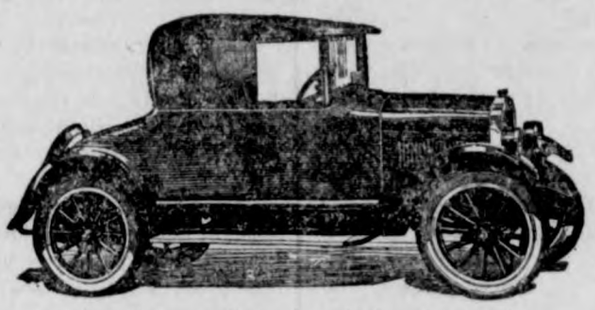
NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health," also a sample of Yeast Foam, without obligation.

Name_____

Address_____

W. N. U.

SAMPLE CAKE FREE!



Star Coupster $595, f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

MORE POWER

Low-cost Transportation

Star Cars

PRICES: f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

COMMERCIAL CHASSIS	$425
ROADSTER	$525
TOURING	$525
COUPSTER	$595
COUPE	$675
COACH	$695
SEDAN	$775

DURANT MOTORS, Inc.
250 West 57th Street, New York
General Sales Dept.—1819 Broadway, New York

Dealers and Service Stations throughout the United States Canada and Mexico

PLANTS: Elizabeth, N. J. Lansing, Mich. Oakland, Cal. Toronto, Ont.

Kills Germs—Ends Odors

A new, easy way to keep toilets sanitary

Doctors agree that too little is known about prevention of disease. Deadly typhoid fever germs, they say, lurk in every toilet vault and catch basin.

That is why health authorities recommend regular use of Lewis' Lye in these places. It gives complete protection that nothing else does.

First, Lewis' Lye kills germs. Next, it destroys flies. Finally it ends fermentation—the cause of noxious gases and odors.

Empty a can of Lewis' Lye in the toilet vault or catch basin each week. Keep your family safe from the typhoid menace and dangerous sewer gas.

Nothing takes the place of

LEWIS' LYE

The Lewis' Lye can has a safety friction top. Easy to open and close. Always seals tight and safe.

The Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. Co.
Philadelphia, Pa.

Topping Him Off

He—Won't you sit in this chair?

She—After you.—Washington Cougar's Paw.

Irresistible

"Your jokes had a great success!"

"Yes. Even the ladies with false teeth laughed!"

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

News Of Goodell and Vicinity By Times Correspondent

HAVE NARROW ESCAPE WHEN CAR IS STRUCK BY ENGINE

Goodell People Have Narrow Escape From Death On Railroad Crossing

Mr. and Mrs. John Rust drove to Cedar Falls after Viola Rust, Chloe Thomas, Helma Burgess and a couple of Belmond girls Friday. On their return they were struck by a switching engine while crossing the I. C. tracks. The car was overturned and badly damaged. Luckily no one was seriously injured, but most certainly had a narrow escape.

Mesdames Griggs and Sherwood Entertain Ladies Club

Mrs. Sherwood and Mrs. Jay Griggs held a Ladies F. B. follow-up sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. Griggs, Tuesday. The afternoon was spent in cutting and fitting dresses. Those present received some very beneficial instructions along this line of work, and was enjoyed by those taking part.

High School Hallowe'en Party

The Goodell High School held a a Hallowe'en Masquerade party in the school house Friday night. The high school pupils initiated the Freshmen as an opening entertainment. Games were played, stories read and speeches given and last but not least, refreshments were served. Everyone enjoyed himself immensely.

OTHER GOODELL ITEMS

Mrs. Cloan has been visiting with friends in Goodell the past week.

Miss Evelyn Thomas spent the week end at her home in Meservey.

"Speck" Houghton, of Belmond, was a Goodell caller Saturday.

Fred Grosz and little son spent Thursday at the Jay Griggs home.

Mart Kearney, of Williams, spent several days with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter were callers at the Sherwood home Friday night.

Dr. and Mrs. Snearly spent Sunday at Ft. Dodge with the former's brother and family.

Supt. Blue attended the Teachers Convention at Ames Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gosnele and children, of Fort Dodge, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lamer.

Goodell high school played baseball against Klemme Tuesday. The game was played on the apponent's diamond. Klemme won 8 to 0.

H. Harberts and Frank Clarke drove to Cedar Falls Friday after Esther Harberts and Dorothy Allaben who are attending college there.

Mrs. H. T. Miller, of Olin, is visiting friends in Goodell this week. Rev. and Mrs. Miller are former residents of Goodell.

Miss Viola Finn spent Monday with Mae Griggs; she also visited school at Meservey, Tuesday, spending the day with Miss Griggs.

The new minister, Rev. Scott, of Mt. Vernon, has not yet arrived, but will be here to take charge of his werk next week.

Fred Grosz and little son Henry, of Brock, Sask., Canada, after spending ten days with relatives at Meservey, Goodell and Belmond, returned to his home Sunday evening.

Mrs. Mildred Stacey and "Sunny Bug," as was little Robert's nickname, returned to their home in Indianapolis, Indiana, after spending several weeks with the Matsons.

DEALS IN DIRT

HANCOCK COUNTY REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

October 12, to October 17, 1925

A. T. Troeger to L. E. Troeger, Q. C. D. date 8-29-25, $1.00, W½ SW¼ & SE¼ SW¼ 26-96-23.

Chris Gillstrap and wf. to Concentrated Chemical Co., W. D. date 5-1-25, $1,500.00, W. 62 feet of lot 11 block 10 and lots 6 and 7 block 8, Crystal Lake.

Marie Nelson hus. to Daniel E. Williams, W. D. date 10-5-25, $250 S½ NW¼ of block 13 Stubbins add Britt.

Bessie J. Cushman, Adm., to First National Bank, Garner, Admrs. Deed date 6-11-25, $50.00 lots 5-6 block 25, Garner.

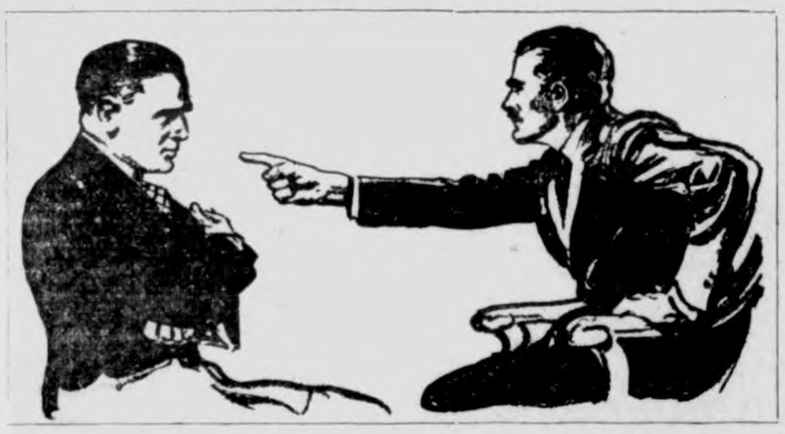
Bessie J. Cushman to First National Bank, Garner, Q. C. D. date 6-11-25, $1.00, lots 5-6 block 25, Garner.

H. O. Swingen wf. to State Savings Bank, Woden, Q. C. D. date 7-30-25, $1.00, etc., NW¼ 9-97-26.

Jens Nelson wf. to Laura E. Hess, W. D. date 10-5-25, $3250.00, lot 6 block 25, Andersons 2nd. add. Britt.

Chas. W. Erwin to John T. Gatchel, Q. C. D., date 9-4-25, $1.00, W½ 35-96-25.

A Good Tip!



Order Your Coal Now.

RIGHT NOW is the time to put in your supply of Coal for the winter. We can supply you NOW with high grade coal—why take chances by waiting? Order now!

Semi-Anthracite Coal

Have just received a car load of this high grade coal. You know Semi-Anthracite can't be beat. Try a load.

Miller Creek Coal

We have another car load of this popular coal on the road due to arrive any day. If you have never used this kind of coal you have missed something. Order a load now.

Our warehouse is full of all kinds of Feed. We have just unloaded a car of SWIFT'S TANKAGE, come in and get all you need. A full line of MILL FEEDS of all kinds. Have on hand DRY BUTTER MILK FEED and SUGAR FEED. Drive in and load up on Feeds—prices right!

MAPLE SOTA and WHITE ROYAL FLOUR

Klemme Grain Co.

The Farmers' Elevator

ANCIENT COURT MAY SIT AGAIN

Oxford University Urged to Reopen Tribunal.

Oxford, England.—An Oxford undergraduate is to be tried in the ordinary courts of assize on a charge of manslaughter arising out of a motor accident.

The frequency of motor smashes in which undergraduates are concerned has led a famous law don to suggest that the court of the lord high steward should try and punish the offenders.

This university court has been in existence, since 1404, and although it has not tried a case in hundreds of years, belief still prevails that it still has jurisdiction to try members of the university on charges of treason, felony or mayhem.

Its powers are not original, as a true bill must be found against the accused by the ordinary grand jury.

When this court is sitting at least its jury must be composed of half members of the university. Apparently, the chancellor has power to make townsmen members for this purpose, as is done in the case of the so-called "Holy Pokers," who are matriculated to serve on the jury of the university coroner.

The university possesses two other courts as well. The court of the chancellor, founded in 1831, is familiar to all thriftless undergraduates as the strong arm protecting Oxford tradesmen. When a bad debt is reported to this court, a notice is sent out to the debtor ordering him to pay at once or lose his degree and his bedroom furniture.

The vice chancellor's court is formed by the vice chancellor of the university assuming the privileges of his position as a justice of the city of Oxford and the counties of Oxford and Berkshire. As the powers of a justice sitting alone are very limited, it is the custom to make several heads of colleges justices in order that they may sit with the vice chancellor and increase his powers.

Didn't Raise His Cotton to Soften Flyer's Fall

Washington.—O. P. Shell, a North Carolina farmer, has notified the War department that his cotton field cannot be used for landing airplanes. He demands $50 for damage done to his crop May 14 when Pilot Brown, driving an army airplane from Langley field, Virginia, found it necessary to make a forced landing.

Mr. Shell has reported to Senator Simmons that he and Pilot Brown had some hot words over the injury to his cotton. He said Brown lost his temper, and told him he didn't give a d—n if he destroyed his entire cotton crop, and he would not recommend more than $1.50 damages."

Mr. Brown, according to Mr. Shell, asserted that he would like to see the picture of the dollar and a half when he received it.

Senator Simmons' office notified the War department that "Mr. Shell is burning with righteous wrath and wants to lay the whole matter before it."

Mr. Shell has been engrossing clerk of the North Carolina legislature for many years.

Take $2,000,000 in U. S. Gold to Australia

Honolulu.—The cargo of $2,000,000 in gold which the United States fleet is taking to Australia, to pay the men and defray some of the expenses of refueling and reprovisioning, will be exchanged for Australian gold coinage at an ounce-for-ounce rate.

The American government will pay a mintage fee of three pence an ounce, but will save $30,000 in exchange on the deal, naval officers estimate.

The gold arrived from the mainland aboard the transport Chaumont, and $1,200,000 was transferred to the flagship California of the battle fleet, the remaining $800,000 going to the U. S. S. Omaha, flagship of the destroyer squadrons.

Six Divide $12,000,000

Detroit, Mich.—Six men, who were practically "broke" in 1909, sat around a dinner table recently at the Detroit Golf club and divided $12,000,000. The dinner was in celebration of the Eureka Vacuum Cleaner company, which Fred Wardell founded in 1909. The money divided represented accumulated profits of the company.

"Static" Figures in Man's House-Hunting

Spokane, Wash.—Frank Stoop recently purchased a residence here, which he has pronounced "the ideal radio home."

Mr. Stoop passed several weeks in his search for a good radio location. After inspecting a house by daylight, if he found it otherwise acceptable, he would return at night with his radio set and "tune in." If the reception was poor, his search was continued next day.

"I found one house that sure did take my eye," he said. "I wanted to buy that house, but the static was so thick that I couldn't think of carrying the deal through. I tested out more than a dozen neighborhoods by radio before I found the right place. But, oh boy, I get it pretty now."

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON EASY MONEY

"An awfully interesting man came to see me today, Aunt Emmy. He had a list of stocks and bonds that look very favorable to me. Take this," said Helen, handing an alluring looking folder to Aunt Emmy. "This stock is pretty good. The man said it would be quoted at 20 on the exchange a month after it is put out. I can buy shares now at two dollars so I would make eighteen dollars for every two dollars I invest and all inside of four weeks." Helen paused for breath while Aunt Emmy looked at the folder.

"If I were to buy those White Leghorn chickens of yours," remarked Aunt Emmy, "would you promise me their eggs will sell for one dollar and a half a dozen a month from now?"

"Of course not, Aunty," laughed Helen. "The price of eggs depends entirely on the supply and demand in the market."

"Well, how about stocks? Why can this man promise you this stock will be selling for twenty dollars a month from now?"

"Well, I don't know exactly, but the listings on the stock exchange are different, aren't they?"

"The prices of stocks quoted on the stock exchange are influenced by supply and demand like the prices of eggs. No one can honestly guarantee the future price of any stock. A promoter who urges you to buy stock on any such guarantee is misinforming you. A stock salesman you could trust would never make such a statement. If you are going to listen to such talk you'd better put your money in the savings bank."

"But I wouldn't make so much on it!" objected Helen.

"Big profits mean big risks, and you cannot afford to take risks," said Aunt Emmy. "The house that gets out this booklet is unknown to you. Why don't you find out who you are dealing with?"

"How can I find out about the thousands of stock houses in the United States?"

"Well," said Aunt Emmy, "if you insist on considering making investments, you ought to at least take the trouble to go to your bank and find out about the people you are dealing with."

"I didn't know banks would bother with anything but actual banking," Helen said.

"They are glad to," Aunt Emmy said. "The more people that save and invest money wisely the better it is for the banks."—A. B. Aymes.

RESTRICTING LOANS ON UNECONOMIC FARMING

Bankers in many of the rural sections of the country are realizing as never before that they cannot afford to loan money for the conduct of farming enterprises where the odds are against that enterprise ever becoming a success. The risk is too great, and what is more it is doing the borrower an injury to encourage him in an unwarranted venture.

Some farmers may resent the idea of being questioned in regard to the use they expect to make of borrowed money. A false idea of their independence may lead them to feel that they can do as they please and follow any system of farming they desire; that it is nobody else's business whether that system is economic or not.

Experiences in certain sections during the past few years demonstrate the folly of such a position. The banker is loaning other people's money and he is duty bound to safeguard what has been entrusted to him Further, the law holds him responsible. With this obligation resting on his shoulders he has a right to select his customers. If he is convinced that a one-crop system or any other particular type of farming is unsound and is likely to be uneconomic, he is doing an injustice to the borrower as well as the depositor to loan the farmer the money.

Best results will accrue when both the lender and the borrower recognize that they are entering into a partnership and if the advantages and the dangers are frankly and carefully discussed the possibilities of success are greatly enhanced.—Banker-Farmer.

A Few Good "Don'ts"

Don't buy securities that are handled by irresponsible persons or unknown firms.

Don't buy mortgage notes on distant property.

Don't buy stock in new enterprises

Don't try to work the stock market. If the public were to win, professional operators would soon shut up shop and quit.

Don't buy stock in mines you know nothing about. Many mines are holes where fools dump their money.

Don't buy oil stock.

Don't buy stock in new invention schemes.

Don't buy real estate unless you have seen it. It may be a swamp.

Don't buy from one who says, "Invest now or it will be too late."

Don't buy from one who says, "The price will soon be raised."

Don't buy from one who offers you a discount for cash.

Don't buy anything on "tips."

Have nothing to do with the "bucket shop."

Don't speculate. A rich man can afford to, but you can't.

A splendid rule is, before you buy a security take it to a conservative and disinterested banker and ask him how much he will lend on it alone as security.—Banker-Farmer.

A FEW STRAY SHOTS

Just a few stray shots in peaceful, home loving Iowa:

1. A minister killed, his wife severely wounded in Parkersburg.
2. Town marshall at Traer shot twice and died from effects in a Waterloo hospital the next day.
3. A policeman shot down while on duty in Des Moines protecting a place of business from burglary.
4. A temperance worker shot from ambush while in her home at Vinton.
5. A deputy sheriff killed by booze runners at Logan.
6. A drunkard killed when riding with another drunkard at Belle Plaine when their car was ditched.
7. Boy at Spencer murdered because he could not pay an auto repair bill of $6.00.
8. Two banks at Fenton, one at Burt, one at Lone Rock, one at Ringsted, one at Leland robbed and an attempted bank robbery at LuVerne.
9. Girl murdered at Carlisle.
10. A booze runner murdered by another booze runner on the streets of Waterloo in broad daylight.

We wonder if the following are contributing causes of this dreadful crime wave:

Book shelves full of filth.

Newspapers full of prohibition jokes.

Stage scenes of drunkenness, also crimes of violence and a mockery at religion.

Churches empty on Sunday.

Leniency in conviction and parole of criminals.

Too many judges seemingly swayed by popular sentiment.

Iowa's motto is "Our Liberties We Prize, and our Rights we Will Maintain." The criminally inclined seem to know this, but how about the rest of us?—Britt News-Tribune.

BE CAREFUL TO WHOM YOU GIVE "LIFTS"

Two Men Murdered By Those Who Were Befriended

Taking the stranger into your car is a dangerous thing. Recently two men in Ohio were murdered while driving autos—by men they had taken in to give a lift. Down near Des Moines a traveling salesman overtook three lads walking up the road. They asked for a lift. He gave it to them. Now he is under charge of assisting three runaways who were sneaking away from their homes. He had helped them on their way. It is a dangerous thing to take a stranger into your back seat and allow him to sit behind you while you drive. You are directly at his mercy.

Large Potato Found

FOREST CITY, Oct. 22.—A potato weighing three and one half pounds whose circumference in breadth is 14 inches, and circumference in length 22 inches, was found by Albert Lundberg, local farmer. The potato is of the Rural New York variety and is on display.

Kindling Wood

Carload On Track!

Get your winter supply of Firewood now--Save money, get it off the car and save the unloading. This nice clean wood, all cut ready to use.

Corn Cribs

We have SLAT and WIRE Corn Cribs on hand.

Fencing

Will give spring dating on WOVEN WIRE FENCING---So do your fencing this fall.

Complete line of everything

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

Radio Supplies

Standard Accessories--

We have a complete line of standard DADIO SUPPLIES on hand. Get the most out of your set by having it in good working order. Look it over and see if you need:—

TUBES—Genuine Radiotron and Cunningham Tubes on hand for both dry cell or storage batteries.

ACCESSORIES—Full line of Dry Cell "A" Batteries, all sizes of "B" Batteries, also "C" Batteries, Battery Testers, Connectors, Batery Wire, Batery Testers, etc.

AERIAL EQUIPPMENT, Aerial lead wire, Lead-Ins, Insulators, etc. Tube adapters and sockets, in fact a complete line.

E. F. Jacobs

THE KLEMME TIMES

irtieth Year—Number 8. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

KLEMME PEOPLE URGED TO JOIN P. T. A. THIS YEAR

EXT PARENT TEACHER MEETING TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10

THER SCHOOL NEWS OF INTEREST

IN THE PARENT - TEACHER ASSOCIATION

A Booster For The Klemme Public School

NOTICE!

The next meeting of the Parent-acher Association will be held at school house on Tuesday evening 7:30 o'clock, November 10.

All of our high school teachers attending the Annual Teachers' sociation meeting at Des Moines November 5, 6, and 7, and as we pect to get some very fine ideas m them, and also to hear at our xt meeting what some of the oth- towns are doing, therefore, we ought it would be better to post-ne it for one week.

Let everyone who lives in or near lemme make it a point to attend is next meeting of the P. T. A. and lp to make Klemme's school and eir P. T. A. one of the best in this rt of the country.

Come out and see what we are ing to do for the benefit of our ildren.

There will be a good program, mu- talks, and discussions, and of rse. a lunch will be served to all er the regular meeting.

Remember the date, November 10 d BE THERE!

Watch next week's paper for the mplete program.

KLEMME SCHOOL NOTES

The High School and Grammar om will be dismissed next week on ursday and Friday while their in-ructors are attending the State achers Meeting at Des Moines. If ow disappears and it is fit to husk rn the boys will no doubt take ad-ntage of their vacation, helping some of the farmers besides earn-a little for themselves.

The Government and Law classes re permitted to attend the trial the Justice's Court on Tuesday af-noon. Thanks to the law abiding izenship of our communiy, trials a novelty and create no little in-rest when they occur.

Our Alumni Girls have begun prac-e for basket ball and hope to se-re some games with neighboring hools when our boys play.

Our Parent-Teacher Association announced elsewhere has been stponed one week and will be held v. 10. The faculty will be largely sponsible for the program at the xt meeting.

Names of students who made a-ve average grades the first six eks period of our school year are tinued this week as time did not rmit getting them all in last week. ers are:

Marvin Barz 1 B, Gertrude John-2 B, Esther Fuller 3 A and 1 B, rmit Koerner 1 B, Ferne Stille 1 Luther Tanner 4 B, Richard Ax B, Beatrice Busch 2 B, Mabel uldt 3 B, Allan Klotzbach 3 B, rence Stokesbary 4 B, Dora Swan-2 B, Frank Gibbs 4 B, Blanche ise 3 B, Ruth Johnson 3 B, Or-e Stokesbary 2 B.

Those earning one B each were: o Patet, Wayne Lemke, Clair st, Charles Busch, Lois Church, nn Lange, Ray Lange. Elmer Lar-, Golda Moberly and Harl Gimer. n the Grammar Room A and B dents were as follows:

Wm. Gauger 6 A and 1 B, Floyd tzbach 3 A and 2 B, Carlyle Gau-4 A and 3 B, Raymond Barz 2 nd 2 B, Clarice Wellemeyer 3 A d 2 B, Wayne Pavey 1 A and 2 B, atha Steiman 1 A and 2 B, Leona ort 1 A and 3 B, Raymond Schuldt B, Otho Kerause 1 A and 2 B, Re-Elder 1 A and 1B, Clarence Lem-2 B, Valeria Koerner 1 A and 1 Orivis Poort 1 A and 1 B, Verner Priebe 1 A, Lillian Beeler 1 B, Ruby Miller 1 B, Willis Busch 1 B.

A and B students of Fifth and Sixth Grade room follow:

Gladys Schlicting 2 A and 3 B, Emma Goll 3 A and 3 B, Nova Koerner 2 A and 3 B, Alvin Keeper 2 A and 3 B, LaVohn Larsen 1 A and 3 B, Blanch Gimer 1 A and 5 B, Ethel Barz 1 A and 5 B, Eldora Schwartz 1 A, Hilda Keeper 1 A, Clarence Kluckhohn 1 B, James Larsen 1 B, Kenneth Kluckhohn 1 B, Henry Schmid 1 A, Ilo Steiman 1 A, Thelma Kluckhohn 1 A, Gracka Quandt 1 B, Byrnes Missman 2 B, Leon Lemke 1 B, Mildred Lemke 1 A and 1 B.

The following in grades 5 and 6 have been neither absent nor tardy:

Paul Busch, Dorance Day, James Larson, Ethel Barz, Emma Goll, Nova Koerner, Leon Lemke. Gracka Quandt, Henry Smid, Asa Gibbs.

PETIT JURORS FOR NOVEMBER TERM

Hancock County Court Convenes November 16

Juror	P. O.	Twp.
Herman Lemke,	Britt,	Liberty.
Alfred Wallen,	Britt,	Britt.
Henry Helps,	Goodell,	Avery.
Fred Korte,	Woden	Bingham.
Fred Ausborn	Kanawha,	Erin.
J. P. Johnson,	Crystal Lake,	Crystal.
Mrs. W. A. Minor,	Britt,	Britt.
Alvina Nelson,	Forest City,	Madison.
W. F. Thompson,	Britt,	Britt.
Ruben F. Olson,	Forest City,	Elling.
Evelyn Geddes,	Hayfield,	Madison.
Fred Sonius,	Wesley,	Bingham.
W. H. Anderson,	Kanawha,	Amster.
Jennie Thompson,	Corwith,	Magor.
Lulu Puffer,	Corwith,	Magor.
Dora Livermore,	Garner,	Concord.
Laura Francis,	Corwith,	Magor.
Wm. Bell,	Goodell,	Avery.
John Pulfrey,	Garner,	Concord.
A. S. Berhow,	Kanawha,	Twin Lake.
Jake Swanson,	Britt,	Britt.
Edith Olson,	Kanawha,	Amsterdam.
Elizabeth Mattoon,	Corwith,	Cor.
M. J. Schoepf,	Forest City,	Madison.
Sam Wrede,	Garner,	Concord.
Corena Young,	Corwith	Magor.
Ormil Minor,	Kanawha,	Amsterdam.
Wm. Norby,	Kanawha,	Amsterdam.
Lewis Haugen,	For. City,	Ellington.
Julius Tschirki,	For. City,	Madison.

Grand Jury 1925

M. C. Stark,	Corwith
A. H. Nonweiler	Miller
C. O. Rydson	Britt
Ed. Wood	Woden
Geo. W. Scovell	Corwith
E. T. Boenke	Ventura
Geo. Kluckhohn	Klemme
Orville Johnson	Garner
George Ruka	Goodell
Palmer H. Johnson	Garner
J. W. Lamoreaux	Kanawha
H. A. Greiman	Garner

Loyal Workers S. S. Class Have A Chicken Supper

The Loyal Workers class of the Methodist Sunday school had a seven o'clock chicken dinner at the Parish House Tuesday evening. All report having plenty of chicken and that a good time was had by all.

A business meeting and an election was held at which class officers and committees were appointed. The result of the election was as follows:

President, Elmer Arnold.
Secretary, F. Gruetzmacher.
Treasurer, Herb Bailey.
Chairman of Program Committee, Mrs. Tom Nelson.
Chairman of Social Committee, Mrs. Leonard Sampson.
Chairman of Flower Committee, Mrs. Ed. Schaefer.
Chairman of Membership Committee, Mrs. John Josten.
Chairman of Visiting Committee, Mrs. August Ridder.

The Loyal Workers are a bunch of live wires and promise to keep some of the other classes busy to keep up with them.

CLARION DOCTOR MAY BE BARRED

County Attorney Begins Action To Suspend Brown For Dealing In Booze

CLARION, Oct. 22.—Robert Blue, county attorney, has applied to the district court for an order suspending Dr. George Brown of Clarion from engaging in the practice of medicine and surgery within the state of Iowa. For cause of action he submits a copy of the proceedings had in the federal court at Mason City in June, 1925, when the defendant pleaded guilty to violating the prohibition act and was fined $250 and costs which he paid. Judge Thompson has set Oct. 30, 1925, at 1:30 p. m. the time for hearing of said case.

JOSTEN HEADS GOSPEL TEAM AT MORNINGSIDE

Klemme Young Man Is Making A Record At Sioux City College

Earl Josten, of Klemme, was a member of a Morningside college gospel team which conducted services at the Methodist church in Ponca, Nebraska, last Sunday. The team of four members was accompanied by Miss Lillian Dimmitt, dean of women of Morningside college. Josten has charge of all gospel team work at Morningside and will send out a number of teams during the year.

Hancock County Legionaires put the endowment fund drive clear over the top and exceeded the quota for Hancock County by several hundred dollars.

New Auto License Plates Will Be White On Maroon

INCREASE TO REQUIRE A NEW SCHEME OF NUMBERING IN STATE MOTOR DEPARTMENT

Hancock County Cars Will Have A New Distinguishing Number For 1926 Plates

The year 1926 will slip by all in fine shape but when 1927 rolls around a system of numbering automobile licenses will have to be devised for 1927, due to the fact that Cerro Gordo county will pass above the 10,000 mark and necessarily will need a small distinguishing number at the front of the plate.

But the last of the one digit distinguishing numbers were taken this year by Clinton and Webster counties for 1926, so that there are now none left. Just what plan will be adopted has not been learned. This year (1926) Cerro Gordo is allotted 9,000 plates, last year 8,750 and so it is expected that next year, 1927, the number of cars will pass the 10,000 mark.

Hancock County's new number for 1926 will be 47 instead of 46 and will be ready for distribution by Co. Treasurer Suurballe on December 1st.

White On Maroon

The new plates are white on maroon, a little heavier and more substantial than those of other years. The license plates are now manufactured by the prisoners at the reformatory at Anamosa.

All but eleven Iowa counties will have new distinguishing numbers for 1926 as a result of moving the two counties, Clinton and Webster, to near the top of the list.

Taking these two counties out of their regular order results in giving counties from Adair to Clayton distinguishing numbers two higher than last year, and all counties from Crawford to Wayne numbers one higher than last year. The first seven counties, Polk, Woodbury,, Linn, Scott Pottawattamie, Black Hawk and Dubuque, and the last four, Winnebago, Winneshiek, Worth and Wright will retain their old numbers.

Numbers Assigned

The license number plates assigned the 99 counties for 1926 are s follows:

County	County Seat	No.
Non. Rec.,	State House	00
Polk,	Des Moines	1
Woodbury,	Sioux City	2
Linn,	Cedar Rapids,	3
Scott,	Davenport	4
Pottawattamie,	Council Bluffs	5
Black Hawk,	Waterloo	6
Dubuque,	Dubuque	7
Clinton,	Clinton	8
Webster,	Fort Dodge	9
Adair,	Greenfield	10
Adams,	Corning	11
Allamakee,	Waukon	12
Appanoose,	Centerville	13
Audubon,	Audubon	14
Benton,	Vinton	15
Boone,	Boone	16
Bremer,	Wavery	17
Buchanan,	Independence	18
Buena Vista,	Storm Lake	19
Butler,	Allison	20
Calhoun,	Rockwell City	21
Carroll,	Caroll	22
Cass,	Atlantic	23
Cedar,	Tipton	24
Cerro Gordo,	Mason City	25
Cherokee,	Cherokee	26
Chickasaw,	New Hampton	27
Clark,	Osceola	28
Clay,	Spencer	29
Clayton,	Elkader	30
Crawford,	Dennison	31
Dallas,	Adel	32
Davis,	Bloomfield	33
Decatur,	Leon	34
Delaware,	Manchester	35
Des Moines,	Burlington	36
Dickinson,	Spirit Lake	37
Emmet,	Estherville	38
Fayette,	West Union	39
Floyd,	Charles City	40
Franklin,	Hampton	41
Fremont,	Sidney	42
Greene,	Jefferson	43
Grundy,	Grundy Center	44
Guthrie,	Guthrie Center	45
Hamilton,	Webster City	46
Hancock,	Garner	47
Hardin,	Eldora	48
Harrison,	Logan	49
Henry,	Mt. Pleasant	50
Howard,	Cresco	51
Humboldt,	Dakota City	52
Ida,	Ida Grove	53
Iowa,	Marengo	54
Jackson,	Maquoketa	55
Jasper,	Newton	56
Jefferson,	Fairfield	57
Johnson,	Iowa City	58
Jones,	Anamosa	59
Keokuk,	Sigourney	60
Kossuth,	Algona	61
Lee,	Fort Madison	62
Louisa,	Wapello	63
Lucas,	Chariton	64
Lyon,	Rock Rapids	65
Madison,	Winterset	66
Mahaska,	Oskaloosa	67
Marion,	Knoxville	68
Marshall,	Marshalltown	69
Mills,	Glenwood	70
Mitchell,	Osage	71
Monona,	Onowa	72
Monroe,	Albia	73
Montgomery,	Red Oak	74
Muscatine,	Muscatine	75
O'Brien,	Primghar	76
Osceola,	Sibley	77
Page,	Clarinda	78
Palo Alto,	Emmetsburg	79
Plymouth,	LeMars	80
Pocahontas,	Pocahontas	81
Poweshiek,	Montezuma	82
Ringgold,	Mt. Ayr	83
Sac,	Sac City	84
Shelby,	Harlan	85
Sioux,	Orange City	86
Story,	Nevada	87
Tama,	Toledo	88
Taylor,	Bedford	89
Union,	Creston	90
Van Buren,	Keosauqua	91
Wapello,	Ottumwa	92
Warren,	Indianola	93
Washington,	Washington	94
Wayne,	Corydon	95
Winnebago,	Forest City	96
Winneshiek,	Decorah	97
Worth,	Northwood	98
Wright,	Clarion	99

Clip this list out and keep it for future reference.

GOVERNMENT REPORT SHOWS A NUMBER OF CHANGES

LEMKE-KATTER WEDDING LAST THURSDAY

Henry Katter, Jr., and Miss Ruth Lemke were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lemke, last Thursday morning at 11 o'clock Rev. C. A. Schmid performing the ceremony.

The wedding ceremony was very pretty and took place under a beautiful arch. The bride was attired in white georgette trimmed with white satin and carried a bouquet of carnations. She was attended by Miss Sophia Katter, sister of the groom, and the bride's brother, Otto, was the best man.

Only the immediate families of the young couple were present at the wedding, which was followed by a wedding dinner at twelve. Shortly after the dinner the young couple left on a honeymoon trip to North Dakota and Wisconsin for a visit.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Katter, Sr.. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lemke. Both of these young people were born and raised on farms northwest of Klemme and have spent their entire lives in this vicinity. Both are fine young people and come from the best of families in the neighborhood in which they live.

The Times joins with the many friends of the young couple in extending congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy wedded life.

MAIL SACKS STOLEN AT BRITT

School House Also Broken Into By Robbers

Three sacks of mail were stolen from the M. & St. L. depot at Britt Sunday night at about midnight. Entrance was gained by breaking a window. The robbery was discovered by the night agent when he came to meet the train about midnight.

The next morning it was discovered that the high school had also been visited but nothing was stolen there.

Bloodhounds were put on the trail next morning but after following it a few blocks was lost.

BOOTH'S SON TAKES OVER BILL BRYAN'S S. S. CLASS

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Herbert Booth, son of the late Gen. William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, has been appointed successor to the late William Jennings Bryan as superintendent of the famous tourist class of the Presbyterian church of Miami, Fla. Mr. Booth, whose home is in Yonkers, N. Y., was a personal friend of Bryan and on several occasions appeared on the same platform with him.

Pearl Necklaces Found On Road

LUVERNE, Minn., Oct. 29.—Pearl necklaces that have a value of several hundred dollars were found last week along a highway close to a farm south of here. They were found by Patrolman Theo. Westerbur, who is in charge of patroling the highway.

First Heavy Snow Of The Season Fell Here Tuesday

The first heavy snow of the season fell unusually early here and this vicinity is in the grip of cold winter weather. Five or six inches of snow covered the ground Tuesday which was followed by a cold snap when the thermometer fell to 6 degrees above the zero mark early Wednesday morning. This is the coldest weather and the largest amount of snow in October that the old timers can remember for several years back.

Basket Social And Play

A Pie and Basket Social, and a two act play, "Our Awful Aunt," will be given at Twin Lake District No. 1 school, 2 miles south and 1 mile west of Klemme, on Friday evening, November 6th. Pearl Johnson, Teacher. 1tp

DECREASE SHOWN IN LAND VALUES

1925 FARM CENSUS ISSUED FOR HANCOCK COUNTY BY DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, U. S. A.

Comparative Figures Are Compiled By The Government

Washington. D. C., October 29—The following statement gives some of the results of the 1925 farm census for Hancock County, Iowa, with comparative data for 1920. The 1925 figures are preliminary and subject to correction.

	Jan. 1 1925	Jan.1. 1920
Number of farms	1,865	1,875
Operated by:
Owners	835	889
Managers	12	26
Tenants	1,018	960
Farm Acreage:
All land in farms	344,757	345,713
Crop land, 1924	258,031
Harvested	256,259
Crop failure	1,140
Fallow or idle	632
Pasture, 1924	65,980
Plowable	44,569
Woodland	1,981
Other	19,430
Woodland not pastured	631
All other land	20,115
Farm values:
Land & build. 1925	$53,313,663
1920	$74,113,606
Land alone, 1925	43,999,085
1920	$5,843,621
Buildings 1925	9,314,5°0
1920	8,269,985

	Jan. 1 1925	Jan.1. 1920.
Livestock On Farms:
Horses	12,322	14,310
Mules	726	350
Cattle Total (1)	49,531	46,203
Beef cows (2)	12,884
Other beef cattle	27,242
Dairy cows (3)	27,242
Other dairy cattle	4,210
Swine, total	68,837	62,858
Breeding sows (4)	17,501	15,753

Principal crops	1924	1919.
Corn acres	98,461	90,120
Bushels	2,752,236	3,315,957
Oats, acres	91,820	86,271
Bushels	4,373,047	2,872,745
Wheat, acres	892	3,304
Bushels	32,994	33,838
Hay, acres	26,182	40,691
Tons	39,880	50,918
White Potatoes:
Acres	1087	1,254
Bushels	143,101	61,426

Notes: (2) and (3) Cows and heifers 2 years and older.

(4) Sows and gilts for breeding purposes 6 months old and over.

(1) Cattle are of general purpose type, classification as beef or dairy depending largely on individual judgment; 8,700 "beef" cows were milked in 1924.

The editor of the Times is publishing this government report hoping that it will be of interest to our farmer readers.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

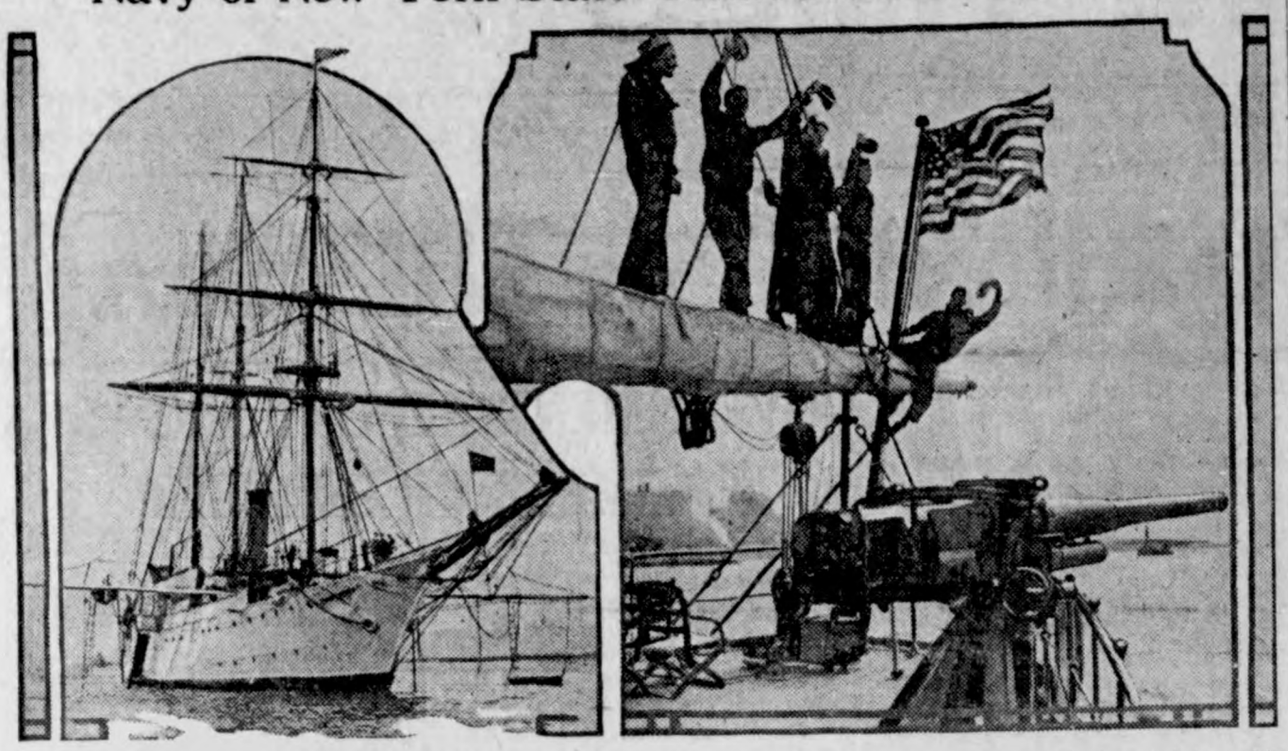
We have reached the time of the year when we are reminded of the Great Reformation and what it has meant to the world. This will be our leading thought next Sunday morning.

On Sunday evening we will have the first of a series of two sermons on "The Two Brothers." when we will take a real look at "That Younger Brother."

The adult class of Klemme had a supper and a social hour on Tuesday evening of this week, while the young people of Liberty will enjoy a social gathering on Friday evening. These events are worth while.

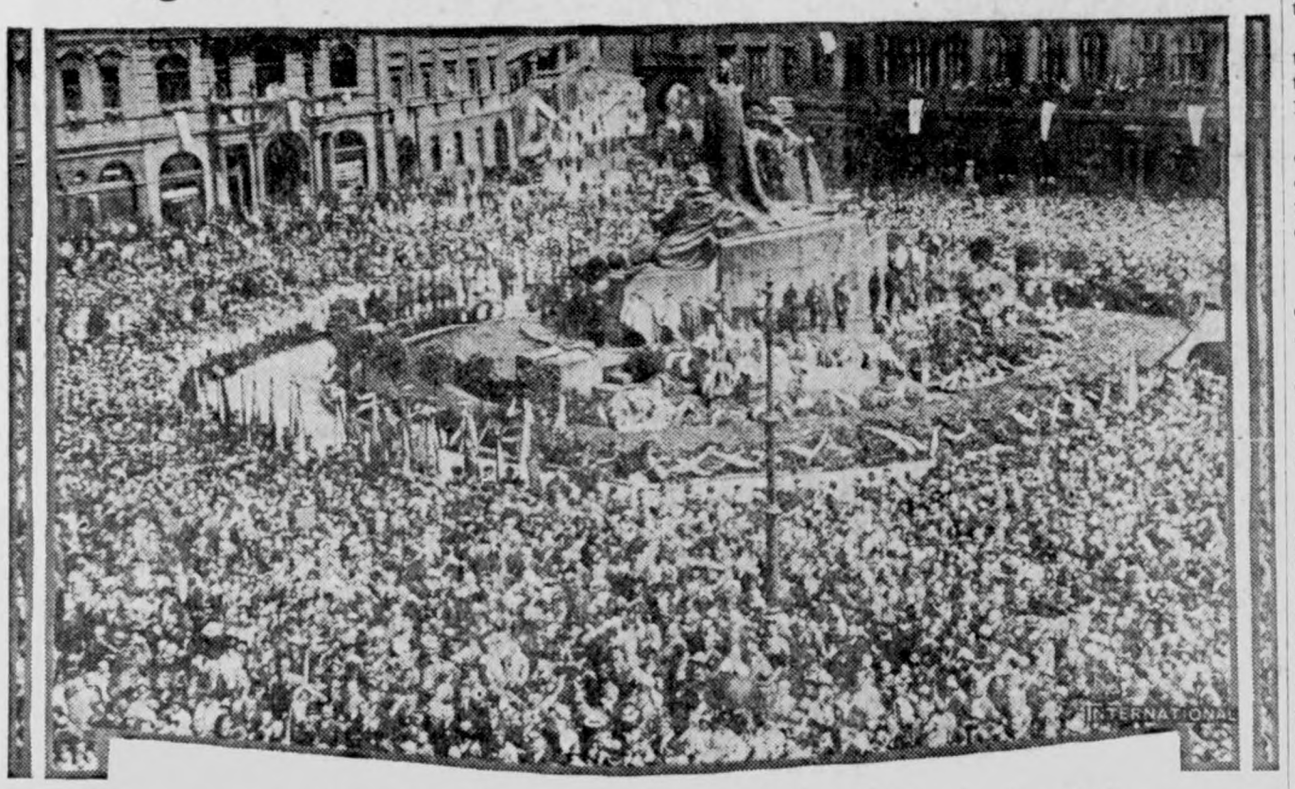
Grandma Lewis has been on the sick list this past week.

Navy of New York State Comes Home From Europe



New York is the only state that has a navy, and the other day that navy, consisting of the training ship Newport, returned from an extended cruise to Europe. The crew is made up of boys between the ages of seventeen and twenty-one who are students of the academy of the state nautical school.

Prague's John Huss Celebration That Vexed Vatican



Part of the immense crowd gathered for the John Huss celebration which took place in Prague to commemorate the signing of the treaty of St. Germain. It was this celebration which caused the present strained relations between the Vatican and the Czechoslovak government.

"Mr. Congo" Arrives in America

"Mr. Congo," the only gorilla in captivity in America, arrived in New York on the steamer Homeric with his captor and owner, Benjamin Burbridge of Jacksonville, Fla. He was caught in the Belgian Congo.

Girl Teaches Veterans to Fence

The Seventy-first regiment of the New York National Guard has a new instructor in the art of fencing, pretty Miss Dorothy Lee. This photograph shows Miss Lee engaging with Sergt. Wilbert Moss.

IS HE CHARLIE ROSS?

C. W. Dewitt of Philadelphia, who has just stated that he is the long-missing Charley Ross, the lad who half a century ago, was kidnaped by a band of conspirators. Mr. Dewitt says he has papers that will identify him as the long-missing child. Dewitt is only one of probably 100 persons who have claimed the name of Charley Ross.

OVER SUNKEN SUB

Waiting its knell of death and flashing its light over the green stretches of Block Island sound, this melancholy buoy rides over the spot where the submarine S-51 nestles in the embrace of the sea, its 28 occupants asleep forever.

ESTATE TAX REPEAL URGED BY GOVERNORS

Tell House Body States Are Entitled to Revenue From Own Estates.

Washington.—Repeal of the federal estate tax was urged by the governors of six states, representatives of thirteen others and speakers for the American Bankers' association and the National Committee on Inheritance Taxation at a hearing before the house committee on ways and means.

The governors' chief argument was that the state was entitled to the revenue from its own estates. Other arguments advanced by them can be summarized in the address of Frederic A. Delano, speaking for the National Committee on Inheritance Taxation. Mr. Delano advocated the following ten points:

1. Making inheritance taxes substantially uniform throughout the United States.
2. Making inheritance tax rates stable.
3. Making inheritance tax rates moderate.
4. Enacting legislation at the coming session of congress repealing the federal estate tax. This repeal to take effect in six years.
5. Immediate downward revision of the rate structure of the federal estate tax, with the maximum rate of 15 per cent.
6. Extension of the credit provision of the present law so as to allow a credit of all inheritance taxes paid to the several states up to 80 per cent of the federal tax.
7. Abolition of the gift tax.
8. Substitution by the states of an estate tax law in place of the succession tax laws now generally employed.
9. Abandonment of the multiplicity of taxation of the same property.
10. The taxation of intangible personal property only in the state of domicile of the decedent.

Mr. Delano favored delaying the taking effect of a repeal of the federal estate tax for six years for fear that the immediate repeal might retard the movement for uniformity which, he said, was growing, and might increase the present confusion between the states. He also said that most states, on account of the sessions of their legislatures, could not consider changes until 1927, and that the proverbial slowness of legislative bodies would have to be considered, too.

Duke Leaves $100,000,000 Estate to Widow and Child

New York.—The will of James Buchanan Duke, former president of the American Tobacco company, disposing of an estate believed to be in excess of $100,000,000, was filed for probate in Somerville, N. J.

Mr. Duke, who died of pneumonia on October 10 last, names his widow, Mrs. Nanaline H. Duke, and his daughter, Doris, twelve years old, the chief beneficiaries. His chief public bequests are an additional gift of $17,000,000 to the endowment of $40,000,000 which he established on December 7 last, for Duke university of Durham, N. C.

Nowhere in the voluminous document is mention made of Mrs. Lillian N. McCready Duke, the testator's first wife, whom he married in 1904 and divorced the following year. At the time of her divorce Mrs. Lillian Duke was said to have received $100,000, only to lose it through a broker.

She had threatened to sue for a share of his estate, but friends reported that she was dying in her modest apartment in West Eighty-eighth street, as a result of partial starvation and a cerebral hemorrhage.

Millionaire's Adopted Son Guilty of Robbery

Waukegan, Ill.—Jack Durand, adopted son of the millionaire Scott Durand of Lake Bluff, was found guilty by a jury at Waukegan of having been one of a band of three youths who robbed the home of F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., taking pearls and diamonds.

Durand has not yet been sentenced. The penalty may be anything from three to twenty years in the penitentiary.

Meanwhile, however, the young man is at liberty on a $10,000 bond signed by his foster mother.

Pastor Killed, Bride Hurt During Trip in Holy Land

Jerusalem.—The Rev. Warner Lentz, twenty-five, of Bangor, Pa., was killed and his three months' bride, the former Miss Persis Schramm of Burlington, Iowa, was slightly injured when an automobile in which they were returning from the Mount of Olives overturned.

Say Quacks Take Millions

St. Louis.—Doctors at the final session of the American Public Health association convention held here asserted that quack commercial cure-alls were collecting millions from the public and menacing health.

Radio Fan Loses Wife

Minneapolis, Minn. — Because her husband spent nearly all his spare time with radio sets, Mrs. Hattie Irene Arnold was granted a divorce and custody of their two children.

SOUTHERN LEADER

An approved portrait of Senator Edwin Sidney Broussard of Louisiana, one of the leading southern Democrats in the upper house. He was born in Louisiana and educated in the schools of that state. He enlisted in the Spanish-American war and rose to captain, and later accompanied the Taft commission to the Philippines. He practiced law until his election to the senate in 1920. He is married and has six children.

U. S. WARSHIPS WILL GUARD YANKS IN SYRIA

American Consul Asks Aid as Revolt Spreads.

Washington.—Two American destroyers have been ordered from Gilbraltar to Alexandria, Egypt, to remain in readiness for use in Syrian ports should their presence become necessary for the protection of American lives and property as a result of the revolt by tribesmen in that country.

Instructions were cabled Vice Admiral Roger Wells, commanding the European squadron, after a request for the ships had been received here from Paul Knabenshue, American consul in Beirut, Syria.

Advices concerning the Syrian disturbance show it centers in the vicinity of Damascus.

It is estimated that about 150 Americans are in Damascus or the immediate vicinity.

U. S. Collects $448,330,453 Taxes During September

Washington.—Tax collections for the month of September, 1925, the bureau of internal revenue announced, aggregated $448,330,453, an increase of $24,809,759 over collections for September, 1924.

Income tax collections for September this year amounted to $359,998,806.72, compared with $348,607,455 for September, 1924, an increase of $11,391,351. Miscellaneous taxes for September, 1925, amounted to $88,341,647, compared with $74,842,238 for September, 1924, an increase of $13,499,408.

To give further assistance to taxpayers in the preparation of their 1925 income and miscellaneous tax returns, the bureau of internal revenue announced that it has organized a corps of instructors which will hold in each collection district a school for the information and guidance of the field force on tax questions.

Will Not Interfere With Karolyi Exclusion Order

Washington.—President Coolidge has no intention of interfering with the State department in its refusal to permit entrance into this country of the Countess Karolyi, wife of Count Karolyi, former president of Hungary. Although Ralph Beaver Strassburger of Philadelphia, who was to have entertained the countess at his home had she been permitted to enter the country, appealed to the President on her behalf, the President has made no move in the matter and is not expected to.

Robinson Gets Ralston's Seat in U. S. Senate

Indianapolis.—Arthur R. Robinson, Indianapolis attorney, was appointed United States senator from Indiana to succeed the late Samuel M. Ralston.

Mr. Robinson was named by Gov. Ed Jackson to serve until the state election in November, 1926, when a senator will be elected to serve the remainder of Mr. Ralston's term, which would have expired March 3, 1929. Mr. Robinson is a Republican.

Sends Debt Mission to U. S.

Bucharest. — The Rumanian debt funding mission, having reached an agreement for the liquidation of Rumania's debt to Great Britain, will now go to the United States, Vintila Bratiano, minister of finance, announced after a cabinet meeting.

Abd-el-Krim to Move Again

Madrid.—Abd-el-Krim, who has fled from Adjir, now plans another removal of his headquarters to Sheshuan, says a dispatch to the Nacion from Morocco.

An Unflattering Light

William Jennings Bryan, a few days before his death in Dayton, said to a correspondent:

"So you think that all this limelight is doing me good, eh? Well, a lot of it makes me feel like a doctor.

"'Oh, George,' said the doctor's wife, 'and so you've actually saved old Mr. Million!'

"'Yes,' said the doctor. 'I'm happy to say old Million is now out of danger.'

"'Oh, George,' she said, 'what a marvelous doctor you are. Oh, if I had only known you seven years ago I'm sure that under your skillful treatment my poor first husband, Harry McMasters, would have been alive today.'"

Old Folks Must Not Use "Physics"

While Dr. W. [illegible] Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary. To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils every day or two.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels of old folks. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

MOTHER GRAY'S POWDERS BENEFIT MANY CHILDREN

Thousands of mothers have found Mother Gray's Sweet Powders an excellent remedy for children complaining of Headaches, Colds, Feverishness, Worms, Stomach Troubles and other irregularities from which children suffer these days and excellent results are accomplished by its use. They break up colds and regulate the bowels. Used and recommended by Mothers for over 30 years. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Trial package FREE. Address, Mother Gray Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Cuticura Talcum Unadulterated Exquisitely Scented

Proverbs embody the current practical philosophy of an age or nation.

To obtain what is unjust from one just is wrong, but to seek what is just from the unjust is folly.

A man can know nothing of mankind without knowing something of himself.

GASTRITIS IS DANGEROUS STOP IT QUICK

When your stomach is bloated—when it is so distended with gas that presses on the heart almost suffocates you

What are you going to do?

Take a chance or get rid of the gas quick?

The one big selling stomach medicine today is Dare's Mentha Pepsin and its mighty power to relieve terrible gastric acute or chronic is a blessing to tens of thousands of people who have been unable to get help from any other source.

It's splendid for any stomach trouble. Its Dare's Mentha Pepsin.

So when your food won't digest or you bloating or shortness of breath causes you to become nervous or dizzy or have headache always remember that you can get one bottle—of Dare's Mentha Pepsin from your druggist and if it doesn't relieve your disordered stomach—your money will be returned.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

EDUCATION WEEK NOVEMBER 16-22

Federal, state and local officials from President Coolidge to mayors of cities, prominent leaders all over the nation, firms and associations of many sorts co-operated actively and whole-heartedly in arrangements for staging American Education week, set this year for November 16 to 22. The National Americanism commission of the American Legion, the United States bureau of education and the National Educational association, the three agencies sponsoring the demonstration, report a marked increase in interest in the week.

President Coolidge expressed his co-operation by agreeing readily to issue a proclamation calling attention to the observance. His example was followed by governors and mayors from one end of the country to the other. State superintendents of public instruction and other educational authorities, state and local, joined heartily in the work. Chambers of commerce and local clubs, as well as national departmental and post officials of the Legion, were especially active.

The American Legion Auxiliary came forward to carry on a nation-wide "Visit Your School" campaign for the week. The object was announced to be to acquaint the general public with the actual operations of the schools and to stir their interest in seeing the schools in action.

Many large concerns agreed to carry matter in their national advertising which would help to promote the week, especially Community and Health day.

Members of the American Bankers' association and the Association of Investment Bankers responded readily to a suggestion that they display window placards announcing the program for the week and emphasizing Conservation and Thrift day. Various teachers' agencies and other organizations co-operated.

Representative of the 175 national organizations which have co-operated from the beginning in putting on the week are such groups as the American Bar association, the Boy Scouts of America, the Daughters of the American Revolution, Kiwanis, Rotary, the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, the American Red Cross and the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

Plans Poster Contest to Aid Training Camps

A national "art poster contest in the interest of citizens' military training camps" is being sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary, it was announced recently by Mrs. O. D. Oliphant, national president.

"The purpose of the contest," declared Mrs. Oliphant, "is to extend information concerning and to promote the citizens' military training camps conducted each year in various sections of the country."

Three national awards will be made. The prizes are to be $150, $100 and $50, respectively. Fourth and fifth-place winners will be given honorable mention signed by the committee on national award. These five posters will be chosen from designated entries from the states and territorial possessions of our country.

Commenting on the plan, Mrs. Oliphant said: "The auxiliary's sponsorship is the outcome of its whole-hearted interest in the plans for national defense and the belief that privileges offered by these camps present to the nation an excellent opportunity for promoting Americanism and for the rearing of a citizen-soldiery which will serve this nation in time of national emergency."

Fidac Seal to Be on All Membership Cards

Each 1926 membership card of the American Legion will have printed opposite the American Legion emblem the seal of Fidac, inter-allied federation of World war veterans, according to announcement made by James F. Barton, national adjutant.

"In this manner the three-quarter-million members in the American Legion will be members of Fidac in fact as in name," said Mr. Barton. "Wherever a Legionnaire may be, if he has his Legion card with him, he will be accorded the courtesies and privileges extended to members of Fidac."

Placing of the seal on the cards follows out the resolutions of the international congress of Fidac suggesting that all member associations have the Fidac seal on their membership cards.

Lesson on Displaying Flag

A picturesque demonstration of the proper manner to display the American flag was made at Spokane, Wash., recently, under the auspices of the local American Legion post. A command of soldiers from a nearby fort marched on a main street carrying banked flags and at a given command each soldier stepped to the side of the street and placed his flag in the proper position.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Let us be "well read, deeply learned and thoroughly grounded in the hidden knowledge of all salads and all potherbs whatsoever."—Beaumont and Fletcher.

THE FAMILY MEAL

Most people enjoy a good soup whether vegetable, cream or clear. The first requirement for a good flavored soup with vege tables is a sou bone with plenty o marrow. Put o the bone covere with cold water there should be a pound or two o meat either on the bone or sliced to the kettle. Let simmer for severn hours before adding the vegetables. A slice of cabbage minced, another o turnip, an onion or two, a little celery and a small carrot will make a soup which will call you to dinner from the street. Make a few dumplings and cook them on top of the whole and serve on a great platter like a stew reserving the soup strained for the first course, or adding it to the stew, and serving in soup plates.

Braised Leg of Lamb.—Rub a leg of lamb, wipe with a damp cloth, stuff and truss, place in a braising pan. Cook five minutes in one-fourth of a cupful of butter, a large slice each of carrot, onion and turnip (all cut fine), a small bay leaf, one sprig of thyme and parsley. Add three cupfuls of hot water or stock, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful of peppercorns. Pour this mixture over the lamb, cover closely and cook slowly two and one-half hours; uncover the last half hour. Remove from the pan to a hot platter. Brown three tablespoonfuls of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of flour and stir well until browned, then add the liquor from the pan, carefully strained. One and three-fourths cupfuls will be sufficient to make the gravy.

Lemon Sponge.—Soak one-half of an envelope of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water, dissolve in one cupful of boiling water, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of lemon juice and the grated rind of one lemon; strain and set aside to thicken. Stir occasionally and when quite thick, beat with a wire whisk until frothy; add the whites of two eggs beaten stiff, and pile in spoonfuls into a glass dish. Chill and serve with a boiled custard.

Stuffed Quinces.—Peel and core six quinces and place them in a baking dish with one cupful each of sugar and water. Fill the cavities with chopped raisins and nuts, cover and bake until tender. Cool and serve with cream.

More Good Food.

A good sandwich for a lunch basket or for other occasions is:

Raisin Sandwich.—Chop one cupful of seeded raisins very fine, add four hard-cooked eggs also chopped, one and one-half dozen ripe olives pitted and chopped, all mixed to a smooth paste with mayonnaise dressing. Spread on slices of whole wheat bread that has been buttered.

Veal Birds.—Take veal steak cut one-fourth of an inch in thickness, from the leg. Cut into pieces two by four inches. Lay on a piece of salt pork, roll and fasten with a toothpick. Brown in pork fat, season with salt and pepper. Put into a baking dish and cover with rich milk; bake in a slow oven for an hour and a half. Serve with the gravy from the pan, slightly thickened. If the meat is rolled in seasoned flour, the gravy will be thickened by the time the meat is done.

Now, before our nice fall tomatoes are gone put up a few jars of tomato soup, all seasoned ready to heat and serve.

Tomato Soup.—Cook together one-half bushel of ripe tomatoes, fourteen sprigs of parsley, fourten single stalks of celery, eight large onions, two bay leaves, ten whole cloves. Cut all the vegetables, removing the cores from the tomatoes, and boil one hour or until the mixture can be put through a sieve. Take fourteen tablespoonfuls of butter, fourteen tablespoonfuls of flour, cook together adding a little of the strained tomato, cook until smooth, add thirteen tablespoonfuls of sugar, eight tablespoonfuls of salt, four teaspoonfuls of paprika, cook until smooth and add to the rest of the liquor strained from seeds. When boiling hot seal in glass-topped cans. This recipe makes about nine quarts.

Pomona Jelly.—Soak one-half of a box of gelatin in cold water, using one-half cupful; add one-half cupful of boiling water. Add two cupfuls of sweet cider and two tablespoonfuls of ginger sirup, sweeten to taste. Strain and mold. Serve with cold roast pork.

Sherry Dressing.—Take three-fourths of a cupful of olive oil, one-fourth of a cupful of vinegar, two teaspoonfuls of powdered sugar, one teaspoonful each of salt, one small Bermuda onion finely chopped and two tablespoonfuls each of sweet green and red peppers, also finely chopped. Add cayenne to taste and shake in a mason jar until well blended, then let stand an hour before using.

Nellie Maxwell

LITTLE LADIES IN WARM ATTIRE; PARIS SHOWS GENIUS IN HATS

ADDED to the usual staple shades used for coats, the live, warm colors of this season are chosen for young girls—the wine and copper tones, new blues, greens and reds. They are all particularly cozy looking in suede cloths and pile fabrics, and velveteen is a popular addition to the latter group. It is a featured material in both coats and dresses and is often used in combination with other goods—nothing is prettier in the warm Wilson's Pharmacy. tones or in the

Mrs. Paul Stille, accompanied by the Misses Buchan, Thompson and Lovrien, were Mason City visitors Saturday.

25 per cent off on Children's, Misses and Ladies Shoes and Oxfords at F. Gruetzmachers this week and also next week. 1wc

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Evanson and children of Miller, spent Sunday at the Joe Stokesbary home near Klemme.

The snow of Tuesday sent rabbit hunters out Wednesday morning in quest of a bunny dinner. The rabbits are plentiful this year.

LAXACOLD—A Laxative tablet treatment for Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Headache and Neurolgia. Sold at Wilson's Pharmacy. 2we

Emil Barz came from Waterloo Saturday for a visit with his son, Max and other Klemme relatives. He returned to Waterloo Sunday.

The Twin Lake Farm Bureau ladies held an all day meeting Monday at the Albert Etchen home. Miss McIlrath, of Ames, was there giving instructions.

The Harm Aires and Irve Henry families of Ventura visited at the Clarence Bachman home one day last week. They came over to admire the new baby.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

Grandma Fouts was 84 years old Monday and in honor of the great event her daughter. Mrs. A. D. Gimer planned a birthday party for her in the afternoon to which a number on garments for girls in the last half of their teens. The coat shown in the picture is typical good style for younger misses, and speaks for itself. It is made of suede cloth in a warm brown shade—with hat to match. This pretty affair has an ornament at the front, set with a dark topaz jewel—of the millinery sort—thus paying tribute to the fashion, set by Queen Mary, of wearing a jewel on a plain hat. The coat-and-hat-to-match idea deserves

What has made them what they are today and which of their several charms has contributed most to the tremendous success of those small velours and felt hats that fill so much of the millinery horizon? They are the darlings of the mode and fate has been kind to them; for their success is not transitory—they are here to stay for some time.

Paris reveals its genius in the group of six chic hats, in fine velours or felt, that are at once so simple and so superior. It takes a good grade of soft velours, or felt, to get the best effects—that is the most becoming lines and most pleasing colors. Even so, hats of this kind are not extravagant in price and they stand much wear. Just at present there is a fad for gold in collars, appliqued figures and other trimmings, on felt and velours hats, but the variety of ways for adorning them is endless. In the hat at the upper left, two slashes are cut in the crown at the right side and one at the left. Folds of satin emerge from the lower slash and form a collar across the front, disappearing in the slash on the left side. Another slash allows three folded ends to escape, and lest we forget to notice this bit of artistry, small embroidered figures are placed by the slashes. The soft velours hat at the right is among the most becoming models, with its irregular, upturned brim. It has a narrow gold collar and a fancy gold pin thrust in the brim. A dignified, square-crowned black felt, at the center of the group, disdains any other decoration than a band of felt about the crown crossing at the front, where an ornamental pin holds it in place. A small, flat cluster of bright feathers is added to the hat at the right with collar of self-colored belting ribbon. A similar hat at the left has tailored loops of ribbon under a fold in the brim, and two ends of it posed against the side crown. A velours hat with velvet brim facing finishes the group. Of all brim movements this has proved most popular. Two small gold ornaments are placed where the brim is caught to the crown.

Style for Girls.

Group of Paris Hats.

the success it has made, having the chic that belongs to ensembles.

Coats for girls from sixteen to twenty employ more lavish fur trimmings and feature the season's new style points, in flared skirts, fabric details in trimming, new styles in collars and revers, and even the introduction of side plaques of fur and pyramid cuffs. But these are all discreetly used—especially for sweet sixteen—whose charm is dimmed whenever she is overdressed.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

GOOD ROADS

HIGHWAYS MUST BE BUILT FOR FUTURE

The "saturation point" for automobiles and trucks in this country does not depend upon the ability of the American people to buy more automobiles and trucks, but upon the capacity of our roads to accommodate the more than 17,000,000 motor vehicles now being driven, and the additional number being produced and sold. To provide room on our highways for this vast number of automobiles and trucks, there is only one solution—more roads and wider roads. To meet this problem, paved roads have come to stay.

Both drivers and pedestrians have experienced congested, impassable roads. Not only paved roads, but unpaved roads are inadequate for present needs. There is no economy in cheap, unpermanent construction. Such roads are deceptive. We deceive ourselves into thinking that we will build permanence when we have more money, when our governmental expenses are less, when our revenues are greater. But in the meantime we spend vast sums for repairs that perish, for maintenance that mounts daily, for transportation costs far in excess of the amount we would spend in the long run for permanent construction in the beginning.

We collect and spend millions of dollars in the construction or roads. In 1924 this country spent approximately $165,000,000 in the construction of concrete roads alone. Additional millions were used for roads of a less permanent character. If these huge appropriations are to be handled wisely, we must plan for roadways which will not have to be relocated, which will not make purchase of new rights-of-way necessary, we must build bridges which will carry future traffic, and pavements which will stay laid no matter how congested the traffic becomes, no matter how heavy the loads imposed upon them, and no matter how ruthless the passing seasons.

The pressing need for more and wider paved roads has grown with increasing rapidity. No part of the country is immune from the problems of motorized traffic. Everyone benefits from road improvements if these improvements are permanent—the motor vehicle owner, the merchant, the manufacturer, the farmer. It has been said that those who use the roads should shoulder the burden of their construction and maintenance. But this idea is fallacious. The problem goes deeper than that. Every member of a community benefits in some way from paved roads, and hence the financial burden should be assumed by the entire community.

Larger and more evenly distributed yearly trade follows the paved road; outside money flows in over the easy pathway of the paved road, and the community prospers. Property values advance, and products of the farm, daily accessible to market, bring higher prices.

Owners of motor vehicles come into direct contact with the roads they are paying for. They see miles of cars creeping along, halting, stopping, slowing down. And for this there is little need. Such conditions exist only because we have been building for the present and not for the future.

Many counties and states are facing this problem with open eyes. No sooner is a road paved than traffic seeks out that road and fills it from curb to curb. It is the same everywhere. The paved road, as we know it today, does not relieve traffic. Rather it is a magnet which attracts to itself ever increasing numbers of motor vehicles. For the 17,000,000 cars which are registered in this country today, there are but 50,000 miles of hard-surface road available for travel. More than 340 cars to the mile, one car every 15 feet if strung single file along the roads. And every one of these 17,000,000 car owners is seeking these few miles of hard-surfaced roads. Less favorable roads may be there, but they are deserted.

These roads are sought because of the known and definite advantages of travel over their even surface. We need more and wider paved roads and we will build them; but they must be paid for. As Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, said in his address to the forty-ninth annual convention of the American Bankers' association, "Our mounting debt may be tremendous, the taxes we pay may be burdensome, but is the debt out of proportion to our wealth and our ability to pay? Much of our recent debt has been for good roads. In most parts of the country these cost in the neighborhood of $25,000 a mile, but they add immediate increased value of $10 to $25 per acre to every foot of land they traverse.

Wood Used for Type

Hard maple is used to a far greater extent than any other species for wood type. Maple is very hard and dense, and stands up well under severe treatment. It also "stays put" after being cut to final form. For electrotype backing and wood engravings cherry has in the past been very largely used, but due to the scarcity of this wood others are being substituted.

China has 207 steam spinning mills.

Alcohol

We now have on hand a large supply of RADIATOR ALCOHOL for your car.

Let us take care of your Radiator this fall and winter. We will test it for you free as often as you wish.

For leaky Radiators try our Beeches Radiator Cement—it stops the leaks.

Winter Oil

Let us drain your crank-case today and re-fill with the proper grade of oil for winter driving. Free crank case service—you pay only for the oil.

We Are Glad To Serve You at the Standard Service Station

W. M. KIRKWOOD, Prop.

Klemme, Iowa.

THER ear--

ally fine line of foot- Our line is bigger is year, and the low rise you and will

Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

for Better Health, Take

Beecham's Pills

Hint for the Nurse

Spirits of camphor will give the sick-room a pleasant odor.

More we think that nothing matters much, the less we argue.

Helpfulness to Others Man's Great Achievement

The man whose picture appears here was in every sense of the word helpful to mankind, as it was he who gave to the world Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which has brought restored health to countless women. One of them says: "For the past 20 years I have taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription off and on whenever I felt the need of a tonic and it has never failed to build me up in health in a short time. Usually two or three bottles are sufficient. I believe it is the best tonic weak women can get." —Mrs. Ed. Sampson, 204 W. Second St., Winona, Minn.

ECZEMA

Dries right up!

If you just realized how easy it is to stop fiery, itching, burning eczema by simply building up the red-blood-cells in your blood with S. S. S., you wouldn't waste another minute trying to do it any other way.

That's the only way to relieve irritated, broken out skin of any sort. You lack rich, red blood. Impurities are in your system. The blood is so weak it can't fight back and overcome the enemy, so the impurities break out through the skin.

S. S. S. builds the blood back—builds millions of new red-blood-cells. Eczema dries right up. Boils, pimples, blackheads, ugly blotches and irritating rashes all disappear.

Clear up your skin. Get S. S. S. All druggists sell it. The larger bottle is more economical.

BURNS and SCALDS

Stop the throbbing and smarting at once with a soothing touch of

Resinol

Worse

"Job had lots of patience." "Yes, but he never worked in a grocery store on a Saturday night."

Sure Relief

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkgs. Sold Everywhere

Navy of New

New York is the only state that Newport, returned from an extended teen and twenty-one who are stude

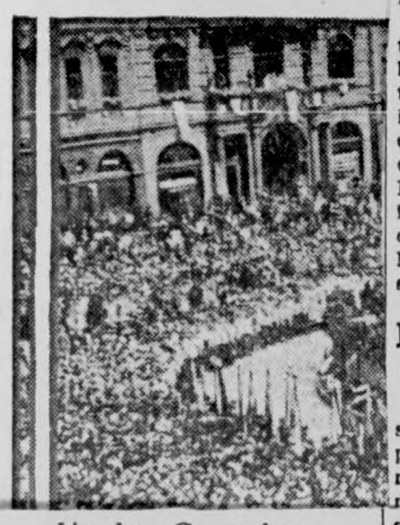
Prague's John



Lived to Great Age

The greatest age known to have been attained by any woman since the beginning of the Christian era is 140 years, which historical authorities generally agree was the age of the celebrated countess of Desmond when she died in 1604. A portrait of the countess, who was one of the most remarkable women of the Sixteenth century has recently been presented to the National Portrait gallery in London.

Cleaning

—AND—

Pressing

SAVE ONE-FOURTH!

THIS SPECIAL PRICE DEAL BEGINS TODAY AND CLOSES

NOVEMBER 11, 1925

Gentlemen's List

Suit, Cleaned and Pressed	$1.00
Pants, Cleaned and Pressed	.50
Coat, Cleaned and Pressed	.50
Overcoat, light weight	1.00
Overcoat, heavy weight	1.25
Mackinaw	1.00
Sweater	.50 and .75
Bath Robe	1.00
Suit, Pressed	.50
Coat, Pressed	.25
Pants, Pressed	.25
Overcoat, Pressed	.50

Ladies' List

Suit, Cleaned and Pressed	$1.00
Jacket, Cleaned and Pressed	.50
Skirt, Cleaned and Pressed	.50
Waist, Cleaned & Pressed	.50 & .75
Coat, light weight	1.00
Coat, heavy weight	1.00
Coat, plush	1.75
Dress, wool	1.00
Dress, silk	1.50
Sweater	.50 & .75
Kimona	1.00 & 1.50
Bath Robe	1.00
Suit, Pressed	.50

Fur trim 25c extra.

Postage extra on hurry up work.

This special work on Cleaning and Pressing is not done in the Store but we guarantee Satisfaction on each and every item just the same.

This is a good chance to get your Clothes fixed up like new before the Holidays.

Wellemeyer

DEPARTMENT STORE

Klemme —o— Iowa

DAIRY

PURE BRED SIRE IS QUITE IMPORTANT

Most of us know that the bull is more than half the herd and most of us appreciate the fact that only a pure bred bull should be used at the head of the herd, but often we fail to consider the fact that pure bred bulls may be classed into good sires and scrub sires. Just because a bull is pure bred is no reason why he is perfectly suitable for use in any herd. The bull used must be absolutely the best individual in the herd; he must be a little better-bred animal and a little better individual than any of the cows, otherwise how can improvement be made?

The pure bred breeders will do well to only offer good, straight bulls for sale and the man who is building up a good grade herd cannot expect to do it with a poor individual at its head. Avoid the sale of or selection of bulls that are badly off type—bulls that are sloping on the rump, cut in at the heart, low in the back or plain in the head. Select good individuals and, further, select a better bred bull than any of the cows. Bulls with production records back of them are the best bets for improving the quality of the herd.

The pure bred breeder will do well to pay particular attention to the selection of the sire, securing an animal that is bred along the same lines as his cows, in order to intensify one line of breeding and secure additional production in a shorter period of time. No single factor in herd improvement is more important than the selection of the sire.—H. R. Lascelles, Field Man, Colorado State Dairy Commission.

Feed Dairy Calf Grain in Addition to Pasture

Dairy heifers under a year old should get some grain in addition to pasture, and calves less than six months old should have both skim milk and grain along with pasture to get best results. A good many dairy heifers are slow to develop into milk producers, because they are neglected during the summer months and left to make all of their growth on pasture alone.

C. S. Rhode of the University of Illinois recommends 20 parts of ground corn, 30 parts of ground oats, 30 parts of wheat bran and 10 parts of oil meal to make a good grain mixture for calves. A good quality legume hay, such as clover or alfalfa, makes a fine

Greatness Is Not to Be Gauged by Stature

Lombroso in his "Men of Genius" says that greatness and stature are rarely found together. In consulting biographies of a number of great men in American history, however, it has been found that this statement does not always apply. There have been on the whole more prominent men above middle height than below, says the Denver News. Among the short men may be numbered John Quincy Adams, Admiral Farragut, Paul Jones, Gen. Phil Sheridan, Stephen A. Douglas, William H. Seward and Martin Van Buren. On the other hand we find that Charles Sumner was 6 feet 4 inches; Thomas Jefferson, 6 feet 2½ inches; Charley Godfrey Leland, 6 feet 2½ inches; Andrew Jackson, 6 feet 1 inch; Samuel Adams, Salmon P. Chase and Jonathan Edwards described as "over 6 feet"; James Monroe, 6 feet or more; Bayard Taylor, 6 feet at the age of seventeen; George Washington, 6 feet. Henry Ward Beecher, Rufus Choate, Benjamin Franklin were slightly under 6 feet. Daniel Webster and Patrick Henry were about 5 feet 10.

Vacationist Had Real Problem on His Hands

A revival of this old yarn, once a favorite of George Roby's, is not amiss: It was all about a man who arrived at a seaside resort and went to a hotel. Shortly after a friend called and was shown up to his room.

He found him sitting in a chair surveying with a gloomy countenance a trunk which stood against the wall.

"What's the matter?" asked the caller.

"I want to get a suit of clothes out of that trunk," was the answer.

"Well, what's the difficulty—lost the key?"

"No, I have the key all right," he said, heaving a sigh. "I'll tell you how it is. My wife packed that trunk. She expected to come with me, but was prevented. To my certain knowledge she put in enough to fill three trunks the way a man would pack them. If I open it, the things will boil up all over the room. I could never get them back. Now I'm wondering whether it would be cheaper to go and buy a new suit of clothes or two more trunks."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Economic Philosophy

Wherever Dickens is read this advice by Mr. Micawber stands out as the acme of economic common sense:

"Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure nineteen, ninteen, six; result happiness. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure twenty pounds, ought and six; result misery."

The KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

The sweetest lives are those to duty wed,
Where deeds, both great and small,
Are close-knit strands of an unbroken thread,
Where love ennobles all.

THE STAFF OF LIFE

Bread is such a necessity in some form for all meals that we enjoy a few variations.

Whole Wheat Nut Bread.—Ta two cupfuls scalded milk, a one-fourth of cupful of sug or molasses, o teaspoonful o salt, and when lukewarm add one o yeast cake, which has been softene in one-fourth of a cupful of lukewar water; add two cupfuls of wheat flou and two and three-fourths cupfuls whole wheat flour, beat well and l rise until double its bulk; beat agai flour the board well and knead lightl adding one cupful of broken waln meats. Put into bread pans and wh light, bake in a moderate oven.

Southern Spoon Bread.—Pour o cupful of boiling water over one-ha cupful of cornmeal, stir, and co for five minutes to keep from lumpin Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, tablespoonful each of butter and suga one well-beaten egg and one-half cu ful of milk. Pour into a well-butter baking dish and bake in a modera oven twenty minutes, letting it brow well before removing. Serve from th dish.

Bran Bread.—Take four cupfuls bran, two cupfuls of whole whea flour, three-fourths of a cupful of Ne Orleans molasses, a teaspoonful eac of salt and soda, two cupfuls of swee milk, two tablespoonfuls of shorter ing, a few raisins or nuts if desired and bake in a moderate oven one hour

Fig Bread.—Take two cupfuls o light bread dough, put into a bow with one-half cupful of butter, pound of sugar, a cupful of milk, pound each of raisins and figs, a teaspoonful of salt, and spices to taste Mix and place in bread pans. The fruit should be cut fine and be carefully blended with the dough. Two cupfuls of flour will be needed. Bake when well risen. This will keep and be as good as most fruit cakes.

When food is burned on to cooking utensils, cover with soda and cold water, let stand for a few hours, and steel wool will remove every speck.

Nellie Maxwell

DAIRY TALK

PRODUCTION OF MILK SHOWS BIG INCREASE

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Milk production last year was seven billion pounds more than in 1922, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. Production is placed at 109,736,062,000 pounds as compared with 102,562,221,000 pounds in 1922.

Consumption of milk for household purposes reached 50,440,000,000 pounds as compared with 46,672,560,000 pounds in 1922. There was manufactured 1,774,881,000 pounds of condensed and evaporated milk as compared with 1,431,349,000 pounds in 1922. The output of creamery butter was 1,252,214,000 pounds compared with 1,153,515,000 pounds the preceding year, and the total production of cheese of all kinds was 394,697,000 pounds, compared with 369,980,000 pounds in 1922.

Consumption of butter on a per capita basis was 17 pounds per person last year as compared with 16½ pounds in 1922; consumption of cheese was 3.91 pounds per person compared with 3.74 pounds; condensed and evaporated milk 13.25 pounds compared with 12.69 pounds, and ice cream 2.66 gallons compared with 2.43 gallons in 1922.

Dried casein production more than doubled during the year, being 14,548,000 pounds compared with 6,927,000 pounds in 1922.

Items making up the total milk production for the two years are given in the subjoined table:

	1923 Pounds	1922 Pounds
Creamery butter	1,252,214,000	1,153,515,000
Farm butter	610,000,000	625,000,000
Cheese (all kinds)	393,947,000	374,980,000
Condensed and evaporated milk	1,774,881,000	1,431,349,000
Powdered milk	6,560,000	5,599,000
Powdered cream	823,000	118,000
Malted milk	15,331,000	13,659,000
Sterilized milk	80,000	330,000
Milk chocolate	149,500,000	106,000,000
Ice cream (gals.)	249,900,000	263,520,000
Milk for household use	50,449,000,000	46,672,560,000
Milk fed to calves	4,174,000,000	4,335,000,000
Milk

BROOKS' NEW SEDAN IS DESTROYED IN FLAMES

Fire destroyed Harry Brooks' new Rickenbacker sedan last week Monday evening when Mr. Brooks was forced into the ditch on the road north of Thornton.

The car turned over and immediately caught on fire.

Mr. Brooks was coming to Clear Lake from Belmond when the accident occurred.

He was accompanied by his son, but neither of them were injured beyond scratches and bruises.

...and the National Committee on Inheritance Taxation at a hearing before the house committee on ways and means.

The governors' chief argument was that the state was entitled to the revenue from its own estates. Other arguments advanced by them can be summarized in the address of Frederic A. Delano, speaking for the National Committee on Inheritance Taxation. Mr. Delano advocated the following ten points:

1. Making inheritance taxes substantially uniform throughout the United States.
2. Making inheritance tax rates stable.
3. Making inheritance tax rates moderate.
4. Enacting legislation at the coming session of congress repealing the federal estate tax. This repeal to take effect in six years.
5. Immediate downward revision of the rate structure of the federal estate tax, with the maximum rate of 15 per cent.
6. Extension of the credit provision of the present law so as to allow a credit of all inheritance taxes paid to the several states up to 80 per cent of the federal tax.
7. Abolition of the gift tax.
8. Substitution by the states of an estate tax law in place of the succession tax laws now generally employed.
9. Abandonment of the multiplicity of taxation of the same property.
10. The taxation of intangible personal property only in the state of domicile of the decedent.

Mr. Delano favored delaying the taking effect of a repeal of the federal estate tax for six years for fear that the immediate repeal might retard the movement for uniformity, which, he said, was growing, and might increase the present confusion between the states. He also said that most states, on account of the sessions of their legislatures, could not consider changes until 1927, and that the proverbial slowness of legislative bodies would have to be considered, too.

Duke Leaves $100,000,000 Estate to Widow and Child

When the Honeymoon Wanes

The honeymoon is over when she begins to express her honest opinion of his friends.—Duluth Herald.

Sweet Reason

Husband (in court)—"My wife believes in 'sweet reason'—she flung the sugar basin into my face."

FORMER KANAWHA EDITOR IS NOW RUNNING PAPER IN COLORADO

KANAWHA, Oct. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Africa, who several months ago sold their newspaper and job printing plant at Sanborn to move to Colorado for the health of their daughter Mabel, announce that they have purchased the Eastern Colorado Leader, at Limón, Colo., about 80 miles northeast of Colorado Springs, and will take charge of the newspaper about Nov. 1. Limon is the division point of two railroads and has a population of 1,500.

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's

REPAIR SHOP

Star Theatre, Kanawha, Iowa

THURS., FRI. and SATURDAY, Oct. 29, 30, and 31

—THE—

Ten Commandments

—Will be shown, with special music by The Kanawha Melody Boys, a nine-piece orchestra.

BANK CREDIT—WHAT IS IT?

In building up bank credit, one of the most important things is to always have a bank account with a reasonable balance.

Py your bills promptly, and place some on Savings Account regularly. This will give you standing with your banker and business associates. Then when you wish to take advantage of some good opportunity you have both funds and credit at your disposal.

First National Bank.

KLEMME. IOWA.

Confidence

This Company has faith in the people it Serves and is building with their cooperation an efficient system of Public Service.

This building is going on all the time to meet the increasing need for the essential service this Company furnishes.

Some idea of the amount of money used in this work of extending the lines and in improvements is shown by the over $150,000 so invested during the 2-1-2 months period from June 29th to September 21st this year.

And this large sum of money did not include the New Power House at Armstrong or the new Hydro-Electric Power Plant being built at Iowa Falls.

Every Cent of the large sums of money already invested and continually being added to in extensions and improvements is nvested not only in the actual physical property required for the furnishing of service, but with confidence in the farness of the people we serve and n the permanence of our busi-ness and the stability of the territory served.

This good faith has been justified and we have endeavored to fully mert the confidence in us of the people of the various communities.

This mutual good will we are sure will grow with the extension of our service and the closer association of our customers with us and their more complete understanding of the benefits and advantages to them and their communities of this fundamental Public Service well and efficiently conducted on a fair and impartial basis.

It is upon this firm foundaton of good servce that this Company owned largely by Its own customers, is being built, and has the confidence of the customers and the investors who have confidently invested their capital and savings.

Efficient service, courteously rendered is our Watchword and the cooperation of our customers through constructive criticism and suggestions is earnestly requested.

Respectfully,

Central States Electric Co.

CEDAR RAPIDS General Offices IOWA.

Sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop.

FOR SALE, Big type Poland China boars, March farrowing, weigh over 200 lbs. sired by the sire of The Progresive. Cholera immune. Farm 2 miles north of Meservey. Gottlieb Buster, Thornton, Iowa. 4tp

Miss Luella Fiero spent Saturday night and Sunday visiting friends at Clarion.

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, October 29, 1925

EGGS (trade)	.38
EGGS (Cash)	.37
HEAVY HENS	.17
LIGHT HENS	.13
STANDARD SPRINGS	.17
LEGHORN SPRINGS	.13
DUCKS	.12
OLD ROOSTERS	.07
CHEESE	.08
BUTTERFAT	.55
BUTTER (Klemme Creamery)	.53
WHEAT	$1.45
OATS	.30
SHELLED CORN	.50
BARLEY	.50—.55
RYE	.65—.70
HOGS (Top)	$11.60

DR. R. E. PORTER
CHIROPRACTOR
Every Day — Open Evenings..
Office at John Lieuwen Residence
Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS
CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!
Pavey's
STORMIZING SHOP

FOR SALE—Scotch Collie pups. Wm. Ax. 2wc

Many of the rural schools are enjoying a corn husking vacation.

SHOE SALE all this wek and next at F. Gruetzmacher's. 1wc

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hanson and Ruby drove to Mason City Saturday.

Miss Abel spent the week end at her home at Des Moines.

Don't forget F. Gruetzmacher's big shoe sale now on. 1c

Mr. Penrod was a guest at the J. J. Poort home for dinner Sunday.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Adriant Bielefeld Tuesday.

W. H. Trafford, of Belmond, was in Klemme on business Tuesday.

I must collect and will collect my accounts. Dr. Geo. Zinn. 1tc

Mrs. A. W. Gauger is hostess to the Missionary Society at her home this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Neese and little daughter of Titonka, visited Klemme friends Saturday.

FOR SALE—Globe range, used 3 months, as good as new. Ing. Lauritsen, Klemme, Iowa. 1wp

Saturday night is "open season" on catalog houses! Yep! It's Hallowe'en again.

Miss Marie Gauger spent the week end at Dows visiting at the home of her aunt.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Etchen Monday, October 26th.

Sand Customers Notice

Please pay your sand bills as soon as possible. Wm. Stille. 2wp

Mrs. Homer Butcher and sons, are here from Michigan for a visit at the Fred Kluckhohn home.

LAXACOLD—A Laxative tablet treatment for Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Headaches and Neurolgia. Sold at Wilson's Pharmacy. 2wc

Evidently the duck hunting season has come and gone without very much good hunting in this part of the country.

School teachers! Get your construction paper at the Times Office. 9x12 sheets, 16 colors, package of 52 sheets for 25c. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wiles are the parents of a fine baby girl born to them Oct. 19th at their home at Ames. The little miss has been named Marjorie Mae. Congratulations.

News of Klemme and Vicinity

The Misses Eunice Braund and Viola Freie visited at Williams with relatives and friends, Thursday and part of Friday.

If your neighbor's rats call on you feed them Meyer's Poison Kernels. They will not call again. For sale at Wilson's Pharmacy. 1wp

Mrs. Paul Stille, accompanied by the Misses Buchan, Thompson and Lovrien, were Mason City visitors Saturday.

25 per cent off on Children's, Misses and Ladies Shoes and Oxfords at F. Gruetzmachers this week and also next week. 1wc

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Evanson and children of Miller, spent Sunday at the Joe Stokesbary home near Klemme.

The snow of Tuesday sent rabbit hunters out Wednesday morning in quest of a bunny dinner. The rabbits are plentiful this year.

LAXACOLD—A Laxative tablet treatment for Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Headache and Neurolgia. Sold at Wilson's Pharmacy. 2wc

Emil Barz came from Waterloo Saturday for a visit with his son, Max and other Klemme relatives. He returned to Waterloo Sunday.

The Twin Lake Farm Bureau ladies held an all day meeting Monday at the Albert Etchen home. Miss McIlrath, of Ames, was there giving instructions.

The Harm Aires and Irve Henry families of Ventura visited at the Clarence Bachman home one day last week. They came over to admire the new baby.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

Grandma Fouts was 84 years old Monday and in honor of the great event her daughter, Mrs. A. D. Gimer planned a birthday party for her in the afternoon to which a number of neighbors and friends were invited. All had an enjoyable time.

For the benefit of our readers in sunny climes may we mention that we are having considerable winter this "Indian Summer." Thermometer around freezing all week and now plenty of snow! This will tickle Walt Bloom out at Los Angeles.

Miss Adella Schroeder, who attends college at Ames this year, was a week end visitor in Klemme. Her mother, Mrs. Lena Schroeder, accompanied by Mrs. Marlin Croner, and Miss Viola Freie, drove to Ames Saturday to bring her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yahnke and daughter, Alva, drove down from Garden City, Minnesota, last Thursday for a few days visit with Klemme relatives and friends. They like their new home fine but are glad to have a visit with Klemme folks occasionally. They returned to Minnesota again Saturday.

Benn Coobs drove to McGregor early Saturday morning for a few days visit with his folks. Mrs. Ben Coobs and baby, who have been visiting in Indiana for several weeks intend to meet Ben at McGregor and they will return to Klemme with him. Sumner Trumbell has been looking after the pump station during our policeman's absence.

Robert Maitland of Belmond has filed suit for a divorce from his wife Effie Maitland, the same to be tried at the November term of court. Plaintiff and defendant were married in Chicago on September 9th, 1923, and lived together as husband and wife less than thirty days, the wife deserting this plaintiff on October 3, 1923.—Clarion Monitor.

We are in receipt of a letter from G. P. McCullough post marked at Jacksonville, Florida. "Zip" and his wife have been there a couple of weeks. He tells us that living in the south is higher than here and the wages are lower. He has a position in a large barber shop there. They have put a board floor and walls in their tent and live at the tourist camp and are enjoying life. Zip reminds us to tell all his Klemme friends hello! and asks us to forward his paper to Jacksonville tourist's camp, his present address.

Herb Reed tells us that Robert Howard, the young man who lives n Mr. Reed's farm east of Klemme, ecently took ten ears of corn to the corn show at Clear Lake and won the blue ribbon. Herb says that Mr. Howard was very proud of his record and we noticed that Mr. Reed also was very proud of the fact that he owned the land where the corn was raised.—Signal.

Two pairs of twins were born in Klemme and vicinity the past week. On Saturday twins were born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Neuhring, near this city. A boy and a girl comprised this pair of twins. Yesterday, Wednesday of this week twin boys were born to Mr. and Mrs. Louie Knoke of Klemme. Needless to say that the two fathers mentioned above are stepping higher than a kite. We would like to see them meet to decide which of the two is the proudest father.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

DEALS IN DIRT

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS
Oct. 19 to Oct. 24, 1925

Clara Yahnke hus. to Vernon Center State Bank, Minn., W. D. date 10-9-25, $6000.00 lots 1-2 block 4, Gruetzmacher Bros. & Hansons Sub. Div. of outlots 6 Klemme's 1st tdd. to Klemme.

W. J. Rotheram wf. to A. F. Wagner, W. D. date 12-12-26, $2,500.00, tract land commencing at south corner lot 2, block 5 Standrings add Corwith, etc.

BIG SHOE SALE!

The biggest SHOE SALE ever held in Klemme, beginning today and continuing all of this week and next week.

25 Per Cent Off

On my entire shoe stock of Children's, Misses and Women's OXFORDS and SHOES at 25 per cent off.

I am also offering some bargains in Men's Shoes and Oxfords.

5 per cent off on all Overshoes.

Tell your friends about the great bargains here. Remember this sale is the balance of this week and all of next week. Come early.

F. GRUETZMACHER, Klemme, Ia. 1tc

NEW NOVEL BY RUTH SUCKOW JUST COMPLETED

GRINNEL, Oct. 29.—Ruth Suckow, who graduated from Grinnel college in 1914, has just completed a new novel, "Odessy of the Nice Girl," which is being published by Knopf of New York. Among her writings are "A Part of the Institution," and "Country People."

Lucretia Garfield

Miss Lucretia Garfield, daughter of President Harry A. Garfield of Williams college and Mrs. Garfield, whose engagement has been announced to John P. Comer, professor of political science at the Southern Methodist college in Texas. He is to become assistant professor of government at Williams this fall.

Alcohol

We now have on hand a large supply of RADIATOR ALCOHOL for your car.

Let us take care of your Radiator this fall and winter. We will test it for you free as often as you wish.

For leaky Radiators try our Beeches Radiator Cement—it stops the leaks.

Winter Oil

Let us drain your crankcase today and re-fill with the proper grade of oil for winter driving. Free crank case service—you pay only for the oil.

We Are Glad To Serve You at the

Standard Service Station
W. M. KIRKWOOD, Prop.
Klemme, Iowa.

COLD WEATHER Footwear--

We have an unusually fine line of footwea for Cold Weather. Our line is bigger and better than ever this year, and the low prices we quote will surprise you and will save you money by buying here.

OVERSHOES—ALL STYLES

Our line of Overshoes for Men, Women and Children is complete. We have them in all sizes and from one to six buckle styles.

ALL RUBBER OVERSHOES

All-rubber style overshoes, especially adapted for outdoor work and about the farm yard where a waterproof shoe is needed, all buckle styles and lace-boot styles.

RUBBERS and BOOTS

We carry a full line of Rubbers for every member of the family. A full line of high grade rubber boots here.

WARM HOSIERY

Come here if you want heavy, warm hosiery for any member of the family. We have them at right prices.

SHOES!

All kinds of good warm shoes here for every member of the family. An especially fine line of high-tops for school children.

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Get Away From That Grouchy Feeling-- Eat More Sauerkraut!

SAUER-KRAUT—That healthful food you all like so well—We are getting a fresh supply of SAUERKRAUT which comes in 10 gallon kegs, a most convenient family size and an economical way to purchase it.

Get your supply of this fresh choice Sauerkraut.

OYSTERS? Sure we have them fresh every day.

We are always glad to serve you.

Klemme Meat Market

Who Is Your Benefactor?

Is the Cream Station Operator who pays you a discount of 2, 4 or 6 cents per pound for your cream the one you should feel grateful to, or is the creamery that maintains FAIR PRICES the ONE to whom you should have a kindly feeling?

This Creamery stands for a square deal and fair prices for every cream producer in this vicinity——we pay taxes to help support local institutons——our money is invested here. We are, in fact, the balance wheel that keeps the cream market from declining, below market prices.

How about the centralizer? How much taxes are paid by the city centralizers in Klemme? How often do they "kick in" on local projects requiring support? How much do you suppose it has cost the cream producers in this vicinity in actual cash for the privilege of patronlzing an institution with no direct interests here except the profits that can be made on our cream producers, instead of giving them the last cent coming to them as does this creamery?

IT PAYS IN DOLLARS AND CENTS TO PATRONIZE A HOME INDUSTRY.

Klemme Co-Op. Creamery Co.

BY ETHEL HUESTON

PRUDENCE'S DAUGHTER

IN NEW YORK

SYNOPSIS—PART ONE—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, New York, Jerry (Geraldine) Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He admires her tremendously and she likes him. But Allerton gets a bit exhilarated, with unfortunate results. Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly. the story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Des Moines. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of Art and asks her parents to let her go to New York for study.

CHAPTER II—Continued

—3—

"Oh, a perfectly ridiculous thing," explained Jerry lightly. "She did some illustrations in the college magazine, and they were a little—advanced, you might say, and Rhoda said they were artistic, and she wouldn't apologize, and a few other things like that. But, father, no one could say Rhoda La Faye was not a genius!"

"And of course," Prudence went on, as though it were all her own idea to begin with, "no one could expect an artistic, gifted, temperamental girl like that to plod along here in Iowa like the ordinary daughters of farmers and ministers and merchants. And she will be very helpful to Jerry, I am sure."

Jerry looked at her mother keenly, frowning, with questioning eyes. When she was alone with her father she said confidentially:

"I'd better keep my eye on mother. She's had too much experience. After bringing up that whole crowd in the parsonage, how can one lone daughter hope to be a match for her? I seem to be getting my own way, but I think she's working me, for all that."

The letter from Rhoda La Faye, in response to Jerry's query, was warmly satisfying in every particular. She said she would be only too happy to meet Jerry, to assist her in every possible way, and happily she knew just the place for her, right down in Greenwich Village on Reilly's alley with Mimi Delaney, a particular friend of Rhoda's own, who was letting rooms to students. She promised to meet Jerry at the station, and to be entirely her slave and handmaiden until she was properly domiciled in the big city. And begged her please to excuse the haste of her note, as she was very busy.

Jerrold was not pleased—he did not like the idea of the Village, he disapproved of Rhoda La Faye, he thought Jerry's plan to study art was "all piffle." And when he was alone with Prudence at night, and grieving over her restlessness, her sleepless hours, he expressed himself very forcibly on the subject of daughters.

"It's selfishness," he said. Jerry's place is here with you. She has no business going off to New York or any place else. A daughter's place is with her mother."

"Why, Jerrold? Why should we expect her to live our life, just because she is our daughter?"

"Why? Because she is our daughter, that's why! Didn't we bring her into the world? Didn't we raise her? Didn't—"

"Yes, but we did it to please ourselves, didn't we? Jerry certainly didn't have much to say about it?"

"A child," he said didactically, "owes its parents everything in the world, owes it—"

"Love," said Prudence softly. "Just love. Nothing else. And that's enough, Jerrold, if we've done our part."

The great, lovely house was vastly confused in those days, with the packing of Jerry's clothes and books and the thousand pretty, intimate things a young student of art would be sure to want in a strange, big city. And there were dressmakers thrumming steadily away on their machines, turning out new gowns, new suits, new wraps, for Jerry to wear in her pursuit of Art.

"Um, I think you'd better draw it in more about the hips," Jerry's critical young voice floated out to her father, where he sat staring at the newspaper that he did not see. They were going to miss Jerry! After college, he had thought it was all over, that Jerry's future was ended with her education, and they were all to settle down to the joy of home, and having a daughter in it.

Jerrold sighed.

"Yes, a little more, don't you think, mother? I really am rather properly built, you know, and I've no reason to be ashamed of it. Is that better, mother? You know the men do like—"

"I thought you were going to New York to study art!" her father broke in almost peevishly.

"Um, I am," assented Jerry absently. "But mother and I know, whether you do or not, that the more you know about men the faster you progress in art."

"Yes, of course," said Prudence.

That night, when Jerry had gone upstairs, Prudence sat on the arm of her husband's chair, slipping lower and lower beside him, until her face was buried against his shoulder.

"Well, you were all for her going, so I suppose it's settled," he said dully.

"Yes, it's settled." Prudence's voice was muffled.

"Well, you want her to go, don't you?"

"Yes, of course, I want her to go." There was a sob in Prudence's throat.

"Well, then I suppose you're satisfied."

"Y-yes, I'm satisfied." Prudence's shoulders rose and fell, heavily, and she pressed her face more deeply against his shoulder.

Then Jerrold drew her quickly about on his knees, until she was huddled in his arms, heart-broken, sobbing, like a child, although a woman past forty with a grownup daughter going away.

"Don't cry, Prudence," he said, holding her very close to him, his own eyes wet.

Presently she lifted her face, stained with tears, and laughed at her foolishness, and patted away her tears with a filmy bit of lace and soft linen ridiculously serving as a handkerchief.

After that there was nothing for Jerrold to do but procure the tickets for Jerry, look after the checking of her baggage, and see that she had money enough for her needs. And nothing for Prudence to do but take her daughter in her arms—and let her go.

CHAPTER III

Jerry Is Free

Rhoda La Faye met Jerry at Grand Central station in New York as she had promised. Rhoda surprised Jerry, pleased her greatly—she seemed quite different from the old Rhoda of college days—so brisk, so tailored, so assertive. She caught Jerry's hands in hers, kissed her warmly on both cheeks, exclaimed over her bright beauty, all in one breath, while with Jerry's light bag in her hand she was drawing her swiftly through the great station and out to a waiting taxi. Immediately they were off—somewhere—anywhere—Jerry neither knew nor cared.

She had been in New York before with her father and Prudence. Then, with a soft leisureliness impervious to the stirring pressure about them, they had followed a red-capped porter to a taxi—a porter who had been obliged to return many times to find them in the midst of the confusion and the crowd—and had settled themselves in a comfortable suite of rooms in a spacious hotel to enjoy a pleasant, nicely ordered orgy of shopping, theaters and drives. Another time they were met at the station by Aunt Connie herself, in her car, with her chauffeur in sober livery, and were driven swiftly out to her great home in Englewood, to enjoy the solicitous ministrations of her efficient maids.

That was Prudence's way of doing New York. This was different. This was freedom. Jerry loved it—loved the quick, confident hustling of this tall, unhesitating girl of her own age—a girl who alone and independent had taken New York by the horns and forced it into subjection.

"Listen, Angel-face," the indomitable creature was saying, "will you forgive me if I desert you tonight? I have heaps to do. I have to put backgrounds in three pictures that I promised word-of-honor would be ready at ten tomorrow. Besides, I need the money. I shall have to sit up all night to get them done, anyhow."

"Oh, I am so sorry! I am afraid my coming today has bothered you, and—"

"Oh, please don't say that. I love having you here. It only happens this way once in a while—sometimes for weeks I haven't a thing to do—and correspondingly little to eat," she confided, with a light bit of laughter. "But Theresa Brady will look out for you. She has a room at Mimi Delaney's, where you are to live. And she said she would take you out for dinner, and help you get settled and everything. She is a marvelous girl—Theresa Brady—the most talented thing you ever saw. You will adore her."

And before Rhoda had finished her eulogy of Theresa Brady the taxi whirled up in a short, bare, grimy street and stopped before a little, squat, twisted house that had one time done service as a rich man's stable. Rhoda, with Jerry's bag, was out in the street with the stopping of the car, and after a sharp glance at the recording meter, tossed a bill to the driver, and held out a nervous, hurrying hand to Jerry.

In response to her impatient pressure on the button the door was opened after a little by a lovely rose-and-cream-colored woman, in a trailing rose-and-cream-colored gown, who smiled radiantly upon Jerry, her white hand, flaunting a brave display of flashing rings and tinkling thin silver bracelets, outstretched in friendly welcome.

"The little girl from Iowa!" she said, and her voice was one of musical vibrations.

"Hello, Mimi!" said Rhoda, her brisk tone seeming almost harsh in contrast. "Theresa here? Listen, Mimi! This is Miss Harmer, Mrs. Delaney. Mrs. Delaney is your hostess, Jerry, your landlady if you wish, and also, I hope, your friend. I have to fly—honestly, it is a shame, but it's a rush order. You know how these things are, Mimi." She put her arm about Jerry regretfully. "It is a crime, I know, to leave you like this, Angel-face, but you don't know what it is to work for your bread and butter."

"Oh, I don't mind a bit," said Jerry, bravely trying to hide her sense of loneliness and disappointment. "I shall write some letters, and unpack my bag. I don't mind at all."

Rhoda squeezed her gratefully. "You are a darling! Mimi will take good care of you. But let me warn you! Keep all your lovers out of her sight. She's a beau-catcher! She took two from me, and three from Theresa, and heaven only knows how many from other poor working girls! Call Theresa, will you, Mimi? She is going to take her out for dinner."

Rhoda dropped a snatchy kiss somewhere in the direction of Jerry's face and ran away.

Mrs. Delaney took Jerry's bag, and led her up a very narrow, very dark and very winding stairway.

"Rhoda says you are a plutocrat," she said musically. "And so we gave you our best foot forward—second floor front. Rhoda says 'Plute' is your middle name."

Rhoda La Faye Met Jerry at Grand Central Station in New York as She Had Promised.

"She does me a great injustice," said Jerry, smiling.

"I think you will like this. It is quite nice and roomy. Remember I am your landlady, so pretend to be a little pleased with it anyhow, not to hurt my feelings."

Jerry could not but smile at the "roominess" of which she had so bravely boasted. To the vision of her generous, Middle Western eyes, it was chokingly, crampingly small, a smallness overemphasized by its gaudy cretonning in vivid orange and black. But Jerry said nothing at all of that, she only smiled, and assured her silver-intoning hostess that she knew she was going to be very happy in her new home.

"Here is your kitchenette," explained Mimi, opening a door in the rear.

"Oh, I don't want to cook. I am going to study very hard. I shall take my meals out somewhere."

"Oh, you will not like going out for breakfast, I am sure," protested Mimi. "No one goes out for breakfast! And surely you will want your luncheon in, and your tea! One eats so little. But of course, you shall do just as you wish! But everyone prefers— But you needn't take the room at all, you know, Miss Harmer, unless you like it."

"Oh, I do like it, and I have taken it already. And now that I think of it, I am sure you are right, and I shall very much prefer having my little breakfast in. I'll get an electric grill and a percolator, and then I can have parties, too."

"I shouldn't wish you to take the room unless you like it," said Mimi with her engaging frankness. "But I am glad you do like it. I need the money. I was quite ill last year, and have had no engagement for some months, and you know how we in the profession squander our salary when we are working!" She laughed excusingly for that particular foible of the profession. "Theresa and I have this house together. A maid comes in every morning to do the rooms. Wait till I call Theresa!"

And then she swept out to the hallway, and called, her voice ringing like the cadences of a lilting song, that Miss Harmer was here, and Theresa should come down.

Jerry thought she would like Theresa. She was tall and large, yet thin, seeming taller, larger and thinner in the presence of Mimi, who was short in stature and appeared small though with a suggestive roundness both of face and figure. Theresa was dark, unfathomably intense, with a sort of subdued or repressed ferocity in the tones of her voice, the deep lines of her face, and in every quick, sure movement. Jerry thought she seemed younger than Mimi, although more quiet, more reserved, much colder. She looked tired. There were dark circles beneath her eyes, lines of weariness in every feature. Smudges of paint showed upon her rumpled smock, and her nails were rough and ragged, obviously bit to the quick. She held out her hand, a large, thin, capable hand, stained with ink and paint and the smoke of countless cigarettes. Jerry's met it warmly. They smiled at each other.

"It's like Rhoda to dump you off in a strange city and wash her hands of you," she said, and the friendliness of her voice as she spoke of Rhoda's vagaries forbade a suspicion of malice. "She is working wickedly hard."

"Is she doing well? Does she work very hard?" Jerry asked, with great eagerness.

"Um, both. She works like the devil at hack jobs, to get a little money ahead so she can study."

"There's no money in art, and everyone knows it," said Mimi, musically peevish. "Rhoda and Theresa—they are both fools. I always say so. They should take up something new, something modern, something there is money in. It's all very well to talk of slaving for art—starving for art, I call it."

Theresa laughed. "You should talk!" she said derisively. "I don't see that you've acquired such a fortune behind the footlights! Not that you're behind them very often, I must say." Then, Mimi effectually silenced, she turned to Jerry. "You want to fuss up a little after your journey, I suppose. Come up when you are ready, will you? I am on the third floor at the back. Be careful not to stumble, it's very dark. Will you come out to dinner with us, Mimi?"

"No, thanks, I have a date. Here are the keys, Miss Harmer—this to the door downstairs, this to your room. If you want anything, don't hesitate to ask. Come, Theresa, let the poor child shake off the dust of travel."

They went out, smiling back at her, closing the door after them. Their voices came to her from the narrow hallway.

"You look a mess," said Mimi discontentedly, but still with musical resonance. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"Oh, don't bother me! I'm tired as the deuce!"

"Why don't you go to bed, Theresa? You're such a fool to slave so. And nothing to come of it, either. Fame—pouf, what's fame? A bank account is the only way to judge a talent!"

"Who's your date?"

"Phil Mills. Lie down, Theresa. I'll bring you a cup of tea. And for heaven's sake, wash your hands. I was ashamed for her to see your finger nails. You're certainly a mess. Do lie down a while, you look positively yellow."

Their voices receded as Theresa drew herself wearily up the stairs, and Jerry, standing in the center of her tiny new home, looked about her with quizzical, humorous eyes, and laughed. It was ridiculously small, ridiculously gaudy, ridiculously frugal in its very flamboyance. The bathroom was no more than a stuffy dark closet. The vaunted kitchenette was a shelf, a hole in the wall.

"Oh, Prudence!" laughed Jerry, thinking of her mother, sure she was happy, but there were tears in her eyes.

Jerry has certainly got in with some queer fish. How will she fit in with her surroundings?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Sign That Worked

He was a burglar.

After effecting an entrance into the bank he found his way, easily enough, to the strong room. When the light of the lantern fell on the door he saw this sign written in red letters:

"Save your dynamite. This safe is not locked. Turn the knob and it will open."

For a moment he ruminated.

"Anyhow," he reflected, "there's no harm in trying it if it really is unlocked."

He grasped the knob and turned it.

Instantly the office was flooded with light, an alarm bell rang loudly, an electric shock rendered him helpless, while a panel in the wall opened and out rushed a bulldog which seized him firmly.

An hour later, when the cell door closed on him, he sighed:

"I know what's wrong with me. I'm too trusting. I have too much faith in human nature."

Longevity From Sap?

Longevity through the utilization of sap from trees as a food for human beings is the theory of an Oregon scientist, who is investigating whether there is any foundation for a myth that the ancients who lived to a great age drank the sap of trees. Man must be satisfied with a life of seventy or eighty years, while a redwood tree in California, which was a seedling 525 years before Christ, goes on living at 2,500 years of age, he reasoned. If this scientist can find and isolate the long-life substance in the California redwoods, he believes he will have something better than a gland cure for restoring youth and prolonging life, says Capper's Weekly.

Millions prefer Yeast Foam

Begin today to learn the most useful of home arts—bread-making.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Warns of Gas Poison

Warning has been given by the bureau of mines that gas heaters for domestic use must be regulated with regard to the proportion of air and gas used to avoid giving off poisonous carbon monoxide gas. Calling attention to "numerous deaths and asphyxiations that have occurred in many cities due to carbon monoxide" from gas heaters, the bureau gave reasons for incomplete gas combustion which might result in formation of carbon monoxide gas.

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Take Tablets Without Fear If You See the Safety "Bayer Cross."

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

The penalty of bigamy is an excess of mother-in-laws.

We do but sow; we're steered by fate.—Butler.

How He Discovered Best Constipation Relief

Mr. Joseph F. Glus of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes "In the past 20 years I have been constantly troubled with constipation. Every remedy I tried would work O.K. for a while—but soon failed. The only remedy I have been able to use steadily with good results have been Carter's Little Liver Pills. I don't guess when I take them—I know I'm going to feel relieved." 25c at all druggists.

Quick Safe Relief CORNS

In one minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns At drug and shoe stores.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on-the pain is gone

A Preference

Dear Old Lady—How do you like school, my little man?

Little Man—I like it closed, lady.

"A God-sent Blessing" is what one mother writes of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. Thousands of other mothers have found this safe, pleasant, effective remedy a boon when baby's little stomach is upset. For constipation, flatulency, colic and diarrhoea, there is nothing like

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

It is especially good at teething time. Complete formula on every label. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients.

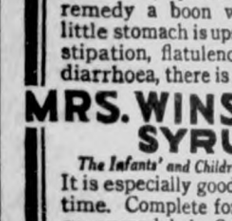
At all Druggists

Write for free booklet of letters from grateful mothers.

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO.
215-217 Fulton St. New York

Boschee's Syrup HAS BEEN Killing Coughs for 59 Years

Carry a bottle in your car and always keep it in the house. 80c and 90c at ALL DRUGGISTS



Clarke's Brooder House is a "Humdinger" when it comes to caring for the chicks, one-half the labor. Oh, it is round, fireproof, conquers all vermin. Send for circular. Ben Hur Mfg. Co. Crawfordsville, Ind.

CREAM WANTED

Ship Direct for Best Prices

If we have no buying station in your town, direct—You get all the profit. Cans furnished wholesale prices. Write for tags and further information.

DES MOINES CREAMERY CO.
105 S. W. 3rd St. Des Moines, Ia.

Artistic Cleaning & Dyeing

9th and Keosauqua way, Des Moines, Iowa

We live up to our name—"Iowa's Largest Cleaners and Dyers." It will be to our mutual interest by giving us your cleaning and dyeing. Our prices are moderate. A trial order will convince you.

HOTEL ELLIOTT

219 Fourth Street - Des Moines, Ia.
A Pleasant, Home-like Hotel
Rates: $1.25 to $2.00. Centrally Located

Theatrical and Fancy COSTUMES for school plays and masquerades. Masks, wigs, beards, make-up. College and high school caps and gowns to rent. The Wing Company, 643 5th Ave., Des Moines, Ia.

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

INFLAMED EYES

Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1161 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Broke

Smithson—What did you clear your last speculation?

Jollson—Nothing but my pockets.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Absolutely Harmless—No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

AFTER EVERY MEAL
RIGLEY'S
kes your food do you more good.
ote how it relieves stuffy feeling hearty eating. weetens the th, removes d particles n the teeth, new vigor ired nerves. omes to you h, clean and flavored.
WRIGLEY'S JUICY FRUIT CHEWING GUM
THE FLAVOR LASTS
SEALED TIGHT KEPT RIGHT
P 123

Safety First

were as busy as bees at the wn restaurant. A portly woman hurriedly approached the serv- unter and demanded of the d waiter:

ere is the kitchen? I want to w the meats are prepared before mine."—Indianapolis News.

AMOND DYES" COLOR THINGS NEW

Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweat- draperies, coverings, hangings— thing!

Diamond Dyes—no other kind— ell your druggist whether the ma- you wish to color is wool or silk, ether it is linen, cotton or mixed hat kind of a bird shall I put hat, dear?"

Practical Husband

e with a small bill."

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA

Because of its unusual flavor, aroma, richness and attractive price, this Cocoa has made a host of friends. Excellence is not always accompanied by high cost.

35c a pound

UALITY r 70 years

r Monarch Quality oods are not sold by chain stores.

d, Murdoch & Co. Chicago, U. S. A. Pittsburgh, New York

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

aarlem oil has been a world- ide remedy for kidney, liver and adder disorders, rheumatism, umbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

rrect internal troubles, stimulate vital rgans. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

You Need This Tonic

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

It tends to promote good health, strengthen the digestive organs and to keep the stomach in good condition. At All Druggists.

THE HOSTETTER CO., PITTSBURGH, PA.

To build you up

Community Building

Paint Surest Weapon Against Rot and Rust

Home is man's dearest possession. He who owns even the humblest of dwellings owes it two precious gifts—protection and beauty.

As a man of business he will not willingly see his property deteriorate. As a reputable citizen and head of a family he will wish his home to present an attractive appearance and be an asset—not a disgrace—to the community in which he lives.

Every house is beset by two inveterate enemies, which never take a vacation. These are rot and rust. Fortunately, they leave their fingermarks as they go about their ugly task of destruction.

The fingermarks of rot are most easily found on such places as window-sills, sashes, door-sills and the like; in fact, on any woodwork that is exposed to the ravages of the weather.

Cellar stairs and windows are another salient point of attack by rot, because of the dampness to which they are exposed; while the deadly fangs of rust gnaw at the iron window gratings and the furnace door.

Paint is the surest weapon against these twin foes. By forming a waterproof film over structural materials, it keeps out moisture, and thus prevents rot from sending its fungus spores into cracks and crevices and porous surfaces. In like manner it checks the chemical action of the air upon exposed metals, which results in rust.

Clean Up Grounds to Add to Beauty

If there is a garage, it should be located where it will be of most convenience, and will not be unsightly. The same thing is true of a driveway, and of a service yard, for drying clothes. Space should be allowed for a lawn where children may play. If it is possible, space should be reserved for vegetable and flower gardens.

If the house is to be built, it is most important to start with a good layout in which these desirable points are met as far as possible. Standing trees should be allowed to remain and should be protected from injury during the construction of the house. As the excavation gets under way, the top soil should be collected and retained in one place, then spread over the surface of the lot evenly, after building is completed and the lot has been finally graded.

If a finished house is bought as a home for the family, it is well to bear in mind that a great change for the better usually can be brought about by cleaning up the grounds around the house and at the borders, screening the back steps and improving their usual unsightliness with a trellis, planting vines to grow on the fences—if there are any—and planting flowers.

Every Community Can Become "God's Country"

There appeared the other day in a newspaper an article on "God's country." It brought to mind the thought that one hears a great deal these days about "God's country." It is sometimes considered clever for one to remark, when asked where he hails from, "I'm from God's country."

Does not the sunshine fall more beautifully on the spot where one was born than anywhere in the world? Whether it be on a side street in a village, or the more pretentious brown front of a city, if it has one time been "home" it is "God's country."

After all, "God's country" is in the heart. The true "God's country" is made by believing that home is the best place on earth, by attending to all of life's duties, by being just and fair with one's fellow men, by living life at its fullest wherever one happens to be.—Washington Post.

Cleanliness and Beauty

In striving for bigness, it has been suggested that Indianapolis should not overlook the rather obvious truth that quality also counts for much in the estimate of cities—and also in their livableness. To be a little more definite, beauty is a very important element, and in beauty cleanliness is an important factor. For cleanliness means health and comfort, and is also a sure indication of enterprise and prosperity. Much progress has been made along this line in the last few years, and Indianapolis has much to be proud of, but we have hardly yet approached the ideal. The individual citizen can do much—and he has done a great deal, but the chief reliance must, in this case, be on the government, which alone can look after the streets and alleys, and the city property generally.—Indianapolis News.

Give Contractor Time

It requires a certain amount of time to honestly and conscientiously do any bit of work, and this applies to the building trade in particular. Time allotted to contractors for preparing bids is usually determined by architects.

If an insufficient amount of time is granted for contractors to bid on buildings, the architect is imposing a hardship on the contractor, and at the same time his client does not derive the benefit of keen competition.

BULGARS PROTEST AS GREEKS SEIZE TOWNS

Sofia Appeals to League After Invasion—Athens Halts Advance.

Sofia.—Between 15,000 and 20,000 peasants have fled before the Greek advance into Bulgaria, according to an official communique issued here. Three children, four women and 20 to 30 other civilians and soldiers were killed by Greeks. Atrocities, pillaging of homesteads, desecration of graves of World war soldiers, requisition of the entire crops in the occupied area and the slaughter of cattle are alleged against the Greeks. Despite popular demands for war, the cabinet has submitted to allied diplomatic pressure to let the League of Nations try to settle the quarrel.

London.—The Bulgarian government has addressed a protest to the secretariat of the League of Nations against the Greek army violating Bulgarian territory, says a dispatch from Sofia.

The Greek government has issued strict orders to its forces to cease their advance against the Bulgarians, provided the Bulgars make no further attempts to attack them, according to a dispatch from Athens. The troops, however, will hold the positions they now occupy until Bulgaria has replied to the Greek note. The government announces its determination to adhere to the terms of the note.

The latest advices received from Sofia say that the Greeks advanced rapidly and that their main body penetrated ten miles into Bulgarian territory. The advance was prepared for by heavy artillery fire and airplane bombing.

The Bulgarian border town of Petrich is in flames as a result of the heavy bombardment by Greek artillery, it was reported from Sofia. Greek troops have occupied the town and surrounding coal mines.

Greek troops were rushed to the frontier to invade Bulgaria and occupy Petrich following Greece's 48-hour ultimatum to Bulgaria demanding amends for the "unwarranted attack" on a Greek frontier post near Demirhissar by the Bulgarians on Monday.

French Refuse to O. K. U. S. Debt Payment Plan

Paris.—The temporary debt agreement providing for the payment of $40,000,000 annually for five years brought back from Washington by Finance Minister Caillaux is unacceptable to the government in its present form and will not even be brought before the chamber of deputies.

Instead M. Caillaux has been advised by his cabinet colleagues to reenter into communication with Washington with a view to beginning new pour-parleys in the near future looking to a complete general debt arrangement and meantime to request that any payments made above the normal $20,000,000 yearly on the commercial debt be booked so that they will play a role in the general funding of the entire debt.

100,000,000-Ton Steel Output Seen by Schwab

Chicago.—America's industrial supremacy need never be challenged if industry will only concentrate on production problems with the view to turning out "just as good a product at lower cost," Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, said in addressing the second annual conference on education and industry at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Schwab asserted that in his view the steel industry of the United States, with a present capacity of about 60,000,000 tons annually, would raise its output to a possible 100,000,000 tons a year.

Bishop Parker Dies of Apoplexy at Church Meet

New Orleans, La.—Rt. Rev. Edward Melville Parker, seventy, of Concord, N. H., bishop of New Hampshire, was found dead here on the floor of his hotel bedroom. The death of Bishop Parker was the second in the New Hampshire delegation during the convention. William McElroy, Manchester, N. H., died a victim of pneumonia.

Apoplexy was believed to have caused the death of Bishop Parker.

Hundreds Die in Druse Revolt; Damascus Burned

London.—Hundrds of persons were killed, many wounded and more than a thousand missing as a result of the attempt of the Mohammedan inhabitants of Damascus to end French rule at the behest of the Druse tribesmen. The city is partly destroyed by fire. James J. Keeley, the American consul, ordered the 21 Americans here to leave the city.

Roxie Stinson Testifies

New York.—Roxie Stinson, star witness in the Daugherty investigation, went before the special federal grand jury here investigating alleged irregularities in the alien property custodian's office.

Chinese Fleet Captured

Hongkon. — The anti-red cruiser Yungchi appeared in the inner harbor of Macao and captured one red gunboat and nine steam launches. The vessels are now flying the anti-red flag.

Just a Little Smile

DEAFENING

Mrs. Newly-Rich was recounting to an acquaintance the thrilling events of the evening before, when the house had been burgled.

"As a matter of fact," she said, "we were eating our soup—"

"Then, of course," interrupted the candid friend, "none of you heard anything."—Tit-Bits.

His Size Saved Him

The girl was interested in the yarn the fat old sailor was telling. He had just finished relating his experiences with cannibals, and she said:

"And so the natives didn't harm you, after all?"

"Bless you, no," was the reply. "They didn't have a saucepan my size."

IT BREAKS 'EM, ALL RIGHT

Son—Dad, what do they mean when they say in the history that in the old days many men perished by being broken on the wheel?

Dad—Why—er—son, I really can't tell you—they certainly didn't have automobiles that far back.

New Kind of Contest

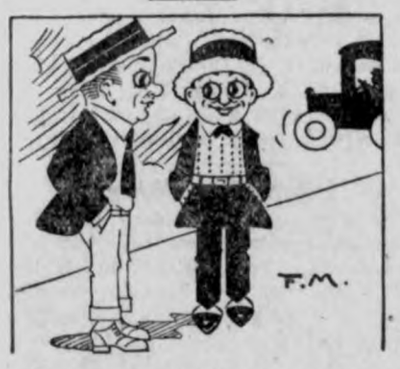
I heard the oratoric din
Where fierce invective filled the air
And said, "I wonder who will win
The perspiration contest there!"

A Puzzle

Coca—Have you read "To a Field Mouse"?

Cola—No. How do you get 'em to listen?—American Boy.

BASE METAL, INDEED



"I should think that great automobile maker would be in constant fear of being arrested as a counterfeiter."

"How's that?"

"Hasn't he made every one of his millions of dollars out of tin?"

"Man's Extremity"

He had expressions fit and meet
And used them with impunity—
He always called his hands and feet
Each one "God's opportunity."

Tact Is Essential

"Tact," said the lecturer, "is essential to good entertaining. I once dined at a house where the hostess had no tact. Opposite me sat a modest, quiet man.

"Suddenly he turned as red as a lobster on hearing his hostess say to her husband, 'How inattentive you are, Charlie! You must look after Mr. Brown better. He's helping himself to everything.'"

Household Necessity

Butcher—You want some brains, madam?

Housewife—Yes, please. My husband hasn't had any for a long time.—Progressive Grocer.

Too Much Catnip

Pussy—Why do you suppose Miss Mouser makes such catty remarks?

Tabby—She eats too much catnip.

Before—and After

She's dear.
She's doggone dear.
But, oh, what a difference!

Realism

Movie Director (to actor)—This is the sixth time we've taken this suicide scene, and to make sure you don't bungle it this time I've loaded the gun with real cartridges!—London Opinion.

New Medical Theory

All diseases are really one, and scientists should aim at a general antidote that would cure every ailment. This theory, put forward by a well-known doctor, is being widely discussed in the medical world.

BAYER Genuine ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" and INSIST!

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Quick Action Saved Hay

A farmer sitting on his porch at Morrill, Kan., tossed a cigarette stub out into the yard. Instantly a sparrow swooped down upon the stub, picked it up and flew away. The farmer watched and the bird flew straight for the hayloft. The farmer made a hasty search and got the stub before the barn was set on fire.

Drew the Line

Biff—Say, young sprout, do you mean to call me a crook?

Bang—Not me; I wouldn't insult a crook.

Sweet clover, once considered a troublesome weed, is now extensively planted as a valuable soil improver and a fixer of atmospheric nitrogen.

Her Rheumatism Vanished!

After two years of agony, this woman thanks Tanlac for restoring lost health

*For two years, Mary Arpentigny, had rheumatism in her right arm and hand so bad she couldn't lift a comb to her hair. Indigestion made matters worse.

Finally her brother urged her to try Tanlac and improvement came with the first bottle. "Now," writes Mrs. Arpentigny, "my appetite is fine, my indigestion is gone and every sign of rheumatism has left me. I only hope others will profit by my experience."

*Authentic statement; address on request.

* * *

More people have been helped back to health by Tanlac than by any other tonic. Physicians testify to that. Our files are crammed with letters of grateful thanks from every part of the world. Isn't this evidence enough for you?

Don't go feeling worse and worse each day. Head off that sick spell. Start the Tanlac treatment today.

Ask for a bottle of Tanlac at your druggist's. Take it according to directions and see how much better you feel. We know what it can do for you because we know how it has brought health to thousands like you. It's folly not to make the test.

NOTE: For Constipation, take Tanlac Vegetable Pills, Nature's own harmless laxative.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

Sunday Schools

There are more than a quarter of a million Sunday schools in active operation in the world, attracting an attendance of more than 30,000,000 pupils. North America is ahead of other continents in this census, with some 150,000 schools and 20,000,000 pupils. Europe has fewer than 70,000 schools and about 8,000,000 pupils. Asia ranks next with 30,000 schools and 1,300,000 pupils.

Don't Be Disfigured

Keep Cole's Carbolisalve in the house. It stops pain from burn or cut quickly and heals without scars. At all good druggists, 30c and 60c, or J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

Lavish promises lessen credit.—Horace.

A Reminder

New—Why do you keep so many old magazines scattered around your room?

Ted—Oh, it's to remind me to go to the doctor.—Life.

A Lady of Distinction

Is recognized by the delicate, fascinating influence of the perfume she uses. A bath with Cuticura Soap and hot water to thoroughly cleanse the pores followed by a dusting with Cuticura Talcum powder usually means a clear, sweet, healthy skin.—Advertisement.

As It Were

"Rudy, tell me, do you get any real pleasure out of kissing?"

"More or less, as the face may be."

Let Yeast Foam build you up!

Everyone knows the tonic property of yeast—how it builds up your weight to normal—how it strengthens and invigorates the whole system.

Just try this: drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let stand for five minutes; stir; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate.

Or, if you prefer, eat the yeast with a cracker or a piece of butter.

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 North Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health," also a sample of Yeast Foam, without obligation.

Name_____

Address_____

W. N. U.

News Of Goodell and Vicinity
By Times Correspondent

Mr. George Nelson spent the week end with his parents at Albert Lea.

Agnes Fuller is having two weeks of vacation during corn picking.

Dorothy Lackore spent Sunday and Monday with her parents.

Miss Adelia Hill, of Corwith, visited friends at Goodell Sunday.

Winifred Tisor had the misfortune to break her finger.

H. Skaar, of Belmond, was a caller in Goodell Saturday.

Mrs. John McAlpine Sr., of Mason City is visiting relatives here.

Martin Kearney of Williams was a Goodell caller Wednesday.

The Ladies Aid served in the U. B. church basement Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Allie and children visited relatives at Clarion Sunday.

Mrs. E. J. Schneider and Frederick were Belmond callers Wednesday.

Miss Evelyn Thomas spent the week end with her parents at Meservey.

Jesse Chase of Garner spent the week end with his brother, Clifford Chase.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Conlan are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Monahan, Mr. Conlan's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Presley Griggs, of Portile, visited relatives at Goodell Sunday.

The G. H. S. boys are practicing basket ball and are looking forward to a successful year.

Mr. Blue received word Wednesday that his mother who lives at Le Mars had broken her arm and was in a serious condition.

Dr. G. E. Snearly accompanied by his brother started Saturday morning for Canada where they expect to spend a few weeks hunting deer.

Mrs. Clifford Chase and Miss Eliza Cashman entertained the Rosary Society in the Catholic church basement Thursday.

Mae Griggs is visiting friends and relatives in Iowa Falls, Cedar Falls and Williams during her two weeks vacation.

Rev. Scott and family arrived at Goodell Thursday. Rev. Scott delivered his first sermon Sunday evening.

There were no U. B. church services Sunday morning as the Missionary Ladies gave a very nice program in speeches and song.

Mildred Fuller, teacher of Twin Lake District No. 8, will give a basket social Friday night. Everyone come and ladies bring baskets.

We have not yet organized an orchestra but several pupils have gotten their instruments and hope to begin work soon.

Lulu Wilkins held a basket social at her school, Twin Lake Dist. No. 6 Friday night. A large crowd attended and quite a sum of money was realized.

We have one new scholar in the Freshman Class and two in the grades this week, being children of Rev. Scott. We hope they will like Goodell and its people.

AVERY TOWNSHIP NEWS

The following people were guests at the Wm. Bell home Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ross, and Mrs. Dave Ross and daughter, Bernice of Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lassahn, Miss Annabelle Carlson, Miss Katherine Wille. Mr. Fred Bell and Mr. Johnny Reed.

A number in this vicinity have quit picking corn until a later date as some of the corn picked has begun to spoil.

Herbert Marshall received a new radio set as a gift from relatives n Illinois one day last week.

While on his way to town Sunday evening Walter Anderson broke the left front wheel on his car.

Corn Pickers Successful

Farmers using automatic corn pickers this fall report excellent results. The machines get nearly every ear and very little is lost by ears shelling when moving through the rollers. More machines are being bought each season and it is estimated that in a few more years will see every fair sized farm equipped with machine pickers.

Reduced Prices on Northland Oil

For A Short Time Only

NORTHLAND, light oil
5 gallon lots, per gal.....

NORTHLAND, medium oil
5 gallon lots, per gal.....

NORTHLAND, heavy oil
5 gallon lots, per gal.....

NORTHLAND, extra heavy oil
5 gallon lots, per gal.....

60c

We Are Overstocked!

We are overstocked on oil and we are offering NORTHLAND OIL at the above reduced bargain prices only until our stock is reduced to normal, so do not miss this great opportunity to lay in your oil supply.

NORTHLAND OIL is a Pure Pennsylvania motor oil of the highest grade. If you have once used it you will use no other.

Take advantage of these prices!

Greimann Motor Co.

Accounting for Proverb

One of the best-known proverbs is "A miss is as good as a mile." It is possible that the original proverb read: "Amis is as good as Amile." Amis and Amile were legendary soldiers of Charlemagne, and, besides being great friends, were considerably like one another in appearance. They were famous as the heroes of a widely known song. Later they entered into the traditions of the church and were invoked indifferently. Hence the proverb.

Spanish Treasure Revealed

After thirty years George W. Hawkins of Setauket, Long Island, N. Y., has revealed the fact that he has dug up a number of Spanish gold coins. Year by year he disposed of them to numismatists at a premium, there being 100 in all. He discovered the coins while digging holes for bean poles in 1894. Remnants of a canvas bag were found. The coins were dated 1770.

Proper Nails for Shingles

One of the most commonly neglected features in shingling roofs is the matter of nails. Good zinc-coated nails always should be used for wooden shingles. It is folly to attach a high-grade material, like the best wooden shingles, with cheap iron nails which will rust out in a short span of years and allow the shingles to work loose. —Exchange.

Butterfly as a Delicacy

The Bugong moth or butterfly is a delicacy which epicures among certain aboriginal peoples of Australia will travel long distances to obtain. The butterflies foregather every year on the slopes of the Bugong mountains in New South Wales, where they are caught by being suffocated by the smoke of wood fires lighted under the trees.

The Oldest Wall

The great wall of China is the longest in the world, being well over a thousand miles in length. But it is not the oldest. The most ancient are the walls of Jericho. These were built 1,500 years before the birth of Christ, and are, therefore, over three thousand years old.

Chinese Debt to American

The large peanut now grown in China was introduced from the United States 35 years ago by a missionary. Its production has increased yearly until, at the present time, it enters into China's foreign commerce to the extent of millions of dollars annually.

Profit From Experience

Experiences are stepping stones in life's progress, said Emerson, but he implied that one must profit from experiences in order to advance. The great trouble with most people who stand still is that they do not profit as they should.—Grit.

First Quartz Window

The first clear fused quartz window glass ever made will be used in the sunroom of the Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore, Md. It excels ordinary window glass in that it transmits ultraviolet or health-giving rays.

The Other Thing

It's good to have money and the things that money can buy, but it's good, too, to check up once in a while and make sure you haven't lost the things that money can't buy.—George Horace Lorimer.

Ancient Roman Temple

The Maison Carree, or Square house, at Nimes, France, is perhaps the most perfect of extant specimens of ancient Roman temples. It is thought to have been built in the Second century of the present era.

Red Sea Unchanged

The Red sea at the present time is approximately the same width as it was at the time of the Israelites' crossing. The breadth of the sea ranges from 100 to 200 miles.

Learn Other Birds' Notes

Birds inherit calls they utter when in the nest, but in many instances learn the notes of the birds within sound of whose voices they have been reared.

A Turn About

If every person who owns a suburban lot builds a home on it the next generation will be coming to the city for solitude.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Fast as the Trains

The speed of the wood duck is about ninety feet per second, according to Nature Magazine, or slightly more than a mile a minute.

Long Wait

If you think all things come to him who waits, just sit down and wait and see how hungry you get.—Arkansas Gazette.

Two Ways

One way is to keep up with running expenses and another is to slow down running expenses.—Buffalo Enquirer.

Comfort in This

Another good memory test is to try to remember the things you worried about yesterday.

England Likes Salmon

England buys more canned salmon from America than does any other country.

WILL FILL GAPS IN ARCTIC COLLECTIONS

Fish and Bird Expert to Study Water Fauna.

Washington.—Dr. Walter N. Koelz, fish and bird expert, who is with the MacMillan Arctic expedition, to make studies and collect specimens of Arctic land and water fauna for the National Geographic society, is one of the leading specialists of the world on the whitefish, important commercial fish of the Great Lakes.

Doctor Koelz was born in Waterloo, Mich., and after elementary schooling there and preparatory work in the neighboring town of Chelsea, attended the University of Michigan where he took bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees. He taught zoology at the University of Michigan until 1917, when, joining the staff of the United States bureau of fisheries, he began for that organization a detailed study of the whitefish, the most important commercial fish of the Great Lakes.

When Doctor Koelz began his investigations little was known of the whitefish. Since the days of Linnaeus this family of fishes has constituted a stubborn problem in classification. As a result of Doctor Koelz's seven years of work with the fishing fleets in the commercial fishing ports of the United States and Canada and in the laboratory, science now for the first time has practically complete data in regard to the American whitefish.

Doctor Koelz has described the ten species and scores of races of this family in American waters and has collected and prepared 30,000 individual fish, the largest collection of whitefish in the world. This collection is in the museum of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

"Filing System" for Fish.

In the course of his work Doctor Koelz has discovered and described several entirely new species, one of which was found to be confined to Lakes Nipigon and Winnipeg in Canada. This discovery was of considerable importance since it supports the theories of glaciologists in regard to the hypothetical ancient body of water, called Lake Agassiz. So complex did the classification of white fish prove to be, due to the bewildering slight differences in individuals, that Doctor Koelz found it necessary to invent a new method of differentiation, a ratio based on nose length, upper jaw length, fin length and head depth. The fish of his huge collection have their relationship indicated, therefore, by decimals, somewhat like those on the filing tags of books in a great library.

When not on the Great Lakes with his nets on the trail of fish, Doctor Koelz has spent many hours with trap and gun obtaining specimens of birds. He has gotten together, and owns personally, one of the finest collections of hawks and waders in North America.

Going off to the Arctic to collect fish, birds and mammals is not like an afternoon's jaunt near home with gun or rod and little else. Hundreds of pounds of special supplies and equipment had to be taken along and problems of packing and transportation involved in getting the specimens safely back to the United States had to be worked out. Doctor Koelz took aboard the Peary, one of the MacMillan expedition ships, the following formidable supplies: 15 gallons of formaldehyde, 20 gallons of alcohol, 100 pounds of salt, 2,000 feet of gill nets made of linen thread, trammel nets, dozens of thermometers, automatic water sampling bottles, silk bolting cloth to seine up the almost miscroscopic food of the fish, dredges for creatures living on the sea bottom, insect nets, plant presses and a number of copper tanks for use in preserving fish.

Because space is at a high premium on the Bowdoin and Peary, there will be much improvision. When his fish have been "pickled" in alcohol and formaldehyde, Doctor Koelz plans to commandeer empty gasoline drums in which to bring the specimens back to the United States. The fish are preserved whole, and will eventually repose in glass jars of alcohol.

Bird Skins Easy to Preserve.

The preservation of bird specimens is simple. The skins are split and slipped off with the feathers still in place. The neck is then severed so that the head and skin remain. These are generously salted, and after drying are packed away. Because they can be packed flat the bird skins take up little space. Hundreds of them can be stowed away in an ordinary wooden packing case. Back home these skins will be softened by the washing out of the salt, will be stuffed with excelsior and mounted, being thus brought back to a lifelike appearance.

The skins of land animals will be removed and dressed and numerous photographs of the animals will be brought back to aid taxidermists in giving them a lifelike mounting.

Oldest Kansan, 116

Topeka, Kan.—Probably the oldest person in Kansas is Nah-Ne-Muck-Skuk, aged one hundred and ten, an Indian on the Pottawatomie reservation near Mayetta. His age was revealed in compiling the state census.

Counts Stitches

Iron Mountain, Mich.—In making a man's tailored coat it requires 48,628 stitches. This was proven by Carl Jackson, Escanaba tailor. He held a guessing contest as to the number of stitches there were in the coat. G. Soderberg, winner, missed the exact number by 13.

The Cash Store

We have a nice line of Leather Jackets, Sheepskin Lined Coats, Dress Overcoats, Wool Hosiery, Warm Mittens—Everything for WINTER WEAR.

See our goods and get our prices before buying.

MENS ONE BUCKLE OVERSHOES

$2.39

SATURDAY SPECIAL

2 lbs. Raisins For only 19c

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

What about the Storm Sash and Doors?

We have connections with several good millwork Concerns giving prompt service on Storm Goods.

DON'T WAIT until the Mills are stocked up with orders, then expect special service.

PLACE YOUR ORDER NOW!

Fire Wood

A few loads left. Get it before it's too late.

Complete line of everything

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

Winter Repairs

Winter is practically here and now is a good time to look around your house and see what is needed to make it warm and comfortable.

WINDOW GLASS

Bring in your windows, doors or storm sash and have us put in new glass where it is needed. We carry a full line of glass in all sizes. Putty, Putty Knives, etc.

FURNACE—STOVE REPAIRS

Look over your stoves and furnace now and check up for repairs. We can get any repairs for you in a short time. We handle a full line of pipes, elbows, stove mats, coal pails, shovels, flue linings, etc.

STORM PAPER

We carry a good storm paper to put on screen doors, over cellar windows and other purposes to keep out the wind and cold.

E. F. Jacobs

THE KLEMME TIMES

irtieth Year—Number 9. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

NEXT PARENT TEACHER MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT

LEMME GIRLS RE-ORGANIZE THE FORMER CAMP FIRE

LL GIRLS ELIGIBLE RE URGED TO JOIN

TA-TA POCHON CAMP

Guardian, Marie E. Blank.
Assistant, Dolores Koerner.

The Ta Ta Pochon Camp Fire held ir first meeting at the school se last Thursday afternoon. The w camp has ten members and will come any girl over eleven years age into their camp.

The officers were elected as fols:

Clarice Wellemeyer, President.
Gracka Quandt, Vice-President.
Lucile Kraus, Secretary.
Valeria Koerner, Treasurer.

The other members of the Camp e:

Esther West,
Agatha Steeman.
Lillian Beeler,
Reva Elder,
Leona Poort,
Thelma Kluckhohn.

Mr. Fred Arnold gave the Camp rmission to hold their meetings in e basement of the First National nk, and the Camp Fire Girls wish thank him for the interest he has ken in their Camp.

They will meet regularly on the d and last Thursday in each month. e Girls are all very busy in learng the Laws of the Camp and are ving a delightful time in choosg Camp's names and symbols.

ILES SHOWS THEM

ILES OF AVERY CENTER WINS HIGH HONORS IN SHOOT

S. Army Officers Have Nothing On Local Sportsman When It Comes To Sharp Shooting

When the pheasant season opened this county some army officers of rt Des Moines came up to try their k and establish their reputation sharp shooters. They happened select Avery Township as the land plentiful hunting and our jovial end and sportsman, Mr. Files, inted them to go out with him.

We have not the details but our porter claims that Files shot rings ound the officers and kicked up st everywhere and when the smoke battle had cleared away the army icers were willing to hand over the arp shooter's medal to Files.

No casualties were reported among e pheasants.

GRUESOME FIND

UMAN SKELETON FOUND BY EXCAVATORS AT ST. ANSGAR ones Of Child Found In Plot Set Off For Church Use Years Ago

ST. ANSGAR, Nov. 5.—While exvating for a water main on theMin e Kogle property Monday workmen found a human skeleton at the epth of about four feet. From all ppearances it was that of a child om 12 to 15 years of age. That it as been buried for many years is rtain.

The only explanation of how it me there is that when the town as platted that particular block of round was set aside for church purposes by the incorporators of that rt of town, with the undestanding at the block of ground would be ven to the first church built in St. nsgar.

As no church society laid claim to e property it was entered up for xation and in the course of time as sold for taxes and was finally rchased and a home erected there about twenty-four years go.

SLOW SUMMER KEPT TREES FROM TURNING

University Of Iowa Professor Explains Green Woods Thos Fall

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Klemme Times.)—Leaves failed to change this fall to their usual brilliant reds and yellows because of the dry summer, according to Prof. Bohumil Shimek, botanist at the University of Iowa.

Professor Shimek points out that the slow summer retarded the growth of the leaves, and since they do not change color until maturity, Iowa's forests this fall are covered with leaves that either fell off green or have clung, withered and brown, to the trees.

Leaf coloration is caused by the substitution of either a red or a yellow pigment in the leaf for the green pigment that served as a protector to its delicate parts during its growth. This does not take place, however, until the leaf has reached its full developement.

Most leaves this summer never were fully developed, Professor Shimek believes. Some hard maples, ordinarily among the first to turn, are still green, the frozen leaves now mingled with snow.

WILL SWING SOON

SIMONS SLATED TO HANG ON NOVEMBER 16

Execution Date Set In Order From Governor Hammill to Scott County Sheriff

DES MOINES, Nov. 5.—Governor Hammill announced Monday that the executive warrant setting the date of the hanging of Harlan Simons as Monday, Nov. 16, at Fort Madison, for the slaying of Orton Ferguson, Michigan tourist, in the tourist park at West Liberty, had been delivered to the Sheriff of Scott county.

Simons was sentenced in the Scott county district court Nov. 5, 1924. The executive warrant was drawn after the governor had inspected petitions for executive clemency. One petition, containing 100 signatures, came from Tipton, the condemned man's former home.

If nothing serves to interfere with the execution Simons will be put to death at 7:30 a. m. Monday, Nov. 16, will set a new precedent in Iowa, all previous legal hangings having been performed on Fridays.

FARMERS URGED TO MAKE FULL USE OF IOWA CREDIT ACT

Frrmers In Johnson County Take Advantage Of Warehousing Farm Bureau Law

IOWA CITY Nov. 5.—The Johnson county farm bureau recently inserted a number of advertisements in newspapers of the county, urging farmers to take advantage of the Farm Warehouse Act and urging them to be optimistic. The use of display advertising by a farm bureau unit is believed to be unique in the history of the state.

The text of the advertisement follows:

"Farmers don't be discouraged.

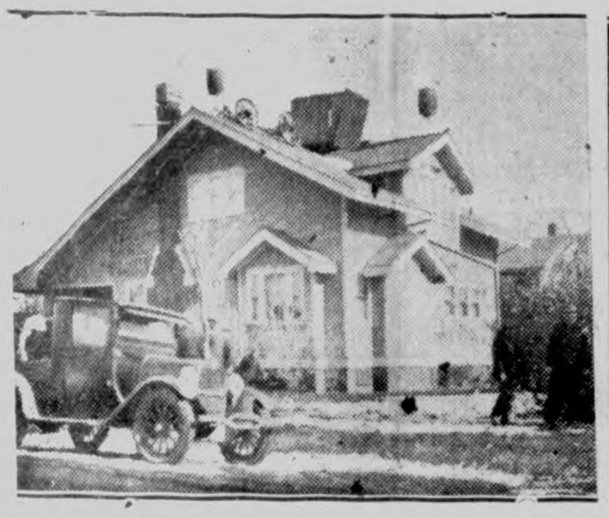
"The Farm Bureau has secured passage of the Farm Warehouse law so you can warehouse your corn on the farm and secure a loan on it which will enable you to hold your corn until the price is better.

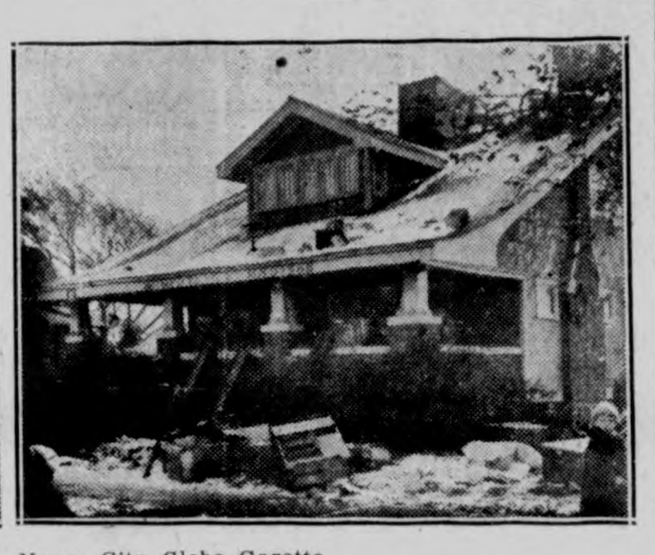
"This is just one of the many benefits we have secured for you. Loans at low rates of interest can be secured for 75 per cent of the market value of warehouse corn or oats.

"To take advantage of this, get in touch with the Farm Bureau office at Iowa City as we are having a heavy demand for warehousing. As usual we are here to help and serve.

"Johnson County Farm Bureau."

When Hallowe'en Was Over





Courtesy of The Mason City Globe-Gazette.

Some idea of the attention paid to the home of Frank Wenck, former cashier of the Klemme State Savings bank, by Hallowe'en pranksters can be obtained from the above pictures.

The one on the left is taken from the side and rear and shows the trunk, barrels, out-building and wagon running gear which perched on the roof the "morning after." The wagon and the building, it is said, were hoisted by use of a rope passed over the top of the house and pulled by a squad of men to the rear of the house.

The picture to the right, taken from the front of the house shows the furniture and dishes strewn about the front yard. Epithets at various points about the house in paints of varied hue, such as "Moved to Fort Madison," "State Savings Bank, Forged Notes a Specialty," are not discernible in either picture.—Globe Gazette.

PAINT DAUBED OVER HOUSE; WAGON AND BUILDING ON ROOF OF HOUSE

Furniture and Dishes Taken From Garage Are Strewn Over Front Yard

The F. J. Wenck home here was the object of a Hallowen'en target Saturday night. A special reporter from the Mason City Globe-Gazette was on the scene the followig day asking questions and getting a lineup on the details. The write-up in Monday's paper gives a good view of the matter and we are copying it for our readers who did not have a view of the wrecked home Sunday. A large number of visitors were at the scene of the night's before activities throughout the day and cars came from near and far to get first hand views.

The Globe-Gazette write-up, under date of Klemme, Nov. 2, follows:

"Indignation growing out of the closing of the State Savings bank here last summer asserted itself Saturday night when the comfortable home of Frank Wenck, cashier, was treated to a smearing of paint of varied hue and the yard and porch of the place were literally covered with objects such as have their principal circulation on Hallowe'en.

"When neighbors awoke they saw on the roof of the Wenck home, just out of the business district, a large out-building, the running gear of a wagon and a trunk. Over each lightning rod was a barrel. Delapidated bodies of automobiles were crowded upon the porch and furniture removed from the garage cluttered the front yard. Dishes taken from the barrels used to cover the lightning rods were broken into bits and strewn everywhere. The scene was strangely reminiscent of ruined Belgium.

No Arrests Made

"No arrests have yet been made. Indications are that none will be. The city marshall ventured the opinion that the "culprits were not home talent." Mayor Gruetzmacher sees no occasion for him to act in the matter. Sheriff Peck Hanson takes the position that arrests are to be made only on the order of County Attorney Vernon Grau. And Mr. Grau doesn't know who to arrest. That's the situation this morning.

"Mr. Wenck was one of the first o behold the strange spectacle. Sensing the plans for making him the target of some Hallowe'en sport, he went down from Garner,, where he and Mrs. Wenck have been living with his parents since the closing of the bank last summer, early Sunday morning. Arriving before 6 o'clock he went to the home of Mayor Frank Gruetzmacher, who accompanied him back to the home for a preliminary survey. They decided that it was a case for the sheriff and Peck Hanson was summoned.

Mrs. Wenck Arrive on Scene

"Sheriff Hanson arrived at 7:30 and helped reach the conclusion that the county attorney was the proper man to act in the case. Mr. Grau arrived in the afternoon.

"Throughout the day, the Wenck home attracted large crowds. Nobody knew who had done the damage. One rumor was the effect that a party had come up from Renwick and directed the work as a reminder, report had it, of a bank failure there in which Wenck had a part. Some smiled when they told this. Others seemed to be in earnest.

"Mr. Wenck directed the work of restoring order to the yard after a photographer working under directions from Mr. Wenck had taken a score or more of pictures of the disordered home. The conjecture was that these pictures would be employed to reveal a prejudice against Wenck in connection with a change of venue appeal to be made later.

"Mrs. Wenck, who, like her husband, was mentioned in the several epithets painted at various points about the house in red, yellow and black paint, arrived in the afternoon and went about her former home without obvious show of anger, sorrow or any other emotion.

Dishes Belonged To Widow

"It developed during the day that the furniture and dishes removed from the garage and distributed about the yard were the property of a widow, Mrs. Nels Palmer, for whom Mr. Wenck was serving in the capacity of executor. The assumption had been, obviously, that the goods belonged to Wenck and were about to be removed."

That is the way the Globe-Gazette had it and quite accurately as to details.

Monday morning Wenck and his father again came from Garner and brought a couple of painters with them. Some men were secured to help remove the wagon and building from the roof of the house. The painters removed the red signs and touched up the spots with paint and the house soon presented its former appearance.

The Globe Gazette speaks of a rumor that a party from Renwick came up and directed the work The rumor is quite current here that outsiders did the dirty work and that there were also cars seen in town Saturday night bearing Mason City license plates.

Hallowe'en culprits damaged other property in town but the brunt of the attack was centered about the Wenck home.

IOWA'S TRAPPING SEASON AT HAND

DES MOINES, Nov. 5.—Iowa's trapping season is at hand with open dates on racoon and skunk which began the 1st, and on beaver, mink and otter, Nov. 15. The season on raccoon and skunk closes Jan. 31, and on beaver, mink and otter March 15.

Protection was extended to muskrats for the coming three seasons by the forty-first general assembly. The season on muskrats will not open until 1928.

Game laws strictly prohibit the use of poison in hunting wild game. Hunting licenses are required of persons who wish to trap. Owners of farm lands and tenants may trap on their own land without a license during the open season.

TWO KINDS OF CORN BREAD

Your Choice May Depend On Where You Were Raised

If you were raised in the south you will probably like a different kind of corn bread than if you were born in the north, for the kinds made in these two sections are quite unlike.

Northern corn bread contains flour and sugar, while that made in the south contains no sugar or flour and is much thinner and crisper than the northern made bread. If one wishes the northern style corn bread, some flour may be substituted for a part of the corn meal in the following southern recipes. Sugar may also be added if desired.

1. One cup each of flour and corn meal, three tablespoons of baking powder and one-half teaspoon of salt. Mix these dry ingredients. One and one-half cup of milk, one egg, two tablespoons of melted fat. Mix the wet ingredients together, then combine the wet and dry ingredients. Pour into greased pans and bake in a hot oven, 210 degrees C., for 25 to 30 minutes.

2. One cup each of corn meal and sour milk, one egg, two tablespoons of melted fat, one teaspoon each of salt and baking powder and a scant half-teaspoon of soda. Mix as in recipe 1, pour into sizzling hot, greased pan and bake in rather thin layer to form a thick crust.

3. One cup each of corn meal and milk, two cups of boiling water, two eggs and two teaspoons of salt. Stir the cornmeal into the boiling water and cook until thickened, then add milk, eggs and salt. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake about 25 minutes. Serve as you would boiled rice, or mashed potatoes, or serve as a cereal for breakfast, adding sugar and cream.

T. B. TEST UPHELD

COURT CLEARS WAY FOR TUBERCULOSIS ERADICATION

Des Moines, Nov. 5.—"The recent decision of the Iowa Supreme Court in the Black Hawk county case will do much to clear the way for effective work in the eradication of bovine tuberculosis in Iowa," states M. G. Thornburg, Secretary of Agriculture. "This decision will undoubtedly have an important bearing on objections which have been brought up in a few other counties."

The supreme court held that the county area plan is constitutional. No decision was made on the question of the accredited plan, for that question was not properly brought before the court. The whole opinion indicates that had the question been properly raised, a similar decision would have been given. The legalizing act passed by the Fortieth General Assembly was also declared valid and constitutional.

It is held that the acts of individuals or misstatements as to the law were immaterial and could in no wise invalidate the petitions or the acts of the officers especially in view of the legalizing acts. The decision is far reaching because it sustains the power of the legislature to enact laws for the eradication of disease among animals by any practical method upon which it may determine.

FREE TO FARMERS

DAIRY BREEDERS' DIRECTORY PUBLISHED

Waterloo, Nov. 5—A directory containing the names of over 5,000 Iowa breeders of dairy cattle has been published by the Iowa Dairy Association, according to an announcement received by the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

These directories will be furnished free of charge to breeders and dairymen, if three cents postage is sent to the Iowa Dairy Association, Waterloo, Iowa.

Some Deals In Dirt

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS Oct. 26 to Oct. 31

M. A. M. Griffen hus. to Fred Greimann, warranty deed date 10-28-25, $1.00, N½ NE¼ & E½ NW ¼ 18-95-23.

E. P. Hanson, Sheriff, to F. B. Rogers, Sheriff's Deed, date 10-28-25, $4,536.78, SE¼ block 1 Stubbins addition to Britt.

E. C. Schroeder wife to E. B. Sheldahl, Quit Claim Deed, date 10-16-25, $1.00, lot 4 block 1, Rofinots addition to Corwith.

E. P. Hanson, Trustee to E. B. Sheldahl, Quit Claim Deed, date 10-17-25, $5.00, lot 4 block 1 Rofinots addition to Corwith.

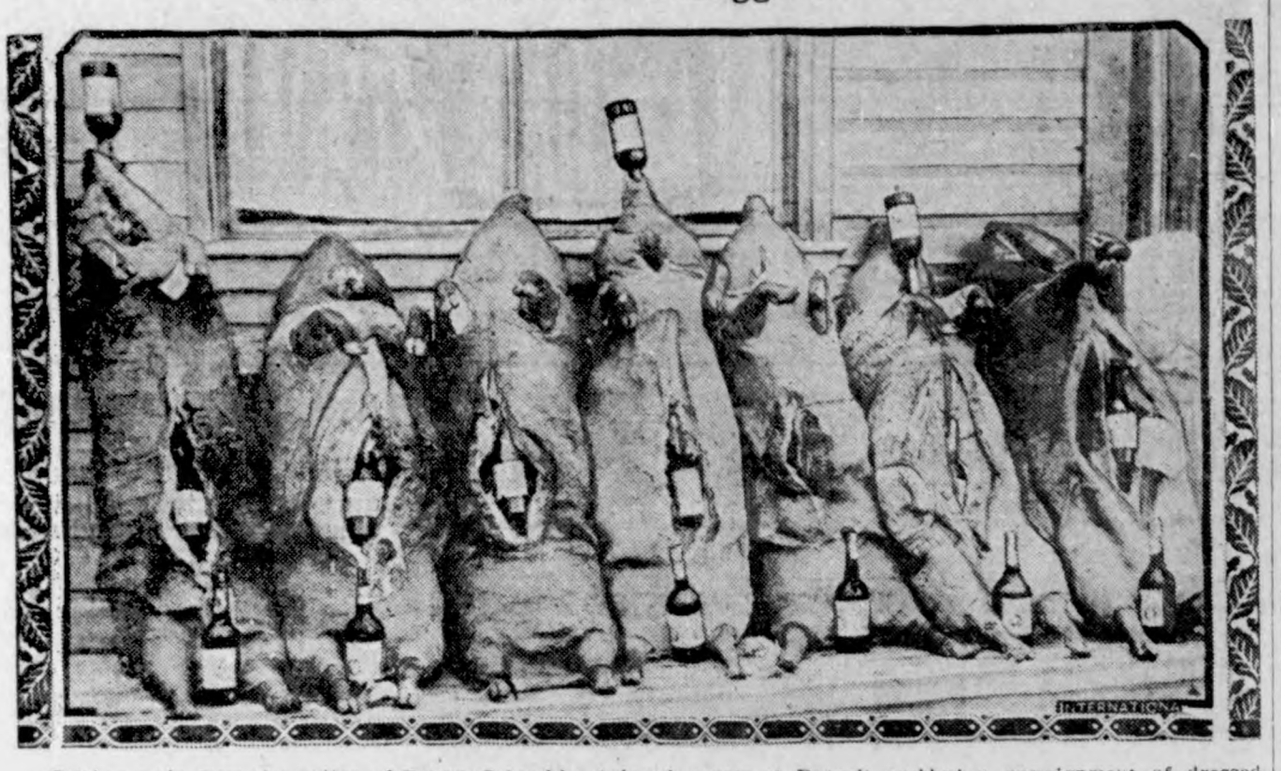
E. P. Hanson, Sheriff, to Henry Lolling, Sheriff's Deed, date 10-31-26, $29,177.39, NE¼ 22-96-26.

Anna MaGuire Quevli to John Mulhall, Warranty Deed, date 10-27-25, $1.00 & ex. of property W½ 18-97-25.

CLOTHING COURSE MEETING

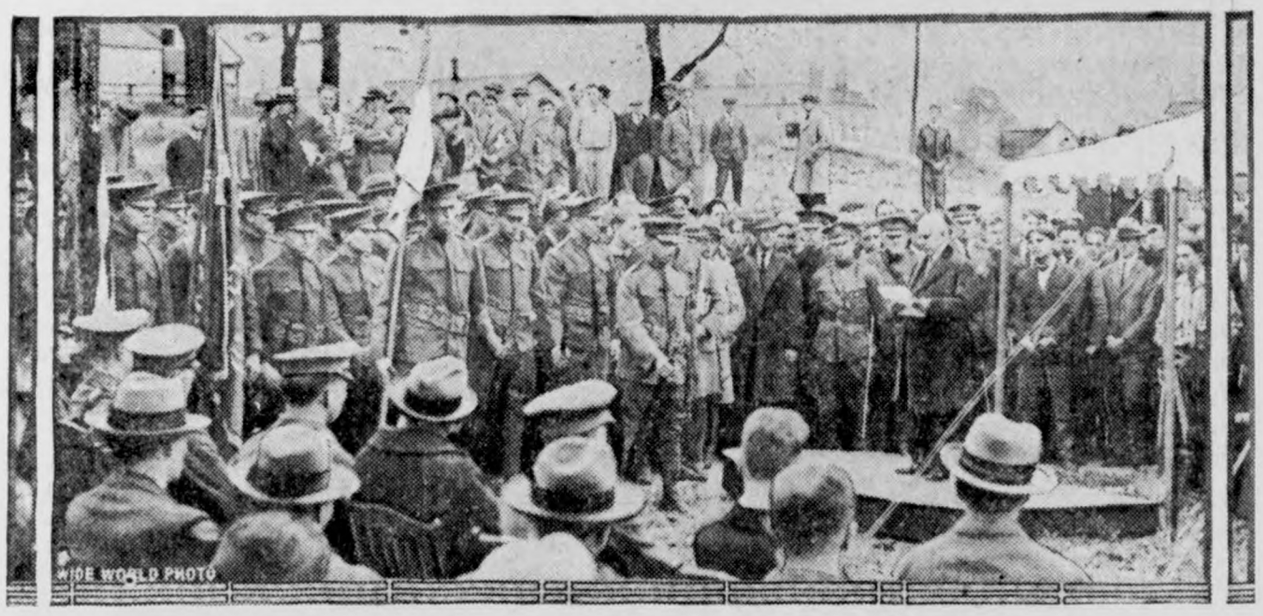
The Leaders of the Ell Township Clothing Course held their last meeting Thursday, Oct. 29, at the home of Mrs. W. Hampel. Miss McIllrath gave the lesson on childrens clothing; this is a very practical lesson. At the noon hour Mrs. Hampel served a delicious chicken pie dinner. The follow-up meeting for the south half will be held at the home of Mrs. C. J. Wille on Tuesday, November 10. This will be an afternoon meeting and the lesson is long, so come early. Bring paper to cut patterns, scissors, pins, etc. This is our last sewing lesson. The next coure is the home furnishing course, which will be given if the ladies care to take it.

Scheme of Booze Smugglers Foiled



Getting a tip from the police of British Columbia, federal agents at Detroit grabbed a consignment of dressed hogs which came across the border. On examination each hog was found to be stuffed with bottles of alcoholic liquor.

Breaking Ground for First Aeronautics School

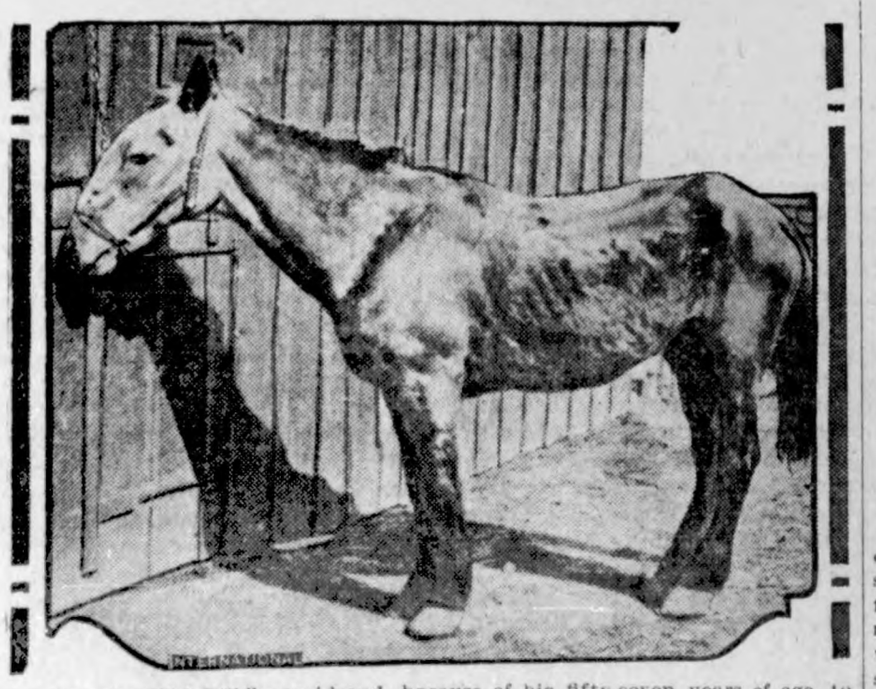


Daniel Guggenheim, who donated half a million dollars to found the Daniel Guggenheim school of aeronautics at New York university, speaking at the campus as ground was broken for the school, the first of its kind in the United States.

Chicago Keeps Columbus' Anchor

Forestalling a plan to give the anchor of the Santa Maria, flagship of Christopher Columbus, to the Smithsonian institution, the South Park board of Chicago has voted to give the priceless relic to the Chicago Historical society. For years it has been in the replica of the Santa Maria in Jackson park.

Still Working at 57 Years



This is "Old Bill," considered, because of his fifty-seven years of age, to be the oldest horse in the world. Old Bill has records to prove his age. His master, John Douders of Harmony, N. J., has been offered fabulous prices by circus men to part with the horse. Bill is still a willing worker.

DISOWNED BY ALL

"Frederick Webster," formerly of Canada, is a man without a country. The United States wants to deport him, Canada classifies him as an undesirable. Webster, thirty-one, has been an inmate of the Chicago jails for seven months. He claims he assumed the name of a cousin, who is wanted on a charge of bigamy and served seven years in a Canada penitentiary for his cousin's crime.

WHO IS JERRY?

"Jerry Tarbot," as he is called, came out of the World war suffering from shell shock. He was ill for a long time, finally regained his health, but could not remember his name. Recently while under treatment by a mental specialist in Los Angeles, Tarbot said his father's name was Dubois and his mother's name was Northen; also that he was Peter Martin.

FIVE INDICTED FOR $7,000,000 U. S. FRAUD

Col. T. W. Miller, Former Alien Property Custodian, Held for Trial.

New York.—Col. Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, four German and Swiss citizens and three German and Swiss corporations were indicted by a special federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States government.

The indictment involves the release by the custodian of about $7,000,000 of sequestered assets of the American Metal company, representing the sale of a 49 per cent alleged enemy interest to pretended Swiss owners.

In its report the grand jury declared that Miller, John T .King, former Republican national committeeman from Connecticut and the late Jesse Smith, confidant of former Attorney General Daugherty, arranged the transfer with the foreign defendants in consideration of payment to them of $391,000 of the recovered assets.

King appeared before the grand jury and waived immunity, the statement said. Although named as a conspirator, he was not indicted.

Other defendants indicted were Richard Merton of Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, president of the Metallgesellschaft and former captain in the German army; Alfred Merton of Frankfort-on-Main, president of the Metallbank; Leopold Du Bois of Basel, Switzerland, president of the Swiss bank of Basel; Fitz-Zahn Geigy of Basel, president of the Societe Suisse pour valeurs de Metaux; Die Metallgesellschaft, a German corporation of Frankfort-on-Main; the Metallbank of Frankfort-on-Main, and the Societe Suisse pour Valeurs de Metaux, a Swiss corporation ofg Basel.

Says Naughty Shows Will Drive Drama From Stage

Washington. — Bare-legged musical comedies, sex plays, ticket scalpers, and last, but not least, federal admission taxes, are driving classical drama out of existence. William A. Brady, theatrical magnate, told the house ways and means committee.

Discounting the competition of movies and radio, the veteran producer insisted that the other combination has closed the great metropolitan centers to the spoken drama, which is making its last stand in "the sticks."

Producers of naughty-girl shows and risque pieces can and should be jailed, but the greatest relief will come in the repeal of the tax on theater tickets costing more than 50 cents, according to Brady.

Says U. S. Must Fight to Keep Foreign Trade

Chicago.—The course the United States should take to get its rightful share of world business in the face of the increased production and buying power of competitive nations was indicated by Dr. Julius Klein, director of foreign and domestic commerce. Doctor Klein spoke before the convention of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers at the Congress hotel. The convention closed with a series of department meetings.

It is imperative that the United States seek to maintain the advantage already gained in the Near East, in Latin-America and in all other areas by conserving the agency organizations already built up, Doctor Klein said.

League Members Expect Balkan Security Pact

Paris.—When the thirty-sixth meeting of the council of the League of Nations concluded here, it was apparently certain that the larger nations in the league had engaged to bring their powerful influence to bear for a system of regional security pacts in the Balkans in order to avoid further dangerous situations like the recent clash between Greece and Bulgaria.

The council wound up its meeting with general satisfaction for what it had accomplished. Several members took advantage of the opportunity to commend the Locarno treaties.

General Agnus, Veteran of Napoleon's Army, Is Dead

Baltimore, Md.—Gen. Felix Agnus, veteran of the army of Napoleon III and of the American Civil war and formerly publisher of the Baltimore American and the former Baltimore Star, died at his city home here. General Agnus, who was eighty-six years old, had been confined to his home for eight months. General Agnus served in Napoleon's zouaves in the war against Austria and under Garabaldi. He entered the American Civil war as a private in Duryea's New York zouaves.

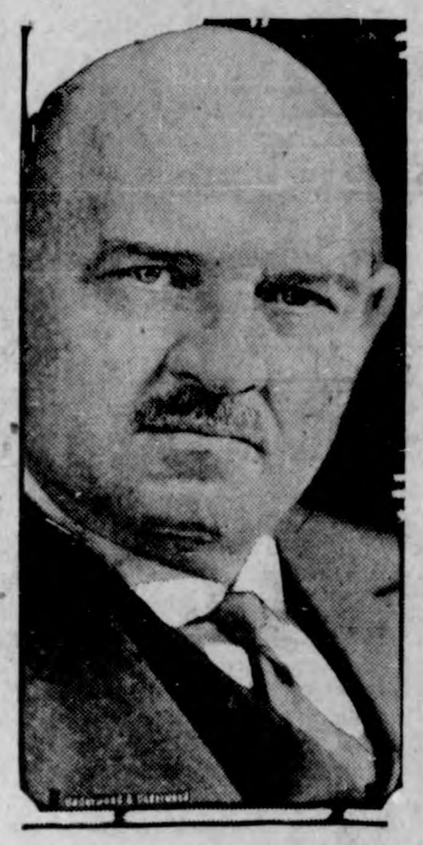
Proposes Ochsner Foundation

Philadelphia.—Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director of the American College of Surgeons, suggested before the clinical congress of the college that a department of research be founded to be known as the "Ochsner foundation of clinical research."

Italian Flyers Rescued

The Hague.—Two Italian flyers, who had attempted to cross Europe, were rescued from starvation when found on a lonely island in the Zuyder Zee.

GOV. H. L. WHITFIELD



An especially posed portrait of Gov. Henry L. Whitfield of Mississippi who appeared before the house ways and means committee in hearings relating to tax reduction.

NOT GUILTY, MITCHELL PLEA TO ARMY COURT

Colonel Denies Charges of Misconduct.

Washington.—Col. William Mitchell pleaded not guilty to charges of conduct contrary to good order and discipline.

Standing smiling before the army court-martial which is trying him he entered denials one by one to the charges and specifications as they were read off by the court.

The not-guilty plea constituted no denial of the statements that War department officials had been guilty of criminal and almost treasonable conduct in their administration of the air service, but merely that these statements do not constitute the breach of discipline which his accusers hold they do.

The hearing was marked by heated clashes between Representative Frank R. Reid of Illinois, chief counsel for Colonel Mitchell, and Col. Sherman Moreland, judge advocate general of the army and leader of the prosecution.

The last of the objections raised by the Mitchell counsel to the form of the charges and the manner of constituting the court were thrown out before Michell's plea was made.

Demands for a bill of particulars made by Representative Reid were denied by the court. Representative Reid contended that the charges were too vague. Colonel Moreland asserted that the bill of particulars was not called for in such a case as this and that the court-martial had no power to order one.

Bulgars Charge Greeks Pillaged and Looted Land

Sofia.—The retreating Greeks devoted themselves to pillaging and destroying property in the Bulgarian territory they were forced to abandon, alleged eye-witness' stories in all the Sofia newspapers charge. The evacuation is declared to have been completed.

Food and clothing, live stock, furniture and household utensils all suffered from the acquisitive or destructive tendencies of the invaders and houses in many cases were left by the looters with only bare walls remaining, it is charged.

Bandits Attack Armored Auto; Escape With $90,000

Buffalo, N. Y.—Six desperadoes attacked a Bank of Buffalo armored car, killed the driver, seriously wounded a guard and a messenger and escaped with $93,000. When the bank car stopped at the Bank of Buffalo entrance and bank employees began to remove the currency, two robbers who had been standing near the entrance opened fire. Two other gangsters began firing at the same time from the robbers' automobile, parked across the street. After shooting the three bank employees the bandits gathered up the money and fled in their car.

Rhinelander Disinherited for Marrying Miss Jones

New York.—Leonard Kip Rhinelander, youthful son of Philip Rhinelander, has been disinherited by his family following his marriage to Alice Beatrice Jones, daughter of a New Rochelle taxi driver, and his suit for annulment.

General Palmer to Retire

Washington.—Brig. Gen. John McA. Palmer has been relieved from active duty to await retirement on account of ill health. He was associated with General Pershing at general headquarters in France.

Coolidge Will Ask Farm Aid

Washington. — President Coolidge will ask some kind of farm legislation in his message to congress, it was learned. A law to facilitate co-operative marketing is a likely suggestion.

WRIGLEY'S

AFTER EVERY MEAL

affords benefit as well as pleasure.

Healthful exercise for the teeth and a spur to digestion. A long-lasting refreshment, soothing to nerves and stomach.

The Great American Sweetmeat, untouched by hands, full of flavor.

SEALED TIGHT KEPT RIGHT

FLORIDA

Needs 1,000,000 farmers. Land prices l
Ten crops averaged $300 an acre net inco annually over 5-year period. Climate healthf good schools and roads. Write for informat
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTUR
Tallahassee, Florida

Free Farm Building Helps

"Concrete Around the Home" tells in everyday language how to use concrete for building drives, walks, steps, porches, and other permanent improvements which every home needs. Complete instructions make it easy to estimate the materials and to mix, place, and finish the concrete for these improvements.

"Permanent Repairs on the Farm" tells you how to repair old buildings quickly and easily, and at low cost. The information on Concrete Barn Floors and Feeding Floors will help you add many a dollar to your net profits.

"Plans for Concrete Farm Buildings" contains supplies of blue prints, and shows you, step by step, how to put up Concrete Silos, Dairy Barns, Hog Houses, Milk Houses and many other forms of Concrete Construction.

Whether you are going to build a new building, or repair an old building, these free booklets will show you how to do the job for all time. Send for them today.

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION

111 West Washington Street
CHICAGO

A National Organization to Improve and Extend the Uses of Concrete

Offices in 30 Cities

STAND THEM ON THEIR HEADS

RAT-NIP

The one poison they can't resist. It gets them every time. Kills rats and mice quickly, positively and safely. A single tube has killed more than 100 rats in one night.

Simply spread on bread and put where rats can get it—they'll be dead in the morning.

Easy to use—your hands need never touch it.

In clean, screw-top metal tubes, 35 cents.

BUFFALO SPECIALTY CO.,
The LIQUID VENEER People
Buffalo, N. Y.

Near the geysers and hot springs Yellowstone park there are plants t remain green throughout the rigor a mountain winter.

Sure Relief

6 BELL-ANS
Hot water
Sure Relief

BELL-ANS
FOR INDIGESTION
25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

Cuticura
Loveliness
A Clear
Healthy Skin
Insured by Everyday
Use of Cuticura Soap

BATHE YOUR EYES
Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater.
Buy at your druggist's or
1163 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet

Prudence's Daughter

By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.
WNU Service

IN NEW YORK

SYNOPSIS—PART ONE—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, New York, Jerry (Geraldine) Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He admires her tremendously and she likes him. But Allerton gets a bit exhilarated, with unfortunate results. Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly. the story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Des Moines. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of Art and asks her parents to let her go to New York for study. With some misgivings they agree to her going. In New York Jerry makes her home with a Mrs. Delaney ("Mimi"), an actress, who, with Theresa, a painter, occupies the house. Jerry takes an immediate liking to Theresa, and the two seem likely to become fast friends.

CHAPTER III—Continued

—4—

She set herself briskly to unpacking r small bag, folding things neatly way in the small drawers of the chiffier. The two photographs in their ndsome frames, Prudence and Jerld, she placed conspicuously on the ssing table. And then she suddenly took up the picture of her mother, d looked at it intently, questioningly, most passionately. She shook her ad at last with sharp impatience, d placed it opposite that of her fater once more.

"I don't get you, Prudence," she id.

In her intense moments, Jerry rerred to her mother always as "Prudence," using the word not so much as name, but rather as a statement of rinciple, a code of worship, a creed of eligion. When she said, as she did ry often, "I do not get you, Prudence," she meant only that Prudence as a depth of philosophy she could ot fathom. It irritated her. If Prudence had been a scintillatingly brilant, intellectual woman, Jerry felt e would not have minded her inability to reach the innermost recesses f her mother's thought. Prudence as no such thing, Jerry knew it.

After her unpacking, sweetened and efreshed with a perfumed bath in her y tub, she ran up the dark stairway o the third floor, turned back and apped softly upon the door.

"Oh, d—n!" she heard, muttered ercely, from within the room. And en apologetically Theresa called, "I pilled the ink! Come in, Miss Harer, I can't get up for a minute. The lace is a mess. I've just had a scrap ith Mimi, and I'm a wreck. She anted to clean up before you came, nd I wouldn't let her, and we are oth furious."

Theresa was down on her knees riskly mopping up the ink with a esh towel. Jerry stood in the doorway, and looked about the room with ger girlish interest. If her studio ownstairs appeared small to her, this e she thought quite unendurably so. here was no rug on the floor, nor curain at the window. The couch was a umbled mass of blankets and wrinkled heets with a box of paints and half dozen magazines thrown upon it. he teacup was on the floor, its conents untasted. And there was a big easel turned to catch the best light. heresa, just getting to her feet again, ooked with amused eyes upon Jerry's rank inspection.

"Do—do you—"

"Uh," Theresa nodded. "Sleep here, ork here, eat here—die here, too, I ancy. Haven't made my bed in heaven nows when. Mimi used to come in to o it for me, and bothered me to eath, so I keep the door locked on her ow. If you hear her pounding to get , and me shouting for her to go away nd mind her own business, don't be larmed. It's a frequent occurrence. he place is a mess, Miss Harmer. I m almost ashamed of it myself."

She swept magazines, books and aints from a small straight chair and hoved it hospitably toward Jerry.

"Cigarette?"

"No, thanks."

Theresa lit one for herself nervously, ossing the burned match on the floor n a corner and tugging at the cigarette with a deep breath, almost gulping. She pulled off her smock.

"Excuse me a minute, and I'll wash y hands." As she washed, and then rushed back her dark tousled hair, hich she did not take time to comb, ut only fastened securely with additional pins, and scraped the paint from er skirt, she ran briskly on in the uick jerky fashion that Jerry found o fascinating.

"I don't usually work like this. I'm rying to get it finished—want it for n exhibition. I think it's rather good. he devil of it is that I have to dig long—for a meal ticket—while I'm rying to turn out something decent at he same time. Heaven knows I eat ittle enough—it shouldn't be hard to arn the kind of a living I usually live. o you like Italian cooking? Or rench? There are a dozen nice little laces within a block or two. Oh, and here's a wild little Russian place—ould you prefer that?"

"Oh, any place at all. I shall love ny of them, all of them for that matter—wherever you wish to go. I'm really ashamed to take you away from our work. I know you are only stopping to please me."

"Oh, I dare say it's a very good hing. Come to think of it, haven't had a real dinner in heaven knows when. I'm sure I'm hungry."

She drew a small modish hat snugly about her ears, swept a wave of dark powder across her face, touched her lips with a bit of rouge and said she was ready. As they made their way carefully down the dark and winding stairs, Mimi's silken voice drifted out to them from behind a closed door.

"Oh, you bad boy, I believe you're trying to make love to me!"

Theresa laughed. "Little fool," she said. "Come in any time you like, day or night, you'll get a dose of that from Mimi. She runs them in relays, like the six-day bicycle race. Lord knows where she gets them—there don't seem so many men to spare."

Theresa took her to a small, quiet, basement room, where they had a generous, quiet, Italian dinner. They ate in silence. Theresa was hungry, very tired, and Jerry was stirred and breathless. There were others in the dining room, mostly girls, smartly dressed, all thin, all weary-eyed, all smoking.

"Don't you know them?" Jerry asked. "I thought every one knew every one else—in the Village."

"I don't know anybody," said Theresa. "I used to be 'way up on the West side. I came down here to please Mimi. But I like it."

The days that followed were happy, dreamy, fascinating days for Jerry. Rhoda telephoned to her twice, with profuse and tender apologies for her neglect, and said she was coming to see her right away. But she did not come. Jerry spent a great deal of time with Theresa, but Theresa was always working, always tired to distraction. Mimi, although she continued as warmly affable and friendly as at first, had little time or inclination for pretty young students of art beneath her roof. She slept until noon every day, had callers to tea every afternoon, and went out with some one every night in the week.

Jerry made proper arrangements for her lessons, and was enrolled in one of the beginners' classes of Graves McDowell, who, having previously acquired a reputation, was now eking out a hard existence by instilling the rudiments of his profession into young aspirants. Jerry attended his classes with a nice regularity and promptitude, and patiently did her utmost to follow his instructions. He told her kindly that she was doing very well indeed, let her come and go as she liked, and paid as little attention to her as possible.

She bought an easel of the most elaborate design and arranged it prettily in her small studio, where it quite overshadowed the modest, plaything bits of furniture already there. And she painted a little every afternoon, pleasantly, comfortably, complacently, without any of the hectic excitement which throbbed about her.

Even with all that, she seemed to have a great deal of time at her disposal. On the fifth day of her calendar desolation, she telephoned to her Aunt Connie's residence in Englewood, hoping to thrill the household with the news of her presence, and joyously anticipating a merry week-end in the lovely suburb with a tender aunt, a friendly uncle, and two frolicsome young cousins. She was greeted with the cold information that the entire family had gone to Europe on a hasty business trip, and the maid left in charge of the house did not know when they planned to return. Jerry felt quite saddened and abused. She was sorry she had not sent word in advance of her coming. She was sure Aunt Connie would have waited for her, would have postponed any kind of a business trip to Europe for the sake of being an oasis in the desert for "Prudence's baby."

Left entirely to her own resources, she managed as best she could, reading a great deal, riding solemnly about town on the busses, visiting the shops. It was the climax of her loneliness when she went to the movies, alone. Finally, on a happy thought suggested by a timely advertisement, she rented a small piano and paid a fabulous sum to have it raised to the studio, where she gave it practically her entire floor space, shoving the easel ignominiously into the background.

Jerry was fond of music. She played the piano extremely well, and sang also with real feeling and much sweetness. She was beginning to wonder if perhaps she should not have chosen music in preference to painting as a career. There seemed to be so much drudgery about art, a thing she had not before remotely suspected.

Then, one afternoon, quite without warning, Rhoda La Faye ran in, caught her in both arms and kissed her a dozen times with fervent protestations of delight at seeing her. Rhoda was pale, with feverish spots of crimson burning in her cheeks.

"Come, get your hat," she said brightly. "I have finished the picture. Devereaux says it is very good."

While she talked, she rummaged carelessly through the boxes and drawers of Jerry's dressing-table, fishing out gloves and hats and veils, hurrying Jerry, and almost at once they were running downstairs together, laughing, hand in hand. Jerry's drooping spirits were soaring to the sky once more.

In striking contrast to the confusing untidiness of Theresa's studio, Jerry found Rhoda's immaculate to the very point of spotlessness.

"Oh, how tidy you are!" she cried, frankly amazed and bewildered by the speckless orderliness of it.

Rhoda laughed. "Oh, I am a perfect old maid, I know it, everyone says so. How Theresa can find her easel in that messy place of hers, I can't imagine. I couldn't work in such a chaos. I never pretend to touch a brush or a pencil until everything is apple-pie perfection. Coffee cup on the table, hair pin on the floor, handkerchief on the mantel—can't do a thing, I get the willies right away. Look, Angel-face, do you like the picture?"

She turned the easel about for Jerry to see the picture over which she had sweated her heart's blood. Jerry stood before it, awed, admiring. A curious thing it was, a narrow bit of city street, showing gray and grimy between high gray and grimy walls, with just two bits of flaming color—an inch of blue sky between two grays, and a scarlet geranium showing bravely in a sixth-story window.

"I—I think it is wonderful, Rhoda. It makes me feel—sorry, like crying. Does—it somehow make you think of Iowa?"

Rhoda laughed gaily. "It does not! Anything but!"

"Yes, but you never met my mother, did you?" Jerry asked, surprisingly, and Rhoda did not understand. The picture was New York, plain and unvarnished, and Jerry was lonely for Prudence.

"They say it really is good. Thank God it's finished! It's a competition you know—a year's scholarship, travel in Europe, everything! I wonder if Theresa is trying for it? Has she shown you her pictures, Jerry?"

"Nothing—not a thing," said Jerry. "She never asks me so much as to look at the easel when she is working."

"Perhaps she thinks you aren't interested. Ask her. She won't mind showing you. She has three or four exquisite things—not finished. She works on a dozen at once, as the mood strikes her. I can't do that—one thing at a time for me—and I eat it, and drink it, and breathe it, and sleep it, until it's over. That's why I'm such a wreck."

While she was preparing a dainty supper on her electric grill, with which she could really work culinary wonders, she explained the frenzied system of Art she was obliged to pursue.

While She Was Preparing a Dainty Supper on Her Electric Grill, She Explained the Frenzied System of Art She Was Obliged to Pursue.

"You can't make a living at real Art until you're old, and withered, and haven't any teeth," she declared. "I don't care how good you are, you can't make a decent living! Gee, you're lucky, Jerry, that you're not obliged to earn your bread and butter. You can pursue Art for its own sake, and that's all the fun there is in it. Otherwise, it's just grind, grind, grind, like digging ditches, or mining coal, or scrubbing floors. Well, anyhow, I'm one of the grinders. Haven't a cent but what I earn. So I peg along with illustrations, advertising, anything I can get on the side. And when I have enough to pay the rent in advance a few weeks, I jump into something like this, head over heels, trying to attach a few leaves to my wreath of laurel while I have a little hair to wear it on." She gave her brisk bobbed head a defiant toss as she spoke.

After their supper, deliciously cooked, charmingly served, they went uptown to a theater, and after a sandwich and hot chocolate at a corner drug store, returned home, luxuriously, like the plutocrat she insisted Jerry was, in a taxicab.

Jerry felt much better. For the first time, she was quite pleased with herself. She was glad she did not take Art with killing seriousness, as Theresa and Rhoda did. Why, those girls sat up, many times, night after night, until two and three o'clock in the morning, painting passionately away as though their very lives depended on it. There was no sense in such maddening immoderation. Jerry was grateful for her mental balance, her artistic equilibrium. Pictures were all very well, of course, but Jerry thanked heaven that she had been spared a passion that would surely be productive of weary, dark-circled eyes, twitching, nervous lips, and twisting nervous fingers!

She said something of that sort to Theresa one night. It was a night when Theresa, staggering away from her easel, had stumbled, fallen half-fainting to the floor. Mimi had pulled her up on the couch, given her a cup of the eternal tea, and then asked Jerry to sit with her a while, to keep her from working. Mimi herself had an engagement, and was just hurrying away.

When Jerry relieved herself of her opinion on art in general, Theresa looked at her somberly, with her great, dark, weary eyes.

"Didn't you ever sit up all night working over a thing you couldn't get just right?" she demanded.

"Never," said Jerry comfortably.

"Didn't you ever forget to stop for your dinner when you were especially interested in something?"

"Certainly not. I just put the brush down, and have my dinner, and then come back to it afterward—or the next morning—or whenever I get around to it."

"But sometimes you can't come back to it," objected Theresa. "You lose the feeling when you stop—you can't come back."

"You just imagine that," said Jerry pleasantly. "You shouldn't let yourself get so excited over things. You wear yourself all out for nothing. I can always come back to it when I am ready." And then she added, fairly, "Not, I must admit, that anything of mine is anything like yours or Rhoda's. Far from it! But I am only a beginner."

"That's what we all are," said Theresa wearily. "Just beginners. And so we shall be all our lives, until we die, and afterward, too, I fancy."

Jerry was beginning to feel a growing impatience with both girls, their intensity, their passionate nervousness, their ardent eagerness. She found it a little tiresome. They were always going about, looking at pictures, each other's, or somebody else's, and then arguing desperately, for hours at a time, over tones, and colors, and values. She found herself wishing there might come a time, just once, when they would sit down, deliberately, for tea, without hovering, poised on the edge of the chair, ready for flight at the first favorable moment.

Jerry thanked God for moderation with increasing fervor day by day. She attended her classes with nice regularity every morning, worked at her easel an hour or two every afternoon, and then she manicured her nails, had a cup of tea and a toasted muffin and went out for a bus ride.

* * * * * * *

She had been studying Art in New York for over six weeks when Rhoda swept in on her late one afternoon with the happy announcement that they were going to a party.

"Carter Blake's studio, over in Brooklyn," she explained gayly. "I haven't seen him in months. He just telephoned that he has signed a huge contract with International this very morning, and is having a wicked party to celebrate it. And he invited you, most particularly. He's a darling thing, and you'll adore him."

Jerry was properly thrilled, properly eager.

Now that Jerry has really got down to work, does she really like it? And what next?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Fifty-Fifty

It was pay day and the bookkeeper stood in the manager's office to claim extra pay for extra work.

"Mr. Grasp," he said, toying nervously with a piece of red tape, "during the last week I have been doing the work of the pay-roll clerk, who has been ill."

"Well," retorted Mr. Grasp, "what of it?"

"Why, this being pay day, sir," said the bookkeeper, "I thought it might be right to mention it."

"Quite right," said the manager. "Let me see, your salary is $40 and the pay-roll clerk's is $20."

"Yes, sir," replied the bookkeeper, beaming expectantly.

"Then," computed the manager, "working half the week for yourself entitles you to $20 and half the week for the pay-roll clerk entitles you to $10. Here it is."

American Colony

American Samoa, comprising the islands of Tutila, Aunuu and others, has an area of 57.9 square miles; population of 8,324, including 266 Americans. The capital is Pago Pago on the island of Tutila. This town is the most valuable harbor in the South Pacific. It was ceded in 1872 by the native king to the United States as a naval and coaling station. American Samoa is 4,160 miles from San Francisco. The natives are Christians and are regarded as the highest type of the Polynesian race. All of the land of the islands is privately owned. The chief product is cocoanuts. Fruits are also grown, but not exported.

Sedan $775, f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

MORE POWER!
MORE PULL!
MORE PEP!

Low-cost Transportation
Star Cars

PRICES: f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

COMMERCIAL CHASSIS	$425
ROADSTER	$525
TOURING	$525
COUPSTER	$595
COUPE	$675
COACH	$695
SEDAN	$775

DURANT MOTORS, Inc.
250 West 57th Street, New York
General Sales Dept.—1819 Broadway, New York
Dealers and Service Stations throughout the United States Canada and Mexico

PLANTS: Elizabeth, N. J. Lansing, Mich. Oakland, Cal. Toronto, Ont.

The man whose only thought is to contribute to the happiness of others is near sanctification.

Shave With Cuticura Soap

And double your razor efficiency as well as promote skin purity, skin comfort and skin health. No mug, no slimy soap, no germs, no waste, no irritation even when shaved twice daily. One soap for all uses—shaving, bathing and shampooing.—Advertisement.

If our neighbors would do things as we think they should, it would be much easier to love them.

Conquer Constipation with Yeast Foam!

For constipation try this: drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let stand for five minutes; stir with spoon; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate.

Do this regularly and your constipation—no matter of how long standing—will be a thing of the past! Yeast Foam is equally effective for indigestion, boils, pimples, lack of weight and strength.

Or, if you prefer, eat the yeast with a cracker or a piece of butter.

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 North Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health", also a Sample of Yeast Foam without obligation.
Name_____
Address_____
W. N. U.

Many a bull at the stock exchange is a bear at home.

Why Suffer Pain

from a cut or burn? Cole's Carbolisalve stops pain instantly and heals quickly without a scar. Keep it handy. All druggists, 30c and 60c, or J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

A man worries over his digestion and a woman over her complexion.

Green's August Flower
for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver
Relieves that feeling of having eaten unwisely. 30c & 90c bottles. All druggists.

'Chief'
Extra High-All Rubber Overshoe

JUST the shoe you have been looking for—the five-buckle height is added waterproof protection in mud and snowdrifts. There's cozy warmth in the thick, fleece lining. No need to scrape and injure the uppers—they're cleaned in a jiffy under hose or pump. No odors or soil are brought into the house.

'Nebraska' is the same shoe in a four buckle height.

'Caboose'—called the "World's Best Work Rubber" because it actually outwears two and three pairs of ordinary rubbers. The biggest rubber value on the market—built like all Converse Shoes for extra wear. Look for the 'Big C' on the sole—it will mean a real saving this winter.

Ask your local dealer

CONVERSE RUBBER SHOE CO., 618 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
Factory: Malden, Mass.

See the BIG "C" CONVERSE LINE
Rubber Footwear

LOOK FOR THE WHITE TOP BAND

Dairy Cow Efficient Food Producer

Properly built stalls cut down work and

With increasing rentals and values of farm lands, dairy farming is rapidly replacing other types of live stock farming. A dairy cow producing 8,000 pounds of milk a year furnishes 1,000 pounds of dry matter, all of which is edible and digestible. A two year old steer weighing between 1,200 and 1,300 pounds furnishes about 500 pounds of dry matter, not all of which can be used for food. In other words a fairly good producing dairy cow furnishes twice as much edible dry matter in one year as a good two year old steer when he is killed for meat. A cow can be kept for additional years of service, while to replace the steer, another animal must be fed for a period of two years.

The United States consumption of milk per capita has increased from 42 gallons of whole milk in 1918 to more than 54 gallons in 1925.

With growing acceptance of milk as a food has come an increasing knowledge of the proper care of milk on the farm. Because odors from foods and animals in the cow stable are easily taken up by milk, injuring its flavor, they must not come in contact with the milk. Removal of the milk from the stable as soon as possible reduces the amount of dust and dirt exposed to it and keeps down the bacterial growth in the milk.

Bacteria increase rapidly in warm milk causing it to sour quickly. Removal of the animal heat from freshly drawn milk by lowering the temperature to that of cold well water (approximately 60° F.) greatly aids in preventing bacterial growth. A well lighted, well ventilated milk house, not too close to the stable, is also very helpful.

Cleanliness in the stable is vitally necessary. The stall platform should be just long enough for the cow to stand comfortably without room to spare; otherwise, the cow will become dirty from droppings when she lies down. The gutter should be wide and deep. A good gutter is 16 inches to 18 inches in width and 9 or 10 inches below the platform. Bedding should be clean and plenteous.

© Underwood & Underwood

Keep the utensils clean.

Long hair on the flanks, udders and tail above the switch of the dairy cow should be removed at regular intervals. Removing this long hair over the [illegible] places dirt will [illegible] fall into the milk pail during milking. Keeping the hair short [illegible] lessens of the [illegible] much less dirt will enter the milk. Brushing should never be neglected. It removes loose particles adhering to the body. When the hair is short, a damp cloth [illegible] is easy and important aid in securing clean milk.

It is generally recognized that most of the bacterial food in milk finds its source in dirt clinging to the cow and dropping into the pail during milking time. Simple precautions will practically eliminate this source of bacterial growth and dairymen find themselves well repaid for the little time necessary in taking such precautions.

Copyright 1925 News Bureau of Animal Husbandry

POOR BIRDS CUT PROFIT

Those Which Are Slow To Mature And Low In Vitality Need Culling

Percent production as well as the number of eggs should be considered says J. H. Bardsley, extension specialist in poultry husbandry, Iowa State College. The weak, slow maturing birds of low vitality consume feed and take up room which results in lower production for the entire flock.

Low vitality birds can easily be identified. Their heads are narrow between the eyes and shallow from the top of the head to the base of the beak. The eyes are usually dull and sunken. The breast is shallow and the back, narrow all the way along. The bird usually stands with its feathers ruffled and its head is drawn back.

If these birds are of sufficient size and in good healthy condition they should be sold on the market for eating purposes.

A sensible human being would not lay $150 out on the back porch without looking after it. Yet that's about what happens when a housewife lets her $150 washing machine go without oiling it.

GOLDEN EAGLE CAPTURED BY RENWICK HUNTERS

While out hunting last Thursday, Tom Nixon, Dr. Long and M. B. Richardson captured a golden eagle. The bird had one wing crippled and was unable to fly. The boys brought the bird to town and for several days it was on display at Richardson's hardware store, attracting considerable attention.

Eagles are a scarce bird in this region and there was considerable argument as to what kind this one was. We believe it to be a young female golden eagle.

Mr. Nixon intends to have the bird mounted.—Renwick Times.

THE HEN OR THE EGG?

The old riddle, "Which came first, the hen or the egg," has been settled, Prof. Gilbert N. Houser of the University of Iowa believes, in favor of the egg. He points out that any breed of chickens could scarcely have sprang full-grown, but must have come from the egg of some allied stock.

Someone predicts that it will be only a few years until speed cops will be working in the clouds controlling aerial traffic. Perhaps then the old fashioned man who still drives an auto will be able to find a place to park.

Glenna to Try Again

The photograph shows Glenna Collett, who recently won the woman's golf championship of France and finished second to Joyce Wethered in the English title match, and who declares her intention of returning to England for another attempt.

Famous Pleasure Spot of English Monarchs

Many kings have done their part to make Hampton court what it is today, asserts a writer in John O'London's Weekly. Wolsey began it all, and it is interesting to learn that when he walked in his park he liked to be left to his meditations. He would allow no servant to come near him; his order was that they should keep as far from him "as one might shoot an arrow." When Henry came into possession he at once extended the gardens, planted quickset hedges, and bought apple and pear saplings.

Hentzner described the gardens in Elizabeth's reign as "most pleasant," adding that he "saw rosemary, so planted and nailed to the walls as to cover them entirely, which is a method exceedingly common in England." Charles I formed lakes. Charles II planted more than two hundred elms and as many lime trees. William III in his turn, brought in the note of Dutch formality with yew, box, and holly sculptured into bird and animal shapes or arranged to represent his royal initials; he formed rectilinear canals and did strange things with terrace and balcony, and fountains better designed (said Horace Walpole) "to wet the unwary than to refresh the panting spectator." Happily, nearly everything he did was afterward undone.

Tools of Insect World Surpass Those of Man

Most of the articles in that great chest of tools that man's inventive genius has contrived were invented by the insect world before he fashioned the first, writes Ernest Bade, Ph. D., in Popular Science Monthly. Moreover, man's tools are usually inferior in precision and versatility.

Saw, pliers, brushes, augers, hooks, hammers, knives, lancets—all of these and yet other tools are in the insects' remarkable chest. Nature attached them to the insects' bodies—to the legs, to the head, to the abdomen, wherever they were needed. They are made of chitin, a material that, unlike the metal tools of man, resists the action of water and the milder acids. The insect tool chest is truly complete, one of its wonders being the closeness of the resemblance of the articles it contains to the tools that man has been so long in fashioning.

The Word "Jovial"

The word "jovial" conceals the name of Jupiter, or Jove, according to the Washington Post. A "jovial" person is theoretically, at least, a person born under the influence of the planet Jupiter, or Jove.

The planet was supposed to be the most joyful of all the planets to be born under, just as Saturn is the least joyful.

Ted Lyons is Making Good

Photograph of Ted Lyons, youthful pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, who, sporting authorities declare, is to become one of the outstanding figures in the American league. He is the ideal build for a pitcher, being six feet tall and weighing 175 pounds. He is a right-hander with an easy delivery.

IDLE HOUR THEATRE NEWS.

For Saturday night, Nov. 7, we are showing a King Baggot production. The Gaiety Girl, starring Mary Philbin. It's a romance of charm—a daring of harm. And it's full of the kind of adventure that pleases everybody. Don't fail to see it.

COMING—"The Ten Commandments, to be shown here next week on Friday and Saturday, November 13 and 14. The BIG picture you all have been waiting for.

COMING—The Girl Of The Limberlost. Another big feature production, here Friday and Saturday, November 27 and 28.

Good pictures and good music at all Idle Hour programs

A "kiss proof rouge" is being advertised. But we bet that won't be encugh to keep the boys from getting a kiss.

Even so early as this, Christmas shopping is beginning to sneak up on us with stealthy tread.

Blouses Listen In on New Fall Styles

The smart blouse pictured has a summery look, but, with a single change, it might pass, without criticism, in a procession of fall styles. If its sleeves were long it would embody several earmarks of the new modes. These may be summed up in the plain color of crepe chosen for it and by the embroidered, cross-bar pattern, which contributes an all-over design in two colors. The neck treatment and the tie are also "among those present" in the fall modes. As pictured, it is made of buff-colored crepe, cross-bars in brown and white silk, brown crepe tie with white monogram, and is a charming affair for late summer wear. Developed in flannel or crepe, with long sleeves, it will take its responsible place in the winter wardrobe. Striped and plain flannels might be combined in this model and there are many color combinations to choose from.

LADIES AID BAZAR NOV. 19

Menu

Oyster Stew, with crackers	20c
Hot Chicken Sandwiches	10c
Hot Beef Sandwiches	05c
Hot Baked Beans	05c
Hot Scalloped Potatoes	05c
Hot Fresh Dougnuts, 2 for	05c
Hot Coffee	05c
Pie, per cut	05c
Cake, per piece	05c

Come and order what you wish, from 2:00 P. M. until 8:00 P. M. at the Parish House.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

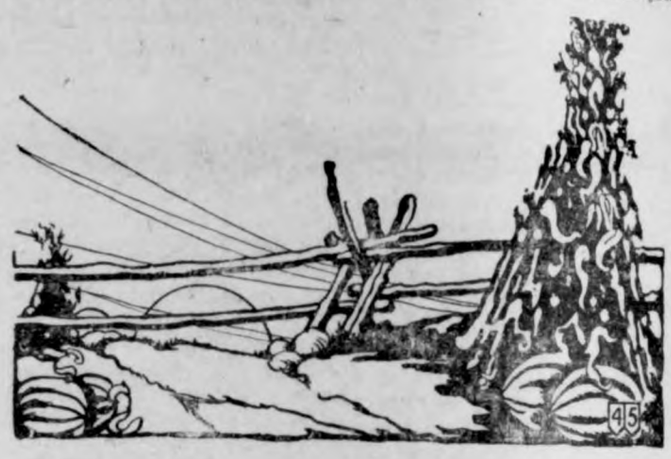
SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP

Idle Hour

Ten Commandments

November 13 and 14



THE REWARD

At harvest time the farmer receives reward for his efforts. The returns ae usually in proportion to the care and skill with which the crop has been tended.

The harvest time of life comes to all. By saving now you can be assured of a bountiful harvest later on. Independence and comfort for old age will be your reward. Store your savings here.

First National Bank.
KLEMME. IOWA.

Plenty of warmth and style in these Overcoats

Rich coloring, warm durable fabrics with a wealth of style. Good looks and performance distinguish these Overcoats from ordinary garments.

Here you'll find great variety—every good style is represented. At PATTON'S you pay no premium for style in your Overcoat. Come in and enjoy a look at the entire line.

$22.50 $35 $45

Patton Brothers Co.

Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY, IOWA

For pen or typewriter
HAMMERMILL
BOND
Stationery is Equally Satisfactory
We have a complete line of samples

Only high grade paper goes into each job we print

The cost is no greater to you--

Why patronize city printers when you can get it here, often for less money?

Times Print Shop

Sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop.

LOST—A ladies watch. Finder return to Mrs. Ing. Lauritsen. 1tc

Dr. George Zinn was a business caller in Goodell last Wednesday.

MASQUERADE BALL at Belmond Friday eve., Nov. 6, music by Swanee River Entertainers. Everybody welcome. 1wp

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, November 5, 1925

EGGS (trade)	.42
EGGS (cash)	.41
HEAVY HENS	.17
LIGHT HENS	.13
STANDARD SPRINGS	.17
LEGHORN SPRINGS	.13
DUCKS	.12
OLD ROOSTERS	.07
GEESE	.08
BUTTERFAT	.53
BUTTER (Klemme Creamery)	.53
SHELLED CORN	.60
WHEAT	$1.45
OATS	.30
BARLEY	.50—.55
RYE	.65—.70
HOGS (Top)	$11.60

DR. R. E. PORTER
CHIROPRACTOR

..Every Day — Open Evenings..
Office at John Lieuwen Residence

Phone 191 Belmond, Iowa.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!

Pavey's
STORMIZING SHOP

Mrs. Aaron Greimann was visiting at Mason City yesterday.

FOR SALE—Scotch Collie pups. Wm. Ax. 2wc

Frank Gruetzmacher drove over to Britt Monday on business.

HARD COAL—Last car load nut size Hard Coal here soon, at the old price. Order now. W. F. Lau. 1tc

Mrs. Hattie Lanahan visited with her daughter and her parents at Clarion, Sunday.

FOR SALE—Globe range, used 3 months, as good as new. Ing. Lauritsen, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

Grandma Fuller is visiting out at the Albert Fuller home for a few weeks.

MAKE HENS LAY more eggs by feeding them PRO-LAC, we sell it. E. F. Jacobs. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Ahrenkeil and son, of Goodell were visiting Klemme relatives Sunday.

Sand Customers Notice

Please pay your sand bills as soon as possible. Wm. Stille. 2wp

Mr. Geo. Griggs, of Goodell, was a business caller at the Times Office Monday.

Rev. A. W. Gauger drove to Rudd this morning for a visit at the home of his sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Keraus drove to Des Moines Sunday morning, returning to Klemme Tuesday evening.

NOTICE—No trespassing, hunting or trapping allowed on my land without permission. Albert Johnson. Klemme, Iowa. 1wp

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and son, Buster, had an oyster supper at the R. W. Elder home Tuesday evening.

FOR SALE—Buckwheat, bulk or 10 and 20 lb. sacks. Leave orders at Kluckhohn's store. Karl Krause. 1tc.

Wellemeyer has moved his beauty parlor to the main floor as he intends to have his display of toys on the balcony.

Exhibition Cockerels for sale. Payne's win, weigh, and lay kind. Single Comb Rhode Island Red. Mrs. John Josten. tfc

Ben Coobs and family moved into the Tom Blank property Friday. This is the house located across the street east of Blank's.

FOR SALE—S. C. W. Leghorn Cockerels. Hollywood Egg Basket strain. Rufus Steffen, Kanawha mail, Britt phone. 2wp

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Mrs. J. N. Day and Mrs. Gauger will be hostesses at the next meeting of the ladies aid on November 12th at the Parish House.

LAXACOLD—A Laxative tablet treatment for Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Headaches and Neurolgia. Sold at Wilson's Pharmacy. 2wc

Dows have been having an epidemic of scarlet fever but it is now reported to be under control and no new cases developing.

School teachers! Get your construction paper at the Times Office. 9x12 sheets, 16 colors, package of 52 sheets for 25c. 1tc

Sheriff Peck Hanson, of Garner, was a business caller in Klemme last Friday and found time to come in the Times office and "gas" with Ye Editor.

Reports are that Mrs. Lloyd Carpenter's condition is greatly improved and that she will soon be able to return home from the hospital at Cherokee.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

Aaron Greimann informs us that Paul Stille was the lucky man to have the key to unlock the radio padlock, so he is the owner of the radio Aaron gave away.

LAXACOLD—A Laxative tablet treatment for Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Headache and Neurolgia. Sold at Wilson's Pharmacy. 2wc

Return Bake Sale Dishes to J. N. Day store so owners may call for same. Owner's name was placed on bottom of each dish. Please return soon. Ladies Aid Society. 1tc

The Misses Sadie Frohling and Iris Trumbell of Belmond visited for several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell, returning to Belmond last Thursday evening.

MAKE HENS LAY

Feed your poultry PRO-LAC Egg Mash and watch the results. You'll be satisfied. Sold by E. F. Jacobs. 1tc

BASKET SOCIAL—Thursday, Nov 12th at District No. 2, Liberty Township. Everybody come and have a good time. Sophia Katter, teacher. 1wc

At the Ladies Aid Bazar at the Parish House on Thursday, Nov. 19, a lunch will be served all afternoon and evening. Menu published elsewhere in this issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Waterman and daughter, Marian, and Mrs. Mary Waterman drove to Swea City Saturday evening for a visit at the T. F. Mitchell home Sunday.

A. G. Koerner is now the owner of the Klemme Hotel business, and the past few days has been doing a lot of work cleaning it up and getting it put in good shape.

FOR SALE—P. B. Chester White boars of the smooth, stretchy type, the best I have offered for sale. New blood lines for old customers, cholera immune. Erith Cook, Kanawha phone and mail. 4wc

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Sampson and their daughter arrived in Klemme yesterday morning from Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Sampson had been at Fort Atkinson for several months.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

Miss Luella Fiero spent Sunday at Mason City visiting with her sister. Her little niece also celebrated her third birthday on that day and Miss Fiero got in on the birthday cake.

Word received from Harold Gruetzmacher, who is coach at the Tekamah, Nebraska school this year carries the information that his foot ball team has so far been undefeated in the six games they played.

Mrs. Clarence Kluckhohn entertained a number of ladies at her home last Friday afternoon to a quilt sewing bee. A delicious lunch was served to the ladies after sewing. All report a good time.

Don't forget the Ladies Aid Bazar on Thursday, Nov. 19th. This is your opportunity to purchase some mighty fine Christmas gifts and at the same time you are spending your money for a good cause.

FOR SALE, Big type Poland China Boars, March farrowing, weigh over 200 lbs. sired by the sire of The Progresive. Cholera immune. Farm 4 miles north of Meservey. Gottlieb Lauster, Thornton, Iowa. 4tp

The Recreation Club had a surprise wedding anniversary party on Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman last Friday evening. The evening was spent playing cards after which a delicious lunch was served. All report a fine time.

Wallace Pavey told us the other day that he had fitted up six corn picking machines with Ford engines the past two weeks. There are a large number of pickers in this community and the power driven machines seem to give real satisfaction. Wallace turns out all the iron work right in his shop.

Miss Blanche Gimer was eleven years old Saturday, and to make the event more interesting a birthday party was planned to which a number of her little friends were invited as well as three of the grade teachers. Reports are that the party was a wonderful success and that all had a fine time.

The first day of the month brought a change of weather and Monday continued fair and warmer with the next day cloudy with some rain in the evening. The weather is all muddled up and don't seem to be in a position to get settled. Anyway it isn't feezing weather at this writing and prospects are for a warmer month than was October.

Clarence Elder, acompanied by three Garner boys, John Baggs, Sam Cataldo and Kenneth Heddens, drove up from Ames Saturday afternoon for a visit with home folks over the week end. Fred Arnold did not come home with the boys as Saturday he was playing in the Ames band at the Missouri football game.

A hole was dug in the street just south of the city hall to determine what was the matter with the sewer at that particular point. It was found that the sewer had a "hump" in it made in order to get around a tile drain on the same level. The city dads are going after the sewer engineer now to get the thing fixed up right without spending any town money as the sewer was to be a first class job and this little mistake must be paid for.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day and son, Dorance, and Miss Mabel Smith, all drove to Mason City Sunday for a visit with John's sister, Mrs. John Baumgartner, who is still in the hospital. They were pleasantly surprised to find Mrs. Baumgartner was able to sit up in bed and that she is beginning to gain strength. Mrs. Baumgartner has been ill for nearly two months at the hospital. Her many Klemme friends will be pleased to hear that she is on the road to recovery.

Some officials of the Central States Electric Co. were in town today making a survey in order to anticipate any increased in use of electricity, especially along power lines so that they may plan and build adequately for future needs. One of the fine new improvements of the company is a power dam at Iowa Falls which will soon be completed. The Company seems to be doing all in their power to render perfect service.

That the study of law leads to many seats of honor besides those on the judicial bench is indicated by Paul P. Harris, graduate of the University of Iowa college of law. He is the founder of Rotary, organization of business and professional men including thousands of the country's leaders. Among the other Iowa law graduates are six of Iowa's eleven congressmen.

Alcohol

We now have on hand a large supply of RADIATOR ALCOHOL for your car.

Let us take care of your Radiator this fall and winter. We will test it for you free as often as you wish.

For leaky Radiators try our Beeches Radiator Cement—it stops the leaks.

Winter Oil

Let us drain your crankcase today and re-fill with the proper grade of oil for winter driving. Free crank case service—you pay only for the oil.

We Are Glad To Serve You at the

Standard Service Station
W. M. KIRKWOOD, Prop.
Klemme, Iowa.

COLD WEATHER Footwear--

We have an unusually fine line of footwea for Cold Weather. Our line is bigger and better than ever this year, and the low prices we quote will surprise you and will save you money by buying here.

OVERSHOES—ALL STYLES

Our line of Overshoes for Men, Women and Children is complete. We have them in all sizes and from one to six buckle styles.

ALL RUBBER OVERSHOES

All-rubber style overshoes, especially adapted for outdoor work and about the farm yard where a waterproof shoe is needed, all buckle styles and lace-boot styles.

RUBBERS and BOOTS

We carry a full line of Rubbers for every member of the family. A full line of high grade rubber boots here.

WARM HOSIERY

Come here if you want heavy, warm hosiery for any member of the family. We have them at right prices.

SHOES!

All kinds of good warm shoes here for every member of the family. An especially fine line of high-tops for school children.

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Get Away From That Grouchy Feeling-- Eat More

Sauerkraut!

SAUER-KRAUT—That healthful food you all like so well—We are getting a fresh supply of SAUERKRAUT which comes in 10 gallon kegs, a most convenient family size and an economical way to purchase it.

Get your supply of this fresh choice Sauerkraut.

OYSTERS? Sure we have them fresh every day.

We are always glad to serve you.

Klemme Meat Market

Who Is Your Benefactor?

Is the Cream Station Operator who pays you a discount of 2, 4 or 6 cents per pound for your cream the one you should feel grateful to, or is the creamery that maintains FAIR PRICES the ONE to whom you should have a kindly feeling?

This Creamery stands for a square deal and fair prices for every cream producer in this vicinity——we pay taxes to help support local institutons——our money is invested here. We are, in fact, the balance wheel that keeps the cream market from declining, below market prices.

How about the centralizer? How much taxes are paid by the city centralizers in Klemme? How often do they "kick in" on local projects requiring support? How much do you suppose it has cost the cream producers in this vicinity in actual cash for the privilege of patronizing an institution with no direct interests here except the profits that can be made on our cream producers, instead of giving them the last cent coming to them as does this creamery?

IT PAYS IN DOLLARS AND CENTS TO PATRONIZE A HOME INDUSTRY.

Klemme Co-Op. Creamery Co.

Piles Disappear
Peterson's Ointment

"Please let me tell you," says Peterson, "that for instant relief from the misery of blind, bleeding or itching piles, there is nothing so good as Peterson's Ointment, as thousands have testified." Best for old sores and itching skin. All druggists, 60 cents.

Good Since 1896 !
Little
Polly
Brooms

Such a long period of popularity means that LITTLE POLLY BROOMS must have been made of superior quality broom corn all these years.

Other wise housewives the country over would not have continued to prefer LITTLE POLLY. Today, it's even better than ever!

At All Good Grocers

Harrah & Stewart Broom Mfg. Co.,
Des Moines, Ia.

FAMOUS 'COAST TO COAST' MIRACO GUARANTEED
RADIO'S FACTORY PRICES SAVE 1/3 TO 1/2
GET SPECIAL OFFER!
Users everywhere report Miraco Radios get programs coast to coast on loud speaker; outperform sets three times as costly. Many hear foreign countries. Radio's most amazing values in guaranteed factory-built, factory-tested long distance sets—let testimony of users convince you.
Powerful New Multi-tube Miraco gets long distance on loud speaker. Set, ONLY $27.35 retail
FREE! Literature on latest improved 1 to 5 tube models, new low prices, testimony of users and SPECIAL OFFER. Write.
MIRACO RADIO GETS 'EM COAST TO COAST
AGENTS DEALERS Write!
MIDWEST RADIO CORP'N
Pioneer Builders of Sets
530-C E. 8th St., Cincinnati, Ohio

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

A milliner must also be paid for what she knows—not put a yellow ribbon on a green hat.

"DIAMOND DYE" ANY GARMENT, DRAPERY

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings—everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Study will really swell the head—especially over the eyes.

Did you ever have a pair of soles outlast the uppers? If not, you have never worn USKIDE Soles. People write that they can't wear USKIDE out. It is the Wonder Sole for Wear! Made by the world's largest rubber manufacturer, the United States Rubber Company. Comfortable, healthful, waterproof, good-looking. Tell your repairman to put USKIDE Soles on your shoes. Buy new shoes with USKIDE Soles. USKIDE will cut your shoe bills down. Get genuine USKIDE. The name is on the sole.—Adv.

Nothing spreads so fast as new slang in a little town.

Lame, Tired, Achy?

Are you tired, lame, achy—worried with backache? Do you suffer sharp pains, headaches, dizziness and disturbing bladder irregularities? Perhaps your kidneys need attention. When the kidneys fail to properly filter the blood, body impurities accumulate and cause poisoning of the whole system. Such a condition may lead to serious sickness. Don't neglect it! If you suspect your kidneys, why not give Doan's Pills a trial? Doan's have been used successfully over thirty-five years—are recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

J. A. Haley, auctioneer, Prairie Ave., Clarion, Ia., says: "My back ached and was so lame at times it was hard for me to do any stooping or lifting work. My kidneys acted too often, especially at night. I used Doan's Pills and they strengthened my back and put my kidneys in good shape."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c
STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

WHY SHOULD ANYONE SUFFER WITH INDIGESTION OR ANY STOMACH MISERY?

If you want to fix up your dyspeptic, out of order stomach so that you can relish what you eat with not the least bit of after distress, do what tens of thousands of people have already done.

Getting rid of gas, bloating, belching, heaviness and that feeling of near suffocation isn't such a hard matter as you may think—You've been getting hold of the wrong medicine—that's all.

But better late than never—ask your druggist for a bottle of Daré's Mentha Pepsin—a real stomach medicine and a very pleasant one. For acute indigestion one or two doses is enough, but when the trouble is chronic, two or three bottles may be needed to put your disordered stomach in good healthy condition and make life worth living.

Making a start is the main thing, so why not get one bottle today with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't help you the purchase price will be returned.

Riches often fly away from the honest man and light on the perch erected by the other fellow.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83

"No girl or woman should 'purge' and 'physic' herself every few days. This is very injurious. Besides, it isn't necessary."
—DR. CALDWELL

Tells Girls and Women to Avoid "Physics"

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many women had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, sallow skin, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every day or two was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

DELAWARE LEGION ELECTS SYLVESTER

Delaware is nautical by the necessity of things. With its river and its bay and the ocean, one can easily imagine the entirety of its narrow strip of territory as being thoroughly saturated with the influence of the sea.

Neptune, should he be met walking upon the beach, would probably be recognized there as quickly as Uncle Sam. Or perhaps Uncle Sam, to the Delawarean's mind, is a sort of trident-bearing sea-god himself.

It is the most natural thing in the world, then, that American Legionnaires of this sea-dominated state should turn to the navy and select a gob for their head for 1925-1926. Earl Sylvester of Harrington is the man upon whom their choice fell.

Mr. Sylvester enlisted in the United States navy on November 14, 1917, as an apprentice seaman. He was discharged on January 29, 1919, as an electrician, first class.

Earl Sylvester.

A charter member of Harrington post, No. 7, of the Legion in his home town, Commander Sylvester had been its adjutant since its organization in 1919. He was also its service officer.

He served as a delegate to the national convention at Kansas City in 1921; he was a member of the state executive committee in 1922, and a department vice commander in 1924. He was also local chairman of the campaign for the Legion's $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war.

Mr. Sylvester is a chief clerk in the office of the supervisor of telegraph and signals of the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. He entered the service of the Pennsylvania in 1911.

Activities of Fidac During the Past Year

During the past year considerable progress has been made in assuring the former service men of the World war a voice in deciding questions of peace and war, according to a report from international headquarters of Fidac at Paris which has been received by national headquarters of the American Legion.

Representation at the fifth arms conference at Geneva, closer co-operation with the League of Nations, addition of a woman's auxiliary and of a number of new member associations and work in ascertaining public opinion in allied and former enemy countries, especially following the election of Von Hindenburg as president of Germany, are among the accomplishments set forth.

Fidac advocated the calling of a fifth arms conference. The conference was held at Geneva last May. Fidac was by invitation officially represented at the conference.

The organization was asked by the League of Nations to assist in selecting a veteran to represent former service men in the information section of the league.

When Field Marshal von Hindenburg was elected president of the German republic, the permanent committee on propaganda of Fidac took up an investigation as to the public reaction to his election in both allied and former enemy countries. Their report contributed to lessen anxiety felt in certain places as to the possible effects of the election.

Two French and four Polish veterans' associations, with a combined membership of 580,000, were admitted to membership. Plans for the formation of a woman's auxiliary to Fidac occupied much thought during the year.

Deeds 160-Acre Farm to American Legionnaires

A freak use of the law to prevent mortgaged property from falling into the hands of creditors was resorted to by a resident of Iowa, who deeded a 160-acre farm to the 700,000 American Legionnaires in the country.

The moiety conveyed to each member of the Legion was infinitesimal while the expense to each of them in executing, acknowledging and recording instruments of conveyance would several times exceed the value of the property. The court held the deed void but not criminal.

MRS. STILLMAN SUES BANKER FOR DIVORCE

Infidelity Is Charged by New York Woman—Husband Denies Allegations.

New York.—Mrs. Anne U. Stillman has at last begun a fight to win her freedom from James A. Stillman.

Summons and complaint in an action for divorce on statutory grounds were served on the banker more than a month ago, it was learned.

In taking the offensive against her estranged but not divorced husband, Mrs. Stillman will use against Mr. Stillman the evidence which she brought out during his vain effort to divorce her and illegitimatize Guy Stillman as the son of Fred K. Beauvais, French-Canadian Indian guide. It was said that no witnesses might be called, the plaintiff introducing merely a certified copy of the record of the famous suit.

Mrs. Stillman was secluded in her home at Grande Anse, Quebec, with the nearest telephone fifty miles distant.

The action will be tried in Westchester county.

Mr. Stillman, it was said, has entered an answer to his wife's complaint, containing the usual denial of the allegations set up.

Fighting her husband's action five years ago, after a somewhat belated start, Mrs. Stillman met the banker's attack by setting up an affirmative defense. In her affidavit she charged that Mr. Stillman had misconducted himself with Mrs. Florence H. Leeds and that Jay Ward Leeds, then a baby of about the same age as Guy, was the banker's son.

Mrs. Anne U. Stillman.

Mrs. Leeds' real name, charged Mrs. Stillman, was Florence Lawlor, who had left a Broadway show for sudden affluence.

The issue of Stillman vs. Stillman, which seemed ended two weeks ago, when the last costs were settled, was launched by Mr. Stillman on July 18, 1920. During the long litigation the one-time president of the National City bank has paid alimony of $90,000 a year to his wife and expended in addition hundreds of thousands of dollars.

U. S. to Ask France to Pay for Damascus Losses

Washington.—Protection for American lives and property in Damascus and all parts of Syria has been asked of the French government in representations made by Ambassador Herrick in Paris, it was learned here.

It was also hinted in official circles here that as soon as a statement of the losses suffered by Americans during the bombardment of Damascus by the French are sent to this country, reparation for the damage done will be asked of the French government.

Reports received here disclose that French nationals were the only people warned of the approaching bombardment.

Anti-Fascist Mob Routed by Police in New York

New York.—Police reserves repelled an attack by a mob of 400 persons, said to be members of the Anti-Fascist Alliance of North America, upon the Hotel Pennsylvania where 600 members of the Italian Fascist League of North America were holding a dinner.

The attackers were driven back from the hotel area by 250 policemen and detectives.

Beggs Left $40,000,000 to His Grandchildren

Milwaukee. — With the exception of a few specific bequests, the entire $40,000,000 fortune of the late John I. Beggs, Milwaukee traction magnate, is bequeathed in trust to the children of his daughter, Mrs. Richard McCulloch, St. Louis, Mo., it was announced at the office of the executor of the will here. Mrs. McCulloch has three children.

Memorial for Dead Chaplains

New York.—A national memorial for the 23 army chaplains who died during the war will be erected on Governor's Island, with Chaplain Thomas E. Swan and women's clubs in charge of plans.

Fight Exchange Enlargement

New York.—A committee has been appointed by members of the stock exchange to request all members to vote against the board of governors' proposal to create 25 new seats.

Community Building

Up-to-Date School Is Vital to Community

Every patron of the public school system owes an obligation to that system. If improvement in the schools is not keeping pace with progress in industry, in farm machinery; in general transportation, including roads, type of vehicles, and the like, there is something wanting in the school system, we may be sure. Even though it may be possible to set forth on paper measurable and tangible progress year by year, improvement must proceed continuously and school officials and patrons will be wise to form the habit of looking backward over a period of five or ten years to assure themselves that improvement in school administration and practice parallels that in other fields. A bulletin issued by the county board of education of Wilson county, N. C., recently received in the bureau of education, Department of the Interior, represents a fine piece of educational publicity. It is an account of progress from the school officials to the school patrons. It shows in pictures and in other ways the changes that have taken place in the schools of the county during the ten-year period. Among other accomplishments the number of schools has been reduced from 57 to 17; school attendance has increased 64 per cent, while the investment in school property is nearly twenty times as great in 1924 as in 1914. One-fifth of the children are transported to school in auto trucks and 17 handsome buildings replace the "shacks" of former days.

It is apparent that progress of this kind representing improvement in roads, in school organization, in appearance and adaptability of school buildings, cannot be effectively exhibited in an annual report. If, however, a five or ten-year period passes and no progress is noticeable, interested citizens have reason to think that there is something wrong with their school system. Lack of development, inertia, is as serious in school systems as in business or industry. School officials and patrons should hold themselves responsible for reasonable and continuing improvement.

Home Ownership as Basis for Strength

Unhappily, the notion is still current among many people that four walls and a roof make a house, but they do not make a home. Nearly everyone has some kind of a house, a place he hangs his hat and calls home; it may be a place where he eats and sleeps, while he dreams of a home, a place which he has made a sanctuary for his wife and children, and where love and happiness reign supreme. A home and a shelter are two distinct phases. But real homes with their joys and their rewards were never more within the reach of the young men and women of the community than they are today. Housekeeping, through the invention of new devices for household efficiency, has become easier, and freedom is greater on the part of women, because of the strides made in equipment and labor-saving devices and knowledge, both of the importance of the home as a factor in the social life and happiness of the community, and how to maintain it, was never so widely spread.—Exchange.

Alabama Town Awake

Anniston has just incorporated a new foundry company for the manufacture of gray iron castings of miscellaneous type. The company will employ 50 men and already has large orders on its books. All of which is an interesting news item to Alabama, but the most interesting thing about it to us is the fact that Anniston citizens subscribed all of the $15,000 stock necessary to create this new industry, thus showing that they have faith in their town and its advantages as a manufacturing center. It is a habit that is making Anniston citizens rich. They keep at home all of the profits of their industry and thereby create permanent and lasting wealth for Anniston.—Gadsden (Ala.) Times.

Wisconsin Cities Zoned

Fourteen Wisconsin cities have adopted city planning and zoning ordinances within the past four years, says Prof. L. S. Smith, professor of city planning in the University of Wisconsin.

Professor Smith has prepared planning and zoning ordinances for Appleton, Waukesha, and Oshkosh, two of which have been adopted. The Oshkosh ordinance is expected to be adopted soon inasmuch as its passage has been recommended by the present city planning commission and various civic bodies.

Tree Planting in Fall

Many trees should be planted in the late fall or just as soon as they become dormant. This planting results in better growth in the spring, the tree rooting in its new location better than if moved after it has begun to shown signs of life. Very few types of tree cannot be moved at this time, and the home owner who is desirous of adding to his landscape should not put off his work too long before deciding upon the trees he wishes to plant.

SICK WOMEN ATTENTION!

Read this Remarkable Testimony Regarding Results from Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Norfolk, Virginia. — "If you only knew how many women and girls have taken your medicine by hearing my testimony, it would seem wonderful to you. Every day and every chance I have I advise some one to try it. It was in June, 1904, when I had given up to never get well, that I wrote to you. My husband went to the drug-store and brought the Vegetable Compound home to me. In a few days I began to improve and I have often taken it since. I am now passing through the Change of Life and still stick by it and am enjoying wonderful health. When I first started with your medicines I was a mere shadow. My health seemed to be gone. The last doctor I had said he would give me no more local treatments unless I went to the Hospital and was operated on. That was when I gave the doctors up. Now I am a healthy robust woman. I wish I could tell the world what a wonderful medicine Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is. I will be only too glad to answer letters from anywhere. I wish all sick women would take it."—Mrs. J. A. JONES, 317 Colley Avenue, Norfolk, Virginia.

STUBBORN SORES and inflammations quickly yield to
Resinol

It Never Happens Now

The old-fashioned man often made the painful discovery when it was too late that his sweetheart was bow-legged.—Washington News-Journal.

"THE FOUNDATION OF HIS HEALTH"

Among the thousands who have publicly expressed indebtedness to Tanlac for normal weight, health and strength, is A. R. White, who recently said:

"The foundation for my present excellent health was laid by Tanlac. For months I had been run-down. I had lost all enjoyment for food and suffered great discomfort from indigestion. My liver was sluggish and that tired feeling was on me all the time.

"Three bottles of Tanlac relieved my troubles and started me off with a system so thoroughly toned up and renewed that I soon found myself feeling like a new man."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

Indispensable

As a safe, soothing and healing dressing for cuts, scalds, burns, roughened, dry and chapped skin and for all common skin troubles, "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly has been indispensable to medical men and mothers for over half a century. Keep a jar or a tube handy.

CHESEBROUGH MFG. COMPANY
(Consolidated)
17 State Street New York

Vaseline
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
PETROLEUM JELLY

Look for the trade-mark "Vaseline." It is your protection.

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

During these days how many children are complaining of Headache, Feverishness, Stomach Troubles and Irregular Bowels and take cold easily. If mothers only knew what Mother Gray's Sweet Powders would do for their children no family would ever be without them for use when needed. These powders are so easy and pleasant to take and so effective in their action that mothers who once use them always tell others about them. Used by mothers for over 30 years. Sold by druggists everywhere. Trial Package sent FREE. Address Mother Gray Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

The Old Standby in a New Dress

The New Package

—the same dependable remedy that over a period of more than fifty years has been found so reliable in the treatment of catarrh and diseases of catarrhal nature.

The outside of the package only has been altered. To facilitate packing and reduce breakage in shipping, the paper wrapper which has identified the Pe-ru-na bottle for many years has been displaced by a substantial pasteboard carton.

Pe-ru-na cannot be made any better. Three generations of users testify that Pe-ru-na is the best remedy in the world for catarrh and diseases of catarrhal origin.

The remedy our fathers and grandfathers used with so much satisfaction is still the standby for the ills of everyday in thousands of American homes.

PE-RU-NA

The Original and Reliable Remedy for Catarrh

Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid

Send 4 Cents for booklet on catarrh to the Pe-ru-na Company, Columbus, Ohio

What He Figured On

Do you expect to make a living an architect?" "Well, I'm making s for that end."

Anything to Oblige

"The cook says she don't like the view from the kitchen."

"Well, can't we move, dear?"

FOR Rheumatism

BAYER

ASPIRIN

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Rheumatism Colds Neuritis Neuralgia
Headache Pain Toothache Lumbago

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

PATENTS

Don't risk delay in protecting your ideas. Send sketch or model for instructions or write for FREE book, "How to Obtain a Patent" and "Record of Invention" form. No charge for information on how to proceed. Communications confidential. Careful, efficient service. CLARENCE A. O'BRIEN, Registered Patent Attorney, 243-A Security Bank Building (directly across street from Patent Office) WASHINGTON, D. C.

eneral Taxidermy unting of Birds, Animals, Game Heads, hes, etc. Making Up Rugs and Robes. nufacturing and Tanning Furs. Price sonable.

K. SCHWARZ
9 S. 13th St. Omaha, Neb.

IOWA FARMS $2 PER ACRE CASH BALANCE & CROP TILPAID
MALL SIOUX CITY, IA

TENTS Booklet free. Highest references. Best results. Promptness assured. WATSON E. COLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, 644 G Street, Washington, D. C.

N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 45--1925.

No man after missing a target can ertily congratulate another who hits

A "youthful prodigy" is easier to endure than one who thinks he is.

How's Your Blood?

Omaha, Nebr.—"My blood was impoverished, my stomach was giving me trouble, and I was bothered with constipation. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I did so and it completely overcame the trouble. The first bottle helped me wonderfully, but I continued until I had taken five. I am sure there is not a better tonic on the market than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."—Mrs. Fannie Gillespie, 604 So. 18th St.

Put up in both fluid and tablet form.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package of tablets. Write for free confidential medical advice.

Fools ofttimes rush in where wise men would be afraid of the police.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

LUXURIOUS COATS OF CLOTH; NEAT TAILORED DAYTIME FROCK

DRAWING conclusions from the early coat arrivals women of fashion are destined to be wrapped in the folds of luxury during the forthcoming months. There is a sumptuousness about present-day cloth-with-fur coats which lies beyond the power of pen or tongue to tell. Only "seeing is believing," for even a most vivid gift of imagination might fall short of visualizing the elegancies of fur and fabric and color glory which combine to produce the modern topcoat.

It is a foregone conclusion that the fur-trimmed cloth coat will prove a formidable rival to the all-fur coat. To the utmost of their creative genius fashionists are playing up the fascination of resplendent fur trimmings on cloth superb in quality and richly colorful—wherefore, all things taken into consideration, there is logic in the suggestion, "If in doubt" choose a fur-bordered cloth coat. Let the two handsome models in the picture serve as "a second to the motion."

Two of the Latest Winter Coats.

The coat to the left is styled of quality-kind bolivia cloth. Its color scheme is adorable, being cranberry red with rich brown fur. There s a cleverly placed side flare.

The long roll shawl-collar and deep cuffs on the coat to the right emphasize the attractiveness of fur embellishment. Handsome stone marten is its kind, though chinchilla or squirrel would prove equally as interesting. The circular flare at the bottom gracefully interprets the new silhouette.

Gray cloth coats with gray fur trimmings register as a foremost fashion. Other intriguing color schemes include ox-blood red for the cloth, trimmed with black fox in generously wide hem-border, matched to deep cuffs with huge collar; lavish red fox on black cloth or velours; pencil-blue woolen fabric edged with squirrel and there is a decided trend toward dark green cloakings combined with conspicuously handsome fur. Among favorite coat shades, certain tones of purple, various reds and copper brown are outstanding, the same lavishly enhanced with decorative fur.

For sports coats spectacular plaids lead, the fur trimmings blended to the grays, browns and tawny tans included in the weave of the cloth.

As to the tailored frock for autumn daytime wear, the ultra-fashionable trend is decidedly clothward. Chic is the word, when it comes to the styling of these cloth modes. Even the most conservative tailored frocks reflect the spirit of the flare by subtly introducing flattering trickeries of plait and godet.

The handsome street gown here pictured interprets hemline fullness through expert manipulation of inverted plaits. This cloth dress is the type that appeals to the "gentlewoman" with whom the fine art of correct dress is a gift innate. Perfection of detail is expressed throughout this mode of superior creation, climaxing in the dainty white pique piping which accents the neckline of the strictly man-tailored revers.

From the color standpoint woolen materials are of compelling interest, this season. Wine color, and various rich red hues, also green, dark, especially, give something new to think about. The material used for the above described and herewith pictured frock is a hunter's green, pin-striped woolen twill of the finest quality.

Tailored Frock for Autumn.

The new red, wine and fuchsia tones are entrancing. Not only street frocks but topcoats as well, flaunt these glorious reds, thereby adding a note of winter and autumn loveliness to the mode.

A dress or suit or coat may be tailored to the minutest detail, but if it be carried out in ruby red or deep wine color, there is sure to be a certain appealing charm which transcends all tendency toward undue severity of line. Now that these color ideas have taken possession of the world of fashion, there is a splendid rivalry apparent between these newer shades of red and green which is of refreshing interest because they stand for that "something different" for which all styledom is ever seeking.

Another item which is adding a brilliant note to day costumes is the judicious use of silver or gold kid trimmings, done of course in a conventional tailored manner. A wine colored cloth with severely plain gilded leather cuffs, collars and belt answers every requirement of the strictly tailored, yet there is a fascination in general effect which baffles description.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

C. A. DUNNING — Premier of Saskatchewan

The Living Proof

That Canada Makes Good

CANADA is the Land of Promise to-day. Canada promises prosperity, health and happiness to those who come prepared and determined to work. And, on her promises, Canada makes good. If you are strong and willing, you can make yourself independent in Canada, no matter if your cash capital is small.

Take the Case of C. A. Dunning

C. A. Dunning came to the Province of Saskatchewan in 1903. He was an immigrant boy from England, only seventeen years old, not over strong, no money, no knowledge of agriculture. But he wanted to work and he was looking for a job in Saskatchewan, as a start. He was determined to make good.

He got the job. It was on a new farm in Saskatchewan, thirty miles from the end of the railway. His pay was $10.00 per month and board. He lived in a sod shack and slept on the floor. To-day, Charles A Dunning is Premier of Saskatchewan, Chief Executive and Leader of the Provincial Government, and one of the most successful farmers in Canada.

A Great Country

Canada is a great, rich, varied country with the glorious power and vitality of youth. She is already the greatest exporter of wheat in the world, although only about one-fifth of her good farm land has as yet been brought under cultivation. Canada's wheat crop in 1924 was 262,000,000 bushels; in 1925 it is officially estimated at 391,000,000 bushels—an increase of 129,000,000 bushels. Other branches of farming—dairying, stock-raising, etc.,—are increasing proportionately. Canada is increasingly rich in beef and dairy cattle, in horses and sheep, and in poultry. C. A. Dunning has shared in this development and prospered accordingly.

C. A. Dunning's story of success on the farm can be multiplied thousands of times in the different Provinces of Canada. Do YOU want to get ahead? Do YOU want to succeed and make a home for yourself on a low-cost farm where you can prosper and be independent? Come to Canada, the land of bigger crops and cheaper, richer land. Officers of the Canadian Government will help you, free of charge, to get suitably located; if desired they will supervise your start and give you all the help and counsel you may ask. Good land near the railroads sells at from $15.00 to $20.00 per acre. Free homesteads farther back. Full particulars will be found in the Canada Books issued by the Government. Send for one today. They're free. Use this coupon. Opportunity is knocking at your door.

Bigger Crops Lower Cost

Department of Immigration and Colonization
Room A-370 Ottawa, Canada

Please send me your free book on Farm Opportunities in Canada.

Name.....

Address..... R.F.D.....

Town..... State.....

(Write name and address plainly)

Mail This

Youth holds no society with grief.

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Aspirin Marked With "Bayer Cross" Has Been Proved Safe by Millions.

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Even the blind can look for work.

LEONARD EAR OIL

for DEAFNESS and HEAD NOISES

Price $1.00

At All Druggists

FOLDER ABOUT "DEAFNESS" ON REQUEST.

A. O. LEONARD, INC.
70-5TH AVE., NEW YORK

CALUMET

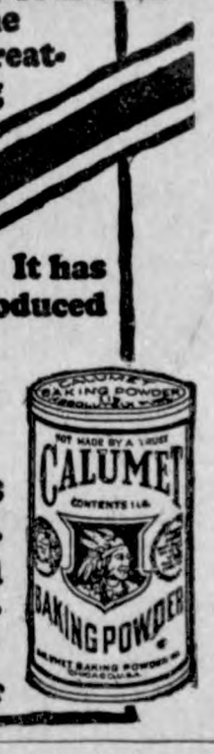
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

Is truly the world's greatest baking powder

It has produced Pure Foods— Better Bakings —for over one third of a century

Sales 2½ times those of any other brand

BEST BY TEST



200-300-500 Feet of Controlled Light

BURGESS
FLASHLIGHTS & BATTERIES
BURGESS BATTERY COMPANY. MADISON, WISCONSIN

News Of Goodell and Vicinity By Times Correspondent

Robert McNutt is the owner of a new Ford.

Clifford Estelle is working at the Produce Station in Garner.

Miss Liittschwager spent the week end with her parents at Buckeye.

Miss Thomas spent the week end with friends at Cedar Falls.

The Camp Fire Girls held their weekly meeting at the Wesenberg home Monday evening.

Dr. Snearly returned Friday night from a week's hunting trip in Canada.

Mrs. L. H. Wilson and Mrs. Dr. G. E. Snearly will serve at the Ladies Aid Wednesday.

Fernon Griggs and Martin Kearney were Clarion business callers on Friday.

Dorothy Lackore returned to Forest City Monday, after spending the week end with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lamer visited at the E. S. D. Kahrs home at Ventura Sunday.

Jay Griggs and W. R. Prelipp had car repairing done at Belmond Saturday.

Special services were held in the Catholic church at Goodell Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Allie and children visited Mrs. Allie's parents at Clarion Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter and Richard, visited at the Walter Schoerger home at Ventura Sunday.

Clara Johnson, who is teaching at Cornell, Iowa, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Johnson.

The high school pupils are putting on a play as soon as they can learn their parts. The grades are also planning a program to be given soon.

Mae Griggs returned Friday night after a wek's visit with friends and relatives at Cedar Falls, Iowa Falls and Williams.

The Hallowe'en Party in the U. B. church basement was greatly enjoyed by all present. The program was given mostly by the Boy Scouts and the Camp Fire Girls. A short three act Spanish play was given by five older persons; this also was very good. After the program delicious refreshments were served.

George Luick took the seventh and eighth grade pupils and the Misses Liitschwager and Thomas to "The Iron Horse," at Belmond Thursday night.

The basket social held at Mildred Fuller's school, Twin Lake No. 6, Friday night was well attended. A good program was given by her pupils and quite a sum of money was realized from the sale of baskets.

Clayton county has nine cow testing associations—more than any other county in the United States.

Beach Suits Reveal Gay "Futurist" Silks

Here is pictured another of those newly arrived beach suits of printed silk, that do so much toward making their wearers highly decorative parts of beach scenery. These pretty suits are not so revealing as the regulation swimming suit which follows the lines of the figure—whatever it may be—with merciless fidelity. Beach suits undertake with great success, to do a little flattering.

Among them have appeared the new "futuristic" silks, in vivid and beautiful colors, and the reader is referred to the picture for details of approved patterns. They are much mixed up as to design, and only the futurist can explain them, but why worry about explaining beauty? Often short black satin tunics are worn with the colorful overgarment.

THE HIRED MAN'S ROOM

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

UP IN the country where I was born and where I spent a few weeks last summer they were complaining not a little about the difficulty of securing competent and regular help on the farm. The hired men were a shiftless lot, they said, nomadic, drunken sometimes, unreliable and likely to leave a man in the lurch just when he was most needing help.

I was inclined to discount these statements as to the utter depravity and worthlessness of the hired man, for I had had some experiences of my own as a farm hand during the summers of my undergraduate course in college, and I have still vivid recollections of the hired man's room.

We washed our hands and faces at the pump in a tin basin or in the tub from which the horses drank, and combed our hair, if this tonsorial service were performed at all, in front of a battered mirror hanging outside the kitchen door. There were no facilities for general bathing, save the creek a mile away or a bucket of water carried discreetly behind the corn crib after the shades of evening had gathered.

The room in which we dressed and slept was about eight or twelve feet in size, and was just under the leaky roof with side walls scarcely two feet high and one single, shadeless window looking toward the west. It was a hell-hole in the summer with the burning sun beating pitilessly upon it during the long afternoons and with no possible chance for ventilation; what it was in winter I can only imagine, for the walls were as thin as paper.

There was an old rickety, frowsy bed in one corner jammed up against the side wall as close as the slanting roof would permit. A broken-backed chair and a packing box in lieu of a table stood on the bare floor. There was an unsteady, greasy lamp on the improvised table, the chimney black with smoke and the burner choked with dead flies and other insects. A few nails were driven awkwardly into the wall, upon which we might hang our Sunday clothes. There was no dresser, no drawers or shelves of any kind. Such changes of clothing as we had we kept in our suitcases, which when not in use, we kicked under the bed. I presume this room was sometimes cleaned, but not while I was there.

"Was you ever in the Waldorf-Astoria?" Oscar, my companion in toil, asked me one night in August as we lay sweltering and tossing on our hot mattress.

"I had a little look-in once," I replied, "when I was in New York."

"Is it anything like this?" he inquired.

I was forced to admit that the resemblance was only slight.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Good Cure for Abnormal Appetite Being Tested

Experiments now being carried on by the university department of agriculture indicate that steamed bone-meal fed in the ration will relieve, if not cure, the disorders known as abnormal appetite among dairy cattle.

Six cattle owners in a western Minnesota county where depraved appetite has been common among farm animals have been co-operating with the Minnesota university since early last winter in feeding steamed bonemeal to the 119 cows in their herds. As a result, last winter was the first that the cattle had not chewed bones and boards. All the cows came through in good physical condition, and the calves born in the six herds are strong and vigorous.

The results have been checked up and reported by a university representative and the county agent. All the herds are located on prairie soil typical of the region under investigation by the dairymen and chemists of the university.— Minnesota Extension Service News.

Dairy Hints

Ship cream in five-gallon cans.

• • •

Clean the cows before each milking.

• • •

After the cream is separated, cool immediately.

• • •

Wash dairy utensils with alkali powder. Do not use soap.

• • •

Strain the milk through a cheesecloth or cotton strainer.

• • •

Do not turn cows on pastures with no shade trees during the middle of the day.

• • •

The farmer selling whole milk cannot afford to raise calves entirely on whole milk.

• • •

Don't sacrifice a fall calf from a choice dairy cow. Give it good care and it will be ready to go to pasture in the spring not far behind the earlier calves in growth.

• • •

Those who use milking machines will avoid trouble if they thoroughly sterilize the machines with steam or boiling water, taking particular care to see that the tubes are clean.

IF I WERE IN HIGH SCHOOL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

TOM, aged fourteen, is just finishing the grammar school, and since he and I are friends, often, as we walk down together, he tells me his plans for the future and, among these, what he intends doing in high school. Sometimes I plan what I should do if, like Tom, I were to have a chance once more to enter the high school.

I should not look so eagerly for "snaps" as I did then. I know that it may seem foolish to work when one can get out of it, to take a difficult course when one can get into an easy one, but I have learned that it is only in doing hard things that we gain strength, and it is only in overcoming difficulties that we learn to depend on ourselves.

I believe I should not study so much, but I should study harder. I should try to settle myself into a lesson and stay with it without shifting around until it was mastered, even if it took an hour or two hours.

I should learn to do my work myself. In real life we must work things out for ourselves; if we find ourselves in a hard corner we must use our own wits to get out.

I should learn to speak on my feet grammatically, correctly, without using slang. The sooner one gets control of the shaking knees, the quivering voice, the halting flow of words, the better.

I should learn to play some athletic game well. Real interest and skill in athletic games is of more than passing benefit to a young fellow; it becomes a permanent interest, and later in life when the tendency grows to sit at the desk or to stick to the business, to grow fat and overfed, to the neglect of one's physical health, the old habit draws one out into the open air, renews one's youth, develops one's muscles, and banishes indigestion.

If I were again a high school boy I should cultivate as fully as possible my friendship for other boys. I should want to keep up my studies, but I should take part in general school activities rather than devote all my time to study. Above all things I should stick persistently to some one subject, and try to be something more than commonplace.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Pretty Pajama Sets of Crinkle Crepe

No one has more decided opinions and preferences concerning clothes than the college girl who is being outfitted for her sojourn at school. It will do no harm to humor her whims—when they are within reason—and thus add a few extra thrills of joy to a heart that is easily elated—or depressed—over trifles.

GEORGE W. VALLERY

George W. Vallery is the new grand master of the Knights Templar, having been promoted to that office at the conclave in Seattle.

Golden State Limited

Rock Island — Southern Pacific Lines

California

For those who wish quiet, comfort, rest, or the greatest variety of recreation and entertainment, the Golden State, now more than ever, is the ideal winter home.

The all-Pullman Golden State Limited, takes you there in luxury and comfort. Observation and club cars, barber, valet, shower for men, women's lounge, maid, manicure, shower for women. No extra fare.

Through standard Pullmans daily via Rock Island Lines from Minneapolis and Des Moines, arrive Los Angeles 2:45 p. m. (third day).

Through tourist sleeper service to Los Angeles from Minneapolis and Des Moines via Kansas City and the Golden State Express, another fast train. (Only three nights).

Dining cars serving "Best Meals on Wheels."

For details ask—
M. O. BARR
Agent

C. C. Gardner
Asst. Gen'l Pass. Agent
600 Royal Union Life Bldg.
Des Moines, Iowa

We Print Farm Sale Bills Here

Times Print Shop

Reduced Prices on Northland Oil

For A Short Time Only

NORTHLAND, light oil
5 gallon lots, per gal.....

NORTHLAND, medium oil
5 gallon lots, per gal.....

NORTHLAND, heavy oil
5 gallon lots, per gal.....

NORTHLAND, extra heavy oil
5 gallon lots, per gal.....

} 60c

We Are Overstocked!

We are overstocked on oil and we are offering NORTHLAND OIL at the above reduced bargain prices only until our stock is reduced to normal, so do not miss this great opportunity to lay in your oil supply.

NORTHLAND OIL is a Pure Pennsylvania motor oil of the highest grade. If you have once used it you will use no other.

Take advantage of these prices!

Greimann Motor Co.

For Farmers--

COLD WEATHER is here now and it time get prepared for it.

It pays to take care of your stock and poultry during cold weather by having a good supply of resh, warm water or them to drink. It will pay you good profits to install some of the following articles onyour farm for cold weather:

HOG WATERERS: We carry a good make that has proven out and gives best of satisfaction. Comes in 65 gallon size.

CHICKEN WATERERS: A good waterer will make your hens lay more eggs and will soon pay for itself. We sell 'em.

TANK HEATERS: We have them in either cast or steel. See us first before you buy.

REPAIRS, FITTINGS, Etc.: Tank lamp repairs and parts; pipe fittings, etc.

E. F. Jacobs

THE KLEMME TIMES

ieth Year—Number 10. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

OVEMBER TERM OF COURT BEGINS MONDAY

ANY NEW CASES FILED SINCE LAST TERM OF COURT

DGE EDWARDS ON THE BENCH

URT CONVENES NOVEMBER 6 WITH JUDGE EDWARDS ON THE BENCH

owing Is A List Of New Cases Filed Since The Last Term Of The District Court

deral Reserve Bank vs. Len O. hell, et al. Plaintiff asks judgt on note for $385.37.

nnie M. Park vs. M. M. Head, l. Plaintiff asks judgment for 22.84 and foreclosure of mort- on NW¼ 26-97-25.

lbert Draeger vs. Bertha Draeger. Plaintiff asks that he be apted guardian of the person and erty of defendant.

rs. John Blank et al vs. Mrs. El- Roushia. Plaintiff asks that Blank be appointed guardian he person and property of de- ant.

ans Rohwer vs. T. R. Tammen l. Plaintiff asks judgment for 19.00 and foreclosure of mort- on NE¼ 34-97-26.

nnis & Rohling Co. vs. H. T. Mcon et al. Plaintiff asks udgt for $772.00 and foreclosure of gage on NE¼ 20-97-24.

moreux Auto Co. vs. Geo. W. zell. Plaintiff asks judgment ote for $150.00 and foreclosure hattel mortgage.

. P. Andrews vs. Adolph Dunka. aintiff asks judgment for rent 656.60 and landlords attach-die A. Bloom vs. Jos. E. Johnet al. Plaintiff asks judgment $10,000.00 and foreclosure of gage on E½ SW¼ & W½ SE 3-95-23.

J. Kalvig vs. John Roskamp. ntiff asks judgment on note for 0.

A. Andrew, Supt. of Banking, Garner Trust & Savings Bank. ntiff asks that he be appointed iver of defendant bank.

A. Andrew, Supt. of Banking ohn Suurballe. County Treasur- Plaintiff asks that defendant njoined from collecting 1920 against Peoples State Bank.

A. Andrews, Supt. of Banking ohn Suurballe, County Treasur- Plaintiff asks that defendant be ned from collecting taxes at State Savings Bank, Klemme.

ed Albertson, et al vs. P. M. emer et al. Plaintiff asks for ment for $12,885.10 and foreure of mortgage on S½ SEb & SE¼ 14-97-24.

illie Severson vs. Selma Johnson nd et al. Plaintiff asks partition ½ SW¼ & SW¼ SE¼ 12-97-

F. Sporaa vs. Carl Engbert. ntiff asks judgment on note and nt for $334.25.

dia A. Schramm vs. Gus amm. Plaintiff asks that she vorced from defendant.

P. Hanson vs. A. R. Butler. ntiff asks judgment for $2,500. foreclosure of mortgage on lots 4-15 block 29 Garner.

m. Tegtmeyer, Administrator, Receivers of C. M. & St. P. Ry. ntiff asks judgment for $25,- 0 on account of death of Lau- Tegtmeyer.

OOLS SHOULD DISPLAY THE FLAG

ere are too many schools fail- to display the United States flag suitable out door staff when the her permits. Section 5253 of ode makes it a duty of school erations to provide a flag and staff. Is the flag floating in district?

OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER OBSERVANCE OF HEADLIGHTS

A statewide drive to eliminate the violation of the Iowa headlight law will be conducted during November. The campaign of education is being inaugurated by Ben J. Gibson, attorney general for Iowa, and W. C. Ramsay, secretary of state.

Violation of the headlight laws are common. In fact, little attention is paid to the regulations of the statutes in regard to the proper focus of automobile headlight lens. Many accidents are caused from this one item alone. The state motor vehicle department and Attorney General Gibson plan first to impress upon the general public the need for compliance with the law. If this plan is not effective, more harsh methods will be invoked.

Town and county officials have received communication from the attorney general and from the secretary of state, urging them to aid in the campaign and directing them to lend every assistance possible to the department of justice in the work.

"Glaring headlights cause as many accidents as perhaps any other single item conected with the operation of a motor vehicle," writes Attorney General Gibson., "Officers should take steps to eliminate in their various communities the use of such headlights on motor vehicles as are violative of the laws of Iowa."

"A great deal of complaint has been received in regard to glaring headlights having caused serious accidents," writes Secretary of State Ramsay. "In view of this fact, a general drive is being planned to reduce this violation to a minimum and make the month of November the 'Anti-Glare Month.'" Lights can be very easily adjusted by the owners, so the direct ray of light will not rise above 42 inches at 75 feet under all conditions of load. It is requested and urged that all peace officers join in this drive."

Some Deals In Dirt

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Transaction The Past Week of November 2 to November 7, Inc.

E. P. Hanson, Sheriff, to A. J. Hattsberg, Sheriff's Deed date 10-31-25, $14,583.46, SE¼ 29—S½ of SW¼ 28 and all that part of N½ of SW¼ 28 lying south and east of M. & St. L. R. R. right of way in 95-26.

F. A. Arnold wf. to Guy G. Henrichs, W. D. date 10-24-25, $7,500, N½ SE¼ 21-94-23.

Klaas Gansveld to Fannie Gansveld, Q. C. D., date 10-30-25, $1.00, lots 3-4-5-6 block 19 Lattimers add. Britt.

Barney T. Pitkin wf. to Valentine Kiefer, W. D., date 11-2-25, $7,500, S½ SEb 1-97-23.

Jefferson Nisbet wf. to Ella Frances Nisbet, W. D., date 11-15-24, $4,000.00. Und. 40 acre of NW¼ 33 94-26.

Wm. Olson wf. to Farmers National Bank of Osage, W. D., date 12-22-23, $1.00, S½ SE¼ & SE¼ SW ¼ 12-97-24.

John Mulhall wf. to M. E. Banscher, W. D., date 10-13-25, $1.00 etc. Wfr½ 18-97-25.

FINDS SMALL ADVERTISING BALLOON; WINS PRIZE

Some days ago Miss Blanche Ward living four miles north of Leon saw a small toy balloon fall in the garden at their home. She picked it up, and found a card attached saying the finder was the lucky person to win prize No. 19, offered by the merchants of Seneca, Kansas, as an advertising stunt, advertising the Seneca fair, and requesting that the finder mail the card with name to the secretary at Seneca. It is 140 miles from Seneca to Leon, "as the crow flies."

NORTH AVERY PROGRESSIVE CLUB HELD FIRST MEETING

North Avery Club Takes Up Work For The Winter Program

The North Avery Progressive Club held the first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. C. A. Arnold on Friday evening, October 30th.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, E. J. Arnold and matters of business were discussed; reports of the secretary and chairman of entertainment were given.

Following the business session a short program composed of reading of the scripture, piano solo, readings, duet, Hallowe'en stunts, etc. A number of guests were present, including Mr. and Mrs. Gary and baby, Miss Minnie Lenz, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gibbs and family. A fine lunch was served by the hostess and every one enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

The November meeting will be held at the J. J. Cook home.

TO CHANGE CUSTOM

IOWA TO BREAK TRADITION AND HANG MAN ON MONDAY

Scott County Judge Departs From Rule By Fixing Simons Execution For November 16

DES MOINES, Nov. 12.—For the first time in recent Iowa history a man will be hanged on another day besides Friday—a day known since early neolithic history as "hangman's day," or "Black Friday."

On Monday morning November 16 at dawn, Harlan "Gabe" Simons will swing from the gallows at Fort Madison penitentiary. Every other legal hanging at the penitentiary within the bounds of recollection was held on a Friday, around which is woven the tradition of centuries.

Scott Judge Upsets Tradition

This year, however, Judge A. D. Parker of Scott county kicked over the bucket of tradition and Governor John Hammill sustained him when Simon's death day was set for Monday. The governor alone has the power to change this date to conform with a precedent as old as Hammurabi, who established the first Babylonian empire.

Simons will be the eighth man in three years to ascend the gallow stairs and feel the hangman's noose grow taunt about his neck. His predecessors, like himself, were executed for first degree murder. The only other law infraction in Iowa which carries the death penalty is treason.

Preceeding Simons by just a few months, Archie Burris, Ottumwa negro, was hanged at Fort Madison for the murder of Hattie Bates at Ottumwa on December 17, 1922. Burris paid with his life for the crime on Jan. 2, this year.

Others Hanged Recently

Others hanged at the state prison in recent years were Ira Pavey, Sept. 8, 1922; Eugene Weeks, Sept. 15, 1922; Orrie Cross, Nov. 24, 1922; William Olander Sept. 7, 1923; Earl Throst, Mar. 9, 1923; and Roy Maupin, Jan. 18, 1924.

Legal hangings held in other parts of the state were; Chester Bellows at Charles City, December 16, 1887, for the murder of his niece; Henry Schmidt at West Union, Jan. 13, 1888, for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Peck. A military court martial sentenced Robert Johnson, Fred Allen and Stanley Gremmell, all negroes, for rape and they were hanged at Camp Dodge, July 5, 1918.

Killed Tourist In Park

Unless fate intervenes Simon's execution will go forward as specified. He was convicted of the murder of Orton Ferguson, Michigan tourist, with an iron pipe. The crime was committed at the tourist camping ground at West Liberty on July 3, 1924. Simons was tried and found guilty in Scott county district court following his capture at Tiffin, Ohio. An appeal to the supreme court failed to secure a retrial of the case and petitions to Governor Hammill for commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment was denied.

The warrant for Simon's execution was sent to the Sheriff of Scott county a few days ago.

SILVER FOX FARM AT CEDAR FALLS TO HAVE $10,000 IN CAPITAL

Here's A Profitable New Industry Which Is Growing In Iowa

Silver fox raising has been added to the list of Iowa industries. Within the last three weeks two firms have started equipping farms for the culture of foxes, within a few miles of Waterloo and Cedar Falls.

Roy Hansen, Waterloo, has purchased a 70-acre tract north of Cedar Falls, is clearing the timber and erecting a lodge this fall, and plans to place 30 pairs of foxes on the land next spring.

The John F. Simpson Company, Inc., has filed articles of incorporation with a capital stock of $10,000. The company is equipping an acreage two miles southwest of Waterloo and expects to have several pairs of foxes at the ranch this fall.

Both Hansen and J. R. Calhoun, vice-president of the Simpson company, have been identified with the silver fox industry for many years. They believe that Iowa is well suited for fox raising and that, with the world's supply of silver foxes estimated at from 18,000 to 30,000, the profits will be attractive.

FIND OLD KING TUT

COFFIN SHAPED TO FIT HUMAN BODY IS FOUND BY DIGGERS

Features Printed On Case Thought To Represent Youthful Pharaoh

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 12.—The excavators of King Tut-ankh-amen's tomb discovered what they believe to be definite proof that the body of the youthful pharaoh is actually in the sarcophagus whose splendors have aroused the admiration of Egyptologists.

Their find consists of the inner coffin, shaped to fit the form of the body. About this is a linen shroud adhering to and covering all the coffin except the face, on which are the painted features customarily depicted on such encasements. The features are believed to represent those of Tut-ankh-amen himself.

Since the finding of the tomb of Tut-ankh-amen and the discovery in it of so many beautiful works of art, there has been great expectation as to what would be found in the sarcophagus when it was finally opened.

When the lid of the first sarcophagus was lifted Oct. 12, another, on which were linen coverings and bouquets was found. This was beautiful of design, decorated, and embellished with multi-colored pieces of glass. On it was an effigy of the god, Osiris. Covering it was a thin layer of gold on a marble background, adorned with the wings of the vulture goddess, Nechbet and the serpent goddess, Buto.

The lifting of this sarcophagus from the first was a delicate task, but finally it was accomplished and on Oct. 22 the covering was finally removed and the human shaped coffin found inside.

A gluinous black liquid, possibly spilled during the entombment of the pharaoh, had badly marred a large portion of the coffin and holds it like glue to the second sarcophagus

A TRAVELING MAN JOKE

A traveling man was telling us last Friday that the bus from Garner to Estherville was so crowded the day before that it was really uncomfortable to ride. A fat lady who was wedged in sideways between two men was making a frantic effort to unbotton the flap on her coat pocket to get her pocketbook containing the bus fare. After some effort the man at one side of her offered to pay her fare. This made the lady quite indignant. After some more strenuous effort on her part to unbutton the flap on her coat the gentleman again insisted that he pay the fare for her. "I would much rather do that," said he, "than have you unbutton my suspenders again."

—Lake Mills Graphic.

FAMOUS RAINBOW INFANTRY IS NOW STORY IN NEW BOOK

FIRST TREE MONTHS OF YEARS DANGEROUS ONES TO HEALTH

DES MOINES, Nov. 12.—January, February and March are the months in which most diseases are apt to occur, is the statement of Dr. Don M. Griswold, state health commissioner. He explains this by pointing out that it is due not to the fact that the air is colder itself, but because cold air makes individuals take different care of themselves than they do in the summer time.

July, August and September are the months in which there are fewer fatalities than in any other, Mr. Griswold says.

"In the winter time," he states, "we are apt to wear clothing that fits tightly, sleep with windows closed and pursue different eating habits than we do in the summer time. The effect often is that resistance is lowered and disease germs are more apt to make headway."

The fact that it takes more body heat to offset winter temperatures also has an effect on health, Dr. Griswold pointed out.

"If one were to count the closed windows," Dr. Griswold predicted, "at night during the winter months he could have a pretty good idea of the amount of respiratory diseases. People must have fresh air when they are sleeping and if they do not get it a disastrous effect is almost sure to result."

CAN'T SHOOT THEM

EAGLE IS PROTECTED BY STATE AND NATIONAL LAWS

Hunters Should Be Careful Not To Shoot This Bird

W. I. Endicott, of Cherokee, says that an American or bald eagle with a wing spread of probably nine feet has been een on several occasions in that vicinity. Mr. Endicott says that all men and boys engaged in hunting should understand that this particular bird is protected by national and state laws. There is no open season for eagle and the minimum fine for killing one is so large as to be educational. Some persons, evidently boys, have been killing gulls and roseats terns that are present in unusual numbers. The gull is strictly insectivorous and is protected by law. W. E. Albert, state fish and game warden, says that several reports of the killing of eagles have reached his office recently and in each case he has ordered prosecution of the guilty parties. Both the bald and the golden variety are more numerous in Iowa this fall than common.

ENORMOUS TREASURES BURIED WITH DEAD IN AMERICAN CEMETERIES

ATLANTA, Nov. 12.—"When you die you can't take your wealth with you"—and yet, an enormous fortune in jewels is buried with the 2,000,000 Americans who die annually.

Fred W. Patterson, former president of the National Selected Morticians has got it all figured out. He has statistics showing that American cemeteries rival the treasures of the Egyptian tombs.

"Underneath the turf of our cemeteries a treasure estimated at $20,000,000,000 has been buried since the beginning of American history." he said, "This exceeds by far the annual output of the world's gold and diamond mines combined."

Sentiment which no good undertaker seeks to discourage is responsible for millions in baubles and trinkets being buried with the American dead, Patterson said.

"This is done because memory associates the dead person with some article of jewelry and on the average about $10 worth of durable valuables is buried with a corpse," he said.

STORY OF THE 168th INFANTRY BEING PUBLISHED

History of Iowa's Combat Unit in the Rainbow Division to be Issued This Month

The story of the 168th Infantry, Iowa's regiment in the famous Rainbow Division, is now being printed by the State Historical Society at Iowa City, and will be ready for distribution in November. The history was written by Lieut. John H. Tabor, of Company K, under the direction of a committee of the 168th Infantry association. This committee was composed of Mathew A. Tinley, Guy S. Brewer (since deceased), Lloyd D. Ross, Claude M. Stanley, Wilbur S. Conkling and Glenn C. Haynes, all former officers of the regiment.

The story of the 168th Infantry will appear in two volumes of some four hundred and fifty pages each, and will contain many illustrations. The history is a vivid, living account from the time the Iowans were called into service until their muster out in 1919. As a contemporary account of the regiment, written by a participant in the great conflict, these volumes will be of unusual interest to the general reader and of particular interest and value to the student of history.

The two volumes, printed on high class paper and carefully bound, will be furnished to members of the regiment and their immediate relatives at the actual cost of printing and binding. These books will also be sent to members of the State Historical Society and to the public libraries throughout the state.

MORE BANKS CLOSE

FIRST NATIONAL BANKS AT SAC CITY AND FOREST CITY WERE CLOSED LAST WEEK

Both Closed Banks Were Largest In Each Of Their Counties

FOREST CITY, Nov. 12.—The First National Bank of this city did not open its doors Friday morning for business for the first time since its organization as the old Forest City bank in 1877.

The institution was closed by the state banking department, represented by T. H. Fayer, who was called in to investigate the bank's affairs by the board of directors. The institution has deposits amounting to almost a half million dollars while its assets are in the neighborhood of $832,000.

John Olson, who has been president of the bank for many years, stated that frozen assets in the form of temporarily uncollectable paper was a "possible cause of the bank's failure to open." According to best information here there was no sign of a "run" on the bank, although it had been rumored for several weeks that the institution was in a more or less precarious condition.

Examiner F. F. Potter, national bank examiner, is in charge of the bank's affairs and is going over the books in an effort to determine the extent of the crash. At this time no accurate statement could be made of the institution's condition.

The officers of the bank are John Olson, president; S. E. Taylor, cashier; and A. C. Ambroson, assistant cashier.

Sac City National Closed

SAC CITY, Nov. 12.—The First National Bank here closed last week Wednesday, Nov. 4. A national bank examiner is in charge. The bank had deposits of more than $500,000. It was the oldest bank in this county.

NOTICE TO OWNERS OF CEMETERY LOTS

Please settle with C. C. Mayne, sexton, for the care of your cemetery lots for the season 1925.

By order of the Ell Township Trustees. N12-19c

HOUSE BODY VOTES INCOME TAXES SECRET

Names to Be Made Public, but Amount Paid Will Be Withheld.

Washington.—Repeal of the publicity provision of the revenue law was approved by the house ways and means committee.

The action was taken by Republicans and Democrats in working out what promises to be a nonpartisan tax measure.

As amended the provision would require lists of names of taxpayers to be made available to public inspection, but without the amounts of tax paid, as under the present law.

The committee retained the provision of the present law giving the house ways and means committee, the senate finance committee and special congressional committees the right to call on the treasury to furnish original tax returns.

The committee voted not to repeal the federal estate tax, but instead to reduce the maximum rate from 40 to 20 per cent and to increase from 25 to 80 per cent of the federal tax the credit given in the payment of state inheritance taxes.

While the treasury met defeat on the proposal to repeal the state tax, it won its recommendation for the repeal of the gift tax. In lieu of the gift tax it was voted to amend the estate tax provisions so that property conveyed within two years of the death of the testator without consideration therefor should be included within the property of the estate for the purpose of assessing the tax.

The committee voted to retain the $50,000 estate tax exemption of the present law. The maximum rate of 20 per cent will apply above $10,000,000, which is the top bracket of the present schedule. The lower brackets remain to be worked out by a subcommittee.

The committee acted on corporation taxes, rejecting proposals to repeal the capital stock tax and modify the 12½ per cent tax on corporation earnings.

The present $10,000 limit on the 25 per cent credit for earned income was increased to $20,000, this action meaning a loss in revenue of about $7,000,000.

It was estimated that the cuts in normal taxes to 1½, 3 and 5 per cent and the cut in surtax maximum to 20 per cent, together with the increase in personal exemptions to $2,500 and $3,500 and the action on earned income would mean an aggregate loss in revenue of from $190,000,000 to $195,000,000.

The committee now has acted on all tax rates except those relating to excise taxes. These will be reduced or repealed to the extent of at least $75,000,000 and probably more.

Below is given the savings for taxpayers which will be effective under the new cuts in normal tax rates to 1½, 3 and 5 per cent, together with increases in exemptions, the tabulation being based on the income of a married man with two dependents:

Gross Income	Present Tax	Proposed Tax
$3,500	$ 3.00	....
4,000	10.50	....
4,500	18.00	$ 2.25
5,000	25.50	7.87
6,000	40.50	19.12
7,000	55.50	30.37
8,000	81.00	41.62
9,000	111.00	60.75
10,000	141.00	85.00

Jury Ready to Try Father Who Killed "Human Husk"

Littleton, Colo.—Word pictures of Hazel Blazer—described by the defense as a human husk without a soul, and by the prosecution as a spark of humanity—were painted in court as the state began introducing evidence in an effort to convict Dr. Harold Elmer Blazer on a charge of murdering his daughter.

The completion of the jury to try the aged physician was effected with startling suddenness and the prosecution plunged ahead with the presentation of witnesses.

Here are some of the descriptions offered by the witnesses of the "thing" that Doctor Blazer slew:

Dr. W. S. Dennis, who performed an autopsy on the body of the girl:

"A female, probably over thirty years of age, about four feet in height and weighing around ninety pounds. She was fairly well developed from the waist up, but the under development of the lower limbs was marked."

Roy Bishop, son-in-law of the defendant:

"A scrap of breathing flesh, unable to feed, clothe herself, or otherwise care for her personal needs. She was absolutely helpless and dependent on Doctor Blazer alone."

Would Restore Lee Mansion

Washington.—Major General W. H. Hart, quartermaster general of the army, has transmitted an estimate of $225,000 as the cost of restoring the Lee mansion in Arlington National cemetery.

Wilson Stamp 13 Cents

Washington.—Postmaster General New announced that he hoped to have a new Wilson stamp of either 13 or 17-cent denomination on sale for the late President's birthday anniversary.

VICEROY OF INDIA

Edward F. L. Wood, minister of agriculture in the Baldwin cabinet, and only surviving son of Viscount Halifax, who has been appointed viceroy of India.

MUSSOLINI HALTS MOB SEEKING VENGEANCE

Three Held in Plot to Assassinate Premier.

Rome.—Premier Mussolini, who had a narrow escape from assassination, subdued a vast crowd of his followers who were determined on summary vengeance.

"You must obey. I wish it!" cried the premier when there were insistent shouts for revenge.

And the crowd, which gave Mussolini the greatest demonstration in his career, became quiet.

Following the discovery of a plot to slay the premier on the day in which Italy was joining in the celebration of the allied victory in the World war, it became known that the police had arrested Tito Zaniboni, former Socialist deputy; Gen. Luigi Capello, a Mason, and Guiseppe Quaglia, former secretary to Zaniboni and now editor of Popola, organ of Don Sturzo, leader of the Catholic Democratic party. The latter is known as one of the bitterest foes of Fascism.

The newspaper organs of the anti-Fascist bloc have been suppressed and all Masonic lodges have been sealed until further orders. Other important arrests are expected soon.

Efforts to place responsibility for the plot on the Masons failed when it was learned that the attempt was the outgrowth of a secret meeting of Socialists, Catholic Democrats, Garibaldians and Masons all in a bloc opposing Mussolini.

The police declare that Zaniboni had selected a room on the level with the balcony from which the premier would speak. The police followed Zaniboni and when they seized him they said they found in his possession a sharpshooter rifle.

French Franc Is Lowest Since Big Break in 1924

New York.—Pounded down by the efforts of Frenchmen to convert their wealth into reliable currencies, the French franc sold for 3.98½ cents, which brought it slightly below the value of the Italian lira and to the lowest point it has touched since speculators drove it to 3.39 cents in March, 1924.

The bulk of the selling of francs, which is taking place in Paris and London rather than New York, comes from French interests distrustful of the franc's future.

Dr. S. Dickie, President Emeritus of Albion, Dies

Albion, Mich.—Dr. Samuel Dickie, president emeritus and connected for almost a half century with Albion college, died suddenly at his East Erie street home here. No person has had a larger part in shaping the destinies of Albion college than Doctor Dickie. In 1888 he became the national chairman of the Prohibition party and served in that capacity for 12 years during which he stumped the country for the dry cause.

Plenty of Turkeys for Thanksgiving This Year

Washington.—There will be plenty of turkeys for Thanksgiving, the Department of Agriculture said, reporting the crop only 4 per cent smaller than last year. Increased production was reported in all states except Texas, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma and California, with the crop in most sections hatched earlier than usual.

Coolidge Home Brings Million

Boston.—The Adams house, home of President Coolidge while governor and famous since 1746 when it was the Lamb Tavern, has been sold for $1,000,000 and will be continued as a hotel.

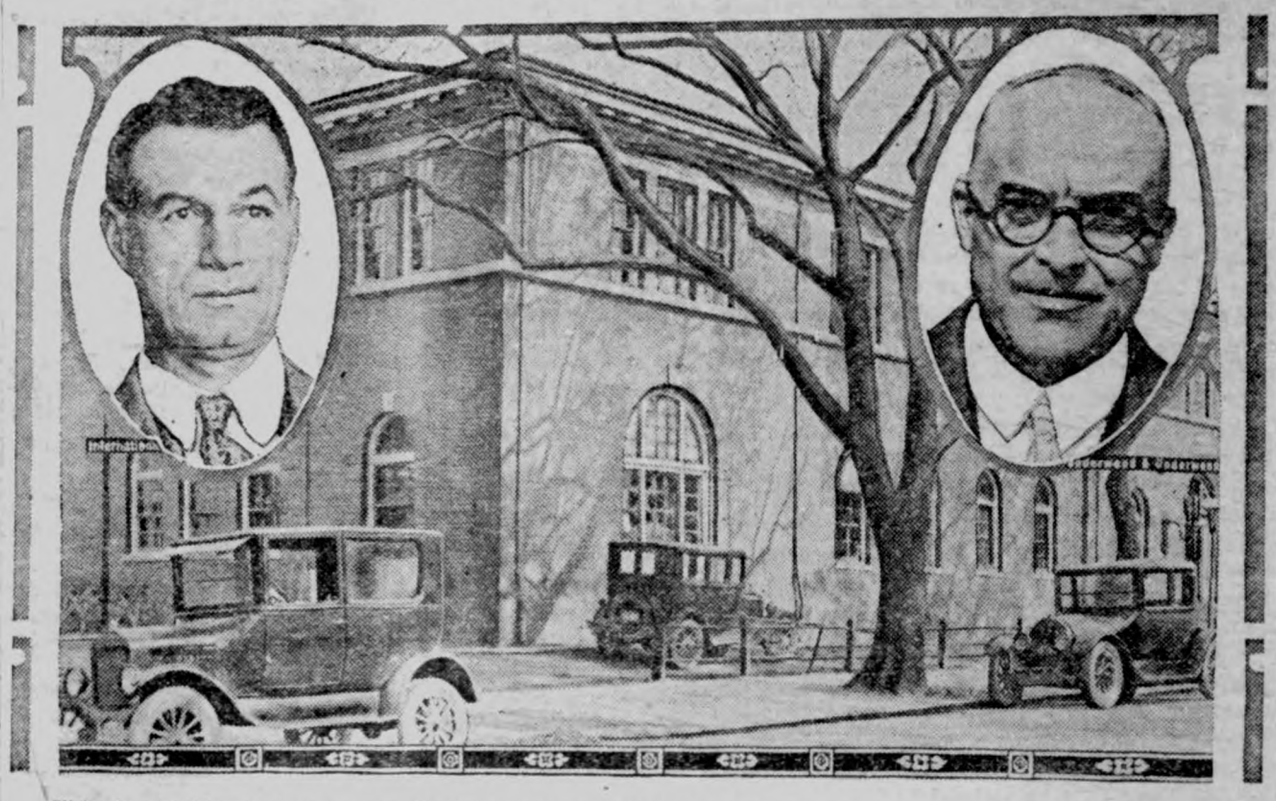
Iowa Turns to Busses

Des Moines, Iowa.—Des Moines and Waterloo, Iowa, both face the prospect of having busses take the place of street cars. Fort Dodge has already decided to abandon street cars.

London Reds Easily Dispersed by Unarmed Bobbies

During the trial of Communists on charges of seditious activity in London, a mob of unemployed Reds paraded in Bow street, where the trial was on, carrying the Red flag and other radical banners. They were charged by London bobbies, disarmed and quickly dispersed.

Where Court-Martial of Mitchell Is Being Held

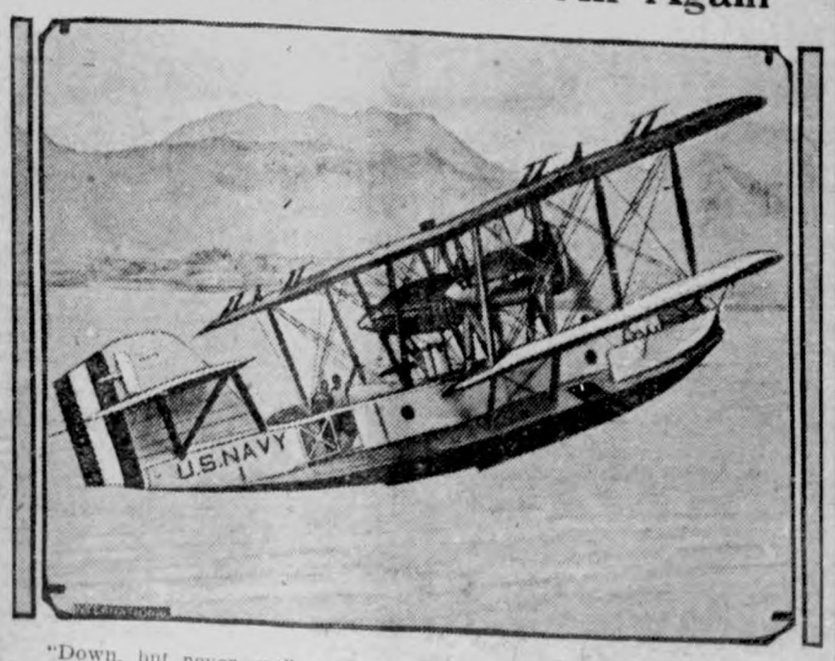


This is the Emory building in Washington, selected by the War department as the scene of the court-martial of Col. William Mitchell of the air service. Inset, at left, is Colonel Mitchell, and at right, Col. Sherman Moreland, U. S. A., judge advocate in the trial.

Mrs. Coolidge Sees Typical Boy

Joseph Nevin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Nevin, selected as Washington's most typical American boy, called on Mrs. Calvin Coolidge in the interest of the Boys' club, which is planning a new clubhouse. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the International Federation of Boys' Clubs.

Failed Once, but in the Air Again



"Down, but never out" applies to the navy plane PN-9, No. 1, which just failed to carry Commander Rogers and his crew to Honolulu from San Francisco. It is here seen in flight near Pearl Harbor after being reconditioned there.

WALKER VICTOR IN N. Y.

State Senator "Jimmy" Walker, Democrat, was elected mayor of New York, defeating F. D. Waterman by a huge majority.

IN FATHER'S PLACE

Above is pictured young Bob La Follette, recently elected in Wisconsin to succeed his father in the senate, as he appeared in his office in the Senate building for the first time. The rooms assigned to him are those held by his father when alive.

FRENCH SUFFER TWO REVERSES IN SYR

Druses Seize Town Near ... mascus—Big Camp Evac... uated.

London.—Two French reverse... the warfare around Damascus ... reported. The Druses have s... Derat, seven miles south of Dama... and have severed communications ... Damascus by means of the Haifa ... mascus railway. Mousselfri, a ... French fortified camp south of Su... in the Jebel Druse territory, has ... evacuated, the French command... porting that this was necessitate... a regrouping of forces.

Although the French comman... says that there is nothing else t... port in Syria, information from ... official sources is that the situa... in Syria is growing graver, with A... joining the Druse rebels, with H... about 80 miles north of Dama... completely isolated and closely ... sieged, and with Damascus under ... and in terror.

The Moslem leaders are preachi... holy war against the French man... and their soldiers are showing a r... less disregard of life.

With Damascus isolated and m... of its inhabitants in flight, the Fr... under General Gamelin are ... fraining from spectacular repri... but seek to continue their effort... keep their hold in Syria under ... rules of civilized warfare until ... question can be taken up by ... League of Nations.

In a dispatch which emphasizes ... seriousness of the situation ar... Damascus, the Cairo correspondent ... the Daily Mail says the insur... leader Ramadan Pasha Ibn She... has proclaimed himself military ... ernor under a provisional governm... Nessib Bey Bakry has been procla... civil governor.

Two Florida Land Firms Are Charged With Fr...

Chicago.—Two Florida land d... opment schemes in which Chicag... are said to have invested were ... tacked from different angles by ... satisfied purchasers. Fraud and ... representation were charged ag... officials of both companies.

Promoters of Gardendale, a 7... acre tract in De Soto county, Flo... were made defendants in a suit ... in the Circuit court by Mr. and ... Frank P. Bradford, 19 South Ce... avenue. The Bradfords bought 50 ... in Gardendale for $1,000, they cha... and then found that the land was ... fit to live on and many miles ... civilization, contrary to adver... ments.

At the same time United States ... uty marshals began seeking five o... principals in the Florida Lloyds ... ganization and the Internat... Lloyds on warrants charging us... the mails to defraud by the sale of ... near Gainesville, Fla. Federal a... was taken following complaints by ... chasers of the land.

Three Soldiers Killed While Flying in Hau...

Honolulu.—Three enlisted men ... killed when an airplane crashed. T... names follow: Technical Serg... Aaron Porter, Henrietta, Okla.; ... Sergeant Henry McCracken, Wilm... ton, Del.; Private Fred Smith, ... ham, Va. The airplane spun a... elevation of 1,000 feet and nose-d... into a group of trees on the penin... opposite the naval hospital at P... Harbor.

Wine on King Tut's Coffi... Gives Workers Hard T...

Cairo, Egypt. — Careless p... spilled funeral libations in King ... Ankh-Ahmen's tomb, leaving a gl... ous deposit, and the 35 centuries ... terment makes it a difficult tas... workers to extricate the succe... sarcophagi and coffins, which, ... inally close fitting, are now t... stuck together by the layer of ... gealed wine.

Lawyer Must Pay 6 Cent... to the House of Da...

Chicago.—By direction of Judg... E. White a jury in the Circuit ... at Benton Harbor, Mich., return... verdict of 6 cents in the suit o... House of David against Att... Jerome Robbins of Chicago. ... plaintiffs sued for $100,000, all... that the attorney blackmailed th...

U. S. Tourists Aid Canad...

Ottawa.—American tourists br... Canada $150,000,000 in revenu... 1925, a sum equal to a quarter o... value of the dominion's wheat ... government officials estimated.

Fourth Huron Bank Clos...

Huron, S. D.—The Farmers ... Merchants Bank of Huron was c... by state officials, the fourth b... bank to close.

Jefferson Fete Next Ye...

New York.—The 150th annive... of the signing of the Declarati... Independence and the centenni... the death of Thomas Jefferson w... celebrated nationally next year, ... announced by the National Jeff... Centennial committee.

Asa Chandler in Hospit...

Atlanta, Ga.—Asa Chandler, Sr.... soft drink manufacturer, was rem... from his home to a hospital suf... from a stomach disorder.

Tells Women to Avoid "Physics"

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated women and girls had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, sallow skin, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Cuticura Soap Is Pure and Sweet Ideal for Children

Sample Soap, Ointment, Talcum free. Address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass.

Never Satisfied

Tom Barr, recently appointed state bank commissioner, tells this one:

The state officials closed a bank in one of the smaller towns recently and authorized the institution to be liquidated. The bank was able to pay 100 cents on the dollar.

One middle-aged woman depositor demanded a dividend on her savings. She was told that the bank had no money to pay dividends. To which she replied: "Well, I should think a bank could borrow enough money to pay dividends."—Indianapolis Star.

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Take Tablets Without Fear If You See the Safety "Bayer Cross."

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years. Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Omnibus Centenary

This year marks the centennial of the omnibus, which made its first appearance in 1825, at Nantes, France.

Is It Eczema?

Roscoe, S. Dak.—"I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for relief of eczema. I took the advice and ordered one bottle. That semed to help me somewhat, and I was encouraged to get another. I had used only two bottles when I found this trouble was completely overcome. I had taken treatment from doctors, but nothing had helped me until I used this wonderful 'Discovery.' I never realized what it was to have smooth and healed hands. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery every time for a blood enricher and health restorer."—Erna Jeschke. All druggists. Write Dr. Pierce, president Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Feel Young~

Take care of your stomach and preserve your health.

HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters tone up the digestive organs, stimulate the appetite and promote a feeling of physical fitness. At all Druggists.

The Hostetter Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Prudence's Daughter

By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

WNU Service

JERRY QUITS

SYNOPSIS—PART ONE: At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, New York, Jerry (Geraldine) Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He admires her tremendously, and she likes him. But Allerton gets a bit exhilarated, with unfortunate results. Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly, the story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Des Moines. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of Art and asks her parents to let her go to New York for study. With some misgiving, they agree to her going. In New York Jerry makes her home with a Mrs. Delaney ("Mimi"), an actress, who, with Theresa, a painter, occupies the house. Jerry takes an immediate liking to Theresa, who is talented and eccentric and the two become fast friends.

CHAPTER III—Continued

—5—

"Now wear your very fluffy-ruffliest party clothes, so they'll all fall in love with you," admonished Rhoda. "He's sure to have some awfully amusing folks, and you'll be crazy about it. You get dressed and come by for me. We'll be rather late. I have to finish a drawing before we go. You come along about ten, and we'll start as soon as I get the darned old lamp in the right place."

"The lamp? What lamp?"

"In my drawing. It's a background thing. There has to be a floor lamp, and the lady villain falls under it. There's only one place in the picture it can possibly go, and when I put it there, it throws a shadow where there should be a light. On the lady's face—see? I've been having the devil's own time with it all day. My lamp isn't tall enough, so I'm going to borrow one of Mimi's to take along home, and perhaps it will go better."

"Why don't you let it go until tomorrow?" asked Jerry. "Then you'll be nice and fresh for it. If you work tonight you'll be all tired out. Wait till tomorrow."

"Oh, but I can't work tomorrow. We're going to a party!"

"Another party tomorrow?"

"No, no, this one, tonight. But I can't work tomorrow. I never can work the day after a party."

Jerry dismissed the subject with a shrug of her pretty shoulder. She had long since ceased trying to understand the ways of eager Rhoda and tired Theresa. She was going to the party, too, as well as Rhoda. Jerry was sure she would be at her class as usual the following day.

At ten o'clock that evening, radiantly lovely in a stunning little flame-colored gown of chiffon velvet, with pearls at her throat and swinging beneath the cluster of curls over her ears, snugly bundled in a great soft cape of finest kolinsky, she took a taxi to Rhoda's studio. And opening the door, in response to a muffled, strangled, "C'm' on in," she stood aghast, staring, eyes wide, lips parted.

"Mimi's tallest, handsomest, rosiest floor lamp stood conspicuously in the center of the room, and on a rug directly beneath it, lay Rhoda herself, in a shimmering evening gown of gold and green, writhing, twisting, squirming, studying herself frowningly in a small hand mirror to get the effect of her contortions.

As the meaning of the curious pantomime burst upon Jerry, she broke into peals of merry laughter.

"Oh, Rhoda, you can't imagine how ridiculous you look," she cried.

Rhoda got up. She took Jerry's handsome kolinsky wrap and tossed it across a chair.

"You do it." She waved a light hand toward the picture on her easel. "See, it's like this. There's the lady. The lamp has to be there. It throws her face into shadow, see? And it's got to be clear and in a bright light. Now now the dickens—"

Under her insistence, Jerry was obliged, flame-colored chiffon velvet and all, to sprawl out on the rug on the floor—turning this way, twisting that, head thrown backward, tilted higher, while Rhoda stood over her, scowling, criticizing, swearing softly beneath her breath, moving the lamp, now here, now there.

And after some ten minutes of painful effort on the part of good-natured Jerry, she suddenly found that a bright shaft of light fell directly across the lovely face on the rug. She cried out, joyously, clasping her hands.

"Hold it, hold it, Jerry!" she ordered. And caught up her brush to catch the light.

For thirty minutes the room was hushed with a great silence, while Rhoda worked feverishly at the picture, and Jerry, on the floor, almost held her breath in her fear of spoiling the effect.

Presently Rhoda clicked out the brilliant light beside the easel, sighing loudly in relief, and laughed. "Done! That's fine! Much obliged, Jerry. You're the nicest little sport I ever saw."

It was after eleven o'clock, muffled in heavy wraps, they were in a taxi on their way to Brooklyn.

That was the night of Jerry's first studio party, the night of Carter Blake's "contract souse," as it was affectionately recorded in the memories of his friends forever after. And that was the night when Jerry, basking warmly in the intoxicating intimacy of Duane Allerton's friendly smile, lost the glamorous illusion of her girlhood's tenderest dream.

CHAPTER IV

When Jerry Gave Up

It was four o'clock in the morning when Jerry reached her little studio apartment on Reilly's alley after Carter Blake's hilarious "contract souse" in Brooklyn. She went in very slowly, very quietly, and placed her great fur cloak carefully on its hanger in the small closet. And then she set to work, with the minutest care and orderliness, piling together every pencilled sketch, every laboriously painted tree and flower, every anxiously outlined face and figure that was even remotely connected with the pursuit of Art. When she had it all in one heap, she wrapped it in heavy paper and tied it with a stout cord. Then she cleaned her brushes with painful, painstaking intentness, closing every bottle and tube and jar of paint and oil, wiping them neatly and packing them all in their boxes. These she put away on the top shelf of her closet. Last of all, she released the supports of her easel and let it down, and then, with a great effort, managed to shove it into her bath closet behind the ridiculously small tub.

Jerry did not know why she did these things. She did not even wonder why. She only knew that she must banish every reminder of a dead passion—though really Art had never been a passion with her, but only a pleasant, luke-warm interest. When easel, sketches and paints were gone from her sight, she sighed a little wearily. She removed the flame-colored gown and went to bed.

At ten o'clock the next morning she went up to Theresa, carrying a gaudy tray, on which she had arranged a charming little breakfast with that daintiness which characterized everything she did. Theresa, who kept her door forbiddingly barred to Mimi, and to all the world besides, after the first few days of their acquaintance, had given Jerry a duplicate key.

"Come in whenever you like," she said. "You have an easy way about you that doesn't drive me wild, like everybody else. But don't knock! Just use the key and come right in! There's never any love-making to interrupt here."

Theresa's abhorrence to knocking was a frenzy with her. A state of nerves, Jerry called it, but Theresa, who never acknowledged nerves in any shape or form, denied it, although the slightest tapping startled her to such a degree that it was a physical pain.

"Oh, I'm off in the clouds, and it jerks me down to earth so fast it makes my teeth chatter," was the way she described the sensation.

There was a huge black and white sign on her door which read:

"For God's sake, don't knock. Cough, and I'll let you in, if I want to see you."

Jerry, with that delicate reserve acquired in twenty years with Prudence, would not for the world have intruded so bruskly even when invited to do so, and was always careful to approach slowly, with a slight clearing of her throat, fumbling a bit with the key, and then pausing a long moment before opening the door, to give Theresa time to adjust herself to company, whether she wished for time or not.

Theresa looked up at her entrance and nodded briskly in greeting. Theresa never said "good morning." She held that a nod meant welcome, and a frown requested your absence.

"Come and eat," Jerry said, without preamble. "You've got on my conscience so I can't sleep nights, thinking of you up here wasting away to a shadow, and for no good reason either. I'm expecting any time to find you've devoured your easel."

Theresa was thinner, wanner, the dark circles shadowing her brilliant eyes deeper and wider than before. She took the tray gratefully and balanced it on her knee.

"You are the nicest kid, Jerry," she said. "I am hungry. I wish I could mess about with a grill the way Rhoda does, but everything comes out burned, or raw, or too much salt. I haven't the knack for it, and it makes me peevish anyhow. The sight of a pan arouses all my evil instincts. I wish I had been born a cave man, and then I could eat my food raw—just catch a bird, and gobble him up."

"You're cave man enough," Jerry warned her. "Don't wish for any more of it. Do you notice an improvement in my cooking? Rhoda has been showing me, and it's really rather fun, Theresa. I'm glad that you don't mind my practicing on you."

They sat for a while in silence, Theresa drinking the hot coffee, nibbling the crisp toast, with warm appreciation. The silence was not unusual. Sometimes they sat for an hour saying not one word, Theresa working steadily at her easel, Jerry curled up comfortably on the tumbled couch.

"I'm glad your eyes are blue," Theresa said suddenly, with one of her rare smiles. "I don't mind your staring about. Brown eyes give me the willies."

"Was I staring? I'm sorry."

Theresa looked at her curiously. In Jerry's abstraction, she found food for conversation.

"Oh, I don't mind. I wonder if it is because your eyes are so blue that your lashes seem so cloudy, or because your lashes are so dark that your eyes seem so blue?"

"I don't know."

Again Theresa swept her a quiet look. "Or perhaps it is the midnight blackness of your hair, and the olive cream of your skin, that effects the subtle combination."

Jerry said nothing.

"Have a good time at the party?"

"Oh, yes, lovely."

"You're late for your class. I'm going to report you to the Amalgamated Middle West. You're supposed to be prompt."

"I'm not going to the class."

"Why not? Too much party?"

"I'm not going to study Art any more."

"Why not?"

"Because I can't paint. You knew it all the time, didn't you?"

"Yes. How did you find out?"

"I don't know. It just came to me, all of a sudden. Why didn't you tell me, Theresa?"

"You do very nicely, Jerry—for amusement—for—for passing away

There Was a Huge Black Sign on Her Door.

the time, and all that. You just haven't the spark, that's all."

"I wish you had told me, Theresa." Jerry was wretchedly abject in her despondency.

"Why should I? It amused you, and you have money to pay for any amusement that pleases you. If you had gone in professionally, expecting to make a career of it, a living—McDowell would have told you. But you were never really one of us, you know."

"You mean I—I am a misfit."

"Yes, a misfit." Theresa smiled upon her.

"You—you don't like me very well, do you, Theresa?" Jerry's voice was pathetic.

Theresa's answer surprised her. "I think you are the sweetest, the most lovable girl I ever saw in my life. In fact, you're the only one I ever did see."

Jerry flushed deeply with surprise and pleasure.

"You may not be an artist, but you're a heavenly fine kid. You're not going home, are you?"

"N-no. I'm not. I think not. I don't know what I am going to do."

Theresa put the tray on the floor, and Jerry went downstairs.

* * * * * * *

Jerry expected quite confidently to hear from Rhoda, by telephone at least, to make inquiry as to her safe arrival alone at that ghastly hour. But she neither telephoned nor came. And so, late in the afternoon, Jerry walked the six intervening blocks to her studio. The maid assured her that Miss La Faye was in, and sent her directly up, but although Jerry knocked twice, very smartly, there was no answer. She started down, but as the maid insisted that her friend was certainly in, she returned once more, and used the heavy knocker to such good effect that after a time there came a muffled groan, a flinging about of covers, and presently the shuffling of soft-soled slippers toward the door.

It was a flushed and disheveled Rhoda who confronted her, her usually bright eyes swollen, inflamed and dull. Two grotesque kid curlers, protruded stiffly over her left eye, while the rest of her bobbed hair dangled about her face in free disorder.

"Why didn't you do it all?" demanded Jerry quickly, her eyes on the bristling curlers. "Why such partiality?"

Following the direction of Jerry's eyes, Rhoda lifted a languid hand and felt vaguely about her forehead, coming to a sudden, electrical alertness as she felt the two curlers. She ran to the mirror for a minute inspection.

"For heaven's sake," she wailed, "did I go like that to the party?"

Jerry assured her she did not, and Rhoda sighed in great relief.

"Well, I don't know how it happened," she said, "and I don't care. Bertrande brought me home. Perhaps he did it for a joke. As long as I did not disgrace myself at the party, I don't care."

She tumbled upon the bed again, and Jerry sat down beside her.

"Oh, such a head," moaned Rhoda, lifting her hands to her throbbing temples. "I swear every time I'll never do it again, and then I do."

Jerry took off her gloves, removed her hat, folded her coat nicely over the back of a chair, and went to work. She got out cups and saucers, measured coffee and water into the electric percolator, and connected the switch.

"You'd better have it black," she said, "but I'll take cream as usual."

Encouraged by her gentle activity, Rhoda pulled a dressing-gown about her shoulders, bathed her flushed face, brushed out her tousled locks, and then drooped wearily upon the tumbled couch once more.

"We didn't come home until six o'clock," she said. "We had breakfast before we left—ham and eggs and everything. I made the toast. Burned myself, too."

"Six o'clock! But, Rhoda, how can you work—"

"Who's going to work? I told you yesterday I couldn't work today. That's why I finished the picture. Oh, such a head!"

"Well, of all the silly things," Jerry said, in her most pompously Prudence voice. "Work all night, or dance all night, or— It is plain intemperance, Rhoda. You ought to use a little judgment about things! No wonder you're a wreck."

Rhoda laughed feebly. "Now, Iowa," she protested teasingly. "There speaks the corn-fed baby!" Then she added soberly: "Did you enjoy it, Jerry? Every one liked you so much. They thought you were perfectly lovely, although discreet. Korzky said you were quite annoyed because he kissed you—at least he thought it was you. And Duane—"

"I had a lovely time, thanks," Jerry interrupted. "It was the most amusing thing I ever saw in my life. No wonder we hear these little stories about Greenwich!"

"That isn't Greenwich, that's Brooklyn," objected Rhoda. "But anyhow we admit it. We do nothing by fractions. When we jazz, we jazz. But remember this, Old Mississippi. When we work, we work. I've slaved away every night but three in the last three months. The theater twice, the party once. If I want to jazz until morning—"

"It's nobody's business but your own," Jerry put in, laughing, as Rhoda hesitated.

"Righto! Rush along the coffee, Angel-face. My merry-go-rounds are back-firing on me."

Jerry hastened to pour the coffee, and they drank a cup in silence, then another. With the third serving Jerry broke the silence.

"Rhoda, who is Francy? I haven't met her, have I?"

"Francy? Oh, you mean Francy England. Well, she is Duane Allerton's new flame, since Kitty Karson got married. What did he say about her?"

"He didn't mention her. It was Aimee. She didn't say anything—just spoke of her."

"She's not really in our crowd, you know. She's one of the Batik Trailers."

"The Batik—"

"Um, you know. Batik Trailers—the idle rich—those who can't paint, can't sing, can't write—but like the atmosphere and move in to get the air. We have to provide entertainment for them. Sometimes it's china painting, sometimes weaving, or beadwork; right now it's batik. Heaven knows what next! It's the raison d'etre for the Art Trailers."

Now that Jerry realizes that she is no genius, what is she going to do? And is Allerton out of it?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Chance Acquaintance

Nearly every season I make the acquaintance of one or more new flowers. It takes years to exhaust the botanical treasures of any one considerable neighborhood, unless one makes a dead set at it, like an herbalist. One likes to have his floral acquaintances come to him easily and naturally, like his other friends. Some pleasant occasion should bring you together. You meet in a walk, or touch elbows on a picnic under a tree, or get acquainted on a fishing or camping-out expedition. What comes to you in the way of birds or flowers, while wooing only the large spirit of open-air nature, seems like special good fortune. At any rate, one does not like to bolt his botany, but rather to prolong the course.—John Burroughs.

The Modern Flat

"That fellow must live in a very small flat!" "What makes you think that?" "His dog wags its tail up and down instead of sideways."—Answers.

Division Manager

Mutual Life of Illinois Never Without PE-RU-NA In His Home

Mr. F. H. Fricke, whose address is 625 Pontiac Bldg., St. Louis, Mo., writes under the date of June 25, 1924:—

"My family and myself have had splendid results from your Pe-ru-na. We are never without it in our home. I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for what it has done for my family and myself. When I contract a cold I immediately take a dose of Pe-ru-na and get relief. I recommend Pe-ru-na everywhere."

For coughs, colds, catarrh and catarrhal conditions generally Pe-ru-na has been recognized as reliable for over fifty years.

Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid

Send 4 cents postage to THE PE-RU-NA COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio, for book on catarrh.

SPOHN'S

Best for 30 Years for Distemper, Pink-Eye, Influenza, Laryngitis, Cataarhal Fever, Epizootic, Coughs or Colds.

For Horses, Mules & Dogs,

SPOHN MEDICAL CO. GOSHEN, IND.

DISTEMPER COMPOUND

Hams

Senior—What is cold boiled ham?

Frosh—Oh, that's ham boiled in cold water, isn't it?—Bison.

People have no right to make fools of themselves, unless they have no relations to blush for them.—Halliburton.

How Robert M. Koenig Found Remedy for Pimply Skin

For years my skin would break out every once in a while—and ointments did very little to help me.

I read a doctor's article stating that pimply skin usually comes from the stomach—and bowels not getting rid of the poisons.

I tried Carter's Little Liver Pills for a few days—and since that time my skin is smooth and clear. Now I tell my friends the right way of getting rid of a broken out skin—and also of steering clear of upset stomach and sick headache. Carter's are all you claim for them.

Use of Steel Increases

In 1880, when the steel industry was establishing itself, the per capita use of steel in the United States was 56 pounds, but due to modern industrial development the amount required is now about 755 pounds per person.

No more RHEUMATISM

IT'S GONE! That awful agony! Rheumatism can't stand the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build.

But rheumatism will bring pain and misery to your joints and muscles just as long as you are without plenty of rich, red blood in your system.

It's the red-blood-cells that S. S. S. helps Nature build that drive out of your system the impurities that cause rheumatism. And until you do build up your blood to where it is pure and rich and red, you simply can't get rid of rheumatism.

And S. S. S. is the thing. Red blood conquers rheumatism. Everybody knows that.

S. S. S. means millions of red-blood-cells—means health all over. No more rheumatism. Nights of rest—days of joy, filled with the happiness of accomplishment — made possible by a body brimful of red blooded life, energy and vitality.

S.S.S.

That's what the end of rheumatism means—that's what S. S. S. brings to you. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

CHAFING and RASHES promptly relieved and healed by a few applications of Resinol

NO sir! They can't put anything over on Grandma Schroeder. Monday afternoon Mrs. Marlin Croner and Mrs. Lena Schoeder invited several of Grandma's friends to surprise her on her birthday. Grandma had it all doped out but said nothing, so she quietly slipped into her silks and satins, fixed up her hair nice and got all dolled up in general and sat in the parlor to await results. At the appointed time the ladies invited to do the surprising arrived but Grandma stepped to the door and invited them in before that had a chance to surprise her. However, an enjoyable afternoon was spent, even though the surprises failed in their part of the program. They enjoyed games of bunco after which a most delightful lunch was served. Grandma Schroeder was presented with a variety of useful and beautiful gifts in remembrance of the occasion her, well we almost gave it away but she is past her sixteenth birthday. We never like to tell a young lady's age you know. Anyway we wish her many more happy birthdays and may she have the pleasure of fooling them every time!

IDLE HOUR PROGRAM

For Friday and Saturday, Nov. 13 and 14 we are showing the great and famous picture, "THE TEN COMMANDMENTS," a Paramount production by Cecil B. De Milles. The mightiest dramatic spectacle of all ages. Don't fail to see this, the biggest picture of the year, Friday and Saturday this week.

Wednesday, November 18 we are showing aMetro picture, "The Man Life Passed By." This is recommended to us as a high class picture.

Who Is Tibbits?

The following item appeared in the Mason City Globe-Gazette the other day: Three couples from out of the city applied for marriage licenses Saturday. Fery B. Tibbits, of Klemme and Elsie Marie Christensen of Rock Falls." Now who is Tibbits? We don't know the young man but never-the-less we extend congratulations.

MANY SCHOOL ROBBERIES INDICATE TRAVELING THIEVES

The LuVerne News reports that the school building in that town was broken into on Friday night, Oct. 23. It was the following night that the school in Britt was entered and the depot also. The mail sacks stolen from the Britt depot were found Thursday in a box car that had been spotted at the south elevator. The mail was little disturbed. On Sunday night the Milwaukee depot at Algona and the high school were broken into. In each school building entered the vault was tampered with in a manner like at Britt. Then on Tuesday night the high school at Clear Lake was broken into and the robbers obtained $30.00.

The many robberies of a like nature would indicate that the men doing the work travel from one point to another.—Britt News Tribune.

LADIES AID BAZAR NOV. 19

Menu

Oyster Stew, with crackers	20c
Hot Chicken Sandwiches	10c
Hot Beef Sandwiches	05c
Hot Baked Beans	05c
Hot Scalloped Potatoes	05c
Hot Fresh Dougnuts, 2 for	05c
Hot Coffee	05c
Pie, per cut	05c
Cake, per piece	05c

Come and order what you wish, from 2:00 P. M. until 8:00 P. M. at the Parish House.

The $440,000 University of Iowa field house has just been funded by a $300,000 loan negotiated, and will be constructed as an addition to he great Iowa gymnasium. It will become the world's largest athletic plant, 430 feet long and 412 feet wide. It will contain a room large enough to house a football game, immense swimming pool and a basketball floor around which 12,000 spectators can gather.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Klemme, Iowa,
October 19, 1925.

Regular meeting of the Town Council held at the Town Hall.

Three members of Council present.

Upon motion the following bills were ordered paid:

E. J. Jacobs, Supplies	$ 18.50
H. S. Schwantz, Hauling dirt and gravel	45.80
W. F. Stille, 271 loads of gravel	67.80
Jos. E. Johnson, 10 loads of sand	10.00
Community S. S. Co., Gasoline	7.40
Klemme Times, Publishing Council Proceedings and Hearing for Taxpayers	19.15
Harry Gram, Drayage	1.70
John Suckow, Labor At Town Hall	63.95
Standard Oil Company, Oil and Gasoline	12.82
Northern Lumber Co., Lumber and Cement	466.30
Central States Electric Co., Sept. Street Lights	37.00
Ben J. Coobs, September Salary	75.00

Bills allowed.
Meeting adjourned.

A. J. KUDJE,
Clerk.

ABOUT THE KEOKUK DAM

The recent sale of the dam across the Mississippi river at Keokuk is of special interest to Iowa people be cause f the large amount of stock held by them. The purchase was by the North American Company, a subsidiary of the Union Electric Light and Power Co. It is now twenty years since the launching of the superpower project at Keokuk. The first company was organized in 1905 and was known as the Keokuk and Hamilton Power company. The Mississippi River Power company was formed five years later and it eventually gained control of the dam and power plant. At the present time the hydro-electric plant supplies 170,000 horse-power for a large number of cities along the Mississippi river. St. Louis alone takes 60,000 horse power for its electric railroad, light and power, and Burlington, Fort Madison and numerous other towns and cities in Iowa and Illinois - ceive power from it. It is understood that the new company will greatly enlarge the circle of its service.

UNCLE SAMMY COLLECTS

E. L. C. White of Spencer, Clay county, says that a government officer swoped down upon that town the other day and informed officers of the Spencer Baseball association that a ten per cent tax was due the government on tickets sold for the grandstand at Arnolds Park and for the bleachers at the fair grounds this year. A special meeting of the board of directors was called Monday afternoon and the books were gone into, with the result that the government collected $220 more for seats sold this year. The government ruling is that a tax must be paid on both admissions and seat sales since the patrons pay for both to see the one attraction. Every city in the state having a semi-pro team this year is being visited by agents and similar collections are being made.

DAM AT IOWA FALLS WILL DAMAGE 3 COUNTY BRIDGES

Hardin County is plaintiff in an injunction proceeding which was begun last week in district court before Judge S. A. Clock of Hampton. The county asserts that the Iowa Falls Electric Service corporation is building a dam across the Iowa river in the city of Iowa Falls and if permitted to carry the project to it's completion, will raise the water level to such an extent that three county bridges will be greatly damaged. The case is unusual because few actions of the sort have ever been brought into court. Judge Clock will be compelled to pioneer the way to some extent in the law points involved.—Eagle Grove Times.

ORPHANAGE NEEDS HELP

The close times have levied a heavy toll on the Christian Home Orphanage at Council Bluffs, Iowa, and the Institution is in great need of financial help. It is making an appeal to charitably inclined people for a liberal Thanksgiving oeffring and we gladly give space to this article to help the good cause along. Send in what you feel able to send and help the worthy work.

The Christian Home is supported entirely by voluntary donations. It has no endowment and does not receive any appropriations of any kind.

Address The Christian Home Orphanage, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

TO MAKE USE OF WAREHOUSE LAW

More than 11,000 Iowa farmers have actually signed contracts to hold their corn under the Iowa Ware house law, until the price reaches cost of production plus a profit of 5 per cent, E. F. Callery of Webster City, director at large of the National Corn Growers association, declared.

He estimated that if the present rate of increase continues that there will be 50,000 Iowa farmers that will have signed such contracts. He said that the work of organizing the farmers will be carried into eight other states and predicted that the response there will be just as widespread as it has been here.

He said that farmers of the Corn Belt could well learn a lesson from the coffee growers of Brazil who hold their product and let it go on to the market gradually and at such a rate that the price does not flucuate. He said that such a procedure would not only help in stabilizing the price of corn but would have the same effect on the prices of meat.

Mr. Callery declared that the last session of congress has done more for the farmer than any other session in history because of the repeal of the law which forbade farmers from organizing to sell their products and the passage of the intermediate credit act.

THAT LETTER FROM HOME SWEET HOME

Countless people in the rush of everyday life unintentionally neglect to write as often as they should to those whom are near and dear to them.

Possibly, nothing is more appreciated by those, who, for various reasons, have taken abode in a distant place, than a letter from home sweet home.

If you are habitually inclined to neglect to write; why not send a weekly letter from home in the form of your home town paper. It will satisfy that craving which nothing else can—but a letter from home, sweet home.

A town is usually judged from a distance by the kind of newspaper issuing therefrom. You rarely see a newspaper of any acount issuing from a town that has one foot in the grave and the other slipping. Live business men mean live newspapers; live newspapers mean live towns; support your newspaper—BOOST your town.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blume 's
REPAIR SHOP

REALIZING ON THE THRIFT HABIT

There is no want or hardship in this couple's life. Their declinng years can now be spent n ease and contentment—because they cultivated the habit of thrift when hey were young.

Thrift brings prosperity, independence and success—makes it possible for people to have the comforts which add so much to joy of living.

First National Bank.
KLEMME. IOWA.

RADIOS--All Kinds

TUBES AND RECEIVERS AREIAL TESTED
AUTHORIZED RADIO DEALER IN RADIOLA, ATWATER KENT, MUSIC MASTER, BOSCH.
Let Me Order a Radio For You and Save You Some Money.
Sub-Agent For Stewart-Warner, Thermiodyne, Radiodyne.

Complete American Super (5 tubes)	$ 85.00
PARKER Super-Hetrodyne (7 tubes)	$145.00
L. 2 Ultradyne (8 tubes)	$181.00
G. C. Dayton Polydyne (5 tubes)	$118.00

—Trade Your Small Set In On A Five to Eight Tube Set.—
3 Second Hand 1 and 3 tube sets. New Radiolas are hard to get so leave your order early. Other make sets in one week.

WRITE FOR PRICES

Karl Krause
Route 2 VENTURA, IOWA.

THE CASH STORE

We have a nice line of Leather Jackets, Sheepskin Lined Coats, Dress Overcoats, Wool Hosiery, Warm Mittens—Everything for WINTER WEAR.

See our goods and get our prices before buying.

MENS ONE BUCKLE OVERSHOES

$2.39

SATURDAY SPECIAL
Special Reduced Prices on Canned Goods

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

Specials- Fri. and Saturday

November 13 and 14

In order to stimulate buying, we are offering some unusul Buys for Friday and Saturday of this week.

OUTING FLANNEL

36 inch extra quality Outing Flannel, useful for dress patterns, under garments or bed coverings. A splendid value at 25c per yard, Special Friday and Saturday per yard only 19c

UNDERWEAR

Here's a real one. Extra quality, heavy fleece-lined Union Underwear for Men. A bargain at $1.95. Yours for Friday and Saturday, at only $1.39

CANNED PINEAPPLE

Large Size No. 2 1-2 can, regular 35c quality Pineapple, very Special, Friday and Saturday, per can 25c

FIG BAR COOKIES

3 pounds of fresh Fig Bar cookies for 35c. The regular selling price of these cookies is 35 cents per pound. Price them elsewhere.

CARLOAD OF APPLES

FANCY NEW YORK APPLES

We have them in eight different varieties from Baldwins to Spies. Your choice Friday and Saturday, per basket $1.75

Canned Food Week

November 9 to 21st

WE OFFER 200 VARIETIES OF FOOD PRODUCTS, OUT OF SEASON PRODUCTS OF ALL KINDS IN HIGHEST QUALITIES

Vegetables Fruits Fish Meats Milk

RICH IN VITIMINS— —IF CANNED IT'S FRESH

Stock your pantry. It always pays to buy quality goods.

REMEMBER—YOU SAVE MONEY BY BUYING BY THE CASE—

CANNED CORN

Elnora Brand, Extra Standard Corn
By the case, per can 9 1-2c
By the single can, per can.... 11c

FANCY CROSBY CORN

By the case, per can 12c
By the single can, per can 13c

CANNED TOMATOES

Cool Spring Brand
By the case, per can 9 1-2c
By the single can, per can 11c

CANNED SALMON

By the dozen, per can 18c
By the single can, per can 20c

Every Family in this Community should have a case of these products

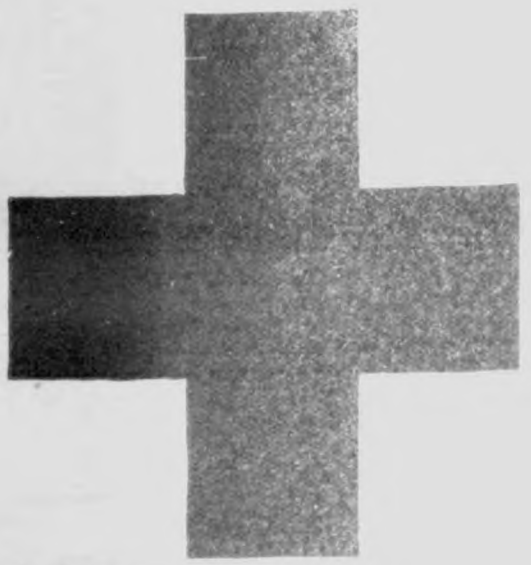
Chas. Abraham & Sons

S. E. Adams, Mgr. GARNER, IOWA

SECTION OF

The Klemme Times

KLEMME, IOWA THURSDAY NOVEMBER 12, 1925



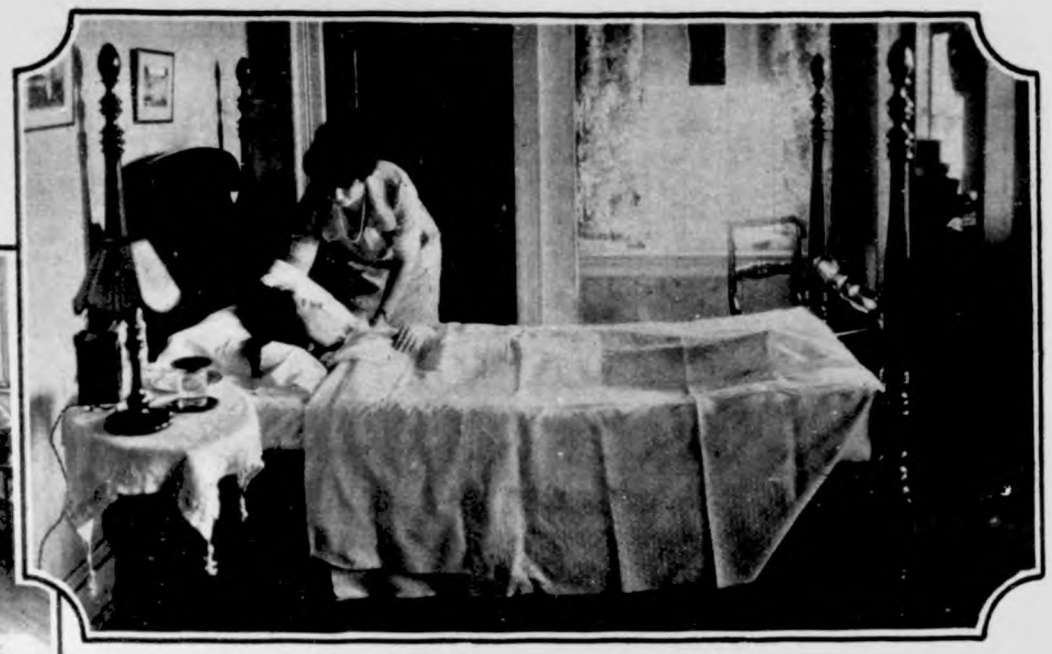
Join now!

The Red Cross serves humanity

You can help the Red Cross by using this as a window display during Roll Call.

The AMERICAN RED CROSS IN ACTION

A recreation room in a U. S. Veterans Bureau hospital for disabled war veterans, supervised by the Red Cross—just one phase of Red Cross service to those who suffered in the World War.



The girl by the bedside of her sister has been taught the essentials of caring for the sick in the home through a Red Cross course in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick.

A class of boys learning how to rescue drowning persons by Red Cross methods.

Under the Red Cross emblem is enrolled an army of nurses, prepared to serve in the emergencies of war and peace.

Girls and boys in a public school, all members of the American Junior Red Cross, writing to school children of another land—helping to weave world-wide ties of friendly understanding.

A Red Cross instructor teaching shop workers the principles of first aid in accidents, knowledge that often saves lives.

This farmer has found the Red Cross Public Health Nurse an ally and a help in his home problems—she is the "friend in need" to all the community.

Supplying milk for those made homeless in a town torn to pieces by a tornado. The Red Cross acts instantly to provide relief for communities stricken by disaster.

SALE—S. C. W. Leghorn ..ls, Hollywood Egg Basket ... Rufus Steffen, Kanawha Britt phone. 2wp

MME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

...rsday, November 12, 1925

... (trade)	.42
... (cash)	.41
...Y HENS	.17
...T HENS	.13
...DARD SPRINGS	.17
...ORN SPRINGS	.13
...S	.12
... BOOSTERS	.07
...SE	.08
...TERFAT	.55
...ER (Klemme Creamery)	.55
... CORN	.50
...LED CORN	.60
...AT	$1.45
...S	.30
...LEY	.50—.55
...	.65—.70
...s (Top)	$11.60

DR. R. E. PORTER
Chiropractic Health Service
North Side Main Street
...e 312 Belmond, Iowa

Sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop.

FOR SALE—Scotch Collie pups. Wm. Ax. 2wc

Don't forget the Ladies Aid Bazar next Thursday, Nov. 19th.

Get your Yankee Doodle Husking Gloves and Mittens at E. F. Jacobs. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Elder and daughter, Reva, were visiting at Mason City Thursday.

We specialize in repairing Auto Tops and Side Curtains. Chris Blumer's Repair Shop. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. M. Frank, of Waseca, Minnesota, were visiting with Klemme friends Friday.

Ben Swalve (Junior) left last week Wednesday for Chicago where he will take an architectural course this winter.

FOR SALE—Buckwheat Flour, in bulk or 10 and 20 lb. sacks. Leave orders at Kluckhohn's Store. Karl Krause. 2tc

Mrs. Nagel and children and Miss Margaret Brussel, of Clarion, and Mrs. Groth and daughter of St. Paul, visited at the P. M. Wilson home Saturday.

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kluckhohn took in the show at Garner Friday evening.

Mrs. Gary and baby spent last week end visiting with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Albertson at Rutland, Iowa.

CORN CRIBS—American Corn Cribs, Creosoted Slat Corn Cribs are sold by the Northern Lumber Company, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

A fine baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buss Friday. This makes them two fine boys in the family and Harry is stepping high.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Lewis went to Grundy Center Saturday for a few days visit with their son, Ernest and wife.

LOST—Brown coin purse containing some change. Finder please return to Miss Lovrein or leave at the Times Office. 1wp

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Patet drove to Hayfield on business Friday afternoon, and also attended to matters of business while there.

We are now booking orders for Christmas Cards. Leave your order at the Times Office. Call in and see the beautiful samples. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wiles, and Mrs. Sadie Howard and son, Sammy, of Ames were visiting with Klemme friends Friday and looking after business matters.

School teachers! Get your construction paper at the Times Office. 9x12 sheets, 16 colors, package of 52 sheets for 25c. 1tc

William and Carlyle Gauger visited the county school near Kanawha Friday where their sister, Miss Marie is the teacher. Marie came home with them for the week end.

Miss Gladys Wilson returned Monday morning from Vinton, where she visited with friends last week during the week-end school vacation.

The high school teachers of the Klemme school attended the state teachers meeting at Des Moines last week. Some 8,000 Iowa teachers attended the convention this year.

At the Ladies Aid Bazar at the Parish House on Thursday, Nov. 19, a lunch will be served all afternoon and evening. Menu published elsewhere in this issue.

"Jack" Wellemeyer and "Heinie" Suckow drove to Ames Friday to be at the Ames home coming celebration and witness the Ames-Grinnel football game.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Gauger, Miss Marie, Eugene and Harlan, drove to Mason City Monday for a visit with Mrs. Gauger's mother, Mrs. Josten, of Garner, who is at a Mason City hospital.

BASKET SOCIAL—There will be a basket social Thursday, Nov. 12th at District No. 2, Liberty township. A program will be given. Ladies are requested to bring baskets. Sophia Katter, teacher. 1tp

Armistice Day, Wednesday, November 11th, passed quietly in Klemme as no celebration was held. The community flags were all placed in their respective positions on Main Street and the town took on a patriotic appearance never-the-less.

Don't forget the Ladies Aid Bazar on Thursday, Nov. 19th. This is your opportunity to purchase some mighty fine Christmas gifts and at the same time you are spending your money for a good cause.

Mr. and Mrs. Rust and son drove to Decatur, Iowa, Tuesday for a few days visit with relatives there. Mr. Rust's mother has one of the largest chick hatcheries in the state at Decatur and "Rusty" helps look after the business.

FOR SALE—P. B. Chester White boars of the smooth, stretchy type, the best I have offered for sale. New blood lines for old customers, cholera immune. Erith Cook, Kanawha phone and mail. 4wc

The Royal Neighbors entertained at a card party at their hall last Thursday evening, which was largely attended. At the appointed hour a nice lunch was served by the lodge ladies. All reported having had a good time.

BASKET SOCIAL—A Basket Social and program will be given at Avery District No. 5, on Friday evening, November 20th. Ladies please bring basket or pie. Dalia Stromer, Teacher; W. L. Sherwood, Director. 1tc

Here is an item of news which we intended to publish last week but somehow it was "side-tracked." Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kluckhohn entertained the clerks of the store to a party Hallowe'en night after they closed the store. Such good things as lots of pies, cake, coffee, sandwiches etc. were on the program and all report having had a fine time.

The Misses Lovrein and Thompson gave a weiner roast party for their grades Friday evening. The roast was held at C. A. Larsen's grove, and all had a fine time gathered around a big blazing bon-fire. We have a lively bunch of teachers this year and scarcely a week passes by but what a party is held for one or more of the classes.

Next week Friday, November 20, the Klemme High School boys basketball team goes to Crytsal Lake to play the first game of the season. Klemme has a mighty good line-up this year and we predict they will be a winning team. As many as can should go to Crystal Lake with the team and give them a lot of support so they can begin the season right by winning he first game. It puts more pep into a team if they have a large delegation of home boosters with them on their trips. The first home game will be on the 25th with Crystal Lake here. All set? Let's go!

No use waiting until they're dead and then hand out bouquets so we just want to say here that Klemme has the best line-up of teachers this year than any other of the eight years we have been in Klemme. They are a lively group and seem to be doing all in their power to make our school the very best. So give them your suppor' and attend as many of the school entertainments as possible and show you are a booster. One of the good organizations to which every adult in Klemme and vicinity should belong to is the P. T. A. A very fine meeting was held Tuesday evening and in the neighborhood of fifty persons are now on the roll as members. A lot of good can be accomplished at these meetings when parents and teachers can discuss problems for the better of all concerned.

Abe Is Doing Well At Renwick

Mr. Lauritzen accompanied by Miss Opal Lowe spent Sunday with Mr. Lauritzen's sister at Bancroft.—School Notes in Renwick Times.

Radio Supplies

Get your Radio in good shape now—Good, fresh batteries will pup more pep into it. Our batteries are always new and fresh.

B. BATTERIES—just received new shipment of flat and vertical types in 22 1-2 and 45 volt sizes.

DRY CELLS—large supply of good fresh batteries in stock, the kind that test up high and give long service.

TUBES—We are headquarters for all kinds of tubes for dry cell or storage battery outfits. We handle R. C. A. and Cunningham tubes.

ACCESSORIES—Also a full line of aerial wire, insulators, lead-in wire, battery wire, connections, battery clips, testers, etc.

Come here for your radio parts and supplies at right prices.

E. F. Jacobs

BEEF!

Buy it now by the Quarter or Half Quarter

Our Price Per Pound

10c 12½c

Fresh Fish every Wednesday

We are always glad to serve you.

Klemme Meat Market

Reduced Prices on Northland Oil

For A Short Time Only

NORTHLAND, light oil 5 gallon lots, per gal....
NORTHLAND, medium oil 5 gallon lots, per gal....
NORTHLAND, heavy oil 5 gallon lots, per gal....
NORTHLAND, extra heavy oil 5 gallon lots, per gal....

60c

We Are Overstocked!

We are overstocked on oil and we are offering NORTHLAND OIL at the above reduced bargain prices only until our stock is reduced to normal, so do not miss this great opportunity to lay in your oil supply.

NORTHLAND OIL is a Pure Pennsylvania motor oil of the highest grade. If you have once used it you will use no other.

Take advantage of these prices!

Greimann Motor Co.

Notice!

Starting Nov. 17 and 18 and continuing thru the winter months I will be at the Hotel in Klemme, Ia.

To care for the Aches and Pains of the people in this vicinity.

How do we care for and treat the human diseases?

By the use of SAM-PI-CA—Indian Medicines.

SAM-PI-CA INDIAN MEDICINES are made from the purest of Roots, Herbs, Barks and Berries, and are recommended for the treatment of ALL CHRONIC DISEASES, such as Rheumatism, Dropsy, Kidney and Bladder Trouble, Heart Diseases, Nervousness, Dizziness, Headaches, Back Aches, Stomach Disorders, Constipation, Liver and Gall Bladder Trouble, Old Sores, Pimples, Boils, Eczema and all Blood and Skin Diseases.

SAM-PI-CA INDIAN MEDICINES are made according to the Formulas used by the Indians in the early days.

Why take Pills or harmful drugs when a pure medicine is available; a medicine which s guaranteed to give you permanent (not temporary) relief. Many people of Klemme have come to Eldora and Whttier to secure these medicines and are more than pleased at the wonderful results obtained by their use.

Remember, the Indian of Eldora will be at your city Hotel, Nov. 17 and 18. Come in and pay us a visit.
Licensed by the State of Iowa, Serial Number 52313.

L. D. McMICHAEL

Eldora, Iowa

Sure Relief

6 BELL-ANS
Hot water
Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY

Mothers who value the health of their children, should never be without MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS FOR CHILDREN, for use when needed. They tend to Break up Colds, Relieve Feverishness, Worms, Constipation, Headache, Teething disorders and Stomach Troubles.

TRADE MARK
DON'T ACCEPT ANY SUBSTITUTE

Used by Mothers for over 30 years. At Druggists everywhere. Ask today. Trial package FREE, address

THE MOTHER GRAY CO., LeROY, N. Y.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE

FOR NERVOUS AILMENTS

PRICE $1.50

Write for FREE BOOKLET

If your druggist cannot supply you, order forwarding charges prepaid, from

KOENIG MEDICINE CO.
1045 N. WELLS ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

The Rarest Virtue

Author Upton Sinclair said at a Pasadena picnic:

"Truth-telling is a rare virtue. It's perhaps the rarest. Look at these modernist divisions. They're telling the truth at least about their beliefs. But think how long they've been lying about them from the pulpit.

"I said one day to a hack writer:

"'That article of yours in Scribblers', "Truth Is Stranger Than Fiction," certainly takes the cake. It's bound to attract attention. Where did you get your facts?'

"The hack writer smirked.

"'Made 'em up,' he said."

COLOR IT NEW WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye.

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings—everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

She Feels Clubby

"Helen might make a good police woman."

"And why?"

"She always has a Billy with her."—Wabash Caveman.

Quick Safe Relief

CORNS

In one minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns. At drug and shoe stores.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on - the pain is gone

Harmless, purely vegetable, Infants' and Children's Regulator, formula on every label. Guaranteed non-narcotic, non-alcoholic.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

Children grow healthy and free from colic, diarrhoea, flatulency, constipation and other trouble if given it at teething time. Safe, pleasant—always brings remarkable and gratifying results.

At All Druggists

ABSORBINE

TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

will reduce inflamed, swollen Joints, Sprains, Bruises, Soft Bunches; Heals Boils, Poll Evil, Quittor, Fistula and infected sores quickly as it is a positive antiseptic and germicide. Pleasant to use; does not blister or remove the hair, and you can work the horse. $2.50 per bottle delivered.

Book 7 A free.

W. F. YOUNG, Inc., 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

RUB YOUR EYES?

Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1165 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

GIVES ATTENTION TO DISABLED MEN

Marked advances in governmental care of disabled World war veterans have been made during the past year, according to a report on the work of the year prepared by Chairman Watson B. Miller, of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion. Improvements were in line with recommendations made by the Legion committee.

Service of the United States Veterans' bureau was greatly improved as a result of its decentralization, a review of all old and disallowed claims, a vast volume of correspondence informing veterans of their rights under new legislation and new regulations and the preparation of a new rating schedule.

The effect of these changes and innovations has been to carry the service of the bureau out into the field in intimate contact with the veteran and his dependents. A new attitude of helpfulness and co-operation toward the veteran has marked the administration of the bureau.

In May 8,000 more veterans were getting hospital care by the bureau than in July a year ago. Four of every five of the 29,424 veterans in hospitals were in their home states, as against only one in two a year ago.

Hospital facilities were increased by 5,000 beds during the year. New construction will add 1,016 beds, and plans are being drawn for five or six additional hospitals. Special attention is being given to providing for disabled women veterans, of whom 1,645 are drawing compensation, 241 are hospitalized and 165 have tuberculosis.

Passage of the Reed-Johnson bill and its amendments has resulted during the year in an increase in benefits to 39,433 disabled men and women to a total of $16,493,866, an average per veteran of $481.30. Full benefits of this legislation, Mr. Miller says, have not yet been felt.

Only about half of the 400,000 or 500,000 old cases under review have been completed. In about 15 per cent of these cases benefits from the new laws accrue to the veteran or his dependents.

Among those benefited during the first year of this legislation are 10,000 shell-shocked veterans to a total of $4,620,501 and 10,281 tuberculosis cases to a total of $8,493,489. Other beneficiaries include helpless, totally deaf, and blind veterans and men afflicted with sleeping sickness, amoebic dysentery and paralysis agitans.

Legion Ewe Plan Will Add to Endowment Fund

Shepherds and boys and girls' sheep clubs throughout the country, it is expected, will add thousands of dollars to the American Legion $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war, through the "Legion Ewe" plan conceived by W. W. Burch, editor of the American Sheep Breeder and Wool Grower.

Mr. Burch has suggested that every shepherd and every member of the boys' and girls' sheep clubs in the country pick out of his flock a good ewe and dedicate her to the Legion. The proceeds from her wool and lambs each year would be given to the nearest Legion post to apply to the disabled veterans and orphans' fund.

During the World war, at the suggestion of the American Sheep Breeder and Wool Grower, the shepherds of the country responded to the emergency by donating wool for making blankets for the soldiers. Thousands of pounds of wool found its way from the backs of sheep to the backs of doughboys through the generosity of the gentle shepherd in those bellicose days.

"We want every owner of a flock, however large or small, to know what hundreds of shepherds are doing for the disabled veterans and orphans of the World war through the Legion ewe plan," said Mr. Burch. "If those shepherds who have not yet set aside their Legion ewe would do so the Legion fund would be oversubscribed. Pick out your Legion lamb."

Reports reaching national endowment headquarters indicate the Legion ewe plan is being rapidly adopted by owners of flocks.

Proceeds from the Legion ewe should be sent to the nearest Legion post or to American Legion national headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind., Mr. Burch said.

Looks Risky

"I'm afraid we wouldn't be happy if I married you," she announced.

"Why not?" asked her admirer.

"I read that one out of every seven marriages is unhappy, and I've already been married six times."—American Legion Weekly.

Home Doubles in Value

The American Legion is riding on the Florida real estate boom. Two years ago Edward C. DeSaussure post of the Legion bought the Legion home property for $45,000. Recently the post turned down flat an offer for $90,000 cash for it.

Community Building

Treatment of Color of House Important

It is rare that a house should present more than two colors, and there should be nothing facetious or faddish about their choice.

A house is lived in too long, and under too many conditions of weather and season, to say nothing of other circumstances, to be extreme in any way. It need not be so neutral as to forego all individuality, but it should on the whole be rather conservative than err on the other side.

The exterior should be neutral enough to serve as a peaceful transition between the surroundings and the interior furnishings and to sit harmoniously and quiet in its own grounds.

If the house is finished with smooth siding, such as wide boards or clapboards, it takes paint, but if it is covered with rough sawed siding, such as shingles or rough boards, stain should be used.

Stain is a thin material and will not successfully tint smooth woodwork, but it does penetrate deeply into the surface of rough wood. These are technically known as shingle stains, although they may be applied just as well to any wood or rough surface whether shingles or boards.

Paint should be used on smooth siding and trim where it will produce a film of weather resisting material on the outside of the boards, penetrating slightly into the wood fiber.

Planning Adopted by Kansas City Praised

Probably the most successful work of city planning, as well as one of the most extensive and beautiful residential communities in the United States, in the Country club district in Kansas City. The story of this remarkable achievement of its originator, J. C. Nichols, has often been told—among other places, in this magazine. But it deserves an occasional remembrance, says World's Work.

Mr. Nichols has demonstrated that beauty and good taste can be made to pay, for he has been consistently successful over a period of 15 years. Tis community is growing in population at the rate of 2,500 a year. Automobile parking spaces that do not look ragged, accommodations for the unloading of motor trucks at retail stores without having the trucks harass traffic or be in sight at all while standing still, gasoline stations that are not ugly or loud—these, and a dozen other things that ordinarily contrive to spoil the most desirable neighborhood, have been brought under the control of art and robbed of their power to destroy the beauty of the scene.

Explaining Increase in Individual Homes

The average American man with a family is either living in a home of his own, or is looking forward to the time when he can do so. A rented house or a city apartment in most cases provides a temporary home only until such time as the head of the house can afford the privilege of firing his own furnace, mowing his own lawn, and patching his own back-door steps.

This explains the constant increase in individual homes. Nobody needs to read up on building statistics to learn that there is a constant increase in sturdy, well-built houses. Go into any large city and ride around the fringe and one will find the landscape cluttered with partly completed houses. A little further out will be found subdivisions waiting for the building wave which will soon engulf them.

Luminous House Numbers

New innovations or adaptations to new uses of existing ones are without end in the building industry. An interesting application of luminous material to house numbers is one of the latest additions to the home owner's convenience. This is a number deeply embossed in an aluminum plaque 2¼ by 3¼ inches, the upper surface being coated with black enamel and baked, the lower surface being given a scratchbrush finish. Then the center portion is coated with a good quality of "Undark" radium-luminous material. This is then inclosed in an aluminum frame with clear glass.

To Beautify Highway

In order to beautify and shade the main highways of the province of Quebec that are without trees, the provincial government authorities are planting 300,000 trees this year. In addition to beautifying the highways and providing shade in the summer months, the trees will help to preserve the roads by protecting them, to some extent, from the elements.

Facilities for Pleasure

More and more, as wealth increases and leisure widens, superior facilities for pleasure are an asset of immense value to cities, states and even entire countries. As Florida and California capitalize their winter sunshine and warmth so Canada, New England and the Rocky mountain states turn their summer coolness into mints for coining gold. Places that possess real advantages for good times are unwise if they do not make the most of them.

Wit and Humor

STIPENDOUS

Amelia—Swear not by the moon, the inconstant moon.

Augustus—Then what shall I swear by?

"Swear by that which you hold invaluable; something which is dearer to you than all else; something which you cannot live without."

"Then, Amelia, I love you! I swear it by my salary."—Pearson's Weekly (London).

Necessity the Mother—

Marc Antony beheld Cleopatra floating toward him on her royal barge, clad simply but becomingly in a Nile green veil.

"Ah!" quoth the ravished Roman. "Representing Venus! Enchanting!"

"Venus, forsooth!" whispered the first lady-in-waiting to the second. "It's all she's got left. She's just paid her income tax."

Well?

His wife began to laugh at him.

"You silly," she said; "fancy being superstitious after all these years! Why, do you remember the first time we met? We walked under a ladder, and you said you were sure something horrible would happen to you."

"Well? ! ! !" said he.—Tit-Bits.

UTTERLY RUINED

"I—I—I's sorry, mister—"

"You should be sorry, young man—"

"But you'll hafta buy me another banana now."

Dim Them Lamps

Oh, Mary, call your cattle home.
Across the sands of Dee;
So Mary brought 'er calves along
So all the world could see.

Willing

Customer—Do you mind if I steal a kiss?

Waitress—Not in the least, providing you don't steal it from me.—Progressive Grocer.

In Luck

"Say, old man, I ain't got money enough to get my wife back from Florida."

"Congratulations."

Or What Have You?

He—I love you with all my heart, with all my mind, with all—

She—Yes, I know; but that means so little.—London Mail.

Progress

"We live in remarkable times."

"Yes, sir. The women seem to be able to learn to smoke cigarettes without getting sick."

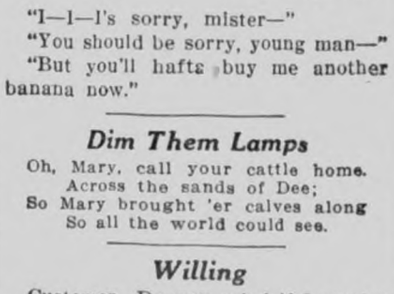
Overheard on the Campus

Elsie—What a queer girl Ethel is. I don't believe she's all there.

Alice—What makes you think that?

Elsie—Why, the poor simp actually thinks a girl comes to college just to get an education.

LONGER WITHOUT OIL



"If you want machines to run you've got to oil 'em."

"That's true of all except national political machines."

Luck and Pluck

Luck and Pluck went up Life's hill
In search of gold and laughter
Luck fell down and broke his crown
And Pluck came tumbling after.

Disapproval

"What makes these two women turn up their noses at each other so supercilliously?"

"Possibly," replied Miss Cayenne, "each got a glimpse of the current novel the other was reading."

The Situation

"I think most men are happily married."

"Well, I know very few who will claim they ain't," responded the other half of the sidewalk conversation.

HOW TWO WOMEN AVOIDED OPERATIONS

The Following Letters of Mrs. Thurston and Mrs. Beard Carry an Encouraging Message to Other Sick Women

MRS. ETHEL THURSTON
324 N. PINE STREET, LIMA, OHIO

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks I suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred, had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations, and I had read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that it was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking the medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like it has saved my life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. At least it saved me from a dreaded operation and I am still taking it. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. ETHEL THURSTON, 324 North Pine Street, Lima, Ohio.

Mrs. Beard's Letter

Eddy, Texas.—"I will write you a few words, thinking it will do some one else good. Two doctors said I would have to be operated on because for nearly twelve months I suffered from a weakness from which I could get no relief. I was restless and nervous and was not able to walk across the house. They said it was the Change of Life. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers, and as I could not get any help from doctors I thought I would give that a trial. I began with the liquid and it helped me some, then you advised me to take the tablet form and I began to improve rapidly. I have gained in weight from 105 to 170 pounds. I recommend it to all women with this trouble."—Mrs. M. E. BEARD, R. No. 1, Box 143, Eddy, Texas.

The Way to Ruin

Joshua Cosden, the multimillionaire, said at a dinner at his Sands Point estate:

"A man should live as well as his means permit, but I can't understand the man who lives on his principal.

"The man who lives on his principal is like Heine's monkey. This foolish little animal was found one day before the fire gayly cooking its own tail for dinner."

Shoes Sent Far

Shoes sent to chilly Alaska from this country in seven months of a year numbered 20,558 pairs for men and boys and 8,072 pairs for women, while those shipped to sunny Hawaii included 98,613 for males and 48,[illegible] for females.

The only correct actions are those which require no explanation and no apology.—Auerbach.

"She praises it to everybody!"

Mrs. Crane had indigestion for ten years; Tanlac brought immediate relief.

*As a climax to long years of suffering, Mrs. Hattie Crane got so bad she couldn't sleep and there were days when she couldn't walk across the floor. At times the gas pressure was so great she could scarcely breathe. She was faint and dizzy. She writes: "Tanlac brought immediate relief and six bottles were enough to rid me of my troubles and bring back the joy of living. My health is better than ever and I am so pleased with Tanlac I praise it to everybody."

*Authentic statement from our files.

You don't have to take our word for Tanlac. Just try this marvelous tonic yourself and see how quickly it brings results. There is nothing like Tanlac to cleanse and revitalize sluggish blood, restore lost appetites and put the whole body in fighting trim.

Results come quick. You start feeling better right from the first dose. Before the bottle is gone you will wonder what miracle has happened to you.

Tanlac is absolutely pure and harmless. It is a natural tonic, a formula of roots, barks and healing herbs gathered from every part of the globe to bring you health and strength

NOTE: For Constipation, take Tanlac Vegetable Pills, Nature's own harmless laxative.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

He Was

"Why do you think Fanny doesn't like you?"

"I told her there was a fool in every family."

"What did she say?"

"She asked if I were an only son."—Madrid Buen Humor.

Novelist on His Lot

Gilbert Frankau, the English author, deplored on his last visit to New York the privations of novelists.

"The novelist and the hen," Frankau said quaintly, "both scratch for their living. The only difference is that the hen gets hers."

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

Eat Yeast Foam this easy way

Drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let it stand for 5 minutes; stir with spoon; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate.

Nothing could be easier or more palatable than this way of eating Yeast Foam. Yet you get its full tonic value.

Eat Yeast Foam for constipation, indigestion, lack of weight and strength, boils, pimples and run down condition.

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 North Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health", also a Sample of Yeast Foam, without obligation.

Name _____

Address _____

W. N. U.

Probably one reason for the popularity of WRIGLEY'S is that it lasts so long and returns such great dividends for so small an outlay. It keeps teeth clean, breath sweet, appetite keen, digestion good.

Fresh and full-flavored always in its wax-wrapped package.

Generous

Man (at restaurant)—Waiter, do you serve fish?

Waiter—Yes, we cater to everyone.

Why is it a steam whistle sounds much more musical to toilers at 5 p. m. than at 7 a. m.?

Two Valuable Books

Clerk—"This book will do half your work." Student—"Give me two quick!"—Hoot Owl.

Agriculture—Great aches from little corns grow.—Carolina Buccaneer.

FAMOUS 'COAST TO COAST' MIRACO GUARANTEED
RADIO'S-FACTORY PRICES SAVE 1/3 TO 1/2
GET SPECIAL OFFER
MIRACO RADIO GETS 'EM COAST to COAST
$27.35 Retail
FREE! Literature on latest improved 1 to 5 tube models, new low prices, testimony of users and SPECIAL OFFER. Write.
AGENTS DEALERS Write!
MIDWEST RADIO CORP'N
Pioneer Builders of Sets
530-C E. 8th St., Cincinnati, Ohio

PATENTS
Don't risk delay in protecting your ideas. Send sketch or model for instructions or write for FREE book, "How to Obtain a Patent" and "Record of Invention" form. No charge for information on how to proceed. Communications confidential. Careful, efficient service. CLARENCE A. O'BRIEN, Registered Patent Attorney, 243-A Security Bank Building (directly across street from Patent Office) WASHINGTON, D. C.

Miniature — Inflating
TOY AEROPLANE
Life-like in design and construction.
Postage Prepaid 25c
A rubber balloon when inflated measures 24 inches long. Top wing has spread of 17 1-2 inches. Wings and parts made of heavy cardboard. Easy to assemble.
NATIONAL TOY AEROPLANE CO.
621 Broadway New York City

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

AGENTS WANTED—For one of the fastest selling Ford accessories on the market; retails for 75c; 100% profit. Every Ford owner buys. Write for particulars. C. M. WOOD SPECIALTY CO., Ashland, Kans.

Wanted—Black Walnut Kernels. Use our cracking machine free. It makes nutpick unnecessary. Clark Nut Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

DON'T BROOD OVER STOMACH DISTRESS

Don't lay awake nights and feel miserable all day—there's one right way to fix up your gassy, rebellious disordered stomach in such a short time that your heart will be gladdened.

Today Dare's Mentha Pepsin is the one remedy supremely efficient where acute or chronic indigestion or gastritis is making your days and nights miserable.

Reports of its mighty power to overcome unbearable, near suffocating stomach agony have swept the land until today its sales are marvelous.

Get one bottle of this pleasant speedy acting medicine today with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't help you—your money will be returned.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 46--1925

The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale
Her infinite variety. Other women cloy
The appetites they feed, but she makes hungry
Where most she satisfies.
—Shakespeare.

NICE FOODS

A pretty dessert which will be good to serve when a light and dainty dish is needed is—

Trilby Cream.—Take one pound of marshmallows, one can of pineapple, one cupful of whipping cream. Cut the marshmallows into quarters, using shears dipped into cold water occasionally to keep them from sticking. Put the cut-up marshmallows in soak in some of the pineapple juice. Cut the pineapple into small bits and drain. Beat the cream and when stiff add the drained marshmallows, and pineapple, a few chopped walnut meats or blanched almonds and candied cherries. Serve in sherbet cups with a cherry on top.

Casserole of Ham.—Take a slice of ham cut rather thick. Place in the bottom of a casserole and cover with sliced potatoes, season with salt and pepper—salt will not be needed if the ham is not freshened—place in the oven and bake well covered one hour.

Spaghetti de Luxe.—Take a small package or less of spaghetti, one can of chicken soup, one can of mushrooms, one shredded green pepper and one-fourth of a cupful of buttered crumbs. Cook the spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender, drain and blanch with cold water. Butter a baking dish, place in it a layer of spaghetti, half of the mushrooms, and pepper; repeat until all are used. Cover with the can of chicken soup and sprinkle with the buttered crumbs.

Prune Almond Jelly.—Soak one cupful of prunes in one quart of cold water over night. Cook the prunes in the same water until soft; remove the stones and cut into small pieces. Soak one envelope of gelatin in cold water, pour the prune liquor boiling hot over the soaked gelatin, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and stir until all is dissolved. Put the prunes and blanched halves of almonds in a mold, setting them with a little gelatin around the mold. When hardened, fill the mold and set away to chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Bread Fritters.—Cut stale bread into thin slices, shape with a biscuit cutter, spread with jam, and dip in the following batter: Sift one cupful of flour, one tablespoonful of powdered sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, add two-thirds of a cupful of milk gradually and two well-beaten egg yolks. Beat well, add one tablespoonful of olive oil and the whites of the eggs, beaten stiff. Dip the bread and fry in deep fat.

Baked Cheese Sandwiches.—Stir a little finely grated cheese into rich white sauce. Cut bread into rounds, butter and spread with the white sauce, heaping it well up in the center. Place the bread in a hot oven to toast. Ham may be used in place of cheese.

Tasty Tidbits.

A few pieces of good-flavored cheese (grated) will add a zest to many dishes. When preparing escalloped potatoes, add a bit of grated cheese. To scrambled eggs, to macaroni with white sauce, on crackers, grated over pumpkin pie, in fact numberless ways will occur to the cook who likes to prepare tasty food.

Homemade Cream Cheese.—When cheese has become dry or is in unattractive pieces, grate it and stir it into a half cupful or more of boiling hot cream. Add enough cheese to thicken, stir and beat well, add cayenne pepper, a bit of chopped pimento or any seasoning liked. Pour into a jar and set away in the ice chest. Serve as any cream cheese.

Cottage Cheese Salad. — Arrange well-seasoned cottage cheese in shapely spoonfuls on head lettuce, sprinkle with chopped nutmeats and at the side place a spoonful of good salad dressing. A bit of colored jelly may be used as a garnish to the cheese, if preferred to the nuts.

Cheese Savory. —To one cream cheese add a tablespoonful of softened butter, one teaspoonful of minced chives, one-half teaspoonful of minced parsley, one-third of a teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce and anchovy essence, with salt and paprika to taste. Press into a glass and serve with salted wafers.

Cream cheese mixed with a tablespoonful or two of chopped green and red pepper, made into balls and served with salad dressing on lettuce, makes a pretty as well as a nourishing salad.

Cheese Supper Dish.—This has appeared before, but will never grow old, as it is so well liked: Spread bread with butter, sprinkle with chopped cheese, making as many layers as needed in a baking pan. Pour over a custard, using a pint of milk to two eggs, and salt to taste. Bake in a moderate oven until the custard is set. Serve hot.

Nellie Maxwell

EMBELLISHING TAILORED SUIT; WIDE-BRIM HATS AGAIN HERE

IT IS a cunning art which can add embellishing touches ad libitum to a costume without detracting from its tailored aspect. Yet this is just what the French couturier accomplishes, a tailored suit which has ornate features. The illustration herewith demonstrates this truth. Note in the stunning suit to the right how fancifully fur and braid combine in a decorative way, yet tailored is the word, when it comes to describing this elegant cloth creation.

Two Paris Models.

One of the charming items concerning this model is that it is carried out all in tones of gray. This is according to the dictates of the mode, that gray be a leading color for this season. The cloth is platinum-gray wool velours, the fur, handsome squirrel. Across the front of the coat the fur appears in tabs, but it encircles the back portion in a continuous wide border. The plain skirt has the fashionable inverted plait, which allows fullness.

It is the introduction of flares formed of gazelle fur at the sides of the coat and the bottom of the sleeves which pronounces chic for the coat of the accompanying suit. Likewise the flare cuffs are of cinnamon-brown gazelle, the collar also is faced with the same—in conjunction, however, with flat dull gold braid. There are little strappings of this braid at vantage points throughout the costume, and this partly accounts for its true Parisian air. Evidently the designer decided that two inverted plaits which seems to "complete the picture," and it is very pleasing to know that fashion approves both brimless and brimmed headwear. The fact that honors are to be shared gives a zestful interest to the season's millinery modes.

The quartette of charming wide-brim chapeaux here shown are typical of the trend of fashion.

The ornate treatment evidenced in the hat shown last in the group emphasizes the "more trimming" movement. It is carried out in amber and brown colorings. The brim is a transparent metal tissue with dull gold soutache sewed row and row as a wide border. There is a banded effect of the soutache encircling the satin sectional crown. The chrysanthemums, one on top and one on the underside of the brim, shade from orange to brilliant henna. This model would be exquisite carried out in black and silver, for silver is particularly in favor this season.

A rococo ribbon wreath of flowers is festooned about the crown of the handsome hat pictured to the left center. It has one of the shirred brims now so fashionable. A handsome ostrich novelty adds picturesqueness to the big-brimmed velvet and satin shape which is shown first in this group. Leaves cut out of velvet are appliqued on the felt crown of the model to the upper right. A silver ribbon traces its way about the crown, finishing in a pert bow.

Showing the Wide-Brim Hats.

Are we going to wear large hats this fall and winter? We are. At last the wide brim has arrived to fill its long-delayed return engagement with the world of fashion. Thus does are better than one when it comes to allowing extra fullness at the hemline of the skirt. The smooth-surfaced cloth is in the new blue coloring.

Novelty is achieved in semi-tailored suits through solid embroidery done in self-colored floss. Even beads are sometimes introduced.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Yeast Foam

Good bread makers everywhere prefer it

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago

Season for Everything

The season for changing seats in canoes is over. Next comes the season for running the motor of the car while the garage doors are shut. The person who does this rarely has a chance to tell about it.

Bright Boy

Teacher—Did you make that face at me?

Jimmie—No, ma'am. You just happened to walk in front of it.—Answers.

Morality

Man—This hotel register says write single names only.

Wife—This is no place for us.

Stop the Pain.

The hurt of a burn or a cut stops when Cole's Carbolisalve is applied. It heals quickly without scars. 30c and 60c by all druggists, or send 30c to The J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

A little fire is quickly trodden out, which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench.—Shakespeare.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless - No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Fish Takes to Air to Escape Enemies

Nowhere is the fight for existence greater than in the sea. The large fish are constantly preying upon the smaller ones, and each kind must be fitted with some special way to escape its enemies and to get its living.

Thus the flying fish have developed into the most efficient "gliders" known, which really places them in the aeronautical class. These fish have the fins elongated and strengthened, which not only gives them a great speed in the water but enables them to support themselves in the air after leaving their natural element.

They attain great speed in the water and have considerable momentum. When they emerge under favorable conditions they travel an eighth of a mile before dropping back. This forms an effective means of escape from their enemies. Apparently the initial alacrity of the leap and the force of the wind are the motive forces.

Cuticura for Sore Hands.

Soak hands on retiring in the hot suds of Cuticura Soap, dry and rub in Cuticura Ointment. Remove surplus Ointment with tissue paper. This is only one of the things Cuticura will do if Soap, Ointment and Talcum are used for all toilet purposes.—Advertisement.

Don't know much about the treaty against gun elevation. But we do need one against nose elevation.

Never Grows Older

He feels like a boy at forty. Whenever constipation troubled him Beecham's Pills brought certain relief.

"For over a year I suffered from headaches and constipation, other remedies having failed. I told someone at my club, who suggested that I try Beecham's Pills. I tried them, and they relieved me. I'm only forty and I feel like a boy again after taking Beecham's Pills.

"Anyone with common sense should take Beecham's Pills for constipation; biliousness and sick headache."

Mr. J. G., Yonkers, N. Y.

This man gives good advice. Follow it, and see how quickly digestive disorders, constipation and biliousness are overcome by Beecham's Pills.

FREE SAMPLE—Write today for free sample to B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal St., New York

Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

for Better Health, Take

Beecham's Pills

Boschee's Syrup
HAS BEEN
Killing Coughs for 59 Years
Carry a bottle in your car and always keep it in the house. 80c and 90c at ALL DRUGGISTS.

Cumulative

"Why do you mark that paper 'urgent' when you leave it on your desk for weeks?"

"Because every day I leave it it becomes more urgent, doesn't it?"

BAYER Genuine ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" and INSIST!

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Colds	Headache	Neuritis	Lumbago
Pain	Neuralgia	Toothache	Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

TOMB IN ROCK MAY BE THAT OF DAVID

Important Find Made by Jerusalem Excavators.

According to advices from Jerusalem, received in London, Rev. J. Garrow Duncan, who has been conducting excavations at the Ophel quarter of the city for the Palestine Exploration fund, announces the discovery on the western side of the site of a series of underground rock-cut chambers, comprising a large central room with five smaller chambers five feet square branching from it.

To the southward is a room 15 feet by 16 feet leading into two narrower rooms, each 15 feet by 8 feet, which again lead into similar narrow chambers, each with smaller chambers cut into its walls. Tool marks on the walls indicate the period of the Iron age, not earlier than 1200 B. C. There is a similar series of rock chambers and galleries on the eastern side of Ophel, entered from the face of the rock scarp under the Jebusite east city wall, and closed by a curious stone door.

It is not wholly impossible that here we have the actual long hoped-for tomb of David. The probability is that both sets of chambers are parts of a series of royal tombs. The series has been much abused by later usage, first an olive press and storerooms in the Byzantine period, then as cisterns by the Arabs.

Plans for the complete excavation of the ancient city of David on Mount Ophel were announced just over two years ago, and work has been in progress since then. For a long time the true location of the city of David was disputed, but excavations carried on by Doctor Bliss in 1896, by Captain Parker in 1909, and by M. Weill in 1913-14 settled the question, though much work remained to be done in exploring the original stronghold of the Jebusites, the palace of David, and the tombs of the kings of Judah, which are probably those referred to in the telegram.

This position was that captured about the year 1000 B. C. by King David (as described in the Second Book of Samuel, chapter 5:6-9). His capital had till then been Hebron. Mount Ophel lies on the southeast side of the city just outside the southern wall (and south of the "temple area"), and the area between the wall and the Pool of Siloam, which marks the southern area of the site, ten acres had been reserved by the administration for excavation.

On November 23, 1923, Prof. R. A. S. Macalister, who had charge of part of the work, announced the discovery of the north wall of the Jebusites and a tower. Later, it was announced that the breach made in the wall by King David had been discovered, as well as the ornamental portico added by King Solomon, and of defensive works hurriedly erected by King Hezekiah to resist the Assyrian Sennacherib. Other discoveries were later announced of works constructed at an even earlier date.

The work of excavation has been carried on by a number of national societies.

Revolutionized Lighting

About forty years ago electric light began to supplant gas, and most people made up their minds that gas lighting was doomed. Then Baron Auer von Welsbach came to the rescue. He discovered that cotton fabric, if soaked in a nitrate solution composed of ninety-five parts of thorium and one part cerium, and then placed over a hot flame to burn out all impurities, would glow with a white incandescence giving out a pure white light of astonishing power. By making a cone of this fabric he produced the incandescent gas mantle, which, if placed over a gas jet, cut the consumption of gas by half, and at the same time gave ten times more light. This invention saved the gas-lighting industry, and is today being used extensively upon oil as well as gas light.

Your Loss—My Gain

It was one of the first days of school. The children, fresh from their long vacation, were listening attentively to a lesson in arithmetic.

"Now," said the teacher, holding up a gallon measure, "if this gallon measure of cider costs $1, what would you have to pay for a quart?"

"Fifty cents," said Mary.

"Would you take that?" said the teacher, as she looked at keen-eyed little Isadore.

"Sure," said Isadore. Then very wisely added: "If she'd give it to me."

Cooked Food All Wrong?

Richet, famous French scientist, is urging Parisians to eat raw meat and be strong; not only raw meat but uncooked vegetables, and so many Frenchmen are trying it that restaurants have many requests for "beefsteak, raw." All the physical ills to which modern man is heir are the result of cooked food, says Richet. Did the professor ever try to eat a raw potato?—Capper's Weekly.

Turtle Wanted Tit-Bit

While grazing in the meadows near Tuckahoe, N. J., a cow owned by Enoch Stevenson attracted the attention of nearby residents by her constant lowing. Mr. Stevenson was notified. When he arrived he was much surprised to find that a large snapping turtle had the cow by the tongue. After a battle the turtle was killed and the cow taken home for treatment.

MORE "BOARDERS" AT FT. M.

The number f persons imprisoned in the state neitentiary at Ft. Madison is expected to go up to 1,100 before the winter is over, Major Thomas P. Hollowell, warden, predicted. This will be more than have ever been housed before, the previous high record being reached last June, when there were 1,006 prisoners. Due to releases the figure dropped to 986 during September. The prison population now is up to 1,002.

A SHABBY TRICK

Renwick Times: The medal for the shabbiest trick goes to thieves near Centerville, Iowa. Last week a farmer was awakened by his hogs squealing, and going out to the pen found eight of them had been stuck and were bleeding to death. The thieves were evidently waiting for the hogs to die before hauling them away.

The farmer called several of his neighbors and they scalded and dressed the hogs. The work was completed at 4:00 a. m., and they went to a neighbor's for breakfast. When they returned they found the thieves had carried away the hogs they had dressed.

FATHER DOBERSTEIN RETURNS AFTER FIVE WEEKS TOUR

Father Doberstein returned to his home in West Bend after an absence of five weeks. During that time he has visited five states in search of material for his new grotto and proposed fountain in honor of West Bend World War boys who died in the service. He was able to find many rocks suited to his purpose.

GREAT MAJORITY OF MEN ONLY THINK THEY THINK

We pay a great deal of respect to "thinking," and seldom or never regard it as we do action as being foolish and wasteful. If you see a person in a thoughtful mood you tiptoe lest you disturb him. Yet those processes of thought can be as useless and idle as the aimless actions to which people so often take exception. Indeed, 90 per cent of the average man's thinking is idle and consists of musing, day dreaming—of imagining himself to his own satisfaction. A large part of the balance of his thinking is given to finding reasons for his beliefs and his prejudices. Of actual creative thought there is in the life of the average man only a very small percentage. These are not the men, however, who make any original contribution. They accept things as they are. The marvels that make possible their comfort, their livelihood, is something they never thing about. All around them are wonders of nature and miracles of science into which they never inquire. Their religious beliefs, their political loyalties, their patriotism they have accepted from others; when they think it is only to find arguments and reasons for what they already believe.

SOFT PEDAL IN THE CHURCH

"How many members have you in your church?" the writer inquired of the neighborhood pastor. In answer the latter gave the number that is regularily enrolled, but, with characteristic amendment, added that not all of these ought really to be counted. For some of them, he explained, are only deadwood in the congregation. They completed their Christianity when they entered the fold, and now neither attend the services of worship nor contribute to the support of the finances. This is true in every congregation in Christendom—which is a deliberately bold thing to say—and is one of the sorest problems that a minister has to face. He rarely does more than face it. In the literal sense the gospel is free, and has always been, for those who cannot pay, but because of these derelects the faithful members of the congregation are compelled to make good. As a rule it is those who live well (and yet not well) who spend for every pleasure and luxury, who gratify every vanity and caprice, who yet turn cold and unresponsive when a contribution is asked to keep God alive in the world. Is his name on the books less than a reproach to himself and an injustice to the congregation His mere salvation. He is no better in the church, a breaker of his word and a holder ofprivilege by false pretenses, than he would be out of it. In fact, he is already out and his name should be dropped. Church affiliation is first of all the spirit. Then, it is a good thing to teach the whole flock that this thing of running a church with the soft pedal on all the time is about done with. The most un-Christian thing in the world is the church smoothing over wrongs in the congregational affairs.—Traer Star-Clipper.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS
CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!
Pavey's
STORMIZING SHOP

IT ALWAYS GETS DARK At NIGHT

AND EVERYONE NEEDS LIGHT

This is the fundamental reason why the business of furnishing Light is so steady and dependable.

Cities and Towns must have it, they cannot get along without it, and many persons use it not only at night but when the sun is shining.

Why Not Share in These Earnings?

This Company has 11,000 Customers living in more than 60 Cities and Towns using Light and many of them HEAT and POWER too, and as this necessity is paid for just as it is used, and you as a Customer are paying your part of the earnings of the Company that furnshes this service.

You can do so, easily, and right now you have a Real Bargain Opportunity

We have just sent every Customer a letter inviting them to become our partners by investing in the 7 per cent Preferred Stock, and by arrangement with our employees we have set aside 700 Shares to be sold to our Customers only at $100 per Share, carrying full dividend from October 1st. This means more than a month's free interest because your money will be drawing full 7 per cent interest from October 1st.

This offer is good only from NOVEMBER 9th to NOVEMBER 21st inclusive and has been made especially for the benefit of our customers who are requested to place their orders with our Employees or at our local office.

Now, Why Do We Do This?

Because we have additions, extensions and improvements being added to the LIGHT, POWER and HEAT SYSTEMS, that means the investment of a large sum of money, and we believe that it is better for our Customers to own this Company's property than to have it mostly owned by outside investors. Over 500 Customers now own an interest in this property and every one of the 11,000 customers should have a Share in it, and the developement of the business gives them the opportunity to Safely invest their Savings and make this Company that supplies Everyday Needs
A COMPANY OWNED BY ITS OWN CUSTOMERS.

It Benefits You

You get a safe investment paying a good income that you can depend upon. You share in the ownership of all the property; a part of it is right here at home. You get back in dividends part of the money you spend for everyday necessary service. The men who manage the business are your friends and neighbors.

Your Investment Helps Your Own Community.

How The Company Benefits

Because by taking the Customers into partnership it secures the co-operation and friendship of those Customers. The Company also benefts by keeping the earnings of the business at home, because these earnings and dividends help to make the communities it serves more prosperous and better users of the Company's servce.

THIS IS YOUR CHANCE TO MAKE A SAFE INVESTMENT RIGHT AT HOME, RECEIVING 7 PER CENT ON YOUR MONEY. 700 SHARES OF THE 7 PER CENT PREFERRED STOCK CAN NOW BE HAD BY OUR CUSTOMERS ONLY, AT $100 PER SHARE, WITH THE FULL DIVIDEND FROM OCTOBER 1st.

It's safe; pays dividends every three months; is free of Iowa taxes and of the normal Federal income tax; and earns you 7 per cent on your money, and can be promptly sold if you need the cash.

Remember the offer is open only from November 9th to November 21st, inclusive. Order through any employee or at our local office or if you prefer send the Special Pink Order to the SECURITIES DEPARTMENT at 215 South Second Street, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

"Every Customer A Shareholder"

Central States Electric Co.

General Office

Cedar Rapids, Iowa

THE KLEMME TIMES

tieth Year—Number 11. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

GRIESEMER AND WENCK GET FIFTEEN YEARS

OTH MEN PLEAD GUILTY TO SIX CHARGES IN NIGHT SESSION

OTH BANKERS NOW IN THE PEN

SATIONAL BANK CASE NOW MATTER OF HISTORY

semer & Wenck Taken To Fotr Madison Monday By Sheriff Peck Hanson Of Garner

aul M. Griesemer and Frank J. ck, president and cashier respecly, of the closed State Savings k here. Each pleaded guilty to 6 he fifty indictments returned a- st them in a special session of rt at Garner Monday night and e sentenced each to fifteen years he state penitentiary at Fort ison by District Judge M. F. Edds.

he two former bankers, who e the closing of the Klemme e Savings Bank in the early part une this year, have been the chief c of conversation in all of Han- county and this part of Iowa, e taken to Fort Madison Monday rnoon by Sheriff "Peck ' Hanson, e to enter prison, put on prison and begin serving out the punent meted out to them for the e they have committed. Thus final chapter 'n one of the most ational bank situations in Iowa be closed.

Sentences Total 60 Years

he two men will serve six senes concurrently, which otherwise ld run sixty years. The charges hich they pleaded guilty and the tences provided by law for each as follows: two charges of utter- a forged instrument, 15 years ; two charges of forgeries, 10 s each, and two charges of false ements in writing, 5 years each. wever, these sentences will all be ed out under the period of 15 s.

ll of the other indictments, total- about fifty counts for the two were dismissed by County Atey Verne Grau, when the bankers e their plea of guilty.

Night Session Was Held

lans for the strange night session court were made Monday by the rneys and the court and the reais given that chiefly because L. Boomhower and John Senneff, atneys for the defendants, were not to get away from other court es during the day. Both were ent when the session opened at o'clock p. m., while the county rney and Frank Senneff were ent for the state.

his was a great disappointment people of Klemme who had plannto be on hand to hear the men their sentence, as it was thought the case would come up Tuesmorning and many had planned ttend to hear the final outcome his sensational case.

owever, it is said that court m was filled and there was a eness during the first few minutf the session. As the attorneys an to talk over dismissal of othindictments and proposing the ing of sentences concurrently to court, the situation became less ined. It became evident then what sentences would be.

Defendants Haggard

oth accused men were in court appeared worn and haggard unthe long tense strain they have ured for the past few months. y appeared reconciled to their , however, and made no show of tion one way or the other when ge Edwards pronounced the sences upon them.

he court specified that the comment would not be made out unthe following morning and that the $40,000.00 bonds, under which each of the two men were placed, following their arrest was to remain until they were committed.

Feeling Ran High

Feeling has run high in connection with the Klemme bank case as soon as it became apparent to depositors here that there were charges of fraudulent banking pending against the bankers. Nearly one hundred Klemme farmers and business men subscribed to a fund to push the case to the utmost and get Griesemer and Wenck into court and and have justice meted out speedily.

The case came up in court the first part of October, after the grand jury had returned twenty indictments against Griesemer and thirty against Wenck. The defendants petitioned for a change of venue, which, however, was not granted them, but a continuance to the November term was granted in its place. Since the indictments returned by the grand jury, the two bankers were at liberty under bonds of $40,000 each.

Attorneys Advised Plea

The decision to plead guilty came suddenly, the two men deciding Monday, upon recommendations of their attorneys that there was not a chance to fight the case through the courts, as the state had "a wagon load" of evidence against them that could not be surmounted.

No Bank Report Issued

A final report has not yet been issued as to the full shortage in the Klemme State Savings Bank but it is known to approach a quarter million dollars.

Some Deals In Dirt

HANCOCK COUNTY DEALS IN REAL ESTATE PAST WEEK

Taken From The Records Of Nov. 9 to November 14

Robt. Anderson to B. F. Zeigler. W. D., date 11-7-25, $3,600.00, lot 2 block 32, Andersons addition to Britt.

E. P. Hanson, Sheriff, to A. G. Koerner. Sheriff's Deed, date 11-6-25, $543.30, lots 4-5, block 12, Klemme.

E. P. Hanson, Sheriff, to Garner Trust & Savings Bank. Sheriff's deed, date 7-23-24, $1,121.10, lots 3-4-5-6, block 12, Original Garner.

H. C. Schauper et al, to J. D. Kuns. W. D. date 11-2-25, $39.50, lot No. 220, block No. 2, Cemetery lot.

Elmer Anderson, wife, to Conrad Anderson, Q. C. D., date 11-10-25, $1.00, S½ SE¼ & S½ N½ SE¼ 1-96-23.

Conrad Anderson, wf. to Elmer Anderson. Q. C. D., date 11-10-25, $1.00, S½ NE¼ & N½ N½ SE¼ 1-96-23.

Severt A. Skromme, et al, to Askel S. Skromme. W. D., date 7-18-25, $1.00, W½ 28-97-26.

E. P. Hanson, Sheriff, to T. R. Riehm, Trustee. Sheriff's deed, date 4-22-25, $13,500.00, E½ of W½ 31-97-24.

BRITAIN PLANTS 39 MILLION TREES

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Between now and next spring more than 39,000,000 new trees will have been planted in Great Britain. This is the program arranged by the for stry commission, which has been engaged for five years in restoring the forests of England, Wales and Scotland. By the end of the season these trees will occupy 22,000 acres of waste land. The program, spread over ten years, provides for the planting of 250,000 acres with 450,000,000 trees. At present England imports $250,000,000 worth of timber annually.

SHERIFF'S SALE

GEORGE A PABST
vs.
F. J. Wenck, Catherine A. Wenck, John Gruetzmacher Vincent Savings Bank, L. R. Boomhower, and J. W. Knadler.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That by virtue of a Special Execution issued out of the office of the Clerk of the District Court, in Hancock County, Garner, on a judgment rendered October 1st, 1925, September Term of Said Court, A. D. 1925 for the sum of Five Thousand One Hundred Sixty One & 66-100 Dollars debt. and One Hundred Fifty Four & 81-100 Dollars costs, in favor of George A. Pabst and against F. J. Wenck and Catherine A. Wenck and to the Sheriff of Hancock County directed, I have levied upon the following described property, to-wit:

The Northeast Quarter (NE¼), the Northeast quarter of the Southeast quarter (NE¼ SE¼), Section Twenty-seven (27), Township Ninety-Five (95), North Range Twenty-Three (23), West of the 5th P. M. Hancock County, Iowa.

NOW, THEREFORE, Public Notice is hereby given that I shall, on the 28th day of November, 1925, at 10 o'clock A. M., at the front door of the Court House, in Garner, in Hancock County, offer and sell at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, all the right, title and interest that the above named Defendants had on the 27th day of October, A. D. 1925, or now have in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy said execution, together with costs and all accruing costs, unless the same shall be sooner satisfied.

Dated at the Sheriff's office in Garner, this 27th day of October, A. D. 1925.

E. P. HANSON,
Sheriff of Hancock County, Iowa.
(Publish Nov. 19-26)

WRITES GOOD BOOK

RUTH SUCKOW NOW POPULAR IOWA AUTHORESS

Her latest book "The Odyssey of a Nice Girl," focuses interest in Ruth Suckow, the author, who is an Iowa girl. She was born in Hawarden, Aug. 6, 1892, studied at Grinnel college and at a dramatic school in Boston.

Through her work with her father, a Congregational minister, she has had varied contacts with all types of Iowa comunities. Mr. Suckow is now at Forest City, a near neighbor. Miss Suckow visits at that place from time to time although her home and her work is in Earlville. She has her own apiary there and cares for her bees and writes.

First Book Last Year

Her first book, "Country People," was published last year by Knoph. The new book is a study of girlhood. This week's "New York Times" has a rather unfavorable review of the book and it is quite evident that the reviewer does not like present day realism, though he does admit that the life in Boston affords Miss Suckow an opportunity for legitimate and diverting description.

Later on he says:

"Such a life holds little or no significance ercept the appaling fact of its insignificance. This one fancy is the object of Miss Suckow, to sketch the very limited social sea in which her Odysseus is permitted to wander."

Indictment of Realism

It is the old indictment of realism. Doubtless reviewers will arise to whom the odyssey of any human soul is important and who will find great delight in the precision in the use of words, in the delicacy and exactitude of presenting contrasts and in the sense of proportion which the book reveals.

After others have become discouraged and given up, many a persistent pearl diver has fetched up a valuable pearly that was waiting for just one more plunge. It is the persistent soul that wins the great prize in every line of endeavor.

WILD DEER IS SEEN NEAR RENWICK

A wild deer was seen one day about a week ago near the Otto Block farm southwest of Renwick. It was a small animal, probalby a last yea'rs fawn, and was very timid. When sighted it instantly took flight, clearing a fence with ease, and heading in the direction of Owl Lake where there is plenty of undergrowth for concealment of all kinds of wild animals. Where the deer came from is unknown for it certainly was a long way from home. It would have difficulty in living an unmolested and peaceful life around here.

WILL VOTE PAVING

JOHNSON COUNTY WANTS OUT OF THE MUD

Will Vote On Paving Question At Spring Election

IOWA CITY, Nov. 19.—Petitioned by 1399 voters, more than the required 10 per cent, the Johnson county board of supervisors will submit to the voters a plan for hard surfacing primary and county roads.

The project will probably be voted on at the primary election next spring, instead of being submitted at a special election this fall. A public meeting will be held for discussion of the plan when it is drawn up before it is submitted at the election in final form.

IT'S THE LAST STRAW

ADVISES MERE MAN TO WEAR MUSTACHE, LAST PROOF OF SEX

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 19—Bishop Collins Denny advises every man to wear a mustache as the last distinctive badge of masculinity that women have left him.

"Wear one," he told 300 delegates assembled here for the North Carolina Methodist conference. That's all the women have left us."

"They cut their hair and wear men's clothes, but they can't wear a mustache. It is your badge of masculinity."

The bishop wears one himself.

THE BABIES WIN IT

BIRTHS BEAT DEATH IN IOWA

The birth rate 'n Iowa exceeds the death rate by a two to one ratio, and while one death occurs every twenty-six minutes, there are two births in the same period of time. These facts are disclosed from the report of Robert L. McLaren, of the state department of vital statistics. Births last year numbered 47,961 while deaths reported were approximately half that number. Of the births, 24,426 were boys and 23,535 were girls.

BIG MONEY IN WOOD

WALNUT LOG INDUSTRY PAYS

Kent Mason, of Bedford, Taylor county, says that Earl Woodard, of that place has shipped 100 cars f walnut logs from points in southern Iowa the past year. On an average, Mr. Woodard has employed from 18 to 20 men, certain numbers of sawers, loaders, haulers, etc., and has about nine teams hauling most of the time. He set a record one month by loading 20 cars of walnut logs in 30 days. He ships the logs to Des Moines where there is the largest exclusive walnut lumber saw mill in the world.

Smile today. Strive Today. Be game, glad and big today. Today you may start anew. This is the day to forget past failures. Today you may put into action the experience of a lifetime. The whole fabric of your life may revolve around what you do today.

SIMONS PAID WITH HIS LIFE ON GALLOWS FOR CRIME

WIL EXHIBIT TREASURES FROM KING TUT'S TOMB

Inspection Of Mummy Shows Ruler Was Boy of Fifteen Years Only

CAIRO, Nov. 19.—The treasures found in the tomb of the boy king, Tut-ankh-amen soon will be brought to the Cairo museum for exhibition. Meanwhile, as they are being furbished, the tomb will be closed to visitors.

The evidence thus far adduced through an inspection of the mummy in its coffin of gold tends to show that it is that of a male, not yet an adult and that when death came the person was greatly emanciated.

The mumy was not removed from its case, but instead the wrappings about it were cut through from the face to the feet. Owing to the fragile condition of the wrappings the greatest care had to exercised.

During the week a large number of interesting and beautiful objects were brought to view. The ministry of works here says that both forearms of the mummy were loaded with magnificent jewels. Other objects brought to light were amulets and collarettes; a superb gold dagger with a crystal handle; bracelets of intricate workmanship and finger rings of divers materials. Another dagger was also found and several inlaid pectorals, beadwork ornaments and golden circlets.

On the feet of Tut-ankh-amen were golden sandals, and each toe and each finger had upon them golden stalls. Only the lower part of the body and the limbs of the pharaoh had been exposed to the view of the workers in the tomb up to last Friday, and the operation is of such a delicate nature that further progress will be slow. Just as soon as possible the objects found will be cleaned and restored, after which they will be brought here and placed on exhibition.

HERE'S WHAT YOUR BABY OUGHT TO DO AT HIS AGE

IOWA CITY, Nov. 19.—Little John may really be "such an unusual child" and any fond mother who thinks so can now know whether he really is any smarter than the neighbor's little Mary. Tests covering over a 1,000 infants at the University of Iowa child welfare station have established with relative definiteness what a normal baby can be expected to do.

At three months the average child will follow a light ray with its eyes, but its three months later before he will turn toward it if it is at his side, will follow an article fallen to the floor, or listen to and locate a watch.

In another three months he is ready to imitate a cough or grasp at a dangled thread—an act, by the way that a kitten will take up readily after a few months of fresh air. It is not until the average child is 15 months old that he will put a cork in a bottle, or a penny in a bank, and at a similar age he may be expected to mark with a pencil, hunt for an object under a cup and deliberatly tap a bell.

The activities of the child become more complex until a three year old youngster can be depended upon to screw the lid on a jar, insert a key and unlock a padlock and string beads. He should be able to assort lids to different boxes, and put a nest of three boxes together.

The tests are combined, according to Dr. Bird T. Baldwin, director of the station, into a system for determining the child's development thru vision, hearing, motor co-ordination and awareness.

KLEMME STORES TO CLOSE ON THANKSGIVING DAY

The business places of Klemme will close at 10:00 o'clock a. m. on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 26, and will remain closed for the balance of the day.

1tc F. GRUETZMACHER, Mayor.

TOOK DEATH IN COOL MANNER

BRUTAL SLAYER WAS HUNG AT FORT MADISON MONDAY MORNING AT 7:30

Gallows Seals Secret Of Motive For Killing; Prisoner Cool To Very Last

FORT MADISON, Nov. 16.—Harlan (Gabe) Simons was hanged in state prison here at 7:31 a. m. today for the murder of Orton Ferguson, a Michigan tourist, at a West Liberty tourist camp. Simons was pronounced dead at 7:36. He went to death without show of emotion..

The trap was sprung by Sheriff Frank Martin of Scott county, where Simons was convicted for slaying of Ferguson, a resident of Atlanta, Michigan, who was beaten to death with a gas pipe by Simons for no known motive.

The execution took place in an old cell house. Simons marched up to the gallows with the air of a man resigned to his fate, who wanted to get the execution out of the way as quickly as possible.

Makes No Statement

Simons went to his death without making any statement relative to the crime, which he had previously confessed. So far as could be learned he spent a peaceful night, following his before-death dinner last night, with the other men in prison who are under sentence to meet a similar fate.

About 50 spectators, most of them from Sco't and Muscatine counties, sworn in by Warden Hollowell as peace officers so they would have the legal right to witness the execution, saw Simons die.

Simons was already awake at 6 a. m., when the guards called on him to begin his march of death. He was taken immediately to the office of Deputy Warden William Snyder, had breakfast consisting of coffee, eggs and bacon and then changed his prison garb to a suit of blue serge, a white shirt and white cap. Then he began his march of a block and a half to the prison house.

Lead By Hollowell

The condemned man arrived at the cell house at 7:27 and was led by Warden Hollowell up the stairs to the scaffold. Behind him followed Sheriff Martin. Then followed the prison chaplain, W. F. Mitchell. Simons went up with a steady step. He looked down with not more than ordinary interest. He seemed anxious to get the business over with. Sheriff Martin and the warden bound his feet and hands together.

While the crowd of spectators stood with hats removed the chaplain offered prayer in a monotone. Simons buried his head, but his eyes were open, looking apparently at nothing in particular. The prayer over, Warden Hollowell put the customary black cap over Simon's head and then carried him, assisted by the sheriff, to the trap door, where the warden adjusted the noose.

Before the spectators realized what was going on the sheriff pulled the lever and Simons shot into space. Five minutes later the prison physician, Dr. Thomas Best, declared Simons dead.

The body was later cut down and placed in a wicker basket and shipped to Tipton for burial.

Thus closed the final chapter in one of Iowa's most brutal murders.

NOTICE TO OWNERS OF CEMETERY LOTS

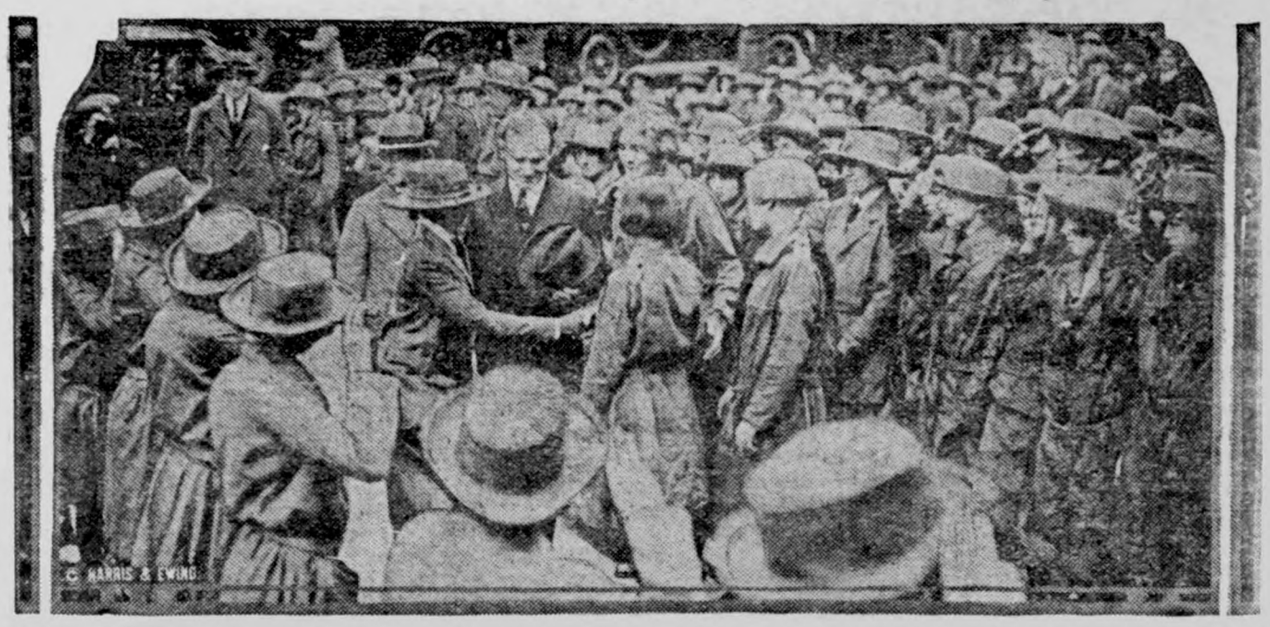
Please settle with C. C. Mayne, sexton, for the care of your cemetery lots for the season 1925.

By order of the Eli Township Trustees. N12-19c

Rebellious Druses Celebrating "Independence Day"

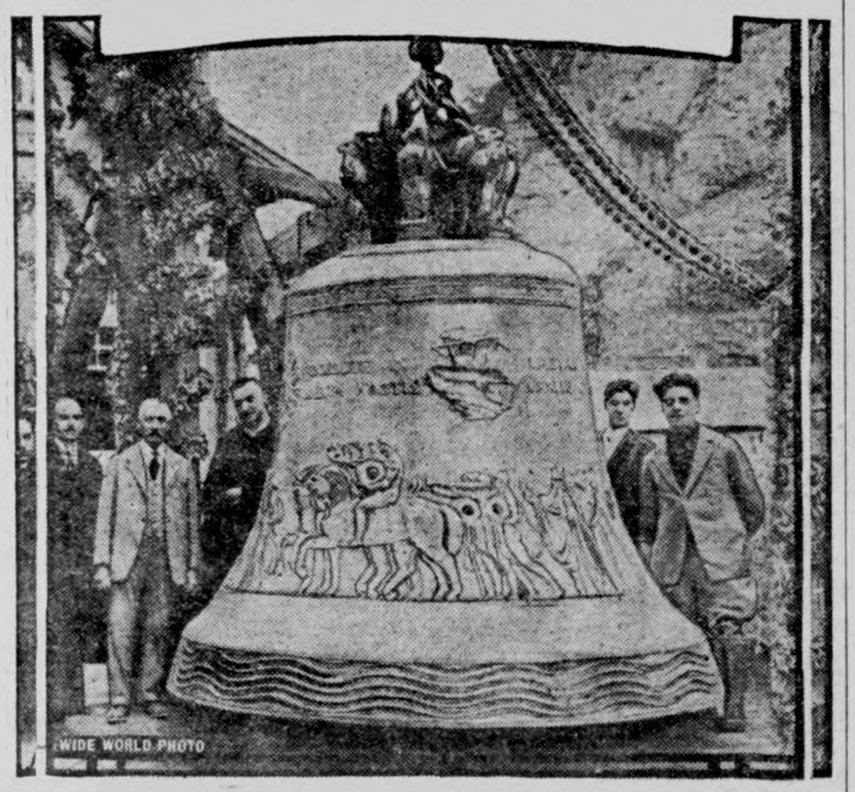
Group of Druses, the tribesmen who are giving the French so much trouble in Syria, celebrating their "independence day" with a war dance.

Girl Scout Drive Helped by the Coolidges



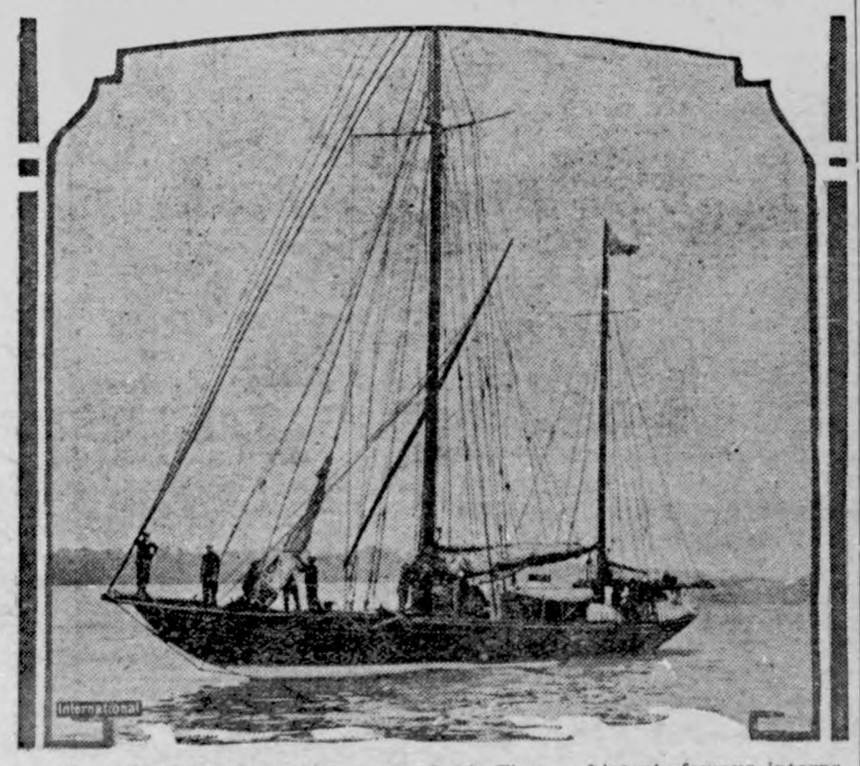
The Washington Girl Scout drive for $20,000 was formally opened when President and Mrs. Coolidge were guests of the organization at a Vermont luncheon prepared and served by the young members at their headquarters, "The Little House," just south of the Executive mansion. In the photograph can be seen the President and Mrs. Coolidge being welcomed by Lucille Weber, hostess of the day, and Leona Baldwin, who brought the turkey from Vermont especially for this occasion.

Bell of Remembrance at Rovereto



This "Bell of Remembrance" was dedicated by the king of Italy at Rovereto, on the Trentino front, to the memory of all soldiers killed in the war. It weighs more than eleven tons, and is rung for one minute every evening at nine o'clock.

Shamrock II Now Is a Rum Runner



Above is pictured the Shamrock II, Sir Thomas Lipton's famous international race yacht, which is now reported to be in use as a rum runner in the Bahama islands. The Shamrock was recently acquired by a Nassau liquor house and its name changed to the Iscocles.

SPIRIT OF TOBACCO

Marion Dabney representing Lady Nicotine at the tobacco and Cuban exposition in New York.

RED HAIR HER GLORY

Miss Irene Blakeman, a stenographer, has the prettiest red hair in the entire state of Kansas. This was the decision of judges in selecting her as queen of the red heads for the Kansas National Live Stock show at Wichita.

SEE NO DANGER OF U. S. COAL FAMINE

Production Said to Be Ample to Fuel Nation—Strike May End Soon.

Washington.—The nation is insured against a coal famine even if the hard-coal strike continues, according to a statement issued by the National Coal association, which is the national organization of the bituminous operators.

The statement presents figures intended to show that the bituminous mines are fueling and can continue to fuel the entire nation.

The statement is signed by Harry L. Gandy, executive secretary of the National Coal association. It is pointed out that there is no indication of a general car shortage which will interfere this winter with fuel transportation.

"The actual fact," says the statement, "is that bituminous production is exceeding by several hundred thousand tons the weekly average that it will be necessary to maintain until March 31, the end of what is known as the coal year, to meet the average consumption of both anthracite and bituminous. An average weekly production of 11,880,785 net tons will fuel this nation, and, according to the figures of the United States bureau of mines, the production in each of the last two weeks of October exceeded 12,000,000 tons. In fact, for the week ended October 31, the figure was 12,450,000 tons.

Philadelphia.—Reports again were in circulation in the anthracite fields of a possible compromise offer to end the coal strike.

These reports had it the proposal would be either a 5 per cent increase in wages or the granting of a partial check-off. The partial check-off would mean the collection by the coal companies of only union dues, but not union assessments.

There was also a rumor that miners and operators would get together within a few days.

Valentinos Confirm Report of Paris Divorce

New York.—Confirmation came of reports that a divorce would end the marital venture of Rudolph Valentino, film sheik, and Winifred Hudnut, heiress and aspirant to movie stardom. Of the cabled reports from Paris that Mrs. Valentino had already brought suit, Mrs. Valentino said: "I want to devote myself exclusively to my career in the film. I want to think about my work and to make my own living. The public can draw its own conclusions."

She pointed out that both parties to a suit must be present in France.

Rudolph is preparing to sail for Paris at once. In a dictated statement he said:

"Mrs. Valentino having applied in Paris for a divorce from me, it is my intention to defer to her wishes in this matter. As I understand it, all I have to do is to establish a domicile in France, which I will do immediately upon arrival in Paris."

Two Famous Dry Sleuths Among 98 to Lose Jobs

New York.—Izzy and Moe, the peerless, whose many disguises have caused a nation to laugh dryly, donned camouflage which they have never worn before. Izzy Einstein and Moe Smith are now disguised as cans.

They, with 98 others of lesser portent and not half so many costumes, were called to the squad room of the local prohibition forces at 1107 Broadway and handed printed notices announcing that their services—in any guise—would no longer be required. The shakeup—most extensive in many months—included all but 25 of the local force. It was made on the order of John A. Foster, prohibition administrator of the district.

Langley Must Serve Term for Violating Dry Laws

Cincinnati.—Sentence of two years' imprisonment imposed upon Congressman John W. Langley of Kentucky, who was convicted on the charge of violating the national prohibition act, was affirmed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here. The court also affirmed a two-year sentence imposed on Milton Lipschutz, Philadelphian, convicted with Langley.

Michigan Congressman Killed in Auto Crash

Portland, Ore.—George Alvin Loud, seventy-three years old, former United States congressman from Michigan and a lumberman widely known in the East, was instantly killed near Marshfield, Ore., when the automobile he was riding crashed into a five-ton truck. The truck was without lights, it was said.

Two Radio Stations Licensed

Washington.—The Department of Commerce licensed two new first-class radio broadcasting stations and permitted three stations which had been operating short distances to begin broadcasting on a high power.

Vets' Hospital Overcrowded

Washington.—An investigating committee appointed by Director Gen. Frank T. Hines has absolved St. Elizabeth's hospital for the insane of charges of cruelty toward patients.

ON TAX JOB

Carl Richard Chindblom of Illinois, a member of the house ways and means committee which now has tax reduction under consideration. Congressman Chindblom, a Republican, was a teacher and lawyer before he was elected to congress.

RADIO CONFERENCE DRAFTS NEW LAW

Reduction in Number of Stations Demand at Parley.

Washington.—Radio broadcasting stations will be reduced in number as present stations go out of existence voluntarily and no new stations will be licensed except when Secretary Hoover is convinced that they will not add to the congestion of the air. This was the principle adopted by the Fourth National radio conference.

A law is being drawn up by the conference giving the secretary of commerce legal control, and the measure will be presented at the coming session of congress.

Some provisions proposed by the radio men follow:

(a) The rights of free speech shall not be violated.

(b) Those engaged in radio communication shall not be required to devote their property to public use, as their properties are not public utilities; but a license or permit to engage in radio communication shall be issued only to those who, in the opinion of the secretary of commerce, will render a benefit to the public, are necessary in the public interest, or are contributing to the development of radio.

(c) In time of war or other emergency the President shall have the power to discontinue or commandeer existing stations, with just compensation.

(d) No monopoly in radio communication shall be permitted.

(e) Legislation shall provide due court appeal from the decisions of the secretary of commerce.

(f) Except in the case of government stations, the secretary shall be empowered to classify all stations, fix call letters, wave lengths, power, location, time of operation, character of emission and duration of license.

(g) Call letters shall be recognized as representing a property right during the life of the license.

Giant British Submarine Lost in Channel With 68

London.—Another tragic submarine mystery developed when the admiralty announced the disappearance of the M-1, a giant submersible, with 68 officers and men in the English channel during a storm.

It is presumed the disaster is analagous to the American loss of the S-4.

Her skipper was Lieut. Commander Alec Carrie.

The M-1, built in 1919, is one of the world's largest submarines. It is of the monitor type and carries a 12-inch gun, besides heavy secondary batteries.

Trains Crash in Fog; 9 Killed, 31 Injured

New York.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company issued an official statement placing the known dead at nine and the injured at thirty-one in the wreck near Plainsboro, N. J.

The failure of the engineer and fireman on the St. Louis express to see danger signals because of a fog was given as the cause of the accident.

Former Tennis Champ Dies

New York.—Robert D. Wrenn, stock broker, rough rider, famous Harvard athlete, four times national tennis champion, aviator major in the World war, and a former Chicagoan, died of Bright's disease in his apartment in the Hotel Madison.

Won't Cut Rum Freight Rates

Washington.—The interstate commerce commission ruled that freight rates on whisky from the East to California are not excessive since special precautions must be taken by the railroads.

Spanish Mutiny Stifled

Paris.—The Spanish embassy announced that the mutiny in Spain had been "stifled." It said that it was confined to army officers dissatisfied with rewards for services in Morocco.

BAKER'S Cocoa and Chocolate

Delightful foods and beverages of high quality, pure and healthful.

Walter Baker & Co. Ltd.
Established 1780
Dorchester, Mass.
Montreal, Canada
Booklet of Choice Recipes sent free.

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Free Farm Building Helps

"Concrete Around the Home" tells in everyday language how to use concrete for building drives, walks, steps, porches, and other permanent improvements which every home needs. Complete instructions make it easy to estimate the materials and to mix, place, and finish the concrete for these improvements.

"Permanent Repairs on the Farm" tells you how to repair old buildings quickly and easily, and at low cost. The information on Concrete Barn Floors and Feeding Floors will help you add many a dollar to your net profits.

"Plans for Concrete Farm Buildings" contains supplies of blue prints, and shows you, step by step, how to put up Concrete Silos, Dairy Barns, Hog Houses, Milk Houses and many other forms of Concrete Construction.

Whether you are going to build a new building, or repair an old building, these free booklets will show you how to do the job for all time. Send for them today.

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION
111 West Washington Street
CHICAGO
A National Organization to Improve and Extend the Uses of Concrete
Offices in 30 Cities

Wool Output Increased

Sheep shearers clipped 11,350,0 more pounds of wool this year th last, making the 1925 wool clip 2 885,000 pounds.

Backache Wearing You Out

Every day find you miserable wit backache? Suffer sharp, stabbing pain Feel lame and stiff—always tired, ner ous and dispirited? Then look to you kidneys! Your kidneys are the bloo filters. Perhaps they have failed t properly rid the blood of body po sons. Naturally, then, you suffer th injurious effects of this slow poisonin

Don't risk neglect! If your kidney need help, use Doan's Pills. No oth kidney diuretic is so well recommende nor so successful. Ask your neighbor

An Iowa Case

Mrs. Mary La fayette, 313 Eliza St., Maquo keta, Iowa, says "I had a head ache that mad me so miserable couldn't half d my housework. felt dull and ru down. My kid neys acted irreg ularly. Doan Pills put my kid neys in good or der and my back was well an strong."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c
STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

ITCHING RASHES quickly relieved and often cleared away by a few applications of

Resinol

PATENTS Booklet free. Highest references. Best results. Promptness assured. WATSON E. COLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, 644 G Street, Washington, D. C.

PE-RU-NA
For Catarrh

of the Head, Nose, Throat, Stomach, Bowels or other Internal Organs. Backed by more than half a century of successful service in the American home.

Your Nearest Dealer Carries Pe-ru-na Tablets or Liquid

Green's August Flower for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver

Relieves that feeling of having eaten unwisely. 30c and 90c bottles. AT ALL DRUGGISTS.

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

TRADE MARK

DON'T ACCEPT ANY SUBSTITUTE

Many children are complaining of Headache, Feverishness, Stomach Troubles and Irregular Bowels and take cold easily. If mothers only knew what MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS would do for their children no family would ever be without them for use when needed. So pleasant to take and so effective that mothers who once use them always tell others about them. At all Druggists. Trial Package FREE. Address Mother Gray Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

A wise woman is one who has a great deal to say and remains silent.

REPAID THIS MAN A DOZEN TIMES

"I have been repaid a dozen times over in improved health for every dollar I spent for Tanlac, and the medicine is still building me up every day," is the striking statement of Joseph DeSarne.

"Tanlac has driven pains from my body that had troubled me for ten years. Besides backache, which almost killed me at times, I had rheumatic pain and swelling in my hands and legs, my circulation was poor, feet always cold, nerves undone, my stomach didn't feel right, I had regular headaches and I was a discouraged man.

"I have never seen the equal of Tanlac in my life. It has more than doubled my appetite, my stomach feels great and my general health is so improved that I can not praise Tanlac enough for what it has done and is still doing for me."

What Tanlac has done for others, it can do for you.

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 millions of bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

There are as many ways of losing money as of making it.

There's Help for YOU

Oswego, Kans.—"I suffered a great deal with weight and pressure, heavy ache in the small of my back and soreness in the region of my kidneys. I could not sleep at night only in short intervals, was also dizzy and my nerves were in bad shape. I wrote Dr. Pierce, President of the Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., and thru his advice I have taken the 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Anuric Tablets,' and 'Irontic Tablets,' (irontonic) and can say I am again in perfect health."—Mrs. Cora M. Campbell, 112 Wisconsin St.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial of any one of Dr. Pierce's medicines in tablet form, and write for free advice.

STAND THEM ON THEIR HEADS

RAT-NIP

The one poison they can't resist. It gets them every time. Kills rats and mice quickly, positively and safely. A single tube has killed more than 100 rats in one night.

Simply spread on bread and put where rats can get it—they'll be dead in the morning.

Easy to use—your hands need never touch it.

In clean, screw-top metal tubes, 35 cents.

BUFFALO SPECIALTY CO., The LIQUID VENEER People Buffalo, N. Y.

PATENTS

Don't risk delay in protecting your ideas. Send sketch or model for instructions or write for FREE book, "How to Obtain a Patent" and "Record of Invention" form. No charge for information on how to proceed. Communications confidential. Careful, efficient service. CLARENCE A. O'BRIEN, Registered Patent Attorney, 243-A Security Bank Building (directly across street from Patent Office) WASHINGTON, D. C.

Prudence's Daughter

By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.
WNU Service

NOT INTERESTED

SYNOPSIS—PART ONE—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, New York, Jerry (Geraldine) Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He admires her tremendously, and she likes him. But Allerton gets a bit exhilarated, with unfortunate results. Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly, the story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Des Moines. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of Art and asks her parents to let her go to New York for study. With some misgiving, they agree to her going. In New York Jerry makes her home with a Mrs. Delaney ("Mimi"), an actress, who, with Theresa, a painter, occupies the house. Jerry takes an immediate liking to Theresa, who is talented and eccentric and the two become fast friends. Jerry now devotes herself to Theresa, who returns her liking.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

—6—

"Art Trailers! That is what I am, I suppose, an Art Trailer."

"Oh, no, Jerry, you're a student. If you want to amuse yourself studying Art—"

"It's nobody's business but my own," Jerry finished promptly, when Rhoda hesitated again.

"Righto!" Rhoda laughed, agreeing.

Rhoda begged her to stay for dinner—promising to cook most delectable things on the grill, to take her out anywhere she liked, to go to the theater, generously profuse in her enticement. But Jerry would not be persuaded. She said she had to go home and fix something for Theresa, who was looking wretchedly ill, who had no proper regard for food, or rest, or exercise, and who certainly required a strong coercive hand to force her into reason.

"Theresa's making heaps of money," Rhoda said surprisingly. "She's doing marvelously."

"Theresa!"

"Yes, why not?"

"But—then—why—for heaven's sake, then, why doesn't she get a decent room, and eat a decent meal once in a while? I thought—"

"Well, you thought wrong. It isn't the money with people like Theresa—like all of us. It's that burning up inside—we can't help it. Don't try to know what I'm talking about, old Angel-face; the more you think about it the less you'll understand!"

* * * * * * *

It was the next morning when Jerry slipped softly upstairs with a breakfast tray that Theresa asked her diffidently, almost apologetically, if she would care to see a few of her "things."

"Oh, I should love to," Jerry cried flushing with pleasure.

Theresa was vaguely surprised, a little troubled, at her eagerness. "If you wanted to see them, why didn't you ask me?"

"Oh, I couldn't ask, Theresa. I thought perhaps you'd rather not show me—I was just hoping you would suggest it some time."

For the first time in the weeks she had known Theresa, she really took time to do a thing quietly, deliberately and with comfortable easiness. She spent the full morning with Jerry, showing her dozens of little sketches, unfinished bits of landscape, lovely heads, delicately draped figures without number, discussing them meanwhile with an impersonal, judicious interest that charmed and fascinated Jerry. She touched upon their beauties of composition and execution generously, but without personal warmth. And she pointed out their defects with a keen eye and an unsparing tongue. And then she said:

"I have saved my best till the last, Jerry. This is my one passion, my darling and my adored."

It was typical of Theresa that she did not keep it on display, "her darling and adored," but packed away with tender care in a dark closet, obviously the one thing in her life that received her tender care. Jerry almost held her breath as Theresa brought it out, removed the protecting wrappers, and turned it about for her to see.

It was a cruel green ocean, lashing great waves into white foam, an ocean of blackening shadows, and shifting lights. At first glance, Jerry saw only the turbulence of a multitude of waters, and then, looking deeper, standing out with sharp incisiveness once she had discerned its presence, riding the highest, wildest wave of all, stretched the slim white body of a woman, triumphant white face upraised, dominant white arms flung wide—a joyous, jubilant, fearless figure of youth, swept on the black waters, sprayed with the white.

Jerry cried out, enraptured.

"Theresa! Oh, Theresa! It is beautiful! It is the most—thrilling—thing I ever saw. It makes you feel so full of—freedom."

Theresa nodded, her dark eyes alight with pleasure. "Um, freedom. I've been working on it for years, Jerry. A thousand or more, I think. I used to spend the summer on the coast in Maine with my nurse—when I was a kid, you know. I adored the ocean. It is the only really free—really relentless—thing I ever saw. It knows no law but its own. Oh, yes, I know what scientists say about the moon, and the tides. No, no, what little moon riding the heavens could harness a fathomless ocean! I used to sit, like an ugly blackbird, on the highest rocks, and adore the ocean in a storm. A hundred times I went home drenched to the skin, soaked, but exalted with rapture, to be soundly whipped for my mischief, and put to bed in disgrace." She paused, smiling at Jerry.

"Go on, go on," she begged feverishly. "Tell me."

"First, I suppose it was just a personal emotion—I wanted to ride the waves. I chafed at my bondage to solid, sordid earth. I thrilled myself to a rapture by fancying myself swept high on the topmost wave. And so before long—my thought a mother to the thing, I suppose—it really seemed to me I saw her, the Ocean Rider, a lovely, slim, white woman triumphant on the waves. I worshiped it. It was a god to me. I have only been able to work on it when the passion is hot upon me, so it has been a very slow thing. A dozen times, in a storm, I have gone off to the islands to do another bit on my Ocean Rider. It isn't right yet. The ocean is good enough, but the Rider—I haven't quite got it." There was brooding discontent in Theresa's voice. "The light in her eyes—it's not right. I wonder, Jerry—" Her voice took on a sudden wheedlesomeness Jerry had never heard in it before. "I wonder—would you mind—would you let me use your eyes? I have wanted a hundred times to ask you but—"

"Oh, Theresa, I shouldn't mind at all—I should love it. Why didn't you ask me before? But she looks so lovely to me the way she is. I'm afraid you will spoil her."

Theresa shook her head. "Not right. It's her eyes. I've known it all the time—that is, I've felt there was something lacking. And when I saw you, I knew what it was. She must have the light in her eyes that you had when you came first to the city, as you were when I saw you first. I shall never forget it—that sort of radiant assurance. Look! Her eyes are too deep, they are too subtle for a free woman."

That Same Afternoon Jerry Posed for the Eyes of the Ocean Rider.

Jerry flushed. "Theresa, that is irony! Eyes like mine for a free woman! Why, I don't know what freedom is. I haven't the nerve to find out when I have a chance. I am bound hand and foot—to conventions—to convictions—to Prudence."

"Yes, that is what I mean. You don't find that blithe and buoyant confidence, that triumphant joyousness of surety, in freedom itself. Only in the pursuit of it. In eyes that have seen freedom"—she waved a light hand toward her Ocean Rider—"like this, subtle, understanding, inscrutable—"

"Perhaps—perhaps you mean license, Theresa, instead of freedom."

Theresa smiled at her gentle diffidence. "Yes, I get the distinction. But unfortunately, Jerry, one must try both before one knows which is which! There's the pity of it. And the eyes are faithful registers, they record it all. So my brave little Ocean Rider has got to have—not eyes that have known freedom, but which hold a vision of it—unrealized."

That same afternoon, Jerry posed for the eyes of the Ocean Rider, who must know not freedom, but cherish a dream of it.

"I think I missed my calling after all," she said. "I should be a model. The other night I was a corpse for Rhoda, and now I'm a mermaid for you."

And she sat, sweetly patient, in a bright light, starry-eyed with delight that she could be of service, while Theresa worked passionately on the eyes that were not just right. And when she had finished, and declared the result far exceeded her expectations, she kissed Jerry impulsively, for the first time, not on the lips but on the brilliant eyes which could see visions. Jerry herself saw no difference in the picture, felt that Theresa had overestimated the importance of an unessential trifle, but she was glad Theresa was pleased with her.

As she was tripping, almost happily, almost as in the days before the studio party of such sorry memories, down the stairs to her own room, she was stopped by Mimi, a radiant vision in a filmy gown of silk and silver lace, who held a cautioning finger across her lips to insure silence.

"Sh!" She whispered. "Go quick, and get dolled up. You have a caller—the best-looking thing you ever saw in your life!"

She turned expressive eyes toward the ceiling to convey the extent of her rapture.

"I took him in my room to give you a chance to fuss up a little, after messing about with Theresa. Shall I make some tea?"

Jerry's eyes were no longer starry, but cold as ice. "Who is it?"

"Sh, he'll hear you. Duane Allerton—the stunningest thing I've seen in years!"

CHAPTER V

Jerry Meets a Genius.

Jerry's slender hand upon the flimsy bannister of the stairway grew suddenly tense so that the blue veins stood out clearly upon the delicate whiteness of her skin.

"Will you tell Mr. Allerton," she said gently but with firmness, "that I do not care to see him? I—"

"Sh, for heaven's sake!" begged Mimi. "He'll hear you. I'll tell him you're out. I'll give him a cup of tea, if you don't mind, to put him in a good humor and then—"

"But I'm not out, and I'm not busy, and I'm not engaged. I'm just not interested."

Jerry's enunciation was perfect, the hallway narrow, the transom open. She went into her room and closed the door. Theresa in a similar circumstance would have slammed it furiously, but Jerry was not given to furious slammings as a means of expression. She closed it softly.

Mimi, left alone, distracted and bewildered in her predicament, threw out both jeweled hands in a remonstrative, anxious gesture.

"Now, what can you do with a girl like that?" she wailed.

The answer came from the farther doorway, Mimi's doorway, where Duane Allerton stood and laughed, but ruefully.

"Not much, I'm afraid. Not especially keen about seeing me, is she?"

With a visible effort, Mimi pulled herself together, dimpled, used the long lashes to the best possible effect.

"She's tired, poor thing," she said sympathetically. "You must excuse her. She works so hard, you know."

"Oh, she does! I understood that she did not work at all."

"I mean she—er—she's tired, anyhow. And nervous, she's frightfully nervous. Don't hold it against her. Can't I give you a cup of tea—"

"Oh, no, thanks. I feel I shouldn't pollute her atmosphere any longer than is absolutely necessary. Awfully good of you; thanks very much."

He went downstairs at once, and let himself out into the narrow street. And Mimi knocked on Jerry's door, opening it herself without waiting for an answer.

"Jerry," she began plaintively, "you have hurt his feelings just terribly, poor boy—and so good-looking. Now, that's positively not nice."

"Go and cheer him up if you like," said Jerry. "He's easily comforted."

"He wouldn't wait—I mean— You might at least have introduced me. The best-looking thing—"

* * * * * * * *

Jerry learned afterward that he had gone to Rhoda for her address, and two days later he went to her again, to ask her to intercede for him, to remonstrate with her disagreeable protegee from the Middle West. He asked Rhoda if Jerry was a flirt.

"A flirt?" echoed Rhoda vaguely. "Good heavens, I don't know. What is a flirt? They used to say in college that she was, but they meant it nicely, every one was crazy about her. That's Iowa, you know. A girl who is quite wickedly awful in the Middle West seems like an angel from heaven when she's transplanted to Greenwich. Don't ask me anything about her. I don't know. She's a lovely thing, and I think a lot of her."

* * * * * * * *

It did not remotely occur to Jerry that she was unhappy. Instead, she felt that she was quite joyous, carefree. She took a great deal of pleasure in doing things for Theresa, making her comfortable—Theresa, who cared as little for comfort as a honey bee for snow. She scoured the market for tempting delicacies, and became very proficient in preparing them nicely on her little grill. One day Theresa asked if she would mind rummaging through a couple of old boxes for her, in search of a particular bit of tinsel she particularly needed for a costume.

Jerry flushed with pleasure.

"Oh, will you let me? May I go through the drawers, and everything, and fold things up—I'll be very quiet."

Theresa laughed at her. "Go as far as you like," she said generously. "Funny thing about you, Jerry. You never bother me. Most people nag me to sixes and sevens over nothing at all. Mimi especially. I feel she is coming when she starts up the last flight of stairs, and I begin to see cross-eyed right away. You are the nicest kid."

After that, Jerry took entire charge of Theresa's room and Theresa's belongings, sorting out soiled bits of silk for the laundry, things Theresa had overlooked for months, and washing out especially fine pieces with her own hands.

"Oh, Theresa," she said one day, "I wish you were my sister."

"Oh, good heavens!"

"Yes, I do. I had a little brother, but he died. I cannot remember him. Oh, I do wish you were my sister! Then I should be satisfied just to live on this way and take care of you and do little things for you. I should feel I was very important, indeed—you do paint such exquisite things, Theresa—I should be so proud of you. I'd probably take all the credit for everything you do, and brag about the way I brought you up."

Jerry laughed gleefully at this picture of herself, but Theresa did not join her merriment.

"Funny thing, Jerry, but you are the first person in the world—the first woman—who ever wanted me for anything—friend, foe, or fellow citizen. I think I must be quite getting on in the world, to have somebody craving me for—anything. I feel quite stuck up about it."

She put her brushes down abruptly and went out of the room without apology, and Jerry, with that new wisdom of hers which was only intuition and not the least understanding, went on with the papers she was filing and paid no attention when she went, nor when she came again.

* * * * * * * *

Jerry went about a great deal, sometimes with Mimi. She was not fond of Mimi, but enjoyed her immensely. She was a constant source of gay delight, with her pretty vanities and boasted conquests, where Theresa was like a brooding pain to her. She laughed at Mimi, but in her heart she wept aloud over soul and body-worn Theresa.

Duane Allerton sent her flowers. Rhoda, in such a case, would have tossed them from her window in holy scorn. Theresa would have crushed them to crumpled petals between her bare hands, the thorns of them pricking her skin to crimson. Jerry looked at them, gave them to Mimi. He wrote to her. Jerry read the notes, and tore them up. She never thought of returning them to him, unopened, although she knew from whom they came. That would have been too dramatic, too theatrical, for her. The waste basket served her purpose well enough.

One afternoon she saw him. She was dancing at tea at the Biltmore with Mimi and two young friends of hers, boys fresh from college. One was cubbishly infatuated with Jerry, and she, in mischief, had set herself to tantalize him to the limit of her charm. In the midst of her pretty coquetry she looked up suddenly, and saw Duane Allerton at a table across from them, sitting with a woman, very lovely, very sophisticated, very young. "Francy," Jerry thought at once.

Mimi would have redoubled her attentions to the young admirer, to whet Allerton's interest, to stir his jealousy. Jerry could not do that, she did not even think of it. She yielded to the natural hush that swept over her at seeing him, and sat, a subdued and softened figure, with the others at the table. She knew his eyes remained steadily on her face. She knew he marveled that she permitted the silly exaggeration of this ardent boy's devotion, and yet repulsed his own more finished advances. Jerry herself did not know why she did.

Jerry may not be a flirt, but she is doing just the thing to attract Allerton—if he's in earnest. Is he?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Shoes of Olden Time

In the early days of American history when necessity was ofttimes the mother of invention for comfort, the knitting needles played a part in the shoe styles of our ancestors. During the severe weather even governors had to walk about in deep snows and warm footwear was necessary. In the old South church at Boston there is on display a pair of shoes worn by Governor Phillips. They are heavily lined with sheep's wool and covered with dark-brown yarn in stockinette stitch. The soles are of leather. Probably every bit of the yarn was made by hand by the busy wife who had to find time to keep her lord and master warmly clad in days when the servant question was as difficult as it is today, if not more so, and labor not a question of pay, but scarcity of folk.

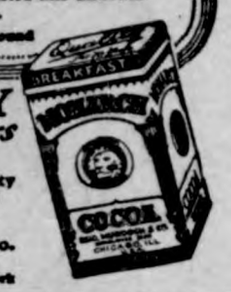
Anne de Rohan

Anne de Rohan, the daughter of Catherine de Parthenai, heiress to the house of Soubise, was born in 1562 and acquired, like her mother, a high reputation in the literary world. She would have been one of the greatest poetesses of her age, but her devoted piety turned her talent into another channel. She died, unmarried, in 1646. She was a Protestant and was celebrated for her courage as well as her learning.—Chicago Journal.

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA

There is a new delight in store for you and your children if you have not already tried this unusual quality Cocoa.

35c a pound



QUALITY for 70 years

Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.

Reid, Murdoch & Co. Chicago, U. S. A.
Boston. Pittsburgh, New York

In Some Society

The foolish sayings of the rich man pass for laws in society.—Don Quixote.

STOP THAT BAKE-DAY Waste!

That's what Millions of women have done with CALUMET THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

Being uniform and dependable it never spoils any of the ingredients used on bake day.

BEST BY TEST

Sales 2½ Times Those of Any Other Brand

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right

By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

Have Good Hair And Clean Scalp Cuticura Soap and Ointment Work Wonders

Try Our New Shaving Stick.

WHY SUFFER ANOTHER DAY WITH INDIGESTION?

The big seller today for acute and chronic stomach misery is Dare's Mentha Pepsin and it is such a fine, pleasant and supremely good medicine that if the first bottle you buy doesn't help you—your druggist will return the purchase price.

One man writes, "I Cannot understand why any person will continue to suffer from gastritis or indigestion when Dare's Mentha Pepsin is available."

And tens of thousands of people—many of whom almost died with stomach agony—think the same way.

It's the right medicine for any person who suffers from bad digestion, gas, heaviness and that feeling of suffocation which is always dangerous.

For gastritis, indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach agony—acute or chronic, keep Dare's Mentha Pepsin in mind.

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

The BULL'S EYE

Editor and General Manager
WILL ROGERS

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

I see where some of the Foreign Nations say they are going to FUND their debt to America, and all the Papers are all excited about it. But the BULL'S EYE is a Paper that never misleads our readers (either one of them). FUNDING a debt means about the same thing as having a fellow that has owed you for years, come to you and say "I am going to make arrangements to take up that loan I owe you just as soon as I can collect it from some fellows who owe me." So don't by any means get FUNDING mixed up with PAYING. The two have nothing in common. These Nations are just stalling until another War comes along and the first thing you know our debt will be four Wars behind. We have enough saved up to fight again, but they are using it now to enforce Prohibition.

Oh, yes, "BULL" DURHAM. I like to forgot to mention that. Well, that is what the Foreign Nations are paying us in. "BULL" DURHAM without the DURHAM.

Will Rogers

P. S. There is going to be another piece in this paper soon. Look for it.

"BULL" DURHAM
Guaranteed by
The American Tobacco Co.
INCORPORATED
111 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Goodell News

Mrs. J. J. Cook was taken to the hospital at Hampton where she was operated on, Monday.

Miss Lola Fluroe, of Clarion, visited at the Claude Allie home last week.

Miss Liittschwager, Miss Thomas, and Mr. Nelson returned to Goodell Sunday, after spending the week's vacation at their respective homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newberger of Ventura, visited at the Cook, Sherwood and Griggs homes, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kearney and children and Winifred Tisor attended the funeral of an aunt at Applington, Friday.

The High School has set the date, December 4, for their play, "Billy's Aunt Jane."

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buss are the parents of a new son.

Mrs. W. L. Sherwood and Iris were Garner business callers Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Griggs and children were visiting at Meservey, Sunday.

S. G. Fuller has a new Oldsmobile car.

Mrs. Ahrenkeil and Louisa spent the week end with relatives at Swea City.

Iris Sherwood has been on the sick list the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lamer were calling on friends at Ventura Tuesday.

Mrs. L. W. Wesenberg returned from Chicago, where she had been attending a canning convention.

Miss Lenone Cashman came Monday from Chicago for a short visit with her mother.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

This is Educational Week and our Sunday morning service will be devoted to this great event.

Special music will feature the service and Professor Penrod will be our special speaker along this line with the pastor.

Our S. S. is well on the up-grade. Let us keep moving.

O. E. Carlson, who lives southwest of Garner, was in town last Friday and closed a deal with Joe Tusha for Joe's land west of here. Mr. Carlson bought an eighty and a strip containing about 32 acres. This land is unimproved, but is along the paving, and will some day be very valuable. We suggested to Mr. Carlson that he build on it and live there, but he said he wouldn't for the present.—Garner Signal.

Our Tourists

A group of tourists were looking over the inferno of Vesuvius in full eruption.

"Ain't this just like hell?" ejaculated a Yank.

"Ah, zee Americans!" exclaimed a Frenchman. "Where have zey not been."

Correct!

Any guy can be gay when he's off for a day
With a gun or rod and an auto;
But the bird worth while
Is the duck who can smile
When he don't want to work but has gotto.

Not A Bad Idea

Cornbelt farmers are said to own more radios than those of any other section.

Manure Shed With Carrier Is Favored

Spreading Direct From Stables Is Best Plan.

It is generally conceded that spreading direct from the stable secures the greatest returns from manure. Manure as ordinarily handled is said to lose about one-half of its value. In many sections, however, every-day handling is impossible and in these cases proper handling can do much to conserve the fertility as well as to keep things shipshape about the barn. The greatest sources of loss in the handling of manure are failure to absorb liquids by bedding, the leaching of soluble plant food from the heap and the burning up of organic matter through heating. These losses can be lessened by the free use of bedding to absorb stable liquids and the building of a compact manure heap which will lessen or prevent heating and leaching. A suitable clay or concrete basin to retain such liquids as do leak through still further reduces the loss. A roof is not necessary unless it is desired to protect the carrier track.

A cow produces about twelve tons of manure yearly. This will require approximately 500-600 cubic feet for storage. As much of the manure will be dropped in pasture you will have to determine the size required by the length of time elapsing between cleaning the pit. If there is opportunity to get the track well up it will lessen the amount of floor area required and at the same time secure a more compact manure heap. If the floor is to be driven on it should be made of one part cement, two parts clean coarse sand and four parts crushed stone or screened gravel and laid about eight inches thick. Use easy grades and a rough surface to prevent slipping as the horses haul from the pit.

Hog Influenza Is a New Ailment Among the Pigs

New diseases are constantly appearing among our animals, and the end is not yet. Hog "flu" may have existed for a long time, but was not recognized as a distinct entity in disease until quite recently. It spread among young swine at the stock show two years ago and during this interim has been reported throughout the United States.

Its present name is derived from the fact that it greatly resembles influenza as seen in people and horses. Young swine are most susceptible, and the mortality is not high. However, it is a disease that must be reckoned with in shipping animals for exhibition purposes, or for any other purpose. It may be recognized by high fever, cough, difficult breathing and congestion of the mucous membranes. Special treatment does not seem to be indicated; good care is the main thing. There is no biologic that will protect hogs against this disease, but the disease has not been serious enough to warrant anyone in refusing to exhibit because of hog "flu."—George H. Glover, Colorado Agricultural College.

Satisfactory Plan for Storing Late Cabbages

A good method of storing late cabbages is to pull them up, roots and all, and set them side by side, with the roots down, in a shallow trench several feet in length. As many rows may be set out side by side as are necessary to accommodate the cabbage to be stored. The roots should be covered with earth. Inclose the cabbage bed formed by the rows with a frame of rails, boards, or poles, or by driving a row of stakes into the ground. This inclosure should be about two feet in height. The frame should be banked with dirt, and the top, which may be made by laying poles across the inclosure, should be covered with straw, hay, or corn fodder. When it is desired to start using the cabbages, they should be removed as needed, from one end of the bed. When the cabbages are taken out the roots should be left in place, as they will sprout and furnish the family with an abundance of greens in the spring.

Winter Care for Bees

Preparing the bees for their long winter vacation is a part of the fall program of work. Each colony should have a sufficient supply of food in order to winter through and make a strong brood before the honey flow starts in the spring. Put the colony in a packing case for protection from the cold before the ground freezes.

Farm Hints

Seed selection is crop protection.

* * *

Soil, like a horse, works best when well groomed and fed.

* * *

Of some six and a half million farm families in the United States 634,899 of them, or about one-tenth, have running water in their homes.

* * *

Breeding flocks should be mated, especially for early hatching. It takes two weeks after the male has been introduced before maximum fertility is obtained.

* * *

A large proportion of the poultry diseases are due to improper feeding. Feed nothing but foods that are in good condition. Keep the drinking water pure and fresh.

SCHOOL ITEMS

This week concludes the second six weeks period and tests are the order on Thursday and Friday. We hope a goodly number of A's and B's may be earned and few E's and F's.

Several of our high school attended the foot ball game last Friday between Belmond and Garner. It was a rather an uninteresting game for Belmond was apparently not in the same class.

The P. T. A. of our community promises to become a valuable asset to our school. It was well attended last week and well directed by its new president, Mr. Poort. The problem of a physical examination of all of the school children was debated and considerable number favored such a plan. It was voted that the President appoint a committee to investigate and report at the next meeting.

School will be closed next week end on both Thursday and Friday as is customary during the Thanksgiving season.

After this week there will be but four weeks of school until the Christmas vacation, school closing December 18 for two weeks.

The basket ball season opens here this Friday evening when our high school boys and Alumni girls will play Crystal Lake boys and girls. We have no high school girls team this year.

The Board has been contemplating enlarging the seating capacity f our Gym if 't be possible without injury to the building or gymnasium.

The game will be called at 7:30 at which time he girls will play. The admission will be 20 and 35 cents.

Supt. Taylor of Garner has been engaged to referee the games.

On next Wednesday night our teams will motor to Crystal Lake and play return games.

We were all well pleased with the support given our boys in base ball and feel certain they will be given the same enthusiastic support in basket ball.

Our high school girls have expressed an interest in a glee club and sample music has been ordered with a view to gratifying their interest. Miss Abel has consented to direct a chorus of girls.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blume's
REPAIR SHOP

Our forefathers set aside a day to give thanks for the blessings received during the past year.

We wish to join with our community in expressing gratitude for the many good things that have come to us this year.

First National Bank.
KLEMME, IOWA.

Correct Styles
Extensive Stocks
A1 Values

For more than thirty years. This fall our stocks are more attractive—styles, quality, and assortments that excell.

We're demonstrating utmost value in Suits and Overcoats.

$30 $35

We want to show you!

Patton Brothers Co.

Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY, IOWA

RADIOS--All Kinds

TUBES AND RECEIVERS AREIAL TESTED
AUTHORIZED RADIO DEALER IN RADIOLA, ATWATER KENT, MUSIC MASTER, BOSCH.
Let Me Order a Radio For You and Save You Some Money.
Sub-Agent For Stewart-Warner, Thermiodyne, Radiodyne.

Complete American Super (5 tubes)	$ 85.00
PARKER Super-Hetrodyne (7 tubes)	$145.00
L. 2 Ultradyne (8 tubes)	$181.00
G. C. Dayton Polydyne (5 tubes)	$118.00

—Trade Your Small Set In On A Five to Eight Tube Set.—
3 Second Hand 1 and 3 tube sets. New Radiolas are hard to get so leave your order early. Other make sets in one week.

WRITE FOR PRICES

Karl Krause

Route 2 VENTURA, IOWA.

Thanksgiving Day--

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26, is Thanksgiving Day, the day of giving thanks—and enjoying a big dinner. And delicious, wholesome butter made by the Klemme Co-Operatve Creamery (your home concern) will be on your table on that day, as well as all other days of the year. And while you are tasting the delicious flavor of this "made-in-Klemme" product we want to remind you of another good thought:

Thousands of people in the great eastern cities will also enjoy Klemme Co-Operative Creamery Butter for their Thanksgiving Dinner.

Are you, as a loyal dairyman of this community, doing all you can tosupply this good eastern demand for butter made in your own Creamery? Sell your cream to us and patronize this Home Concern and share in the profits of this eastern trade we have developed for you.

On this Thanksgiving Day we are thankful for your loyal support and patronage, and we are thankful that with your help this Home Concern has become a Success.

Best Wishes To All—

Klemme Co-Op. Creamery Company

Get your Radio "B" Batteries and ...plies at Jacobs. 1tc

...rs. Howard Davis, of Goodell, ...s a Klemme visitor Friday.

...rs. P. M. Wilson was entertained ...the Klingman home in Garner ...day evening for dinner.

...Miss Stoner, high school principal, ...oyed a week end visit from her ...ther from Cedar Falls.

...LEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

...Thursday, November 19, 1925

...GS (trade)	.50
...GS (Cash)	.49
...EAVY HENS	.17
...GHT HENS	.14
...ANDARD SPRINGS	.18
...GHORN SPRINGS	.14
...CKS	.12
...LD ROOSTERS	.07
...ESE	.10
...TTERFAT	.55
...TTER (Kleme Creamery)	.53
...AR CORN	.50
...ELLED CORN	.60
...HEAT	$1.45
...ATS	.30
...ARLEY	.50—.55
...E	.65—.70
...GS (Top)	$11.60

FOR SALE—P. B. Barred Rock cockerels, Thompson strain, $1.50 each. Mrs. Albert Johnson. 1tp

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis droev to Ackley, Sunday, for a visit with relatives.

ORDER your Clover Seed now at the Farmers Elevator; can save you some money. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter, of Goodell, were Klemme callers last Thursday.

FOR SALE—German Police Pups, thorobreds. Vic Hueneman, Klemme Phone 811, Garner mail route. 2wp.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Musfelt and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Musfelt, of Clarion drove over Monday for a visit with relatives and friends.

We are now booking orders for Christmas Cards. Leave your order at the Times Office. Call in and see the beautiful samples. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. John Day drove to Mason City Friday afternoon for a visit with Mrs. John Baumgartner who is still in the hospital.

PLEASE RETURN Aluminum pie dish and several other articles which went out at the Aid Bake Sale. Return at once to Day's store. Committee. 1t

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Giesel came last Thursday from Maquoketa for a visit at the Ed. Jacobs home. They are here spending their honeymoon.

Arthur Wellemeyer went to Kansas City Friday evening for a short visit with his mother. He returned to Klemme Sunday.

Asa Arnold is out of school and is at home confined to his bed. His many friends hope for his speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and son, Buster, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Jorgenson of Garner, visited with friends at Forest City Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell drove to Mason City Saturday evening for an over Sunday visit with relatives.

School teachers! Get your construction paper at the Times Office. 9x12 sheets, 16 colors, package of 52 sheets for 25c. 1tc

Grandma Schroeder, Mrs. Marlin Croner and daughter, Dorothy, and Mis Viola Freie drove over to Mason City Thursday for a visit.

The Royal Neighbors met last Friday afternoon at the hall. Mrs. Allie White and Mrs. Chris Gram were hostesses. All report having had a fine time.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Gauger and sons, Harlan and Stanley, all drove over to Mason City Tuesday for a visit with Grandma Josten at Mercy Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jacobs and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Giesel, who are visiting at the Ed. Jacobs home, all enjoyed dinner at the Chris Jacobs home at Garner Tuesday evening.

A privately owned bank at Plymouth was closed Tuesday and is now in the hands of receiver. The cashier of the bank departed for parts unknown.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Gauger and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson drove to Garner Friday afternoon to see the Garner-Belmond football game. The battle ended 43-3 for Garner.

Mr. Lloyd Carpenter went to Cherokee Saturday and his wife, who was being treated in the hospital there was able to return home with him Sunday.

A sample of the Klemme city water was recently sent in for a state test and examination. The sample submitted to the state brought back a favorable report of being O. K. in every respect.

The Royal Neighbors entertained at a card party at the hall Tuesday evening and about forty guests were present. After the card game the ladies served a nice lunch. All had a fine time.

BASKET SOCIAL

A basket social and program will be given at Dist. No. 6, Ell township Tuesday evening, November 24th. Ladies please bring baskets or pie. Everybody invited.
1tp. ELLA BARZ, Teacher.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Gauger entertained the teachers of the Klemme schools to a six o'clock dinner at their home Saturday evening. A very enjoyable evening was spent by all concerned.

Rev. H. Albertson and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Johnson, of Rutland, Iowa, came last Thursday to spend the week end visiting with Mr. Gary and family. Rev. and Mrs. Albertson are parents of Mrs. Gary.

John Suurballe, of Garner, was a business visitor in Klemme yesterday. John will soon be busier than a cranberry merchant issuing auto license plates, which task he can begin Dec. 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman and daughter, Marian, Mrs. Mary Waterman, Mrs. Chester Cullinan and Miss Anna Becker drove over to Mason City Sunday to hear Sousa's Band at the armory.

FOR SALE—P. B. Chester White boars of the smooth, stretchy type, the best I have offered for sale. New blood lines for old customers, cholera immune. Erith Cook, Kanawha phone and mail. 4wc

Quite a number of Klemme Masons attended lodge at Garner last Thursday evening. The evening was also a special occasion for the observance of "Dad" Kelly's fiftieth year as a Mason. All had a fine time.

BASKET SOCIAL—A Basket Social and program will be given at Avery District No. 5, on Friday evening, November 20th. Ladies please bring basket or pie. Dalia Stromer, Teacher; W. L. Sherwood, Director. 1tc

Mrs. Lena Schroeder, Mrs. Marlin Croner and daughter, Dorothy, and Grandma Schroeder all accompanied Miss Neota Ridder to Ames Friday afternoon. Miss Adela Schroeder returned home with them for a week-end vacation.

Quite a number of the Klemme high school students and some of the faculty attended the football game at Garner Friday afternoon at which Belmond received an awful drubing at the hands of the heavy Garner eleven—43-3 was the score.

Very few Klemme ladies can now boast of long locks. Every day more and more are submitting to the barbers' shears and soon it will be a rather unusual sight to see a girl or woman with long hair. Even the grandmothers are beginning to get their's bobbed too!

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Madsen at Clear Lake about two weeks ago. Mrs. Madsen and son, Donald Lyle who is a husky nine and a half pounder, returned to Klemme Sunday evening. No wonder 'Bill" has acted strangely lately but he never told us that he had a fine young son born at Clear Lake.

Miss Mabel Smith's class of Sunday school girls held a party in her honor at the Parish House Friday evening when they gave a six o'clock dinner in her honor. Miss Smith was given a gift by the girls as an expression of appreciation for the time and effort Miss Smith has devoted to her class. Miss Abel is the assistant teacher of the girls class.

Nels Anderson, who lives about two miles northeast of Goodell, was awakened by a crackling noise, and found his house burning. The upstairs was nearly all gone. He only saved a few clothes and a few valuable oil paintings of his wife's. Since his wife's death several years ago he has lived alone. He had insurance and will probably re-build in the near future.

"Conscience $10 a Crack"

Letter from bandit to former victim:

"Three years ago I robbed you of $500. My conscience hurts me and I am enclosing $10. When it hurts again I will send you another ten."

Storm Doors

Order your storm doors and storm windows at once.

Corn Cribs

We have on hand Slat and Wire Corn Cribs. Price is right.

Fencing

Will give spring dating on Woven Wire Fencing---So do your fencing this fall.

Complete line of everything

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

Thanksgiving--

When you are inviting Relatives and Friends for Thanksgiving Dinner, please bear in mind that we carry everything you will need for the great event.

You will find our shelves well stocked with our famous "G. W. C." Brand of Canned Fruits and Vegetables, and will enumerate a few other things we will have on hand:

BANANAS	GRAPES
ORANGES	CELERY
APPLES	LETTUCE
CRANBERRIES	CANDY
DATES	NUTS

SATURDAY SPECIAL

1 Box Family Size CRACKERS 39c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

Thanksgiving Dinner--

You can get everything except the Turkey at our Store for your Thanksgiving Dinner—Here's a partial list:

CRANBERRIES GRAPES LETTUCE
SWEET POTATOES CELERY
CABBAGE BANANAS OLIVES
NUTS CANDY FRUIT PICKLES
CANNED GOODS PRESERVES

To Prepare the Dinner

Our Hardware Department will supply the cooking utensils needed for preparing a real dinner:

PYREX BAKING DISHES ROASTERS
POTS PANS KETTLES ETC.
ALUMINUM WARE CARVING SETS

A COMPLETE LINE OF EVERYTHING

"Make This Store Your Thanksgiving Store"

G. W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Isn't It Strange ? ?

HOW A REAL MEDICINE CAN CHANGE ONE WHO HAS SUFFERED WITH SOME CHRONIC DISEASE FOR YEARS AND YEARS, DOESN'T SEEM POSSIBLE, DOES IT?

.....But, never-the-less, it is true and the people of Klemme and vicinity see these changes (Chronic Cases Made Well) day after day, by this INDIAN MEDICINE. It is hard to believe our own eyes when we meet Tom, Dick and Harry, and note the change. They are glad to tell you of the change they have looked for so long, and they also tell you of the CHANGE still in their pockets.

When they tell you that SAM-PI-CO Indian Medicine placed them on the road to the Summit of Health and Prosperity, you cannot help but have the desire to obtain these Indian Medicines and enjoy good Health.

SAM-PI-CO Indian Medicines are made from only the purest of Roots, Herbs, Barks and Berries and are free from harmful Drugs or Alcohol.

SAM-PI-CO Indian Medicines take the Dis—Ease from the body and restores the old Pep and Vitality.

SAM-PI-CO Indian Medicines can be obtained from L. D. McMICHAEL, of Eldora, Iowa, who will be at the Klemme Hotel TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY of each week.

Come in and become acquainted and start the use of SAM-PI-CO Medicines.

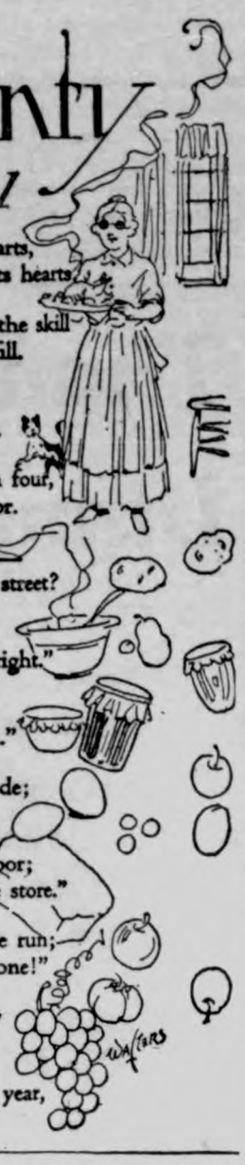
L. D. McMICHAEL

Eldora, Iowa

The House of Plenty

by William Herschel

In Indianapolis News



I KNOW a house where Plenty seems to practice magic arts,
Though humble is this house I know, and humble all its hearts.

Within this house a Mother dwells whom Plenty gives the skill
To make a little grow to much that all may have their fill.

I've seen her lay the table, with but two or three to fare,
But bread had not been broken when a legion came to share.

Came Mary with her prattling tribe; came John with children four,
A knock—a word of welcome—Parson Pray was at the door.

No, Parson Pray just couldn't stay—he had not time to eat—
But was there not some soup to tempt a sick man down the street?

"Come, rest a moment, Brother Pray, and have a little bite;
I'm glad you thought about the soup—I'll tend to that all right."

By magic came some steaming broth from out a magic pan;
"I saved this broth for such as he—we'll send it to the man."

Came ham from off the pantry shelf, came jam and marmalade;
A cackle at the kitchen door announced eggs freshly laid.

Ere Parson Pray could utter grace new knocks were at the door;
"Can you spare just a little bread? They've none down at the store."

"For pity's sake!" That shows the way some grocery stores are run;
I've biscuits baking in the stove! Just wait—they're nearly done!"

Glad House of Plenty, glorified, you seem somehow to know
Where loaves and fishes can be found—as in the long ago.

You seem to make Thanksgiving Day abide throughout the year,
So bounteous are your feasts, so mother-blest your cheer!

The MOST POPULAR THANKSGIVING BIRD

WITH apologies to the bald eagle, it is appropriate to refer to the turkey as the great American bird. The association of this species of fowl with the Thanksgiving day festivities places it upon the highest pinnacle of fame. The few specimens taken back to Spain by Christopher Columbus aroused the greatest curiosity and interest in that country, and subsequent imports of the bird within fifty years stirred Europe to its center. The turkey—pavo or peacock in Spain, dindon in France, trutkahn in Germany, and kalkun in Scandinavian countries—was found by millions in the forests of North America, Central America and Mexico when the white men came to the western shores.

The name given to the turkey is a little obscure, but it seems to have arisen in London from an almost trivial circumstance. It appears that about the time of the birth of Queen Elizabeth a hardy navigator brought a consignment of these birds from America to the London market. Purveyors of the aristocratic houses of London found them, bought them, tried them, and then wanted more. London tradesmen were asked the name of the fowl, and, because everything then was brought from Turkey, those asking for the information were told that they came from Turkey, and they were known for many years in the London markets as those "Turkey birds." This is one of many tales told to account for the strange naming of the American bird, and is probably as good as any. The turkey has been domesticated, as far as it is possible, and long ago became a large factor in domestic commerce.

At Thanksgiving and Christmas He Is King of Birds.

Once Turkey State.

Rhode Island for many years held chief prominence as the turkey-raising state.

Now Tennessee, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Kentucky dispute supremacy and literally send millions of these birds annually to market to be consumed largely at Thanksgiving and Christmas feasts.

The scientific name given the turkey is Meleagridae. Meleager, in an ancient Greek legend, was leader of the Calydonian hunt, who saved the beautiful Princess Atalanta from the savage attack of a wild boar, and thereby gained fame. This scientific name seems just about as applicable to the great American bird as turkey, but it has the approval of science, and that is enough. Three varieties made up the original stock of wild turkeys on this continent. They were the gallopavo of New England and the greater part of North America, the ocellata of Honduras and the mexicana of Mexico. A fourth variety is supposed to have inhabited the West India islands, from which the birds taken to Spain by Columbus were obtained. From these, in the course of 400 years, six varieties have been evolved, known as the bronze, Narragansett, buff, slate, white and black. The white and black birds are "freaks" from the three original species.

The turkey has never been more than half domesticated. It is still essentially a wild bird. It roams the fields in flocks, feeds upon insects and stray grains during the late summer and fall months and only seeks the shelter of the barnyard when the food supply fails. Young turkeys seem to distrust man and all his works, and each generation of turkeys has to be tamed. The birds do become quite docile under careful management, but the hen turkey forever seeks the wild in which to steal her nest and rear her young. Testimony is not lacking that it costs less to raise a turkey than any other fowl, and to the ultimate consumer in the Thanksgiving and Christmas period they cost more than any other fowl, so that somebody makes a good profit on the annual product.

One of the Oldest Birds.

The turkey is doubtless one of the oldest birds in America and always occupied an important place in the domestic life of the Indians. The Pilgrims at Plymouth learned the value of the turkey from the Massasoit Indians. Columbus found it in the West Indies. Cortez was feasted upon turkey in Mexico and Peru. The Maya people embodied the turkey in their oldest hierogiyphics and the scientists of the Smithsonian, delving among the ruins of Arizona, found a mummified turkey, and the remains of nearly all the cliff and cave dwellers in the Southwest give up the bones of the turkey. It was a staple food among the red men from the earliest times, as it has come to be in civilized lands around the globe.

Benjamin Franklin desired to make the turkey the national bird, but was outvoted by others, who seemed to find a truer connection between the bald eagle and the indomitable spirit of the American republic. It may be the screaming eagle better suits the ways of war and poets' dreams, but the turkey occupies a specially warm place in the affections of the American people. At Thanksgiving and Christmas time he is king of birds, and will so remain to the end of time. —Washington Star.

Thankful

Dainty Gifts You Can Buy or Make

Novel Powder Puffs

Gay little beauty doctors are these up-to-date powder puffs, and ideal Christmas gifts. By means of water-color paints, narrow ribbons, laces and tiny flowers, ordinary powder puffs are transformed into these whimsical affairs that portray saucy flappers or demure maids. One side of the puff is decorated while the other makes itself useful.

Pretty Ribbon Fancies

It never occurs to Santa Claus to leave pretty ribbon fancies out of his head at Christmas time—he merely varies them a little each year. Here are garters made of ribbon shirred over flat elastic, and trimmed with lace ruffles set with ribbon flowers. A corsage flower of folded ribbon, set in millinery foliage and a small lingerie blossom are also pictured.

For the Christmas Tree

All the little people for whom the tree blooms and bears will be delighted with toys and ornaments made from crepe paper printed with figures of children. Ornaments, like those pictured, are made by pasting the paper to cardboard and cutting the figures out. A bonbon wrapped in paper is tied to each one of them with baby ribbon, which also serves to hang them on the tree.

Gifts for Girls

Pretty hair ornaments are always included in the list of gifts that girls will like. The most fashionable ones this year are bands and coronets made of silver ribbon, and flower wreaths made of colored tinsel ribbons. Shirred ribbons are easy to work up into flower forms mounted on ribbon-wound wire. A coronet and flower wreath are shown here.

U. S. GIVES LIBERAL TERMS TO ITALIANS

Obligation Fixed at $2,407,000,000—Due in Sixty-two Years.

Washington.—The Italian government, third largest of America's war debtors, funded its obligations to the United States on the most liberal terms yet accorded to a European nation.

Italy borrowed $1,648,000,000 in American money. That obligation, with accrued interest to date, aggregates approximately $2,138,000,000. Italy will pay $2,407,000,000 to the United States over a period of 62 years, in full discharge of this obligation. The settlement, according to members of the American debt commission, is $215,000,000 more than Count Volpi and his associates of the Italian debt commission hoped to pay, but the Italian plenipotentiaries were radiantly happy, well satisfied with the terms and effusive in their praise of the treatment accorded them by the United States.

Count Volpi declared in a formal statement that the "settlement is a long step toward the restoration of economic peace in Europe."

The settlement agreed upon was that proposed by the American debt commission and represented the unanimous view of the commission after eleven days of negotiation with the Italians and a thorough examination of Italy's capacity to pay.

Italy will pay $759,000,000 in interest in addition to the actual borrowings. The principal comes back in full. Italy's depleted capacity to pay is given recognition in the low interest rates granted throughout the amortization period. For the first five years she pays no interest and will pay annually $5,000,000. The interest will be one-eighth of 1 per cent for the first five years.

Count Volpi will make preliminary arrangements in New York for a $100,000,000 loan to Italy before sailing for home, it is said.

Mercy Slayer Freed; Judge Dismisses Jury

Littleton, Colo. — Dr. Harold E. Blazer, sixty-two years old, physician, who killed his daughter, a malformed idiot, because he did not want to leave her a burden upon the world, walked out into the Colorado sunshine a free man. His troubles are over, so far as the law of men is concerned.

The murder trial which has drawn the attention of the nation to this little foothill town on the brown plains came to a swift climax Thursday afternoon when the case against Doctor Blazer was dismissed after the jury had failed to reach a verdict in fourteen hours.

Doctor Blazer was almost alone in the courtroom at the time. He stepped forward, smiling. "Doctor, you may go," the court said.

"I am going down into the New Mexico mountains," he said. "I shall never practice again as a physician. I am going into the lumber camps and expect to go into that business."

Wonderful Golden Crown Found on King Tut's Head

Cairo.—Discovery that the wonderful golden crown of Egypt is still on the head of Tut-Ankh-Amen was the thrilling culmination of the painstaking unwrapping of his mummy by Doctor Carter and the scientists who are assisting him.

Although the head has not been fully unwrapped, it is indicated that on it is the double crown of upper and lower Egypt, which never before has been seen in the history of Egyptology. The shape of the crown, however, is familiar to Egyptologists.

The feet were first bared and they are so small that the theory is that King Tut died when he was about fifteen.

So far nothing has been disclosed to support the theory that the king was murdered.

Police Chief Indicted on Bribery Charge

Michigan City, Mich. — Richard Kruse, superintendent of police, was indicted by a special grand jury on bribe charges. Two roadhouse promoters, George West, former deputy sheriff, and Henry Greening, his business associate, were the chief accusers. Two federal prohibition agents came from Chicago. Kruse said: "I know I am innocent, but other than that I have nothing to say."

Two Slayers Get 14 Years

Chicago.—John Scalice and Albert Anselmi were found guilty of murder and sentenced to imprisonment for 14 years in a verdict returned by a jury in Criminal court, where they were tried for the murder of Policemen Harold Olson and Charles Walsh.

American Flyers Cited

Rabat—Marshal Petain issued a citation to all of the Lafayette escadrille flyers, composed mostly of Americans. The citation said: "These flyers have carried out more than 350 missions."

"Big Bertha" Nest Wrecked

Cologne.—"Big Bertha's Nest" at the Krupp works, where the gun was built for its projected bombardment of Paris, has been destroyed under orders of the allied military commission.

BEAUTIFY IT WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings — everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Chimpanzees under observation show a sense of humor, enjoy a joke, exhibit affection and even show obedience.

Date Bars

1 cup sugar; 3 eggs
1 cup flour; ¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. Calumet Baking Powder
1 cup dates chopped
1 cup nuts chopped
¼ cup milk; 1 tsp. vanilla

Beat eggs, add sugar. When well mixed, add all the rest of the ingredients. Pour into a square pan, and bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes. Cut into squares or bars and roll in powdered sugar.

We do not dislike the people we can see through as much as those who can see through us.

Cuticura Soothes Baby Rashes

That itch and burn, by hot baths of Cuticura Soap followed by gentle anointings of Cuticura Ointment. Nothing better, purer, sweeter, especially if a little of the fragrant Cuticura Talcum is dusted on at the finish. 25c each.—Advertisement.

Our idea of a selfish person is one who is unable to remember a favor.

Have you ever walked on Sprayed Rubber? It is the purest, toughest, most uniform rubber known—patented and developed by the United States Rubber Company. It has put "U. S." Spring-Step Heels in a class by themselves. Such comfort! Such long wear! Get onto a pair today and note the difference. Also—ask your repairman about USKIDE—the sole that wears twice as long as best leather. Comfortable, healthful, waterproof. Buy new shoes with USKIDE Soles and "U. S." Spring-Step Heels.—Adv.

True love, like Greek fire, is inextinguishable.—Marvel.

Cole's Carbolisalve Quickly Relieves and heals burning, itching and torturing skin diseases. It instantly stops the pain of burns. Heals without scars. 30c and 60c. Ask your druggist, or send 30c to The J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill., for a package.—Advertisement.

In Ireland, All Saints' day, November 1, was formerly dedicated to "the angel presiding over fruits," and so gained the name of Apple Mass.

MRS. WILHELMY SAVED BY FRIEND

Doctor Advised Operation Friend Said Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First

St. Paul, Minnesota.—"I was all run down from overwork and worry, had no appetite, could not sleep at night, and looked like a corpse. I have six children (five boys and one girl) and did not get any strength after my last baby was born. I was getting worse and thinner every day. The doctor said I had to go to the Hospital but this I could not do on account of my family. So I went to a friend of mine and told her what the doctor had told me and she said, 'Now do as I tell you. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I have done. It helped me.' So I started taking the Vegetable Compound and I noticed after the first few bottles that I felt considerably better. After taking 9 or 10 bottles I got over my fainting spells. Everybody who sees me now notices the great improvement in my health. I am gaining in weight and strength and am feeling fine. Eat well and sleep good nights. Any woman can write to me and I will answer her letter." — Mrs. MARY WILHELMY, 30 Duke Street, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Adam had his childish experience with little green apples after reaching manhood.

Sure Relief

6 BELL-ANS
Hot water
Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem Wks, Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.Y.

SAVE YOUR EYES!

Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1167 River, Troy, N.Y. Booklet.

Men take opposite sides on the money question, but the majority are on the outside.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Most laxatives are unfit for Babies and Children—too harsh. They shock the tender bowel muscles and derange the digestive and eliminative organs."

—DR. CALDWELL

Your Child's Laxative! Does It Regulate for Weeks?

Does the laxative you now give your baby or child promote regularity for weeks and often for months—or must you "purge" and "physic" the little one every little while to keep the system clean, fresh and sweet?

Even a cross, feverish, sick baby or child will love the taste of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and one dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself the difference between this pleasant, harmless, regulating laxative and the ordinary griping, nauseating "physic."

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

How to Quickly Limber Up Sore, Stiff, Swollen Joints

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff, inflamed, pain-tortured joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now, this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tortured joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause, Joint-Ease soaks straight in through skin and flesh right down to the tendons and ligaments of the joints—right where all the trouble starts—and the blessed relief comes quickly.

Remember, Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, spine or finger, and when you rub it on you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at druggists everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.

Biggest Selling Joint Remedy in the World

Joint-Ease

This woman's experience is typical of thousands. Ask any physician.

"And to think I was poisoning my own Baby!"

"I couldn't see why he didn't gain. I never dreamed that my constipation was responsible until the doctor told me.

"He explained that faulty or slow elimination of waste matter allowed poisons to form and be absorbed by the blood—and this meant tainted milk for baby.

"He prescribed the Nujol treatment and it made a world of difference to both of us. Now that I know how dangerous constipation is and how easily it can be prevented, I am never going to allow myself to get into that bad condition again."

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When precious new lives are at stake they seek the remedy that medical authorities approve because it is so safe, gentle and natural in its action. Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.

Nujol helps in Nature's own way

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination, without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Nujol
THE INTERNAL LUBRICANT
For Constipation

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

Funds Only in Her Mind

Wife—John, the last check I drew [illegible] bank has refused to cash. What's [illegible] mean?

Hub—Probably you've been drawing [illegible] your imagination, my dear.

Appropriate Dome

An astronomical hall three stories high and capped by a large dome on which will be represented the constellations of the sky is planned by the American Museum of Natural History.

Demand

BAYER

ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN"—Genuine

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin prescribed by physicians and proved safe by millions over 25 years for

Colds	Headache	Neuritis	Lumbago
Pain	Neuralgia	Toothache	Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets.
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Spent It All

"You were out with Miss Kalson last night. It must have been pretty expensive?"

"Two and a half dollars!"

"Is that all?"

"Yes—that's all she had with her."

Described

"I just spent a gruelling half hour."

"Doing what?"

"Feeding the children."

Life isn't worth living unless you make it so.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Community Building

Courtesy of Tourist Stressed by Mobile

The hospitality of the old South, a more or less abstract quantity with the many busy southern cities today, will be put into immediate greater use by the automotive committee of the chamber of commerce, which has decided that the tourist is the guest of the city, the Mobile (Ala.) Register recently announced.

Labeled as a guest, the tourist will be treated as one by the city, and every attention will be made by the city to entertain and accommodate the visitor.

The tourist in all probability will come in contact with the gasoline station operator first of all, it was thought, and the operator will direct him to the chamber of commerce, where he will register and receive a guest card and a guest marker. The guest card will entitle him to certain advantages that the native has not, while the guest marker will fit on his radiator and announce to the city at large that he is a stranger within the gates.

The city in turn, recognizing him as a guest, will seek to serve him hospitably and the traffic officer will give him the courteous co-operation a stranger always needs among unfamiliar traffic regulations.

In addition to the guest designation, the visiting tourist will be given accurate and detailed information concerning the city.

The automotive merchants agreed unanimously that their employees must be familiar with the city in order that they will be able to supply tourists with information.

The proper use of hands in signaling when driving was discussed by the committee. The arm extended at a 45 degree angle upward should indicate a turn to the right, and straight out a turn to the left. The arm pointing downward, palm forward, should mean a stop, and the same signal with the palm backward a reverse.

Men of High Vision Are City Builders

"Location, transportation facilities, automobile manufacture, world-wide advertising, progressiveness, many lines of industries, and so on, are all prime factors in the growth of a city," said B. E. Taylor, realtor, telling his ideas as to why Detroit goes ahead.

"Detroit is just filled, way beyond the average proportion, with brainy, able, experienced, successful men, with resources behind them, and broad, practical vision to carry them ahead—that is the main reason for Detroit's success.

"There are living in Detroit today a number of men trained up to big things; they know the game; they love to play it, and, notice—the bigger they grow, the easier it is for them to keep on growing!

"These men are, in general, not the inheritors of wealth! They are mostly self-made. And that, too, is a great thing for the future of Detroit—because the man who makes $10,000 to $50,000 himself, has grown so seasoned and experienced that he has a better vision than the man who inherits money. He knows when to put his money into a new thing.

"The man who has gone right out with his own fists and fought the battle for success—knows how!"

Trees Require Food

There is a tree in your yard which is hungry, and, though it cannot tell you so in as many words, you can bet it is just as hungry as though it stood on some street corner and cried out its woes.

That's the great fault with trees; they cannot tell you they are hungry. They just stand out and starve until their clothes—their bark—get too big for their body and fall off.

Mr. Homeowner, that tree in your yard is worth a heap of money. It's a mighty big asset when you want to sell your place, and it's a lot of comfort these hot days. Get busy and give it something to eat.

If you don't know what to give it, call in a doctor, not a man's doctor or a child's specialist, but a tree doctor, and let him prescribe a diet for that tree.

Zoning Law Upheld

A decision of interest to all members of the National Association of Real Estate boards is that just handed down by the Supreme court of Minnesota upholding the validity of the Minneapolis zoning ordinance, which excludes flat buildings from certain areas zoned for single family residences. The decision reverses a former opinion of the court.

Benefit of Home-Owning

"More than one-half the homes in the United States are owned by men who make less than $2,000 a year," declared W. D. Carter. "It is estimated that approximately 90 per cent of those who build or buy a home do not pay for it outright at the start. Habits of thrift, economy, and self-denial established and practiced in saving to meet the monthly payments by which the home is paid for are among the greatest benefits of owning a home."

Just a Little Smile

SATISFYING

"Well, Mrs. Johnsing," announced the negro physician, after taking her husband's temperature, "Ah has knocked de fever out of him. Dat's one good thing."

"Sho 'nuff," was the excited reply. "Does dat mean dat he's gwine git well, den?"

"No," replied the doctor, "dey's no hope fo' him; but you has de satisfraction ob knowing dat he died cured."—Country Gentleman.

Solace

"You have had some sad disappointments in your career?"

"No," said Senator Sorghum. "I have made promises which I could not keep. But the people who wanted appointments have usually proved better off in private business than they would have been in politics.—Washington Star.

Merciful Judge

Judge—I will be merciful to you. Seven days.

Accused—But I am to be married in a week.

Judge—Then I will be still more merciful. A month.—Stockholm Kasper.

NOT NOW

"Well, if it isn't Mabel! Is George still paying attention to you?"

"No, indeed, we've been married a year now."

One Thing They Seldom Lose

Her temper's often lost,
But if he had his choice
Of things for her to lose
He'd surely pick her voice.

Relations

"What is your idea of the relations of nations?"

"They're a good deal like family relations," answered Senator Sorghum. "They don't think a lot of you unless you're in a position to lend 'em money."

Oh, That's It

"Jack is such a handy boy, you know. He can bang nails into wood like lightning."

"How splendid."

"Yes, lightning seldom strikes in the same place twice."—Craftsman.

Too Appreciative

"Has a keen sense of humor, hasn't he?"

"Rather. A banana peel all by itself will make him laugh."—American Legion Weekly.

No Chance

Lady (to man in booth)—Look here, you've been in there 30 minutes and haven't said a word.

Man—I've been talking to my wife.—Pitt Panther.

PERFECTLY USELESS

Wife—Well, my new dress is perfectly useless.

Hubby—What! Get caught in the rain today?

Wife—Of course not! That Jones woman next door has got identically the same kind!

Fighting

A little fray such wealth may win
That life seems half a joke;
A prize fight brings much money in,
A war leaves nations broke.

That's Odd

Mistress (to Swedish maid)—Back from the show already, Olga?

"Yes, mum."

"Scaramouche?"

"No, not very mooch."—Notre Dame Juggler.

Hard to Get Away

Mrs. Jones—I think you'll do very well for a butler, but tell me, why did you stay ten years at your last place if you didn't like it?

Applicant—I busted me file, mum.

Strength and Energy this easy way

Simply drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let stand for five minutes; stir; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate. Or if you prefer, eat the cake with a cracker or a piece of butter.

Easy, simple, palatable. Yet you get the full tonic value of the marvelous yeast plant.

If you suffer from constipation, anaemia, boils, pimples, indigestion—don't fail to eat Yeast Foam regularly. Its beneficial effects will amaze you!

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 North Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book, "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health," also a Sample of Yeast Foam, without obligation.

Name _____

Address _____

W. N. U.

You can't always tell how much a girl wants you to kiss her by the strenuous objection she puts up.

Ignorance will exhibit itself as certainly as homeliness—and it can be corrected by diligence.

Sedan $775, f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

Power, Quality, Economy

Low-cost Transportation

Star Cars

PRICES: f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

COMMERCIAL CHASSIS	$425
ROADSTER	$525
TOURING	$525
COUPSTER	$595
COUPE	$675
COACH	$695
SEDAN	$775

DURANT MOTORS, Inc.
250 West 57th Street, New York
General Sales Dept.—1819 Broadway, New York

Dealers and Service Stations throughout the United States Canada and Mexico

PLANTS: Elizabeth, N. J. Lansing, Mich. Oakland, Cal. Toronto, Ont.

'Watershed'

Absolutely Waterproof Cloth Overshoe

YOU have always wanted this sensible feature in an overshoe—a sheet of waterproof material between the heavy cashmerette upper and the thick fleece lining. It gives you the warmth of a cloth gaiter with the waterproof feature of an all rubber shoe—and is a happy medium in weight.

'Caboose'—"The World's Best Work Rubber". If you have not known this famous rubber, plan now to get the biggest rubber value on the market. Remember the genuine 'Caboose' wears a White Top Band.

Look for the 'BigC' on the sole—on all Converse Shoes—for all the family.

ASK YOUR OWN DEALER

CONVERSE RUBBER SHOE CO., 618 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
Factory: Malden, Mass.

See the BIG "C" CONVERSE LINE Rubber Footwear

LOOK FOR THE WHITE TOP BAND

BURGESS RADIO BATTERIES

Economical Electrical Energy

The best battery for your receiving set is the battery which is absolutely noiseless, dependable under all conditions and gives service longest.

That battery is Burgess. Just ask your dealer.

BURGESS BATTERY COMPANY
General Sales Office: CHICAGO
Canadian Factories and Offices
Niagara Falls and Winnipeg

DR. R. E. PORTER
Chiropractic Health Service
North Side Main Street
Phone 312 Belmond. Iowa

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS
CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!
Pavey's
STORMIZING SHOP

Married At Schaeler

GARNER, Nov. 19.—It has been learned that Miss Stella Haberkamp was married last week Tuesday at Schaeler, to Mr. August Haes of that place. Mrs. Haes is well known and much admired hereabouts and is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Haberkamp, whose farm is located some miles south of Garner.

IDLE HOUR THEATRE

For Saturday, Nov. 21, we will show "THE TORNADO." A super melodramatic photoplay! The last word in thrills. Once seen, never forgotten, starring House Peters.

COMING—Friday and Saturday, Nov. 27 and 28, "A Girl of the Limberlost." One of the best pictures of the year. Here for two days!

Frederick C. Bryant died recently in Des Moines. He was chosen lieutenant governor of Idaho in 1900, and at the same time served as president of the United States Mining Congress. In the early days, Mr. Bryant, with his step-father, Samuel House, transported the first church bell in the middle west from Chicago to Denver. While moving the bell, the party was attacked by Indians and succeeded in thwarting the savages by ringing the bell. Mr. Bryant was also instrumental in securing his first irrigation ditch for Oregon in early days.

Outdoor Storage Cellars Favored

Superior to Rooms in Basements of Dwellings for Vegetables.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Outdoor cellars may be used to advantage for the storage of surplus vegetable crops that otherwise might be lost, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Such cellars are on the whole superior to storage rooms in basements of dwellings. Vegetables can more conveniently be placed in such cellars than in basement storage rooms. By opening the door during the night and closing it in the morning before the air becomes warm, it is possible to keep the cellar cool and quickly reduce the temperature of the stored products to the desired point for safe storage. All ventilators should likewise be kept tightly closed until the outside air is again cooler than that within the cellar, unless the outside temperature is low enough to be dangerous.

Best Location.

If the outdoor storage cellar is to be used principally for storing crops such as turnips, beets, and carrots for feeding livestock, it should be located near the stable. When it is designed for keeping vegetables for the table, the storage cellar should be accessible from the kitchen at all times. If both fruit and vegetables are to be stored, there should be two compartments to the cellar, with a ventilating apparatus in each.

The type of the outdoor storage cellar varies with geographical location. Except in sections where the climate is very mild, the storage cellar should be constructed so that it can be kept free from undue moisture and frost. In northern sections outdoor storage cellars are made almost entirely below ground and covered with a foot or two of earth. In winter the dirt covering may be supplemented by a layer of manure, straw, corn fodder or similar material.

A storage house adapted to conditions in southern sections of the United States may be constructed on a well-drained site by setting a row of posts five or six feet apart, extending seven or eight feet above the surface of the ground, with a ridgepole placed on top of them. Against each side of the ridgepole a row of planks or puncheons is placed, with their opposite ends resting in a shallow trench four or five feet from the line of posts. The ends are boarded up, a door being provided in one end of the structure, and the roof covered with sod to a depth of five or six inches. The floors of outdoor storage houses are usually dirt.

Storage House In North.

An above-ground type of storage house used in many sections of the North is a frame structure with walls ten to twelve inches thick filled with insulating material, such as sawdust or shavings. Both inside and outside walls are sheathed with matched lumber so as to make them air tight. The rafters are ceiled on the underside with the same material and the space between them filled with dry insulating substance. The use of building paper in the roof and walls of the storage house is of great value in insulating the structure. An air duct or pipe of sufficient size should be used to bring air from the outside. This duct should be placed just beneath the level of the floor, running from a point just outside the building to an inlet in the floor. The outside end of the duct should be covered with woven wire to prevent the entrance of small animals. A ventilating flue in the roof is necessary for the escape of warm air. Both ventilator and air inlet should be closed during very cold weather. If the storage room is longer than 12 feet, an additional ventilator will be needed. Unless the vegetables are placed in receptacles and set on shelves on the walls of the storage house, a slat floor on which to put the stored products should be used to provide a better circulation of air.

Extra Feeding Assists Young Growing Animals

It is always advisable to feed young lambs or any kind of young stock—pigs, calves or chickens—extra. If you would build a lamb run, that is, make a pen large enough to accommodate the lambs so that they could get in and out and sheep could not, you could feed the lambs extra in this run. Feed them ground oats and corn meal, and ensilage also; in fact, anything they care to eat. It might be well to let them eat ensilage with old sheep, also hay, but grain should be fed alone so the old sheep could not get to it. It is possible by this extra feeding and care to make a big growth on lambs. A farmer could get them to market much earlier. Extra feeding put into young growing animals is never wasted if fed with care.

Nurse Crop for Clover

Tests at the Brandon experimental farm emphasize the fact that sweet clover is much more economically produced when sown with a nurse crop than when sown alone. The yields of the various nurse crops are in no way due to the presence of the sweet clover and the slightly increased yield the following season in favor of seeding alone is insignificant. The stubble also affords considerable protection and hence winter-killing is less likely to occur.

List of Requisites Needed for Success

It is possible to codify the qualities that surely lead to success. Success has often been termed luck, chance, hard work, effort, application, etc., but we are now told that success is a science as truly as the science of health or the science of natural phenomena. And in line with this trend of modern thought to reduce success to certain rules fifty of the cardinal principles or laws are tabulated, obedience to which, it is held, are as necessary to attain any degree of success in life as it is for us to obey the laws of nature to keep our bodies healthy.

These fifty cardinal principles are as follows:

Self-control, finding one's self, morality, health, will power, love or charity, knowledge of human nature, perseverance, ambition, development of inward richness and self-enjoyment, understanding, co-operation, optimism, self-reliance, rationality, common sense, honesty, loyalty, dependability, sincerity, love of the beautiful, naturalness, patience, right attitude toward life and work, altruism, industriousness, reverence for God and elders, ability to see ahead, contentment with nothing short of the best, economy, ability to think clearly and speak forcefully, discretion, ability to execute plans, fair play, broad-mindedness, courage, imagination, system, initiative, thoroughness, punctuality, personality, training, self-inventory, memory accuracy, truth to one's self, courtesy, determination.

No attempt is made to place these in the order of their relative importance with probably the exception of the first one, self-control.

Recalls Big Theft

The arrest of Romain Durignac in Paris recently for the theft of a pair of slippers worth perhaps half a dollar recalled the swindle he perpetrated with his sister, Therese Humbert, 23 years ago. On the strength of an alleged fabulous fortune left them in a locked safe, which was not to be opened until a certain date, the pair borrowed millions on millions of francs. They numbered among their victims politicians, diplomats and many of the leading figures of French society. Finally, the finger of suspicion pointed to them, and the authorities insisted that they open the safe, which was found to be empty. The brother and sister had fled, but they were captured in Spain, and the proceedings of their trial in Paris filled the French and foreign newspapers of the day.

Tunnies Worry Fishermen

Mediterranean tunnies have become common along the Norwegian coast, and are being exported by the thrifty Norwegian fishermen. The "mackerel giant," as it is called in Norway, is one of the strongest and swiftest fish known, and it may run to 1,000 pounds in weight. A comparatively small one recently netted off Grimsby, England, weighed 400 pounds. At Eszjerg, Denmark, a 600-pounder has been brought in. Attributing their presence to the warm summer, English fishermen say that large schools are roaming about the North sea, creating terror among other fish. Some think that the absence of herring shoals from their customary haunts is due to the presence of these hungry Mediterranean marauders.

Worth Borrowing

Here is a story about Dr. William Norman Guthrie, the well-known New York minister.

At a dinner party a minister from the West enthusiastically described the success of a charity sermon he had preached. Three and four figure subscriptions, he said, came in galore at the sermon's end. The collection plate was massed high with bank-notes of large denomination and some ladies even went so far as to turn in jeweled bracelets, rings and watches.

The silence was impressive when the western minister finished. Then Doctor Guthrie leaned across the table toward him and said:

"My dear sir, could you lend me that sermon?"

Boost for Johnson's

The story about a certain pill manufacturer working the name of his product into the hymn, "Hark the herald angels sing," may or may not be true; but the following actually appeared in a church paper:

"Why I attend prayer meeting. To me the prayer meeting is an excellent carbon remover for the heart, and as Johnson's Carbon Remover is for our machines, so is Glendale Presbyterian Prayer Meeting for me.—Mary R. Milton."

Planes Find Runaways

Army planes from Crissey field, California, lent help recently to the authorities of San Quentin prison when six trusties escaped in a launch. The planes scanned every launch in the bay until at last they sighted the fugitives. Then they signaled their discovery to the officers on shore and the prisoners were recaptured.

Rail Office Court

At Wolf Point, Mont., a railroad office has, for the first time in America probably, become the county courthouse. The Great Northern Railroad company moved its division headquarters to Havre, and Roosevelt county, while it is erecting a suitable county building, has moved in on a three years' lease.

Iowa's corn crop is estimated at 459,000,000, the largest yield in the history of the state. December corn is quoted at 55 cents per bushel. Every time corn drops one cent a bushel in price it represents a loss of over $4,500,000 to the farmers of Iowa. If the Corn Growers association, now in process of organization, saves only one cent a bushel t will have justified its existence in a large way.

A man is supposed to raise his cap when he meets his wife on the street. This is silly. If she's married to him she knows he's not a gentleman, so why try to fool her.

Reduced Fares via Rock Island
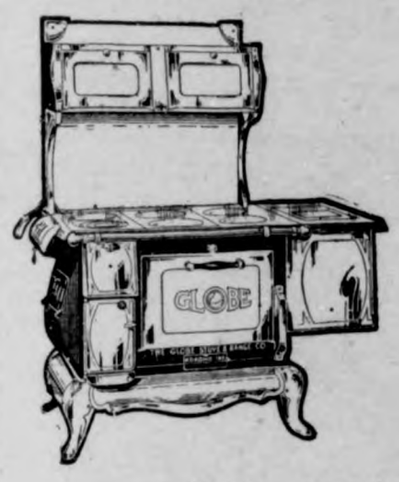
To Chicago and Return
Account
International Live Stock Exposition and Horse Fair
November 28—December 5, 1925
A Great Annual Event. Brilliant Evening Entertainments
Round-trip excursion fares will be one and one-third of the regular one-way fares and tickets will be on sale daily from November 27th to December 2nd, inclusive. Final return limit December 7th, 1925
For Full Information Apply to
M. O. BARR, Agent, Klemme, Iowa
C. C. GARDNER, Asst. Gen'l Pass. Agt., 600 Royal Union Life Bldg., Des Moines, Iowa

Thanksgiving--
You will enjoy your Thanksgiving Dinner more if you buy your Fruit, Candy, Nuts, etc. here. Our stock is always nice and fresh.
Get a box of our high grade cigars for the after dinner smoke—or a carton of your favorite cigarettes.
Full line of high grade box and bulk candies.
Fresh Bread Every Day
The Crystal Cafe
"A Good Cafe In A Good Town" Conrad Quandt, Prop.

To The Customers Of
Central States Electric Co.
HAVE YOU PLACED YOUR ORDER FOR ANY OF THE SPECIAL ALLOTMENT OF THE PREFERRED SHARES?
If you haven't yet done so, let us know just how may Shares you want ecabuse THE OFFER CLOSES ON SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21.
REMEMBER as we said in our letter WE WILL PAY YOU THE FULL DIVIDEND AT THE RATE OF 7 per cent FROM OCTOBER 1 ON THE SHARES IF YOU ORDER NOW.
This means one and one-half months' FREE INTEREST on the money you invest if we receive your order NOT LATER than SATURDAY.
Each Share of this PREFERRED INVESTMENT that pays 7 per cent is backed by property worth very much more than $100 to each Share that you can now buy for $100. And the Company is earning a number of times the amount of money necessary to pay you the 7 per cent on the amount you invest.
JUST READ our letter again for full particulars of the Special Offer we have made to our Customers and then hand your order to any Employee or if you prefer send it to our SECURITIES DEPARTMENT, 215 South Second Street, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.
Central States Electric Company
General Office
CEDAR RAPIDS IOWA

Thanksgiving Dinner



And A GLOBE Range
Nothing tastes better than a Thanksgiving Dinner prepared on a Globe Range. For cooking, baking, and roasting, they cannot be equalled. We have them in all the various styles and sizes.
We carry a complete line of roasters in all sizes and styles, baking dishes, kettles, pots, pans, carving sets, and silverware.
Plan With Us
For The Big Dinner
E. F. Jacobs

Thanksgiving Poultry
PUT IN YOUR ORDERS FOR THANKSGIVING POULTRY NOW. WE WILL HAVE ON HAND:—
DUCKS GEESE CHICKENS
Besides our other lines of Choice Meats.
For the table "trimmings" try our:—
KETCHUP PICKLES OLIVES MAYONNAISE PUDDINGS
MUSTARD RELISH SALAD DRESSING PEANUT BUTTER
CHEESE—all kinds OYSTERS MEAT SAUCE CRACKERS, Etc.
TRY OUR BULK MINCE-MEAT—IT'S GREAT!
One of our Choice HAMS baked will give you a delicious meat course for the big dinner.
Klemme Meat Market
Please put in your order at once if you want a TURKEY for Thanksgiving—as we will not stock Turkeys and must have your order in advance.

THE KLEMME TIMES

Thirtieth Year—Number 12. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

KLEMME WINS FIRST BASKET BALL GAME 26-2

WINS DOUBLE HEADER FRIDAY NIGHT IN EASY CONTEST

HOLD OPPONENTS FOR NO BASKETS

CRYSTAL LAKE BASKET BALL TEAMS MEET DEFEAT IN FIRST GAME HERE

Coach Hockey Has Developed Fast Boys' Basket Ball Team

The first basket-ball game of the season was played on the local gym floor Friday night when the Crystal Lake boys' and girls' teams came to Klemme for the opening game of the season for both schools.

As the Klemme school does not have a girls' team this year the Alumni girls played the Crystal Lake girls. The Klemme Alumni team was represented by most of last year team. They found it an easy matter to win the game from Crystal Lake and defeated them 28 to 4.

The boys' game started off with a rush and at first it appeared that a real battle was on. During the first minute of play Klemme copped a basket and then kept right on piling up basket shots one after the other and played an offensive game practically all through. The Crystal Lake boys put up a hard fight but when they had the ball they could not seem to get past the Klemme defense, and on the other hand, Klemme took the ball through the Crystal Lake defense at will.

The game was one-sided but Coach Hockey began running in second string men after a few minutes of play, and after the half the game was finished by the second team.

Klemme held the visitors down for no baskets and the two points made by Crystal Lake were on free throws. The final score was Klemme 26, Crystal Lake 2.

Klemme has an excellent boys' team this year and the outlook for a long string of victories is rosy.

The second team are also a fast bunch of players and with two good teams Klemme should be able to get the long end of the score.

The gym was packed with fans for the opening game of the season.

LARGEST CORN CROP IN IOWA HISTORY

The total corn crop of Iowa this year is estimated as 477,386,000 bushels, as compared with 304,752,000 bushels harvested last year, according to the federal and state crop reporting service. Official correspondents of this service reported a higher yield pe acre, based upon husking returns than was expected in the earlier part of the season. An average yield of 40.3 bushels per acre is estimated on the basis of 19 0 percent husking completed by November 1. These are only three years in 36 years of records in which the average yield was higher. In 1912 the yield was 45.8 bushels, 46.0 bushels in 1920, and 45.0 bushels in 1922. This season's average yield was equalled in 1921. The five-year average total production in Iowa is 422,372,000 bushels or about 10 per cent smaller than the 1925 crop.

Only 7[illegible] per cent of the crop is expected to be husked for grain this season as compared with 82 per cent in a year as nearly normal as in 1923 The carryover of old corn on November 1, 1925 is estimated to be only 2 percent of the previous crop, or 6,095,000 bushels, compared with 18,300,000 bushels in 1924 and 17,795000 bushels in 1923. This smaller amount husked for grain with a smaller hold-over consequently will reduce the total amoun. of corn available for market.

The merchantability of this season's crop was reported as 92.0 percent on November 1, however, a number of farmers are reporting a higher percentage of moisture present now than early in October.

SHERIFF'S SALE

GEORGE A PABST
vs.
F. J. Wenck, Catherine A. Wenck, John Gruetzmacher Vincent Savings Bank, L. R. Boomhower, and J. W. Knadler.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That by virtue of a Special Execution issued out of the office of the Clerk of the District Court, in Hancock County, Garner, on a judgment rendered October 1st, 1925, September Term of Said Court, A. D. 1925 for the sum of Five Thousand One Hundred Sixty One & 66-100 Dollars debt, and One Hundred Fifty Four & 81-100 Dollars costs, in favor of George A. Pabst and against F. J. Wenck and Catherine A. Wenck and to the Sheriff of Hancock County directed, I have levied upon the following described property, to-wit:

The Northeast Quarter (NE¼), the Northeast quarter of the Southeast quarter (NE¼ SE¼), Section Twenty-seven (27), Township Ninety-Five (95), North Range Twenty-Three (23), West of the 5th P. M. Hancock County, Iowa.

NOW, THEREFORE, Public Notice is hereby given that I shall, on the 28th day of November, 1925, at 10 o'clock A. M., at the front door of the Court House, in Garner, in Hancock County, offer and sell at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, all the right, title and interest that the above named Defendants had on the 27th day of October, A. D. 1925, or now have in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy said execution, together with costs and all accruing costs, unless the same shall be sooner satisfied.

Dated at the Sheriff's office in Garner, this 27th day of October, A. D. 1925.

E. P. HANSON,
Sheriff of Hancock County, Iowa.
(Publish Nov. 19-26)

TRAFFIC ORDINANCES STARTED WAY BACK IN 1678

Natives Were Then Fined 5 Shillings For Speeding Thur Streets

Traffic ordinances, those civilizing factors of wild and rampant motorists, had their beginning in this country during 1678 in Rhode Island states the service bulletin of the Iowa State Highway Commission.

This first traffic ordinance was embodied in a resolution of the assembly of the colony of Rhode Island and was the result of the running down of a child in the streets of the town of Newport.

The resolution read:

"Whereas, there was vere lately in the town of Newport on Rhode Island very great hurts done to a small childe by reason of exceeding fast and hard ridinge of horses in said town, this Assembly takeing the matter into their searious consideration and being desirous for the futue to prevent the like mischief, doe ordain, et cetera—that from and after the publication hereof, if any person or persons shall presume to ride on either horse, mare or gelding, a galiun or to run speed—in the streets of Newport—said person shall for his offence pay—unto the Treasurer of said towne 5 shillings in money n demand; 2 shillings of which shall be paid to any person or persons that shall give information thereof and the other 3 shillings to remain for the use of said towne."

In case this assessed fine was not paid willingly, the "towne sergeant was empowered by a special act to take by distraint the said five shillings."

OYSTER STEW!

The Klemme Legion will give an oyster stew to all members and to all ladies eligible to the Auxilliary, at the Parish House, Tuesday evening, December 8th, at 8:00 o'clock. We want you to be there—mothers, sisters, wives, and daughters of Legion Men especially invited. 2tp

The Season's Greetings

WHERE KLEMME FOLKS WILL SPEND THANKSGIVING

In scouting around for news we find that the general order is a big Thanksgiving dinner for many Klemme families. Of course it is impossible to find out everyone who is entertaining at a Thanksgiving Dinner, but here's a partial list:

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus and sons, Otho and Verle, and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman and daughter, Marian, will spend Thanksgiving day at the T. F. Mitchell home at Swea City.

Mr. and Mrs. John Day will entertain the following at their home for dinner today: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith and daughter, Mabel, of this city, and the Walter Ross family, f Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kluckhohn will entertain at their home Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kluckhohn, and Mrs. Sadie Turgeson and sons, for dinner today.

The Walter F. Lau and P. M. Wilson families will eat Thanksgiving dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. (Happy) Johnson.

Ye Editor and family will spend Thanksgiving at the J. Jorgenson home at Garner. Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Liebendorfer and son, of Mason City, will likewise be entertained at the J. Jorgenson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Elder and daughter, Reva, will eat Thanksgiving dinner at the W. H. Trafford home at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Papousek of Belmond are entertaining at their home Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jacobs, of Klemme, and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Jacobs, of Garner.

Miss Minnie Lenz is spending the day at the Harry Gibbs home for a Thanksgiving dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Arnold and family, and Mrs. C. A. Arnold are Thanksgiving guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Tice, at Mason City.

Arthur Kudje and family are spending Thanksgiving at the home of his sister, near Forest City.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Gram and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gram and baby are spending Thanksgiving at Cedar Falls with Chris' and Harry's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bachman and baby are spending the day with her folks at Ventura.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis are Thanksgiving guests at the Clarence Kluckhohn home.

Miss Gladys Buchan will spend her vacation at Minneapolis.

Miss Stoner will spend the weekend at Cedar Falls visiting with her sister and brother.

Mr. Penrod will locate a good sized "drum-stick" and probably the gizzard right here in Klemme. Then for the balance of the week he will visit friends at Mason City and Lattimer, while recuperating from a tummy-ache.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary and baby will spend Thanksgiving vacation visiting with his folks at Cushing.

Miss Abel will spend her vacation at Des Moines and Indianola.

The Misses Lovrien and Thompson will eat Thanksgiving dinner at the home of the former's sister at Waterloo, and wil also visit at Cedar Falls.

Where The Klemme Teachers Will Eat Turkey And Spend The Week-end Vacation

Thanksgiving will give the teachers a short vacation of a few days and they have reported that they will spend the vacation and Thanksgiving at the following places:

Mr. Hockey will be at Sheldon to eat Thanksgiving dinner with his grandparents. Mr. Hockey uses rare good judgment alright!

NEXT PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING TUESDAY, DECEMBER 1

The next meeting of the P. T. A. will be held at the school house next Tuesday evening, December 1, at 8 o'clock.

The following program has been arranged by the program committee:

PROGRAM

"Books and Home Reading for the Family,"

Music, High School Orchestra.

"How Can We Promote Reading Habits in Our Comunity" Mrs. D. W. Johnson.

"How Can We Interest Our Children in Good Books and Magazines?" Mrs. A. W. Gauger.

Piano Solo. Irene Johnson.

"Could The P. T. A. begin a small library with the idea of getting a public library started?" R. A. Jorgenson.

We will also at this time discuss the question whether we will secure some one to examine the children, a question which is very vital and important to every parent. A committee which has been appointed will give us a general report on conditions and what the cost of such an undertaking will be.

The first meeting was well attended and we hope to have 100 per cent attendance so that this matter can be properly arranged to every one concerned.

IOWAN WAS 103 YEARS OLD

Marvin Scudder, Union county's oldest resident, died recently, being just fifteen days past 103 years old. He was born October 10, 1822, in New York state. He had the distinction of being a Mexican war veteran and was probably the last Iowa survivor of that war. Mr. Scudder was visited by Gov. Nate Kendall in 1922 and his picture was taken with the governor. In 1923 when he observed his 101st birthday he received a letter from President Coolidge congratulating him on the event. He cast his first vote in 1843 and first voted for president in 1844 and has never missed voting at a presidential election since.

LADIES AID BAZAR WAS GREAT SUCCESS; FUND BOOSTED

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
A. W. Gauger, Pastor

The services of last Sunday proved interesting and helpful. The music was inspiring and is being appreciated by all present. The topic of education came in for its just dues.

Our services next Sunday will be equally profitable. It is our ernest endeavor to make all our services helpful. However, you must be there to get this help.

Our Thanksgiving service will be held on Thursday morning at 10:15. As the stores close at ten o'clock this will give everyone the opportunity to come to such a service, as all should. The service will last one hour, thus giving all a chance to get to their Thanksgiving dinner in due time.

Weddings

Wedding bells rang on Sunday afternoon in Liberty township at the Martin Jensen home when Miss Magna Rasmussen and Mr. Valdemar Andraesen were united in marriage. Rev. A. W. Gauger read the wedding ceremony and declared them husband and wife. Mr. Jensen had hoped to provide for a unique wedding march by writing to several radio broadcasting stations asking them to broadcast such a march. He did not quite succeed as no music or program of that type was on the air at that time. He did however, get the promise of WHO that they would send such a march onto the air at 7:30 in the evening. The young couple was thus united without the usual wedding march going before.

The happy young couple will start housekeeping soon and next spring will take up farming on the farm now occupied by Mr. Walter Reed east of Klemme. Our best wishes go with them on life's journey.

Again the wedding bells rang on Tuesday evening at the Klemme Methodist parsonage when Rev. Gauger united Miss Ilah Strieby, of Garner wit hMr. Raymond Stewart, of Kansas City, Mo., formerly of Pawnee, Nebr. Mrs. Stewart is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Piatt Strieby, of Garner, and is the product of real quality of one of the good Garner homes—its schools and its churches. She finished school a few years ago and was a brilliant student during her school years.

While the husband is not so well known here, yet ne has the appearance of a man of sterling worth nd will make a worthy husband to the woman of his choice. He is a salesman in Kansas City where the couple will make their future home.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE

The detachment of cavalrymen from Fort Des Moines enroute across country for Omaha, pitched tents for a one night stop in the fair grounds at Greenfield, Adair county. That night three men deserted, stole automobiles that were parked in the business section of the town and struck out for liberty, without any definite destination in mind. A Hudson coach belonging to George Hadley, of Greenfield, was stolen. A couple of weeks later Sheriff Clark received a telegram from the officers at Concord, Mass., that the automobile was there and the driver under arrest, and it afterwards developed that he was one of the soldiers who deserted. The automobile was insured against theft and it was up to hte insurance company to return it in as good condition as when stolen. The other day the Des Moines police located an automobile in Indianapolis that had been stolen from a Des Moines business man the week before.

BASKET SOCIAL

There will be a community play and basket social at Ell No. 4, Friday, December 4. Ladies please bring baskets. Stella Huenemann, teacher. 1wc

BRINGS MORE THAN LAST YEAR

LADIES AID BAZAR BROUGHT IN OVER $200 THURSDAY

The Society Now Has About $500 From Bazar Proceeds

The Ladies Aid Bazar, held at the Parish House last Thursday afternoon and evening was a great success and the ladies are more than pleased with the results this year, which exceeded the Bazar of last year by quite a substantial amount.

The fancy work booth this year paid out much better than last year and from this source in the neighborhood of $130 was taken in.

Cafeteria lunch was served during the afternoon and evening and this was a good paying proposition.

From the various sources the Bazar brought in approximately $180, and in addition to this amount the name quilt added another sum of $40 as each of the 400 names on it were sold at 10 cents each, and the quilt itself sold for $5.00, so that the total is approximately $220.00 for the bazar this year.

The bazar last year brought in about $150.

So far the ladies have earned about $500.00 toward their share of building a new church sometime in the future. They have placed their goal at $1,000.00 as their share of the future enterprise.

Some Deals In Dirt

HANCOCK COUNTY REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Weew Of November 16 to 21, 1925

Adrian Felix wf. to First National Bank, Britt. W. D. date 3-16-23, $1.00, W½ of NW¼ of block 4, Stubbins addition Britt.

H. D. Foster wf. to Edd Meleney. W. D. date 11-16-25, $3,500.00 lots 9-10 block 1 Stubbins 4th addition Britt.

E. P. Hanson, Sheriff, to The Fidelity Investment Co. Sheriff's deed date 11-17-25, $7,455.59, SW¼ 30-97-25.

Fidelity Investment Co. to John Laufersweiler. W. D. date 11-18-25, $26,000.00 SW¼ 30-97-25.

F. A. Arnold wf. to Emilie Arnold. W. D. date 11-5-25, $7,500.00 N½ 8 & N½ SE¼ 8 Und. ½ of SW¼ 8 & Und. ½ of E½ NW¼ 17 all 94-23.

Cora P. Buckton et al to E. L. Plummer. W. D. date 11-17-25, $6,000.00 W½ of SW¼ 4-97-23.

Henry Lolling wf. to Jacob Lolling. W. D. date 11-17-25, $1.00, NE¼ 20-96-26.

Joseph W. F. Tusha to Oscar Carlson. W. D. date 11-12-25, $1.00, part NE¼ 27-96-24.

Joseph W. F. Tusha to Oscar E. Carlson. W. D. date 11-12-25, $10,000.00, S½ NW¼ 27-96-24.

Fred Peterson to First National Bank, Garner. W. D. date 7-22-24, $1.00, Und. 1-8 int. in SE¼ of SE¼ 27 & SW¼ 26-97-23.

Karl Berger to Margaret Berger. W. D. date 11-20-25, $1.00, E½ of SE¼ 15-97-24.

F. P. Oleson wf. to David Bonar. W. D. date 11-20-25, $1.00, S½ of SE¼ & NW¼ SE¼ 22-97-24.

IOWA'S CORN CRIB

If Iowa's total crop of ear corn this year were put in one long crib, eight feet wide by twelve feet high, the crib would be 2,365 miles long and would reach from San Fransisco to Washington, D. C. It would cover all the waste land in Iowa to a depth of 10 inches.

German Family Comes Over to Farm in Michigan

Prosperity in the New Land is sought by the Grebe family, ten of whom landed from Germany at New York, and were reunited with John Joseph Grebe, eldest son, who has provided a Michigan farm.

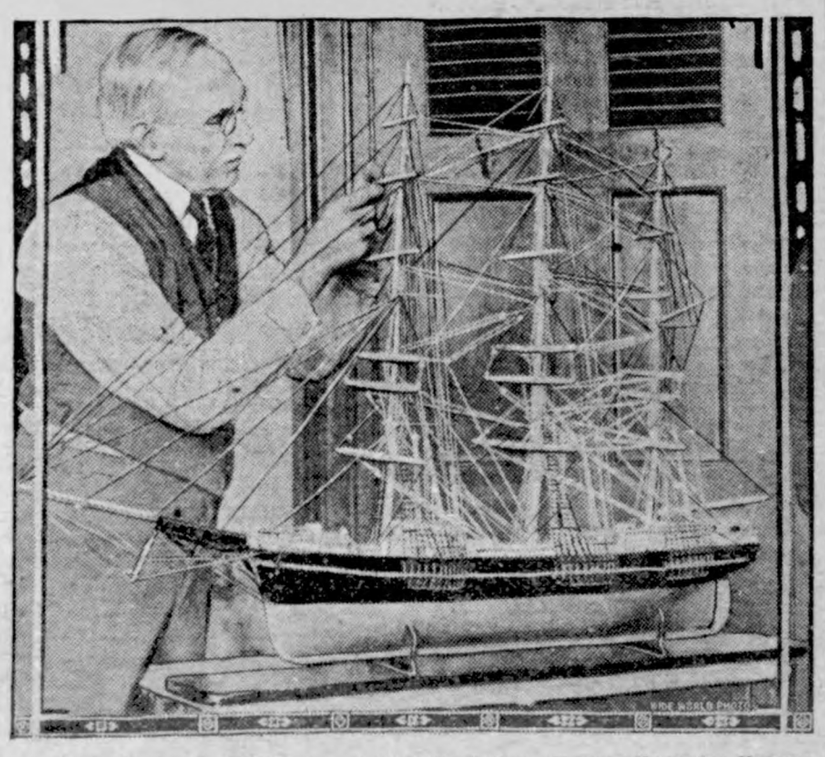
Signing of Debt Pact by Italians and Americans

Representatives of Italy and the United States are shown after signing the debt agreement by which Italy's war debts to the United States will be funded. Seated in the first row at the table: Giacomo di Martino, the Italian ambassador; Secretary of State Kellogg; Count Volpi, head of the Italian mission; Secretary of the Treasury Mellon; Representative Theodore Burton, and Undersecretary of the Treasury Winston. Other members of the debt missions and experts stand in the rear.

New York Had a Hasheesh Farm

New York authorities discovered an Indian hemp farm at Hunts Point avenue, Long Island city, which is believed to have been the source of most of the local supply of hasheesh. Deputy Police Commissioner Simon is shown examining one of the plants before they were burned.

Makes Model of His Old Ship



Capt. Frederick Williamson, at the Sailor's Snug Harbor Home for Veteran Seamen, Staten Island, N. Y., putting the finishing touches to a model of the Governor Robert which he sailed about forty years ago. The home is a self-supporting institution, funds being derived from the income from property in downtown New York.

ALL BRITAIN MOURNS ALEXANDRA'S DEATH

Succumbs to Heart Disease at Age of 81 at Sandringham Palace.

London.—All the British Empire is mourning for Queen Mother Alexandra, mother of King George and widow of Edward VII, who died of heart disease at Sandringham palace.

The great bell of St. Paul's cathedral tolled for a full hour, from 8 to 9, to notify all London of the passing of the queen mother. Numerous public functions were called off. The British wireless world joined in the mourning, abandoning all public broadcasting for the night. One of the most touching tributes was the recollection by the press of the lines which the poet Alfred Tennyson wrote especially to greet Alexandra in which he hailed her as the "Sea King's daughter from over the sea—Alexandra," when she came from Denmark in 1863 to marry the prince of Wales.

Almost full gathering of Alexandra's family attended her last moments. In addition to King George and Queen Mary, those present included the princess royal, the Princess Victoria, Queen Maud of Norway, Prince Henry, and the Princess Arthur of Connaught. Owing to a delay caused by fog, the prince of Wales and the duke of York did not reach Sandringham palace until their grandmother had died.

Up until the last moment the prince of Wales had hoped to attend the banquet at the guildhall, arranged by the city of London in honor of his return from his world tour, but the news from Sandringham was so bad that it was decided to cancel the banquet, for which tables were already being laid. The food and flowers ordered for the banquet were sent to hospitals.

Dowager Queen Alexandra.

Queen Alexandra was born on December 1, 1844, in Denmark. She was a daughter of Prince Christian, then heir to the Danish throne. She was married on March 10, 1863, at Windsor, England, to her late husband, King Edward VII, then prince of Wales and the eldest son of Queen Victoria.

For 62 years from the time that Alexandra came to England as a girl of nineteen she held first place in the hearts of the people of her adopted land.

Alexandra grew to be a lovely girl, and she and her sister, who was Czarine Dagmer of Russia, were known as the twin beauties of European royalty.

The love of Alexandra and Edward was a real romance. The wedding was one of the most brilliant events that ever took place in England. The fete began when the young Danish princess landed in England where she was met by a large number of beautiful girls all carrying flowers. And her progress to her future home was through a veritable bower of flowers.

Her first child was born on January 8, 1864. The fact that it was a son gave the greatest satisfaction throughout England. But her first born, the duke of Clarence, died when a very young man. Her second son, the present King George, was born on June 3, 1865.

AK-SAR-BEN QUEEN

Miss Elinor Kountz, who was crowned Thirty-first Queen of Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha. Her father is president of the First National bank of Omaha and two of her uncles are prominent bankers of New York city. Another uncle is Meredith Nicholson, the novelist.

SHE'S AN ARCHITECT

Miss Frances Sutton has the distinction of being the first woman to become a registered architect in Michigan by passing the state examination. She is a University of Michigan graduate and is but twenty-four years old.

DIRECTOR OF MINES

Scot Turner of Lansing, Mich., who has assumed the office of director of the bureau of mines, succeeding H. Foster Bain.

FOLEY EXONERATED OF PLOT IN NAVY INQUIRY

Captain Clark Admits He Is Not an Airship Expert.

Washington. — After exonerating Capt. Paul Foley, former judge advocate, of charges that he had attempted to influence the testimony of Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, the Shenandoah court of inquiry launched a counter-attack on the credibility of witnesses who have criticized the navy's airship policy before the Mitchell court-martial board.

Capt. Charles P. Clark, an army air service officer, who testified in the Mitchell trial as an expert airship pilot that the Shenandoah was overweight and that it was dangerous to fly the craft without parachutes, was the first witness called.

Under grueling cross-examination that persisted throughout the entire day. Captain Clark admitted that he was not an airship pilot, and that he was not an expert on airship design.

Captain Clark persisted, however, in declaring that parachutes should have been carried on the Shenandoah and hazarded his opinion that if this had been done the loss of life would not have been so great. Under cross-examination he said that he never had descended in a parachute and that he had no first-hand information concerning the circumstances of the airship's destruction.

Clara Morris, Actress, Dies of Heart Disease at 79

New Canaan, Conn.—Clara Morris, emotional actress, died of heart disease following a short illness. She was seventy-nine years old.

Miss Morris died at the home of C. N. Herold, where she was visiting.

The famous actress for the last 20 years has been confined to her room. She had no near relatives.

Miss Morris, who was Mrs. Frederick C. Harriot in private life, was one of the great emotional actresses of the English-speaking stage a number of years ago, and for more than twenty-five years she enjoyed much popularity and prosperity.

Miss Morris, whose maiden name was Morrison, was born at Toronto, Can., on March 17, 1846.

To Let Contracts for Units of Lake-Gulf Waterway

Chicago. — Within approximately two months contracts will be let for two of the big units of Illinois' contribution to the Lakes-Gulf waterway.

These will be what are known technically as "contract No. 2" covering the construction of the Starved Rock lock and dam and "contract No. 6" providing for the channel and retaining walls through Joliet.

The latter contract will include the building of the Brandon road pool, a turning basin 1,200 feet wide which will serve as the best point on the entire waterway for the assembling of fleets of lighters.

The contract involves an expenditure of about $5,000,000.

Peggy Joyce Denies She Seeks to Divorce Count

New York.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce Morner, who has been reported as seeking a Paris divorce from her fourth husband, denied on her arrival on the liner Mauretania that she had gone to Paris to get a decree or that she contemplated so doing. Peggy's present mate is a Swedish count and a former Chicago tooth-paste manufacturer.

"You may say," she said, "that we are as much in love as a husband and wife usually are after two years of marriage."

Hines New Commandant at Great Lakes Naval Station

Washington. — Announcement that Capt. John F. Hines, at present a student officer at the naval war college at Newport, R. I., has been selected to succeed Capt. Waldo Evans as commandant of the Great Lakes naval training station at Chicago, was made by the Navy department.

Captain Evans will retire from the service. Captain Hines entered the service in May, 1888, and has had 20 years of sea duty. He is fifty-five years old.

Progressive Chiefs to Meet

Cleveland, Ohio.—State Chairman Peter Witt announced that national leaders of the Conference for Progressive Political Action had been called to meet on future action at Cleveland December 5.

Jail Six for Whipping Outrage

Huntsville, Ala.—Six men are in jail here, held by the federal government under a "whitecapping" law, for the flogging of two men, a woman and a boy for informing on moonshiners.

Mail Plane Forced Down

Bellefonte, Pa.—Unfavorable weather conditions forced S. T. Kaufman, pilot of the westbound mail plane from New York to Chicago, to land at Rockland, Pa. The plane was slightly damaged.

Crew Saved as Ship Sinks

Manila, P. I.—The freighter Don Jose sank off the coast of Formosa on Friday afternoon with a cargo of 2,000 tons of coal, but all members of the crew were saved.

Is It Your Stomach

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—"After remedies had failed to give me rel was perma cured of sto trouble by t Dr. Pierce's G Medical Disco As a stomach icine and a for the blood i no equal and always glad to ommend it."— Ellen Jones, Ave. E.

Health is your most valuable Obtain Dr. Pierce's Golden Me Discovery, now, in liquid or tab from your neighborhood druggist send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' H Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. Dr. P will give you medical advice free, to

Pimples

What can I do?

"OH, why can't I have a skin other girls? Why do I hav have these ugly pimples, blotches blackheads?

"If I could only find something would clear up my skin and give back my soft, rosy complexion, I k I would be the happiest girl in world! What can I do?"

Is that you talking? If it is, don't have to worry a minute! build up the rich, red blood in y body. Then your skin will be as cl and soft as anybody's.

That's what S. S. S. has been do for generations—helping Nature bu rich, red blood! You can build blood-cells so fast that the impuri that cause breaking out on the s hardly get into the system before pure blood annihilates them—k them right out—stops them f breaking out through the skin.

And then this rich, red, pure bl feeds and nourishes the tissues of skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous, red blood such as S. S. S. helps Nature build, makes you healthy all over. It beautifies your skin—drives away pimples, blackheads, blotches, rash, bo and eczema—gives you back your petite—builds firm, plump flesh fills you full of new life and energy.

All drug stores sell S. S. S. Get t larger bottle. It's more economical.

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

It's Cruel to "Physic" a Child

DR. CALDWELL AT AGE 63

To Dr. W. B. Cal well, of Monticell Ill., a practicing ph sician for 47 year it seemed cruel th so many constipate infants and childre had to be kept co stantly "stirred up and half sick by ta ing cathartic pill tablets, salts, calome and nasty oils.

While he knew tha constipation was the cause of nearl all children's little ills, he did not be lieve that a sickening "purge" o "physic" every little while was nec essary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin h discovered a laxative which regulate the bowels. A single dose will es tablish natural, healthy bowel move ment for weeks at a time, even if th child was chronically constipated. Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not onl causes a gentle, easy bowel move ment but, best of all, it is often month before another dose is necessary. Be sides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, fever ish, bilious, sick child gladly take it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Theatrical and Fancy COSTUMES for school plays and masquerades. Masks wigs, beards, make-up. College and high school caps and gowns to rent. The Wingate Company, 543 5th Ave., Des Moines, Iowa.

Prudence's Daughter

By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

WNU Service

"YOU WAIT!"

SYNOPSIS.—PART ONE—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, New York, Jerry (Geraldine) Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He admires her tremendously, and she likes him. But Allerton gets a bit exhilarated, with unfortunate results. Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly. The story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Des Moines. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of Art and asks her parents to let her go to New York for study. With some misgiving, they agree to her going. In New York Jerry makes her home with a Mrs. Delaney ("Minti"), an actress, who, with Theresa, a painter, occupies the house. Jerry takes an immediate liking to Theresa, who is talented and eccentric, and the two become fast friends. Jerry now devotes herself to Theresa, who returns her liking. Jerry poses for Theresa's masterpiece, "The Ocean Rider." Allerton calls on Jerry. The girl refuses to see him. At a hotel dinner Jerry sees Duane and is conscious of his admiration, but refuses to change her attitude toward him.

CHAPTER V—Continued

—7—

When they arose to go, she turned and looked squarely in his direction. She could have answered the call in his sober eyes, gone softly to him, touched his hand.

"Are you ready?" she said to Mimi, drawing up the folds of her cloak as the amorous youth placed it about her shoulders.

Duane's eyes followed them as they passed out. Jerry would not turn her head, to look away from him, pretend she did not see him. She would have been ashamed of subterfuge. She looked at him frankly, and did not know him.

"Jerry, there's your friend," whispered Mimi. "Isn't he the best-looking thing you ever saw?"

She turned the effective lashes upon him brightly, and Duane nodded to her, and smiled. Jerry said nothing.

* * * * * * * *

On the following morning Theresa went down to Jerry's room before the usual time for the daily breakfast tray. This was an occurrence of such infrequency that Jerry could not hide a flutter of flattered pleasure when she appeared in the doorway. But Theresa, even in her most formal moments, wasted no time in idle talk. She came for a purpose, and went at it with sturdy directness.

"See here, Jerry, I thought of something last night," she began briskly. "Are you sure you want to give up studying Art?"

"Absolutely sure."

"Sure you won't change your mind after a little, and begin again?"

"Absolutely sure."

"What are you going to do with the lessons? You paid a whole term in advance, didn't you? Are you going to get your money back?"

"I don't think I can. I'll just have to let it go."

"See here, Jerry, you shouldn't waste such an opportunity. Now, poor old McDowell needs the money; he teaches for his bread and butter, you know. But if you stop so soon, he may feel he has to make a partial refund anyhow. Why don't you transfer the lessons to some one who would like them, but can't afford them?"

"To whom, for instance? You have someone in mind, haven't you?"

Theresa admitted that she had, that she had just thought of it. The one she had in mind was Greta Val, an unprepossessing country girl, who had appeared suddenly from somewhere, and was earning a hard existence by serving as chambermaid at the old Grilier studios on Ninth street. Jerry had seen her once when she went to one of the studios with Mimi for tea, and remembered her as a stiffly rigid young person, with whom one would more likely associate scrub buckets and brooms than delicate paints and brushes.

"Um, she's ugly," said Theresa. "But that kid's a genius, all the same. She knows nothing, has never had a lesson in her life—and God only knows what she came here for, without friends, without money. Oh, you know how people are, Jerry. They think if they can only squeeze into the Village they'll just naturally absorb Art with the air they breathe. Well, she doesn't do so badly, for all that. The fellows are all good to her, give her scraps of paint and canvas, and tell her little things that help her. Greta Val may be ugly, she may be green, but she's got it, Jerry, and it'll boil over some time, you mark my words."

Jerry was almost childishly pleased. "Oh, Theresa, get her quick! She can have all my things—the easel, the paint, everything! Get her right away, won't you? I'll feel so much better when it's all out of my sight."

And while Theresa went out to the telephone, Jerry, with her buoyant enthusiasm, set to work, pulling out boxes of paint and crayons, canvases, brushes and books, that all should be in readiness for the girl who had this thing that Jerry herself had not.

* * * * * * * *

She came at once, Greta Val, and Theresa took her down to Jerry—a slim, straight girl as she had vaguely remembered, with thin, unsmiling lips and wide, unsmiling eyes. Jerry caught her hand and drew her impulsively into the room.

"Are you Greta Val? I know I have paid for a term of lessons with Graves McDowell, and I don't want them, I don't want to study Art. But they are all paid for, and it's a shame to waste them, so I want you to use them in my place. And look!" She ran quickly to the table, and flung a inclusive hand over the tubes and jars piled high. "I have all those things, canvases, brushes, paints, don't go to waste, for I can't use them. want to get rid of them, I don't even like to have them about. And my easel—it nearly fell down on me in the tub last night and might have killed me—will you take it, and use it, and—and the lessons, and everything?"

"Are you making fun of me?" demanded Greta Val in a passionate, throaty, strangled voice.

"Oh, no, how can you think"—Jerry laughed, nervously—"how can you think of such a thing? I just want to get rid of it. It takes up such a lot of room, it makes me nervous to have it piled about and—"

"How dare you make fun of me!" Greta Val lifted a sharp, resentful hand and struck Jerry angrily across the face, and then, with a cyclonic burst of tears, whirled about and ran from the room, the door reverberating loudly in her tempestuous wake.

"How Dare You Make Fun of Me?"

Jerry stood as one petrified, a slender hand upraised and motionless, her face showing deathly white except for the splash of red where Greta's hand had struck. Her eyes were wide with horror, her lips parted in mute bewilderment, while Theresa flung herself upon the couch and screamed with helpless laughter.

CHAPTER VI

Jerry Adrift

For a long time Jerry stood, breathless, bewildered, in the center of her room, a rigid, lovely figure in her amazement, while Theresa rolled on the couch with choking laughter.

"D-did you see what—that creature—did to me?" she gasped at last.

"Oh, Jerry!" cried Theresa, struggling up to a sitting posture, wiping her eyes with the sleeve of her paint-stained smock. "Did I see it!—I can see it now!" Theresa flung herself joyously among the cushions again.

"The insolent—impudent—"

"I'll bet you never got one like that before," interrupted Theresa. "The little spitfire! Were you ever slapped before, Jerry?"

Jerry shook her head; she was still awed, still breathless with the unexpectedness of it. "Never! I was never deliberately hurt—by anybody—in my life. P-Prudence doesn't do such things."

Theresa sobered suddenly. "It's a shame," she said sympathetically. "The poor kid! She was so happy she didn't know what—"

"Happy! Do you call that happiness! Well, if that's the way a genius feels happy, thank God I'm commonplace. I'm glad she was happy! If she had been a little peeved, she would doubtless have killed me outright!"

Jerry's eyes were flashing with resentment, her fine lips twitching. Tears came into her eyes.

"I—I thought she would be pleased," she stammered. "I thought she would like it."

Theresa reached for her hand, caressed it with unusual gentleness. "Don't take it that way, Jerry," she urged. "You don't understand. Think what a barren, bitter life the poor little tramp leads. She was amazed beyond reason, she couldn't believe it—you were so bright and so joyous—of course she thought you were making fun. It was too good to be true. These things don't happen once in a lifetime. She'll be sick about this, you'll see. Why, she didn't know what she was doing, she's an awfully nice little thing—I—I hope you aren't going to hold it against her, and—"

"Oh, she can have the stuff, if that's what you mean. But keep her out of my sight! I never want t see her again! I hate her!"

Oh, very well Theresa knew the temper of this kind of human flint with which they had to deal. She knew no kindly messenger could bridge the gap Greta had so dramatically created between herself and the one who wished to help her—that she would accept of no second-hand bounty after her stormy passion. No use to send a word of forgiveness, for Greta would not believe.

And so Theresa, knowing that Jerry herself must reach across the breach, stayed with her, petted her, coaxed her into yielding.

"Oh, very well, have it your own way, then," Jerry said at last. "I know I'm a weak-minded little dunce, and let you twist me around your little finger. Come on then. Let's go and find the wild little heathen, and tell her what we think of her."

Theresa promptly accepted the submission, knowing full well she could trust the end to Jerry's inherent sweetness, and the two girls set out together, at once, in search of Jerry's spitfire. She did not answer their ring at the Griller studios, and after persistent pressing on the button one of the artists on the second floor looked out from the window, and, recognizing Theresa, agreed to press his buzzer to give them admittance.

"We want Greta Val," said Theresa. "Where is her room?"

"In the basement," he called cheerfully. "And dark as the deuce, so watch your step as you go down. The door on the right, clear at the end."

Very gingerly they made their way, hand in hand, down the dark stairs, and through the dark basement corridor to the door at the end, on the right.

"Listen," Theresa whispered. "Didn't I tell you?"

The sound of passionate, strangled sobbing came out to them from behind the door. Theresa knocked smartly, but received no answer. She turned the knob, but the door was locked from within. She pounded heavily, incessantly, and presently the strangled sobbing ceased, and intense silence prevailed.

"Greta, come here and open this door," ordered Theresa.

"Go away," was the muffled rejoinder.

"Open the door, you little simpleton," said Theresa. "Right away. It is Theresa Brady."

"Go away, I tell you!"

"Greta, you ought to be ashamed of yourself! Now you come and open this door as fast as ever you can, or I'll bang it down!"

The sternness of her voice had its effect at last. Greta shuffled across the room and opened the door. A pitiful figure, she stood before them, her thin hair stringing about her face, her cheap blouse twisted and pulled awry, her unlovely face swollen with weeping and stained with tears. When she realized that it was Jerry who stood with Theresa in the dark hallway, she cried out faintly and covered her face with her hands. Theresa stood back, made way for Jerry. She had done her part. She knew that Jerry now could be given a free, loose rein. Jerry ran into the dingy basement room at once, and put both arms about the wretched, cowering figure.

"Don't cry," she said, "don't cry. I don't mind a bit, honestly I don't. We all do silly things when we're excited."

She pulled her softly across the room toward the cot, and sat beside her, holding her in her arms, calling her soft caressive names, "silly little goose," and "foolish child," while Theresa watched them soberly, her unfathomable eyes not on Greta, who by rights should have been the center of the scene, but on Jerry's tender, sorry face. After a little, when Greta lay quiet in her arm, except for an occasional racking shudder of her thin shoulders, Jerry explained:

"You see, I thought perhaps I could paint a little myself, but I can't really, and I don't want to be bothered. But it would be wicked to throw those lovely things away, and when Theresa told me about you I was so happy I could hardly wait to get hold of you. It was very stupid, the way I told you. I do things so quickly, all in a flash, on the spur of the moment, and I don't wonder you thought I was crazy. But I really do not want the things, and it will make me so happy if you will just take them off my hands, you know."

Greta did not speak, but pressed her thin, unlovely, fervent lips upon Jerry's fur-wrapped shoulder. A few minutes later, when Greta was straightened and washed and brushed, they returned, the three of them together, to Jerry's room, and joyously carried down to the street the boxes, the easel, the blocks of canvas. Jerry called a taxi, and they drove away to Greta's room with her priceless treasures.

When Theresa and Jerry were turning at last to leave her alone with her riches, suddenly the power of speech returned. She caught Jerry's hand.

"Miss Harmer," she stammered, the words tripping each other up on her eager tongue, "the first picture I get hung at the academy—you shall have it—for nothing!"

The air with which she said it was triumphant, and Jerry thanked her sweetly. But when they were on the street alone she smiled about it.

Theresa turned upon her somberly. "Don't laugh. It may be years from now, but some day you'll get that picture. And one day, Jerry, you'll be proud and glad to remember you gave the poor little fool her first chance. You wait!"

* * * * * * * *

The days passed slowly and Jerry did not find an avenue for the active expression of her personality she so ardently desired. She had no illusions in regard to herself, she was an ordinary, midwestern girl, very charming, very beautiful, but one who had not been drawn upon the knees of the gods. She could play nicely, sing very sweetly, but could do no more with music than amuse herself. Upon her college work she could obtain a certificate for teaching school, but she felt no such inclination. She might take a business course and become one of the countless alert-eyed, trim-clad business girls of the great city, girls who stirred her warmest admiration without creating in her a desire to become one of them. The grandeur of work, as work, did not impress her. She required a motive.

If her father had died suddenly Jerry would have swept courageously into his great motor factory in Iowa, studied it, struggled with it, learned to control it—a reason there for her effort. But with Jerrold himself in such shrewd and successful dominance of his own business, she saw no such occasion. And still she believed that somewhere, somehow, she must strike on a thing that would command her effort and hold her interest. In the meanwhile she devoted her time to catering sweetly to Theresa—Theresa, who was working with a more consuming passion than ever before, and with ever-increasing disregard for every natural safeguard of health.

When she went up to the studio at ten o'clock one morning with the breakfast tray for Theresa, she was surprised to find Mimi there before her. Mimi seldom intruded and was always curtly discouraged by Theresa when she did.

It was Mimi who spoke to Jerry first. "Come right in," she said. "We're having our daily battle, but—you won't mind."

"Oh, please don't let me interfere with the war," said Jerry, laughing. "I'll run down and wait till the signing of the treaty."

"No, don't go," said Theresa gloomily. "She may cut it short if you stay. She's bothering me frightfully."

"Jerry, do something with her," pleaded Mimi. "She's a perfect fool. We're invited—both of us—to Atlantic City for the week-end, all expenses paid and everything, and she won't even talk about it."

"I don't want to go, and I can't go, and I won't go. What is there to say about it?" Theresa disposed of the subject bruskly.

"It would be lovely," said Jerry. "Perhaps it would do you good, Theresa, you look so tired."

Theresa said nothing.

"I'm getting sick of it," said Mimi quite furiously. "I need a little companionship, I tell you. If you don't stop being so stingy and so piggish, Theresa, I'll get married, and then—"

"Oh, good Lord! Again!" Theresa burst into scornful laughter. "Jerry, witness this. I've stuck along here through the last two husbands, but I'm through. You get married again, Mimi, and I'm off. And that's final."

Mimi laugher lightly. "Oh, you can't tell, I might have good luck another time."

"Not you. You don't know how to pick them."

"Oh, I think I'll run on down—" interrupted Jerry in some confusion.

"You stay where you are," said Theresa.

"Don't go on my account," said Mimi. "I don't mind Theresa. She's just jealous."

Well, Jerry is adrift now, without occupation. Her dream dissolved. Will she go home—or marry Allerton?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Practical Evidence Wanted

"John Marrows," said the farmer's wife, coming out to the back porch, where her husband sat tilted back in his chair, his feet on a railing, "didn't I hear you tell the parson when he was here that you had strong views on the temperance movement?"

"Yes," Mr. Marrows replied, rather stiffly. "I said so, and you know that I have."

"Well," said Mrs. Marrows, "suppose you go and express a few of them on the pump handle. I want a pail of water."

Possible Reason

During a cross-examination an undertaker produced his business card, on which was a telegraphic address. He was asked why the latter should be necessary.

"Oh," interposed the judge, "I suppose it is for the convenience of people who want to be buried in a hurry."

REAL RESULTS IN HEALTH WORK

The annual sale of Christmas seals which extends from Thanksgiving to Christmas is enlisting the active effort of hundreds of workers and interest of thousands of citizens all over the state.

The seals are sold in every county by local public health associations or other organizations affiliated with the Iowa Tuberculosis Association.

The design of this year's seal is shown in the accompanying cut. The color scheme is the conventional Christmas green and red. Features of the seal are holly, mistletoe, lighted candles and the familiar double barred cross symbolic of the world-wide anti-tuberculosis movement.

Newspaper readers are asking two questions. "What is done locally and in the state with Christmas seal money" and "What has been actually accomplished."

The answer to the first question will be found in a pamphlet just issued entitled "Service of the Seals". Twenty-five Thousand copies of this were printed by the Board of Control of State Institutions at Anamosa and are being distributed through the Iowa Tuberculosis Association, Christmas seal chairmen and local health organizations. The list of services made possible by Christmas seal funds as enumerated in the pamphlet is as follows:

Things Done By Local Health Associations:

School children taught health habits through Modern Health Crusade, height and weight charts for schools, measuring scales for schools, playground equipment, hot lunch equipment, milk lunches, "Health Training in Schools" and other books for teachers, health songs, health plays and pageants, literature and instruction for mothers, nurses' supplies, county tuberculosis clinics, heart clinics, children's clinics, dental clinics, health exhibits at fairs, health talks (speakers bureaus), prizes for essays and posters, health columns in papers, health weeks and health days, special campaigns (fly, spitting, clean up), demonstration nursing, sanitary inspection of schools, local milk ordinances, moving pictures, health literature distributed, posters and exhibits, first aid kits, drinking fountains, blotters, book covers, room thermometers, individual drinking cups, health rule posters, wire door mats, liquid soap containers, paper towels, diagnostic clinics, permanent clinics and dispensaries, modern health crusade, other school health instruction, nutrition classes, medical and dental inspection, school and visiting nursing, open air schools, preventoria (fresh air camps), surveys, health centers, relief for tuberculous families, hospital care, promotion of hospital movements, local and state legislation.

By the Iowa Tuberculosis Association:

361,405 school children formed good health habits through Modern Health Crusade. 22,403 teachers conducted it. Iowa won fifth time in six years national cup for leadership in health education; "Health Training in Schools," 402 pages, a handbook of practical teaching methods, placed in 5,200 schools; State Association helped secure passage of many important health measures by legislature; it wrote the physical education law; distributed 1,200.000 piece of health literature; loaned films to farm bureaus, etc.; helped fight animal tuberculosis through film "Out of the Shadows" and other ways; edited monthly health magazine "The Campaign", printed by Board of Control of State Institutions; furnished health news and features regularly to newspapers and magazines; distributed pamphlets, plays, posters, films, exhibit material, weight tags, tongue blades, nurses supplies school scales, etc.; furnished speakers, clinicians and staff field nurses; gave publicity to periodic medical examination movement; held county tuberculosis clinics; held county heart clinics; promoted nutrition work in schools; paid salary of director of public health nursing for State Board of Health; all counties in state visited by nursing staff or crusade director; aided State departments and private organizations interested in health, housing, child welfare, milk, animal husbandry, etc.

Practical Results.

Some of the results accomplished in the state and nation are:

In Iowa since the Board of Control of State Institutions and the Iowa Tuberculosis Association began their campaign against this disease the tuberculosis death rate has been reduced from 75 to 39.5. Only 6 states have a lower death rate than Iowa. These states are all west of the Mississippi River. Iowa's death rate is less than one-half of that of the average in the country.

When the first seals were sold in this country there were only 100 sanatoriums with 10,000 bed capacity. Now there are over 700 with 66,000 beds. In the former year there were only 6 hospitals and clinics. Now there are over 600.

In 1905 in Iowa there were no state sanatoriums and no county public hospitals. Now there is a state sanatorium with capacity for 400 beds and 4 county sanatoriums. The bed capacity in this state including that of state institutions and private hospitals rates high—nearly one for every annual death, which is the standard set by the National Association, and which is attained in very few states.

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Take Tablets Without Fear If You See the Safety "Bayer Cross."

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

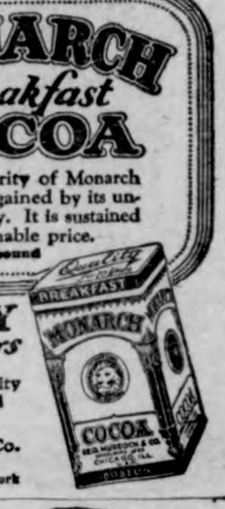
Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Love never counts the cost.

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA

The popularity of Monarch Cocoa was gained by its unusual quality. It is sustained by its reasonable price.

35c a pound



QUALITY for 70 years

Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.

Reid, Murdoch & Co. Chicago, U.S.A. Boston. Pittsburgh, New York

Take a last look at his whiskers

Diogenes has a new job

HE at last found his honest man making the Durham-Duplex blade — THE BLADE MEN SWEAR BY—NOT AT. He tried it—liked it—and forever more he will be seen with a clean shave.

Finding this honest man meant that he was out of a job but the Durham-Duplex Razor Co. found one for him. They gave him a razor with one blade—the same razor as is contained in the $1.50 sets—to present to every man with their compliments. He was merely to charge a fee of 25c (to cover his expenses).

If he hasn't reached you as yet mail coupon below along with fee and you will receive post paid a Durham-Duplex Razor and blade exactly as stated above.

New Durham-Duplex Sets

Including two packages of 5 blades $1.50 each. Interchangeable blades 50c for package of 5

DURHAM-DUPLEX RAZOR CO.
Jersey City, N. J.
Factories: Jersey City; Sheffield; Paris; Toronto
Sales Representatives in all Countries

DURHAM-DUPLEX RAZOR CO.
Jersey City, N. J.

I enclose 25c for a Durham-Duplex Razor and one blade.

Name .....
Address .....
City .....
Specify type preferred here DM1

DURHAM-DUPLEX

"U.S." SPRING-STEP Rubber Heels

Greater Comfort
Longer Wear

United States Rubber Company

Relieved Over Night

At 53 never has a headache—never troubled with constipation.

"After a serious illness I became very constipated. The doctor's medicine relieved me only for a short time. I also suffered from awful headaches three or four times a month. One day I noticed your ads and sent for a box. Beecham's relieved me at once. I found that if I took them on going to bed I would feel fine in the morning. I never have a headache now.

"I am 53 years old and I do all my own housework. I lay it all to the wonderful help which Beecham's Pills have given me for 29 years."

Mrs. W. C. Staub, Bethlehem, Pa.

Faulty elimination is the basis of much ill health. Beecham's Pills bring prompt relief to sufferers from constipation, sick headache, biliousness and other digestive ailments.

FREE SAMPLE—Write today for free sample to B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal St., New York

Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

for Better Health, Take

Beecham's Pills

FACIAL ERUPTIONS unsightly and annoying . . improved by one application of

Resinol

PATENTS

Don't risk delay in protecting your ideas. Send sketch or model for instructions or write for FREE book, "How to Obtain a Patent" and "Record of Invention" form. No charge for information on how to proceed. Communications confidential. Careful, efficient service. CLARENCE A. O'BRIEN, Registered Patent Attorney, 243-A Security Bank Building (directly across street from Patent Office) WASHINGTON, D. C.

EVERY IOWA COUNTY SEAT TO BE CONNECTED BY GRAVEL HIGHWAYS

The surfacing of a system of primary highways that will connect every county seat in Iowa is the program outlined by the state highway commission. The principal change in the Iowa primary road law to become effective Nov. 30 is the creation of the primary road development fund. It consists roughly of a little over $4,000,000. Distribution of it is placed soley under the authority of the state highway commission, which body is given, for the first time in Iowa, the right to spend part of the primary road fund. The balance of the primary road fund to consist of about $11,646,000 per year, after deductions of $3,000,000 annually for maintenance and other fixed charges bringing the total deduction to $5,631,000, will amount to $6,015,000 per year during each of the next three years. This money will be distributed to the counties on the basis of their area as it has been heretofore The $4,000,000 will not be. It will be used at the commission's discretion, in counties whose boards of supervisors co-operate with the commission in following detailed plans for uniform development of primary roads under the program now being formulated. None of it will be used independently for paving long stretches of road.

THERE'S ALWAYS A RIGHT TIME TO BUY

Honest Merchants are in business to help you with your buying problems. You may reply, "They are in business to make money!" And of course, they are. But the point is: They know that the best way to make is to serve you honestly and efficiently.

One of the most valuable services a merchant can render you is to tell you when to buy. He knows the market. He is kept informed about raw materials and manufacturing problems. He gets all the advance tips on styles. He even knows pretty well what your circumstances are, and what your needs will be.

So, his advice—as offered thru the ads in this paper—is worth money to you. When he announces a special sale, or displays a new line of goods and advertises it, it is well for you to investigate.

There's always a right time to buy, and the ads in this paper will keep you posted. Read them and follow their advice!

Every week is "read the ads week" and it pays both the merchant and the customer.

OSAGE AND VICINITY IS POPCORN SECTION OF IOWA

OSAGE, Nov. 26.—Osage and vicinity has become quite a popcorn center and the yield this year has been exceptionally fine. Earl Jester contracted for 654 acres this year, and the harvest is now on. Some of the largest yields reported are as follows: H. J. Ahrens $374.40 from four acres; H. G. Horgen $410.70 from five acres; Becker and Shefun $267.30 from three acres; E. R. Horgen $477.90 from seven acres; Martin Fokornik $636.60 from ten acres and H H. Heckstine ..504.90 from six acres.

Turns From Bloody Career

Felix Dzerjinsky, the Communistic Torquemada, the "saintly executioner," the head of the Russian "Cheka" since the Bolshevik advent, has changed his character and become a constructive business man, according to advices from the land of the Soviets. Two years ago Dzerjinsky was appointed chairman of the economic council, and it is due to his efforts, it is said, that reforms have been initiated that give private industry and business the greatest freedom that they have enjoyed since the Revolution. Dzerjinsky has become the dictator of all things economic and industrial, and is said to be encouraging and co-operating with private business. He is described as being, next to Stalin, the most influential man in present-day Russia, and has the reputation of being a great organizer.

Duke Wields Trowel

The duke of Argyll, hereditary master of the royal household in Scotland and chief of the Campbell clan, is devoting much time to work as a stonemason on a tower that is being constructed near Inverary castle. With only two other masons, the duke is erecting a tower after an old Italian model, wherein will hang a peal of bells. It will add an artistic touch to the home of the chief of the Campbells, which is already noted for its beauty and the splendor of its art treasures. Its art gallery contains the most famous collection of Gainsboroughs in Great Britain.

Queer Combat

"I saw a mighty queer fight in town this afternoon," related Farmer Fumblegate, upon his return from the county seat. "A fat young feller and a thin old one fit mighty near all around the public square, tumbling down, rolling around, getting up and whacking away at each other some more, and so on."

"Mercy sakes!" ejaculated his wife. "What was the fight about?"

"That was the funny part. Both said they weren't fighting for the principle of the thing, but b'cuz one had cheated the other out of $2.—Kansas City Star.

Early Sign of Winter

One of the first trees to warn us of the approach of winter is the red maple of the eastern states, says the American Tree Association of Washington, which for a stamp sends free tree-planting suggestions. The light green of its small leaves turn to reds and yellows, some with red outstanding, others with yellow. The poplars are also early chroniclers of fall, their leaves turning yellow early, but dropping quickly.

Printing Industry Big

From 1923, establishments in the United States engaged primarily in printing and publishing newspaper, and periodicals reported a total output valued at $1,268,501,566, an increase of 12.9 per cent as compared with 1921, the last preceding census year. Exactly 10,267 establishments reported.

Odd Coincidence

Three women—all strangers—met in a Portland (Maine) hotel elevator by chance, and they all wore dresses exactly alike. They became curious and an exchange of questions and answers developed the fact that one gown was bought in California, another in Kansas City and the third in Boston.

Mother: "Johnny, what do you mean by feeding the baby yeast?"

Johnny: "She's swallowed my nickel and I am trying to raise the dough."

PREFERENCE IS FOR "CAVE-MAN" HUSBAND

Modern Girls Seem to Favor Strenuous Type.

Answers to a questionnaire circulated among 1,000 college girls of the Middle West are said to show that 65 per cent of them think that the ideal husband should be cave-mannish, but in a "refined" way. These responses would be more illuminating if they were more complete. It is a common failing of questionnaires to elicit everything but the one thing most persons would like to know.

It is not at all clear what kind of caveman the "refined" variety is. Of course some of the things not to be expected of him are apparent. He is not supposed, in the pet phrase of professed wife tamers, to "Catch 'em young, treat 'em rough and tell 'em nothin'." It is to be presumed that he may be entirely ruthless in seizing the weekly pay check, dragging it home and hurling it into his wife's lap. On occasions he may even be cross with the janitor—especially on cold mornings when the steam is low—and he must not allow landlords to browbeat him when it comes time to renew the lease.

Undoubtedly he is not to be a perfect amorist. In primitive times when the troglodyte had wooed his mate with a bludgeon and carried her insensible to his lair it was not denied that he might afterward comfort her with such endearments and tendernesses as occurred to him. Yet in idealizing the qualities a refined caveman should have 75 per cent of the girls say he must not be a petter and the other 25 per cent say he may pet moderately but must not indulge outside the home.

The refined caveman must neither drink nor smoke. In physique he must be muscular. There is grave doubt whether he should be a social worker, 60 per cent of the girls fearing that he might thereby become a "sissy." Above all, he must not be flirtatious where other women are concerned.

From all this it appears that the refinement and the cave-mannishness are subject to qualifications. Happily the 1,000 prospective husbands of these 1,000 college maidens need not be cast down. The probability is that while few of them will prove 100 per cent up to expectations at the outset of the matrimonial journey, the dear girls will train them so to be before the voyage is ended.—New York Sun.

Crook's High Life Ended

That persistent individual who for more than ten years has been wandering about Europe, posing as "the bishop of Warsaw" and collecting board, lodging, alms, loans, raiment and reverence from the pious, has been arrested in Rome. His smooth speech and commanding presence had enabled him to impose himself on his victims and escape detection, despite the fact that he had been formally denounced by the Vatican and the police had been assiduously on his trail. His name, it appears, is Tarwoski. He was born in Lemberg, a peasant, and his profession, when he is doing honest labor, is that of a cook. But since taking up his avocation of "bishop" he has slept in many a soft bed and eaten many a fine meal as the guest of highly placed personages.

Wrong Number

When Frank Harris last visited New York he was very much put out by an attack on one of his books.

"Only ignorance and misunderstanding," he said, "can see viciousness in this book. Its critics remind me of a story.

"An old farmer and his wife halted in a picture gallery before a painting of Adam and Eve.

"'Who's that brazen hussy?' said the wife.

"The farmer turned to his catalogue, but got the number wrong.

"'Queen Victoria,' he read out, 'receiving General Grant.'"

Only a Dream

The late Max Hirsch, the noted New York theatrical manager, had a fine library and a fine literary taste.

Mr. Hirsch dined with Michael Arlen, the popular but shallow Armenian novelist, during the latter's visit to New York, and in the course of the dinner Mr. Allen, relating his life story, said:

"So I woke up one morning and found myself famous."

Mr. Hirsch gave a loud laugh.

"You mean," he said, "you found yourself famous, and then you woke up."

Boss Was Guilty

On returning home from my vacation, I found that a simple set of files that I had, supposedly, left for the office boy to take charge of, was all muddled up. With utter disgust in my voice I said to the office boy, in front of my boss, "Why a baby could keep these files straight."

Can you imagine my embarrassment to hear the boss reply, "I kept those files, Miss Stone."—Chicago Tribune.

Child's Marvelous Escape

A child was run over by forty cars at Monroe, La., and was extricated without a scratch on its body and no more than a bad scare was the result of the experience. As a freight train was passing through the town the engineer saw the child, just able to toddle, in the middle of the tracks throwing stones. He was unable to stop the train.

FENCES ELECTRIFIED, BRING SUIT AGAINST COMPANY

An important suit is pending in Buchanan county. A high tension wire became detached and fell in such a way as to electrify a woven wire fence which in turn set fire to some dry grass. A woman saw the burning grass and to prevent the fire spreading dashed a bucket of water on the flames but the water came in contact with the charged wire and immediately the current was conveyed to the woman who was instantly killed. The husband now brings suit against the electric company for $15,000 damages. In Johnson county near Iowa City, a live wire came in contact with a barbed wire fence. Not knowing f the connection three men attempted to crawl under the fence and each was instantly killed. Suit for damages totaling $75,000 is now pending in the Johnson county court.

AN OLD RELIC FOUND MADE BY INDIANS IN UNION COUNTY

An ax made of stone was recently found by Charles Rhyne near Talmadge, Union county. It measures six inches in its greatest length and it is 4½ inches wide. It weighs six pounds. It is a silent witness of the habits and customs of the tribes of Red men who roved at will over the prairies or followed the meandering streams of the territory of which the great state of Iowa is now a portion.

Young Wife Afraid to Eat Anything

"I was afraid to eat because I always had stomach trouble afterwards. Since taking Adlerika I can eat and feel fine." (signed) Mrs. A. Howard. ONE spoonful Adlerika removes GAS and often brings surprising relief to the stomach. Stops that full, bloated feeling. Removes old waste matter from intestines and makes you feel happy and hunrgy. Excellent for obstinate constipation. Wilson's Pharmacy. 1tc

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blume's
REPAIR SHOP

Announcement

I wish to announce to the people of Klemme and vicinity that I have purchased the Pool Hall and Business of Mr. Abels and that I am now in possession of the same.

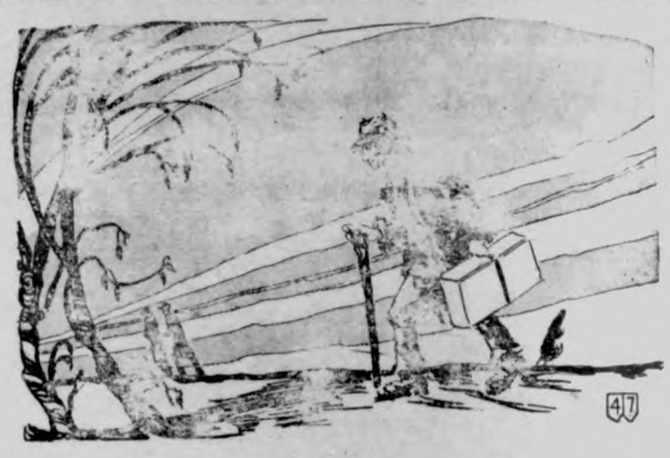
I intend to conduct a good, clean place of amusement where you can enjoy your spare time.

You will always find here a nice, fresh line of Cigars, Tobacco and Cigarettes, as well as Candy and Soft Drnks.

I will appreciate your patronage

STEP IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

S. A. Harvey



HIS GAY DAYS ARE OVER

Many think they get the most out of life when they spend all they make. But a life of gayety and spending is not the road to comfort and independence.

You are only popular while you have money. When that is gone and you are old, your friends and relatives usually suggest that you find another stopping place.

Plan to ease up on your gay days and deposit the amount saved. Start today.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

Golden State Limited to California

For those who wish quiet, comfort, rest, or the greatest variety of recreation and entertainment, the Golden State, now more than ever, is the ideal winter home.

The all-Pullman Golden State Limited, takes you there in luxury and comfort. Observation and club cars, barber, valet, shower for men, women's lounge, maid, manicure, shower for women. No extra fare.

Through standard Pullmans daily via Rock Island Lines from Minneapolis and Des Moines, arrive Los Angeles 2:45 p. m. (third day).

Through tourist sleeper service to Los Angeles from Minneapolis and Des Moines via Kansas City and the Golden State Express, another fast train. (Only three nights).

Dining cars serving "Best Meals on Wheels."

For details ask—
M. O. BARR
Agent

C. C. Gardner
Asst. Gen'l Pass. Agent
600 Royal Union Life Bldg.
Des Moines, Iowa

Thanksgiving Day--

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26, is Thanksgiving Day, the day of giving thanks—and enjoying a big dinner. And delicious, wholesome butter made by the Klemme Co-Operatve Creamery (your home concern) will be on your table on that day, as well as all other days of the year. And while you are tasting the delicious flavor of this "made-in-Klemme" product we want to remind you of another good thought:

Thousands of people in the great eastern cities will also enjoy Klemme Co-Operative Creamery Butter for their Thanksgiving Dinner.

Are you, as a loyal dairyman of this community, doing all you can tosupply this good eastern demand for butter made in your own Creamery? Sell your cream to us and patronize this Home Concern and share in the profits of this eastern trade we have developed for you.

On this Thanksgiving Day we are thankful for your loyal support and patronage, and we are thankful that with your help this Home Concern has become a Success.

Best Wishes To All—

Klemme Co-Op. Creamery Company

DER your Clover Seed now at rmers Elevator; can save you money. 1tc

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
NERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!

Pavey's

STORMIZING SHOP

EMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

dnesday, November 25, 1925

s (trade)	.50
s (Cash)	.49
TY HENS	.18
T HENS	.14
NDARD SPRINGS	.18
HORN SPRINGS	.14
KS	.12
ROOSTERS	.07
SE	.10
TERFAT	.55
TER (Kleme Creamery)	.53
CORN	.50
LLED CORN	.60
AT	$1.45
S	.30
LEY	.50—.55
	.65—.70
s (Top)	$11.60

Dorothy Croner celebrated her third birthday Tuesday, Nov. 24.

You can make your hens happy if you will read Kluck's ad this week.

Mis Gladys Buchan was a visitor at Mason City Saturday.

A. G. Koerner was a business caller at Garner Monday morning.

Ed. Jacobs was at Garner on business Monday.

Mr. P. M. Wilson was at Clarion Friday all day visiting with relatives and friends there.

Miss Anita Schuldt, of Cedar Falls is visiting at the Joe and August Schuldt home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Trafford and children, of Belmond, were callers at the R. W. Elder home, Sunday.

W. H. Trafford, of Belmond, was a business caller in Klemme yesterday.

The Thanksgiving services at the Methodist Church will begin at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning.

Arthur Wellemeyer and family drove to Charles City Sunday for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Hattie Lanahan spent Sunday with her parents and other relatives at Clarion.

We are now booking orders for Christmas Cards. Leave your order at the Times Office. Call in and see the beautiful samples. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson and daughter, of Forest City, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schuldt, Sunday.

News of Klemme and Vicinity

School teachers! Get your construction paper at the Times Office. 9x12 sheets, 16 colors, package of 52 sheets for 25c. 1tc

The Basket Ball game here Friday night was well attended. Klemme won both games from Crystal Lake by a large score.

FOR SALE—German Police Pups, thorobreds. Vic Hueneman, Klemme Phone 811, Garner mail route. 2wp.

Ralph Elder drove to Austin, Minnesota Friday morning to look after his farm near there. He returned to Klemme the following noon.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

The W. F. M. S. announce that the regular meeting has been postponed until next Thursday, Dec. 3rd. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. D. Gimer.

Miss Minnie Lenz spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gibbs. She is planning on eating Thanksgiving dinner with them also.

FOR SALE—S. C. R. I. Red Cockerels, Payne Exhibition Bred. Highest egg production, March hatched. $1.50 to $5.00. Mrs. John Josten. 1wc.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Gimer entertained out of town company. Those present were Mr. Gimer's sister, Mrs. Holman, his brothers Lou Gimer, Howard Gimer, wife and child, all f Abbott, Iowa.

The many Klemme friends of Mrs. John Baumgartner will be glad to hear that she is again at her home and improving rapidly. Mrs. Baumgartner spent over two months 'n the hospital at Mason City.

FOR SALE—P. B. Chester White boars of the smooth, stretchy type, the best I have offered for sale. New blood lines for old customers, cholera immune. Erith Cook, Kanawha phone and mail. 4wc

We stopped to look at the German Police pups that Vic Huenemann advertises for sale, the other evening. They are sure dandies and are thorobreds. Vic should find a ready sale for these popular dogs.

A fine improvement is being made at the First National Bank. They are having battleship cork linoleum laid on the floors in the accounting room. The new floor covering is about the nicest that can be put into a building.

J. J. Poort drove to Spencer Saturday morning for a short visit with his wife who is visiting her aunt at that place and is also taking treatments. Mrs. Poort is improving rapidly and will soon be able to return home.

Mrs. Lena Schroeder will spend Thanksgiving with her daughter, Adella, at Ames and will remain for a few days visit. She will accompany Edwin Bock, who is driving to Ames to look over the school as he is planning to attend there next year if he likes it.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Mitchell drove down from Swea City Sunday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus and other Klemme relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell have planned to come to Klemme again for a big Christmas dinner and from here they will leave for California, to be gone on a six week's vacation.

Mrs. Henry Church is enjoying a visit from her sister, Mrs. J. W. Walker, of Marysville, California. Mrs. Walker says that oranges out there are selling for $1.25 a dozen, while here in Klemme they are from 60 to 70 cents a dozen. Mrs. Walker also plans to visit a sister in Canada after completing her stay here.

Another business change was made in Klemme this week when Mr. Gus Abels sold his pool room business to Sam Harvey. The deal was closed Monday and Mr. Harvey took immediate possession. Mr. Harvey is planning to re-paint the place and fix it all up in fine shape. We are sure Sam will enjoy a good business.

Mrs. Chris Back received the sad news Friday that her father at Blairstown was seriously injured while walking down the road and was struck by a car. Mr. and Mrs. Back left immediately for Blairstown and ner father died shortly after they arrived. He never regained consciousness after the accident.

R. A. Jorgenson, Jr., was five years old November 17th, but Tuesday was not a convenient day to celebrate so the "feed" was postponed until Sunday when Grandpa and Grandma Jorgenson came down from Garner to help him out. J. J. Port and children were also present to help the future editor stowe away a chicken dinner.

Mrs. C. A. Arnold entertained her Sunday school class of ten boys to a chicken dinner at her home Sunday. The dinner was given in honor of Wilbur Arnold, who has not missed a Sunday in a year of being present in the class. The boys all report that they had a fine time. And if these chicken dinners are any inducement, we wager that Mrs. Arnold will be serving at least nine more during the year, as the boys are going to try to equal Wilbur's record!

TRAPPED OUT OF SEASON

Deputy Game Warden W. S. Montgomery, of Keokuk, and Deputy Sheriff Beckley of Bloomfield, made an unexpected visit to the J. H. Walker farm in Roscoe township, Davis county, where they found sixty-one pieces of fur in the attic of the Walker home which are alleged to have been caught out of season. The furs included eight coon skins, one mink and fifty-two muskrat pelts. The furs were confiscated and Walker was fined $50 and costs amounting to $63 in all. At that Waklre was lucky as he could have been fined as much as $6,100 if a case had been made out of each seperate piece of fur confiscated.

HOW DID THESE MEN "GET BY"?

At Centerville, Appanoose county, a flock of geese, possibly attracted by the glare of the electric lights, circled around over the city all night. Two men there went out just at daybreak and bagged eighty geese and two ducks. A similar ocurrence took place at Seymour, a neighboring town, about the same time. If this story is correct it would be interesting to know how the men squared themselves with the state game warden. The law limits the number of such fowls that may be killed in a day to ten for each person.

CARP WERE "PLANTED" IN IOWA; BUT NOW A PEST

Seining "soft" fish from Iowa lakes and streams is now under way, directed by the state fish and game warden. Carp and buffalo are the varieties that are sought. Years ago Father Clarkson, the editor of the agricultural department of the old Iowa State Register, made urgent plea for the "planting" of German carp in Iowa ponds, rivers and lakes, claiming that they were the most practical fish for inland waters. The advice of the nestor of agricultural journalism was quite generally followed, but German carp proved to be scavengers, destructive to the spawn of all other varieties and a menance to the better kinds of fish. They have multiplied until their destruction is sought if Iowa waters are to be stocked successfully with game varieties.

DIVORCES ON DECREASE

Divorces in Iowa for 1924 showed a decrease of 542, or 12.5 per cent as compared with the number for 1923. While divorces decreased, marriages increased 1,339 or 5.7 per cent as compared with 1923. The number of marriages for 1924 was 24,8555 as compared to 23,516. For the divorces the figures were 3,784 as agianst 4,326 in 1923.

Most grade or scrub farm animals have names. Why not give the farm a name too?

DR. R. E. PORTER
Chiropractic Health Service
North Side Main Street
Phone 312 Belmond. Iowa

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

Storm Doors

Order your storm doors and storm windows at once.

Corn Cribs

We have on hand Slat and Wire Corn Cribs. Price is right.

Fencing

Will give spring dating on Woven Wire Fencing---So do your fencing this fall.

Complete line of everything

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

OIL and GREASE--

Alcohol, Etc. For Winter Driving

We carry a full line of oils and grease of all kinds and it will pay you to buy here.

FRENCH AUTO OIL—In Medium or Light Grades.

ZERO OIL—We carry a high grade of Zero Oil, especially for winter driving.

GREASE—We carry a complete line of all kinds of grease and hard oil, both in bulk and in cans.

ALCOHOL—We carry a high grade of Alcohol for Radiators.

TESTERS—Get a battery and alcohol tester and be sure of taking no chances for winter driving. We have 'em here.,

TOOLS—Need a good pair of pliers, some wrenches, etc., for the car tool-kit? We carry a complete line.

E. F. Jacobs

CARLOAD OF

Oyster Shells

In Transit--Here Two Days Only.

We are stoppng a car load of OYSTER SHELLS on the way through Klemme, and the car will be here for ONLY TWO DAYS!

We have made special arrangements to have this car stopped at Klemme so we could save our customers money on their OYSTER SHELLS for this winter. Ahis car is loaded with only the best PILOT OYSTER SHELLS.

SAVE ONMEY——SOLD OFF CAR

Put in your order AT ONCE so we can call you when the car arrives, as the prices we are quoting are OFF CAR ONLY. Ask us about it. Car expected latter part of this week or first of next week.

Footwear Bargains

HOOD'S "BULL'S EYE" HIGH GRADE
4-Buckle All-Rubber Overshoe
Special At only
$3.95

ALL LEATHER AND GUARANTTED WORK SHOE, Can't Be beat At This Special Price
$2.25

The above bargains in footwear are high stuff, selected from our regular line.

Full Line Of Ladies' ZIPPER BOOTS NOW ON HAND——Prices are right!

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Carload Of Flour and Feed

Due To Arrive Soon!

This car consists of:

MAPLESOTA FLOUR
Bran & Oil Meal

Place your orders now for your winter's supply--our prices save you money on Flour and Feed. Full line of other Mill Feeds on hand.

COAL OF ALL KINDS ON HAND
$8.00 to $10.25 per ton

Klemme Co.Op- Grain Company

The Farmers' Elevator

Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION
25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

Printer's Sick Stomach and Headaches Almost Cost Job

Mr. K. M. Collins of Woodhaven, N. Y., says, "Instead of plodding through my work wearily on account of sick headaches and sour stomach, I now enjoy good health and ambition, can do more and better work and life is worth living. I have never before given my name to advertise a medicine, but you cannot imagine how different I feel since I discovered Carter's Little Liver Pills."

Carter's Little Liver Pills tonic the whole system through the liver and bowels. They act as a mild and effective laxative, in a gentle manner without any bad after effects.

Recommended and for sale by all drug stores.

Quick Safe Relief

CORNS

In one minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns At drug and shoe stores

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on - the pain is gone

GASTRITIS IS DANGEROUS STOP IT QUICK

When your stomach is bloated—when it is so distended with gas that pressure on the heart almost suffocates you

What are you going to do?

Take a chance or get rid of the gas quick?

The one big selling stomach medicine today is Dare's Mentha Pepsin and its mighty power to relieve terrible gastritis, acute or chronic is a blessing to tens of thousands of people who have been unable to get help from any other source.

It's splendid for any stomach trouble—is Dare's Mentha Pepsin.

So when your food won't digest or gas, bloating or shortness of breath cause you to become nervous or dizzy or have a headache always remember that you can get one bottle—of Dare's Mentha Pepsin from your druggist and if it doesn't help your disordered stomach—your money will be returned.

Indispensable

A S a safe, soothing and healing dressing for cuts, scalds, burns, roughened, dry and chapped skin and for all common skin troubles, "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly has been indispensable to medical men and mothers for over half a century. Keep a jar or a tube handy.

Look for the trade-mark "Vaseline." It is your protection.

CHESEBROUGH MFG. COMPANY
(Consolidated)
17 State Street New York

Vaseline
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF
PETROLEUM JELLY

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE

FOR NERVOUS AILMENTS

PRICE $1.50
Write for FREE BOOKLET
If your druggist cannot supply you, order forwarding charges prepaid, from
KOENIG MEDICINE CO.
3048 N. WELLS ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

Our Thanksgiving

by Emily Burks Adams

WE HAVE all heard remarks similar to the following: "Well, I don't know what I have to be thankful for! Just think of the money we have lost, and then we had to give up our dear one. It just seems like our lot is worse than anybody's!"

One, on hearing such, feels like singing, "Look all around you, find some one in need, help somebody today." We thankless creatures! The only thing that occasions such a remark is the fact that we are all blessed with too much. We are all millionaires, if we would but take into account our wonderful opportunities and the grand privileges with which God has endowed us. When one has a feeling that his is a sorrowful plight, he has only to look around to see many in worse circumstances. We are too prone to count money a great asset, and if we do not figure a large bank account on which to draw, or live in a mansion, like unto our neighbor, we are inclined to feel that our blessings are few. Money never made a home. A mansion oftimes shelters that which falls short of being a home.

What is a home? Home is the abiding place of man, where contentment is, and love abounds. A place where children make you glad; where children play and laughter resounds; where friends may come and take away some kindly thought to help each day.

The one great thing for which we can all be thankful, and it reaches hovel and palace, and is more pronounced than at any period since the days or our Pilgrim fathers—is the great love being manifested by humanity. We have all learned that we cannot exist, one without the other.

Water never rises above the source. The home is the source of civilization, and we have awakened to the fact that the humblest home, the vilest hovel, have a place in the great scheme of American civilization. Truly we are our brothers' keeper; we cannot live unto ourselves nor can we rise above the source—the nucleus of civilization—the home. All our great leaders have come to this realization. The ministers are advocating social and community service—the government is backing it. The nation has failed to become christianized from within the four walls of churches, and so on every hand is a cry for social betterment—a call for the best of our talents to be used for the development of boys and girls socially. Back to the home is the slogan, for unless our homes are perfected, our community bettered and our love for humanity strengthened, our nation cannot attain the highest standard.

"Home Is Where Contentment Is, and Love Abounds."

So for this great move we are thankful, and as we render our thanks to God, let us pledge ourselves anew, realizing more fully our responsibilities to our home, to our community and to God.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

A CHEERFUL GUY

I have absolutely nothing to be thankful for.

You can be thankful you're not dead, can't you?

What! And me carrying a big life insurance.

We're Thankful

We're thankful for Mayflower Pilgrims—
Those people of sturdy stock
Whose ocean was thirty thousand miles,
When counted by the clock.

Those travelers came with high purpose,
"The Book" they brought along,
And they've given us, as inheritance,
God, and the Freeman's song.
—Rebecca F. McKay, in Chicago Post.

God's Goodness

God's goodness hath been great to thee. Let never day nor night unhallowed pass. But still remember what the Lord hath done.—Shakespeare.

A BOY'S OPINION of THANKSGIVING

by Mary Graham Bonner

WHEN I go out to parties
I never eat all I can,
Yet they say that I must grow
So I'll become a strong man.

When I go out to dinner
I have to be too polite
Yet if I don't grow a lot
I'll be a miserable sight.

Once a year I get a chance
And add strength and height this way.
I don't think boys could ever be men
Were it not for Thanksgiving Day!

(Copyright, 1925, Western Newspaper Union)

WHAT THANKSGIVING SHOULD MEAN TO US

Pilgrim Men and Women at Plymouth Set Example.

THANKSGIVING is a day unique in the list of holidays—not perhaps, so unique in its conception as in the meaning which the day has come to have. We think of it as a day of getting together. The dinner is its symbol. Faith in the goodness of God and a reverent and formal prayer of thanksgiving for His bounty is its avowed purpose.

But its greatest profit to us may come from the thoughts it invokes of that little band of hardy men and women who knew what it meant to face hunger; to know hunger and stick to an appointed task. That task happened to be the opening up of that new land which was destined to provide so bountifully for you and me who have inherited it.

They were stickers—those from whom this heritage has come down. Hardy? Yes; but with a ruggedness that was not alone a physical attribute. They experienced the primal lessons: want, fear, and the need of strife. But they stuck. And they won. That first Thanksgiving day was for them a solemn rite. If they—that band of Pilgrim men and women—could feel so honestly thankful for God's bounty as it was measured out to them at Plymouth in 1621, what one of us in this day and generation but needs be ashamed to feel less. It was a solemn occasion, but how could they else but be happy? Let us be happy on this Thanksgiving day. But, too, let us not forget.—Frank H. Sweet.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Thanksgiving Praise

Alone, dear Lord, of all my nights and days,
I cannot sing Thy goodness, far too vast
For my weak utterance. Let me humbly cast
Upon the sweep of universal praise
My single tribute; let the morning raise
My anthems for me; let the storied past,
In varied hallelujahs nobly massed,
Exalt the infinite story of Thy ways.
Where'er the blossoms glad in loveliness
Reflect Thy beauty, or the bird's bright song
Has holy skill the Father's love to bless,
Or where the shining stars through ages long
The soul of worship silently express,
Grant me a lowly place in that thanksgiving throng.
—Amos R. Wells, in the Continent.

THE ARTIST OF THE DAY

Nice Things for Christmas Gifts

Among Favorite Gifts

Painted metal shoe trees are among the old favorites in gifts that appear in new guise this year. On a black pair grotesque faces promise smiling and faithful service to a master, and on a blue pair pretty pink blossoms bespeak a mistress' approval.

Lo, the Poor Indian

Great will be the elation of the small boy who wakes up on Christmas morning to find himself in possession of an Indian camp, with trees, tepees, men and squaws on a green-covered board. These are all made of crepe paper and wire, which is wound with strips of the paper to fashion the figures. Small canoes may be made of paper or real birch bark, blankets of bits of cloth and war bonnets of tiny feathers or paper.

Clever Sewing Bag

A clever work bag that every woman will like has made its appearance among novelties for Christmas. It may be used as a sewing bag or to carry one's knitting, or other pickup work, to the club or elsewhere. Nothing more unusual than an old straw hat crown, some figured silk and lamp shade or bead fringe is needed to make it. The straw bottom is lined with plain sateen and the top closed with a silk cord.

Scroll Saw Toys

All kinds of figures—animals or children, cut from printed crepe paper, make captivating toys when pasted to thin board and sawed out with a scroll saw. Little Boy Blue and a dancing girl are pictured. They are glued to little wooden blocks.

Cuticura Soap for the Complexion.

Nothing better than Cuticura Soap daily and Ointment now and then as needed to make the complexion clear, scalp clean and hands soft and white. Add to this the fascinating, fragrant Cuticura Talcum, and you have the Cuticura Toilet Trio.—Advertisement.

Many will suffer if you are not true.

Burning Skin Diseases

quickly relieved and healed by Cole's Carbolisalve. Leaves no scars. No medicine chest complete without it. 30c and 60c at druggists, or J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

The miser hoards himself poor.

Boschee's Syr
HAS BEEN
Relieving Coug for 59 Yea
Carry a bottle your car and always keep it in house. 30c and 90c at all druggi

BATHE TIRED EYES
with Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1169 River, Troy N. Y. Booklet.

Discontent is want of self-reli

FOR Neuralgia

BAYER ASPIRIN

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Neuralgia Colds Neuritis Lumbago
Headache Pain Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

"Why, Uncle Jim! You look ten years younger!"

"When I saw you a couple of months ago, I made up my mind you were getting old. At least you looked it."

"Yes, Billie, and I felt old. No appetite, couldn't sleep nights—one day just like another, and none of them any good. I knew constipation was at the bottom of it, but it seemed the more laxatives I took the worse I got. Then one day I saw Nell giving Nujol to my little grandson. The doctor had prescribed it for the baby, but I found out it's just the thing for old fellows like me, too.

"I tell you, Billie, it keeps me feeling fine all the time. My appetite's back and I sleep like a child. If I look any younger, Nujol gets the credit."

Nujol helps Nature in Nature's own way

Middle age brings on a decrease in the natural lubricating secretions in the intestine. Then you need Nujol. It supplies the deficiency of the natural lubricant. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is gentle, safe and natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. Nujol simply softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles. It is not a medicine.

You can take Nujol for any length of time without ill effects. It should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

Nujol
THE INTERNAL LUBRICANT
For Constipation

EAT YEAST FOAM for Boils and Pimples

Don't endure an unsightly skin with this simple, effective remedy available!

Yeast Foam not only clears the skin but it overcomes constipation, relieves indigestion and most astonishingly builds up weight, strength and energy in run-down sickly people.

Drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let stand for five minutes; stir; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate. Or, if you prefer, eat the yeast with a cracker or a piece of butter.

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health," also a sample of Yeast Foam, without obligation.

Name_____

Address_____

W. N. U.

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

The Old Standby in a New Dress

The New Package

—the same dependable remedy that over a period of more than fifty years has been found so reliable in the treatment of catarrh and diseases of catarrhal nature.

The outside of the package only has been altered. To facilitate packing and reduce breakage in shipping, the paper wrapper which has identified the Pe-ru-na bottle for many years has been displaced by a substantial pasteboard carton.

Pe-ru-na cannot be made any better. Three generations of users testify that Pe-ru-na is the best remedy in the world for catarrh and diseases of catarrhal origin.

The remedy our fathers and grandfathers used with so much satisfaction is still the standby for the ills of everyday in thousands of American homes.

PE-RU-NA

The Original and Reliable Remedy for Catarrh

Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid

Send 4 Cents for booklet on catarrh to the Pe-ru-na Company, Columbus, Ohio

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, and accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

WANT FARMS FOR CASH BUYERS. Submit price and description. Garner, Valley Bank Bldg., Des Moines, Iowa.

Artistic Cleaning & Dyeing Co.
9th and Keosauquaway, Des Moines, Iowa
We live up to our name—"Iowa's Largest Cleaners and Dyers." It will be to our mutual interest by giving us your cleaning and dyeing. Our prices are moderate. A trial order will convince you.

CREAM WANTED
Ship Direct for Best Prices
If we have no buying station in your town, ship direct—You get all the profit. Cans furnished at wholesale prices. Write for tags and further information.
DES MOINES CREAMERY CO.
305 S.W. 3rd St. Des Moines, Iowa

HOTEL ELLIOTT
Fourth Street - Des Moines, Iowa
A Pleasant, Home-like Hotel
Rates: $1.25 to $2.00. Centrally Located.

WILL BUY TOWN PROPERTY AND ACREAGE IN FLORIDA. Describe fully giving lowest cash price. T. L. Armstrong, 1560 N. Fort Harrison Ave., Clearwater, Fla.

MOTHER GRAY'S POWDERS BENEFIT MANY CHILDREN

Thousands of mothers have found Mother Gray's Sweet Powders an excellent remedy for children complaining of Headaches, Colds, Feverishness, Worms, Stomach Troubles and other irregularities from which children suffer these days and excellent results are accomplished by its use. They break up colds and regulate the bowels. Used and recommended by Mothers for over 30 years. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Trial package FREE. Address, Mother Gray Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Stops Itching
Peterson's Ointment

To the millions of grateful sufferers who know about the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment for old sores, ulcers, piles, sore feet and chafing Peterson says, "use it for skin and scalp itch; it never disappoints." All druggists, 60 cents.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 48--1925.

PLAIN TYPES IN WINTER COATS; SMALL HATS FOR MIDWINTER

ONCE upon a time some wise authority maintained that beauty, in its best phases, has a touch of austerity about it. This seems to be true in the matter of winter coats for daytime wear, for, in a world of endlessly varied and much befurred styles, the quietly smart, plainer types find many sponsors among well-dressed women everywhere. Perhaps their cause is promoted by the partial eclipse of the two-piece tailored suit which has the same restraint in style and the same general usefulness.

Handsome and Popular Coat.

A handsome and popular coat of this smartly simple character is illustrated here and the picture leaves nothing untold except its color and material. The color is a warm brown in a lustrous pile fabric, with fox fur collar in shades of brown. There is a slight flare in the skirt, accomplished by means of two inverted plaits that begin under a simulated pocket, which is embellished with rows of silk braid. There are three handsome buttons at the low front fastening. These are the short and simple annals of a rich but plain model. The style fails short of austerity because more or less caplike or bonnetlike. The majority of them have brims that turn upward at the front and the numberless ways in which these upturning brims are varied is really marvelous. Hats of satin and silk usually have bands or coronets in place of brims, but they are as greatly varied as the felt and velours shapes. Among the newest decorations are painted floral designs covered with ground glass that makes them look like enameled figures, and figures of animals outlined on the hat with tiny rhinestones, drooping open-flue ostrich plumes, scrolls and floral motifs of braid, chenille and silk cord couched with silk thread.

The shapes and materials shown in the group of five hats pictured reveal some of the high lights of the mode in small midwinter headwear. Velvet accounts for the small hat, with scarf to match, at the upper left, which may be made in any color, lined with crepe de chine in a contrasting shade. A small feather ornament on the hat repeats the color used for lining the scarf. A satin hat, at the right, is covered with accurate machine stitching and finished with a soft pompon and falling tassel of silk. A velours hat with chiffon drapery and trailing ostrich plume holds the center of the group. New versions of this hat are made of black satin with long plumes in orange, rose or other high colors. At the lower left of the group another velours hat reveals cut-out work backed with metallic fabric and over this a covered silk cord wriggles in snaky curves. A jeweled pin with double head is thrust through the crown. The group is completed by a felt hat that reverses the usual brim movement by having its upturn in the back. Chenille and metallic braid make the odd decoration.

Midwinter Hats.

of a luxurious quality in the coat fabric and the beautiful fur collar. Fur is variously managed on coats of this type, appearing in bandings on cuffs and collars, in long revers and in emplacements on collars and cuffs, made of the coat fabric. There are also models with a wider flare in the skirt at the sides, diagonal front, openings and varied small details of finishing, such as embroidered arrow heads at the top of godets, that give them distinction.

After a long period of success the little hat for street wear finds itself at the very peak of popularity—with every indication that it will maintain its position as long as the weather calls for fur collars and fur coats. It goes on merrily selling and all the milliner has to do is to think up new ways of adding to its allurements.

The little hat—for street wear—is made of velours, felt, satin, silk or velvet and as for shapes they are all

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

First Crop Paid for His Land

"IN 1920," says Mr. Adolph Bellard, of St. Paul de Metis, a district in Alberta, Canada, "I had twenty-five acres of wheat, which yielded forty bushels per acre."

Forty bushels per acre!

With wheat at, say, $1.50 per bushel, forty bushels give a return of $60.00 per acre.

Yet, you can buy land in Canada capable of growing the best wheat in the world for $15.00 to $20.00 per acre!

Started With $1,500.00
Now Worth $20,000.00

Adolph Bellard came to Canada from Rice Lake, Wisconsin, in 1911, with $1,500.00 capital. He settled in the "park" country of Central Alberta—mixed prairie and woodland. To-day, he is worth $20,000.00, owns a half section of fine, rich land, with good buildings and all the necessary livestock and equipment. "This is a splendid country," says he, "with plenty of water, trees and shelter for cattle, which run out all Winter."

There is a New Opportunity For You in Canada

Canada, your great and busy neighbor, offers you a new opportunity such as is not to be found in older lands. Canada, with its rich, low-priced lands and bigger crops at lower cost, is a country of real opportunity. Think of the advantages for your boys and girls to grow up where fertile farms of their own may be had at low cost.

Canada, your near neighbor, just across an imaginary line, offers you this chance; friendly folk, thrifty, law-abiding and industrious. You will enjoy free political institutions, free public schools, and an ordered Government, based on the free will of a free people.

Canada has great areas of rich, fertile, virgin land awaiting improvement along the railroads, at prices ranging from $15.00 to $20.00 per acre. Fully improved farms at somewhat higher prices, with long terms of payment if desired. Free homesteads, farther back, for pioneers. This is the supreme chance of the present generation. Come to Canada. Pamphlets with full particulars free. Use this coupon.

Bigger Crops Lower Cost

Department of Immigration and Colonization
Room A-370 Ottawa, Canada

Please send me your free book on Farm Opportunities in Canada.

Name .....
Address ..... R.F.D. .....
Town ..... State .....
(Write name and address plainly)

873

Yeast Foam

Home bread-makers everywhere prefer it

The best way to learn to cook—begin making bread.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago

Use Cuticura Soap And Ointment To Heal Sore Hands

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Stiff, swollen, inflamed, rheumatic joints should be treated with a remedy made for just that purpose only.

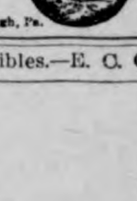
Remember the name of this discovery is Joint-Ease and it will take out the agony, reduce the swelling and limber up any troubled joint after ordinary cure-alls have miserably failed. Just rub it on—60c a tube at any drug store—ask for Joint-Ease.

Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.

A Health Builder

HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters is a wholesome tonic. Keeps the stomach in good condition and improves the appetite.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS



At All Druggists

THE HOSTETTER CO., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Bottle your blues.—M. C. R.

"DIAMOND DYES" COLOR THINGS NEW

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings—everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Don't pamper your reveries.—B. S.

Don't feature your foibles.—E. C. O.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless - No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

In bed four months ... now a well man

Gives Tanlac full credit.

*Over twelve years of stomach misery had made a physical wreck of Jacob Ferdinand. He spent hundreds of dollars seeking relief but every attempt failed until he tried Tanlac.

This great tonic brought him immediate relief. "After seven bottles," he says, "I am a well and happy man. I will gladly talk to anyone personally and will answer all letters regarding my experience with Tanlac. For it proved a god-send to me."

*Authentic statement. Address on request.

Tanlac is Nature's great Tonic and builder. Compounded after the famous Tanlac formula, from roots, barks and curative herbs alone, it is absolutely harmless. Millions owe their health and happiness to this great remedy.

Don't let stomach trouble make your life miserable a day longer. Get a bottle of Tanlac at your druggist's at once. The first dose will make you feel better. You'll be a new person with the sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks that come from perfect health.

NOTE: For Constipation, take Tanlac Vegetable Pills, Nature's own harmless laxative.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

Notice Of Change In Subscription Price Effective Jan. 1st

THE KLEMME TIMES

PAYABLE IN ADVANCE

NEW RATES

1 Year in Hancock County	$2.00
1 year, outside of Connty in Iowa	2.00
1 year, outside of State	2.50
1 year, Outside U. S.	3.00

Special Offer Good Until January 1st, 1926

Until January 1st, we will accept subscriptions to The Klemme Times at the old rate of $1.50 per year in Hancock County and vicinity; $2.00 per year outside of this vicinity.

TWO YEAR LIMIT

However, we will only accept a renewal at the old rate for 2 years in advance. SAVE MONEY by taking advantage of this SPECIAL OFFER--pay up your back subscription and save a dollar by paying for two years in advance.

SAVE MONEY SUBSCRIBE TODAY:

The Klemme Times

Your Home Town Newspaper

THE KLEMME TIMES

ntieth Year—Number 13. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

OO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY--18 DAYS

OHN GRUETZMACHER PASSED AWAY MONDAY MORNING

WAS PIONEER BUSINESS MAN

AS IN BUSINESS HERE FOR GREAT NUMBER OF YEARS

as Prominent In Town Affairs And Official In Church

The people of this comunity were adly shocked when the news was pread about that Mr. John Gruetzmacher had passed away at eight o'clock Monday morning.

Mr. Gruetzmacher felt in his usual good health Sunday morning and was up and about the house. At about ten o'clock he was getting ready to go to Garner with his wife and daughter to spend the day with relatives. He felt a dizzy spell overcome him and called to his wife who assisted him to his chair in the living room and after a few moments announced that he felt better and instead of going to Garner thought perhaps he would go to church instead. He talked with the family and with his brother Charlie and family who had been visiting them and bade them good-bye as they were about to leave for their Minneapolis home. A little later he was questioned by his daughter, Huldah as to how he felt and he replied, "I am alright, the dear Lord is with us all." These were the last words he spoke and he seemed to have another dizzy spell and a doctor was summoned. At eleven o'clock he fell into a deep, peaceful sleep from which he did not again awake. He passed away peacefully to meet his Master.

John Gruetzmacher was born in Columbus, Wisconsin on October 21, 1854, and died at his home in Klemme, Iowa, Monday, November 30, 1925, at the age of 71 years.

Mr. Gruetzmacner has been a familiar figure in Klemme for a great number of years. In fact, he is one of the pioneers of this section of the county. He first entered the grain business in Klemme quite a number of years ago and ran an elevator for a number of years.

Mr. Gruetzmacher was postmaster in Klemme for a period of eighteen years, and during this time his brother, George, joined him and together they entered the hardware and implement business, which they conductd for a number of years. Mr. Gruetzmacher's daughters took charge of the post office for him during part of the time he was in the hardware store.

Some seven years ago, Esther, a daughter became ill and she was taken to Colorado for her health, and it was at this time that the two brothers sold their store o E. F. Jacobs.

Afer the death of Esther the family returned to Klemme and Mr. Gruetzmacher has since devoted his time to his home and church work, both of which he loved faithfully.

Besides being active in business Mr. Gruetzmacher was president of the school board for a number of years and was treasurer of the board at the time of his death.

He has been an active worker n the church during his entire life and faithfully attended the duties of his office.

As a man, we have known him for eight years and he was always jolly and cordial, a fairer man in business could not be found.

He was devoted to his home and there he was always happy to meet his friends and visit with them.

The funeral services are being held this afternoon at the Methodist Church and interment will be made in the Klemme Cemetery.

The obituary and sketch of Mr. Gruetzmacher's life will be published in the Times next week.

MERKEL—CHRISTIANS

Pretty Home Wedding Was Held At The Peter Merkel Home Yesterday

A very pretty home weeding took place at the Peter Merkel home, four miles east of Klemme on Wednesday, afternoon at 3:00 o'clock when Miss Anna Merkel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Merkel was given in marriage to Mr. Edward Christians, son of Mr. John Christians.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being blue and white. The couple was attended by Mr. Ernest Merkel, cousin of the bride and Miss Grace Christians, sister of the groom.

Both the bride and bride's maid were gowned in blue, while he groom and best man wore the conventional black.

Promptly at 3:00 o'clock Mrs. Ben Merkel began playing the wedding march when the bridal couple and the attendants decended the stairs, led by the pastor, Rev. Gauger.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor after which congratulations were showered upon them by the happy company present.

A bounteous dinner was served after the ceremony.

The newlyweds were the recipients of numerous wedding presents.

They will leave for a wedding trip by auto, visiting points in Iowa and Illinois.

They expect later to occupy the farm now farmed by Peter Christians.

The Times joins with the many frinds of the happy couple in extending best wishes.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
A. W. Gauger, Pastor

Next Sunday is world's Bible Sunday. God gave the world but one greater revelation than the Bible and that was the gift of His only begotten Son f whom we are vividly reminded by this Advent Season.

"The Open Book, one of God's Greatest Revelations" will be our subject next Sunday morning.

Special music of rare type will constitute part of the servic.

The W. F. M. S. meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Gimer on Thursday afternoon will be held on Friday afternoon of this week.

T. B. TESTING IN HANCOCK COUNTY NOW COMPLETED

The testing of cattle in Hancock County for tuberculosis has now been completed and this county is now an accredited area.

On the final test there was les than one-third of one per cent of the cattle tested that were infected and that test puts the county on the accredited list.

The testing work has been going on now for several years and now that this is an accredited area, the stock shipped from Hancock county will bring an extra premium in the markets.

BASKET BALL GAMES HERE TOMORROW NIGHT, DEC. 4

There will be a double header basket ball game at the local gym tomorrow night, Friday, Dec. 4th. The Kleme high school boys will play the Alexander high school boys, and the Klemme Alumni Girls will play the Alumni Girls from Alexander.

OYSTER STEW!

Don't forget the Legion Oyster Stew at the Parish House, Tuesday, December 8th, at 8:00 o'clock. The ladies are urged to be present.

The next meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society is next Thursday, Dec. 10th at the Parish House. Mesdames Chris Gram and John Johnson are hostesses. New members welcomed.

Dairy Cow Efficient Food Producer

Properly built stalls cut down work and bacteria.

© Underwood & Underwood

Keep the utensils clean.

With increasing rentals and values of farm lands, dairy farming is rapidly replacing other types of live stock farming. A dairy cow producing 8,000 pounds of milk a year furnishes 1,000 pounds of dry matter, all of which is edible and digestible. A two year old steer weighing between 1,200 and 1,300 pounds furnishes about 550 pounds of dry matter, not all of which can be used for food. In other words a fairly good producing dairy cow furnishes twice as much edible dry matter in one year as a good two year old steer when he is killed for meat. A cow can be kept for additional years of service, while to replace the steer, another animal must be fed for a period of two years.

The United States consumption of milk per capita has increased from 42 gallons of whole milk in 1918 to more than 54 gallons in 1925.

With growing acceptance of milk as a food has come an increasing knowledge of the proper care of milk on the farm. Because odors from foods and animals in the cow stable are easily taken up by milk, injuring its flavor, they must not come in contact with the milk. Removal of the milk from the stable as soon as possible reduces the amount of dust and dirt entering it and keeps down the bacterial growth in the milk.

Bacteria increase rapidly in warm milk causing it to sour quickly. Removal of the animal heat from freshly drawn milk by lowering the temperature to that of cold well water (approximately 60° F.), greatly aids in preventing bacterial growth. A well lighted, well ventilated milk house, not too close to the stable, is also very helpful.

Cleanliness in the stable is vitally necessary. The stall platform should be just long enough for the cow to stand comfortably without room to spare; otherwise, the cow will become dirty from droppings when she lies down. The gutter should be wide and deep. A good gutter is 16 inches to 18 inches in width and 9 or 10 inches below the platform. Bedding should be clean and plenteous.

Long hair on the flanks, udders and tail above the switch of the dairy cow should be removed at regular intervals. Removing this long hair removes the clinging places of dirt which otherwise will fall into the milk pail in quantities. Keeping the hair short on these parts of the cow permits cleaning in much less time and more thoroughly. Brushing should never be neglected. It removes loose particles sticking to the body. When the hair is short, wiping the udders with a damp cloth just before milking, is an easy and important aid in securing clean milk.

It is generally recognized that most of the bacteria found in milk finds its source in dirt clinging to the cow and dropping into the pail during milking time. Simple precautions will practically eliminate this source of bacterial growth and dairymen find themselves well repaid for the little time necessary in taking such precautions.

Copyright 1925 News Bureau of Animal Husbandry

STUDENTS STUDYING BIBLE

More than 325 students of Iowa State College at Ames are taking courses in Bible study this fall in a school of religion conducted thru the united efforts of seven religious organizations.

The interest in such study has steadily increased during the four years that instruction has been offered by the school of religion says the Rev. Nelson P. Horn, director of the school. The first year 169 students enrolled in religious classes Last year there were 277.

By an arrangement with Iowa State college, under which the scholarship of the instructors and the quality of their work is scrutinized, completion of the religious course may be counted in a limited amount.

The work is financed by local religious organizations and by state and national educational boards of the different denominations. The courses are so arranged that they do not exclude people of any religious belief.

The subjects offered include ourses in "New and Old Testament"" Religions of Mankind," "Growth of Christianity,' 'Religious Education" "The Church at Work," and "Present Day Missions."

NASHUA FARMER HAS ODD EAR OF CORN

George Yunker, a farmer living near Nashua, has a curiosity in the corn line which is some pod corn that he raised this year. It is just like an ordinary ear of corn except that each kernel of corn on the ear is enclosed in a husk of its own. Mr. Yunker secured four kernels of thsi corn a year ago and planted it and obtained eleven stalks from the four kernels.

All members of the R. N. A. are urged to attend the meeting December 11th, at which time an election of officers will be held. At the hall at 3:00 p. m.

HERE'S ONE ON THE FARMER

The average Iowa farmer gets up at the alarm of a Connecticut clock, buttons his Chicago suspenders to Detroit overalls, washes his face with Cincinnati soap, sits down to a Grand Rapids table, eats Chicago meat and Minneapolis flour cooked with Texas cottolene on a Sears Roebuck stove. He goes out to the barn and puts a New York bridle on a Missouri mule fed with Colorado alfalfa, plows the farm covered by a Vermont mortgage with an Illinois plow. When bedtime comes he reads a chapter from the Bible printed in Boston, says a prayer written in Jerusalem, crawls under a blanket made in New Jersey only to be wakened by an Iowa dog, the only home product on the place. And then he wonders why in the H---- he cannot make money raising corn.

Try This

Cop: "Why didn't you stop when I yelled back there?"

Driver (great presence of mind: "I thought you said, 'Hello Senator.'"

Cop: "Well, you see Senator, I was going to warn you about going too fast in the next town."

The Greimann boys got their first wolf of the season Sunday. The animal was trailed from west of town north to a point a mile west of Garner where they shot it. Aaron, and Henry Greimann, Louie Knoke and Bill Houdek made up the party. Last year the Greimann's shot eight wolves and four foxes.

Have you paid your subscription? Remember after Jan. 1st the price will be raised 50 cents. Take advantage of our special offer. See large ad on last page.

Ben Katter has joined the international association of night hawks. He has a new radio installed at his home and hereafter sleep will mean nothing to him.

DOINGS OF THE WEEK REPORTED BY THE KLEMME SCHOOL

DOUBLE HEADER WON BY LOCALS

KLEMME CAGERS WIN SECOND BASKET BALL GAME

Another Walk Away At Crystal Lake Last Wednesday Night

The Klemme high school boys basket ball team, and the Alumni girls team went to Crystal Lake last week Wednesday night and played that school a return game.

The game was a repetition of the contest played here the week before. The fast Klemme boys team walked right away with the game and scored at will against the Crystal Lake boys. When the game ended Klemme tallied up 25 points against 4 for the Lake team.

The Klemme Alumni girls put up another good game and won by the score of 20 to 11.

Klemme has a good boys' team this year and also a strong second team and with this combination they should be able to win the long end of games scheduled for the season.

PARENT-TEACHERS TO EMPLOY SCHOOL NURSE

We were well pleased with the decision of the Parent-Tteacher Association to employ a nurse to make a physical examination of each pupil of our school and advise parents in case there are any physical defects operating against good school work.

Our local doctors, it seems, favored a nurse and it was voted to secure one if a good one could be obtained. Crystal Lake, Britt and Corwith have planned also to secure the services of a school nurse and we may find it to our advantgae to secure one who will do work in all of the schools mentioned.

School nurses are not a new adventure but have been employed for many years in larger communities. The health of school children is considered of such paramount importance that every precaution should be exercised to insure it.

Library To Be Started Here

The Association also went on record as favoring a small library or book exchange. The President of the Association was empowered to appoint a committee to submit plans for a beginning.

Reports Sent To Parents

Last week parents were sent reports of the credits made by their children during the second six weeks of the school year. We hope they may aid a bit toward avoiding failures. Repeating work is expensive to both tax-payers and parents.

Students with two E's in a subject or with an E and an F are in very great danger of failing in that subject. If they can do any extra work at home they should by all means do it. We are asking such students to do extra work at school and shall give them all of the aid and encouragement that is humanly possible. A's and B's of High School students will be announced next week.

Basket Ball Game

Our High School Boy's team will play Alexander boys here next Friday night. We hope to persuade the high school girls there to play our Alumni girls but as yet have not succeeded.

If but one game the admission will be 25 and 15 cents. Supt. Taylor of Garner will be here to officiate. The games will begin at 7:30 p. m.

List of A and B Pupils

The following pupils made more than average marks. A highest, B next.

GRADES 5 AND 6

xPaul Busch 4 A's and 5 B's.
xEmma Goll, 5 A's and 3 B's.
xGladys Schlichting, 5 A's and 2 B's.
xEthel Barz, 3 A's and 3 B's.
xNova Koerner, 5 B's and 2 A's.
xBlanche Gimer, 7 B's and 2 A's.
xKenneth Kluckhohn, 3 B's and 1A.
xClarence Kluckhohn 3 B's.
xByrnes Missman, 2 B's and 1 A.
xMildred Lemke, 2 B's and 1 A.
La Vohn Larsen, 4 B's and 1 A.
xDorance Day, 1 A and 1B.
Alvin Keeper, 2 B's.
xEldora Schwartz, 2 B's.
xThelma Kluckhohn, 1 A and 1 B.
Leon Lemke, 1 B.
xGracka Quandt, 1 A and 1 B.
Dale Schwartz, 1 A and 1 B.
Henry Smid, 1 A.
xIla Steeman, 1 A.
Asa Gibbs, 1 A.

In the same room those whose names are checked with "x" have been neither absent nor tardy. Others who have been neither absent nor tardy are as follows: Hilda Keeper, James Larsen.

GRADE 3

Mabel Schlichting, 4 A's and 1 B.
Bessie Larsen, 3 A's and 2 B's.
Elise Lau 2 A's and 3 B's.
Thomas Gimer, 1 A and 4 B's.
Bennie Schaper, 2 B's.
Everet Barz, 1 B.
Le Verle Schwartz, 2 B's.
Harriet Gibbs, 5 B's.
Ruth Wellemeyer, 4 B's.

GRADE 4

Verle Kerause 4 B's.
Marvin Griffen, 1 A and 7 B's.
Novella Bredbenner, 3 B's.
Irma Sampson, 1 B.

Pupils in Grades 1 and 2 who have been neither absent nor tardy since school opened this year are as follows:

Kenneth Griffen.
Milvern Barz.
Raymond Keeper.
Virginia Stille.
Jean Lau.
Nora Wellemeyer.

Pupils in the Second Grade earning perfect marks in spelling every day for six weeks are:

Franklin Kluckhohn.
Milvern Barz.
Kenneth Griffin.

Leo Brinkman has missed but two words in that time. A good record, boys, keep it up!

Some Deals In Dirt

HANCOCK COUNTY TRANSFERS IN REAL ESTATE
Deals On Record From November 28 To November 28, 1925

Otto J. Kloock to Carolyn G. Kloook. W. D., date 11-21-25, $1, lots 11-12 block 3 Driving Pard add. Garner.

Trade Name: Mason City Oil & Grease Co., owners, W. G. Hofer and S. P. Skovgaard.

Le Roy Merrick to R. E. Hanson. W. D., date 9-22-25, $700.00, lot 5 Auditor's Sub.-Div. of NE¼ 2-97-24.

Trade Name: Gillstrap Farm Loan Co., Crystal Lake, Iowa, owners Chris Gillstrap and Nate Gillstrap.

Katie Turner hus. to Alice C. Meade. W. D., date 11-5-23, $1.00, SW¼ 24-96-26.

Trade Name: Hofer & Skovgaard, W. C. Hofer Clear Lake, Iowa, and S. P. Skovgaard, Garner, Iowa.

Ella Schneider hus. to Emilie Arnold, W. D. ,date 11-5-25, $7,500.00, N½ 8 the N½ 6 of SE¼ 7. The und. ½ of SW¼ 8 & Und. ½ of E½ NW ¼ 17-94-23.

BASKET SOCIAL

There will be a community play and basket social at Ell No. 4, Friday, December 4. Ladies please bring baskets. Stella Huenemann, teacher. tc

NEARLY INSANE AT TIMES

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my housework half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble, I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 116 to 138 pounds. I feel so well I think I do not need any medicine now, but I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I hope it will do as much for them as it did for me."—Mrs. T. A. SAUNDERS, 711 E. Depot Street, Knoxville, Tenn.

You Need this Tonic

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

It tends to promote good health, strengthen the digestive organs and to keep the stomach in good condition. At All Druggists.

THE HOSTETTER CO., PITTSBURGH, PA.

To build you up

Ducks Have Air Routes

Wild ducks follow "passes" the same as a train follows the railroad. Up in Minnesota and North Dakota the sportsmen lease up all the points on the lakes covered by the duck "passes." They know the ducks will fly along such passes. Of the 10,000 lakes in Minnesota there are perhaps 9,000 in which a wild duck is never seen.—Capper's Weekly.

Is Your Work Hard?

Is your work wearing you out? Are you tortured with throbbing backache—feel tired, weak and worn out? Then look to your kidneys! Many occupations tend to weaken the kidneys. Constant backache, headaches, dizziness and rheumatic pains result. One suffers annoying kidney irregularities; feels nervous, irritable and worn out. Don't wait! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Workers everywhere recommend Doan's. They should help you, too. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

R. B. Struve, Traer, Iowa, says: "My kidneys were out of order and I had backache most of the time. When I did a hard day's work my back would give out and get so lame I could hardly straighten. When I stooped, I had sharp catches. My kidneys didn't act right, either. Doan's Pills put my kidneys in good order and my back was well and strong."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

STAND THEM ON THEIR HEADS

RAT-NIP

The one poison they can't resist. It gets them every time. Kills rats and mice quickly, positively and safely. A single tube has killed more than 100 rats in one night.

Simply spread on bread and put where rats can get it—they'll be dead in the morning.

Easy to use—your hands need never touch it.

In clean, screw-top metal tubes, 35 cents.

BUFFALO SPECIALTY CO., The LIQUID VENEER People, Buffalo, N. Y.

Garfield Tea

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

SKIN IRRITATIONS

For their immediate relief and healing doctors prescribe

Resinol

PRUDENCE'S DAUGHTER

"A PRESENT"

SYNOPSIS.—PART ONE—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, New York, Jerry (Geraldine) Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He admires her tremendously, and she likes him. But Allerton gets a bit exhilarated, with unfortunate results. Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly. The story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Des Moines. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of Art and asks her parents to let her go to New York for study. With some misgiving, they agree to her going. In New York Jerry makes her home with a Mrs. Delaney ("Minti"), an actress, who, with Theresa, a painter, occupies the house. Jerry takes an immediate liking to Theresa, who is talented and eccentric, and the two become fast friends. Jerry now devotes herself to Theresa, who returns her liking. Jerry poses for Theresa's masterpiece, "The Ocean Rider." Allerton calls on Jerry. The girl refuses to see him. At a hotel dinner Jerry sees Duane and is conscious of his admiration, but refuses to change her attitude toward him. Jerry becomes convinced she has not the ability to become an artist and gives her expensive painting equipment to an almost penniless girl student, Greta Val, who cannot understand her generosity.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

—8—

"Jealous! Not a bit of it. I'm just tired of supporting husbands, that's all."

"Well, the last two were—a little—uh—"

"I should say they were. One stole half the furniture to hock for booze, and the other made love to everybody in the house—including me—so you know he was crazy—and neither one of them earned a cent during their—their incumbency, as you might say. Well, suppose you go on down now, Mimi, you make me wild. I want to work."

"Isn't she polite, Jerry? I don't see how you can stand her. It makes me curious, just to look at her."

Mimi trailed out, in a fine hauteur, and closed the door upon the two girls.

"If you ever get married, Jerry," Theresa said, "don't let Mimi have anything to do with picking him out. She has the rottenest luck with husbands."

Jerry professed her entire disinclination for a husband of any picking. But her eyes were cloudy.

* * * * * * * *

A few nights later she saw Duane Allerton again. It was a studio dinner at Aimee Glorian's. While the other four of the little party played bridge, Jerry and Leonid Koraev, one of the new school of Russian actors, with whom New York abounds, washed and dried the dishes, and then turned on the phonograph, and tagoed gayly about the table in the center of the room where the others were playing. Leonid was obviously enchanted, Jerry gay and not deterring. He held her close in his arms, drawing her ardently closer at frequent intervals. Jerry laughed, thrust a bare white elbow between them, crooking it impudently almost in his very face, holding him a little away. Leonid kissed her arm. Jerry was looking up, directly into his eyes, teasing, laughing, as they danced slowly about.

He shifted his arm suddenly, crushing her elbow away, holding her so close that she was obliged to tilt back her head to avoid his face touching hers.

"I shall bite your chin if you do that again," she warned him merrily.

That was when she saw Duane, who had come in quietly and was standing in the shadow of a towering highboy in the corner. Jerry strove in vain to throw off the chill of depression, to smile with the same assiduous warmth upon Leonid. She could not.

The others at the table, quarreling fiercely over a hand, did not even stop to welcome Duane when he joined them. When Jerry and Leonid paused to hear the argument Duane hurriedly wound the phonograph and asked her to dance. Jerry shook her head.

"No, thanks. Not now. I'm tired." She even smiled a little, to deceive the others in the room.

Duane turned his back upon them, forcing her to withdraw from them a little and stand alone with him.

"Will you—after a little when you are rested?"

She shook her head again, smiling, not looking at him. "I fancy I shall be tired all evening," she said.

"You are more beautiful than ever Jerry."

"Thank you." She did not even flush beneath the warmth of his eyes. She would have returned to the table, but he retained her one instant longer. "Then you really prefer the violent Russian method to my more plebeian style?"

"Yes, very much."

They abandoned bridge, then, and played penny ante, the seven of them, gambling furiously for pennies. Jerry was very quiet, her hands like ice, but she kept a steady eye upon her cards, and after two hours was a winner by 42 cents. She said she knew it was playing a wicked poker to win and leave, but she had an appointment with Theresa at eleven, she must really go. Leonid also insisted he had an engagement uptown and would walk by Reilly's alley with her on his way for a bus. And they went out quickly, the others barely pausing in their play to say good-by, although Duane's eyes followed her to the door. She did not look back.

* * * * * * * *

Theresa surprised her one morning by asking abruptly:

"When are you going home, Jerry?"

Jerry blushed and marveled that she did so. She would have said she had never thought of going home.

"I don't know—perhaps not at all," she said confusedly. "I am not thinking of it—yet. Theresa, what do girls do when—there is nothing to do—and no reason for doing it?"

"God knows. I've often wondered," said Theresa tersely.

She had tried to help Jerry come into her own, had offered countless suggestions in that impersonal way of hers which kept her interest free from all intrusiveness. But to every suggestion Jerry had but the one answer:

"But why, Theresa? Why?"

For Jerry, still passionately in search of a raison d'etre, saw no enticement in a hard manual work which would wear her out mentally, physically—for the sake of earning a few dollars she did not need—depriving some other girl who did need it of just that same amount. It seemed to Jerry it would be little more than a robbery.

"Oh, Hello," She Said. "You Startled Me a Little."

Theresa watched her moodily during those days, wondering what would come of it, knowing that eventually Jerry would go home. "When you go home," she would say—not "if," and Jerry always flushed and answered stubbornly:

"But I do not know yet if I shall."

* * * * * * *

Theresa came to her door one night. Jerry was just ready to leave, going uptown to a theater with Aimee Glorian.

"Theresa, you go to bed," said Jerry crossly. "You look so tired. I just wish my Prudence could get hold of you for a few days. She'd make you step around!"

"I step around too much as it is," said Theresa, laughing faintly. "That's the trouble with me. But I am tired, Jerry. I am really going to rest."

"I'll believe that when I see it," said Jerry. "You're flesh may be tired, but it won't rest."

"You'll see, one of these days. Jerry, I have a present for you!"

Jerry was girlishly excited. "A present for me, Theresa? Where is it? What—"

"Leave your door unlocked. It will be in your room when you come back. I hope you are going to like it."

"Oh, Theresa, I know I shall love it. I can't imagine what—oh, Theresa, I hope—"

"You hope—what?"

"Oh, I shall love anything you give me, Theresa, you so seldom do things like that. But I hope it is just a little teeny scratch of yours—a splash of paint on an inch of canvas if no more. I should love something of yours. I've been wanting one so awfully much and—"

"You're very inquisitive," said Theresa. "But I shan't tell you a thing. It will be here when you come back."

"I've a big notion not to go at all," declared Jerry. "I don't care for the old show—I want to see my present."

"You go along." Theresa tossed her wrap from the chair across her shoulders. She followed her out into the hall and leaned over the banister as Jerry stood on the second step below, smiling up at her. "Jerry, you wished once that I might have been your sister. Do you still?"

"Yes, more than ever."

"I wish so, too," Theresa acknowledged soberly. "But of course it couldn't possibly be, not by any manner of means." She hesitated a little. "The things that go into making a Jerry, and those that go into a Theresa— Oh, no, not by the wildest stretch of imagination." She laughed a little, ruefully, and, leaning over, kissed Jerry suddenly on the top of her head. "Run along now, and be a good girl."

CHAPTER VII

And Jerry Saw Prudence

Jerry left Aimee at the entrance to Reilly's alley, hurriedly let herself into the house, and started up the stairs on a light run. She was impatient to see the present Theresa had left for her. She noticed no unnatural quiet in the house. And yet when she saw Mimi waiting for her at the top of the stairs, a lovely picture in her bright gown with trailing tinseled fringes, she felt a sudden chilling of her eagerness.

"Oh, hello," she said. "You startled me a little. You look like a solemn ghost in silk and fringe."

"Come into my room a while, will you?" Mimi asked, and there was a hollowness in her usually lilting voice. "Everybody's out. You're the first one home. I don't want to be alone."

Jerry, with her usual willingness to please, followed along into her sitting room in the rear of the narrow hall, an effective room, which Theresa found unbearably stuffy, but into which Mimi fitted to nice perfection, all shaded lights, with great bronze burners of pungent incense, oriental hangings, silken cushions.

"Sit here, dearie, in this light, it just suits you," Mimi said absently, from force of habit, tucking a cushion against Jerry's shoulder as she had done a hundred times before. "I'm frightfully upset. You don't mind my troubling you, do you? You are so soothing."

"Not a bit. I like it," Jerry spoke with truth. She loved being wanted. "But I hope it isn't a real trouble, just a little attack of moods."

Mimi lit a cigarette and sank among the cushions on the chaise longue, puffing a cloud of smoke about her. With the light on her face, Jerry could see that she was ghastly pale beneath the creamy layers of rouge and powder.

"It's Theresa." Her voice sounded almost irritable.

"She works too hard," Jerry assented. "We must take her in hand, and make her spare herself a little. I wanted her to go to the theater with us, but she would not hear of it."

"In a way I suppose she could hardly go tonight," Mimi spoke apologetically, the tone in which she always tried to excuse Theresa's abruptness. "Don't mind her, Jerry. She doesn't mean to be rude."

"I don't mind her. I think she's wonderful."

Mimi twisted her fingers into a rigid, knotted gnarl.

"She was wonderful,, but, but—she killed herself," she said hollowly.

Jerry cried out, struggled to her feet, and then sank back white and horrified among the cushions.

"Mimi—no—oh, don't," she cried. "You—mustn't say such things—you—frighten me."

Mimi inhaled a great gulp of cigarette smoke.

"They have taken her to Mietta's at the corner—you know, the one with flowers in the windows. I'm frightfully upset. It—it makes a wreck of one."

Jerry's hot young blood ran cold, a great blackness yawned before her eyes.

"This terrible woman is making a fool of me," she stammered aloud, incoherently.

"She shot herself. Right in the heart. There is blood all over the floor. She slashed her pictures—every one—with that little bronze dagger I brought her from Rome. Her room is a perfect mess. You—you don't mind my talking about it, do you, Jerry? I can't help it. I'm a wreck."

"N-no, of course not," Jerry stammered. "Of course not." After a moment, when she could speak, she asked in such a soft and pitiful voice: "Why did she, Mimi? She was so clever. Wasn't she happy?"

"I don't know why. Of course she was happy. Everyone said how brilliant she was, what a genius. She had a lover—she gave him up. She said she couldn't serve two masters. She was right. I tried it, and made a muddle of both. She was quite right. She didn't mind much—giving him up. She worshiped her pictures."

Jerry brooded over it bitterly. "I could have loved her much more," she said. "But she never seemed to want—too much."

Beautiful, unfathomable Theresa, what tragedies had underlain that tense alertness! Jerry cried a little.

"She might have left the pictures," Mimi chattered nervously, with cold lips. "Some of them were fine. I could have sold them for a great deal of money."

"Mimi, did she owe you money—Theresa?" Jerry's voice was eager. She should love to do that parting kindness to the memory of strange Theresa—to pay her final debts.

Mimi stared at her, shook her head. "Of course not. She owed nobody anything. We took this house together, but she has always borne the expense of it, from the very first."

"Um, she would," whispered Jerry, disappointed that she was denied that final happiness, but understanding Theresa with the cold but kindly hand.

"Oh, that is why she said good-by, and kissed me," Jerry whispered. "That's why she said she would—give me a present—"

Mimi caught upon the words hopefully. "A present! Theresa said it? Come, quickly."

They ran feverishly down the hall to Jerry's room and reached for the button, Mimi's hand ahead of Jerry's, flooding the room with light. They saw it instantly, standing out vivid and bright in the small room, propped upon the piano against the wall, Theresa's parting gift to the one who had most desired her—the "Ocean Rider," a tumult of green and white.

Jerry stood before it, sobbing piteously, twisting her hands together.

"Oh, Theresa, how could you?" she wept. And then, remembering Mimi, she tried to stifle her emotion, to be quiet, self-possessed. "She—she wasn't unhappy about it," she stammered weakly. "She was quite gay. She laughed at me and kissed me—" Her voice broke on the pitiful words. "Perhaps—she is really getting—rested, as she said."

"Come on back," said Mimi. "It makes me nervous. I never liked that picture. There is something so—defiant—about it."

They sat down opposite each other, stiffly, Jerry in the great chair, Mimi lighting another cigarette as she lay tense and rigid on the chaise longue. Looking at her suddenly Jerry realized that the painted woman in the trailing silken gown was broken-hearted, suffering things indescribable that her very thoughts were bleeding.

"Mimi, you loved Theresa, didn't you?"

That curious, clinging friendship between the young girl with her terrific energy, and the frivolous, light-hearted woman was the greatest mystery Jerry had touched upon in the great city.

Mimi smoked passionately, twisting the cigarette between her lips. Suddenly she tossed it into the fireplace, lit another. Her fingers were blue.

"You didn't know that I am Theresa's mother, did you, Jerry? I don't suppose she told you."

That was more than Jerry could bear. She broke into high, hysterical laughter.

"Mimi! Don't!"

Mimi nodded again. "She was my daughter." She began to explain with nervous intensity. "She called me Mudder when she was a little baby, but she grew up into such a funny, long-legged monster of a child! And I had—my admirers, my career. In the profession they want you always to remain young, unmarried and free. It was absurd to lay claim to youth with a great girl like Theresa brandishing my past in my face. So we fell into the way of using Mimi and Theresa. Lots of them do, on the stage. She liked it—Theresa liked it."

Jerry said nothing, could say nothing. Poor Theresa! She thought of the terrible, tragic loneliness of the brilliant young artist. Her mother she had sacrificed to youth and beauty, her love she had given up for Art. Now she was dead, glad of her freedom from a life which had only tired her. Jerry shuddered. She sat motionless, shocked beyond words.

"Oh, you are blaming me!" Mimi cried suddenly. "You do not understand! I tell you it is often done in the profession. We think nothing of it. You have never understood me, nor Theresa—none of us! You were never one of us!"

"No. I was never really one of you." Jerry did not resent it. She was glad.

"Theresa didn't mind. She liked it. From the time she was a baby she wanted to be free, to be left alone. She didn't like a fuss made over her."

Jerry shook her head, not grasping it. "Children—they never know what they want. But you, Mimi, didn't you want people to know? You should have been so proud of Theresa. My mother—why, she is even proud of me! She—when she meets people I have known she likes to introduce herself that way—just, 'I am Jerry's mother.'"

"I was proud of Theresa," insisted Mimi. "I know how wonderful she was. But—a woman can't stop being a woman just because she has a baby, can she? I had my life, my work, my lovers. Oh, everyone will blame me! But Theresa liked her freedom! She should have thought of me before she did this thing—she never thought of me—Art, always, before everything."

"But, Mimi," Jerry interrupted her, stammering, "if you are her mother, you must know why!"

Jerry is now more than ever adrift. The natural thing is for her to go home. But will she?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

All in Same Profession

The bride, the bridegroom, the best man, two bridesmaids and the uncle of the bride who gave her away were all doctors at a recent marriage ceremony in London.

Cocoa a Man's Drink

There's health in every drop!

BAKER'S BREAKFAST COCOA

Has a full rich flavor delicious to the taste; it is invigorating and sustaining.

Henry C. Sherman, Professor of Food Chemistry, Columbia University, in his book "Food Products" says: "Cocoa, in addition to the stimulating property, due to the alkaloid theobromine, and the flavor which makes it popular both as a beverage and in confectionery, has a considerable food value."

Walter Baker & Co. Ltd.
Established 1780
Dorchester, Mass.
MONTREAL, CANADA
Booklet of Choice Recipes sent free.

Take a last look at his whiskers

Diogenes has a new job

HE at last found his honest man making the Durham-Duplex blade — THE BLADE MEN SWEAR BY—NOT AT. He tried it—liked it—and forever more he will be seen with a clean shave.

Finding this honest man meant that he was out of a job but the Durham-Duplex Razor Co. found one for him. They gave him a razor with one blade—the same razor as is contained in the $1.50 sets—to present to every man with their compliments. He was merely to charge a fee of 25c (to cover his expenses).

If he hasn't reached you as yet mail coupon below along with fee and you will receive post paid a Durham-Duplex Razor and blade exactly as stated above.

New Durham-Duplex Sets

Including two packages of 5 blades $1.50 each
Interchangeable blades 50c for package of 5

DURHAM-DUPLEX RAZOR CO.
Jersey City, N. J.
Factories: Jersey City; Sheffield; Paris; Toronto
Sales Representatives in all Countries

DURHAM-DUPLEX RAZOR CO.
Jersey City, N. J.

I enclose 25c for a Durham-Duplex Razor and one blade.

Name .....
Address .....
City .....
Specify type preferred here DM1

DURHAM-DUPLEX

WANTED

THE BEST HOUSE ON THE BEST MARKET

Solicits Your Xmas and New Year Consignment of

DRESSED POULTRY

(One Barrel or Carload)

Safety, Service, Highest Market Values and Quick Returns Guaranteed when you ship to us. Licensed and bonded by the State of Illinois.

References: Foreman National Bank of Chicago.

Write us today for market outlook, complete dressing and shipping instructions, and tags for your shipments.

S. BAUMANN
901-907 FULTON MARKET-CHICAGO

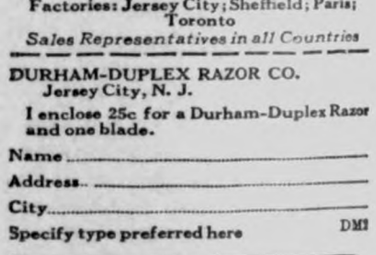
THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

Office Problems

"Your stenographers use too much powder."

"Well," said the tolerant old boss. "I don't think estimating on that comes under the duties of an efficiency expert. They furnish their own powder."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Sure Relief



6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

Let Cuticura Soap Keep Your Skin Fresh and Youthful

Sample Soap, Ointment, Talcum free. Address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass.

KEEP EYES WELL! Dr. Thompson's Eye Water will strengthen them. At druggists or 1267 River Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA

The low price of this unusual quality Cocoa is made possible by superior buying power and greatly increased sales.

35c a pound

QUALITY for 70 years

Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.

Reid, Murdoch & Co.
Chicago, U. S. A.
Boston Pittsburgh, New York

Good Housekeeping Institute Approves Little Polly Broom

For ten years Little Polly brooms have been tested and approved by the "Good Housekeeping" Institute — a standard of excellence never before equalled by any other broom.

Little Polly Broom

Sold by all good grocers

Harrah & Stewart Broom Mfg. Co.
Des Moines, Ia.

JUST THE THING FOR A CHRISTMAS PRESENT

This Child's Rocker is a practical and useful gift. Will please every child. Made of hard wood; fumed finish, varnished; height of back 16", depth of seat 13", width of seat 13", weight 10 lbs., shipped "knocked down." Well constructed; easy to assemble. Very attractive piece of furniture. Price, $1.25, delivered anywhere in the United States. Send money order to

CHARLES W. FISH LUMBER CO.
ELCHO, WISCONSIN

PATENTS

Don't risk delay in protecting your ideas. Send sketch or model for instructions or write for FREE book, "How to Obtain a Patent" and "Record of Invention" form. No charge for information on how to proceed. Communications confidential. Careful, efficient service. CLARENCE A. O'BRIEN, Registered Patent Attorney, 243-A Security Bank Building (directly across street from Patent Office) WASHINGTON, D. C.

Generous Christmas Gift Offer — Only $3.00

An attractive assortment of our finest toilet goods for only $3. Included are $1.25 box of Kremola, 6-oz. Conquil Toilet Water, 1 cake our Complexion Soap, 50c box Delicia Face Powder, and beautiful Delicia Bonne Compact. Make Christmas shopping easy by ordering several of these exceptional gifts. We will send each to a different address if you say so. Act NOW! Supply limited. Write for free booklet.

C.H. Berry Co., 2975 Michigan Ave., Chicago

Every mother thinks there is no baby like her own, and every mother is glad of it.

Freshen a Heavy Skin

With the antiseptic, fascinating Cuticura Talcum Powder, an exquisitely scented, economical face, skin, baby and dusting powder and perfume. Renders other perfumes superfluous. One of the Cuticura Toilet Trio (Soap, Ointment, Talcum).—Advertisement.

Virtue is voluntary; vice involuntary.—Plato.

FLORIDA

Beans shipped year 'round, net yield high as $375 an acre. Ten million acres for cultivation, $15 an acre up. Write for information.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Tallahassee, Florida

General Taxidermy

Mounting of Birds, Animals, Game Heads, Fishes, etc. Making Up Rugs and Robes. Manufacturing and Tanning Furs. Price reasonable.

K. SCHWARZ
419 S. 13th St. Omaha, Neb.

PATENTS Booklet free. Highest references. Best results. Promptness assured. WATSON E. COLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, 644 G Street, Washington, D. C.

Will Buy Your Florida Acreage and Lots if priced right. Write full description, price & terms. Stettler, 173 N. E. 1st St., Miami, Fla.

Green's August Flower for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver

Relieves that feeling of having eaten unwisely. 30c and 90c bottles. AT ALL DRUGGISTS

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

STAYTON TO LEAD MISSOURI LEGION

"It is a great satisfaction to the governor to know that an officer of your exceptional ability and who has distinguished himself so remarkably in France was ready to answer the call of the state regardless of the personal sacrifices entailed. A state which numbers such soldiers among its citizens is most fortunate."

Those sentiments, expressed by the governor of Missouri in 1919 in praise of one of Missouri's finest soldiers in meeting a state emergency, were likewise held by the American Legion of Missouri in convention at Springfield when they unanimously elected Edward M. Stayton department commander for the year 1925-1926.

"Mr. Stayton has always been ready to answer the call of duty whether it be for state or nation, and that's the quality that prompted his comrades to elevate him to the highest honor his department could bestow upon him," declared a comrade.

Edward M. Stayton.

When the military authorities were casting about for capable men to officer the One Hundred and Tenth engineers in 1917, they gave Ed Stayton a majority in that fighting outfit. They've never regretted it. Before the war was over the eagle of a colonel's rank graced Stayton's shoulders. He won the rank of colonel for skillful and courageous operations in the Meuse-Argonne and St. Mihiel offensives.

Mr. Stayton is a member of a prominent pioneer family of western Missouri and lives at Independence. He is married and has one son.

In private life Mr. Stayton has built up a reputation as one of the leading civil engineers of the country, having engineered many big projects in this and foreign countries. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and other professional societies.

Mr. Stayton has been an enthusiastic and hard-working American Legionnaire ever since the inception of the organization.

"A state which numbers such a Legionnaire among its citizens is indeed fortunate," declared an officer of the Legion in paraphrasing the tribute paid Mr. Stayton by the governor of his state.

Legionnaires on Duty to Guard Shenandoah

When the Shenandoah crashed near Caldwell, Ohio, recently, the first organized relief and patrols to go to meet the emergency were provided by the Caldwell and Belle Valley posts of the American Legion.

Legionnaire relief parties were immediately organized and rushed to the scene of the crash as soon as word of the disaster reached Caldwell.

The 14 dead were taken at once by the Legion-manned ambulance to Belle Valley, where their bodies were cared for pending word as to proper disposition of them from relatives or officials.

Survivors of the disaster were taken to Cambridge, where the Legion post responded at once to the call for help and members provided for the survivors pending arrival of navy officers to take charge.

Looting of the parts of the main section of the Shenandoah, near Ava, became so flagrant the day following the crash that Jerome Williamson, commander of the American Legion post at Caldwell, on guard duty, fired two shots at a man seeking to escape with a large piece of cell silk.

"American Legionnaires not only mourn the passing of a great captain of the air in the death of Lieutenant Commander Zachary Lansdowne," declared a Legion official, "but we also mourn the passing of 'Zach,' our comrade and friend, for 'Zach' Lansdowne was one of the most popular and honored members of the Legion."

When Commander Lansdowne was laid to his eternal rest in Arlington National cemetery with three brother officers who died in the crash, an honor guard of Legionnaires stood by in last tribute to their comrade.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

QUICK CHOICE

It was a tank town at which the stranger descended.

"What hotel, sir?" asked the charioteer or cabby.

"What hotels have you?"

"The Grand Kazique, the Hotel Gorgeous and Skeet's Tavern."

"Haul me to Skeet's Tavern, prithee," directed the traveler, who knew tank towns.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

No Position to Judge

Joshua Kornshux of Scrabble Corners was paying a visit to the city and while there ran into a fellow townsman.

"And how do you like the city, Josh?" he was asked.

"I dunno," was the dismal reply. "My wife's along."—American Legion Weekly.

Provoking

One Who Isn't—It must be a grand feeling to be married to a man who can speak four or five languages.

One Who Is—Quite the contrary. I can understand English only, and he always does his sleep talking in some other tongue.

WILLIE'S OPINION

"Now Willie, what motive impelled our early settlers to journey westward in their covered wagons?"

"I guess it musta been curiosity, teacher."

Hot Dawg!

Nice little doggies
Sizzling on a plate,
In came the boarders
And then they were ate.

All in Habit

Customer—That pound of evaporated peaches you sold me didn't weigh over thirteen ounces.

Grocer—Well, ma'am, I didn't guarantee 'em not to go on evaporating.—Williams Purple Cow.

Making Up

"Are we going to that affair or not?"

"I'm trying to make up my mind, hubby."

"Make up your face at the same time or we can't make it."

Missed Again

"With all his money, he hasn't got a place he can call home."

"But what about Branksome Towers?"

"He calls that 'ome'!"—Tit-Bits.

REST ON ANOTHER'S

"I'm so tired I can't stand on my feet!"

"Let's take a car then—you can stand on somebody else's feet."

Located

The men who say
Hard work is sweet
'Most all reside
On Easy street.

Two in a Taxi

He (earnestly)—One kiss is all I ask.

She—But this is a nonstop street.

Cuckoo

Bashful Suitor—There's something very special I want to ask you, dear. Could you—er—will you—

Clock—Cuckoo! Cuckoo!

Suitor—Er—go with me to the pictures Saturday night?

Insurance Wanted

"I want insurance for a frame summer hotel."

"Our fire rates are—"

"I want insurance against woodpeckers."

Community Building

Winter Building Has Many Strong Points

Possibilities of greatly extending winter construction in home building as well as in the building of skyscrapers is being brought out in own-your-home shows and in similar expositions in a number of cities. Real estate boards through the National Association of Real Estate Boards have had part in the study instituted by the United States Department of Commerce for aiding in distributing building activity over 12 months of the year and so lessening the cost of construction, a cost greatly affected by the traditional seasonal character of the construction industry.

An exposition to the public of the advantages of building one's home during the slack winter period, when bonuses are not, and a showing of the practical possibility of winter building with modern construction methods was recently held in Pittsburgh in connection with a home beautiful exposition.

Architects, contractors and material men in Pittsburgh united in pointing out the advantages to the prospective home builder of undertaking his work at a time when labor will be plentiful, contractors free of the pressure of other jobs and architects in a position to give close supervision to the work.

Small Suburban Home Grows in Popularity

Soaring building costs since the war-time peak have practically stopped the construction of large houses in most of the suburbs of Chicago and other large cities.

Now the trend in home building is toward the small residence, a home which can be cared for easily by the housewife herself, or perhaps with occasional help from the "cleaning woman." Most housewives usually are dissatisfied with any maid they get, anyway, and would rather do the work themselves if it is not too much like drudgery.

The small home in the country or suburbs solves the problem of rent for the average city dweller. In many instances he can purchase a home for a small down payment and pay off the balance in first and second mortgages, in sums that would be much less than his rent in a city flat.

Architects report a decided call for homes of the smaller type. By this we do not mean bungalows alone, although this type of home is very popular, but homes of from six to eight rooms. Even an eight-room house is classed by some as large.

Many firms of contractors and builders are now making a specialty of the small house.

Teach Home Ownership

A course in home ownership is the newest form of education in real estate matters. Such a course, designed to give unbiased information to those contemplating the purchase of a home and to home owners who want to learn the principles underlying home values, has been organized for the general public in Washington, by the Y. M. C. A.

The course, in line with the general activity of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in promoting wider home ownership, is sponsored by the Washington real estate board.

Title examination, building construction, mortgages and the various methods of financing the purchase of a home will be some of the subjects discussed.

Home Voting

Home, sweet home, is the dearest place on earth to every one. We all take pride in it and tell the world that our city is the best place on earth to live. It would be a foolish citizen indeed who would by his or her vote retard the progress of his home town or make it the subject of ridicule.—Washington (Ind.) Democrat.

Model Playground Plan

The children's bureau in the Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., has on hand for free distribution a ground plan of its playground model. The model was prepared for the bureau as an illustration of how to use a lot of five acres or more as a recreation center for children.

Growing Old Gracefully

Houses as well as people should grow old with grace and charm. Years hold no terrors for the carefully built home. Build your home as you do your life, to take the rebuffs of time as a conqueror and not as a slave.

A Modern Solomon

The rural magistrate told the young couple he would have to fine them for speeding. They admitted that they were going at a pretty smart clip, but told him they had only $5, that they had come to be married and that was to be his fee. He considered this and then handed down his decision.

"In that case I'll marry ye and take the $5. The speeding case I'll continue for six months. If you can't pay the fine I'll give ye a jail sentence. By that time you won't mind it."—Boston Transcript.

Let Yeast Foam build you up!

Everyone knows the tonic property of yeast—how it builds up your weight to normal—how it strengthens and invigorates the whole system.

Just try this: drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let stand for five minutes; stir; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate.

Or, if you prefer, eat the yeast with a cracker or a piece of butter.

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 North Ashland Ave., Chicago. Ill.
Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health," also a sample of Yeast Foam, without obligation.

Name _____

Address _____

W. N. U.

The old bachelor who has two small boys for neighbors says that the good must die very young indeed.

No one who cannot master himself is worthy to rule, and only he can rule.—Goethe.

'Caboose' Work Rubbers Wear 2 to 3 times longer than ordinary rubbers. You need only to take our word for the first pair. Any of thousands of railroad men, postmen, and others, who get such wonderful wear from 'Caboose' Rubbers will tell you this same story.

Extra thick and tough white tire tread soles and the heavy four-ply uppers.

'Watershed'—a strong cloth top overshoe, with a sheet of waterproof material between cashmerette upper and the fleece lining. This gives absolute protection and extra warmth. Look for the 'Big C' on the sole of all Converse Shoes — they are extra value shoes for every member of the family.

ASK YOUR LOCAL DEALER

CONVERSE RUBBER SHOE CO., 618 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
Factory: Malden, Mass.

See the BIG 'C' CONVERSE LINE Rubber Footwear

LOOK FOR THE WHITE TOP BAND

That there is no such thing as ptomaine poisoning is grateful intelligence. But it came too late for a good many persons.—Chattanooga News.

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Aspirin Marked With "Bayer Cross" Has Been Proved Safe by Millions.

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Necessity is stronger far than art.—Aeschylus.

Unkind

"Ah, we doctors have many enemies in the world."

"Yes, and more in the next."—Buen Humor (Madrid).

Stop wasting money on big shoe bills! No need for it. Tell your repairman to put USKIDE Soles on your shoes. USKIDE—the Wonder Sole for Wear. Wears twice as long as best leather. Made by the United States Rubber Company. USKIDE is comfortable, healthful, waterproof, good-looking. Protects against slipping. For hard workers and hard walkers. Nothing can faze USKIDE. A Vermont man wore a pair 25 months. Ask your shoe dealer for new shoes with USKIDE Soles. He either has them or can get them for you.—Adv.

A cheap coat doesn't necessarily make a cheap man, but it makes him feel that way at times.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Why have RHEUMATISM?

OH, what a wonderful feeling to be free from that miserable rheumatism. To know again the joy of limber joints and active muscles — freedom from that agonizing pain!

How often have you longed for some relief as you suffered torture from swollen, inflamed muscles and joints—how often have you said you would give anything in the World for a few hours comfort!

But you didn't know that all you had to do to get real relief from this nerve wracking misery was just to build rich, red blood, did you? You didn't know that rheumatism had to be stopped from the inside by destroying the impurities that cause it—by building millions of red cells in your poor, weak blood, did you?

Until you fill your system full of healthy, rich, red blood you will never end your rheumatism. S. S. S. will surely help you. That's because S.S.S. helps Nature build the red-blood-cells that fight off the impurities that cause rheumatism.

Conquer rheumatism! S. S. S. has shown the way. For generations S. S. S. has brought blessed relief and comfort to thousands of rheumatic sufferers.

When the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build goes coursing through your system, it purifies the blood in your body. Rheumatism vanishes — skin blemishes disappear —you begin to get hungry again and enjoy your food—strength and power fill your body—you are vigorous — red-blooded and ready for action. Know this joy of living again! Take S. S. S. and banish rheumatism!

S.S.S.

Get S. S. S. from any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Rev. A. W. Gauger and family visited with Grandma Josten at the hospital at Mason City Thanksgiving day. They returned in time to take in the football game at Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Davis and children of Mason City, spent Thanks dren and Mr. and Mrs. Brandt and family spent Thanksgiving at the Henry Freie home.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

WANTED—Man with car to sell complete line quality Auto Tires and Tubes. Exclusive territory. Experience not necessary. Salary $300 per month. Milestone Rubber Company, East Liverpool, Ohio. 1tp

Quite a number of Klemme football fans took in the Garner-Clear Lake game at Garner on Turkey day. The Garner warriors were too much for the lighter visitors and won by the score of 40 to 0.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Ter Hark, of Belmond are the proud and happy parents of a baby girl born November 27th. Mrs. Ter Hark was formerly Miss Grace Carolus of Klemme. Congratulations!

Joe Johnson and Herman Miller left Saturday evening for Chicago attend the International St ck show. They returned to Klemme yesterday. They said the stock show was fine this year.

The Fred Haupt, Herman Schuldt, Fred Neuhring and Albert Johnson families were entertained at the Elmer Schlei home for Thanksgiving dinner. We bet they had a great big "feed" as Fred Haupt still looks all stuffed up.

R. W. Elder and family spent Sunday at the Ben Katter home. On his way to Ames Clarence stopped at the Times office and says, "Oh boy! Aunt Minnie sure had a real feed, I ain't going to eat for a week!"

Rudolph Baack and family, who have been working on the Dr. Zinn farm have moved to Sheboygan, Wis. The young man who was also employed on Doc's farm was married recently and he and his wife are now running the farm.

Clarence Elder and Fred Arnold came home from Ames Saturday to get a good square meal at home for Sunday. The boys were accompanied by Miss Thelma Roe and Mr. Heddens, both of Garner, who are also Ames students. They returned to school Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Lewis had a fried oyster supper after the show Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis, Miss Fiero, and Verner Lewis and family. Lew is quite a fisherman, but we doubt very much if he caught the oysters. He probably "caught" them hot out of e pan!

Mr. and rs. C. L. Blumer have moved back to their house on east Main street. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Leitzinger have rented the Hotel of A. G. Koerner and moved in the 1st of December and will conduct the hotel business in the future. Mr. and Mrs. Leitzinger are fine young people and we predict they will make a good success of the hotel.

Ye Editor and family enjoyed a fine duck dinner at the R. W. Elder home Saturday evening. The occasion was a sort of double-header event as we were celebrating R. W.'s birthday a couple of days in advance, and then Clarence came home from Ames for the week-end, and of our former "devil" needed the assistance of the editor to get away with a big meal—we can dot it!

Henry Freie had a birthday Sunday, but as he has had sixty-four birthdays before that he was getting used to it and it slipped his mind. That evening his children and their families near here and a number of friends came in and gave him a big surprise, bringing along baskets well laden with good things to eat. Henry is on his guard and will be a bit more watchful next time.

Goodell News

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter and Richard ate Thanksgiving dinner at the Jay Griggs home.

Mark Smithh, who teaches at Earlville spent Thanksgiving at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lamer visited at the E. S. D. Kahrs home Thursday.

The High School play, "Billy's Aunt Jane," has been postponed until December 11th.

Mr. E. J. Schneider and son Robert, went to Chicago Friday.

The Catholic Ladies held their bazar Tuesday. A dance was given in the opera house in the evening. A large crowd attended. Everyone enjoyed tehmselves greatly.

Mae and Lela Griggs visited with Viloa Finn Thursday.

Mr. J. J. Cook and Dolores went to Hampton Sunday to see Mrs. Cook. She is doing nicely and hopes to be able to come home some time this week.

Dorothy Lackore and Miss Neta Nelson spent the week end at the Pete Lackore home.

Miss Lackore and Miss Nelson visited school Monday.

The teachers spent Thanksgiving at their respective homes.

Mr. George Nelson's car overturned into the ditch with him while on his way back to Goodell Monday morning. Fortunately he was not hurt.

Gus Okrug was a Hampton business caller Tuesday.

The Curtis Show Company has been in town all week. They have given some very good entertainments.

Fernon Griggs has a new Ford coupe.

(Too Late For Last Week)

As the Times published one day early last week the following Goodell items failed to arrive in time for that issue:

The basket social held at Avery Center District No. 5 was well attended. A very good program was given by the school children. About $35 was realized from the sale of baskets, pies and candy.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Houghton and Junior, of Kanawha, spent Sunday at the Houghton home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford Westre, of Humboldt, were Goodell callers Sunday.

Gertrude and Frances Cashman were Garner callers Tuesday.

Miss Dorothy Lackore, of Forest City, spent the week end with her parents.

Miss Evelyn Thomas and Miss Grace Liittschwager spent the week end at the Thomas home in Meservey.

Mr. Erie Williams of near Humboldt was a business caller here Saturday.

Gus Okrug went to Chicago with three car loads of cattle Saturday night.

Miss Cooper, of Meservey, spent the week end at the Jay Griggs home.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chelsvig, who were employed at the Albert Wilkins farm have moved to the hotel.

Gas Makes People Nervous and Restless

Gas pressure in the abdomen causes a restless, nervous feeling prevents sleep. Adlerika rem gas in TEN minutes and brings surprising amounts of old matter you never thought wa your system. This excellent in nal evacuant is wonderful for co pation or allied stomach tro Don't waste time with pills or lets but get REAL Adlerika ac Wilson's Pharmacy.

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!

Pavey's
STORMIZING SHOP

Beginning Saturday, December 5th and for one week we will give—

25 PER CENT DISCOUNT on any article in our JEWELERY LINE, consisting of Cuff Buttons, Stick Pins, Beauty Pins, Rings, Watch Chains, Bracelets, Lavalliers, and also numerous other articles.

Prices Range From 25c to $6.00

Christmas is near and this will give you a chance to buy that Xmas Present at reasonable prices. See our line.

SATURDAY SPECIAL
2 lbs. Fig Bar Cookies 25c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP

CAR LOAD
YOUNG, WELL-FED
Beef
Here Friday & Saturday Only
December 4-5
All Young Choice Quarters
Front Quarters at .09c
Rear Quarters at .11½c
Two Days Only

We are always glad to serve you.

Klemme Meat Market

BOARS FOR SALE

I have a few choice April farrowed DUROC JERSEY BOARS for sale. If you are in the market for some real good Boars this is your chance. These must be sold before Dec, 20th, so get them at once. They are Cholera Immune.

EMIL W. LAU
Klemme, Iowa

HERE COMES ABRAHAM'S
COLD WEATHER SALE!

A sale giving such values as were never before offered. We are overloaded with Winter Merchandise and are going to sacrifice prices to unload part of it. We are making this sale early to give a chance to everyone to save money on their winter merchandise. Don't forget the date and place. Come early and avoid the rush.

Our Holiday Merchandise will soon arrive and in order to make room for the display, we are

Cutting the Prices to Rock Bottom--

on our Heavy Ready-To-Wear Clothing, Footwear, Blankets, Underwear, Coats, Dresses, Etc.

GARNER'S BIG STORE
Chas. Abraham & Sons

S. E. ADAMS, Manager GARNER, IOWA

THE RIGHT BANK FOR YOU—

The right bank for you is the one that gives you the most satisfaction when handling your business transactions. The pleasure of banking with The First National Bank comes from the personal attenton you receive.

Countless little favors are shown, such as writing your important letters, arranging interviews, ordering taxes, filling out reports, assisting wth the making out of your leases, contracts, deeds, mortgages, wills, and other papers. Accounts are cordially invited.

First National Bank,
KLEMME. IOWA.

Can you think of a Gift for the whole family that will give more real pleasure than a good Radio outfit?

Have a radio installed now or order a set to be installed for Christmas from our fine line of high grade machines.

ZENITH—We have just received another shipment of Zenith Radio Sets and have them in 4 and 6 tube styles.

"Zenith—Costs More—Does More."

MUSIC MASTER RADIOS

We have received a shipment of high grade MUSIC MASTER RADIOS.

We can sell you a 5-tube Neutrodyne complete, with storage battery, etc. installed and with Music Master Horn for .... $100. This is a guarantted outfit.

We have a large number of machines out which have stood the test and are giving entire satisfaction. We aim to handle only the best n Radio. Ask those who bought of us last year how they like their set.

We will be glad to demonstrate!

Greimann Motor Co.

Gifts That Keep "Him" Happy Always!

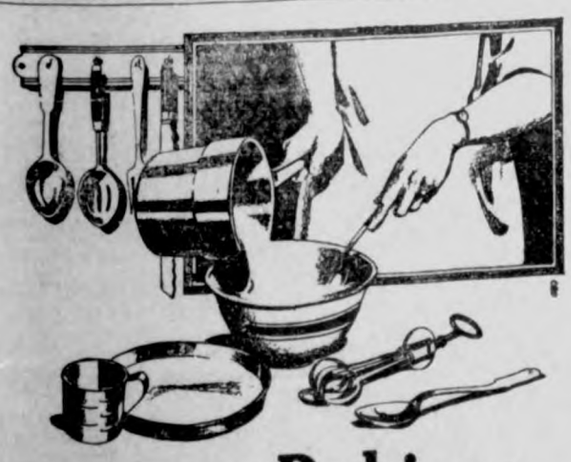
Men enjoy gifts that show an understanding of their wants, or a desire to minister to their personal comfort. In other words a man likes something he can use. Therefore to give him a gift he will appreciate, be sure to select one that is practical—preferably something to wear.

Buy "HIS" Gifts from a Man's Store—this Store—the Store of the Christmas spirit and utmost values.

"Gifts men appreciate are Gifts to wear"

Patton Brothers Co.

Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY, IOWA



For Xmas Baking--

HANDY TOOLS MAKE LIGHT WORK—SO BEFORE YOU EVEN START YOUR CHRISTMAS BAKING, COME HERE AND SEE HOW MANY HANDY ITEMS WE HAVE THAT MAY BE PURCHASED FOR A LITTLE MONEY.

A full line of Roasters, Pots, Pans, Kettles, Baking Dishes, etc. on hand for you to choose from.

E. F. Jacobs

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Miss Esther Jante visited with Garner folks over the week end.

Full line of Christmas Greeting Cards at Wilson's Pharmacy. 1c

Dr. Anderson drove to Waterloo on business Tuesday.

Grandpa Bailey is reported to be quite ill at this writing.

See Emil Lau if you want a good Duroc Jersey Boar. 1-17c

Full line of Christmas Greeting Cards at Wison's Pharmacy. 1tc

Your friend an buy anything you can give them but your Photograph. Kirk Studio, Mason City. 2tc

Miss Reva Elder visited at Belmond from last Thursday until Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. T m Nelson, Jr. and son spent Thanksgiving at the Rev. Howdeshell home at Williams, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Patet entertained about twenty-five relatives at Thanksgiving dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell spent Thanksgiving with his grandparents at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Beeler, of Mason City spent Thanksgiving at the George Gruetzmacher home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hite and son, John, of Vinton spent Sunday at the P. M. Wilson h me.

A dozen Photos—a dozen Gift Problems solved! Have it taken at Kirk Studio, Mason City, Ia. 2tc

"Abe" Lauritsen came over from Renwick to spend his Thanksgiving vacation with home folks.

POLICE PUPS FOR SALE—These are thoro-breds, priced right. Vic Huenemann. D-3-10c

Mr. and Mrs. Casey Blank, of Dysart, visited with Klemme relatives Thanksgiving day.

Sadie Schlawin is visiting with her sister, Helen, at Hayfield a few days this week.

Photos taken before the 20th promised for Christmas delivery. Kirk Studio, Mason City, Ia. 2tc

Grandma Fuller spent the past week visiting at the Alvin Stokesbary home.

R. A. Jrgenson and family visited with Mrs. Jorgenson's sister and family at Mason City Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis drove to Ackley Sunday for a visit with relatives and friends.

FOR SALE—Buff Rock Cockerels. Mrs. Peter Trampell, Goodell, Iowa. D-3-17p

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wille Monday morning. Congratulations.

Rev. A. H. Meyer came from Edgewood yesterday, to assist at the funeral services of John Gruetzmacher.

Al Emerson returned last week from a visit with relatives at Cedar Rapids.

Clark Bredbenner returned from the hospital at Iowa City Tuesday. He is feeling quite well again.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wenig returned Thanksgiving day from Nebraska, where they have been the past year.

Have some good Duroc Boars for sale, must be sold be Dec. 20th. See Emil W. Lau. 1-17c

Mr. S. S. Grange, of Ruthven, is visiting at the home of his son, Paul and family.

Mrs. Sumner Trumbell went o Goodell Monday afternoon and visited with her sister until Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hake were in town Tuesday. They will soon move back here after finishing their work at the sugar plant at Belmond.

Mrs. Hattie Lanahan spent Sunday at Clarion. Her mother and little Laura had been here since Thanksgiving and they acompanied her to Clarion.

"Shorty" Courtney returned to his home in Kansas Monday morning. He has been working here for a few months.

Mrs. Mabel Cullinan, of Belmond, visited with her mother here, Mrs. Mary Waterman from Saturday until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day and son Dorance were visiting at the J. E. Baumgartner home at Mason City Friday.

Mr. John Peters n, of Syeamore, Illinois came to spend Thanksgiving and a few days at the Joe Johnson home.

Mr. and rs. Charlie Gruetzmacher of Minneapolis spent the latter part of the week visiting Klemme relatives. They returned home Sunday morning.

Bert H. Lauen left here November 28th for Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where he is taking a twelve month's Electrotechician course at the School of Engineering of that city.

Albert Fuller purchased a Ford sedan of "Happy" Johnson the other day. This is the car that was stolen from Happy and Shorty Kent when they were in the garage business at Spencer and which Happy later located at Des Moines. We hope Albert has better luck with it than the boys had.

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, December 3, 1925

EGGS (trade)	.50
EGGS (Cash)	.49
HEAVY HENS	.18
LIGHT HENS	.14
STANDARD SPRINGS	.18
LEGHORN SPRINGS	.14
DUCKS	.12
OLD ROOSTERS	.07
GEESE	.10
BUTTERFAT	.55
BUTTER (Kleme Creamery)	.53
EAR CORN	45. to .50
WHEAT	$1.45
OATS	.30
BARLEY	.50—.55
RYE	.65—.70
HOGS	$9.00 to $10.25

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

Charlie Fritzell needed a hired man Saturday to help him haul straw so Dorance Day went out and helped him. Charlie says Dorance is a good man about the farm.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

DR. R. E. PORTER
Chiropractic Health Service
North Side Main Street
Phone 312 Belmond, Iowa

Give a Radio for Xmas

Get My Price Before Buying

Famous Michigan 2 tube	$15.00
Radiola 2 tube head set	$20.00
Ozarka 4 tube, complete	$45.00
Radiola 4 tube and horn	$50.00
American 5 tube, complete	$69.00
Bosch Amborola 6 tube Wonder, complete	$175.00

1 to 3 tube Used Sets.

Karl Krause

Route 2 VENTURA, IOWA.

The Gift Store

We are now unpacking and putting on display our large assortment of NEW HOLIDAY GOODS. The line this year is especially attractive in all departments and the prices will please you.

Our Dry Goods Department is loaded with many Gift Suggestions especially suited for the Ladies, Misses and Children.

In our Hardware Department you will find many practical gifts for the home.

Our Men's Department is especially attractive for practical gifts for "Him." Ties, Shirts, Belts, Sweaters, etc.

Our Shoe Department will give you a number of good ideas for gifts for any member of the family, such as Bed Room Slippers, Hosiery, High Tops, etc.

We will have a full line of Toys for the Children, Games, Dishes, Skates, etc.

Watch for our ads announcing individual Gift Suggestions.

Make This Store Your Shopping Headquarters

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Carload Of Flour and Feed Due To Arrive Soon!

This car consists of:

MAPLESOTA FLOUR
Bran & Oil Meal

Place your orders now for your winter's supply--our prices save you money on Flour and Feed. Full line of other Mill Feeds on hand.

COAL OF ALL KINDS ON HAND

$8.00 to $10.25 per ton

Klemme Co.Op- Grain Company

The Farmers' Elevator

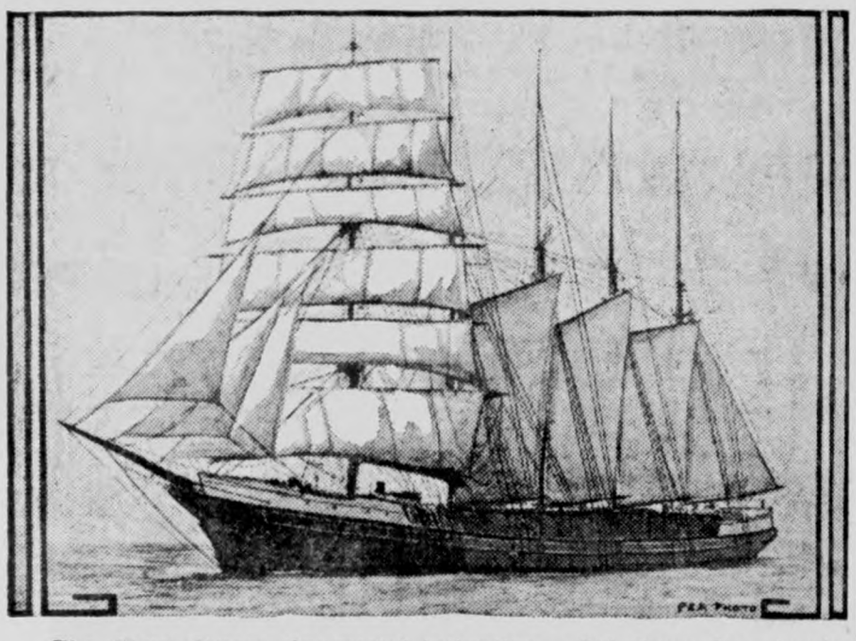
Traveling Around to Check Up on Radio Industry

Interior view of motor truck maintained by the Department of Commerce which travels about investigating interference, inspecting stations, checking wave lengths and in other ways keeping tab on the radio industry. J. E. Brown is shown at one of the instruments.

Chicago Gets Noted Laughing Cat

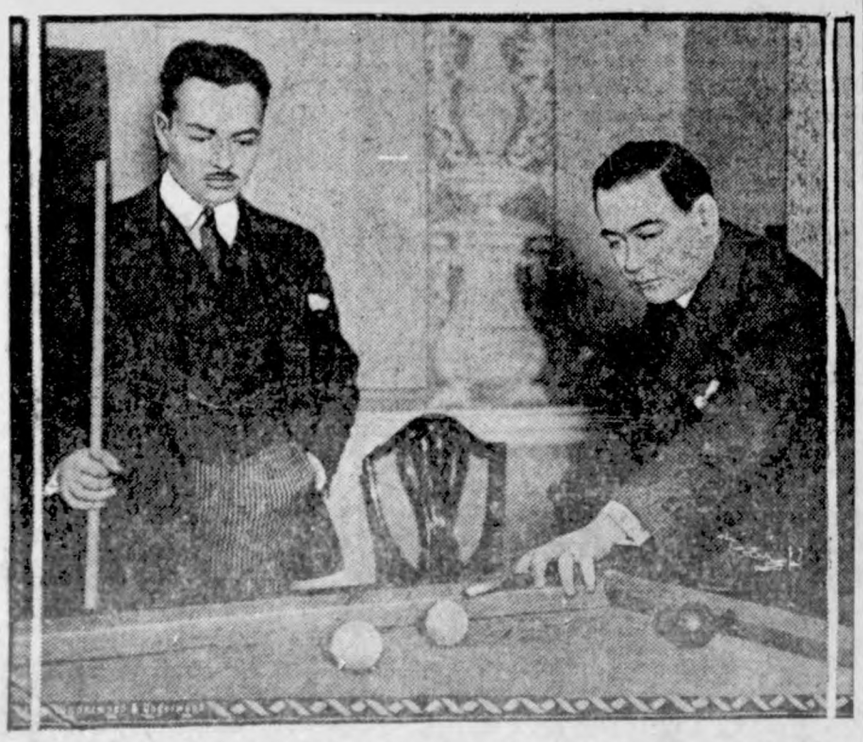
"White Mule," the famous laughing cat of Chillicothe, Mo., is now in Chicago as a permanent mascot of the Missouri society. Thomas S. Hogan and H. E. Rice in a recent visit to Missouri secured the feline optimist and presented it to President A. W. Dalh. "White Mule" is believed to be the only living laughing cat.

Forest Dream on Her Last Voyage



The Forest Dream, five-masted barkentine, sailed from Los Angeles harbor recently on what probably will be the last circumnavigation of the globe by any old-time sailing vessel. Capt. Walter H. Meyers and eleven men comprise the crew of the Forest Dream.

Diplomat Is Good Billiard Player



Whenever Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican ambassador to the United States, feels in need of relaxation he turns to the billiard room in the magnificent embassy. Senor Tellez is an enthusiastic player and is credited with playing an excellent game. Senor Antonio Castro-Leal, counselor of the embassy, is shown watching while Senor Tellez makes a shot.

WANTS TO RULE OHIO

Mrs. Evalyn Frances Snow of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, will seek the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio in the primaries next August. She has long been active in political, patriotic and philanthropic organizations and has served as head of the state board of movie censors. Her two sons saw service in France in the World war and one of them became vice consul at Leeds.

BANDITS' NEMESIS

William ("Dad") Harris of Cleveland, Ohio, sixty-nine years old and a gasoline station attendant, who was presented with a gold medal, suitably inscribed, by the city of Cleveland, in recognition of his services to the community in shooting and capturing four pairs of bandits.

STILL CRUISING

Mrs. Jack London, widow of the noted writer, photographed as she was about to sail from New York on the anniversary of her husband's death. After a short stay in England Mrs. London expected to join English friends for a cruise in the Mediterranean in their 45-foot sloop.

ALEXANDRA IS LAID TO REST AT WINDSOR

Dowager Queen Buried Beside King Edward VII—Four Rulers in Cortege.

London.—Dowager Queen Alexandra of England was laid to rest at Windsor beside the body of her husband, King Edward VII. The body of Alexandra, the queen and empress, played a central part in a great state ceremony which emphasized the power and might of the empire over which her husband ruled and her son now rules.

The crowds had been waiting for hours for the arrival of the funeral procession when the first faint strains of a military band were heard. Just at that moment the north door swung open and remained open for several minutes.

Framed in the arch of the door the onlookers saw a wonderful procession of guardsmen in tall bearskin hats, marching in the thickly falling snow with heads bowed and arms reversed. Troops in ordinary flat service caps and also snow-covered marines, bluejackets and airmen, all outlined with snow, were marching in slow time.

Then came a gun carriage with the coffin covered with the queen's own flag, bearing the leopards of England and the arms of Denmark. On top was only a floral cross.

Beside it were ten giant grenadiers—the same grenadiers who carried the coffin at Sandringham and who acted as the bearers until the end. Behind the gun carriage was King George, marching alone

Immediately behind him was the prince of Wales, also alone. Behind him were the three kings of Belgium, Norway and Denmark, with the duke of York. After that was a great concourse of crown princes and minor royalties and relatives of the royal family.

The procession had taken nearly three-quarters of an hour from the chapel royal at St. James palace to the abbey, and every step of the way was marched by the royalties on foot.

In the body of the abbey all the greatest men of the empire were assembled. Prime Minister Baldwin and Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the opposition, came together, wearing the brilliant uniforms of privy councilors. Former Premiers Asquith, Lloyd George and Balfour were present, while the chiefs of the army, navy and air force filled the abbey with splashes of scarlet, gold, silver and blue, punctuated by the deep black of the women in the congregation.

At the door of the abbey the procession was met by the archbishop of Canterbury, who took the lead, followed by the magnificently clad clergy, singing the first part of the burial service, "I am the reurrection and the life."

The coffin was slid carefully on the high catafalque and great candles were lighted at the head and feet and the services were carried on by the archbishop and Canon Carnegie.

Ferguson Says He is Real Governor of Texas

New York.—The New York Times in a dispatch from a staff correspondent at Austin, Texas, says that former Gov. James E. Ferguson admitted that he, and not his wife, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, is the real governor of Texas.

The newspaper said he tacitly admitted to newspaper men during a two hour interview that his wife had abdicated part of her executive functions to him and that he justified her in doing so. He said that she had told the voters during her election campaign last year that she lacked experience in statecraft and depended on him to help her.

Childless Wives to Lose Alimony in Chicago Court

Chicago. — Alimony-seeking wives, and former wives, who are childless, will find no aid in Judge Harry A. Lewis' court, for the jurist announced he had discontinued the practice of ordering alimony payments.

"Childless women who want alimony needn't bother to ask for it in this court," Judge Lewis said, "because they won't get it unless they can agree with their husbands on a lump sum settlement.

"There is no reason in this age of equal rights why a young workingman should be forced to pay alimony."

$2,170,761 Estate Left by Charles F. Murphy

New York.—Value of $2,170,761 was placed on the estate of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, in a report filed by the state tax appraiser. It comprised stocks and bonds, $1,601,288; real estate, $272,000; cash, $669,000, and the balance of mortgages, notes and personal effects.

Unfair Practices Charged

Chicago.—The federal trade commission charged two Chicago firms, the Calumet Baking company and four men operating under the firm name of Kling-Gibson company in manufacturing toilet articles with unfair competitive practices.

Cruiser Hurries to Egypt

Valetta, Malta.—The British light cruiser Danae left hurriedly for Alexandria, Egypt. No information as to her mission was given.

AYRES OF KANSAS

An especially posed and approved portrait of Representative William A. Ayres, Democrat, of Wichita, Kan., a member of the appropriations committee and one of the prominent minority members in the house. Before entering congress Mr. Ayres was an attorney.

KING CAUSES ROW AT MITCHELL TRIAL

Quiz Methods Called "D—d Rot" by General.

Washington.—In the most dramatic clash of the thrill-cramming court-martial of Col. William Mitchell, Brig. Gen. Edward L. King, a member of the jury of generals, characterized as "D—d rot" the cross-examination methods used by Representative Frank Reid of Illinois, Mitchell's civilian counsel.

In the midst of Reid's long cross-examination of Maj. George J. Bain, a general staff officer, on technical subjects, General King leaned across the court table to Col. Blanton Winship, law member of the court, two seats beyond, and remarked in a low voice that carried to the press table:

"This is d—d rot and ought to be stopped."

Flaming with wrath, the alert Reid whipped around instantly and, almost under the startled general's nose, shouted:

"I overheard that and I object to it."

Reddening from embarrassment, but scowling with anger, General King barked back:

"I wasn't speaking to you; I was speaking to the law member of the court."

"Well, it's not d—d rot in my mind or anybody else's, and I want that to go on record," thundered Reid.

A hush fell over the courtroom. The silence was broken by King, who said apologetically:

"I'm very sorry, Mr. Reid."

Somewhat mollified, but still much aroused, Reid retorted in milder tones:

"I am a little surprised at you, General King. This examination may be tedious to you, but I have a mission to perform for my client, and I intend to perform it."

Maj. Gen. Patrick Declares His Plans Were Ignored

Washington.—In his annual report Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service declared that not one of his recommendations last year had so far resulted in tangible action.

The service should be increased to that recommended by the Lassiter committee, he said, and action should be taken to give the service the same status that the marine corps has in the navy. This recommendation has been opposed by the War department and the general staff.

Funds are needed, the report declared, to provide safe-flying equipment for existing units and a separate budget is asked to take care of the needs of the air service.

Actress Sues W. A. Clark; Says He Promised to Wed

New York.—The complaint in the $250,000 breach of promise suit brought by Marguerite McNulty, motion picture actress, against William Andrew Clark III, grandson of former Senator William A. Clark of Montana, was filed in the Supreme court by her attorney.

On January 15 last, the complaint alleges, the plaintiff and defendant became engaged, with the understanding that they were to be married within a reasonable time.

On the following October 30, according to the complaint, at the Hotel Belmont the defendant refused to marry her.

Radio Men on Ships Strike

London.—A strike of wireless operators on British ships against a $5-a-month cut in wages threatens seriously to affect shipping. The men will leave the ships as their contracts expire.

Two Women Rob Bank

Renner, S. D.—Two women, armed with automatic pistols, held up H. S. Wilkenson, cashier of the First State bank of Renner, and escaped in an automobile with $500 in currency.

"Now I Am Well and the Mother of Two Children"

Just Another Story About the Goodness of PE-RU-NA

Mrs. Anna Linder, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 44, Dassel, Meeker County, Minn., writes: "For two years I suffered with that terrible disease, chronic catarrh. Fortunately I saw your advertisement and took Pe-ru-na. Now I am well and the mother of two children. I owe all to Pe-ru-na. I would not be without that great remedy for twice its cost, for I am well and strong now. I cannot speak in too high terms of its value as a medicine."

For more than half a century Dr. Hartman's Pe-ru-na has been performing just such wonderwork as this.

Pe-ru-na is sold everywhere in both tablet and liquid form. Insist upon having genuine Pe-ru-na.

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER COMPOUND

Keep your horses working with "SPOHN'S." Standard remedy for 32 years for Distemper, Strangles, Influenza, Coughs and Colds. Give to sick and those exposed. Give "SPOHN'S" for Dog Distemper. Sold by your druggist. If not, order from us. Small bottle 60 cents, large $1.20. Write for free booklet on diseases. SPOHN MEDICAL CO. Dept. GOSHEN, IND.

WHY SHOULD ANYONE SUFFER WITH INDIGESTION OR ANY STOMACH MISERY?

If you want to fix up your dyspeptic out of order stomach so that you can relish what you eat with not the least bit of after distress, do what tens of thousands of people have already done.

Getting rid of gas, bloating, belching, heaviness and that feeling of near suffocation isn't such a hard matter as you may think—You've been getting hold of the wrong medicine—that's all.

But better late than never—ask your druggist for a bottle of Dare's Mer-Pepsin—a real stomach medicine and a very pleasant one. For acute indigestion one or two doses is enough, but when the trouble is chronic, two or three bottles may be needed to put your disordered stomach in good healthy condition and make life worth living.

Making a start is the main thing—why not get one bottle today with the distinct understanding that if it does not help you the purchase price will be returned.

The Doctor's Rounds

After a hard day's work a doctor noted the condition of his patients:

The ragman—Picking up.

The painter—More bad signs.

The banker—Failing.

The pugilist—A striking improvement.—The Progressive Grocer.

"Cutting teeth is made easy"

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

At all druggists

Non-Narcotic, Non-Alcoholic

Oakland, Nebr., Feb. 28, 1920

Anglo-American Drug Co.,

Gentlemen:

I am more than glad to tell you of the experience and result obtained from your wonderful Baby Medicine. Our second baby is now seven months old and has never given us a moment's trouble. The first and only thing she has ever taken was Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. She has four teeth and is always smiling and playing. Cutting teeth is made easy by the use of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. Most sincerely,

(Name on request)

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO.

215-217 Fulton Street, New York

Practically That

"What do you expect to burn your furnace this winter?"

"Money, as usual."

No Cold Fever headache or grippe

Colds break in a day for the millions who use Hill's. Headache and fever stop. Grippe is checked. All in a way so reliable that druggists guarantee results. Colds too important to treat in lesser ways.

All druggists Price 30c

CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

Get Red Box with portrait

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling

Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair

60c and $1.00 at Druggists.

Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

e Things for Christmas Gifts

Three Charming Gifts

Christmas candle, a portrait sil- re and a small decorative jardi- form this group of charming —all simple things made beauti- by handcraft. Fashionable can- are more or less elaborately ed with colored sealing wax and or silver paint, and sometimes a modeling, as in the pagoda e shown here.

eryone, from grandparents down, treasure a portrait silhouette, ially when posed by a little mem- of the family. A camera will the pattern when the sitter is in front of the light. The sil- te is cut from the photographic and used as a pattern for others from black paper. One of these d against a medallion of beaver- d is shown in the picture.

small tin bucket covered with paint and decked out with rs done in sealing wax makes a container for a flower pot edallions to hang on the wall, pic- g parrots and other birds of t plumage, are among the small, ionable furnishings with which en are ringing changes in the ation of their homes. These allions are cut from beaver board the birds are cut from printed e paper and pasted to the board. n they are overlaid with sealing painting in the colors of the ed picture.

Sealing Wax Pictures

Fans and Table Mats is easy to add to the importance an ordinary palm leaf or bamboo by making it attractive with dec- ions in bright colors and clever gns. Wool or silk yarns, ribbon or flowers, and paints are all me- ds that convert a plain fan into a y gift.

all mats, made of loops of col- yarns hooked through a founda- make useful pads that serve to ect the surface of tables.

TAILORED TYPES IN FURS; IN MIDWINTER MILLINERY

AS THE winter comes on and fur coats grow more and more numerous on the street, the early prophecy of stylists is fulfilled. Forerunners of fur modes, presented in the early fall and late summer, showed a return to simple treatments in making up the pelts into garments, and now it is evident that the public approves this conservative styling. There is little fussiness about fur coats, either in the fine bandings are fox, kolinsky, marten, fitch and squirrel. Squirrel coats and jackets usually have collars of the same fur. Fox is most popular of all trimming furs and is unusually becoming but kolinsky has come to vie with it.

When dressy millinery is under consideration designers never forget that women are individualists, or if they do forget they are apt to suffer for it. If the present tendency keeps up each woman will want an "exclusive model" made for herself alone and not to be repeated for any one else. The smartly dressed woman does not object to street hats almost uniform in type—although on these she likes individual touches—but let her meet a copy or replica of her own particular dress hat and she will register disapproval immediately and emphatically. Therefore the milliner who caters to a discriminating following must make hats that follow the trend of the mode, but each in its own prettily willful way.

The group of five hats shown here illustrates new oddities in shapes and new developments in trimmings by which the midwinter modes have been varied. In this little company of new arrivals it will be noted that velours and felts are not represented—not that they are passe, but milliners, following the lead of Paris, have turned to velvet and other fabrics for the rich and brilliant effects sought in midwinter's dressy hats. The group leads off with a lovely dinner or afternoon hat in metallic lace with a cut-out facing of fine velvet which might be in any becoming and fashionable color. A small fan and fold of velvet caught with a little jeweled pin are posed against the front crown and an airy flange of malines stands up about the brim edge. The cut-out facing and the malines give this model a much desired, delicate touch. Below, at the left, a rich turban of heavy gold lace is posed over green and gold metallic silk and is appropriate for afternoon or evening wear.

Black satin makes the Napoleon shape at the right with soft crown and brim that droops across the back. Folds of the satin and a fine jeweled pin with pendants adorn it. The hat at the center is fashioned of velvet and is very unusual in style. The cluster of small, bright quills posed near the front remind one of American Indian headdress—which probably inspired it. Most interesting is the small hat of velvet, which finishes the group, with a halo of stitched velvet posed against it. There is nothing simple about the hats that grace the climax of winter styles.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

Of Black Broadtail.

Some Midwinter Hats.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

No man can be wise on an empty stomach.—George Eliot.

Give thanks ere stopping to deplore
What seems to be a sorry lot;
Give thanks, and most devoutly, for Those many things which you have not.

THINGS WE LIKE

Children are especially fond of the old-fashioned ginger cream cooky which can be made at home.

Frosted Ginger Cookies.—Cream one-fourth of a cupful of butter with one cupful of sugar and the beaten yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of strong coffee infusion, one-half cupful of pastry flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-third of a teaspoonful of salt and three-fourths of a cupful of chopped candied ginger. Combine the ingredients and drop from a spoon onto baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven and when cool frost with marshmallow icing.

Fig Jam.—Wash three pounds of dried figs and pass them through the meat grinder. Add one quart of water, one sliced lemon and one sliced orange. Let stand overnight. Add four cupfuls of sugar and cook until thick and transparent, stirring frequently.

Fruit Mincemeat.—Take one glass of spiced grape jam, one pint of canned cherries strained from their juice, one pint of peaches, one pint of plums, stones removed and juices strained; one glass of quince preserves, one of apple butter, four quarts of chopped apple, one cupful of finely shredded suet, one pound of raisins, four ounces each of finely cut citron, orange peel and lemon peel minced—the last two candied; two tablespoonfuls of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of nutmeg, one-half tablespoonful each of cloves, allspice and ginger. Mix all together and add one cupful of good vinegar; let stand a few days to ripen.

Popcorn Crackle.—Prepare a large pan of popped corn. Make a sirup of one cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful each of vinegar and butter. Boil slowly until the mixture is brittle when dropped into cold water. Pour a little at a time over the corn, mixing well until each kernel is touched with the sirup. Two persons will do this much better, one to pour and the other to stir and mix the corn.

More Good Things.

The following relish has the advantage of many, as it may be made after all the fresh vegetables are out of the market.

Beet Relish.—Chop cooked beets to make a quart; add one quart of chopped cabbage, one cupful of grated horseradish, two cupfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of salt and vinegar to moisten thoroughly. This is a good relish to serve with fish.

Silver Loaf Cake.—Take two and three-fourths cupfuls of pastry flour, one and one-fourth cupfuls of granulated sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of water, one-half cupful of butter, the whites of seven eggs, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of flavoring, and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Cream the butter, add the sugar, mix well, then add the flour and dry ingredients sifted together, alternating with the water; fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

Pound Cake.—Take ten eggs, two cupfuls of sugar, four cupfuls of flour, one and one-half cupfuls of butter, two teaspoonfuls of lemon extract, one teaspoonful of salt. Cream the butter, add the sugar, and beat until white and foamy. Separate the yolks and whites of the eggs, beat well. Add alternately one heaping tablespoonful of flour with a small portion of the beaten yolk and white, beating well between each addition. The success of a pound cake depends upon the fine ingredients and much beating—then, finally the baking in a slow oven at first, increasing the heat to a moderate oven. Bake one hour and a half.

Beans, Tongue and Egg Sandwiches.—To one cupful of Boston baked beans add one cupful of finely chopped cold boiled tongue or ham. Add two hard cooked eggs finely chopped, season with one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt, pepper, and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar from the onion pickle bottle. Mix well and spread thin slices of brown bread with mustard and creamed butter, cover with a layer of the mixture, then with lettuce dipped in French dressing; put together in pairs. Press and cut into triangles, garnish with fan-shaped slices of pickled cucumbers.

Barbecued Ham.—Have the ham cut very thin and broil quickly. Arrange on a hot platter and add to the fat in the pan a teaspoonful each of sugar and of made mustard, a dash of red pepper and four tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Stir until bubbling hot, then pour over the ham and serve at once.

The apple is another fruit of the gods. "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," is an old and well known saying. They, too, are laxative, and hold valuable salts, such as sodium and iron.

Nellie Maxwell

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN"—Genuine

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over 25 years for

Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago
Pain Neuralgia Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets.
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Hard to Answer

"I wonder if life is really worth living?" "Well, what else can you do with it?"—Life.

Where It Really Thunders

The Transvaal is noted for the frequency and violence of its thunderstorms.

"But constipation is serious, Grace"

"Not so long ago I was like you—headaches a good deal of the time, sleeping badly, and the least bit of housework tired me out. My complexion too, was bad.

"Finally, I went to see Dr. Farman. He showed me that it was constipation that was back of my troubles. He said that it was a very serious thing because poisons from clogged waste matter were picked up by the blood and carried to every body organ. And if I didn't correct it in time I might become a victim of one of those terrible organic diseases.

"He made me drop laxatives altogether, changed my diet, and put me on Nujol. I don't think I've ever felt better. I sleep well, my headaches have disappeared, and you can see for yourself what an improvement there is in my skin. Nujol has done wonders for me."

Nujol Works Like Nature

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It is neither a food nor a medicine. It does not gripe. It is gentle and natural in its action and is prescribed by leading medical authorities.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly, in accordance with the directions on each bottle. As Nujol is not a laxative, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Nujol
THE INTERNAL LUBRICANT
For Constipation

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin the perfect health that is possible only when intestinal elimination is normal and regular.

Fortunate Woman

Visitor—Did any member of your family ever make a brilliant marriage?
Professor—My wife did.

La Nouvelle Age

If four are a quartette, why aren't two a pintette?—Massachusetts Tech Voo Doo.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every day or two was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Notice Of Change In Subscription Price Effective Jan. 1st

THE KLEMME TIMES

PAYABLE IN ADVANCE

NEW RATES

1 Year in Hancock County	$2.00
1 year, outside of County in Iowa	2.00
1 year, outside of State	2.50
1 year, Outside U. S.	3.00

Special Offer Good Until January 1st, 1926

Until January 1st, we will accept subscriptions to The Klemme Times at the old rate of $1.50 per year in Hancock County and vicinity; $2.00 per year outside of this vicinity.

TWO YEAR LIMIT

However, we will only accept a renewal at the old rate for 2 years in advance. SAVE MONEY by taking advantage of this SPECIAL OFFER--pay up your back subscription and save a dollar by paying for two years in advance.

SAVE MONEY SUBSCRIBE TODAY:

The Klemme Times

Your Home Town Newspaper

THE KLEMME TIMES

ieth Year—Number 14. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

ONLY 11 MORE DAYS TO DO YOUR XMAS SHOPPING

ADIES ORGANIZED AUXILIARY HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

IRST MEETING WAS BIG SUCCESS

ENTY TWO SIGN UP FOR MEMBERSHIP IN AUXILIARY

ting Was Held Tuesday Evening At Parish House And Organiz- tion Is Now Well Under Way To Success

On Tuesday evening the Adam- haefer American Legion Post of mme held a special meeting at Parish House to which eligible mbers of a Legion Auxiliary were cially invited.

An oyster supper was served at ut 8:00 o'clock to all present, r which the business session was en up.

The purpose of the meeting was to anize an Auxiliary here and Mrs. l, of Crystal Lake was present explain the purposes of the or- ization and to lay out plans to it started. After her excellent k application blanks were passed und to the ladies and twenty-two e signed up for the Auxiliary.

This was a very creditable begin- g and there is no reason why the anization cannot grow into n iliary of at least seventy-five or e members in a short time.

After the Auxiliary had become anized the business of electing cers was taken up with the fol- ing results:

President, Mrs. P. W. Johnson.
Vice-Pres., Mrs. Benn Coobs.
Secretary, Mrs. Paul Grange.
Treasurer, Mis Leona Lau.
Chaplin, Mrs. Lew Lewis.
Sergeant at Arms, Mrs. Fred Et- chen.

The next meeting will be held me time in January, at the Legion ll, the date to be announced lat- At that time regular meeting es will be definitely decided up- .

Any mother, wife or sister of an -service man is eligible to join the xiliary. Every lady eligible to n should do so and be affiliated h this patriotic and honorable or- ization.

We predict that the Auxiliary is ng to be a live-wire organization d the Legion boys will have to some to keep ahead of their sister ganization here.

CORRECTED CENSUS REPORT

The following is a copy of the cor- ted Census Report received by e County Auditor from the Secre- ry of State, as certified to him by e Director of Census, Des Moines, wa.

Townships
Amsterdam	533
Avery	574
Bingham	608
Boone	500
Britt	568
Concord	566
Crystal	540
Ell	587
Ellington	776
Erin	615
Garfield	631
Liberty	561
Madison	679
Magor	521
Orthel	576
Twin Lakes	496
Towns
Britt	1,537
Garner	1,312
Kanawha	645
Corwith	556
Klemme	455
Crystal Lake	233
Goodell	201
Woden	205
Total	14,527

School News Of The Past Week

The New Compton Encyclopedia the Board voted to allow us at their last meeting has arrived and is being used by grades 7 to 12. We find it a valuable addition to our library, a very useable set of books.

Our new History Maps for the high school and political maps for grades 5 and 6 are also very much appreciated. They w re badly needed and without them good work in history and geography was imposible.

Boys Win Basket Ball Game

Our boys won their third game of the season last Friday night and are determined to add another to their list of victories at Hayfield next Friday night (this week.) Our Alumni girls will also play at Hayfield on the same date. Two very fast games are assured. On Thursday night of next week Rowan plays here. The game was placed on Thursday evening instead of Friday to permit the faculty to leave early for their Christmas vacation which begins on December 18 or on the eve of that date.

This week end some of our pupils or students will solicit the community in the sale of Christmas seals. This money is used to combat tuberculosis which once was one of the most dreaded diseases in our state and nation. A very successful campaign has been conducted against it but there are still many cases and we must not let up in our effort to wholly eradicate it.

One half of the amount collected in each comunity can be reserved for local needs. The school will apply their share of the amount collected toward the purchase of a First Aid Kit for our school and if more than that is left we need a pair ofscales and will apply it on that.

School nurses seem pretty scarce and it is doubtful if one can be found to make the physical examination voted by our P. T. A. last weekff Others in our county have also been in quest of one without success as yet.

The High School is staging a carnival next Saturday night, Dec. 12, to help defray the expenses of the Junior-Senior banquet. Below follows an acount of the affair.

The Junior Class of K. H. S. is sponsoring a Karnival to be held in the school gym, Saturday, Dec. 12. The doors will open at 7:30. We want everybody from all the country around as well as townspeople and school children to attend and bring aq full purse as well as a big appetite for hamburgers, home made candy and pop corn balls.

The main show is a minature orpheum and your admission ticket admits you to this wonderful five act spectacular production beginning at 8:30.

Now park your car outside the door and come and see our vast collection of curiosities. Price 10 and 20 cents.

ENGLISH WOMAN TO AMES

She Will Be One Of The Junior Short Course Speakers

One of the speakers who will address the 2,000 club boys and girls who are expected to attend the Junior short course at Ames, Dec. 29 to Jan. 2, is Miss Ethel Nightengale of England, organizer of women's institutes in that country.

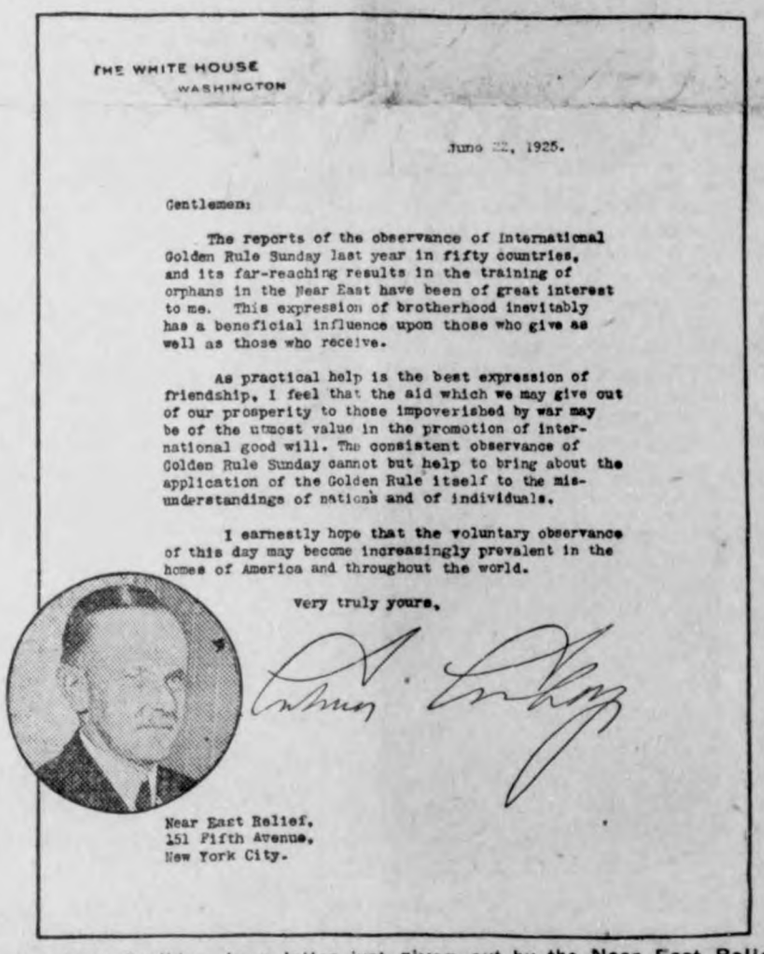
Miss Nightengale is making an 8 months study of farm homes and rural women's organizations in America. She will spend six weeks of this period in Iowa. She is the fifth foreign leader to visit here.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS BAKE SALE

The Klemme Camp Fire Girls will have a Bake Sale at the Wellemeyer store Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

"Stand By Us a Little Longer"
Observe International Golden Rule Sunday in December for Near East Relief Orphans.

Golden Rule Sunday Plans Win Approval of President Coolidge



THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

June 22, 1925.

Gentlemen:

The reports of the observance of International Golden Rule Sunday last year in fifty countries, and its far-reaching results in the training of orphans in the Near East have been of great interest to me. This expression of brotherhood inevitably has a beneficial influence upon those who give as well as those who receive.

As practical help is the best expression of friendship, I feel that the aid which we may give out of our prosperity to those impoverished by war may be of the utmost value in the promotion of international good will. The consistent observance of Golden Rule Sunday cannot but help to bring about the application of the Golden Rule itself to the misunderstandings of nations and of individuals.

I earnestly hope that the voluntary observance of this day may become increasingly prevalent in the homes of America and throughout the world.

Very truly yours,

Calvin Coolidge

Near East Relief,
151 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

President Coolidge, in a letter just given out by the Near East Relief, endorses plans for the third observance of Golden Rule Sunday.

Some Deals In Dirt

HANCOCK COUNTY TRANSFERS IN REAL ESTATE

Deals On Record From December 1 To December 5, 1925

E. P. Hanson, Sheriff, to Union Bond & Mortgage Co. Sheriff's deed, date 12-2-25, $14,980.57, SE¼ SE ¼ 21 & N½ NE¼ 28-97-23.

Manly V. Kieth wf. to E. E. Cavanaugh. W. D., date 11-30-25, $1. Nfr½ of NW¼ & NWfr.¼ NE¼ 6-96-24.

Calvin O. Brewster to Nellie Brewster. Wfl D., date 11-21-25, $1.00, SW¼ & W½ SE¼ 14-96-25.

Peter J. Elsmo wf. to Harm Roskamp. W. D. date 10-23-25, $1.00, E½ of NE¼ 35-97-25.

Feeding the brood sow properly is important. A postal card mailed to the Bulletin Section, Ames, will bring Circular 81, which gives some good pointers on this subject.

PROMINENT LEGIONAIRE WILL SPEAK AT MASON CITY

George L. Berry, president of the American pressmen's union and former national vice commander of the American Legion, will speak at the Mason City armory on the evening of Monday, Dec. 14. Mr. Berry, whose home is in Tennessee, is one of the three or four outstanding Legionaires of the country. After his address refreshments will be served and there will be dancing until midnight. Legionaires and auxiliary members from any other point in North Iowa will be welcomed to the big meeting. There will be no charge, the event being one of the regular joint parties featured this year by the Clausen-Worden post and its auxiliary.

There is no better evidence of a commendable community spirit than that of a loyalty to a town in which a person lives. If a town is worth living in it is worth defending and supporting in its efforts to advance with the rest of the world.

POSTMASTER GENERAL APPEALS TO PUBLIC TO "MAIL NOW"

Ford Garage Changes Hands

AARON GRIEMANN SELLS OUT TO THE GARNER MOTOR CO.

Deal Was Closed Last Week; Farm Is Traded In On Business

Last week a deal was closed in which Aaron Greimann disposed of his Ford Garage, building and business to Mr. W. S. Pritchard, proprietor of the Garner Motor Co., the Ford garage there.

Mr. Pritchard traded in a 160 acre farm situated in Garfield township. The land is tenanted by Mr. Reed and is a good farm.

Mr. Pritchard has been in the garage business at Garner for a number of years all of which time he has also been a Ford dealer. The garage here had been doing a good business along that line and with the two garages Mr. Pritchard will have the largest and best Ford business in the county.

Mr. Will Ayers, who is known to many Klemme people and who has been working for the Garner Auto Company, is in charge of the garage here. "Bill" is a good natured fellow and will soon make a lot of godo friends here. If you don't know "Bill" just step in and get acquainted. He told us, "We're here to give real uto SERVICE." (Heavy on the last word.)

We have not interviewed Mr. Greimann as to what he will do in the future, but presume he will reside here until locates otherwise.

COMMERCIAL BANK AT BRITT CLOSED MONDAY MORNING

Rumors Cause Withdrawal of Deposits, D. J. Miller, Cashier Announces

BRITT, Dec. 10.—The Commercial State Bank of Britt was closed here Monday morning, after a meeting Saturday night of the board of directors had disclosed that the institution was in an unstable condition.

The affairs of the bank were voluntarily placed in the hands of the state banking department, which is represented here by F. T. Eggerson.

That the condition of the bank was brought about by frozen assets and the funds was confirmed by D. J. Miller, cashier, who stated that considerable amounts in deposits had been taken from the institution during the last three weeks.

Rumors 3 Weeks Ago

"The first intimation of the withdrawals came directly after Amistice day," Mr. Miller said, "when a rumor was started that the affairs of the bank were in an unstable condition.

"The fact that the withdrawals were occasioned by the rumors and the condition of frozen assets caused the directors to call a special meeting after banking hours Saturday. At this time it was thought best to announce the closing of the bank.

"The affairs of the institution are in the hands of the banking department of the state."

Organized in 1913

The Commercial State bank has been organized here since 1913 and has been considered a going institution. The bank's capitalization and surplus amount to $230,000; its deposits $755,000; and assets $1,344,000, according to Mr. Miller.

The officers of the defunct bank are as follows:

C. W. Erwin, president; E. P. Healy, first vice-president; and D. J. Miller, cashier.

Ames Abe Says:

The only good a human jackass does is to keep leanin' so hard on the hold-backs that it keeps the rest of us busy workin' on the tugs.

MAIL YOUR PARCELS EARLY SAYS NEW

ALL POSTAL EMPLOYES WILL HAVE FULL HOLIDAY ON CHRISTMAS THIS YEAR

Post Office Department Urges Everyone To Mail Christmas Parcels At Once—Shop Early

The postmaster general of the U. S., Harry S. New, has published an article which is received in all of the postoffices in the country, in which he calls the attention of the patrons of the service to the necessity of mailing Christmas packages early in order to insure their delivery on time.

Mr. New has directed this year that no postal employe do any work on Christmas Day, except that necessary to the dispatch of the outgoing mails. This means that the postal workers will have a full holiday, something he has never had before on Christmas day.

No Deliveries Christmas Day

There will be no mail deliveries, either city or rural, and no stamp or other windows in the postoffice will be opened at any time during the day.

A part of Mr. New's article, printed in "Justice," is quoted as follows:

"It is well to call the attention of the public to the two periods in the year when the expansive properties of the postoffice department are put to their severest tests. Thes are at Christmas and Easter.

"Persons in this country exchange more gifts than any other class of people in the world and it would be well to remember that the addition of this work places an enormous task upon the department. Should the people of this country decide to do all their mailing on a single day, or evenwithin 2 or 3 days, the postal clerks would be completely swamped and it would be physically imposible to deliver them.

Urges People To Mail Early

"In the hope that all this vast amount of Christmas business may be delivered before Christmas day the postoffice department is once more engaged in a campaign to urge the mailing of packages early. If you intend to send a Christmas parcel or package this year through the mails why not mail it early? Why not mail it today? You can mark it 'Not to be opened until Christmas.'

"By doing your Christmas shopping and mailing early, you have no idea how helpful you wil be to your letter carrier and to the other postal employes who are compelled to exert all of their energies and give 100 per cent service in order that the Christmas mails may not be delayed."

Elko Buss Gets 13

Elko Buss should join that "Black Cat League" at Los Angeles, composed of thirteen stunt flyers, and each of their names contains thirteen letters. On Friday the thirteenth they defy death by doing all kinds of dangerous stunts and get away with it, as they did Nov. 13.

Elko probably wouldn't qualify as a stunt flyer but should be eligible to join the society. He has again procured No. 13 to decorate his big Buick. The family didn't exactly hanker for the number but won't admit it says Elko. He says if they don't like No. 13 nothing is going to stop them from riding in the Ford, which carries license plate No. 14.

Elko says 13 is lucky and is going to stick to it.

Alexandra's Casket Followed by Four Kings

This remarkable photograph was cabled from London to the United States and shows four kings and a crown prince marching behind the casket containing the body of the late Queen Dowager Alexandra as the procession slowly moved over a carpet of snow from St. James palace to Westminster abbey. Left to right: King George of England, prince of Wales, King Christian X of Denmark, King Haakon of Norway and King Albert of Belgium.

Tomb of Poland's Unknown Hero

The tomb of the Unknown Soldier of Poland in Warsaw, covered with floral offerings just after the ceremonies attending the burial of the soldier took place. The President of the Polish republic and other high officials took part in the ceremonies. The body of the soldier was exhumed in a battlefield near Lemburg.

Fine Titian Goes to Minneapolis

"The Temptation of Christ," considered the best painting in this country by Titian, recently purchased by the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. The purchase price is reported to have been more than $200,000.

Wild Duck Hunters Get Big Bags

With the wild ducks in flight south, hunters along the Atlantic seaboard are bringing in good bags of game with which to grace the festive board. In this photograph Howard F. Brickley of Wilmington, Del., and C. J. McNutt of Oxford, Pa., are shown, surrounded by decoys, waiting for the flight of ducks over their heads, near Havre de Grace, Md.

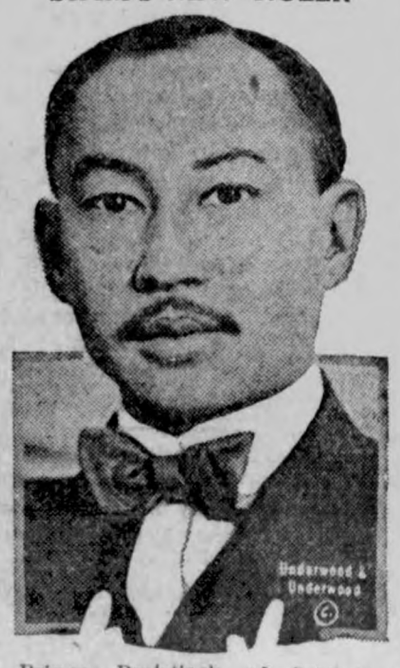
MRS. BORAH'S CHARITY

Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of Senator Borah of Idaho, is "Lady Bountiful" to the patients of St. Elizabeth's hospital in Washington, where there are still many human wrecks as a result of the World war. Several times each week Mrs. Borah goes out to St. Elizabeth's with little luxuries for the patients.

CHAMPION OF SOUTH

Master Meredith S. Taylor, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Taylor of Carlisle, Nicholas county, Ky., holds the southern championship for weight for age, topping the scales at 100 pounds. His other measurements are: Height, 43 inches; circumference of head, 22 inches; neck, 14 inches; shoulders, 46 inches; chest, 40 inches; arm, 12 inches; wrist 7 inches; thigh, 22 inches; calf, 14 inches; ankle, 9 inches; foot, 7½ inches long and 3½ inches wide.

SIAM'S NEW RULER



Prince Prajatipok of Sukhodaya, who has been proclaimed king of Siam, following the death of King Rama VI, his brother.

INDUSTRIAL HEADS DISCUSS U. S. DEFENSE

Mobilization of Business in Times of National Crisis Topic at Gotham Meet.

New York.—The War department plans, since the World war, of drafting all the industries of America to function in times of national crisis as a single corps of supply, attained a stage of mobilization when industrial leaders, engineers, representatives of the army and leading transportation men of the East met for the exchange of ideas on national defense.

The occasion was a dinner and meeting formally concluding the forty-sixth annual convention of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Judge Elbert H. Gary, who is chairman of the advisory board of the New York ordinance district, presided.

President Coolidge said in a message to Judge Gary, read at the dinner:

"Industrial preparedness as an insurance against war is of the utmost importance. The more real insurance we have against conditions which might lead to war the better for the country. Such gatherings as yours, where patriotic men of judgment and experience turn their attention toward practical methods of preserving peace, deserve the commendation and encouragement of all right-thinking citizens."

Nazimova Says She Is Unwed Wife of Bryant

Hartford, Conn. — The Hartford Courant says that Alla Nazimova, the Russian actress, disclosed in New York that, although Charles Bryant and she had "lived together as man and wife for fourteen years, they were never married."

"He spoke the truth," she told a reporter in New York, "when he made oath at New Milford, Conn., to a statement that he was a single man, free to marry Miss Marjorie Gilhooley, with whom he had fallen in love after she had been abroad to get a divorce from her Russian husband."

Miss Gilhooley and Bryant were married in New Milford last month.

Inventor Sues Eight Radio Firms for $60,000,000

Boston.—Eight corporations, prominent in the radio field, were made defendants in a suit for $60,000,000 filed in United States District court on behalf of Prof. Reginald A. Fessenden of Newton, scientist and inventor. Fessenden charges that a combination on the part of the corporations in restraint of trade has lessened the value of his devices and inventions so that he is forced to seek legal redress.

He charges that his business and the value of his patents have been injured to the extent of $20,000,000 and he asks triple reimbursement under the provisions of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws.

Druses Offer Peace Terms to French Commissioner

Cairo.—Coincident with the arrival of the new French high commissioner in Damascus, the peace terms put forward by the Druse leader were reported in dispatches from Syria. They are as follows: Re-establishment of the former regime in Lebanon; reversal of the policy of splitting up Syria into different administrative units; evacuation of Druse territory by French forces; convocation of the legislative assembly for the formation of a suitable government; conclusion of a Franco-Syrian treaty; amnesty for political offenders and payment of compensations for war damages.

Former Judge Burke Dies as He Asks Justice for Japs

New York.—Thomas Burke, seventy-seven, former justice of the Supreme court of the state of Washington, collapsed and died while urging justice for Japan in a speech before Elihu Root, John W. Davis, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Robert Lansing, former secretary of state, and other prominent trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace at the Carnegie corporation's rooms.

Son of Gov. Smith Keeps Wedding Secret for Year

New York.—Arthur Smith, lacking a few months of nineteen years of age, second son of Gov. Al Smith, was secretly married to Miss Ann Hess, nineteen years old, of Albany a year ago. Within the last few days the young wife became a mother. Then the governor and Mrs. Smith for the first time learned of the romance of their college son.

Mrs. Chaplin Expects Stork

Beverly Hills, Cal.—Charles Chaplin, comedian and film producer, announced the expected arrival of a second child at his home. Birth of the first Chaplin heir, Baby Spencer, was announced last June 29.

U. S. Gunboats at Chee Foo

London.—American and British gunboats have reached the Shantung port of Chefoo, recently the scene of fighting between troops of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin and local forces.

SUCCEEDS SCHALL

Godfrey G. Goodwin of Minnesota, who was elected to the house to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Thomas D. Schall to the senate.

CHILEANS FETE U. S. SAILORS AT ARICA

Cruiser Denver Arrives to Relieve the Rochester.

Arica, Chile.—With the arrival here of the United States Cruiser Denver the Cruiser Rochester left for New York.

Admiral Latimer and the officers of the Rochester received ovations from everybody at a Union club farewell party, including Senor Agustin Edwards, Senor Freyre, and the Chilean and Peruvian delegations, while a bevy of Tacna-Arica's prettiest senoritas escorted the admiral to the dock, carrying bouquets of flowers. General Pershing later visited the Rochester, saying good-by.

Santiago radio messages state that the Chilean delegate to the League of Nations has placed a complete report of the Tacna-Arica happenings before the Geneva body. The papers here carry big headlines and satisfaction is felt among the Chileans here.

The situation otherwise is quiet. Former President Arturo Alessandri's departure without saying farewell to General Pershing has passed unnoticed.

Foreign Minister Barros Jarpa stated in Santiago that he is confident that the present impasse will pass away, that Chile has not lost hope, that the plebiscite will be held, and that neither President Coolidge, General Pershing, nor the American people want trouble with Chile, but all are working toward a peaceful settlement.

Coaches, Athletic Chiefs Meet at Chicago Banquet

Chicago.—Intercollegiate football, its trials, its triumphs and its hopes, passed in review when coaches and athletic directors, ranging from coast to coast, sat as guests of honor at a dinner given by the Commonwealth club at the Morrison hotel, in a gathering that was perhaps the most notable in the history of the game.

Ted Coy, the great Yale fullback of years gone by, said:

"Let's keep the game, our game, free from this rotten professionalism. Let's stop this making of stars, this frenzied worship of the individual players. Let's let those boys alone until they have completed their college careers. Let's not keep driving at them, glorifying them."

December Wheat Soars to $1.78½ in Wild Market

Chicago.—A new season record was set by December wheat when it reached $1.78½ in a day of wild trading in which the market advanced 5¼ to 6⅝ cents. The steady advance of the last four days has carried the market up 16½ cents without the semblance of a break. May wheat reached $1.78⅜.

The buying was precipitated by the pessimistic crop reports from the Argentine, where bad weather caused great damage to the unharvested crop.

U. S. Loses Billiard Title; Belgian Beats Schaefer

Chicago.—Jake Schaefer broke all world's records for a championship billiard match with a run of 432 points at Orchestra hall here in the final block of the match with Edouard Horemans for the 18-2 balk-line title, but nevertheless lost his championship to the Belgian.

Warns Against Counterfeits

Washington.—The secret service has warned against counterfeits of $50 and $100 bills which recently have been placed in circulation. Imperfections in threads, length and omission of a period distinguish the $50 bill.

Two Killed in Tornado

Yazoo City, Miss.—Two dead, 18 injured and property damaged nearly half a million dollars was the toll of a tornado that d'pped here. More than 100 were made homeless.

Take a last look at his whiskers

Diogenes has a new

HE at last found his hones making the Durham-D blade — THE BLADE SWEAR BY—NOT AT. He
it—liked it—and forever mo will be seen with a clean shave

Finding this honest man mean he was out of a job but the Du Duplex Razor Co. found one fo
They gave him a razor wit blade—the same razor as is cont in the $1.50 sets—to present to man with their compliment was merely to charge a fee of 2 cover his expenses).

Safe Razor

If he hasn't reached you as yet mail coupon below along with fee and you will receive post paid a Durham-Duplex Razor and blade exactly as stated above.

New Durham-Duplex Se
Including two packages of 5 blades $1
Interchangeable blades 50c for pac

DURHAM-DUPLEX RAZOR C
Jersey City, N. J.
Factories: Jersey City; Sheffield;
Toronto
Sales Representatives in all Cou

DURHAM-DUPLEX RAZOR CO.
Jersey City, N. J.
I enclose 25c for a Durham-Duple and one blade.
Name
Address
City
Specify type preferred here

DURHAM-DUPLE

The New Banking

It's getting so it is more im for a banker to be a good shot be able to add a column of fig
Sioux City Tribune.

Illiterate Chinese

About 98 per cent of China's lation is illiterate.

It is impossible to destroy by plucking it up.

Gains 20 Pou

Never knows a sick head stomach perfectly well, af taking Beecham's Pills.

"I have taken Beecham's Pil
NO OTHER MEDICINE wi best results for the past fifteen
I started taking them for sick headach a catarrhal stomach, and general
Now I don't know what a headache my stomach is perfectly well.
"From a frail woman weighing les hundred pounds, I have become w healthy and tip the scales at one h and twenty."
Mrs. Fanny A. Burgess, Billeric
A clean inside means a healthy body.
from constipation, sick headaches, bilious attendant ills should keep the system clea regular use of Beecham's Pills.

FREE SAMPLE—Write today for free to B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal St., Ne
Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50
for Better Health, Take Beecham's Pi

Give Her a Chance

Stern Papa (to daughter)— here, Ethel, this young man o comes too often. What are his tions?

Ethel (with a smile and a sh blush)—I don't know, pa. You keeps me—er—so much in the Mansfield Journal.

Colds Fe
Gri
Go Stop them to Stop them quickly—all their dange discomforts. End the fever and headache the poisons out. Hills break colds in 24

They tone the whole system. The prom liable results have led millions to employ
Don't rely on lesser helps, don't del
Be Sure It's HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUIN
Price
Get Red Box with po

Creaky Kne
Quickly Limber U

Nothing on this earth so g
Joint-Ease for joints that are painful, swollen or stiff and an druggist will tell you so.
Just rub it on and away Joi speedily goes through skin an right down to the tendons an ments of the bone—right wh joint trouble starts—then its c ing influence is quickly felt.
Used by millions for both rheumatic joints that need help tention.
A tube for 60 cents at all dr
America over.

PASTOR KOENIG'S
NERVINE for Epilepsy Nervousness &
Sleeplessness
PRICE $1.50 AT YOUR DRUG ST
Write for Free Booklet
KOENIG MEDICINE CO.
1044 N. WELLS ST. CHICAGO, IL

RING OUT, GLAD BELLS

RING out glad bells a joyous strain
For Christmas time has come again.
Let all of us be glad and gay
And make of it a merry day.
—Katherine Edelman.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

...iving Happiness —Passing It On

...tending Joy to Others Is Agreeable Form of Indirect Payment.

By PATIENCE EDEN

"YOU are always doing some kind thing for me. I don't understand it."

Janet, a small creature with enormous eyes and frail hands, looked up at the woman ...ding before her. "You come to see ... you bring fruit and flowers and ...ks," she continued; "you are unlingly thoughtful. I can do nothing ... you except give you gratitude and ...nks."

The older woman smiled.

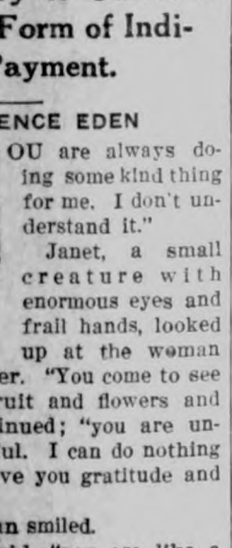
"Janet," she said, "you are like a ...t many other people I know. You ...e to understand things that are ...t necessary to understand. And you ...nk you must give return payment ... things that should not be considered ... that light."

Janet looked puzzled. "Well, but ...ry," she floundered, "you must ad... that I have accepted gifts rather ...liantly. Gifts . . . and gifts. . . ... gifts. I must speak about it. I ...n't take things from you forever and ... mention it, even though I'm still ...valescing from that accident."

Mary drew a chair nearer and sat ...wn. "Oh, give me all the gratitude ...u like. I don't ...nd that. Only ...n't worry about ... You take all ...e fun out of it. ...cept, my child, ...d don't be tor...nted with silly ...as of some ...d of payment. ...re it is Christ...s Eve, when ...e Spirit of Giv... is abroad in ...e land. There ...nothing so love...as giving. But ...w can one en... this pleasure ...intelligent peo...e like you in... on regarding it so seriously? ...sten to me, Janet, and I will tell you ...story of another Christmas Eve."

...anet rested her head on the back of ...e chair and regarded her friend ...th grave affection. Mary was a ...ce of strength. What would have ...e these bleak months of recovery ...thout her?

"Once when I was about ten years ...," began Mary, "I was visiting at ... grandfather's farm. We always ...nt there for a good, old-fashioned ...ristmas. It was a delightful place. ...ough rides, coasting, skating, trips ...o the woods for Christmas greens. ...erything that a child would find joy ... doing. Christmas Eve particularly ...as overflowing with a kind of intoxicating joy. Stockings pinned to the mantel, a tree in the corner, secrets whispered about surprises—oh, the finest feeling in the world, Janet.



"Well," continued Mary looking out into the dusk with a gentle wistfulness in her face, "at this time I mention, I happened to be hiding behind the Christmas tree in the corner. The other children had been packed off to bed. I think I was trying to sit up and determine, once for all, if there was a Santa Claus. My mother and grandfather were talking together by the fireplace and my mother was trying to express her feelings about being there. She told grandfather that it meant everything in the world for her to bring her children to the farm for Christmas. 'They will never forget this season of happiness,' she said. 'Christmas to them will always shine in a glow of joyous memory. You are giving them and me the most precious capital in the world: one on which we can draw for inspiration as long as we live.' Then she asked him how she could ever repay him for his generosity.

"Grandfather looked at her and said slowly, 'If these Christmases mean what you say to your children, you need not worry about any returns to me. Payment does not always come back directly. It goes on in other ways. Your children, from the happy memories in this house, will continue to carry on the tradition. They will make other people happy for the sake of the merry times they had here. My payment comes in knowing this. I give happiness to you and them, and they, in turn, will pass it on to others. It is a form of indirect payment. The satisfaction of seeing the seed of joy blossom into generosity towards others is the best payment in the world.'

"Janet," went on Mary, "I did not see Santa Claus that night I hid behind the Christmas tree, but I sneaked out and went to bed thinking about grandfather. It is something I can never forget. If it has been possible to bring you a few things that help to while away the dull days, blame it on grandfather. He started the debt. I'm paying him partly through you. . . ." Mary's voice trailed off into silence. She was thinking of that low, square room in the farmhouse where she spent so many happy holidays.

Janet leaned forward and touched her softly. "It is a beautiful way to explain your kindness," she whispered, "but whom am I to pay?"

Mary looked at the frail girl in the big chair. " I overheard the little maid who comes in to mop your floor say that you were 'the beautifulest patient in the hospital.' She adores you as a kind of goddess. Maybe you can find a happy target in her. Aim one of your enchanting smiles at her and see what happens. Now I must go. Merry Christmas!"

Mary left in a breeze of cheerfulness.

A quarter of an hour later found Janet and the little maid who mopped the floors in a gale of laughter. Janet was telling her a story and had heaped her arms with fruit. The little maid seemed transfigured with happiness. And it is said that she later gave most of her fruit away to the cook.

"Indirect payment. . . ." whispered Janet to herself as she slipped that night into the harbor of sleep.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

SAVES PENNIES FOR CAPITAL CHRISTMAS

"MRS. HULL has a capital plan of saving and giving Christmas capital which she calls her 'fancy fund,' because she uses it exactly as she wishes, with no drawing on the regular family income," Mrs. Ross exclaimed enthusiastically to her friends at an afternoon tea.

"The day after Christmas Mrs. Hull begins saving pennies that come into her hands through the year. She places them in a toy bank and adds six per cent interest at the end of the year. If she has saved ten dollars in pennies she adds sixty cents, which she says pays postage on her Christmas parcels. She always has a fund for Christmas, for she has never acquired the 'penny habit of giving' to church activities. Last year she divided the 'fancy fund' among her nieces and nephews, with instructions that the small amount was to be placed in saving and to be added to, or used as capital to compile more capital. The results were interesting, for each recipient must always keep that amount in reserve for a future savings account.

"Once Mrs. Hull purchased seeds and bulbs and distributed them where they would be appreciated; once she subscribed for magazines which rotated among a large number of readers, some in public institutions. Another time she ordered toys, games and books for a children's home; another year she procured dozens of small dolls, with remnants for clothes, to send to a needy mission school. Once she sent hundreds of greeting cards, and once scores of inspiring mottoes to places where such things are seldom seen. Her mother one year received a fresh bouquet or a plant every few weeks during the year. This year her husband, who promised her his pennies, has added to her 'fancy fund.' She has over twelve dollars with the interest, and she has figured she may spend twenty-five cents each week during the year in making someone happier—fifty-two weeks of sending Christmas cheer! As ideas and opportunities present themselves each week she will use the fund. The first week she invited a homesick college boy into her home to spend the week-end.

"It seems to me that Mrs. Hull is accumulating more than cold capital in her penny plan. She is establishing a 'bank of blessings' with unlimited 'reserve funds of love,' which compounds interest at a rapid rate and pays one hundred per cent."

"Divinelike dividends," Mrs. Leigh answered softly.—Gertrude Walton.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR THE SHOP GIRLS

THE woman made a leisurely survey of the vast outspread of Christmas goods, then turned to the girl behind the counter.

"You must have a Christmasy feeling in here," she congratulated. "I almost envy you, my dear. That group of school girls did seem so happy over something."

It was early, with very few customers. The woman talked at the counter ten minutes or more, then was conscious of a low, peculiar whistle.

The counter girl flushed anxiously and moved straight toward the office of the room manager.

The customer went on a few yards to another girl.

"What is it?" she asked; "my talking with her? She is a nice girl."

"Janie is awful nice, paying a sister's expenses at school, and supporting her mother. Pity the room manager wants her job for another—but please don't be seen talking to me any more. I—I can't risk losing my place."

"Why, my poor child! I should be seen buying instead of talking. U'm! And down by the door a girl said that this store stops salaries on vacations. U'm!"

The girl Janie was just coming from the office, crying.

"Fired you, did they?" snapped the customer, frowning. "Tell me how?"

"Here—here," fumed the floor manager, at the door. "Our discipline—er, why Mrs. Waite, I—I didn't recognize you in that plain dress. It's—er, all right. N-nothing will be done. And—and don't mention it to Mr. Hall. It might—er, lose me my—head."

"Might be a good thing for the help, too," ungraciously. "Now, look here. Janie is to have a new position, at half salary extra, as sort of room host to go round and talk with customers and help smooth out their perplexities. And vacations of all the girls are to be taken with salaries continued."

"But—"

"Or I shall change my custom to a more humane store. Have a talk with the owners. Tell them the alternative. They will jump to do it. No, Janie," at the girl's wondering look," I don't own a cent of stock; just supposed to be the largest customer. And—er, I'm trying to make all you girls a Christmas present."—Frank Herbert Sweet

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Sing Hey and Ho!

Sing hey and ho for the Christmas tree!
And ho for the Christmas joys!
And hey and ho and three times three
For the merry girls and boys!
—F. H. Sweet.

AIR BOARD REJECTS MITCHELL'S PLANS

Fighting Force Equals Any—"Flying Coffins" Discredited.

Washington. — President Coolidge's aircraft board, in its report, made public here, rejected all the major recommendations of Colonel Mitchell.

The report held Mitchell's criticism of America's collapse in the air to be untrue, made a series of technical recommendations to give aviation a better standing in the army and navy and urged the country to take the lead over the world in commercial aviation.

The board, headed by Dwight W. Morrow, made these statements to President Coolidge:

America's fighting air forces are on a par with any of the world powers.

Uncle Sam's flyers are unsurpassed, despite their resentment that the air service has at times failed of proper recognition by the army and navy chiefs.

In both quality and quantity of planes the United States compares favorably with any other nation.

The air forces, as an arm of national defense, have as yet failed to justify an importance which should give them a separate standing, equal to the army and navy, with a separate cabinet officer in command.

Combination of the War, Navy and Air departments in a department of national defense with a single secretary would require a super-general staff, which would not make for economy in time of peace or efficiency in time of war.

The United States is absolutely without danger of attack by air from any potential enemy.

The "flaming coffins," in which aviators are alleged to fly against their will, have actually flown 1,000,000 miles across country without a single accident.

The next war may start in the air, but in all probability will end as the last one did, in the mud.

Among recommendations for the air service were:

Increased appropriation for army and navy air services, but with definite plans for no longer than five years. Maintain naval aviation at a strength comparable with that of the 5-5-3 ratio established for ships by the arms conference for Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

Record Prices Paid for Meat at Live Stock Show

Chicago.—Prices that have never been approached in the live-stock world before were paid for animals on the hoof and carcasses on the hook at the International Live-stock exposition.

The grand champion beef carcass sold at $7 a pound. It was that of Jock, a pure-bred Aberdeen-Angus steer, owned by W. W. Wilson & Son of Muncie, Ind.

Eight dollars a pound was paid for the grand champion lamb. The grand champion swine carcass brought 45 cents a pound, another record price. The grand champion baby-beef animal of the show, an Aberdeen-Angus owned and exhibited by Pauline Brown of Aledo, Ill., sold for 20 cents a pound. The animal weighed 1,155 pounds, netting Miss Brown $231.

Spain Abolishes Military Rules; Rivera New Premier

Madrid.—The abolition of the military directorate in Spain and its succession by a civil cabinet with General Primo de Rivera as premier was agreed to by King Alphonso. The new government will take the oath of office before the king.

Five of the new members formerly served with the military directorate of which General Rivera was the president.

Evacuation of Cologne to Be Complete by Jan. 31

London.—The European statesmen, who signed the Locarno pacts reached an agreement whereby the evacuation of Cologne by the allies will be speeded to completion by January 31. The Belgian forces in the Rhineland will be immediately reduced. Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of Russia is expected here early next week and may discuss the Soviets' entrance into the League of Nations.

U. S. Offered $2,836,560 for Land That Cost $71,000

Washington.—A single bid of $2,836,560 for the 800-acre tract of the Chapman field military reservation near Miami, Fla., was received by the War department from Nathan Friedman of New York.

The government paid $71,000 originally for 850 acres in the tract, but has since transferred some ground to the Department of Agriculture.

Yanks Share Belgian Loan

New York.—J. P. Morgan and Company and the Guaranty Trust Company of New York announced American participation in a loan to improve the monetary position of Belgium of an estimated $25,000,000 loan.

Get Rum Smuggler Confession

New York.—Federal authorities announced that a confession had been obtained from a coast guardsman corroborating the charges of a $10,000,000 rum smuggling ring.

For Colds

BAYER

ASPIRIN

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Colds	Headache	Neuralgia	Lumbago
Pain	Toothache	Neuritis	Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe

Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Where Credit Is Due

Reverend Whitsett—Seven children, eh? My good man, you deserve a great deal of credit for raising a family like that.

Truitt—I certainly do, but I manage to pay most everything eventually.—Philadelphia Record.

Warn Against Sports

Another warning against excessive sport in Germany has been sounded by certain members of the Catholic center and German Nationalist parties. It seems that German youth now spend most of Sunday in gymnasiums and on athletic fields.

"They haven't missed a single day at school!"

"They're well all the time. The doctor says they are the healthiest children he knows.

"He told me constipation is what makes so many growing children sickly. Poisons from the waste matter spread through the little bodies, and lower their resistance to disease. So I'm very careful to guard against constipation. I simply give them a little Nujol every night.

"Nujol isn't a laxative at all, you know, but it keeps them just as regular as clockwork. They like it, and the doctor says it's just the thing for them."

Nujol helps Nature in Nature's own way

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When their children's health is at stake they seek the remedy that medical authorities approve because it is so safe, so gentle, so natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination, without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Nujol
THE INTERNAL LUBRICANT
For Constipation

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and let your children enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when their elimination is normal and regular.

Playing the Parts

"Economy and happiness go hand in hand."

"All right, dear; you be economy."

Difference of opinion is the greatest common divisor.

The Worst Is Yet to Come

"Nora, you sing too much."

"Don't worry, mum; next week I'm buying a saxophone."

Man is the animal that uses a cook book and employs a physician.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless - No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Mrs. C. F. Keraus returned from her visit at Swea City Sunday, where she had been since Thanksgiving. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mitchel brought her home in their car.

The Kanawha Reporter states that Rev. Ortmeyer and family have been released from quarantine. They were quarantined on acount of scarlet fever.

There will be a basket and pie social at Liberty No. 7, Thursday, December 17th. A program will also be given. Ladies please bring pie or baskets. Norma Stromer, teacher. 1wp

Mr. and Mrs. Worthy Usher came from Palo, Iowa, Monday morning. Mr. Usher returned home on the train but Mrs. Usher will remain until after the Holidays for a visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blank.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

The Sunday school class, of which Mr. Penrod is the teacher, will put on a party at the Parish House on Monday night. All members of the class are urged to attend. The class plans to have a number of parties during the winter.

Last week the Citizens State Bank at Eagle Grove was closed on account of the alleged embezzlement by Ernest Thompson, an assistant cashier of an amount estimated at $235,000. The embezzlement extended over a period of four years, and although his salary was but $125.00 per month he owned an equity in a number of fine farms finely stocked with pure bred stock, he had a fine home and a couple of fine cars. He is now lodged in the Wright County jail.

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

CYLINDER RE-BORING
AUTO REPAIR WORK
PHILCO BATTERIES
GENERAL BLACKSMITHING
EXPERT WELDING
Bring Your Work To Us!

Pavey's
STORMIZING SHOP

Rev. Metcalf, who is conducting evangelistic services at Garner, was visiting with Klemme friends Monday. Rev. Metcalf conducts services every night beginning at 7:30 at the Methodist church at Garner, except on Monday evenings. He says he wil welcome a visit from his Klemme friends.

Goodell News

Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Kensitt and Junior, of Belmond, spent Sunday at the Avery home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. D. Kahrs, of Ventura, visited at the Lamer home Sunday.

Mrs. J. J. Cook returned from the Hampton hospital Saturday. She is much improved.

The U. B. Church ladies will hold their Bazar and supper in the basement of the Church Saturday, Dec. 12th. Everybody come!

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter visited at the Cook home Sunday.

Frederick Schneider has been absent from school nearly all week on account of sickness.

Vogal Christiansen is at the Hampton hospital for examination.

Arrangements are being made for the Christmas program at the U. B. church.

Grandma Monaghen has been on the sick list the past week.

E. J. Schneider and son, Robert, returned from Chicago, Friday morning.

Esther Harberts is home from Cedar Falls.

Frank McNutt was on the sick list last week.

Mrs. Allaben returned from Cedar Falls, Montana. She had been staying with Dorothy, who had an operation for appendicitis. Dorothy is getting along nicely.

Joe Houghton, who has been suffering from asthma, left Monday night for Denver, Colo.

Dorothy Lackore spent the week end with her parents.

Harve Christensen was transacting business in Waterloo last week.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
A. W. Gauger, Pastor

Universal Bible Sunday service proved interesting and profitable. The special music played no small part in the making it so.

All services next Sunday will be regular.

We are sorry to miss various ones in our services because of sickness. or for other reasons, but hope they may soon recover and fall in line.

Simple Mixture Makes Stomach Feel Fine

Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, often helps stomach trouble in TEN minutes by removing GAS. Brings out a surprising amount of old waste matter you never thought was in your system. Stops that full, bloated feeling and makes you happy and cheerful. Excellent for chronic constipation. Adlerika works QUICK and delightfully easy. Wilson's Pharmacy. 1tc

GRANGE, FOOTBALL STAR, SET ON MAKING A MILLION

Grid Hero Says He'll Go Back Home and Settle Down When His Career Is Done

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—"Red" Grange, who crosed other people's goal line so often that he has become the nations most famous football character, has set one for himself, a million dollars.

In his dash for the new goal Red has stiff-armed love by his own admission. When he makes his "touch down," he plans to go back to Wheaton, Ill., now become famous for its ice and redheads, and be a solid citizen, riding around in his car.

$300,000 From Movies

Grange's statements as to his future came after a day of signing papers which enriched his cause by something like $375,000. The Arrow Pictures corporation produced a check for $300,000 for his appearance in motion pictures.

Manufacturing firms contributed $40,000 for the use of his name in conection with various articles. The New York professional football management paid $35.000 for his performance in the game here Sunday.

Nearly Half A Million

Just before departing for Washington, where he plays again Grange managed to recover himself long enough to remark:

"I told father that I was leaving college before graduating because I thought I could earn enough in profesional football to repay him for what he spent on my education. But I got that much so quickly I figured I'd better go on and get set for life. With what I collected today I have already got salted away in the bank nearly half a million dollars.

OBITUARY
MR. JOHN GRUETZMACHER

Genuine sorrow obtained on Sunday noon when it was learned that Mr. John Gruetzmacher had been suddenly stricken and was seriously ill.

While he had not been as sprightly of late as formerly yet he was considered as of good health. This made the shock the greater. From the beginning serious consequences were feared. He began to feel ill about the middle of the forenoon making it advisable for him and his family to abandon the plans for the day, thinking that by rest and quiet he would soon be well again. Instead his condition became more grave as the forenoon wore on, when medical help and members of the family were summoned to his bedside. At about one o'clock he lapsed into unconsciousness from which he did not rally again, until his soul took its flight to the immortal realms the following morning.

Without doubt, everyone who knew him considered him a man of God and a living example of the saving and keeping power of the religion of Jesus Christ.

Often had he expressed the desire that when the time of his departure came that he would like to go suddenly and thus be spared of a long siege of sickness and suffering.

He had also said that one should always live so close to God that when God called He find us ready.

The first came happily true and the last was happily true we firmly believe.

Mr. John Gruetzmacher was born at Columbus, Wis., on October 21, 1854, and died after a brief illness early Monday morning, Nov. 20, 1925, at the age of 71 years, 1 month and 9 days.

He lived at the place of his birth until about 24 years of age when he was married to Miss Mary Schaefer, on October 12, 1878. Soon after their marriage they took their departure and moved westward to Hancock County, Iowa, taking up their abode on a farm three miles west of Klemme, now known as the Christ Schaefer farm.

Two daughters were born to this union. They are Mrs. Paul Griesemer, who with her mother, survive the father and husband, and Miss Esther, who preceded her father about seven years ago.

After living on the farm for some years the family moved to Klemme shortly after the beginning of this new town, where Mr. Gruetzmacher entered busines as a grain dealer. He met with signal success in his business venture. This may no doubt be attributed to his straightforwardness and honesty in all his dealings.

He later entered into partnership with his brother, George, in the hardware and implement business, also holding the oice offf postmaster for about 18 years.

It was the rich heritage of the deceased to be born and reared in a Christian home where praying parents directed him in early youth and gave him direction for his later life. All this with telling effect, for he not only became a member of the church in early life but he tried to apply the principles of the religion of Jesus Christ in the business and social world as well.

For many years he was an officer in the church, serving the church in one capacity or another. To him it was a great event when the several churches showed the grace and wisdom to look beyond their own confines and to join for a bigger and better work for the Kingdom of God at this place.

Mr. Gruetzmacher is survived by his companion of nearly half a century, by his daughter, Huldah; by his brothers, George and Frank of this place and brother Charles, of Lime Springs, Iowa. Two brothers preceded him in death. One son-in-law, P. M. Griesemer, seven nieces, eight newphews, besides many other relatives and close friends mourn his death.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at two o'clock in the Methodist Church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Gauger. He was assisted by Rev. Metcalf who several years ago conducted an evangelistic meeting here, by Rev. Van Metre of Garner, and by Rev. Meyer and Rev. Wessel. The latter two gentlemen were former pastors of the deceased.

Interment was made in the Klemme cemetery.

Card Of Thanks

We the undersigned wish to thank our many friends for the sympathetic words and deeds of kindness during the illness and death of beloved Husband and Father, for the beautiful floral offerings, and also wish to thank the Male Quartet for the beautiful songs rendered.

Mrs. John Gruetzmacher,
Mrs. P. M. Griesemer,
Mr. P. M. Griesemer.

ALUMINUM FOUND ON FARM IN SOUTHERN IOWA, BELIEF

CENTERVILLE, Dec. 10.—S. A. Vinzant, farmer, refuses to be outdone by reports of oil at Seymour, a seven foot vein of semi-anthracite coal on a farm near the same place, of molten metal believed to be gold or copper alloy on the Ed Streepy farm, or of gold or copper on the Chas. Howe farm. Vinzant believes that there is aluminum on his arm north of Centerville. He states the raw material was found at a depth of several feet and that there is but little doubt about the identity of the metal.

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP

PUBLIC AUCTION

As I have decided to move to Minnesota, I will hold a public auction on the old Cherry farm 2 miles south and 1 mile east of Klemme; 5 miles northeast of Goodell and 9 miles northwest of Meservey, on:

Wednesday, Dec. 16th

Sale at 11 A. M. Free Lunch at Noon

12 Head of Horses, Mules & Ponies
From 6 to 12 years old

26 Head of Cattle
11 Head of Milch Cows, some fresh, others will be fresh soon; 6 yearling heifers, 2 bulls 6 mo. old, 2 yearling bulls, 3 fall calves.

Full Line Of Farm Machinery
This machinery consists of every kind of machine, wagons, etc, used on the farm. Harnesses, etc. See large bills for complete list.

TERMS—Cash on date of sale. All prospective purchasers who will to have time must see Clerk before date of sale. No property to be removed until settled for.

H. BEEK, Owner
B. A. Reemtsma, Auctioneer.
First Nat. Bank, Klemme, Clerk.

Try It!

Try it once, and you will come back for more—that's how good our shelf specialties are.

TRY Heinz Ketchup next time you buy ketchup—it's great, try it.

TRY our Sardines, we have them in a variety of kinds to suit your taste, try 'em.

TRY our Sauerkraut—it's fine, that's what they all say after they try it.

TRY our Oytsers—have an oyster supper occasionally, it's a good variety, try it.

TRY our Cheese—yes, we have every kind you can think of, it's always fresh too, try it!

TRY our Breakfast Mackerel they are all ready to cook—try them.

TRY some of Choice Bacon, either in whole or sliced—it's sure good, try it.

TRY any of Heninz "57" varieties, they always please, try them.

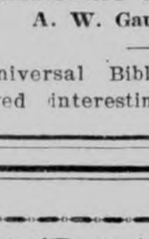
TRY buying a quarter of Beef for a change—you can buy it here cheaper than you can butcher—try it.

We are always glad to serve you.

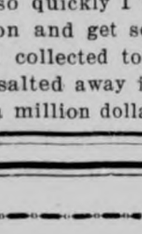
Klemme Meat Market

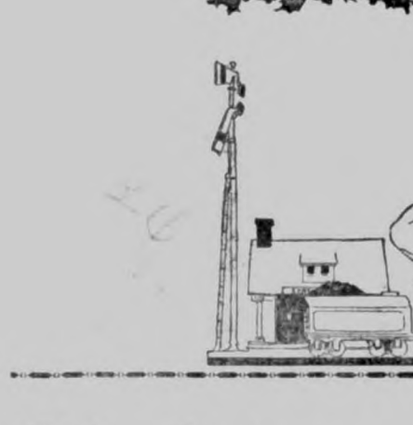
Christmas Suggestions

Tops
Games
Wrist Watches
Fountain Pens
Silver Pencils
Mesh Bags



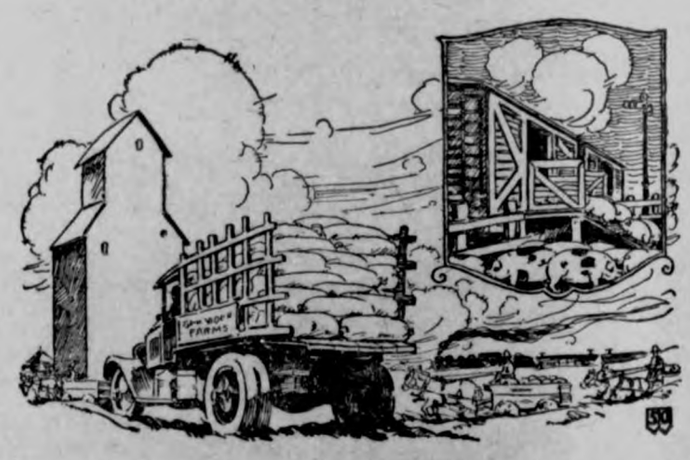
Books
Watch Chains
Belt Buckles
Dolls
Harmonicas
Compacts
Stationery
Kodaks
Photo Albums
Ivory Combs
Cuff Links
Military Sets
Bobbed Hair Sets





Toilet Sets
BOX CANDY
XMAS CIGARS
Manicure Sets
Shaving Sets
BRICK ICE CREAM

Wilson's Pharmacy



HANDLING THE RETURNS

Modern methods are used in the handling and marketing of grain and live stock. They are also used in the handling of the returns you receive when selling.

Regardless of what banks the checks are drawn on they can be deposited with and cleared through The First National Bank of this city. Your business will be appreciated.

First National Bank.
KLEMME. IOWA.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS--

Christmas will be here in a few days and it is not too early to think of buying your Christmas Candies, Nuts, Cigars, Etc. You will find a nce selection of Christmas Candies here, in both Bulk and in Fancy Boxes.

Always a nice fresh line of Cigars—give "hm" a box of "Smokes" for Christmas—there is nothing which will please him more. A nice box of Candy for "her" will be just the thing.

Then we always have Ice Cream in a number of flavors, Nuts and Fruit for your Christmas dinner.

—Call On Us—

Conrad Quandt

The Crystal Cafe — Klemme, Iowa

A Gift for Friends

TO NO ONE BUT A FRIEND WOULD YOU CARE TO GIVE YOUR PHOTOGRAPH, so what more marked intimacy could you give to a gift than to make it a Photograph in one of the many beautiful mountings we are showing? Phone 1227-J. for appointment.

Photos in folders $6.00 per dozen and up

Kirk Studio

11½ South Federal Avenue — Mason City, Iowa.

Chests of Silver--

A CHEST OF SILVER IS ONE OF THE MOST PRACTICAL AND BEAUTIFUL GIFTS YOU CAN SELECT FOR YOUR WIFE. LET US SHOW YOU OUR SILVERWARE AND OTHER GOOD GIFTS.

WE CARRY A FULL LINE OF PYREX, ALUMINUM AND ENAMEL WARE, BAKING DISHES, ROASTERS, CUTLERY, AND MANY OTHER ARTICLES.

E. F. Jacobs

News of Klemme and Vicinity

G. W. Kluckhohn was at Garner Monday afternoon on business.

FOR SALE—Buff Rock Cockerels. Mrs. Peter Trampell, Goodell, Iowa. D-3-17-c

Do your shopping early—trade 'n Klemme!

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Poort were at Mason City on business Saturday.

Full line of Christmas Greeting Cards at Wilson's Pharmacy. tc

Mrs. Sumner Trumbell was visiting at Hampton Saturday.

Thanksgiving is over, but the worst is yet to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Griggs were up from Godell Wednesday morning on business.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Gauger visited friends at Garner Wednesday afternoon.

FOR SALE cheap if taken at once my 5-tube neutrodyne radio set with loud speaker. C. G. Waterman. tfc

R. A. Jorgenson and family spent Sunday visiting relatives at Mason City.

Have some good Duroc Boars for sale, must be sold by Dec. 20th. See Emil W. Lau. 1-17c

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jacobs were entertained at diner Sunday by Mason City friends.

Your friend can buy anything you can give them but your Photograph. Kirk Studio, Mason City, Ia. 2tc

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larsen entertained the R. W. Elder family at dinner Sunday.

It is getting time to decide which of our New Year's resolutions we will break first.

A dozen Photos—a dozen Gift Problems solved! Have it taken at Kirk Studio, Mason City, Ia. 2tc

The Royal Neighbors entertained at a card party last Thursday evening. All reported a good time.

Photos taken before the 20th promised for Christmas delivery. Kirk Studio, Mason City, Ia. 2tc

A nine pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson Monday morning.

POLICE PUPS FOR SALE—These are thoro-breds, priced right. Vic Huenemann. D-3-10c

The W. F. M. S. had a fine meeting at the home of Mrs. A. D. Gimer last Friday afternoon. All reported a fine time.

Beat Hayfield Friday night there! That's the battle cry our basket ball boys and girls are yelling. Let's all go! The roads are fine.

S. C. R. I. Re Cockerels, Payne Exhibition Bred. Highest egg production. March hatched. $1.50 to $3.00. Mrs. John Josten. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gimer and daughter, Thelma, drove to Abbott, Iowa, Tuesday, returning to Klemme again Wednesday.

Emil Krause moved to town last week. We understand Karl will move on the farm vacated by Emil and family.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Koerner and daughter, Dolores, and Mis Leona Lau, were Mason City visitors Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith and daughters, Mis Mabel, and Mrs. J. N. Day drove to Mason City Tuesday for a visit with relatives.

It isn't safe to drive a car on a cold day without alcohol in the radiator. Neither is it safe to drive a car with alcohol in the driver.

Rev. Meyer, who was here to assist at the John Gruetzmacher funeral, returned to his home at Edgewood, Iowa, Friday.

Edwi nJosten met with a serious acident Monday. He was fixing up a pump and in some manner it fell on him, crushing two fingers, which necessitated an amputation of the 'njured fingers.

Full line of Christmas Greeting Cards at Wilson's Pharmacy. tc

See Emil Lau if you want a good Duroc Jersey Boar. 10-17c

The Ladies Aid Society held their regular meeting this afternoon at the Parish House, with Mesdames Chris Gram and John Johnson hostesses.

Have you renewed your subscription to The Times? Remember on January 1st the rates advance. Save money by subscribing and renewing now.

The Junior Class of the Klemme high school are putting on a carnival at the gym Saturday night. From their advertising we judge it will be quite an attraction.

Ray Anderson returned to his home at Miller, Kansas, after a visit with relatives here and at Garner. He is a nephew of Dr. D. P. Anderson.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

Mrs. Josten came from Garner Saturday evening for an extended visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. W. Gauger. She had been at the Mercy hospital at Mason City for five weeks taking treatments.

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, Dec. 10, 1295

EGGS (trade)	.42
EGGS (Cash)	.41
HEAVY HENS	.20
LIGHT HENS	.15
STANDARD SPRINGS	.20
LEGHORN SPRINGS	.15
DUCKS	.12
OLD ROOSTERS	.07
GEESE	.10
BUTTERFAT	.55
BUTTER (Kleme Creamery)	.53
EAR CORN	45. to .50
RYE	.65—.70
WHEAT	$1.50
OATS	.30
BARLEY	.45-.50
HOGS (Top)	11.30

Dr. R. W. Specht

—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner — Iowa

Friday we had a genuine old fashioned blizzard in this part of the state. However there was but little snow and so did not pile up in big drifts. The storm had all the earmarks of an old timer. This will be good reading for Walt Bloom and "Doc" Stiehl in California and 'Zip" McCulloug in Florida. We suggest they eat ice cream while reading this to give them the "local color."

DR. R. E. PORTER

Chiropractic Health Service

North Side Main Street

Phone 312 — Belmond, Iowa

Radiola 6 Tube

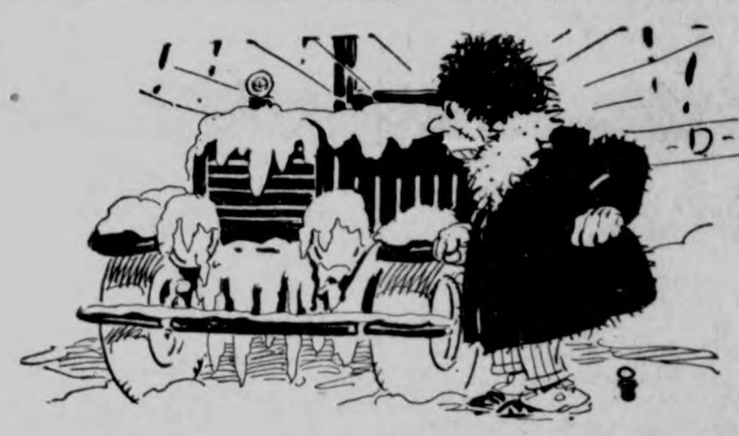
SUPER-HETRODYNE

Can order a limited number from St. Louis. The regular price, less accessories is $116.00. Order one now before Xmas for $100.00, delivered.

Hear that Tone Bosch, Full Toned Wood Conoid Reproducer, with plenty of volume from deepest organ tone to the highest birdlike soprano note. Most human Radio of today, $215 installed complete. $175 Cash. Hear it at Arnil or Peter Josten's.

Karl Krause

Route 2 — VENTURA, IOWA.



When Words Fail

IT TAKES MORE THAN WORDS TO KEEP YOUR CAR RUNNING PERFECTLY IN WINTER

Remember that prevention is better than a cure. Bring your car to us and let us fix it up for winter.

"We Sell Good Service"

Let us install a good heater on your car—drive in comfort in the coldest of weather. And here's another good "wrinkle"—let us equip your car with one of those new Stewart-Warner Radiator Condensers, it saves alcohol in your radiator—no need to ever worry in the coldest of weather.

We are equipped to give you the best of service and the right kind of a job on any kind of repairing.

Pavey's Stormizing Shop

Ever-Ready Gasoline — Pure Pennsylvania Motor Oil

Christmas Headquarters

Christmas Bells are ringing and Santo Claus will soon be here! So it is time to do your shoppng.

You will find we have a nicea line of Toys, Games, Story Books, Dolls, and Banks for the Children.

GIFTS FOR MEN—Neck Ties, Mufflers, Handkerchiefs, Dress Shirts, and Socks, etc.

GIFTS FOR LADIES—Fancy Linens, Towels, Bed Spreads, Table Damask, Hand Bags, China, Hosiery, and Dress Goods.

25 per cent off on any article in our Jewelry Line.

All useful gifts for Christmas. Not only shop early but SHOP NOW.

SPECIAL FOR SATURDAY

Butter-Nut Pancake Flour, only 34c

Pay Cash and Pay Less At

J. N. Day's Cash Store

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound School Teacher's Experience

Evanston, Wyoming.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as girls often have, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me. In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have twin boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. VERBENA CARPENTER, 127 2nd Avenue, Evanston, Wyoming.

Drugs on the Market

Amy Lowell, the lamented poet of New England, was rich, but she often complained about the small profits that accrued to her from her little books of poetry.

In a lecture in Boston Miss Lowell adverted to the gross materialism of the age and its neglect of literature; and then she said quaintly:

"Poets are born, not made. After all, you know, it wouldn't pay anybody in these days to go in for the manufacture of poets."

Pimples

What can I do?

"OH, why can't I have a skin like other girls? Why do I have to have these ugly pimples, blotches and blackheads?

"If I could only find something that would clear up my skin and give me back my soft, rosy complexion, I know I would be the happiest girl in the world! What can I do?"

Is that you talking? If it is, you don't have to worry a minute! Just build up the rich, red blood in your body. Then your skin will be as clear and soft as anybody's.

That's what S. S. S. has been doing for generations—helping Nature build rich, red blood! You can build red-blood-cells so fast that the impurities that cause breaking out on the skin hardly get into the system before the pure blood annihilates them—kills them right out—stops them from breaking out through the skin.

And then this rich, red, pure blood feeds and nourishes the tissues of the skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous, red blood such as S. S. S. helps Nature build, makes you healthy all over. It beautifies your skin—drives away pimples, blackheads, blotches, rash, boils and eczema—gives you back your appetite—builds firm, plump flesh and fills you full of new life and energy.

S.S.S.

All drug stores sell S. S. S. Get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

Veracity

Foreman—How'd you come to leave your last place?

Applicant—I was discharged.

"Discharged, huh? What for?"

"Doing well."

"Huh? Where was you?"

"In a hospital."—American Legion Weekly.

Sure Relief

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

Boschee's Syrup

HAS BEEN

Relieving Coughs for 59 Years

Carry a bottle in your car and always keep it in the house. 30c and 90c at all druggists.

Prudence's Daughter

By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

WNU Service

HOME AGAIN

SYNOPSIS.—PART ONE—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, New York, Jerry (Geraldine) Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He admires her tremendously, and she likes him. But Allerton gets a bit exhilerated, with unfortunate results. Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly. The story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Des Moines. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of Art and asks her parents to let her go to New York for study. With some misgiving, they agree to her going. In New York Jerry makes her home with a Mrs. Delaney ("Mimi"), an actress, who, with Theresa, a painter, occupies the house. Jerry takes an immediate liking to Theresa, who is talented and eccentric, and the two become fast friends. Jerry now devotes herself to Theresa, who returns her liking. Jerry poses for Theresa's masterpiece, "The Ocean Rider." Allerton calls on Jerry. The girl refuses to see him. At a hotel dinner Jerry sees Duane and is conscious of his admiration, but refuses to change her attitude toward him. Jerry becomes convinced she has not the ability to become an artist. At a party Jerry again sees Duane, and will not recognize him. Theresa hints that Jerry should go home, and promises her a "present." Returning from an evening of gayety, Jerry is shocked at hearing from Mimi that Theresa has killed herself. She also learns that Mimi is Theresa's mother. The "present" Theresa had promised Jerry proves to be her picture, "The Ocean Rider."

CHAPTER VII—Continued

—9—

"How should I know? She didn't tell me. She should have told me!"

"Prudence would know," was all Jerry could say to that.

Mimi lay rigid among the cushions, twisting her hands into painful knots, cutting her flesh with the gaudy stones. Jerry looked at her—the lavish toss of the hennaed hair, the carefully ivoried skin with its layers of cream and rouge, the voluptuous figure with its molding of fine French stays.

Jerry saw her in a cloud of artificial lights, the center of artificial laughter, flirtations, affairs and intrigues—saw also the light kindliness, the generous delicacy of speech and manner, the friendly camaraderie. And she saw Theresa dead by her own hand in the undertaking parlor with the flowers in the window, Mietta's, on the corner.

And then, as poor, suffering Mimi faded out, Jerry saw Prudence, clear-cut and vivid, saw the fine-lined, tender face, the gentle twist of the humorous mouth, the laughing, plaintive sympathy of the soft, sweet eyes.

Jerry stared and stared. Her eyes burned painfully, her throat throbbed, there was a great longing in her heart.

In that moment, Prudence's daughter, she ran suddenly to Mimi, caught her in her strong, tender arms, kissed her, cried over her, fondled her, and Mimi, after one slight, apologetic, high-strained laugh, buried her face in Jerry's arms and broke into helpless weeping.

Jerry helped her out of the lavish gown, out of the confining closeness of the French stays, and into a loose, light robe. She bathed her face, stroked her hair, hung over her with pitiful, sweet solicitude. And Mimi clung to her all night long, sobbing brokenly, writhing in hysterical anguish, and would not let her go.

Jerry stayed with Mimi in the house on Reilly's alley until after the funeral—Theresa's funeral—when groups of her brilliant, wondering friends crowded into the little flower-filled room at Mietta's to do last honor to her tragic memory, and went away again, afterward, slowly, talking it over, agreeing that after all, in a way, it seemed rather a congruous thing, that such a one as Theresa, divinely driven, should flash like a meteor across a starry sky to fade at once in a final, dominant flash at the height of her brilliance, rather than fade away, as many do, into a dull and doddering mediocrity.

The night after the funeral Jerry, slipping softly down the hall toward Mimi's room, was arrested by the silken, silvery voice.

"Oh, you bad boy! This is the third—at six dollars a pint!"

Jerry turned slowly back to her room. She was not deceived by that brave resumption of the old routine. She knew that Mimi's heart, artificial, shallow though it might be, had suffered a grievously cruel shock and she marveled that the hollow shell could send back an echo so musical to a world that had given her only its bitter dregs.

Jerry went into her room, pulled out her bags, and began at once to pack the things of her possession.

Jerry was going home.

Part Two

CHAPTER I

The Coming of Jerry

It was a blustering, blizzardly night in early March. The state of Iowa lay flat and bare under the lash of an angry winter, reluctant to loose its hold.

Inside the Harmer home was quiet warmth and cheery light. In the wide fireplace a great pine log crackled in gay defiance of wintry wind and sleet. At the round table in the dining room Prudence and Jerrold sat opposite each other across a bowl of fragile Cecil Brunner roses.

"It's a nice night to be in," she said cheerfully. She was wondering if Greenwich Village was whipped with a gale like this.

"Rotten weather to be out," agreed Jerrold absently. He was remembering the dangerous rush of taxis, when city streets are glassed with ice.

And so they smiled cheerfully at each other, and rejoiced with pleasant words that they were warm and bright by the fireplace, with the pine log, and the rosebuds and the candle lights. But in their hearts they were trying to assure themselves that Jerry was a very alert and self-possessed young person who could certainly take care of herself if anybody could, and what childishness to worry!

The doorbell sounded suddenly. Upon intense inward thoughts like theirs, even the soft reverberation of the most carefully modulated electric bell in the world could not sound less than clamorous.

Jerry Was Going Home.

"Such a night!" gasped Prudence at that sudden ringing, thinking that a telegraph boy would have to face the gale to carry a message.

Jerrold shoved his chair back quickly from the table, and both listened, intent, alert, as Katie opened the door. Above the incoherent breathlessness of her murmurs of amazement, a fresh voice sounded brightly.

"Where's mother?"

And Jerry herself, wrapped in her great fur cloak, a soft fur tam drawn protectingly low over her ears, ran in upon them, leaving the maid and the driver to handle boxes, bags and trunk as best they could.

"Look who's here!" she cried, as she caught Prudence in her arms. And a moment later she went to her father, to be lifted bodily from her tiptoes and kissed a dozen times.

"And you'd better help him with the trunk, father," she said, when she could think of it. "It's terribly heavy."

"Your trunk, Jerry!" Prudence was amazed. "Did you bring your trunk!"

"Yes, I brought everything," Jerry assured her gayly. "I'm coming home. I'm moving back!"

Then she kissed Katie, who was hastily laying another place on the table and setting a chair for her—which Prudence slyly pulled nearer to hers, and Jerrold whipped back toward his own. And very soon they were at the table, three of them now, smiling almost tearfully at one another across the bowl of Cecil Brunners, with never a thought for the dangerous icy streets of Greenwich Village and New York.

"But, Jerry, we never dreamed of such a thing; why didn't you tell us! Why didn't you send us word, why—"

"I didn't know it myself," she said. "Just all of a sudden I knew I was coming, and here I am. You're looking darling, mother. I'll bet Katie has spoiled you without me here to hold you down—"

And she jumped up to kiss Katie, thinking she had forgotten her, and out to the kitchen to greet Mary, but not needing to go so far, for Mary was just outside the door, peeping joyously in upon her. She came back after a moment, said she was ravenously hungry, but she did not eat. She laughed at her mother, at her father, and presently they left the table, and Jerry sat in Prudence's lap—a ridiculous lap-full for slender Prudence—and laughed at her again. And Prudence showed the few silvering threads in her hair, and declared they would all turn brown again now that Jerry was home.

And then Jerry went over and sat sedately in a chair to let her mother rest, and Prudence tagged across at her heels, and sat on the arm of her chair, and told her over and over again how surprised she was, how she had not the slightest suspicion of her coming, how it was the last thing in the world she had dreamed of.

"But see here," remonstrated Jerrold, "you told me all the time she would come back. You said—"

Prudence gave him a furious look. "I did not," she declared quite passionately. "Oh, for a visit, of course—but to bring all her things and stay forever, I never dreamed of such a thing. I can't tell you how surprised I am!"

"But, Prudence, you said—"

Prudence glowered him into silence. "Now, Jerrold, I know what I said! I knew she would come for a visit, but this is really coming home, and I couldn't remotely fancy such a lovely thing!"

They went upstairs, the three of them, to Jerry's lovely room, and Prudence and Jerrold stood about, getting in the way, while Jerry unpacked the bags, the boxes and the trunk. Everything was exhibited, exclaimed over, admired.

And while she unpacked she told them of New York, of Graves McDowell, and the lessons in Art, of Rhoda, and her passionate devotion to her work. She told them of lovely Aimee, and the trashy column of society scandal she wrote for a daily paper. When Prudence asked about the girls in the house with her, Theresa, and Mimi, Jerry's lip quivered, her eyes shadowed, as she said:

"I'll tell you about them after a little. I'm coming to that."

She told them of her conquests in the city, her gay flirtations, her proposals. She showed them the little marble faun the Russian sculptor, Korzky, had done for her. She exhibited the autographed novels and books of poetry, warmly inscribed to her by authors and poets of a dozen nationalities. She displayed a hundred little testimonies of her triumph in the city, a triumph social, if not artistic.

"It isn't the laborers who are slave-driven," she declared warmly. "They don't need unions to protect them. It is a genius union we need, something to keep geniuses from working themselves to death. There was a violinist in our building—mother, I tell you truly, that man began to work before I was up, and was at it every night when I went to bed. There was a composer at Rhoda's—once I was staying all night—at two o'clock in the morning we heard, oh, very softly, a little tripping melody on the keys. Rhoda said it happened often—ran through his mind during the night, until he got up and worked it out of his system—using the soft pedal not to disturb the others. There was a young writer across the alley from us—whenever I went out, or came in, I could hear that dull thud of her typewriter, twelve o'clock, one o'clock, two o'clock. A union for genius, that's the need of the century!"

At half past two in the morning Prudence and Jerrold were still sitting enraptured, spellbound, on the wide day bed against the wall, listening as Jerry talked. And when at last the trunk was emptied, she turned slowly to the great crate she had brought with her all the way, so carefully, so tenderly, and released the safety fastenings on the end. Then she drew it out slowly, the shadows deepening in her eyes—Theresa's gallant "Ocean Rider" with eyes like Jerry's own.

Jerry's parents stared at it, exclaiming, marveling at its beauty.

"It—it looks like you," Prudence whispered.

"The eyes—they are mine. As they were when I went to New York, when she first saw me—Theresa"—Jerry choked over the words. "Let me tell you."

She hastily switched out the bright lights, leaving only the one soft Roman candle burning on her dressing table, for Jerry did not wish to pain them with the emotion her vivid face could not fail to reveal. And she came across to them, piled cushions on the top of one of the three steps which led up to the raised day bed, and snuggled in between them.

"Do you want me to go out?" Jerrold offered generously, feeling that this was to be the climax of Jerry's confidence.

Jerry smiled at him, drew both his knees impulsively within the clasp of her arm. "Oh, no, father, of course not."

And then she told them of the house on Reilly's alley, of Mimi, with the golden hair and the silken gowns, of terrible, tragic Theresa in her attic room upstairs.

"I felt just like a mother toward that girl," she declared brokenly. She told of Theresa's rare talent, of her strange intensity, her impatient, impulsive kindliness.

"Mother, she killed herself."

Jerrold let his cigarette go out, lit another feverishly, let it go out again. Prudence held Jerry in a close arm, weeping with her softly. And Jerry talked sadly on and on, told them of Mimi's pitiful, frivolous life, her wasted motherhood. Sometimes as she talked, she lay in Prudence's lap, crying bitterly, only to sit up again with passionate earnestness to go on with the tragic tale.

"The worst of it—or maybe the best of it," she amended doubtfully, as she tried to shake away her tears, "is that I know she is glad of it. I can just imagine that gay, defiant laugh of hers, as if she had fooled us all—slipped neatly out of a mess and left us looking at—cobwebs on our fingers. I can just imagine—in heaven—she would be laughing to think of the joke she had played on us. It's what Theresa would!"

Jerrold would have gone away then, taking Prudence with him, feeling that overwrought and highly strained young daughters would do best in bed. Prudence, with that tender insight of hers that was never known to fail, knew better. Jerry was unburdening her heart, finding relief, had come to them, as she always came, when the things she undertook to do had proved too hard for her. And so they stayed on and on, and talked more of Theresa, and presently Jerry was talking of other things—of the mad frenzy that goaded all artists to desperation, of their intemperate folly, their unbounded love.

And then she was telling them of Greta Val, the little chambermaid, and how Graves McDowell was fairly living in her talent, feasting his own starved heart on the fuel he fed to hers. She told them of her little part in the drama, of how she had piled her wealth together, brushes and easel and boards, and with a profuse hand had tossed them on the unfortunate little tramp of the alleys.

"And what do you think she did? She stood up, and glared at me, and slapped me in the face—right there!"

Jerry could laugh at it now, could laugh, and did, particularly at Jerrold's amazement, at Prudence's maternal displeasure.

"What are you going to do now?" Jerrold asked at last.

Jerry clouded again. She did not know. "What do other girls do?" she asked him. "Girls who are not geniuses by birth—and lucky they are, if you ask me—but girls who would go mad doing nothing! What do they do?"

Jerrold cleverly evaded the issue by reaching for a cigarette, a prettily perfumed, gold-tipped thing that Jerry had brought in a handsome box, a parting gift from a young admirer, thus shifting the question to Prudence.

Prudence was very sober. "I don't know," she said. "What do you think?"

They talked of girls, of some who became teachers, some who went into the public libraries and museums, some into business.

"That's all right if you have to earn a living," objected Jerry. "But doesn't it seem silly to work hard at something you don't care a thing about, just to earn a little money you do not need? Of course, if one has a real fondness for a thing—but I haven't! I think it would be perfectly trashy of me to go downtown and pound a typewriter eight hours a day for twenty dollars a week—when I don't adore pounding typewriters—and can get the money by asking father."

"And besides," said Prudence, "it would be keeping some girl out of a position who does need the money."

"It's a great responsibility, having a daughter," Jerrold said, standing up, suddenly shocked to know it was after four o'clock. "I'm afraid we went into this thing too lightly, Prudence."

They all laughed over that, and Jerry kissed both parents a warm good night, and closed the door behind them.

In their own room, Jerrold turned to his wife to air a grievance that had lurked within his memory throughout all the happy evening.

"See here, Prudence, you did, too, expect Jerry to come home to stay. You said all the time she would come back."

Prudence caught his broad shoulders in her two slender hands, and shook him sternly. As a measure of discipline it was absurd, for Jerrold was tall and strong, and Prudence both slender and slight in strength. But as expressive of her pent-up emotions and representative of her scorn for his understanding, it was triumphant.

"Oh, Jerrold, will you never learn?" she wailed. "Don't you know that you must always be surprised at a woman?"

"But you said—"

"Always be surprised at a woman! It pleases her, it flatters her, it makes her feel how very unusual she is to do the unexpected thing. Be surprised, Jerrold, always be surprised! Women love it!"

"Then you did expect her home!"

"Of course I did." Prudence said this with a complacent pride in her astuteness.

"But you said—"

"Oh, bother what I said. You be a little careful after this, and don't go about telling everything you hear."

"Shades of the Parsonage and John Wesley defend us," he ejaculated devoutly.

"Oh, well, if it comes to that," said Prudence, "I learned a great many things in the Parsonage that John Wesley never heard of!"

Well, Jerry is home again, where she belongs. And now what's she going to do?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Beauty in Cheerfulness

Cheerfulness is almost as necessary as air, food and water. It stirs hearts as a pebble thrown into a lake sends ripples to every shore—returning again and again to you—making the heavy load lighter and the dark road brighter for all.—Grit.

PE-RU-NA FOR STOMACH CATARRH

Few, if any, remedies can equal the value of Pe-ru-na for catarrh of the stomach.

At this season it is estimated that every third person is more or less troubled with this form of catarrh.

BE READY

Have the Proper Medicine in the House. — Sold Everywhere

Lift Railroad

A seventeen-mile section of the Yosemite Valley railroad is being rebuilt at a higher elevation to prevent it from being drowned by water impounded by a big dam now being built on the Merced river in California.

Tells Why He Can Now Eat Hearty

"A letter which I read in the paper about Carter's Little Liver Pills fitted my own case so closely that I could not help trying them and am very happy I did." So writes Mr. Frank J. Trumbull of Jersey City, N. J., whose letter goes on to say, "I had heard about Carter's Little Liver Pills for years but never knew they helped overcome poor appetite and sour stomach, until I read about another man in the same plight who took Carter's with good results. I tried them and can honestly say that they freed me of nasty gas on stomach, so that I can now eat without getting bilious, and they improved my appetite fully 100%. You can rest assured that from now on I will boost Carter's Little Liver Pills whenever I can."

Recommended and for sale by all drug stores.

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

Paderewski Likes Billiards

After the piano and politics, billiards stands high in the opinion of Paderewski. He once said it was the only game that enabled him to take complete mental rest.

DON'T BROOD OVER STOMACH DISTRESS

Don't lay awake nights and feel miserable all day—there's one right way to fix up your gassy, rebellious disordered stomach in such a short time that your heart will be gladdened.

Today Dare's Mentha Pepsin is the one remedy supremely efficient where acute or chronic indigestion or gastritis is making your days and nights miserable.

Reports of its mighty power to overcome unbearable, near suffocating stomach agony have swept the land until today its sales are marvelous.

Get one bottle of this pleasant speedy acting medicine today with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't help you—your money will be returned.

BLOTCHY SKIN

need not annoy you. Pimples blackheads, etc. are quickly dispelled by

Resinol

Dr. Isaac Thompson's HELPFUL EYE WASH 1159 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet

EYEWATER

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA

When this unusual quality Cocoa is served, a request for a second cup naturally follows.

35c a pound

QUALITY for 70 years

Our Monarch Quality Foods are not sold by chain stores.

Reid, Murdoch & Co.
Chicago, U. S. A.
Boston, Pittsburgh, New York

Paper Money Annoyance

We wish the government would either reconsider its decision to print no more $10,000 bills or else retire those that are already in circulation, as we do hate to carry so much dirty money around all the time, says the Ohio State Journal, on which the Newark (Ohio) Advocate remarks: "And the iceman almost never has the change for it. And only the other day our street car conductor accused us of trying to snatch a free ride when we handed him one."—Indianapolis News.

A project in Peru will have 120,000 acres irrigated by waters of several rivers, some passing through a nine-mile tunnel constructed for the purpose.

BURGESS
RADIO BATTERIES

When you are using Burgess Radio 'A' 'B' and 'C' Batteries, remember that wherever the American flag flies, radio engineers of the army, navy and air service, as well as thousands of experienced amateurs, are relying on Burgess quality and dependability.

There is a Burgess Radio Battery for every receiving set. When your old batteries wear out, replace them with Burgess. Then you will know why Burgess is the choice of the foremost radio engineers.

BURGESS BATTERY COMPANY
General Sales Office: CHICAGO
Canadian Factories and Offices: Niagara Falls and Winnipeg

When you have your Shoes repaired ask for

USKIDE Soles
The Wonder Sole for Wear

Twice the wear of best Leather
United States Rubber Company

Pullman Shock Absorbers for the Twelve Million Ford Cars

Make every FORD ride like a two-thousand dollar car. Sent prepaid anywhere in United States for $4.50. Dealers and agents wanted.

PULLMAN ROLLER SPRING CO.,
6909 San Pedro St., Los Angeles, Calif.

BE NOT DECEIVED ABOUT
LOS ANGELES

An unbiased and authentic report. Streets, Parks, Hotels, Libraries, Museums, Schools, Colleges, Churches, Theatres, Factories, (men and women employed) Railways, Harbor, Imports, Exports, Movie Studios, with addresses, will be off the press by Dec. 15. A limited number to be sold at $1.00. Send in your order now.

H. BALL
346 W. 64th St. Los Angeles, Calif.

PATENTS

Don't risk delay in protecting your ideas. Send sketch or model for instructions or write for FREE book, "How to Obtain a Patent" and "Record of Invention" form. No charge for information on how to proceed. Communications confidential. Careful, efficient service. CLARENCE A. O'BRIEN, Registered Patent Attorney, 243-A Security Bank Building (directly across street from Patent Office) WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

Baby Loves A Bath With Cuticura Soap

Bland and Soothing to Tender Skins.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 50--1925.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

UNUSUAL ACTIVITY IN LEGION RANKS

The greatest year in membership the American Legion has ever known with a goal of a million members is the plan of Legion leaders for 1926 that seems likely of realization.

Unprecedented pre-January membership activity is flaring up in all parts of the country in response to Commander John R. McQuigg's slogan, "Start 1926 with 1925 strength."

Membership contests, derbies, races and battles are raging between posts, departments and cities at a pace that portends that by the first of the year the flame of membership activity will be sweeping the entire country.

"We want to reach the million mark this year and present competition, evidencing itself in lively contests between departments and posts, indicates that a million members will be enrolled before the year is done." So declared Frank E. Samuel, national director of organization and membership, in summing up membership prospects for the year.

Minnesota and Michigan were first off in a series of inter-departmental contests that are expected to do much to boost the membership. The Gophers challenged the Wolverines to a contest to enroll more paid-up members for the year 1926 by December 31, 1925. The challenge was immediately accepted by Michigan.

Iowa and Ohio, departments that have long glared at each other when the subject of membership is mentioned, have closed in a membership battle. These scrapping departments are going to settle their dispute by December 31, 1925.

An innovation in membership contests was introduced by the department of Illinois for the year 1926 in their "City Membership Derby," now under way. Forty-two cities are entered in a great intra-departmental membership race. The plan of the city derby is to place cities of the same approximate population in membership competition.

On November 1, 1925, Illinois had more than 1,000 paid-up members for 1926, leading the Legion in that respect.

The irrepressible department of Florida has hurled a challenge that as yet has not been accepted: The defi of Florida is: "The Florida department challenges any and all departments having five thousand members or more to any kind of a membership contest. Also any department to have as many 100 per cent posts compared to the number of posts in the department. We will accept any kind of fair rules and will put up any kind of a prize."

The departments of New York and Pennsylvania have both accepted a challenge to do membership battle with Illinois. Illinois hopes to down two big birds with one stone in this contest.

South Carolina and Mississippi are sparring with each other to arrange terms for a membership war.

Child Welfare Service Making Good Progress

Actual work of setting up the American Legion child welfare service in all the states of the Union is being pushed rapidly, according to John W. Gorby, director of the children's welfare division of national headquarters. Orders to complete the state-by-state set-up at the earliest possible moment were issued by the national convention at Omaha.

This state set-up, which is the active working force out in the field through which the Legion plans to carry on the actual work of contacting the children of veterans who are in need of assistance, has already been completed in 12 states.

Preliminary conferences are being held in a number of states. Mr. Gorby has recently held such conferences in Missouri, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, Delaware, Virginia and Indiana. The groundwork for a state organization is laid at these meetings.

A check-up meeting was also held recently in New Hampshire, the first of the states to complete the child welfare organization.

The plan of organization calls for state committees, district committees, county committees and post committees. These committees will make surveys to locate needy children, will give them whatever first assistance may be necessary, will arrange for billet care where no other plan can be worked out, will inspect homes in which adoptions are desired, and will supervise children who are being cared for locally or who have been adopted.

A site of 168 acres near Pressmen's home, Tennessee, has been accepted for a Legion billet, subject to its being needed. The site was offered by Post National Vice Commander and Mrs. George L. Berry.

The national children's welfare committee will be reduced, as vacancies develop, to nine members. Three members each of Forty and Eight and of the Legion Auxiliary will serve as ex officio members of the committee.

TAILORED SUITS THE MAINSTAY; INTEREST IN BLOUSES REVIVED

THAT long-time mainstay of every woman's wardrobe—the severely tailored, plain, two-piece suit—has been conspicuous by its absence from the streets during the passing fall season. It has not lost any of its trim appeal, but styles have tended toward greater elaboration in day frocks and new lines in coats, and the novelty of these modes has compelled attention to them at the expense of the tailored suit. But anything so dependable and so chic cannot remain long in eclipse, and now new tailored suits are making their appearance and challenging other street clothes to comparison.

These new suits, while strictly tailored, have great vivacity and very interesting new style points. Plaid materials or combinations of plaid and plain goods are featured in many of them and pleasing new colors are employed, as cloud gray, blue spruce, flemish blue and bottle green. In plaids, grays predominate barred with white, green, yellow or blue, and occasionally, a fine line of red. But the staple dark colors are well represented as navy, brown and black.

Skirts in tailored suits, preserve the straight line, but are provided with "kick" plaits as shown in the picture at the front, or with plaits at the sides. Some coats are short and straight, reaching only to the hip line. Others are longer and introduce a flare in the skirt portion. Vests or waistcoats in contrasting, plain colors are sometimes substituted for blouses. The ensemble idea is carried out in suits with plaid skirts, plain coats, lined with plaid, and vests in contrasting color. A snappy model of this kind is shown in the picture. Other suits made entirely of plaid material have shorter coats and are worn with blouses, but usually the coat is buttoned up at the front. There is a pretty fad for wearing a flower on the coat, repeating the dominant color in the bars that cross the material, thus a chrysanthemum in yellow is pinned to the right lapel on a gray coat with an inconspicuous bar in yellow.

Once again one may achieve almost any character of costume by acquiring a velveteen and a satin skirt, and with them a variety of blouses. The growing popularity of two-piece modes has revived interest in blouses and blouse makers have taken advantage of it by adding blouse-ensembles to their displays—that is, they present blouses with skirts to match in color, either of which can be worn separately. The displays include overblouses, in simple and in formal types, costume blouses, tunic models, tailored and sports styles.

Materials featured in the less expensive models, for ordinary wear, begin with rayon fabrics, balbriggan and flannel and end with velveteen, satin and crepe; velveteen leading in interest. For formal types tinsel brocade and other tinsel fabrics, moire, chiffon velvet and satins are conspicuous. Finger-tip or wrist lengths are popular along with high necks and long sleeves, but neck lines are much varied. Many tailored blouses have convertible collars that may be worn fastened up about the throat or turned down to form a small "V"-shaped opening at the front.

One of the most popular models in dressy blouses is shown at the left of the two illustrated, where a tinsel fabric is used. This blouse is finger-tip length, with long sleeves and round neck. It is bordered with bands of georgette and velvet, in contrasting colors and trimmed with an applique floral pattern of velvet finished with a tiny cord. It is worn with a velveteen skirt. Moire blouses with velveteen collars and cuffs are similar in character.

Typical Tailored Suit.

Two of the Modern Blouses.

Flannel and balbriggan, for sports and utility wear, are successful rivals of velveteen and washable crepes. They are made in varied, simple ways, with long sleeves and more or less high necks, which may or may not have contrasting materials in the collars. A pretty flannel blouse is pictured with belt and tie of self-material and a crepe collar.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Conquer Constipation with Yeast Foam!

For constipation try this: drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let stand for five minutes; stir with spoon; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate.

Do this regularly and your constipation—no matter of how long standing—will be a thing of the past! Yeast Foam is equally effective for indigestion, boils, pimples, lack of weight and strength.

Or, if you prefer, eat the yeast with a cracker or a piece of butter.

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 North Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health", also a Sample of Yeast Foam without obligation.
Name_____
Address_____
W. N. U.

One Good Reason

Randall—Why is it that you are not eating candy any more?

Rachel—Oh, I kinda got out of the habit since going with you.—U. S. C. Wampus.

Tact

"You had no business to kiss me, Senor Don Juan."

"But it was not a business, Marqueta. It was a pleasure."—California Pelican.

LOOK FOR THE WHITE TOP BAND

'Chief'
All Rubber Uppers-Five Buckle Height

YOU need its extra high waterproof protection. Cleaned without scraping—in a jiffy—under pump or hose. No odors or soil get into house. It's fleece lined for comfortable warmth. Same staunch construction as our four-buckle 'Nebraska'. Both give an extra measure of wear. Look for the White Top Band and the 'Big C' on the White Tire Sole.

'Caboose' and 'Warmfut'—Try this ideal cold weather combination of the world's best work rubber and cold-proof gaiter. For warmth, comfort, service and economy in footwear for all the family—make the 'Big C' your buying guide.

ASK YOUR LOCAL DEALER

CONVERSE RUBBER SHOE CO., 618 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
Factory: Malden, Mass.

See the BIG 'C' CONVERSE LINE
Rubber Footwear

LOOK FOR THE WHITE TOP BAND

His Start

"When did you take your first bribe?"

"In childhood," answered the alderman. "It was for washing my neck."

DEMAND "BAYER" ASPIRIN

Take Tablets Without Fear If You See the Safety "Bayer Cross."

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Defined

"Can you tell me what a grass widow is?"

"The widow of a vegetarian."

The Cuticura Toilet Trio.

Having cleared your skin keep it clear by making Cuticura your everyday toilet preparations. The Soap to cleanse and purify, the Ointment to soothe and heal, the Talcum to powder and perfume. No toilet table is complete without them.—Advertisement.

Sub Rosa

He—Where were you last night?

She—Nowhere to speak of.

He—Oh, I see.

Harmless, purely vegetable, Infants' and Children's Regulator, formula on every label. Guaranteed non-narcotic, non-alcoholic.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator

Children grow healthy and free from colic, diarrhoea, flatulency, constipation and other trouble if given it at teething time. Safe, pleasant—always brings remarkable and gratifying results.

At All Druggists

SELDOM SEE

a big knee like this, but your horse may have a bunch or bruise on his ankle, hock, stifle, knee or throat.

ABSORBINE
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

will clean it off without laying up the horse. No blister, no hair gone. Concentrated—only a few drops required at an application. $2.50 per bottle delivered. Describe your case for special instructions, and Book 5A free.

W. F. YOUNG, Inc., 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

Philippines Export Rope

Enough hemp was exported from the Philippine Islands last year to make a rope two inches in diameter and 60,000 miles long.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative -Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting regularity for weeks and often for months—or must you "purge" and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

One dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

World Prowler Keeps Habits Under Control

The world traveler has just come in. Most of his life is spent in prowling around unfrequented parts of the globe for the government, discovering new plants and fruits and what not. Between times he is apt to go traveling on his own, for he is forever hearing about something in which the government is not interested but is for the moment the one great thing in life for him, "J. P." writes in the Kansas City Times.

"Must be sort of—er—upsetting," I said clumsily. What I was trying to say was that he did not live the nice, rule-ordered, all-bound-round-with-a-woolen-string kind of a life the rest of us do. "Don't you get kind of—er—hungry for the comforts of civilization now and then?"

He said that in the first place barbarism had as many comforts as civilization, if only one knows how to get and handle them. In the second place he never permitted himself to want something he could not get. So saying he produced a cigarette case stamped in gold by an artisan back of the beyond and handed out a cigarette that was a sheik's dream of heaven.

"How about cigarettes?" I said. "And coffee? And such things?"

The world traveler said that was all right. He enjoyed tobacco and coffee and all the rest of what he considered the world's luxuries. But he never permitted himself to form a habit. He smoked cigarettes for a week or so and then a pipe. Or he would stop smoking for a time. After having black coffee in the morning for a time he would change to tea and then to coffee with hot milk and then to hot water.

"Try it," he said. "One handicaps one's self by permitting a habit to take command. I have traveled with men who were miserable when their cigarettes were exhausted. I never think of them when they are gone."

It's worth trying—to form the habit of defying habit. One is something of a chump, after all, to let one's appetite get out of control.

Too Much Talk

Charles M. Schwab, at a banquet in Loretto, was cornered by a young man of great loquacity. This young man evidently believed that his chance in life was now come, and he talked away at Mr. Schwab for more than half an hour. At last he said meaningly:

"You are a good judge of character, Mr. Schwab. What quality do I most need in order to succeed?"

"Well, young man," the steel magnate answered, "I've listened to you for some time now, and it seems to me that you need what is on that door over there."

"Ha, ha, ha! Push, eh? Pull, eh? Ha, ha, ha! Very clever! Push and pull! Is that what you think I need, Mr. Schwab?"

"No," said Mr. Schwab; "I think you need a device to make you shut up."

Good Home Brew

In these days of prohibition it is always nice to have a recipe on hand for making a home drink with a kick. One of our Peoria (Ill.) readers sent us a recipe for a home brew which, although it has a strong kick, comes within the law. The recipe is as follows: Chase a frog three miles and gather up its hops, to the hops add ten gallons of tan bark, half a gallon of shellac and a large bucket of soft homemade soap. Boil this mixture 40 hours, then strain through an I. W. W. proclamation to keep it working. Finally, bottle in pint bottles and add a grasshopper to each pint to give it a kick.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Hunter's Odd Bedfellow

Henry D. Ross, on a camping trip with his son in the woods north of Clifton, Ariz., had a bear for a bedfellow one night, and this after failure to find bears in several days of hunting. He sleepily resented the invasion of his blankets and pushed the intruder away. His explanation of the affair is that it was only a poor little cub, seeking companionship and warmth, and that he is too much of a sportsman to shoot a cub.

Horse's Remarkable Feat

During a recent running race in Australia, Roseben, a famous turf horse, easily carried a rider weighing 210 pounds and won his race, much to the astonishment of race track followers. It is the first time this animal had ever won a race carrying more than 147 pounds of rider. The race was for five furlongs and the weight was considered staggering by most horsemen.

Consolation

A story about Sinclair Lewis, the novelist, is going the rounds of Greenwich village.

It seems that Mr. Lewis said to a girl at a Greenwich village tea:

"Some folks tell me that my last book failed because it's too long. Do you think it's too long?"

"Indeed I don't," said the girl poet. "I think it only seems too long."

Moors Honor Frenchman

Marshal Lyautey, who is resigning as military governor of those Moroccan sections at war with France, is greatly beloved by the tribesmen. When his life was despaired of two years ago he was prayed for in all the mosques of Morocco, this being the first time in the history of Islam that the name of an infidel was pronounced in public ritual.

MIGHTY HUNTER IS THE LITTLE WEASEL

Small Hope for Mice When He Takes the Trail.

No bigger in girth than a walking stick is that nimrod of the hedges, ditches and meadows which hunts the dwellers in the rank tangled jungle of undergrowth and herbage, writes Francis Pitt in the London Spectator. A hunter by trade, his life's object the chase, he is one of the most dapper little fellows that ever laid nose to trail. But a few inches in length, still less in girth, he is clad in sandy-red, with creamy-white underparts, including a cream "choker" right up to his muzzle, delicately furred paws, a little short bottle-brush of a tail, and last but not least, the brightest of dark eyes.

But it is not his lithe and graceful form, nor his smart and dapper appearance which is the great charm of the weasel—for after all our mighty nimrod is only the weasel, the little red hunter of mice and voles, that, if his quarry be but small, is yet as great a hunter as any man or beast that treads this earth. No, what makes him so engaging is his dark inquisitive eyes, his air of alert curiosity, combined with a light-hearted enjoyment of life. He is ever on the dance, frisking about in and out of the mouse runs which he usually haunts.

When really bent on the chase a weasel is deaf and blind to all else, and it hunts mice and voles with a grim determination that does much to keep these prolific rodents within bounds. No wonder the unfortunate mice flee before it. The mouse may have bolted for dear life, but that makes no difference. With its keen nose on the trail the weasel follows, through all the turns and twists of the underground tunnels, where mouse holes run into mouse galleries, and up again to the light of day, he hunts the scent; however complicated the line of that mouse, however the scent may have been crossed by other mice, he will patiently work it out, and hunt on and on, through that labyrinth of the underground world to which the small creatures of the hedgerows have entrance. The chase may be continued along the runs and highroads which thread the herbage, the bewildered rush of the hunted mouse along the paths it knows so well, until its panic takes it blindly into unknown ways.

A break in the scent may give it a respite for a moment, when the weasel shows what a hunter he is, for as a huntsman casts his hounds in a circle when they have lost the line, so does the weasel seek to recover the scent by dashing around. Soon recovering it, he gallops on. Now it is, with the end near, that a hunted mouse will do any desperate thing. Once within sight and all is over, the weasel bounds upon its victim, and with a quick bite ends its career.

Schneiders Are Thorough

The Schneiders of Hoernsheim, Germany, believe in doing things thoroughly. When Wilhemine Schneider was wed to a tailor named Schneider (which in German means tailor) there was a civil marriage before Justice of the Peace Schneider, in the presence of Heinrich Schneider and Ludwig Schneider as witnesses, after which the newlywed Schneiders went to church and again were wed, this time by pastor Schneider who gave them his blessing. Then the Schneider couple, the Schneider witnesses, Judge Schneider and the Rev. Herr Schneider foregathered at the home of Widow Schneider, the bride's mother, where a wedding breakfast was served to the whole Schneider clan.—The Associated Press vouches for these interesting details so they must be true.—Capper's Weekly.

Ice Mine in Black Hills

A huge ice mine has been discovered in upper Spearfish canyon, in the northwestern section of the Black hills. Workmen, after removing four or five feet of rock and dirt, encountered the frozen soil. Digging deeper, the men came upon the formation, which resembles a stone wall, with the mortar replaced by ice. The ice is found on a slope facing west, upon which the hot sun has beaten all summer. The so-called "vein" of the "ice mine" is, according to the highway workers, about 15 feet wide and approximately 10 feet high. It is believed it may prove an opening to another Wind cave, in the southern Black hills, which is one of the wonders of the district.

Long Separation Ended

Reunited by the accidental finding of an unopened letter that had lain in a trunk more than a quarter of a century, Mrs. Mary Price of Bremerton, Wash., and Mrs. Cella Gates of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, started a search for their only brother, from whom they had not heard in twenty-eight years. Recently Mrs. Gates found a letter from her sister written in 1897, which she had put away unread, and in which her marriage to B. F. Price was announced.

President and Automobile

According to the American Automobile association, Taft was the first President to make regular use of an automobile. During the latter years of Roosevelt's administration the secret service had a car at the White House, but the President did not care for it and seldom used it. Harding was the only person elected to the Presidency who had driven a car himself.—Pathfinder Magazine.

SHERIFF'S SALE

J. W. KNADLER
vs.
P. M. GRIESEMER & F. J. WENCK.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that by virtue of a Special Execution issued out of the office of the Clerk of the District Court, in Hancock County, Garner, Iowa, on a judgment rendered October 8th, 1925 September Term of said Court A. D. 1925, for the sum of Two Thousand Seventy Three & 78-100 Dollars debt, and Seventy Four & 15-100 dollars costs, in favor of J. W. Knadler and against P. M. Griesemer & F. J. Wenck and to the Sheriff of Hancock County directed, I have levied upon the following described property, to-wit:

Lot Four (4), in Block Two (2), Morningside Addition to the Town of Klemme, Iowa.

NOW, THEREFORE, Public Notice is hereby given that I shall, on the 23rd day of December, 1925, at 10 o'clock A. M., at the front door of the Court House, in Garner, in Hancock County offer and sell at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash all the right title and interest that the above named Defendants had on the 23rd day of November, A. D. 1925, or now have in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy said execution, together with costs and all accruing costs, unless th same shall be sooner satisfied.

Dated at the Sheriff's office in Garner, this 23rd day of November A. D. 1925.

E. P. HANSON,
Sheriff of Hancock County, Iowa.
(Publish Dec. 10-17, '25)

BASKET AND PIE SOCIAL

There wil be a basket and pie social at the Stile school west of Klemme next Thursday evening. A lively program has been planned of plays, music, singing, etc.

Last year County Treasurer John Suurballe issued 4,164 auto licenses. On December 1st he began to isue out the 1926 plates, a silver number on a maroon background. John again took No. 1 for himself and his deputy, Mrs. Arthur Shultz got No. 2. Auditor H. C. Meyer is sporting No. 50, while F. A. Arnold of Klemme doubled that and again has No. 100. Elko Buss got No. 13 again as nobody else wants it, and Ye Editor drew No. 90.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Announcement--

To The People Of Klemme And Vicinity

We wish to announce to the people of Klemme and vicinity that we have purchased the building and the entire garage and automobile business of the Greimann Motor Company, of Klemme, and that we are now in possession of the same.

It is our aim to carry a full line of Ford Cars, Trucks and equipment of all kinds, tires, tubes, Ford Repairs, accessories, oils and greases. We are organizing the business to give you the best ofSERVICE along this line.

We will keep an up-to-date Repair Department and will give you REAL SERVICE on all repair work.

We invite you to call and get acquainted. We will appreciate your good will and patronage and will in return treat you right, give you a fair deal always. We are here TO GIVE YOU SERVICE—

Garner Motor Company

Authorized Ford Sales & Service

Christmas Shopping Headquarters

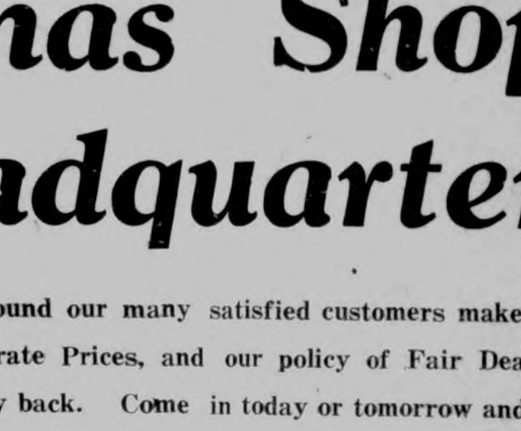
Each year as the Holiday Season rolls around our many satisfied customers make this store their Christmas Headquarters. Our complete stocks at Moderate Prices, and our policy of Fair Dealing Always, assures every purchaser the utmost satisfaction or his money back. Come in today or tomorrow and see the values we are displaying.

WOMEN'S GIFTS

Silk Hose
Gloves
Hand Bags
Hankerchiefs
Scarfs
Boudoir Caps
Sweaters
Perfume
Powder
Bed Room Slippers
Oxfords, Shoes
Zippers, 4-Buckles
Dress Goods
Lingerie, etc.

MENS' GIFTS

Hats
Caps
Hankerchiefs
Silk Hose
Gloves, Mittens
Silk Neck Ties
Belts
Sweaters
Scarfs
Dress Shirts
Comfort Slippers
Leather eVsts
Saftey Razors
Tools, etc.



GIFTS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Sleds Wagons
Skates
Kiddy Kars
Toys—all kinds
Books, all kinds
Games, all kinds
Tricycles
Dolls, all kinds
Doll Dishes
Sweaters
Sport Jackets
High-Top Shoes

HARDWARE GIFTS—China Ware Silver Ware Aluminum Ware Casseroles
Coleman Lamps Pyrex Dishes Roasters Electric Irons Etc.
DRY GOODS GIFTS—Fancy Work Blomers Dress Goods Blankets
SPECIAL GROCERIES, VEGETABLES AND FRUIT FOR THE XMAS HOLIDAYS.

G. W. Kluckhohn & Sons

THE KLEMME TIMES

ortieth Year—Number 15. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

CHRISTMAS TREE AND PROGRAM THURSDAY EVE.

SCHOOL TO CLOSE FRIDAY FOR TWO WEEK'S VACATION

OTHER SCHOOL NEWS THIS WEEK

Grammar Room Does Good Work In Near East Relief Drive

The Gramar Room collected for the Near East Relief $12.40, and a check for $15.00 was sent to Headquarters at Omaha.

Klemme High School Basket Ball Boys Lost Hayfield Game

Our boys lost to Hayfield in a fast game there last Friday night. They will do their utmost to redeem themselves on Thursday night here, December 17, when they meet the Rowan High School Boys. Rowan has a fast team and a good game is assured. Supt. Pals will be here to officiate.

Our Alumni Girls were doped to lose to the fast Hayfield girls but the game ended in a tie. We expect to take both games againstt his school when we meet them here on January 22.

Winners Get Qaurter Holiday

Our grades 5 and 6 have been selling Christmas seal stamps this week and have to date disposed of more than $20 worth. The winners will be given a quarter of a holiday on Friday, or the day before.

Teachers To Get Special Rate

Some of the railroads have granted concessions to teachers going home for Christmas vacation, allowing them special rates. Suffice it to say those roads will carry the profession to and from their homes, when a choice of routes can be made.

Board Buys New Scales

The Board voted to purchase a pair of scales for our school and we have prospects for a nurse on or about February 1.

Hurrah For Vacation!

School will be closed after Friday for two weeks.

Basket Ball Game Tonigth

Boost for for our Basket Ball team vs. Rowan at the school gym TONIGHT. Admission 25 and 15 cents.

Another State Bank Is Closed

VENTURA BANK CLOSED MONDAY MORNING

The Ventura State Savings Bank closed its doors Monday morning. The bank was closed after a meeting of the directors was called who voluntarily closed it for an examination by the banking department.

Not A Branch Of The Garner First National

In the account of the closing of the Ventura bank carried in the Mason City Globe-Gazette an error was made stating that the Ventura bank was a branch of the First National of Garner. The Globe-Gazette corrects the statement and further says, "According to Senator J. E. Wichman, a director of the Garner First National, the closing of the bank at Ventura in no way affects the First National bank of Garner so far as responsibility for the debts of the Ventura bank is concerned."

BASKET AND PIE SOCIAL FRIDAY NIGHT, THIS WEEK

The date for the basket and partner pie social at the Stille school 1 mile west of Klemme has been changed to Friday evening, December 18. A lively program has been planned of play, music, singing, etc.

1tc-50

A New Enterpise Started In Klemme

AARON GREIMANN OPENS NEW RADIO SHOP

Will Handle A Number Of Standard Radios And Full Line Of Radio Supplies

Aaron Greimann has opened up an exclusive Radio Shop in the Wellemeyer Store, the shop being located on the second floor at the rear of the building.

Mr. Greimann wil handle only the best known makes of radios and is putting in a full line of radios, all kinds of equipment, batteries, etc.

Read his ad in this issue and if you are in the market for a radio he can fix you up.

MISS MARTHA GREIMANN AND MR. CARL SWANSON MARRIED WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Wedding Ceremony Took Pace At The Elltown Reformed Church Parsonage

A prety and quiet wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Reformed Church Parsonage north of Klemme when Miss Martha Greimann and Mr. Carl E. Swanson were united in marriage by the Rev. C. A. Schmidt, pastor of the Elltown Reformed Church. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present.

Mrs. Aaron Greimann accompanied the bride, and Mr. Aaron Greimann was best man.

In the evening at seven o'clock a party of some hundred or more congregated at the W. F. Greimann, Sr., home for a reception given in onor of the happy young couple.

Mrs. Swanson is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Greimann, Sr., who reside on their farm northwest of Klemme. She was born and raised in this county and is a very pleasing young lady who will make a good companion for the man of her choice.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swanson, who reside a few miles east of Klemme. He is an industrious young man of good habits and is the type of man who has a high ideal for his goal in life.

Mr. and Mrs. Swanson will move to a farm northeast of Klemme in the early spring where they will begin housekeeping.

The Times joins with their many friends in extending best wishes.

CHRIS BLUMER MOVES REPAIR SHOP TO BANK BUILDING

We were making the rounds the other day and ran into Chris Blumer.

Chris said, "Jergie, you can tell 'em I'm now doing business in the bank."

We followed him around to see what was up and found he meant that he had moved his repair shop to the rooms at the rear of the State Savings Bank. Yep, Chris is in the bank alright! He's there to take in the shekels and in return give you a first class repair job on shoes, tires, auto curtains or any other light repair job. He wil even sew up your ripped pants and put a bachelor button on where one used to be, if you say so.

When it needs fixing just take it to Chris!

MANY IOWA CARS STOLEN

So far this year 295 cars have been stolen in the state of Iowa and 176 have been recovered, a bulletin issued by the state bureau of investigation stated. Copies of the auto theft bulletin have been sent to sheriffs and chiefs of police in Iowa and to the motor vehicle departments of surrounding states.

GOLDEN RULE AND WORLD PEACE

By DR. S. PARKES CADMAN

President of the Federal Council of Churches

In this powerful appeal for the adoption of the Golden Rule as a guiding principle in international relations, the great radio preacher holds up as an example in constructive international charity the work of the Near East Relief, which makes its annual appeal for the support of the American people on Golden Rule Sunday, observed annually in December.

NOTHING in the history of the American people of recent years so becomes them as their attitude towards the unhappy and persecuted people who have been the beneficiaries of the great work of the Near East Relief. At this season when the annual appeal for the support of this work is made, through the observance of Golden Rule Sunday, it is an overwhelmingly gratifying thing to hear the reports of the triumphs and successes of this philanthropy.

I have been hearing of the horrors of the Near East from the days of my early youth, when Mr. Gladstone conducted his memorable campaign in which he denounced the Turk and urged that the Turks should be thrust bag and baggage out of their country. The horrors have continued ever since, but our country has been an instrument in alleviating them by contributions out of its abundance to the crucial need of the distressed orphans and what few unhappy relatives they have left to them

We can do no better thing than to give for those who are in need, and thus make such merchandise out of our material welfare as to have credentials for the life which is to come. I do not take the attitude that there is anything much to praise about the American people in this matter, though I am proud of them, as we all are. It would have been a strange thing if we had not done as we have done.

When you think of the millions which are squandered in this country upon feminine devices for beautifying—which do not always succeed in realizing their object—when you think of the vast cost of trying to make mutton look like lamb, when you think of the multitude of surplus things with which we surround ourselves in daily life, and then see this work for far-off children, I think you will agree with me that even though our political promises have not always been realized, at any rate we have tried to retain the credit of our people by contributing generously to this work, which we must continue to sustain

As a churchman, I may be permitted to point out that the Near East Relief has contributed enormously to the cause of church unity. At Stockholm a few weeks ago I had the privilege of conferring with all the patriarchs and metropolitans and archbishops of the Greek church. They assured me that they have been drawn toward the West not by the common consent of intellectual minds nor by the doctors of the church, but rather through the work of Near East Relief. That work has won the hearts of great bishops as well as refugees and politicians. Truly we have seen the truth of the saying that a little child shall lead them. The little Armenian orphan, Zadi, whom thousands have heard sing and talk at the preliminary Golden Rule dinners in a hundred cities of this country, is a five-year-old representation of thousands of these Eastern peoples, whom we have approached not with theology or dogma, but with those deeds of mercy which are the very essence of true religion.

There is a lesson of world peace in this philanthropic approach to the hearts of men. We must follow it up with this decision—that we will not allow the state in the future to dictate to the church or to any body of men as to what shall be their attitude toward peace and war. We must take our patriotism from the preaching of the prophets. Unless we want a fund like this every fifty years to repair the recurrent waves of slaughter and devastation, we must cling to the spirit of the Golden Rule. The quality of mercy is not strained. It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven. It blesseth him that gives and him that takes. It becomes the throned monarch better than his crown.

DR. S. PARKES CADMAN

REPAIRS FARMER'S WOODEN LEG WITH PIECE OF BUCKET

Vinton, Ia., Dec. 17.—Sam Burkey, farmer living near here, has a wooden leg. While riding one of his horses through an icy field the animal slipped, fell on its side and broke Burkey's artificial leg. Ed. Burkhart, Vinton carpenter, happened to be working on the Burkey farm at the time of the accident.

"Let me see that leg, Sam," Mr. Burkhart requested.

"Sure," grinned the farmer.

Burkhart looked and scratched his head. "Guess I can fix it so it will last a while anyway," he said finally. "Take it off."

Burkey complied.

Burkhart cut a piece of galvanized tin from a bucket, wrapped it around the "fractured" leg, and then fastened it on with baling wire. And, behold! Burkley's leg was as good as ever—nearly.

"I had another one of the things ordered," Sam commented, "but the darned thing isn't here yet."

SAVE MONEY ON YOUR TIMES SUBSCRIPTION; ORDER NOW

You still have a short time in which to renew your subscription to the Klemme Times at the old rate.

Remember, beginning January 1, 1926, the subscription price will be raised 50 cents. Renew now and take advantage of a two year renewal thereby saving $1.00.

WHERE DID THE REGISTER GET THIS STORY?

In the Des Moines Sunday Register we found the following item. As we remember it, we published a clipping of this story, about two months ago, but the balloon was found at Leon, Iowa, and not at Klemme. The story follows:

Toy Balloon Drifts To Iowa From Kansas Farm

Klemme, Ia., Dec. 12 (Special)—Blanche Ward of this town recently found a toy balloon which bore a tag that informed the finder that he would be rewarded upon return of the balloon to a fair secretary at Seneca, Kan.

KLEMME DEFEATED IN GAME AT HAYFIELD FRIDAY NIGHT

Did You Know About This Rule?

CHRISTMAS GREETING CARDS REQUIRE 2 CENTS POSTAGE

Don't Detract Dignity; Prepay The Proper Postage Rates

Mrs. Emma Gibbs, postmistress, gave us the following bulletin 'ssued by the department regarding Christmas greeting cards:

Christmas and New Year's greetings sent as Post Cards, whether written or printed, require 2 cents postage each.

Printed greeting cards or folders inclosed in unsealed envelopes are subject to postage at the rate of 1½ cents for each 2 ounccs or fraction thereof. They may bear the written names and addresses of the sender and addressee and inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year," and "With best wishes."

All greetings inclosed in sealed envelopes are chargeable with postage at the letter rate—2 cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce, except where the 1-cent drop letter rate is applicable.

To Send Greetings Short-Paid Defeats their Purpose; So Prepay The Postage Fully.

R. S. REGAR,
Third As't. Postmaster General.

METHODISTS TO STAGE XMAS PROGRAM AT SCHOOL HOUSE NEXT THURSDAY EVENING

The Methodist Church will give a Christmas progarm at the School Auditorium on next Thursday evening, December 24th. The program is scheduled to begin at 7:30 o'clock.

A Christmas program consisting of singing, readings, drills, etc. will be given, and there will be the usual treat for everyone.

KLEMME-GARNER ROAD PATROLMAN RESIGNS

Chris Hanson, for a number of years patrolman on the Wilson Highway between Garner and Klemme has resigned his position on account of ill health. Mr. Hanson resides with his mother at Garner.

So far as we know, the Board has not appointed man to fill the vacancy.

OVER SIX MILES OF SNOW FENCE FOR THIS COUNTY

Experiment Conducted Proved A Good Investment Last Year

Last year Hancock County bought 16,500 feet of snow fence to use in protecting its highways from drifting snow, and so effective was this experiment that the Board this year decided to add an additional 18,000 feet of fence to its equipment for keeping the highways open during the winter. Hancock County now has approximately six and one half miles of snow fence. However, this is not all placed in one long strip, but a few hundred feet here and there are used. The snow drifting areas have been mapped out and he fence is placed at these points to hold back the snow.

The fence has been placed along the main highways of the county and will keep the roads from drifting shut this winter.

Sam Harvey has had his pool hall all painted up fine and fixed up in general. Sam believes in keeping a good looking and clean place of amusement and since he has taken over the busines has made it look like a very different place.

The Camp Fire Girls realized around $8.30 from their bake sale Saturday morning.

GIRLS TEAM PLAY FAST TIE GAME

KLEMME GIRL'S TEAM PLAYS A TIE GAME; BOYS LOSE TO HAYFIELD CAGERS

Teams Loyally Supported By Klemme Boosters; Fill Hayfield Gym

Over a hundred Klemme people drove to Hayfield last Friday night to see the double header basketball game between the Hayfield and the Klemme high schools.

The Klemme crowd arrived at the Hayfield school gym at about seven o'clock and within a few minutes every available seat was occupied by a Klemme booster. Klemme so completely filled the Hayfield gym that there was no room left for Hayfield fans, except a few who found standing room in the back and on the stairway.

That is the way we should back our teams and if a large crowd turns out for every game like that our teams are sure to win a long end of the games. Let's keep it up!

Now to get to the games. The Klemme Alumni Girls and the Hayfield High School girls played the first game. Our girls had it very much their own way during the first half. Then Hayfield came back strong in the second half and evened things up. The girls put up a real scrappy game and it was a genuine battle on both sides and when the whistler ended the scrimmage the score was a 25-25 tie.

The boys' game started out looking like it was going to be a repetition of the girls' battle but Hayfield seemed to get all the "breaks" and soon had a long lead. Klemme was playing in hard luck; they couldn't seem to conect their passes, their field shots simply would not work although they were in scoring position as many times as Hayfield but some "hoodoo" seemed to perch on the bankboard and kick out the ball. Our boys lost Patet and Tanner in the first quarter on foals. Taylor of Garner refereed the game and it appeared he called them rather close on Klemme and Hayfield got away with plenty of rough playing unseen by Taylor. No doubt the Klemme boys fouled badly but a one eyed man could have easily seen the other side of it through smoked glass.

Hayfield has a mighty fast boys team, as good as any in the county and we believe have a good chance to win the tournament.

They nearly succeeded in holding Klemme for no field shots; Gibbs sent in a ringer just before the final whistle and tallied up a basket. The other scores were made on free shots. The game ended 25 to 5, favor of Hayfield.

The locals say they are going to trim Hayfield here when the return game is to be played here in a few weeks—and we know they can do it!

Some Deals In Dirt

HANCOCK COUNTY TRANSFERS IN REAL ESTATE

Deals On Record From December 7 To December 12, 1925

A. A. Moore wf. to Mary Foster. W. D., date 11-6-25, lot 10 block 13 Kanawha.

Henry F. Sporaa to N. C. Nelson. W. D., date 12-8-25, $1.00, lots 1-2-3-4-5 and 6 block 4, Park add. to Garner.

Peter Rasmussen, wf. to Carl P. Rasmussen. W. D., date 12-25- $1 N½ NE¼ 7-96-23 & NW¼ NW¼ 8-96-23, ex. strip 2 rds. wide.

Harm Roskamp wf. to P. J. Elmso W. D., date 1`-23-25, $1.00, lot 6 & S 8 ft. of lot 5 in blk. 10, Kanawha.

BRITAIN BACKS PLAN FOR LEAGUE ARMY

Favors Military Force to Enforce Decisions of Council.

Geneva.—Great Britain consented in principle to proposals of Belgium and France for an agreement to establish a League of Nations military force to enforce the decisions of the league council.

The agreement, which was prepared by Foreign Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia and which has the support of the "little entente" calls for the examination by the preparatory committee arranging the disarmament conference of the size, population, wealth, geographical position, industrial resources and size of the army and navy of all members of the league. Then lists of the proportionate military aid they should undertake to give the league, in case a member is attacked, are to be prepared.

The accord on the proposal was reached in the name of England by Foreign Minister Austen Chamberlain, who came to Geneva and took over the discussions with Belgium and France from Sir Robert Cecil.

The fact that the Turks are announcing that they will defy the league if an award of the Mosul area is made against them and for Great Britain, and that the British fear an armed invasion of the Mosul area if the league decides in their favor, is believed to have had a considerable influence in obtaining British agreement on a matter which they have until now consistently opposed.

Comptroller for Easier National Banking Laws

Washington.—More favorable laws for the chartering of national banks to stop the exodus of the national banks into the state banking field were advocated by Comptroller of the Currency J. W. McIntosh in his annual report. Mr. McIntosh said that during the forty-year period ending July 1, 1924, the total resources of national banks have fallen from 75 per cent to 47 per cent. The last eighteen months have shown an especial tendency toward shrinkage, he said.

The comptroller predicted that the shrinkage of the national bank proportion would continue until more favorable laws are passed.

Paints Rosy Picture of Changed Conditions in U. S.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—"America has embarked upon an era of peace between employer and employee, between government and industrial management, between business and the people," said W. S. Clifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, in an address at the closing session of the Investment Bankers' association convention.

Material prosperity, the wide ownership of corporation securities and lessons learned from past experience are producing a people united economically and spiritually, he said.

Mine Congress Approves Coolidge Strike Remedy

Washington.—The American Mining congress in session here adopted resolutions endorsing the suggestion by President Coolidge in his message to congress for settlement of industrial controversies by impartial arbitration. It also endorsed the action of the President in transferring the bureau of mines from the Department of Interior to the Department of Commerce.

The resolution bearing on the President's suggestions applied specifically to the anthracite coal strike and was unanimously agreed to.

Chicago Milk Test Law Passed as Farmers Jeer

Chicago.—Jeers and epithets greeted members of the public health committee of the city council from enraged farmers, farmers' wives and representatives of medical liberty leagues as the committee voted to approve unanimously an ordinance to keep milk from tubercular cows from being sold in Chicago.

The ordinance provides that Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen be given full control in determining what herds are unhealthy.

U. S. Debt Comes First

Paris.—Finance Minister Loucheur told the chamber of deputies finance committee that the payment of the French debt to the United States must be arranged for before that of Great Britain is taken up.

Krim Sends Peace Offer

Paris.—Capt Gordon Cumming, Abd-el-Krim's representative in London, has reached Tangier with a letter from Krim proposing peace conditions, according to dispatches.

Flee New York Subway Fire

New York.—Passengers pleaded with guards for some time before the doors were opened and they were allowed to flee when a subway express train caught fire at a station of the Lexington avenue subway.

Missouri Drops Oil Suit

Jefferson City, Mo.—The anti-trust ouster suit against the Standard Oil company of Indiana was dropped from the Missouri Supreme court on request of Attorney General Gentry.

VET IN CONGRESS

An approved portrait of Representative John C. Speaks of Ohio, Republican, member of the house committee on military affairs. He served in the Spanish-American and World wars and on the Mexican border.

PRESIDENT'S BUDGET ESTIMATE FOR 1927

Figures Show Increase of $154,420,861 Over 1926.

Washington. — President Coolidge's estimates for federal government needs during the fiscal year 1927, beginning July 1, are shown in the following table:

Legislative establishment	$ 16,498,381
Executive office	441,960
Independent Offices—
Civil service commission	1,001,592
Employes' compensation commission	2,742,040
Federal board of vocational education	8,210,620
Federal trade commission	997,000
General acounting office	3,714,400
Housing corporation	674,398
Interstate commerce commission	6,033,309
Public buildings and public parks	2,293,850
Tariff commission	699,000
Shipping board and emergency fleet corp.	14,198,574
Smithsonian Inst. and Nat'l museum	858,240
United States veterans' bureau	458,965,000
Other independent offices	4,879,876
Department of Agriculture	140,717,758
Department of Commerce	30,402,847
Department of the Interior	250,967,602
Department of Justice	24,367,027
Department of Labor	8,567,305
Navy department	322,869,430
State department	16,614,932
Treasury department	157,563,713
War department, incl. Panama canal	335,641,525
District of Columbia	35,626,579
Total, ordinary	$1,845,546,960
Reduction in principal of public debt	515,583,398
Interest on public debt	795,000,000
Total payable from treasury	$3,156,130,358
Post-Office dept. and postal service (payable from postal revenues)	740,077,563
Total, including postal service	$3,896,207,921

The estimated figures for 1927 show an increase of $154,420,861 over the appropriations for 1926. This compares with a budget bureau calculation of $160,083,326. The difference is accounted for by the fact that appropriations made for public debt retirement and interest did not coincide with actual requirements.

Ask Congress to Rush Four Waterway Projects

Washington. — Delegates attending the national rivers and harbors congress adopted resolutions calling on congress for the prompt completion of four national water transportation projects, including the Mississippi river system and the improvement of the Great lakes. The others asked, all four of which it is said have been authorized by congress, were ocean harbors and intra-coastal and other inland waterways. It was estimated that $200,000,000 would be needed to complete the projects and it was recommended that congress appropriate each year the amount recommended by the chief of engineers of the army.

Plans for Eucharist Congress

Rome.—The pope received the general committee on eucharistic congresses and listened to the report on steps to be taken to insure a large participation by Italians in the congress at Chicago beginning June 20, 1926.

Delano Heads Opium Board

Geneva.—Frederic A. Delano of Washington, formerly of Chicago, was appointed by the council of the League of Nations as president of the special commission to study substitution of other crops for the poppy in Persia.

Navy Saves Money by Radio

Washington.—The government was saved $2,700,000 during the last fiscal year by sending of messages over the navy radio which previously had gone through commercial companies, it was announced.

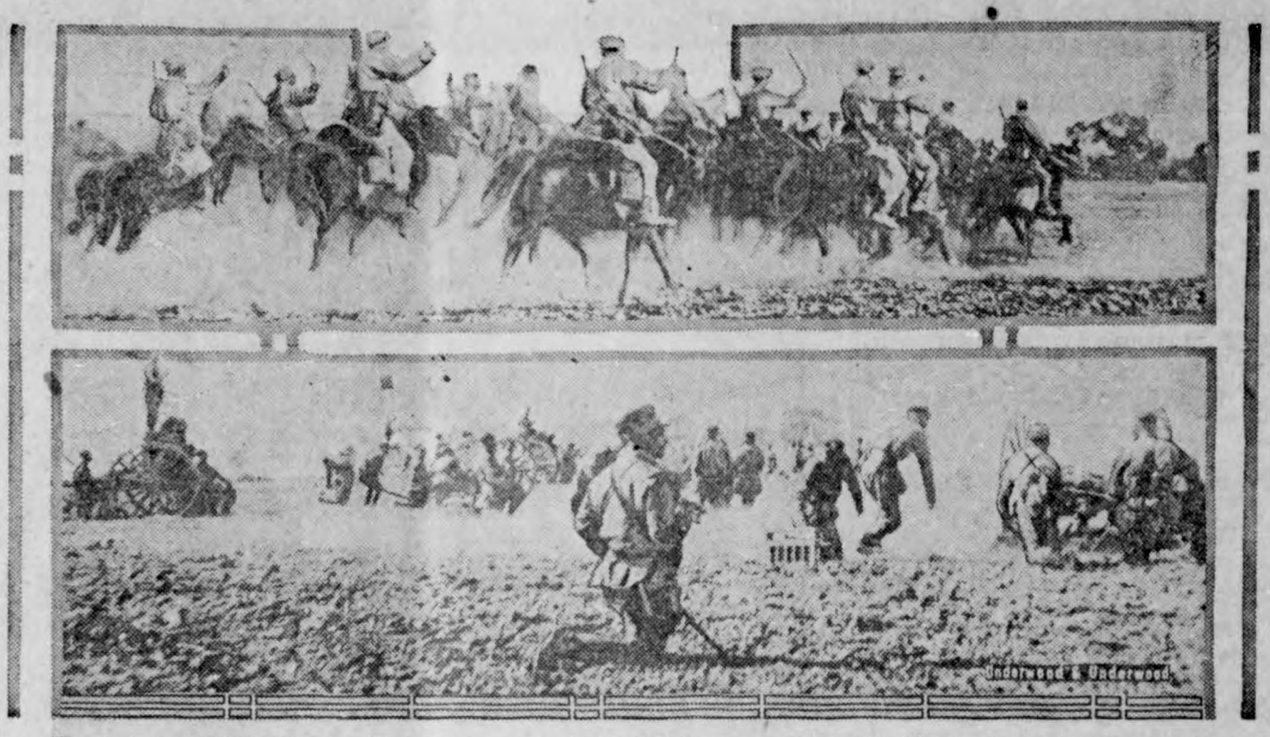
Pay Drives Out Judges

Washington.—Eleven former federal judges said they were forced to resign because of low pay, in a hearing before a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee.

Chicago Receives a Visit From President Coolidge

View of the great crowds greeting President and Mrs. Coolidge at Randolph and La Salle streets, Chicago; and, at right, the President as he was addressing the convention of the American Farm Bureau federation in the ballroom of the Hotel Sherman.

Action Pictures of Civil Warfare in China



These two pictures were made during an attack by the troops of Feng, the "Christian general" of China, on the forces of Marshal Chang, the war lord of Manchuria. One shows a cavalry charge and the other the artillery in action.

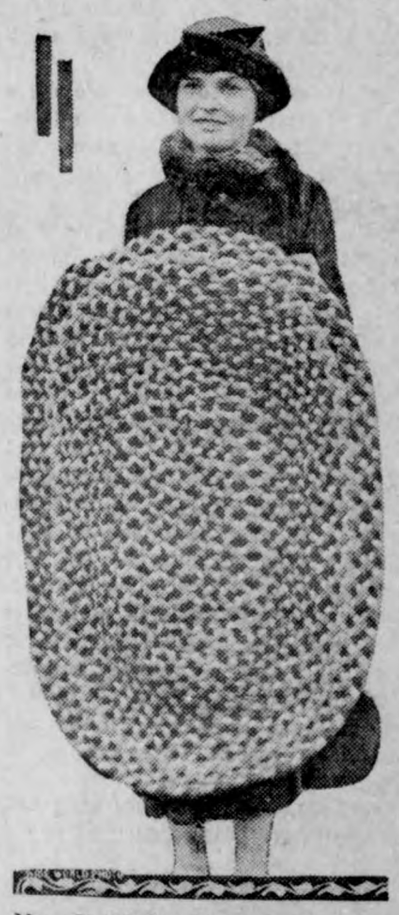
McAdoo Helps Near East Relief

Since the Smyrna disaster, the Greek government has spent $100,000,000 for the care and settlement of refugees. The Near East relief estimates that an additional expenditure of $48,000,000, or $30 per person, will be needed to complete the work for the two years. This picture shows William Gibbs McAdoo wearing regulation bill-poster's white cap, jacket and bib overalls and deftly wielding a paste brush, helping with the posters in Los Angeles announcing "Golden Rule Sunday."

White House Callers Face Camera

The above photograph shows a few of the news cameramen that camp out at the door of the President's offices at the White House from dawn to dusk, ready to "shoot" those who call to see the President. The notables being photographed are the German ambassador, Baron von Maltzen, and his guest, Prince Otto von Bismarck.

REWARD FOR ECONOMY



Mrs. C. W. Ramseyer, wife of Congressman Ramseyer of Iowa, with the hand-made rug which she presented to President Coolidge on behalf of Mrs. Carroll of Bloomfield, Iowa, who made and sent it to Mr. Coolidge to show her appreciation of his economy.

SENTENCED TO DEATH

William Cavalier of Pottsville, Pa., sixteen years old, who has been sentenced to death in the electric chair for the murder of his grandmother.

GENERAL PROSPERITY REPORTED BY MELLO

Prospects for Continued Go Times in U. S. Reflected in Statement.

Washington.—The general prosp ity of the nation and prospects for c tinued good times was reflected in S retary of the Treasury Mellon's ann report made public here.

On the strength of this outlook S retary Mellon urged continuation the rapid retirement of the pub debt and took sharp issue with th who advocate extending debt reti ment over a period of 62 years, d ing which time foreign debtors to pay their obligations to this co try.

"The last year has been a per of genuine prosperity for practica all classes," says Secretary Mell "Corporate profits are running high than for any year since 1919. Empl ment has been good, prices compar tively stable, and trade on a hi level as reflected in record car loa ings and bank debits to individual count. While production has be high, it has been as a rule well a justed to the rate of consumption a has not resulted in a general accum lation of large stocks. The automoti and building industries have co tinued to operate at a high level, a foreign trade has been increasing."

Secretary Mellon reviews progre made in the funding of debts a points to an improvement in wor conditions generally.

Reviewing business conditions, Se retary Mellon says the situation h been highly satisfactory, the progre of public economy and public debt r tirement contributing to this situatio He points out in this connection th danger of making a greater tax redu tion than is justified by prospecti surpluses.

The report, however, contained note of warning not to allow undu speculation in real estate or too u limited buying on credit to undermi the basically sound condition. Th Florida land boom evidently is th basis for a part of the warning.

Secretary Mellon said there was tendency "for the consuming public t buy every conceivable commodity o time and to mortgage future earnings, but added that business men wer conducting their affairs with cautio and restraint in order that prosperi ty might not bring carelessness.

The secretary then turned to th question of prohibition enforcement which devolves upon the department and said that he expects a marke advance in prohibition enforcemen as a result of the recent reeorganiza tion.

Vote to Open Baseball Season One Week Earlier

New York.—The salary of Bancroft B. Johnson, president of the American league, was increased from $30,000 to $40,000 and his contract extended from 1925 to 1935 at the annual meeting of league officials. Frank J. Navin of Detroit was re-elected vice president. The magnates voted to begin the season April 13 and close September 26, one week earlier than formerly, in order to try to find better weather and avoid competition between the football season and the world's series.

Food Prices Show Gain of Two to Five Per Cent

Washington.—With the advance of winter the retail cost of food showed a sharp rise during November, ranging from 2 per cent in Washington and Boston to 5 per cent in Louisville, Ky., and Butte, Mont., the Department of Labor announced. Other cities reported increases as follows: Bridgeport, Columbus, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Mobile, New Haven, Omaha, Portland, Maine.; Richmond, Va., and Rochester, 4 per cent.

Roosevelts Arrive in Delhi With Ovis Poli

Delhi, India.—Kermit Roosevelt arrived here from his successful shooting expedition as one of the leaders of the James Simpson-Field-Roosevelt expedition in the Tian Shan and Pamir ranges of Central Asia, where the party secured a fine group of the ovis poli, or "Marco Polo sheep." The party will go from Delhi to Calcutta for a visit with Lord Reading.

Rebels Ousted From Syria

Beirut.—Two raids by rebels on Damascus have been repulsed and the invaders driven out. A force of 200 men were first repulsed and then a party of 20 forced to flee.

Mexicans Arrest Plotters

Mexico City.—Several members of the Vera Cruz legislature have been arrested after the alleged discovery of a revolutionary plot.

Fight Weather Change

Washington.—The proposed change of the hour for taking the weather observations from eight to six o'clock, eastern standard time, both morning and evening, is being objected to by stations throughout the country.

Amphibian Plane Ready

Dayton, Ohio.—A three-passenger amphibian plane, constructed for catapult launching and deck landing, was delivered to the United States navy by the Loening Aircraft company.

The Spirit of Christmas

by Katherine Edelman

I AM THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS! Today I rule over the world as no king or queen ever ruled. I hold gifts in my arms that no ruler ever held and I scatter them with a lavish hand. I am loved by my subjects with a love that has no hint of fear, for they feel that I am working for their happiness.

WITH my magic hand I heal the hurts in many hearts. I pluck out by the roots the resentments and rancors that make men unhappy. I bring peace and understanding to hearts that know it not. Along my way I scatter seeds of faith, of hope, of love, that will spring up and bear fruit after the last echo of my footsteps shall be heard. I leave behind me beautiful memories to enrich and gladden, unnumbered dreams to make men more happy.

WITH my touch I create new friendships—I strengthen those that are already formed and make more dear and more precious the ties of home and kindred. To the little children I bring joy beyond telling, happiness beautiful to behold; to their elders I bring again the faith they knew in childhood. I am the instigator of thousands of loving messages that go from friend to friend, from kin to kin. I have breathed something of myself into each and every one of the gaily tied packages that are coming to every home.

THE mantle that I wear is broad and encircling enough to cover the whole world, to give to every heart a shelter and protection from fears and doubts, from hates and mistrusts, from all the things that keep men and women from their heritage of happiness. Within its folds I welcome every class and creed, every race and color—for all of them I have comfort and warmth.

I AM the Spirit of Christmas—broad, tolerant, loving! Everywhere today my presence is felt—my power is unlimited, my word supreme! I rule the world from land to land and from shore to shore. I am welcome in every home and at every hearth—the most loved and most welcome monarch the world has ever known.

Copyright 1925, Western Newspaper Union.

$98

5 Tube

Radiodyne

Receiver

Storage Battery, Standard size Loud Speaker, and all complete. Hear it at our shop.

We also have BALLOON TIRES for SPREADERS. The "NEW IDEA" Spreader, made by the largest spreader builder in the world.

Stille Implement Co.

The Christmas Dinner--

When the House Wives are planning their Christmas Dinner be sure to keep our store in mind for we will have on hand a fine assortment of—

FRESH GROCERIES FRUITS VEGETABLES
NUTS and a splendid line of CANDIES

We will have CELERY, LETTUCE, CRANBERRIES, LINGEN BERRIES, APPLES, BANANNAS ORANGES, GRAPE FRUIT, DATES, FIGS, ETC.

—In fact all the trimmings you will need.

SATURDAY SPECIAL
Men's 4-buckle Overshoes - - $2.95

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

SHERIFF'S SALE

J. W. KNADLER
vs.
P. M. GRIESEMER & F. J. WENCK.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that by virtue of a Special Execution issued out of the office of the Clerk of the District Court, in Hancock County, Garner, Iowa, on a judgment rendered October 8th, 1925 September Term of said Court A. D. 192 , for the sum of Two Thousand Seventy Three & 78-100 Dollars debt, and Seventy Four & 15-100 dollars costs, in favor of J. W. Knadler and against P. M. Griesemer & F. J. Wenck and to the Sheriff of Hancock County directed, I have levied upon the following described property, to-wit:

Lot Four (4), in Block Two (2), Morningside Addition to the Town of Klemme, Iowa.

NOW, THEREFORE, Public Notice is hereby given that I shall, on the 23rd day of December, 1925, at 10 o'clock A. M., at the front door of the Court House, in Garner, in Hancock County offer and sell at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash all the right title and interest that the above named Defendants had on the 23rd day of November, A. D. 1925, or now have in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy said execution, together with costs and all accruing costs, unless th same shall be sooner satisfied.

Dated at the Sheriff's office in Garner, this 23rd day of November A. D. 1925.

E. P. HANSON,
Sheriff of Hancock County, Iowa.
(Publish Dec. 10-17, '25)

Man Sleeps Like Log Eats Anything

"After taking Adlerika I can eat anything and sleep like a log. I had gas on the stomach and couldn't keep food down nor sleep." (signed) R.C. Miller. ONE spoonful Adlerika removes GAS and often brings surprising relief to the stomach. Stops that full, bloated feeling. Often brings out old waste-matter you never thought was in your system. Excellent for chronic constipation. Wilson's Pharmacy. 1tc

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blumer's
REPAIR SHOP

COBS FOR SALE—at the Lau Elevator. 1tc

Full line of Christmas Greeting Cards at Wilson's Pharmacy. tc

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gibbs and children spent Sunday visiting near Meservey.

Mr. and Mrs. Hod Lawhorn, of Garner, were visiting Klemme relatives and friends Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sampson, and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Patet were at Forest City Monday afternoon.

Raymond Schuldt has been on the sick list the past week, but we are glad to report that he is much improved at this writing.

The Royal Neighbors were entertained by Mesdames A. G. Koerner and C. F. Keraus last Friday afternoon. An election of officers was also held.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Hesselhuus of Conrad, Iowa, came Saturday evening and visited until Sunday afternoon at the Sumner Trumbell home. Dr. Hesslhuus is enjoying a good practice at Conrad.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

The road between Klemme and Garner is rougher than a washboard and it is past time for the board to do something about it. The road has been poorly maintened all year and no doubt will need to be regraveled next year. Somebody needs a "jacking-up."

Penrod's S. S. Class of the Methodist church held a party at the Parish House Monday night. They had a fine program of singing, music and speaking. An election of officers was held which was followed by a lunch of home made ice cream, cake and coffee. All had a fine time.

The Garner Alumni banquet and dance will be held at the opera house on Saturday evening, December 26. The banquet will be served at 6:30. There are a number of Klemme people who are members of the Garner Alumni and will perhaps attend.

The High School Karnival put on by the Junior Class at the school auditorium Saturday night was the biggest and best attraction Klemme has had for many a day. The Juniors realized around $75 from the show. And those who attended got a $75 "kick" out of it for the nickels and dimes they invested in the fun.

School closes here tomorrow for a two weeks vacation. We haven't heard any of the kids grumble because of the fact. They will put in some over-time coasting, skating and tearing around in general. The teachers will have an opportunity to visit home folks and—sweethearts, we understand.

GOODELL AND VICINITY

The play, "Billy's Aunt Jane," given Friday night by the Godell High School, was well attended and everyone enjoyed it. About $35.00 was realized.

Fernon and Mae Griggs and Dalia Stromer were shopping in Mason City, Saturday.

The U. B. Ladies realized about $180.00 from their Bazaar and supper given Saturday in the church basement.

Bill Rhodes' have installed a new radio.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Kensitt and Junior visited at the Avery home Sunday.

Mrs. Chase, of Garner, was ransacting business in Goodell last week.

Vogal Christiansen returned from Hampton, Thursday.

E. P. Hubbard rturned from North Dakota, Friday.

Cholm Houghton, who has been quite sick for the past week was able to return to school Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and daughter, Lois, of Meservey, attended the play at Goodell Friday night.

Mrs. Pollock, of Garner, has been helping in Thada's store the past week.

Ethel Hughes of Garner, spent the week end with Goodell friends.

Mrs. Geo. Ness entertained Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ness, Mr. and Mrs. Hetland and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alsvig. Misses Effie Clark and Esther Harberts Saturday evening in honor of Ruth Ness' twenty-third birthday.

The Misses Townson, of Wisconsin are visiting at the home of their uncle, Pete Lackore.

Gifts Men Appreciate Are Gifts To Wear

It's a pleasure to shop at this store. Here you'll find large assortments of new and correct merchandise, attractively displayed. Our name assures you of satisfaction with every purchase.

Make This Store Your Headquarters

Patton Brothers Co.

Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY, IOWA

Roasting Fowls For Christmas

There is one way to be sure that the Fowl you plan to serve for Christmas Dinner will be good—phone or call and have us pick you out one the size needed. We can satisfy you with a fine dressed—

GOOSE
DUCK, or CHICKEN.

Why not try one of delicious Hams for a delightful roast for Christmas?

Other specials on hand: Mince Meat, Standard and Count Oysters, Pickles, Olives and Relishes, Cheese of all kinds.

Klemme Meat Market

Christmas Suggestions

Tops
Games
Wrist Watches
Fountain Pens
Silver Pencils
Mesh Bags

Books
Watch Chains
Belt Buckles
Dolls
Harmonicas
Compacts
Stationery
Kodaks
Photo Albums
Ivory Combs
Cuff Links
Military Sets
Bobbed Hair Sets

Toilet Sets
BOX CANDY
XMAS CIGARS

Manicure Sets
Shaving Sets
BRICK ICE CREAM

Wilson's Pharmacy

BECOMING BETTER ACQUAINTED

Two things are necessary to enable a bank to give its customers the best of service; knowing them personally and knowing their desires.

A part of our time is devoted to becoming better acquainted with our territory—that our service may be improved. This is another reason why the First National Bank can handle your account in a superior way.

First National Bank.
KLEMME, IOWA.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS--

Christmas will be here in a few days and it is not too early to think of buying your Christmas Candies, Nuts, Cigars, Etc. You will find a nce selection of Christmas Candies here, in both Bulk and in Fancy Boxes.

Always a nice fresh line of Cigars—give "hm" a box of "Smokes" for Christmas—there is nothing which will please him more. A nice box of Candy for "her" will be just the thing.

Then we always have Ice Cream in a number of flavors, Nuts and Fruit for your Christmas dinner.

—Call On Us—

Conrad Quandt

The Crystal Cafe — Klemme, Iowa

A Gift for Friends

TO NO ONE BUT A FRIEND WOULD YOU CARE TO GIVE YOUR PHOTOGRAPH, so what more marked intimacy could you give to a gift than to make it a Photograph in one of the many beautiful mountings we are showing? Phone 1227-J. for appointment.

Photos in folders $6.00 per dozen and up

Kirk Studio

11½ South Federal Avenue — Mason City, Iowa.

Going Strong!

Cold Weather and "GOING STRONG," that's the way your car will work when equiped with one of our PHILCO BATTERIES. If your old battery is giving you trouble, put in a PHILCO BATTERY—they're full of pep!

SHEARS-SAWBUCK & CO. WEEPS—

—when they hear the price we are selling a good battery for. We have a good Rubber Cased Battery we are selling for 10 BUCKS!

Pavey's Stormizing Shop

Ever-Ready Gasoline — Pure Pennsylvania Motor Oil

COBS FOR SALE—at the Lau Elevator. 1tc

Full line of Christmas Greeting Cards at Wilson's Pharmacy. tc

R. A. Jorgenson and family spent Sunday visiting at Garner.

LOST—Scissors at last meeting of sLadies Aid, return to Times Office.

See Emil Lau if you want a good Duroc Jersey Boar. 10-17c

Mrs. Lou Davis and children, of Mason City, were visiting at the Henry Freie home Saturday.

Have some good Duroc Boars for sale, must be sold by Dec. 20th. See Emil W. Lau. 1-17c

The Methodist Church will give a Christmas program at the School on Thursday evening, Dec. 24th.

About a hundred, of more Klemme fans drove to Hayfield last Friday night to see the basketball game.

Mr. and Mrs. August Ridder are at Waterloo visiting with one of their sons.

FOR SALE—Buff Rock Cockerels. Mrs. Peter Trampell, Goodell, Iowa. D-3-17-c

Allie White has invested some of his surplus cash in a radio and is a radio bug right!

The Charles Rosenau family of Ventura spent Sunday at the Leslie Har'beck home southwest of Klemme.

Rev. A. A. Depping, of Baxter, Ia., was here the fore part of the week packing up and shipping his household goods.

Mrs. Henry Wade is enjoying a visit this week from some of her relatives from Illinois.

FOR SALE cheap if taken at once my 5-tube neutrodyne radio set with loud speaker. C. G. Waterman. tfc

Mrs. John Gruetzmacher and Mrs. P. M. Griesemer visited at Garner from Saturday until Sunday evening with the fomer's sister, Mrs. Schuldt.

Dr. Hess' POULTRY PAN-A-CEA helps to keep poultry healthy and to MAKE HENS LAY. Guaranteed. Sold by Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1wc

H. Beek had a very successful farm sale at his place yesterday. We predict there will be very few sales this year.

Roy Lawhorn, of Garner, and L. T. Nutty, county agent, of Britt were in Chicago last week attending the national meeting of the Farm Bureau, as delegates from Hancock county.

This vicinity was again visited oy a light snow Tuesday morning when a couple of inches fell. However, the weather is good and the snow makes it look all the more like the Holiday season.

Have you renewed your subscription to The Times? Remember on January 1st the rates advance. Save money by subscribing and renewing now.

The little baby of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Ter Hark, of Belmond, died and the funeral services were held Tuesdya. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of their many Klemme friends in their sorrow.

This community was saddly shocked when it was learned that Mrs. Verner Haberkamp had passed away at the Mercy Hospital at Mason City Tuesday morning, following an operation. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved ones.

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, Dec. 17, 1925

EGGS (trade)	.35
EGGS (cash)	.34
HEAVY HENS	.20
LIGHT HENS	.15
STANDARD SPRINGS	.20
LEGHORN SPRINGS	.15
DUCKS	.12
OLD ROOSTERS	.07
GEESE	.10
BUTTERFAT	.55
BUTTER (Kleme Creamery)	.53
EAR CORN	45. to .50
RYE	.65—.70
WHEAT	$1.50
OATS	.33
BARLEY	.45-.50
HOGS	$9.00 to $10.20

Jewelry

The Gift that Lasts

After considering many different gifts, most people return to their first idea and give Jewelry. Jewelry is the sensible gift. If it comes from here it will last for years, giving the recipient many pleasant memories of your Christmas thoughtfulness.

Watches

Wrist and Regular

Are here in Gift Boxes. A variety of styles and finishes are offered you in this collection of Gift Watches.

Note These Splendid Gifts

Gulbransen and Schumann Pianos

Uprights

Registering Baby Grands

Everything in This List Will Please Someone as a Gift

Here is a list of suggestions from which you may choose a gift for most everyone. And you know they will be pleased with your selection for our guarantee of satisfaction is a part of your purchase contract.

DIAMOND RING
PEARL NEMKLACE BRACELET
WATCH CHAIN
SCARF PIN CUFF LINK
CIGARETTE CASE
FOUNTAIN PEN
PENCIL
BAR PIN
BROOCHES
SILVERWARE CLOCK MESH BAG
TOILET SET POCKET KNIFE
TIE CLASP
VANITY CASE
BUCKLE EMBLEM

M. N. ZEIGER

Jeweler :: Garner

Give Practical Gifts--

This year you should make it a point to give only useful and practical gifts. It s foolish to spend money for trinkets and or naments of no real usefullness or value. We suggest that you make your selections from our large line of both useful and practical gifts which you can find at our store. Here is a good list of suggestions:

COLEMAN LAMPS
THERMO BOTTLES
ELECTRIC IRONS
ELECTRIC TOASTERS
SILVER WARE
CARVING SETS
PYREX DISHES

WINCHESTER TOOLS
WINCHESTER SHOTGUN or RIFLE
WRENCH SETS, PLIERS
FLASH LIGHTS, GAS LANTERNS POCKET KNIVES
SAFETY RAZORS
COASTER WAGONS

FOOD CHOPPERS
ALUMINUM ROASTERS
ENAMELED WARE
SCISSORS AND SHEARS
BAKING DISHES
A NEW GLOBE RANGE
KITCHEN KNIVES, ETC.

COASTER SLEDS
ICE AND ROLLER SKATES
KIDDY KARS and TRICYCLES
AIR RIFLES
DOLL or PLAY DISHES
SMALL SCISSORS
PEN KNIVES, Etc.

Fix up your Radio For Christmas—full line of Batteries, Tubes, Aerials, Etc. Here.

E. F. Jacobs, Hardware

Prevents Chapped Hands & Cracked Knuckles

Rub "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly on your hands before working in the cold or wet and you'll avoid chapped hands and cracked knuckles. For cuts, burns, bumps, bruises and sores or skin troubles, apply "Vaseline" Jelly liberally. Always safe, soothing and healing.

Look for the trade-mark "Vaseline" on every package. It is your protection.

Chesebrough Mfg. Company (Cons'd) State Street New York

Vaseline

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

PETROLEUM JELLY

WHY SUFFER ANOTHER DAY WITH INDIGESTION?

The big seller today for acute and chronic stomach misery is Dare's Mentha Pepsin and it is such a fine, pleasant and supremely good medicine that if the first bottle you buy doesn't help you—your druggist will return the purchase price.

One man writes, "I Cannot understand why any person will continue to suffer from gastritis or indigestion when Dare's Mentha Pepsin is available."

And tens of thousands of people—many of whom almost died with stomach agony—think the same way.

It's the right medicine for any person who suffers from bad digestion, gas, heaviness and that feeling of suffocation which is always dangerous.

For gastritis, indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach agony—acute or chronic, keep Dare's Mentha Pepsin in mind.

Heals Leg Sores

Peterson's Ointment

To the millions of people who use Peterson's Ointment for piles, eczema, salt rheum, pimply skin, sore feet and chafing, Peterson says, "Tell any sufferer from old sores that its mighty healing power is wonderful." All druggists, 60 cents.

The Changes

"Ah, how times change!" musingly began Professor Pate. "No longer—"

"That's a fact!" impolitely interrupted J. Fuller Gloom, the human snapping turtle. "In the good old days we paid 10 cents or a quarter to get into the skating rink, and then sailed round and round till our feet slipped and we tumbled down and dislocated our shoulders, broke our collar bones or fractured our limbs. But nowadays we purchase flivvers, and break our arms cranking them or they run off from a high bank or try to climb trees or meet other flivvers in the middle of the highways, and fracture various and sundry portions of our anatomies. Tempus does indeed fugit."—Kansas City Star.

Nature's Balance

A balanced aquarium consists of green pond weed, either floating or rooted, a few snails, tiny animals known as water fleas and fish. The animals eat the plants and give off organic waste from which the plants make their food. The plants give off oxygen to the animals and the animals give carbon dioxide to the plants. Thus the balance exists.

Cuticura for Pimply Faces.

To remove pimples and blackheads smear them with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Once clear keep your skin clear by using them for daily toilet purposes. Don't fail to include Cuticura Talcum. Advertisement.

Cause and Effect

Cora—"I saw Agnes yesterday and we had the loveliest confidential chat together." Dora—"I thought so—she wouldn't speak to me today."—Boston Transcript.

Almost Never

Cobwebs are said to be conductors of electricity. But they seldom shock a domestic servant.—London Opinion.

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right

By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

Green's August Flower

for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver

Relieves that feeling of having eaten unwisely. 30c and 90c bottles. AT ALL DRUGGISTS.

ECZEMA

Relieve that itching, burning torment and start the healing now with

Resinol

Prudence's Daughter

By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

WNU Service

THE BIG IDEA

SYNOPSIS.—PART ONE—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, New York, Jerry (Geraldine) Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He admires her tremendously, and she likes him. But Allerton gets a bit exhilerated, with unfortunate results. Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly. The story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Des Moines. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of Art and asks her parents to let her go to New York for study. With some misgiving, they agree to her going. In New York Jerry makes her home with a Mrs. Delaney ("Mimi"), an actress, who, with Theresa, a painter, occupies the house. Jerry takes an immediate liking to Theresa, who is talented and eccentric, and the two become fast friends. Jerry now devotes herself to Theresa, who returns her liking. Jerry poses for Theresa's masterpiece, "The Ocean Rider." Allerton calls on Jerry. The girl refuses to see him. At a hotel dinner Jerry sees Duane and is conscious of his admiration, but refuses to change her attitude toward him. Jerry becomes convinced she has not the ability to become an artist. At a party Jerry again sees Duane, and will not recognize him. Theresa hints that Jerry should go home, and promises her a "present." Returning from an evening of gayety, Jerry is shocked at hearing from Mimi She also learns that Mimi is Theresa's mother. The "present" Theresa had promised Jerry proves to be her picture, "The Ocean Rider." Jerry decides to go home. At home she is enthusiastically welcomed by her adoring parents. She wins their sympathies with the stories of her New York life.

CHAPTER II

—10—

Jerry Comes Into Her Own

Jerry seemed to settle again into the routine of every-day life in her Middle Western home without change. She shared in the work of the house as she had done before she went to New York, practiced her music, read a great deal, and drove out very often in the handsome little "Harmer" which was her personal possession.

Her return was hailed with a great lavishness of celebration on the part of her friends, for she had long been a leader in the particular little set she claimed as hers. Immediately she was made the occasion for a gay series of dances, dinners and parties. Little flirtations, inconsequential affaires, which had faded away and died upon her departure, struggled back into a semblance of rejuvenation on her return, and although they failed to stir Jerry to active interest, at least they played their part in whiling away the hours, and helping to occupy her thoughts, which were not happy ones for the most part.

Even with so much to amuse and engage her, the days passed slowly, and Jerry, for all the demands on her time, remained distrait and preoccupied, almost listless. And Prudence drove herself well-nigh to distraction in her maternal anxiety to bridge the dangerous chasm between times past and times present, but all in vain she racked her fertile brain for things to stimulate Jerry's interest.

"Oh, my dear, you haven't taught me to dance for nearly two years!" she exclaimed one night, in the extreme of desperation.

Jerrold and Jerry broke into laughter over her abject submission to martyrdom for her daughter's sake. For Prudence found in dancing nothing but punishment and tribulation.

Married life for her had been an intricate matter at best, having as she did the sacred shadow of Methodism for a background. The church itself had been the first shadow to cloud the heaven of their domestic harmony. Church, to Prudence, meant Methodist, and Jerrold, in the ardor of his young love, attended services with her in the beginning with some fair display of interest. His enthusiasm, however, was for Prudence only, not for the church of her affiliation.

When she asked him how he liked it he said: "Oh, very much," to please Prudence.

After a time, growing suspicious as to the depth of this interest, she pressed him further. Jerrold admitted at last that as far as he was concerned, he considered it no church at all, no real worship, no divine service. Prudence was shocked into speechlessness. But Jerrold, hard driven, stuck to his ground. He said the way the Methodists clubbed about the door and chatted and laughed was his idea of rank irreverence. And for a preacher to get down on his knees in the pulpit and talk in that offhand and familiar fashion to the Divine Being instead of reading respectfully from a book—he called it sacrilege. He was willing to go, to please Prudence, he was willing to shake hands, and discuss his wife's health and the state fair and the corn crop at the door—to please her—he was willing to follow through countless intricate paragraphs of extemporaneous prayer—but he did not call it church, and it was not his idea of worship.

Prudence wrote to her father. And her father wrote back, with that gentle and forbearing patience which seems more rare and more divine in the ministry than anywhere else, that Prudence must go with her husband. "We have learned," he wrote, "that there are lessons in stones, and sermons in running brooks. So if Jerrold finds no religion in our church, it is up to you to find it in his."

Prudence swallowed hard, but she did it.

It was not, as Jerrold frankly admitted, that he cared particularly about attending any church with a painful degree of assiduity, but when he had church, he wanted church, and not a Sunday morning reception without refreshments.

Of course Prudence had had to learn to dance. Having become an Episcopalian she could not plead the Methodist Discipline in rebuttal, and thus unexpectedly torn adrift from her spiritual backbone, she agreed with Jerrold, rather faintly, that it would be a shame for her to go through life sitting out every enticing waltz and luring one-step. She must certainly learn to dance.

She encountered difficulties from the start. A professional instructor was brought in to teach her. And after many painful, painstaking lessons, she managed to get around very nicely. But when Prudence, in fear and trembling, got on the floor with any other than the instructor, she had trouble.

"It isn't that I don't try," she told her husband despairingly, but eager in her own defense in the face of his derision, "I do try! I put my whole mind on it. I know exactly what I am supposed to do, I count every step, and I never listen to a word my partner says, and I keep both eyes shut so I won't be afraid of running into the wall! But I can't keep off his feet, nor from under them. You needn't laugh, either, for I can't help it."

When Jerry had come of an age to take a personal interest in her mother's social life, and to feel a personal responsibility for her public appearance, she shared this burden with her father. And at regular intervals, perhaps twice a year, the entire household was thrown into a tumultuous state of excitement with teaching Prudence to dance.

"Why can't you dance? Why can't you?" demanded Jerry earnestly. "Aunt Fairy dances beautifully, Aunt Connie dances, both the Twin Aunties adore it. Haven't they as much Methodist blood as you have? Why can't you learn?"

"I don't know," acknowledged her mother unhappily. "I certainly work hard enough to learn anything! I just can't, and that's all there is to it."

When Prudence, therefore, of her own volition and without coercion from anyone, voluntarily proffered herself as a willing sacrifice to learn to dance again, she was driven to desperation. To her surprise, to her great concern as well, Jerry only laughed, and would not accept such martyrdom at her hands.

"Nonsense, mother, you can't dance, and you don't want to. Why bother? You'd better just stick to Wesley and eschew the devil and all his works."

"Bridge, then," pleaded Prudence hopefully. "You really ought to teach me something, you know."

Jerry consented to add a few final touches to a course in cards which had already extended futilely over a period of twenty years, but she warned her mother to let no one inveigle her into playing for points.

"For do your level best, mother, you can still lose the family fortune a great deal faster than father can earn it, if you go in for points, the way you play it."

And so March blustered away, and April came, and May. And in all these months Jerry could not fathom that great mystery of what girls do, who have nothing to do, and go quite mad over doing it!

It was a morning late in May when she was called to the telephone. A girl of her acquaintance, Rae Forsythe, was going over to the other side of town to look at a house. She asked Jerry to go with her. Jerry, who had driven her own car from the time she was fifteen years old, was used to these invitations to go with her friends on errands to remote and inaccessible places. Jerry understood it very well, but her understanding was quite without malice. She did not blame them. She was sure if she had to go a long way to a strange part of town, and had no car of her own, she herself would invite as company for the occasion—one who had.

So she accepted the invitation very sweetly, and said she would stop by for Rae in the car, about eleven o'clock.

She knew that Rae was going to be married in the fall, and that her father had given her ten thousand dollars to provide a bridal home. And this expedition, as she surmised, was in search of a house. She picked up her friend at the designated hour, and turned her car buoyantly to the north side of the city.

"But why go away out there, Rae? It's a crazy place to look for a house," she protested.

"Yes, but property is so much cheaper. We want to get house and furniture all for ten thousand, you see. And then, Grant has bought a drug store out by the university, and it will be much nicer for him. He can come home for luncheon," she explained with the pretty proprietary shyness of prenuptial days.

Following Rae's directions, Jerry drove slowly out along Central avenue and turned down Seventeenth street. When they came to the house, she stopped the car, and both girls turned about in their seats and looked at it.

It was not prepossessing. Set entirely too far forward in a small lawn at the top of a steep terrace, it stood very stiff, very square, very high, with an awkward square porch, clumsy square windows, the whole in grievous need of paint.

"Will you tell me," Jerry said plaintively, "why my Iowa builds itself such ghastly homes?"

"He said it was a barn of a thing," assented Rae. "But it is very cheap. He said—the real estate man, I mean—said it could be entirely built over for a few thousand. And it has good points, a garage in the back when we get rich enough for a car—just opposite the little park you see—on the car line—and quite near the university and Grant's drug store."

With these points to its credit, Jerry followed her distastefully up the steps of the terrace, and still more distastefully on the clumsy, stiff square porch.

"Why do they do it, Rae?" she wondered. "Such stiff, straight, stupid lines—the doors, the windows, the columns. Couldn't they put a little curve in once in a while for the same money?"

"Will You Tell Me," Jerry Said Plaintively, "Why My Iowa Builds Such Ghastly Homes?"

"Beauty is very expensive," said Rae lightly.

"No wonder we all go off somewhere, to California, or to New York, if this is the best we can do for ourselves," Jerry went on gloomily. "I don't blame us. Fancy living in a thing like this! Not just one, either—all the inexpensive poorman houses are exactly like it. The gypsies do better in tents."

"Oh, bother the gypsies, Jerry; come on in and have a look." Rae opened the door with the key which had been given her, and led the way inside where they stared curiously about them, a frowning disapproval on their two young faces.

"People must have lived in it some time," said Jerry. "Probably they died, poor things. I don't wonder."

The house was divided with scrupulous exactness into four sections, rooms Jerry decided one must doubtless call them—to the left a stiff square parlor leading to a stiff square parlor bedroom beyond—to the right a solemn dining room, with a sober kitchen adjoining. The stairs rose in a direct and businesslike manner, without pretense or artifice, to the second floor, where there was another mathematical division of space, a bedroom, a bath to the left, two bedrooms to the right.

Jerry stared and stared. "Wouldn't you think they must have died, Rae?" she asked. "It would be like living in a cemetery, wouldn't it? Wouldn't you think that some time one of them would have taken a hammer to those walls, just to break the deadly continuity of the thing? Poor corpses, I don't blame you a bit. I think you're lucky."

Rae laughed at her. "You are funny, Jerry. But it is a horrid old barn of a house, isn't it? But then they are only asking thirty-five hundred for it."

"Cheap enough, unless one has to live in it," murmured Jerry. "I hold it against the state, Rae," she went on. "I almost wish I had been born in Arkansas, or Nevada, or Wyoming."

"Don't blame the state," protested Rae. "People don't have to live in this particular house unless they wish."

"But the whole street is like it. And the next one is worse, and the next still worse. Oh, some few houses are nice enough, I suppose, but in the main—hopeless! Our own used to be a funny, straight-up-and-down thing, too. We have pictures of it. They built it over when I was a baby. No, it is the state, Rae. We get that straight up-and-downness from the corn, I fancy."

Rae, intent upon her search for a home for herself and her young pharmacist, paid slight attention to her friend's plaintive ramblings. She looked about her, with growing disfavor. And while she looked, Jerry stood in the doorway, and stared with increasing amazement about the place.

"It couldn't be a home, you know," she said to herself. "It might do as a garage, even as a stable if one didn't love one's horses. One could call them stalls, dinner stall, sleeping stall, cooking stall—it's the way they look. And you know really it wouldn't be so hard to—sort of—switch things around a little—knock out a wall or two—twist that staircase about some way—and—and—"

Jerry's eyes narrowed speculatively. She drew vague little designs in the air with a gloved finger. A curious brightness came into her face.

"It is impossible," Rae said, coming back from her inspection. "I wouldn't have it as a gift."

"Thirty-five hundred. Is that what you said? Can I get it on terms? Let's go down right away. I have an idea."

CHAPTER III

The Summer Passes

Prudence and Jerrold had finished the soup and were starting with steak and potatoes when Jerry ran in that night, profusely apologetic for her tardiness. Her face was aflame with color, her starry eyes aglow behind the fringing lashes.

"Awfully stupid of me to be so late," she cried, tossing her gloves and hat upon a chair, and sliding deftly into her place at the table. "No soup for me, Katie. But be generous with the steak." She glowed around at her little family. "I've been having a heavenly time, mother—almost as exciting as teaching you to dance again. And that reminds me"—Jerry put her knife down and turned about, facing her father. "I'll have to borrow some money, father—I don't know just how much—a thousand or so. Will you lend it to me?"

Jerrold was working with a refractory bit of sirloin and did not answer upon the instant.

"I will," proffered Prudence meekly.

"It's awfully good of you, mother, but I think I'd better get it from father. This is business, you see, and it's impossible to be real businesslike with you, you're such a lamb. Of course, father, I can give you a—a mortgage on the 'Baby.'" Jerry always called her pretty roadster the "Baby." The first had been just "Baby," the second was "Baby Junior," and this latest and finest one of all was tenderly known as "The Third." "I can give you a mortgage on her, but I'm going to be awful busy, and I'll have to use her just the same."

"It might be interesting to know what you're going to do with it—the money, I mean," her father put in gently, when she paused for breath. "Not that it's any of my business, of course."

"Oh, I don't mind telling—not in the least." Jerry was impulsively generous. She pushed her plate back a little and launched into a graphic account of the day's excursion with Rae in quest of a honeymoon home. She described the "great grotesque barn of a thing" on Seventeenth street opposite Good park in no mild manner.

"Rae simply wouldn't give it a second look," she finished. "But you know, father, it looked pretty good to me. Lots of advantages, Rae said so herself—right opposite the park, on the car line, near the university—and lumber in it, heaps of lumber! Well, I got to figuring. You could pull out a few walls, and build in a few windows, and switch things around a little bit and paint it, and—sort of fuss it up. I figured out a hundred things that one could do to it. Well, you can buy it for thirty-five hundred, spend say another thirty-five hundred in making it look human—and I'll bet you could sell that place for Ten Thousand Dollars!"

Jerrold was buttering his roll.

"I'm sure of it," agreed Prudence.

"But why bother?" asked Jerrold, after a little. "Why go to all that trouble, and work, and expense—"

Jerry was amazed at his stupidity. "Oh, a dozen reasons, father! In the first place, Iowa ought to be ashamed of itself for permitting such a lot of these stupid, stiff, square houses, that no human being could possibly fit into. Well, then, it would make a lovely and adorable little spot of a place that is now simply an eye-sore and a—a civic ulcer, as you might say. And once you get a real sweet, dainty home up there, it's going to make the rest of the block ashamed of itself, and first thing you know they'll all be dolling up a little bit, to keep up with Lizzie. 'Scuse the slang, mother—I'm so excited. And besides"—Jerry's voice rose triumphantly—"think of me! I'm going to make a couple of thousand dollars on that job!"

Evidently Jerry has found something interesting. Is it the beginning of a career?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Our Paradoxical Language

A fellow gets in bad when he is found out.—Portland Evening Express.

Shaw on Shakespeare

Opinion of a certain noted atist, daintily expressed by George Bernard Shaw:

"With the single exceptio Homer, there is no eminent not even Sir Walter Scott, wh despise so utterly as I despise S speare when I measure my against his. It would positive a relief to me to dig him up and stones at him."—McNaught's Mo

Devil's Delight

His satanic majesty never we of jollying people who boast of self-made.

Sure Relie

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTIO

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhe

STAND THEM O THEIR HEADS

RAT-NIP

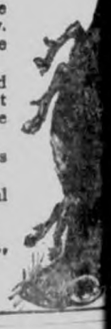
The one poison they can't resist. It gets them every time. Kills rats and mice quickly, positively and safely. A single tube has killed more than 100 rats in one night.

Simply spread on bread and put where rats can get it—they'll be dead in the morning.

Easy to use—your hands need never touch it.

In clean, screw-top metal tubes, 35 cents.

BUFFALO SPECIALTY CO., The LIQUID VENEER People Buffalo, N. Y.



PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair F Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded 60c and $1.00 at Druggists. Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue,

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns bunions, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at gists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N

The Purity of Cuticu Makes It Unexcelled For All Toilet Purpos

Ohio's Paint Production

It is not generally known that produces nearly one-fifth of the volume of paint products in the ed States, its output reaching 22 000 gallons a year, which exceed 2,000,000 gallons the total for nearest competitor, New York.

It takes a genius to compel hi to like the disagreeable tasks he to perform.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Service for This Department Supplied by the National American Legion News Service.)

...ILLION STRONG," IS LEGION SLOGAN

..."Go Gettum" is the nickname that ... Rea McQuigg, banker and attor... of East Cleveland, Ohio, won in ...rly days of the World war. It's ...title which he is setting out to ...e good as national commander of ...American Legion.

...owing John Rea and his work, ...Legion has confidently given him a ...bill to fill. "Add 400,000 members ...the Legion during the next year ...make it a million strong." And ...Rea is setting out painstakingly ...to just that.

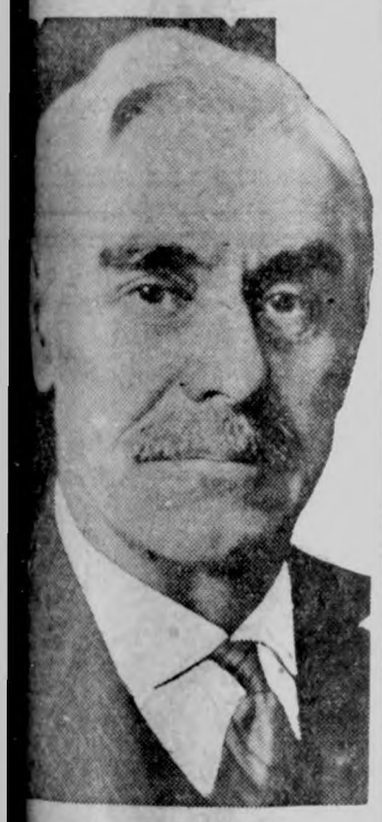
...re's how the new commander got ...elling sobriquet: Right after the ...ed States entered the war in 1917, ...Quigg was commissioned colonel ...the One Hundred Eleventh engin... the famous old Cleveland Grays, ...which he had been a member. He ...up his mind to go to camp with ...regiment at full strength.

...mebody said to him, "How are ...going to recruit so many men in ...a short time?"

..."Well, I guess I'll have to go get ..." was the reply. And he did just ...

...ching camp in the heart of Cleve... he started an intensive recruit... campaign. To such good effect did ...carry on that when the engineers ...ed to Camp Sheridan, Alabama, ...y company was at full strength. ...Colonel McQuigg took along a ...en extra men to fill in, in emer...cy.

...anding at Brest, France, with his ...ment on July 5, 1918, Colonel ...Quigg was at Bourmont from July ...to July 20 and then went through ...last great push which routed the ...y and brought the victory of ...istice day. He saw active service



John R. McQuigg.

...the Baccarat sector and in the Ar...ne. He rejoined his regiment in ...ium and was discharged Janu... 17, 1919. He was appointed a brig... general of infantry in 1921.

...he new national commander was ...n near Wooster, Ohio, and gradu... from the military department of ...ooster university in 1888 with the ...k of cadet captain. He saw service ...the war with Spain and in the Ohio ...tional Guard. He was also on the ...ican border in 1916.

...eginning the study of law at Cor... university, Commander McQuigg ...duated with the degree of bachelor ...laws at the National Law school at ...shington. He began the practice ...law at Cleveland. He was mayor of ...t Cleveland for three terms and ...organized a $3,000,000 bank there, ...which he is now president.

...Commander McQuigg has a long rec... of outstanding service in the ...on. Beginning as commander of ...neers Post No. 71, he was instru...tal in getting the second national ...vention of the Legion for Cleveland ...1920. He was unanimously elected ...mander of the Ohio department ...later was national executive com...eeman. He has been for several ...rs a member of the national ...nce committee and was in 1923 ...chairman of the national legisla... committee. He was elected vice ...ident of the American Legion En...ment Fund corporation, which was ...nized last March to handle the ...ds received in the Legion's $5,000,... endowment fund campaign and to ...ote the income to its purposes of ...abilitation and child welfare. At ...ha he was made national com...der and told to "go get 'em."

"Roasts" Were Chief Item

...Department adjutants of the Amer... Legion, members of the American ...on Press association and visiting ...spaper men and Legion editors, ...a gridiron dinner as a feature of ...national convention at Omaha. ..."sts" were the chief item on the ...n.

PIQUANT DANCE MILLINERY; FAVOR CHINESE EMBROIDERY

GENIUS is lavishing modernistic art on the piquant dress hats which so add to the picture at dinners, dances and various social functions. Nowadays creators of our chapeaux take not only the needle in hand, but the brush as well, for handpainting adds to the glory of present-day millinery.

Even the small sports felt hat departs from its role of simplicity to allow artists to paint a few colorful leaves or a conventional design on its snug fitting crown.

From the standpoint of hand-painting, embroidery and applique the Fashion continues to revel in an orgy of gay colors. Our wraps, our hats, our frocks and our costume accessories are vibrating with metallic splendor together with exotic hue.

To this era of gorgeousness, Chinese art and stitchery are contributing a magnanimous share. The smartest black satin frocks are very nearly losing their identity embellished as they are in trimmings of Chinese embroideries which are extravagantly colorful. In the matter of evening wraps, not satisfied with "touches" of Chinese embroidery here and there,

Group of Formal Hats.

women of fashion are appropriating unto themselves the Chinese mandarin in all its original native beauty.

Sometimes, as in the instance of the evening wrap illustrated, a band of handsome fur is added, which the more accents the color glories in oriental embroidery.

Of course not every one can afford an all-over embroidered Chinese mandarin wrap. However, this fact need not be discouraging, for somewhere, somehow if we have managed to introduce even a simple motif or so of Chinese inspiration we may congratulate ourselves for having obeyed the mandates of the mode. For instance, embroidered motifs done in Chinese group of hats in the illustration abound in fetching ideas.

Both the chapeaux at the top of the picture display a riotous combination of color, gilded leather, and intriguing stitchery. Velvet motifs in gay hues have their edges encrusted with gold paint and there are interworkings of metal thread, with glimpses of gold tissue combined with gold leather.

The plaque of embroidered roses in the hat to the left below supplies brilliant color, the rest of the model being created of black velvet with silvered black ribbon.

Gives Exotic Hue to the Mode.

With chenille as the medium for hand stitchery a colorful effect is acquired on the off-the-face brim of the cunning chapeau to the center right.

A marked adherence to metallic effects is registered throughout the program of dance hats. Gold and silver laces form exotic trimming while tissues of the same form the hat proper. Such is the lovely model shown last in the group, a dainty structure of shimmering gold lace and tissue. All the season's most entrancing colors seem to have been gathered up and reflected in handmade French flowers clustered upon the crown.

colorings provide an elaborate decoration on a coat of lacquer-red cloth or velveteen, for the latter is at present considered a fabric de luxe for the evening wrap.

Here are a few suggestions for introducing a bit of the Oriental into dress design. Form the full-below-the elbow portion of one's cloth, velvet or satin frock of a strip of Chinese embroidery; to the ends of a scarf collar attached to a simple dress, add borders of colorful stitchery; a vestee of Chinese, paisley or peasant embroidery will transform the most unpretentious dress into a garment of pronounced style distinction.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Community Building

Evergreen Addition to Dignity of Landscape

There is little that adds dignity and picturesqueness to a home more than the evergreen family. However, there are comparatively few grounds—even in the suburbs—that have even the hardiest varieties, such as blue spruce, arbor vitaes and junipers scarcely more that one season. Here is a point well to consider. Nurseries and landscape firms sell these generally without any guaranties to the home owners of their surviving any length of time, which seems decidedly unfair—particularly if a home owner is following the advice and suggestions of a capable firm. It is well to be regulated by guaranties because one must otherwise on reflecting realize that there is quite a hazard on unwarranted stock or it would otherwise be guaranteed.

Planning to plant means a planting that will reflect thought. When a beautiful ground is observed it is a result of a capable landscape design or an owner who had the time to study out an amateur plan and through observation bring about effective arrangement of his own shrubs and trees.

Many Things Go to Real City Building

It so often happens that Dr. H. A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee, is correct and is so seldom wrong that we are not disposed to take issue with his latest pronouncement delivered before a Knoxville luncheon club the other day, when he said that the idea of boosting and making cities larger is wrong; that the thing to do is to make them better and cleaner, and dilute the rural territory with industry and build up the background of the city with prosperity. The United States is rapidly becoming an industrial country. It is changing so fast that the transformation is obvious. The last census showed that the nation had changed in a few short years from an overwhelming rural to a majority urban population. Doctor Morgan cannot be far wrong when he says that mere bigness is not the most desirable thing about a city.—Memphis News Scimitar.

Maxims of a Fire Chief

Whether or not the householder believes in signs, he would do well to pay heed to the following maxims, which are the result of long experience and study:

To see a paperhanger hang paper over a flue hole indicates an impending loss.

It is worse luck to look in a dark closet with a lighted match than to see the new moon over your left shoulder.

When the wind moans it is extremely bad luck to burn trash near your house.

If you have a pile of rubbish in your cellar it indicates that a crowd of people are coming to your house.—John J. Gilday, Fire Chief of Hoboken, N. J., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Course in Beekeeping

Practical experience in beekeeping is a part of the curriculum in a number of rural schools in the province of Ontario. In 16 schools in Wentworth county bees are kept in observation hives in the schoolroom. The study involves little extra work on the part of the teacher, and is valuable as a nature contact and in contributing to the promotion of a great productive industry. The sale of honey in many of the schools has been more than sufficient to cover in one season the expense of installation and upkeep.

Recreation Centers

Those who are opening up new residential sections should bear in mind that the donation of suitable sites for recreation centers will enhance the value of the property they have for sale and increase its desirability for homeseekers. Washington is growing rapidly, but that growth will be accelerated if through public and private contribution the education and the play of the children are assured.—Washington Post.

Colored Roofs

A certain shade of light red is particularly effective on a house that is painted a neutral shade. So, also, is a rather bright green roof.

When a house is old, it is merely a case of repaint the roof, as well as the rest of the house. In this case it will be more practicable to paint the roof all one color, instead of attempting several tones. Green, brown, red or reddish brown are popular roof colors.

Entertainment in Desert

The telephone line between Chicago and Los Angeles cuts across New Mexico and for nearly 1,000 miles it traverses a country which is largely desert land. For various reasons it is necessary to have this part of the line patrolled constantly by a man who inspects the line and makes minor repairs. The towns are so far apart that he is often compelled to camp between them. His tent and car are converted into a home and he tunes up his radio and fills the desert air with news and entertainment from the wide world.

Eat Yeast Foam this easy way

Drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let it stand for 5 minutes; stir with spoon; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate.

Nothing could be easier or more palatable than this way of eating Yeast Foam. Yet you get its full tonic value.

Eat Yeast Foam for constipation, indigestion, lack of weight and strength, boils, pimples and run down condition.

SAMPLE CAKE FREE

NORTHWESTERN YEAST CO.
1750 North Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Send me FREE and POSTPAID your book "Dry Yeast as an Aid to Health", also a Sample of Yeast Foam, without obligation.

Name _____

Address _____

W. N. U.

Giant Statesmen, Present and Past

"It is impossible to make a just comparison between senators of today and those who loom large in senate history. It is much like the attempt to measure modern lawyers against the legal giants of the past. We select a few great names and forget the abundant mediocrity. Two things are certain. One is that the problems with which senators must nowadays wrestle have not decreased in number or complexity. The other is that the senators to whom these problems are presented must divide their time between the task of solution and the political work essential to success in open primaries and in state-wide elections.

"The result is that senators are much more closely in touch with the life of their constituents and more responsive to their will. Whether in the end this makes for better government and sounder statesmanship is a question which each citizen must answer according to his conviction. At present it is a purely academic question. The open primary and the state-wide election were necessary parts of the modern revolt against abused authority. It is too soon to affirm whether or not the change is salutary and permanent. However this may be, it is certain that the senate is no longer Mount Olympus, but it is also true that Pennsylvania avenue is a very different thoroughfare from Main street."—Senator George Wharton Pepper, in the Forum.

War Finally Gets Them

Medical authorities in London are examining numerous cases of nervous strain which they believe are the result of wartime experiences. Officers who went through the war without a scratch and who still have the appearance of physical fitness, are just beginning to feel the effects of nervous and mental strain. In some cases complete collapse has suddenly stricken down men who believed that all possible effects of their service had disappeared long ago. Physicians declare that many men's brains and nerves have suffered, even while no outward sign was observable.

Keep the Earth

When you get a piece of this earth, keep it. It cannot be stolen, doesn't rust; you are your own board of directors; unlike watered stock, there is only just so much of it, and it goes up in price. The Indians sold Manhattan island for $24. The land in Central park alone is now worth a thousand millions.

Getting Friendly

New Neighbor—Could I borrow your child for a moment?

Old Settler—What do you want of him?

"I want to send him over to the Jones' to borrow a cupful of sugar."—Judge.

Look Out!

Howard—My son failed in his exams and won't be promoted.

Jay—Another grade-crossing accident, eh?—Life.

A good deal of the world's noise is made for the purpose of stilling the inner voice.

The poorest marksman may accidentally hit the target.

Sorry

Visitor—What nice furniture!

Little Ronald—Yes, I think the man we bought it from is sorry now he sold it—he's always calling.

Solomon was so busy prescribing advice that he probably had little time to take much of it.

Pongee Silk Mill Ends and Remnants

Imported and Government Inspected
EVERY PIECE PERFECT
Direct From Our Silk Mills in Kobe, Japan
5 Yard Lengths, $2.95
10 " " 5.90
and longer lengths to 25 yds. All $1.00 values, for dresses, waists, shirtings and lingerie.
ORDER NOW!
Your postman will deliver and collect.
FRIEDMAN SILK CO.
819 Santee St. Los Angeles, Calif.

PATENTS Booklet free. Highest references. Best results. Promptness assured. WATSON E. COLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, 644 G Street, Washington, D. C.

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

Mothers—Our invention entertains child for hours. You can attend household duties and earn extra money through our sales plan. Partic. free. Hillberg, Dept. 12, Turlock, Cal.

Garfield Tea

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

INFLAMED EYES Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1161 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 51--1925.

Goethe on Death

Death is a commingling of eternity with time; in the death of a good man eternity is soon looking through time.—Goethe.

Why have RHEUMATISM?

OH, what a wonderful feeling to be free from that miserable rheumatism. To know again the joy of limber joints and active muscles—freedom from that agonizing pain!

How often have you longed for some relief as you suffered torture from swollen, inflamed muscles and joints—how often have you said you would give anything in the World for a few hours comfort!

But you didn't know that all you had to do to get real relief from this nerve wracking misery was just to build rich, red blood, did you? You didn't know that rheumatism had to be stopped from the inside by destroying the impurities that cause it—by building millions of red cells in your poor, weak blood, did you?

Until you fill your system full of healthy, rich, red blood you will never end your rheumatism. S. S. S. will surely help you. That's because S.S.S. helps Nature build the red-blood-cells that fight off the impurities that cause rheumatism.

Conquer rheumatism! S. S. S. has shown the way. For generations S. S. S. has brought blessed relief and comfort to thousands of rheumatic sufferers.

When the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build goes coursing through your system, it purifies the blood in your body. Rheumatism vanishes—skin blemishes disappear—you begin to get hungry again and enjoy your food—strength and power fill your body—you are vigorous—red-blooded and ready for action. Know this joy of living again! Take S. S. S. and banish rheumatism!

S.S.S.

Get S. S. S. from any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

DR. R. E. PORTER

Chiropractic Health Service

North Side Main Street

Phone 312 Belmond. Iowa

Dr. R. W. Specht

—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

The BULL'S EYE

Ed... Manager

America is Safe with "Bull" Durham

A gang of Scientists left on a Boat for a year's cruise to study queer kind of Fish in the South Atlantic Ocean. They should have stayed here in New York and went to see and hear what I did the other day, a real Red Bolsheviki meeting. They would have seen queer looking Fish there, Suckers, Eels, Flounders, Bullheads, and every Guy that got up was a big mouth Bass. They denounced everything in America, The Weather, The Constitution, White Gloves for Pall Bearers, Mah Jongg, Lower Taxes, Suspenders, Cross Word Puzzles, Shower Baths, League of Nations and Ice Cream Pies. After looking them all over I found what was the matter with them. There wasnt a one of them knew enough to roll his own. How are you going to improve on a Government if you dont know that much. Every man you see pouring "Bull" Durham into his paper, you can bet he is satisfied with America, because its the old right down to earth Americans that do it.

Will Rogers

P. S. There is going to be another piece in this paper soon. Look for it.

"BULL" DURHAM

Guaranteed by

The American Tobacco Co.

INCORPORATED

111 Fifth Avenue, New York City

CAMP FIRE NOTES

The Ta Ta Pochon Camp held their meeting last Wednesday in the camp room in the basement of the First National Bank. To raise money for their fund, the girls have been tying quilts for the Wellemeyer store, but this was not enough so the girls decided to ask Mr. Wellemeyer for permission to have a bake sale in his store the next Saturday. Mr. Wellemeyer was glad to have the sale so the girls brought pies, cakes, etc. to the store Saturday morning and are quite happy to announce that the result of the sale was $8.30. Yes, the Camp Fire Girls feel rich now, because they have a deposit in the bank

To celebrate the good ending of the sale the girls enjoyed a Happy Hike Sunday afternoon to the south of town a few miles to enjoy a regular picnic lunch of roasted weiner sandwiches, fried eggs, coffee and toasted marshmallows. After a hearty lunch the Camp Fire was replenished with a log and the group played dodge ball on the river which was real sport, because the ice was real slippery.

After they had warmed up at the fire they started home. Although the day was chilly, all declare they had a real good time and plan to have another jolly hike after the holidays.

For the Xmas day the girls are planning to draw names and give tiny gifts to those they draw.—Contributed by a Camp Fire Girl.

Christmas Groceries--

When planning your Christmas Dinner, remember we will have an especially attractive line of groceries for the occasion.

We aim to have a large number of specials for the Christmas Dinner, such as:

FRESH HEAD LETTUCE FINE CABBAGE
CRISP CELERY SWEET POTATOES ONIONS

All kinds of FRESH FRUIT such as APPLES, ORANGES, WHITE GRAPES, APPLES, Etc.

A full line of assorted and mixed Nuts, Dates, Figs, all kinds of Bulk Christmas Candy, Box Candy, Christmas Cookies.

Sweet Pickles, Olives, Cranberries, Dill Pickles, all kinds of Jells, etc., Cheese, etc.

Do Your Christmas Shopping Here

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Announcing The Oening Of An Exclusive

Radio Shop

I wish to announce to the people of Klemme and this vicinity that I have opened an EXCLUSIVE RADIO SHOP, which is located on the second floor at the rear of the Wellemeyer Store.

I have on hand and will have at all times a full line of the best, standard makes of Radio Receiving Sets, a full line of all kinds of accessories and electrical equipment such as B Batteries in all sizes and styles, Storage A Batteries, Dry Cell Batteries, Storage Battery Tubes, Dry Cell Tubes, Aerial Wire, Insulators, Arrestors, Lead-ins, Switches, Insulated Wire, etc.

We will handle the following well known makes of Radios which we have in stock for your inspection and will be glad to demonstrate:—

ZENITH RADIOLA
SUPERTONE MUSIC MASTER
ATWATER-KENT

We carry in stock a full line of the famous MUSIC MASTER LOUD SPEAKERS in both the Regular and the Cabinet styles.

BATTERY CHARGING
Tube Rejuvenating

We are equipped to charge storage batteries and rejuvenate tubes. Bring us your work for a satisfactory job.

If you are interested in a Radio, call on us, we will be glad to demonstrate any machine for you. We have a radio for every purpose and any purse.

Aaron Greimann, Prop.

At Wellemeyer Store Klemme, Iowa

Gifts For All The Family

A GIFT FOR "HER"

What better gift can you think of for her than a:

NEW DRESS
LATEST COAT
DRESS GOODS
SILK HOSIERY
OXFORDS, SLIPPERS
LINGERIE
GLOVES

Always remember that ABRAHAM'S STORE At GARNER is the headquarters for Christmas Shopping.

This Big Store is well filled with suitable and practical gifts that that will please any member of the family.

We are displaying an array of beautiful gifts with the price to suit any purse.

Toyland Is Open At Our Store

Santa Claus has established his headquarters here and has put all his toys, dolls, doll buggies, doll furniture, mechanical toys, games, books etc. in the Big Toyland under our Balcony. Come and visit it. The toys are all new and just arrived this week. Bring the kiddies!

Free Hot Coffee & Cookies

Come in Saturday and a cup of hot coffee and cookies free!

GIFTS FOR "HIM"

Nothing will please dad or brother than clothing selected at our store, such as:

NEW SUIT
NEW OVER COAT
SILK SOCKS
DRESS SHIRTS
HAT or CAP
GLOVES, MITTENS
TIES, SCARFS

Chas. Abraham & Sons

S. E. ADAMS, Manager GARNER, IOWA

THE KLEMME TIMES

th Year—Number 16. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

Our Heartiest Christmas Greetings to Everyone

IMPORTANT BUSINESS CHANGE

ER F. LAU SELLS ELEVATOR AND BUSINESS TO N. I. GRAIN CO.

...een In Business Here For A Number Of Years

important business transact- closed the other day when F. Lau sold his elevator and and coal business to the North Grain Company, a concern op- about nine or ten elevators part of the state.

Lau is an enterprising young who has been activly engaged grain, coal and live stock busi- in Klemme for the past ten Prior to that time the busi- was conducted by his father, A. , which later became a part- and known as the A. C. Lau Grain Co. Mr. A. C. Lau lat- ired from active business and fairs of the business were tak- irely over by Walter Lau who nce conducted a good busines. W. F. Lau has not been in the f health for the past two years e deemed it necessary to get from strenuous business for a to regain his strength and form- alth. He expressed his inten- to remain in Klemme for a and will continue buying live extend best wishes to both the g young Klemme business man to the new firm who take pos- on on January 1st.

...GASES PLAYING INMPORT- ...NT ROLE IN PEACETIME

...NNEAPOLIS, Dec. 24.—What- disposition may be made of pois- ses as instruments of destruct- warfare, they will continue to tremendously important indus- and sanitary uses.

...s is the belief of Captain C. H. ...rs, a professor in the University ...innesota, who declared military already have scores of import- peace time uses.

...hlorine," he said, "is an article ...ery day commerce all over the ...d. It makes possible the cheap ...uction of white paper on which ...ewspapers are printed; it puri- water by the hundreds of milli- ...f gallons every day; it recaims ...m gold that would otherwise be under present mining methods; mixed with lime, it is one of the ...est sanitary materials known. ...re are at least 1,000 other uses ...chlorine in factory and labora-

...hosgene is used in dye making, ...ain Rogers pointed out. This was so used before the war. It ...ties and in the process whereby ...al glass is made, and is a valu- agency in the destruction of ro- ...s and insects damaging to crops ...ealth. Hydrocyanic gas is sav- the citrus fruit crops of Califor- and elsewhere, being used y ...sands of tons a year. It is al- ...sed at ports to kill the ship ver- which would otherwise endanger ...health of America. Tear gases ...coming to have important uses as ...dispersers. These gases, which ...porarily blind with copious tears, ...o lasting harm to their victims.

Woman Husks 100 Bushels

...LOOMFIELD, Dec. 25.—Miss ...ence Strom, of Essex, believes has a good claim to the corn ...king championship among wo- ...n. In one day she husked 100 ...shels, 60 in the forenoon and 40 ...the afternoon.

Card Of Thanks

...e wish to sincerely thank all ...so kindly assisted us during our ...t sorrow; for the many kind ...and words of sympathy, and for ...beautiful floral offerings.

Mr. Verner Haberkamp,
Mr. Wm. Becker and family.

OBITUARY

MRS. VERNER HABERKAMP

Lydia Emma, wife of Verner Haberkamp, was born Oct. 11, 1890, at Klemme, Iowa, as a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Becker.She was baptized May 11, 1891, in the Reformed Church in Klemme and grew up in this vicinity and after due instraction in the Word of God and the Heidelberger Catechism she was confirmed in the Reformed faith on the 8th of April, 1906.

She continued to live a thome with her parents until the 21st of February, 1917, on which date she was married to Mr. Verner Haberkamp. The young couple commenced housekeeping on the farm one mile north of the Ell Town Reformed church and this has been their home ever since. After her marriage her membership was transferred to this church of which she has been a faithful member. Diligent, lovable and trustworthy she was highly esteemed and respected by all who knew her in her former as well as her new home.

She had been blessed with good health throughout her life, never having been affected with any serious ailments until last week. She was taken to the Mercy hospital at Mason City where she gave birth to a little son. Mother and child seemed to be doing well, until Monday evening, when the mother suddenly began to fail; a clot of blood had lodged in an artery leading to the heart which caused her death. So it was the good pleasure of the Lord to take her from the midst of her family and labors to His heavenly abode Monday evening, Dec. 14, 1925, at the age of 35 years, 2 months and 3 days. We cannot decern the wisdom and decrees of the Lord and may but acquire to the prayer: Not my but Thy Will be done.

She leaves to mourn her early and seemingly untimely death, her devoted and beloved husband, the little son, her father, brothers and sisters all residing near Klemme, besides many friends and relatives, her mother having preceded her in death.

(Rev. C. A. Schmid.)

W. F. M. S. POSTPONED

The W. F. M. S. has been postponed until next week.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Rev. A. W. Gauger, Pastor

The Christmas season is without doubt the most joyous season of the year. Both young and old are filled with expectancy. We wish each other well, we bestow and receive gifts.

In harboring this beautiful Christmas spirit let us not forget the poor and the less favorably conditioned, for helping such brings the real Christmas joy.

"We three Kings of Orient Are" or, The Three Wise Men seeking and worshiping the new born King, will be our theme next Sunday morning.

On Sunday evening we will give a final Advent thought, our subject is "The Opened Books."

The Christmas festivals will both be held on Thursday evening. Splendid programs are in preparation in Klemme as well as Liberty churches. The pastor will divide his time like last year to enable him to be in on both programs.

We wish to express our great appreciation for the numerous Christmas greetings and gifts that are finding their way to the parsonage these days. We treasure all very highly.

TEN THOUSANDS LAKES BRING MILLIONS OF TOURIST'S HARD EARNED KALE

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 24.—More than one million tourists spent $59,672,850 in Minnesota in 1925, declared H. C. Hotaling, executive-secretary, Minnesota Ten Thousand Lakes Association in his report read at that organization's annual meeting last week.

The expenditures of the 1,099,507 visitors totaled $9,500,000 more than the sum spent by 1924 tourists. "This said Mr. Hotaling, "was revealed by a three way check covering the tourist season and entirely overlooking the thousands of guests at other times of the year."

Other outstanding features of the season, Mr. Hotaling said were:

Registering of 1,700,000 Minnesotans at resorts in their own state.

Expenditures of $2,452,00 by 24,520 travelers reaching the port of Duluth by boat.

Coming of 50,000 persons to the state in popular week-end excursions.

Filing of only two complaints by tourists against treatment while in the state.

OUTLOOK PROMISING FOR LIVE STOCK FEEDERS

Des Moines, Dec. 24.—The live stock feeder should make money this year if the law of supply and demand works as much in his favor, on account of limited supplies, as it works against the corn producer on account of a bumper crop, acording to figures which have been compiled by the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

Records of the cattle, sheep and hogs which are shipped into the state are received by the Animal Health Division of the department. This makes it possible to compare the shipments this year with former years. These shipments indicate that there is a shortage of 10 to 15 per cent in feeder cattle, 10 to 15 per cent in feeder hogs and 30 to 35 per cent in feeder sheep, as compared to 1924.

These figures would indicate hat the feeder business in Iowa is on a conservative basis and offers an opportunity for a slight enlargment as a means of marketing this year's corn crop. Producers should be warned against too great an increase in brood sows for next year, as usually a large increase in hog production follows a large corn crop with the result that hogs sell for low prices the following year.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS DURING THE PAST WEEK

M. E. Banscher hus. to C. E. Bruning. Q. C. D. date 12-15-25, $1, Wfr. ½ 18-97-25.

M. M. Head wf. to Warfield-Pratt-Howell Co. W. D., date 12-9-25, $1, S½ 23 & NW¼ 26-97-25.

John Mulhall wf. to Jelle Tjaden. W. D., date 10-13-25, $2,000., SE¼ SE¼ 13-97-26.

Joseph E. Erickson wf. to Gailerd E. Erickson. W. D., date 12-15-25, $1.00, lots 1-2 blk. 1 Hanson & Severins add Kanawha.

Aug. Gruntz wf. to L. B. Orr. W. D., date 4-17-25, $500.00, lots 8-9-10-11-12-13 and 14 blk 2, Park add Garner.

Peter J. Kirschbaum wf. to M. O. Wigen. W. D., date 2-28-21, $34,-400.00, SW¼ 5-96-24.

L. A. Dexter wf. to J. P Hanson. W. D., date 12-17-25, $12,859.00, S½ SE¼ 14-95-25 & Part SW¼ 13-95-25.

K. H. S. DEFEATED ROWAN BY LARGE SCORE

SECURITY NATIONAL BANK AT MASON CITY CLOSED SATDAY MORNING

The Security National Bank of Mason City closed its doors Saturday morning by order of the board of directors and is in charge of an examiner.

The immediate cause of the closing was the withdrawal from the bank of $600,000 since May, of that amount about $225,000 was taken out during the last five days before the bank was closed. A "run" on the bank was started and it could not hold out against the demand of depositors for cash.

THORNBURG URGES LEGALIZING CORN SUGAR USE

Is Better Than Cane Sugar For A Number Of Uses; Would Help Keep Up The Price Of Corn

Des Moines, Iowa, Dec. 24.—"Several million dollars worth of corn would be used annually for the manufacture of corn sugar," states M. G. Thornburg, Iowa Secretary of Agriculture, if Wm. Jardine, U. S. Secretary of Agriculture will change the federal standards on manufactured articles so as to make it possible to use corn sugar without special branding.

Mr. Thornburg recommends that the federal standards for the manufacture of ice cream, jellies, preserves, fruit butter, etc., be changed so as to make it optional with the manufacturer whether he uses corn or cane sugar.

The letter to Mr. Jardine sets forth that corn sugar is easier digested than cane sugar and that it will give proper body to the manufactured articles without producing that intense sweetness that is objected to by many consumers.

"Corn is too important an agricultural crop," states Mr. Thornburg "to have any of its products handicapped by rulings unless they are necessary to protect the public against deception or fraud."

PLAN TO RELEASE MONEY ON CORN AT FT. DODGE SOON

FORT DODGE, Dec. 17.—The charter for Fort Dodge's new National Agricultural Credit bank has been issued by J. W. McIntosh, comptroller of currency at Washington, D. C., and is now en route to the city, according to word received by E. H. Rich, president of the new financial institution.

When the charter is received it will be the last step in the organization of the new credit bank and then the business of loaning out money on corn and grain collateral will be started. C. W. Gadd, manager, has everything in readiness and has reported many inquiries relative to the new bank s loaning money.

At present Webster county has six official sealers, working under authority of the warehousing act so it will not be necessary to appoint new sealers for storing the grain on which loans are sought.

HE ENJOYS THE TIMES

Fenton, Ia., Dec. 16, 1925.
Dear Sir:

I'm sending you a check for your old paper. If it don't come it is missed.

It nearly always gets here on Saturday and sometimes it gets here Friday.

Wishing you a very Merry Christmas and all whom you hold dear.

E. R. Schlei.

KLEMME CAGERS ADD ANOTHER SCALP TO THEIR LIST OF VICTORIES

This Time The Rowan Team Meets Defeat At The Hands of K. H. S.

The Klemme High School Basket Ball boys team promised to redeem themselves after suffering a heavy defeat at Hayfield a week ago.

When the Rowan Five invaded the local camp last Thursday night the Klemme cagers went into the battle to kill two birds with one stone; the first being to redeem themselves in the eyes of local fans and the second to add another scalp to their basket ball belt by winning from Rowan.

In the work-out before the game it appeared that Rowan had some fast men and were throwing some snappy field shots. It looked like a battle royal would be the entertainment for the evening.

When Referee Pals blew the signal both teams were up on their toes and the game began with a series of fast, snappy plays and in the first minutes Rowan received about three free throws but failed to make a counter. Klemme dumped in a free one and then began to roll up the field goals from a series of fast passes that Rowan could not break up. The score at the end of first quarter stood 7 to 1 for Klemme.

The second quarter was faster and Klemme continued to do some fast passing that netted them more field ringers and when the time stop the plays Klemme had piled up scores against Rowan's 3 points.

The third quarter was a reptit of the second and each team made a like number of points. Klemme made ten more and Rowan three o the quarter ended, Klemme 27 and Rowan 6.

The last quarter Klemme was well represented by second string men who made a good showing but the visitors took advantage of the situation and in this quarter made 5 points and Klemme piled up six more to their total. The game ended by a score of 33 to 11 in favor of the local boys.

Mr. Pals, of Alexander refereed the game and proved very satisfactory to both teams. He understands the game thoroly and called them close on both teams, nothing escaped him and he seemed to be every place on the floor.

DECLAMATORY CONTESTS TO BE HELD; ONE HERE

The annual round of county declamatory contests will soon be the topic of conversation among high school students over the county.

Each school will hold their contest to pick three winners to compete in the county contests.

The three winners each from Hayfield, Britt, Crystal Lake and Garner will compete for honors at Hayfield.

On the same evening a contest is to take place in Klemme and winners will be chosen from Kanawha, Goodell, Corwith and Klemme. The winners will then compete at Britt one week later.

The state finals then follow.

Suckow Has Booklet

FOREST CITY, Dec. 24.— Rev. W. J. Suckow has just printed a booklet called "Terse Talks on Timely Topics," which contains 4 addresses, "What Sort of a Reception would our country give Jesus Christ today?" "The Church of the Futre" "The Other Side of the Moon," and "Our Young People." Mr. Suckow has a small printing press of his own so that he does the printing and the binding himself.

Cape Cod Turkeys

(and the other kind)

By FRANK HERBERT SWEET

"I'M HURRYIN'," announced big Tom Walton, as his hard-worked car came to a labored stop in the deep sand, "an' Highway Steed's tired, I know. Let's pitch our camp right here."

"Short on gas or oil?" questioned his wife, as she slipped a handful of corn into a coop from which came a suspicious gobbling.

"No, long on sand," replied big Tom, stretching and preparing to descend.

"Hold on a minute," ordered his wiry little wife, half rising and peering about. "S'pose 't would rain tonight, an' this sand change to mud. We'd be anchored for keeps—leastways for part of our nat'ral life. Besides 't ain't fit, jest sand an' measly scrub. We'll go on a little—crawl, if need be."

"All right—all right, Molly," obediently, grasping the wheel and commencing to fiddle it as he pressed on the gas. "Guess 't would be best. Cripes! Beats all how Highway Steed bears up under difficulties! She's go-

"I Guess Somebody's Going to Have a Good Time."

in'," admiringly. "All the way from western Idaho, 37 days on the way, over rocks an' mountains an' through mud, an' never hipped till she got back into her own dooryard, so to speak."

"Never saw this comic supplement of a road before," Molly sniffed disdainfully, "or at any rate, if I ever did, I'd be ashamed. Trouble was that you swung into that openin' by Seth Dobb's store, thinkin' it looked more promisin', an' it fooled you at the very fust corner."

"How you know it's Seth Dobb's?"

"Well, 't was 40 years ago," defensively, "an' things never change on this part o' Cape Cod. Hey? Hi! Catch back that Christmas tree 'fore it falls off ag'in, Tom. An' while ye're at it, h'ist back that box o' presents a little more so 't won't unbalance. Hope nothin's been left by the wayside."

"Has," piped a high but rather sweet voice from the gloom of a stunted pine. "This here baggy thing fell out a box when it caught in the tree branch. Guess 't wa'nt hurt much, bein' soft an' not glass."

"Land o' Goshen!" ejaculated Molly, aghast, as the tear-stained face of the girl appeared, "that's my plum puddin'."

"What's a plum puddin'?"

"Part o' Christmas," explained Molly. "For longer keepin' an' to be sure of havin'."

"You see," added Tom, "we come from Idaho, an' ma packed grub for hungry folks a long way, meanin' me mostly. An' while she was 'bout it she added Christmas fixin's."

"It was 40 years ago when we left here," confided Molly. "An' of course I wanted to bring all was handy to in the car. That's why I had Tom cut a handsome Christmas tree along the road. I didn't 'member any good ones growin' round here. An' we gathered some mistletoe an' holly, too, an' bought more Santa Claus stuff along the way."

"Gee!" envied the girl. "I guess somebody's goin' to have a good time, an' I bet it's Susan Bunch. She an' her folks have most everything—though Susan does say they can't 'ford anything but a Cape Cod turkey this year. They did have a reg'lar turkey one Christmas, though. Susan brags on it now. I—I never saw one."

"Is that what you were blubberin'—I mean cryin' about?" asked Tom kindly.

"M-mostly," in a low voice. "I—I got to thinkin' 'bout Christmas close by, with nothin' but codfish for every 14 years I've lived, an'—an' I hate Cape Cod turkey. So—I—dropped down—an' bawled. An' I was lonesome, too. Father an' mother went for a week to the village to visit Aunt Jane who's sick, an' do her chores. I'm alone, with Billy, who's ten, an'—I broke down jest a minute."

"Too bad—" began Tom.

"Don't get an idea father an' mother are to blame," fiercely. "They do all they can. They're plannin' to buy Christmas presents for us, an' lookin' forward to comin' back the day before Christmas. But they've only 47 cents between 'em, an'—" she straightened up and choked back something, and laughed.

"Got over it," she declared. "Don't often mush soft like that. Now can I help any—show direction or something? Look like you might be off the track."

"Not altogether," considered Tom. "I've been right along this road in spite of Molly's doubts. That p'int of land runnin' out into the boghole yonder," nodding into the deepening gloom, "is where I blundered in with a buggy an' had to wade ashore with my feet soaked. I was embarrassed, for that was the night I proposed to Molly—crisis of my life, you see—"

"Pshaw! Tom, stop bein' foolish," laughed his wife. "Look here, my dear," to the girl, "it will take Tom all night to ramble through explanations. I don't know who's alive—though of course nobody's moved away. Nobody never does from along here."

"They do," affirmed the girl. "Who's your folks?"

"Sally an' Jane an' Ed Tate—that's my folks. An' John an' Bill Walton—Tom's folks."

"John Walton's dead, an' Bill moved to Canada," began the girl. "An'—"

"You know 'em both?" asked Tom.

"I know 'em or know of 'em. Ain't only a handful round anyhow, so everybody knows everybody else. Jane Tate moved to Provincetown, married a fish man. Ed went to be a sailor, an'—" She climbed on the running board and was now peering into the car, first at one face and then the other. "Why! Guess you're Aunt Molly an' Uncle Tom. Sa-ay, we live only a few rods here in the scrub. Pa an' ma's off visitin' Aunt Jane, but comin' back soon. An' ma's Sally. I'm keepin' house, with supper jest ready. I was startin' to call Billy, who's pickin' cranb'ries?—"

"Cranb'ries?" interrupted Molly, excitedly. "That's the one Christmas thing we couldn't find West. So Billy's got cranb'ries?"

"More'n a barrel, so far. 'Lows mebbe he can sell part of 'em to the store—but shucks! No one buys cranb'ries here. They raise 'em, an' Cape Cod turkeys, an' three-feet pines, an' nothin'—oh yes, wild geese sometimes fly over. But come on to supper," as a "Hoo-hoo" sounded among the scrub. "That's Billy. Hope you're hungry."

"Starved," declared Uncle Tom, solemnly. "An' there ain't nothin' so good in all the West as a Cape Cod turkey.

After they had finished supper, and the woman and girl cleaned up and washed dishes and the man and eager boy gone out to groom Highway Steed as well as they could in the half darkness, they all gathered outside to talk things over.

"Pretty good cook, Janie?" asked Aunt Molly.

"Ain't had many things to practice on," confessed the girl.

"Well, I've been told I am, so a good an' a willin' ought to do fine. Pa an' ma comin' home Thursday, you say?"

The girl's and boy's heads bobbed together. Their eyes were snapping.

"Four days," went on the woman. "Guess we can do it all right. We'll

The Woman and Girl Cleaned Up and Washed Dishes.

use the parlor for the tree an' presents—that's the biggest room. An' we'll have presents an' ornaments enough to make things look nice."

"Guess we will," declared the children, fervently, for they had seen. "An' three reg'lar turkeys!"

"The kitchen an' piazza," reflectively, "we'll fix up with a double table. Lots of old acquaintances we'll want to invite, an' we must have three or four helpin's. Some friends you want, of course," to the children.

"I—I'd like to ask Susan Bunch," hesitated Janie. "She is a nice girl if she does brag, an' can't 'ford nothin' but Cape Cod turkey this year."

"An' I'd feel mighty set up to 'vite Toad Higgs—Ted Higgs, I mean."

"All right. Invite 'em an' any more you'd like," cordially. "I guess we can scare up presents for em."

"How 'bout Highway Steed?" queried Tom. "Seems like comin' all the way across with no lay off, she ought to have a hand in—or rather some gas in."

"'Course," agreed Molly, looking at him, considering. "S'pose you go down to the village the day before Christmas an' bring back Janie's pa an' ma. An' if there's anything to buy, bring 'em all out. An' of course take Billy an' Janie along. An' I guess," as Tom was beginning to beam, "you might go round Christmas mornin' an' bring all the guests to dinner. Seems as if they'd mebbe like it An' I guess Highway Steed will like it, too."

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Old Bill Hallons' Car Load of Toys

How Lonely Man on Christmas Eve Spree Brought Joy to Orphan.

By MARION R. REAGAN

OLD BILL HALLONS, who had a reputation for being the tightest man in the county, always broke away from his usual stinginess at Christmas time and made a practice of driving about on Christmas Eve distributing presents to people whom he had never seen before. He led a lonely life, and his Christmas Eve sprees were the biggest events in his life. He usually drove around the slum districts with a car full of toys and clothing and stopped indiscriminately in front of houses and flats, leaving a few packages on each doorstep. He never had accepted the proffers of hospitality and refused always to go inside.

This Christmas Eve, however, he found himself in a peculiar predicament. He stopped in front of a battered old frame house, which he knew very well. It was the fourth year he had gone there with tops for the little boy. He had scarcely stepped out of the car when little Johnnie came running out of the house, half crying.

"What's the matter, son?" he asked.

"Oh, it's ma; it's ma. G'wan in an' look."

Hallons had no desire to go in and look, but the child was so insistent and so pathetic, with great tears

"Gee, Is This Where Ya Live, Mister?" Asked Johnnie.

streaming down his cheeks that the old man followed him into the house.

The "house" consisted of one room, in the greatest disorder. At the far side a woman was lying motionless in a small iron bed. Hallons knew at once she was dead.

"Look here, Johnnie," he said, turning to the child, "you run out and get into the car outside. Your mother is very sick."

Without a word the little fellow left and got into the machine. Hallons came out soon after and assured Johnnie that everything was all right, for that evening anyway. To himself, however, he was wondering what on earth he would do. He had the car stop at the undertaker's and made arrangements for the burial. He purposed saying nothing to Johnnie about it until after Christmas, but then—what to do with Johnnie? He did not care to put him in a home. He disliked institutions of any kind.

"Do you have any relatives, son?" he asked suddenly. "Any aunts or cousins or anything?"

"No," said Johnnie. "I have a grandmother in Ireland, but I've never seen her—why?"

"Oh, I just wondered," he answered casually. They were in front of the big old Hallons house now.

"Gee, is this where ya live, master?" asked Johnnie, amazed and excited to think he was actually going to visit in such a mansion. Hallons assured him it was his house. "Gee whiz!" was all Johnnie could say to express his admiration.

Inside, Hallons had a chance to see his new friend in a better light. He was extremely dirty and ragged. He had a sharp, intelligent little face with large, sparkling blue eyes. Hallons liked him at once. He ordered a light supper to be prepared and sent Johnnie upstairs with a servant to have him scrubbed. "Put him in a pair of my old pajamas when he's clean and send him down," ordered Hallons.

That night after the supper had been eaten Johnnie snuggled up near the logfire in the drawing room, a delightful little figure almost lost in the spacious folds of his pajamas. His face shone with cleanliness.

Old Hallons sat back in his comfortable, easy-chair watching the child. He was more pleased with the sight than with anything he had ever known before.

"See here, Johnnie. "What would you like most to have for Christmas?" Hallons asked finally.

Johnnie stretched himself out on the comfortable pillow in the attitude of one about to think over a serious proposition. "Well," he said at last, "I think I'd like a house like this—just like this. I want this fire and this pillow, too."

Hallons smiled. "Very good," he said, "all I'll ask is that you share it with m.., but it is your home, little man, from this time on."

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

May the Love of Christmas Time be with You

by W. D. Pennypacker

LET us think of Christmas only in terms of love. Touch the fabric of its mystic story and we find ourselves enthralled by its spell. In its warp and woof is woven a colorful masterpiece—a picture too great for even a Raphael to portray with justice.

YET it is only the simple story of love. Deep snows and jingling sleighbells are not typical of Christmas. Toys and tinsel but represent its superficial side. Feasting does not bespeak any of its holiness or its sweetness.

LOVE! That is Christmas! Something which kindles the spark within us; that peculiar flash which makes the whole world one's kin. No, we have never really seen Christmas. We have felt it!

* * * *

IT WERE a dull life if only one day in more than three hundred were vibrant with Christmas' love. Kindliness—the crudest synonymn for Christmas—flashes as well under a midsummer sun, in great centers of business, in pleasure-places of society, and in the humblest home. Wherever we find the desire to help, to serve, to minister, perhaps only to bring a smile to a careworn face—there we will discover Christmas.

(©), 1925, Western Newspaper Union.

Desert Christmas With Decorations

Yuletide Atmosphere Was Enjoyed by Stranded Trio on Sandy Trail.

By ELEANOR E. KING

A TORRID sun shone down upon a stranded automobile. The car with seeming unconcern stood in the middle of the road. One hesitates in even applying the term road to this jumbled sandy, corduroy trail extending endless miles with nothing on either side of it to break the monotony of the sandless waste save here and there a spiky cactus. Two feet sticking out from underneath the car showed the location of one of the occupants. Another member of the party was perched on the running board not far from the two feet, Mr. Graham, a man of perhaps forty-five years and father of the young man now on his back solving the mysteries of a balky car, was studying the instruction book.

"It looks to me like a burned-out bearing," came a voice from under the engine.

"And if it is, mother, you and I might just as well pitch camp and get settled for the next few days." Mr. Graham's perfect resignation was the product of the previous three week's Western auto trip experiences.

"Mother" emerged from the back seat, and the couple set to work unloading the car in the late afternoon desert sunshine. That evening, as they sat down to their meal at the little camp table, Mr. Graham said:

"Not getting to that next town rather spoils our little plan for Christmas."

"Utah's Great American desert is certainly one fine place for the car to break down," burst forth Tom. "Imagine tomorrow being Christmas with all this heat. Those stories I grew up on back East about Santa, snow and reindeer would never do out in this section. Here Santa needs a camel."

The weary troop sought their beds early. Tom, being assured by the heavy breathing of his mother and father that they were asleep, bounced out of bed. Getting a bunch of paper napkins and towels out of the car, and a pair of scissors, he returned to his cot, proceeding to cut them into long ribbon-like strips. Some of the paper he crushed into balls, tying a piece of string to each one of them. Then suddenly he remembered that long, long ago, when he had been in school, by folding a piece of paper several times and cutting different-sized pieces from the fold, they had created all sorts of designs. He made a dozen or more of these lacey, open-work patterns. Next he cut a large star. To be sure, it was a little lopsided, but it had five points, and anyone could guess what it was supposed to be. Tom now looked around for some heavier paper out of which he might make a cornucopia.

Gathering up the results of his labors, he made his way to a huge cactus some ten or fifteen feet from the machine. The star Tom put on the topmost spiny prickle of the plant. The ribbon-like strips he twisted and draped around the plant, making use of the needles in joining the short pieces together. If not artistic when finished, the cactus certainly looked festive. Tom surveyed his masterpiece with a chuckle. Grabbing a sheet of paper, he began to cut out some letters. These letters, strung together on a piece of twine, were hung across the cactus.

"Now there will be no chance for guesswork with that 'Merry Christmas' across the front." He gave a last look and tumbled into bed.

"Merry Christmas! Wake up, young man." Tom blinked at his father, who laughingly said, as he pointed to the bedecked cactus, "You see, we did have a white Christmas after all, thanks to a good fairy."

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

SEE WHAT SANTA FETCHED

Christmas Bells

I heard the bells on Christmas day
Their old familiar carols play
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good will to men!

And thought how, as the day had come,
The belfries of all Christendom
Had rolled along
The unbroken song
Of peace on earth, good will to men!

Just a Little Smile

DEAL IN FUTURES

Young Wilkins, who was of ve... ited means, presented the m... after the wedding ceremony, ... couple of frayed bank notes an... loose change, saying: "I'm sorr... son, but this is all I've got."

Then, observing the faint l... disappointment which the poo... son was unable to restrain, he ... hastily: "But, if we have an... dren, we will send them to you... day school."—Country Gentlem...

Onward and Upward

Representative Timberlake s... a Y. M. C. A. address in Denver ...

"Don't confine your good resol... to January 1. Make good resol... every day in the year. That's w... do."

Mr. Timberlake smiled and s...

"Many a man, by turning ov... numerable new leaves, finds him... the top of the tree."

CAUSE FOR JEALOU...

He—I was up with neuralgia ... night.

She—Gosh, I'm jealous!

Not At All

The world is so full of
A number of things
It isn't surprising
That money has wings.

Truth's Reward

"Excuse me for hugging you. ... corridor was dark and I mistook ... for my wife."

"How long have you been marr...

"Ten years."

"Well, I suppose I'll have to ex... you. You deserve credit for hug... your wife that way," said the girl.

Honesty

The Clerk—The store has ... robbed. Burglars have taken off ... of our most expensive pieces.

The Dealer in Antiquities—The... wretches! The dishonest thie... Well, let's be at least thankful tha... of the things were fakes.

Among the Sausages

Near Sighted Old Lady (at b... er's)—Is that the head cheese ... there?

Clerk—I should say not—the ... is out.

Bad Show

The coal strike is a big affair
For which I'll have to pay my s...
And I begrudge the same because
It brings no laughter or applause.

HER RING ON THE HO...

"When a girl starts fishing f... proposal what should I do?"

"If you love her, put herring on... hook, of course."

Loves His Work

"You have no idea what a reall... executive gets out of business," ... clared the New Yorker.

"No?"

"Gets down just in time for l... and then he plays golf."

"What if it rains?"

"There's the matinee."

Making It for Him

"What's Helen doing?"

"Making a shrimp salad."

"I didn't know we had any sh... in the house."

"We haven't, but there's one ... to call this evening."

Safety First

Judge—But what were you figh... with Horrigan about?

Casey—Sure, I'm under oath, ... honoh, so I don't care to do m... guessin'.—Legion Weekly.

PRUDENCE'S DAUGHTER

CHAPTER III—Continued

—11—

Jerrold looked at her. "I thought you didn't see any sense in making money you don't need, just—"

"Oh, this is a different thing! This is—well, I'm doing something for the money! I've got a right to the money if I earn it. It's—don't you see how it is, mother?"

"Of course I do."

"And think of the poor old house," Jerry finished pathetically. "After all these years of being a barn, and a blot on the landscape, just think how it will feel to wake up some morning and find it's pretty, and lovely, and that people are stopping in the street to exclaim over it! Think how you'd feel if you were a house."

Jerrold considered that too much of a strain on a business imagination like his, but he finally agreed that it was a sound practical proposition, and if Jerry had made up her mind to it, he thought it might turn out rather nicely all around. And he would go with her the very next day to look it over, and get figures on it, and if it seemed all she said, they would buy it and pitch in.

"Buy it!" Jerry repeated, in great surprise. "It is bought! I bought it this afternoon. I gave him my five hundred dollars, and I don't have to make another payment for three months, and I figure that by that time I ought to have it looking like pretty much of a place. What I want the money from you for, is to begin tearing things down."

When dinner was over, Jerry looked regretfully at the waning light. She would have liked to dash her father and mother out to look at the house right away, but it was too dark. So she pulled out all the old House Beautifuls, and spread them over the dining room table, and worked feverishly with a pencil and a pad of paper, sketching out little nooks and corners as she intended having them in her finished product.

"Lucky thing I studied Art, after all," she said brightly. "I never thought I'd find such a real practical use for all that nonsense."

Prudence hung over her with pleased solicitude, charmed with her avid interest, agreeing with every word she uttered.

"I may not make such a lot on this one," Jerry admitted later rather reluctantly to Jerrold. "Because I don't know how to figure down the expenses of it. But with the experience I get on this one, I'll make a killing of the next."

"What do you mean, 'the next'? Is this the first of a series?"

Jerry pulled herself up, surprised. "That was a funny thing to say," she admitted. "I hadn't thought of a next one." She went on brightly, "But of course you can see that I must not waste all this experience, and if I can make a little on the first I can make heaps more on the second. So when you come to think of it, of course this is just the beginning."

As Jerrold had grown older, had learned to entrust his affairs to others in his employ, he had gradually fallen into a way of going steadily later to the office, so that now it was customary for the home to have breakfast at nine o'clock, after which Jerrold took his own time about getting off. But on the morning after Jerry discovered her mission, he found himself a tardy member of the household. Jerry pounded on the bathroom door three times while he was shaving, urging him to make haste, and when he hurried down at last, to show her indignantly that it had wanted ten minutes of the hour, she said:

"Oh, I forgot to tell you. I told them I'd have breakfast at eight-thirty."

That was the beginning of Jerry's first feverish month. She bargained with contractors, plumbers and builders. She studied designs, she puzzled over matching colors. And in the end, the house of dreams that evolved from her tender thoughts was built on most unimaginable lines. Jerry was nothing if not thorough. The stiff steep steps leading up to her house from the street had met with destruction first of all, and in their place developed a wide stair that "went on the bias," as she said, angling up the green terrace in a most inviting manner, and then drifted up to the veranda which now extended around the house to the south, while the stiff square windows and the stiff oblong door in front were cut out for a sweep of graceful French casements.

The awkward square parlor and parlor-bedroom, comprising the left-hand section of the first floor, were thrown together to make a broad living room, with window seats all the way around and shelves for books and handsome built-in cabinets. The staircase which was so particularly annoyed her was completely thrown into the discard, and a very broad one erected in its stead, rising from a wide base in the rear of the living room and turning itself about in some curious fashion finally to reach the top, where the changes were yet more drastic. One sleeping room was entirely done away with, to be transformed into a pretty informal sitting room or lounge at the head of the stairs, a novel and engaging version of an exaggerated hall.

Jerry felt she had never been so happy, and she had never worked so hard in all her life. She encountered many obstacles, indeed, many times she was appalled by them. It was hard for her to believe that human beings like herself could be so grossly stupid as to misunderstand and misinterpret instructions so plainly, so lucidly, so painstakingly given. She was amazed to learn that laborers, regardless of the delicacy of the work on which they were engaged, regardless of the imperative need of haste, regardless of the honor that was theirs in assisting to beautify and ennoble and elevate an inherent weakness in the structure of their own home town, would drop a shovel on the stroke of the hour, and would even walk sturdily out on strike for a trivial detail they called a principle, but which to her seemed a flagrant breach of contract.

She was pained and bewildered to discover that her carefully matured plans, set down in consistent black and white, signed, agreed to, and included in the financial estimates of the contractors, turned out to be not at all as she had intended, and that she was obliged to replan, refigure and reallow in order to develop her cherished dreams to concrete fact. And she was especially shocked and upset to find that there were things that a lather, in loyalty to his laboring brothers, would flatly decline to do, things a plumber would wash his hands of, things a plasterer would openly sneer at, things a bricklayer would consider an insult to his profession—and thus oblige her to deal with a totally new organization of workmen to meet the exigencies of the case.

And she found the cost of her work mounted heavenward on soaring wings, and that her anticipated earnings sank with a corresponding ratio. In spite of her natural easy generosity, she soon found herself dickering constantly over trifles, arguing with great heat, even with anger, trying to cut down a dollar or so here, grudgingly allowing a dollar or so there, where she felt the expenditure must not be denied.

"Why, I have to argue over fifty cents, like any street peddler," she said to her father plaintively, regretting this new but necessary niggardliness of hers. "Already they've forced me up and up much farther than I intended. Why, if I don't stand up for my rights, I won't make five hundred dollars on the whole business! And the way I've worked over it!"

"Oh, I thought you did not care about making money," he said. "I thought you said there was no nobility in the simple earning of a dollar or so."

"In the bare earning of it—there isn't. But this is a different matter altogether."

Jerry was joyously, mysteriously, passionately happy. She told herself quite often that she had entirely forgotten Duane Allerton, that she had entirely forgiven him for his vulgar insolence. And she worked harder than ever. Within a month she took an option on another wretched little hovel, four-roomed, moth-eaten, run down at the corners, a disgrace to its street, and immediately began getting estimates for its rebuilding, and making roseate sketches of its future estate.

Jerrold had taken her to his bank in the beginning of her business adventuring and obtained for her an audience with the president, Irvin Weatherby, a member of Jerrold's club and his particular friend. Jerrold was extremely businesslike on this occasion.

"I know you have met my daughter, Jerry," he said, "but I want you to get in touch with her in a professional way as well. She is going into business for herself, and I am starting her off with a checking account of three thousand dollars, but should like for you to extend her an additional credit of two thousand if she needs it."

Jerry explained her business interest with the impulsive eagerness of her youth. And Irvin Weatherby looked at her, nodded his approval, sighed dismally at her father.

"Ain't girls the darnedest, any more?" he asked plaintively. "That second daughter of mine, Emily—know what the little fool's doing? Secretary to a dairyman over in Chicago, twenty-five a week, and crazy about it. Says she won't be dependent on any man for a living, father or what-not. I hope to God she gets married, that's all I've got to say."

Jerry laughed at his concern. "Look at Judge Daniel's daughter. Clerking in the ten-cent! You ought to be glad you drew nothing worse than a secretary—you might have got a laundress or—an Art Trailer."

Jerry still insisted, when she thought of it, that she would not work for the sake of acquiring money—she could get that from her father. But she sat up nights figuring how she could cut down the expenses of her business.

"That's a different thing," she always said. "The only way you can tell how you're getting along is by how much you make."

In July she started work on the second cottage, impatient to get it into human, habitable shape before the coming winter. And in August she took an option, indorsed by her father, on a huge, six-storied rooming-house for women, the veriest skeleton of a house as Jerry saw houses, built with no more regard for esthetic satisfaction than a freight train, but with accommodations for two hundred women.

Jerry worked feverishly over that with a pencil and a pad of paper. If she rented two hundred rooms, at an average of thirty dollars a month, the earnings of the house would be six thousand a month. If she paid twelve thousand for the house, spent five thousand making it what she called fit to live in, allowed a running expense of perhaps a thousand a month prior to making a sale outright—Jerry's figures turned to aureate dreams.

She told her father she would bet any amount he wished that she could sell the house it was going to be for twenty-five thousand dollars. Jerrold agreed with her. Prudence said she knew right from the beginning that Jerry was right. So she bought the house, and in her new absorption in estimates, plans and figures, fell into a way of forgetting to go home for meals at proper hours, and lost a preposterous amount of sleep in her efforts.

Jerry had returned to Iowa in March. It was early in September when she had her first letter from Rhoda La Faye. Rhoda was brisk and to the point, in correspondence as well as in person. Her letter consisted of three paragraphs. The first told Jerry how very much she, Rhoda, loved her, missed her, admired her. The second told her that she, Rhoda, had just been awarded the scholarship by the Academy for her picture, and was leaving the first of October for a year's study and travel through the art centers of Europe. The third said that Duane Allerton, whom perhaps Jerry would remember, had lost all his money in a terrible crash in Wall Street, that the poor fellow was completely broke, down and out, and up against it, as recorded in the daily papers, that he did not know where to turn for the next meal, and was said to be looking for a job, but of course couldn't get one because he did not know how to do anything. And wasn't it a shame, a nice fellow like Duane? And now he would probably become a tramp and a bum like other nice young fellows who are left money they don't know how to take care of. And with oceans and heaps of love—

She Hastily Pulled Out a Pad of Paper and Wrote a Letter.

Rhoda inclosed voluminous clippings from the daily press of New York to substantiate the last two paragraphs of her letter. There were photographs of her prize-winning picture, of Rhoda herself, and columns in praise of her and of her work. Jerry ungratefully tossed them to the floor. There were other and more sensational clippings recounting the financial troubles of young Duane Allerton and his desperate plight, with a tragically pencilled sketch showing him, down at the heels, treading the rails as he would doubtless be a few years hence. Jerry read every one of them. She was trembling. She knew that was because she was a tender-hearted girl, and even in her own bitterness of disillusionment, could feel but sorry for the misfortune of any human being. The thought of a young man—any young man—alone in New York, not knowing where to turn for the next meal, where to lay his head at night—Jerry had read of the miserable ones who sat on the benches in Central park all night—and winter coming on—it struck chill to her gentle heart.

She hastily pulled out a pad of paper and wrote a letter.

"My Dear Mr. Allerton:

"A letter from my friend, Rhoda La Faye, inclosing newspaper clippings, has just informed me of your disaster on Wall Street. Rhoda says you are unable to get a position, and are without funds. My father is an automobile manufacturer and employs a great many men. If you care to come to the Middle West, he will be glad to give you some kind of position. I do not know what kind of work it will be, nor how much you can earn, but at least it will take care of you until you can get on your feet again. If you have not the money to pay for your ticket, wire me collect, and my father will send it by telegraph.

"It is only fair to warn you that you may have to work pretty hard, for while my father is the kindest man in the world, he believes that every man should earn his wages.

"Sincerely yours,
"GERALDINE HARMER."

CHAPTER IV

And Jerry Disposes

One lovely September morning, at eleven o'clock, a smartly dressed young man stepped briskly into the office of the Harmer Motor company. He held his soft gray hat in his hand, and smiled, as he said he wished to see Mr. Harmer, if you please. The charm of his manner was not lost upon the young girl at the desk, who told him with real regret that Mr. Harmer was in a very important conference, and had left word that he did not wish to be disturbed. She professed her entire willingness to produce any other person connected with the establishment who could be of any possible interest to him. But the young man shook his head. He said he must see Mr. Harmer in person, and should very much appreciate the earliest possible moment—consistent with Mr. Harmer's convenience, of course.

The girl said she would see, and what name, please?

"Duane Allerton, from New York city."

She smiled. She had been expecting "New York city" from the moment she noted his entrance. She went away and came back almost at once, saying that Mr. Harmer was very busy indeed, and that another hour, or indeed another day would suit him better, but recommending the services of his business manager, who was available at the moment.

Duane considered that report. He took a letter from his pocket.

"Will you give this to Mr. Harmer," he asked pleasantly, "and tell him that I will return at any hour, or any day, he cares to designate? But I prefer not to see the business manager, unless he insists."

The girl smiled, and went away with the letter, curiously studying the address on the envelope. She was gone some time. There was something like awe in her face when she came back and said Mr. Harmer was waiting for Mr. Allerton in his private office. She pointed the way, and Duane Allerton, the soft gray hat still in his hand, a light of deep amusement in his dark eyes, opened the door and walked in.

Jerrold was standing up, the letter in his hand and the two men studied each other with equal interest. Jerrold put out his hand.

"I'm sorry I kept you waiting," he said, indicating an easy chair close to his own. "In apology, may I explain that the young woman, my daughter, did not evidently deem it necessary to mention this little—er—invitation, to me?"

"Do you mean to say you didn't know—"

"Not the slightest suggestion of a hint. It is news to me."

Duane broke into a short pleased laugh, and Jerrold after a puzzled, anxious moment joined him.

"I like that!" Duane said.

Jerrold shoved a box of cigarettes toward him. Each took one and lit it in silence. Duane leaned back comfortably in his chair, and smiled at his host. But Jerrold, under cover of the cigarette, was sharply appraising, remarking the dapper smartness of Duane's clothes, the weave, the tailoring, the studied niceness of colors and tones.

"Do you want a job?" he asked, hopeful of a refusal.

"Yes, please."

"What can you do?"

"Lord knows."

"Know anything about cars?"

"I can drive them."

"How old are you?"

"Twenty-seven."

"How long has your father been dead?"

"Twelve years."

Jerrold faced him shrewdly. "Are you as badly off as my daughter seems to believe?"

Duane hesitated. "Well, perhaps not quite. I didn't lose as much as the papers said. Didn't have that much."

"Then your father died when you were fifteen. My impression would be that a man who could earn a fortune, would hardly entrust his son's entire future to his own disposal—at fifteen."

Duane flushed a little. "I hope you won't be such a poor sport as to tell your daughter that. As a matter of fact, I lost more than I could afford to, but my father tied up enough to take care of me, however much of a fool I might turn out."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Sand Feet for Clowns

Stilts usually employed by circus clowns to give them gigantic stature during their antics in the rings have feet of sand to aid the performer in walking and to maintain his balance. The poles are of stout hickory flattened and widened at the tops to fit the wearer's thighs and fitted with straps to hold them in position.

Toward the bottom the props are rounded and tapered, ending in soft shoes filled with coarse sand which are fastened on the sticks so that the heels support the points. Wide trousers or other apparel cover the stilts for their full length, and the clowns appear to walk on their heels.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Remembered "Young Man" Who Had Helped Her

Nearly two years ago William T. Bailey, assistant city attorney, in the course of charitable work he carries on in connection with his other duties, advanced $20 to a young widow who had appealed for aid.

He had forgotten the incident when he was reminded of it by a letter showing that, although she had not remembered his name, she continued to carry a mental photograph of: "A tall, gray-haired but young gentleman in the office where they help poor people in the City hall, Indianapolis, Ind."

The young woman inclosed a snapshot photo of herself and promised to remit the loan soon, explaining that she had just opened her own millinery shop at Cleveland, and needed her ready money for financing the business.—Indianapolis News.

Poser for the Bishop

Noel Coward, the English actor and playwright who seems to have taken New York by storm, said at a luncheon:

"The people who declare that these times are more immoral than other times are prudes, and prudes are the most immoral creatures in existence.

"A bishop said to me one day in London:

"'Look out for the modern girl. She's very, very fast.'

"'How do you know she's very, very, fast?' said I. 'Have you been chasing her, bishop?'"

Reporting by Film

Mr. Sugimura, the Japanese accredited representative, made an innovation at the session of the mandates commission by giving a film display to show the progress and moral and material development of the populations of the South sea islands, which are under a Japanese mandate.

Watch Cuticura Improve Your Skin. On rising and retiring gently smear the face with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. It is wonderful what Cuticura will do for poor complexions, dandruff, itching and red, rough hands.—Advertisement.

Only Spelt Differently

"An aviary, that's a place where birds are kept."

"How about a place for jailbirds?"

"That's a knave-iary, too."

The word "lantern-slide" did not officially come into the language until 1909, when it first appeared in a dictionary.

GASTRITIS IS DANGEROUS STOP IT QUICK

When your stomach is bloated—when it is so distended with gas that pressure on the heart almost suffocates you

What are you going to do?

Take a chance or get rid of the gas quick?

The one big selling stomach medicine today is Dare's Mentha Pepsin and its mighty power to relieve terrible gastritis, acute or chronic is a blessing to tens of thousands of people who have been unable to get help from any other source.

It's splendid for any stomach trouble—is Dare's Mentha Pepsin.

So when your food won't digest or gas, bloating or shortness of breath cause you to become nervous or dizzy or have a headache always remember that you can get one bottle—of Dare's Mentha Pepsin from your druggist and if it doesn't help your disordered stomach—your money will be returned.

CLEAR YOUR SKIN of disfiguring blotches and irritations. Use Resinol

What Pretty Girl Did for Sick Stomach

Miss E. Rich of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I don't know what the cause was, but every few days my stomach would feel all bloated up with gas, my appetite was poor and I felt sick to my stomach—to say nothing of headaches.

"I never thought of using Carter's Little Liver Pills until nothing seemed to help. After using Carter's I felt relieved at once—and now as soon as my stomach 'talks' back I answer with Carter's and have the last word."

Recommended and for sale by all drug stores. 25c.

For Stiff Joints

Pharmacists say that when all other so-called remedies fail, Joint-Ease is sure to speedily succeed.

It's for joint ailments only—that is why you are advised to use it for sore, creaky, painful, inflamed rheumatic joints.

Joint-Ease limbers up the joints—makes you feel younger—is clean and penetrating and quick results are assured—Sixty cents a tube at druggists everywhere.

Always remember when Joint-Ease gets in joint misery gets out—quick.

Boschee's Syrup HAS BEEN Relieving Coughs for 59 Years

Carry a bottle in your car and always keep it in the house. 30c and 90c at all druggists.

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

CREAM WANTED

Ship Direct for Best Prices

If we have no buying station in your town, ship direct—You get all the profit. Cans furnished at wholesale prices. Write for tags and further information.

DES MOINES CREAMERY CO.
105 S. W. 3rd St. Des Moines, Iowa

Artistic Cleaning & Dyeing Co.

9th and Keosauquaway, Des Moines, Iowa

We live up to our name—"Iowa's Largest Cleaners and Dyers." It will be to our mutual interest by giving us your cleaning and dyeing. Our prices are moderate. A trial order will convince you.

HOTEL ELLIOTT

219 Fourth Street - Des Moines, Iowa
A Pleasant, Home-like Hotel
Rates: $1.25 to $2.00. Centrally Located.

Theatrical and Fancy COSTUMES for school plays and masquerades. Masks, wigs, beards, make-up. College and high school caps and gowns to rent. The Wingate Company, 543 5th Ave., Des Moines, Iowa.

THE MICHIGAN STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE offers free helpful information on state certified lands, markets, soils, crops, climate, accredited dealers. Write Director of Agricultural Industry, 7 State Building, Lansing, Mich.

TOBACCO — KENTUCKY SWEET LEAF. Home grown. Home cured. Mellow with age. Quality first. Satisfaction guaranteed. 5 lbs. $1.25. C.O.D. J. E. CHOATE, Wingo, Ky.

FOR SALE—New, Rebuilt and Second Hand Steam Engines, threshers, tractors and saw mills. Write for catalog and prices. THE RUSSELL & CO., ST. JOSEPH, MO.

WANTED—Local Agents to sell old established line of Patent Medicines. Write for particulars. Koenig Medicine Company, 1045 N. Wells St., Chicago, Ill.

BATHE YOUR EYES Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1163 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

BURGESS FLASHLIGHTS & BATTERIES

Is your old flashlight in good working order? If it isn't, step in at your dealer's store and get a Burgess Flashlight Battery

There is a Burgess Battery for every flashlight case. The same quality that has made Burgess Radio Batteries the choice of the foremost radio engineers is found in Burgess Flashlight Batteries; they are laboratory products.

BURGESS BATTERY COMPANY
General Sales Office: CHICAGO
Canadian Factories and Offices: Niagara Falls and Winnipeg

Discourage Rats Around the Farm

Rodent Is Robber and Pilferer and Lives Off of Various Products.

One of the pests with which the average farmer has to contend is the rat. He is by nature a robber and a pilferer, living on the products of the farm, and giving no return. The United States government says that this boarder who pays no board destroys more than $200,000,000 worth of crops every year. In addition to this money loss he is known as an active agent in the spreading of disease. This loss and the danger of spreading disease to stock and members of the family can be successfully and completely eliminated by the use of concrete in floors, basements and foundations of farm buildings. The rat's one impassable barrier is concrete floors and walls. These will stop him and effectually cut off his food supply. Then this is accomplished Mr. Rat will hunt a more fertile plundering ground.

Rat Menace Lessened.

Where farm buildings are constructed of concrete the menace of the rat is materially lessened. If buildings are constructed with concrete floors, lower parts of walls, and especially concrete foundations, there are no pockets in which the rats can hide or make their homes. If the use of concrete is extended to the construction of the feeding floors the rat menace has been absolutely eliminated.

A concrete silo is ratproof because the rat cannot gnaw through its walls or get at the silage in any other way. The same is true of a concrete corn crib which is the favorite feeding place of rats. Thus the corn is saved for the stock or market. In a concrete poultry house the poultry are free from the danger of attack by rats. This will develop a feeling of security on the part of the hens, which will manifest itself in the greater number of eggs produced. With concrete floors and walls the entire place can easily be swept and kept clear of all accumulations under which an occasional rat might hide.

Rats Kept Out.

In a concrete granary there will be no rats to consume or destroy what the farmer has stored for his own use. The rat cannot gnaw through the floor or get in in any way excepting through the door. A concrete feeding floor or barnyard pavement prevents the rats from consuming the grain and feed distributed to the live stock.

Concrete should be used in the construction of farm buildings as far as possible. It certainly should be used in all foundations, floors and lower parts of walls of larger buildings. Smaller buildings should be entirely built of it. Concrete construction is ratproof. It conserves stock, grains, feeds and supplies. It saves poultry. tI protects your family against diseases spread by the rat.

Wife and Husband Both Ill With Gas

"For years I had gas on the stomach. The first dose of Adlerika helped. I now sleep well and all gas is gone. It also helped my husband." (Signed) Mrs. B. Brinkley. ONE spoonful Adlerika removes GAS and often brings astonishing relief to the stomach. Stops that full, bloated feeling. Brings out old, waste matter you never thought was in your system. This excellent intestinal evacuant is wonderful for constipation. Wilson's Pharmacy. 1tc

Repairing

OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blume's

REPAIR SHOP

Plowing Deep in Garden Will Give Best Results

"Plow deep while sluggards sleep" is as true today as it was a hundred and fifty years ago, but it is a slogan which is not as frequently acted upon as it should be in gardens. It is said that in European gardens which are spaded, the garden is often worked two or even three spits deep, a "spit" being the depth to which a spade can be driven. Now this depth may not be necessary but a garden plowed or spaded ten inches deep will give enough better results than six-inch plowing to make the work well worth while.

At the same time the gardener should remember that in any work of this kind, increasing the depth of plowing must be done gradually. If the garden or field has been plowed only six and one-half inches deep, better increase the depth of plowing by a half inch or an inch each year, rather than increasing the whole depth all at once. Too much of the subsoil must not be brought to the surface at one time. As you turn the soil, bringing up an inch or so of new subsoil, mix the ground thoroughly with the new subsoil, and if possible with manure or compost. In the fall you will be able to get one inch in this way and then in the spring you can get a little more, and the following fall you can go down another inch if you choose.

"Well begun, half done," is so true in the garden that it is hard to pay too much attention to the plowing.

For That Rainy Day

I do not know of a method whereby returns from farming can be made uniform year after year. But I do know that it is possible for farmers to lay aside in years of good profits reserves upon which they can draw in years that are not so good. I cannot help but feel that too many farmers have reinvested their surplus earnings in high-priced land when they should have kept at least a part of them in more liquid reserves upon which they could readily draw in times of depression.—Secretary Jardine.

Don't Crowd Chickens

Avoid filling the chicken house beyond its capacity with chickens. Each bird ought to have at least eight inches of space on the roost. There should be one open nest to every eight hens or where trapnests are used, one nest will accommodate four hens if the nests are visited every two hours.

Airy Attic Room Is Fine to Cure Corn

Plan of Stringing Ears Is Familiar to Many.

With the recent frost catching much of the corn full of moisture, the method of curing seed corn this fall will determine to a large extent the success or failure of the stand next year.

"Seed corn," declares A. N. Hume, of South Dakota State college, "should be stored in a dry place with good air circulation, neither too hot nor too cold. An airy attic room will serve to store enough for home use, although it has the objection that it may bring mice into the house. The seed ears may be covered with dry threshed oats in a bin and allowed to remain there until spring.

"Most corn growers are familiar with the plan of stringing the ears and hanging them outdoors on the sunny side of a building or tying two or more ears together by the husks and hanging them that way. Such methods of curing are usually successful, unless the sunshine becomes too hot and causes germination of the corn. The strings of seed ears may be suspended from the rafters of a crib or even a garage, but do not drain the radiator of the car or allow steam to escape below the corn in freezing weather. Many bushels of good seed corn have been ruined in this manner.

"If corn is once well cured, it will be almost certain to retain its germination. Sometime after Christmas when it is thoroughly cured, it may be shelled, graded, and stored in sacks ready for planting."

Mature ears make the best seed corn although corn that has reached the glazed stage can be used if properly cured and stored. Seed for next year should be secured this fall.

Hogging Off Corn Saves Farmer Time and Labor

Farmers who hogged off a portion of their corn crop and husked the remainder on the stalk, made more money on corn in the past five years than those who cut, shocked, and husked it all, according to the experiences on Ohio farms where records were kept.

The figures for this survey were recorded by the farmers themselves, and F. L. Morison, of Ohio State University, who compiled the figures, says that by proper planning these men who let the hogs do part of the work greatly reduced labor costs.

"Based on the figures secured in Greene county from 1920 to 1925," writes Mr. Morison, "a farmer who has 40 acres of corn will spend 143 days of man labor in raising and harvesting his corn crop if he cuts, shocks and husks it. If five acres are 'hogged off' the 40-acre corn crop will take 131 days of man labor. Hogging off not only saves labor in harvesting the corn, but also saves time in caring for the hogs.

"If this farmer with 40 acres of corn hogs off 30 acres and husks the remainder off the stalk, it will require only 78 days of man labor to raise and harvest his corn crop, or 65 days less than if he were to cut, shock and husk it all. At the high wages paid for this extra harvesting labor, the saving in man labor would amount to more than twice the value of the stover left standing in the field."

Green Feed Helps Hens

During the late fall and early spring the addition of green food to the rations of the hens will well repay the efforts of the poultry keeper. This can be supplied in many ways. Green cut alfalfa, corn fodder, lawn clippings or clover are excellent green foods. If these are not available, roots, such as mangels or turnips, are very acceptable. Many good poultry keepers feed both. This, of course, is in addition to the regular grain rations. By using a little thought during the growing season enough of this material can be cured for winter consumption.

Protection Needed for Wintering Bees

Strong Cold Winds Are Always to Be Feared.

Already we have started to worry over the number of colonies we are going to winter successfully. It is time now to find some way to prevent winter losses and cease worrying.

If our fall management has been correct, we should now have strong colonies with at least fifty pounds of our best honey for winter stores.

Some natural protection is of great value. In locating our apiaries, the windward side can be protected by a thicket, a hedge, a building or a rough board fence. Strong cold winds are so much more chilling than calm days.

Now we have gone one step further and provide an insulation for our colonies. With four inches of dry planer shavings or leaves on all sides, six on top and four to six below, we can help a lot to keep a uniform temperature within the colony. Uniform temperature tends to decrease the colony activity in winter and decrease the honey consumption. Dry planer shavings are inexpensive and provide a first quality packing.

Colonies should be packed singly, in twos, or fours. Larger numbers, close together, cause drifting in spring and necessitate too much moving. Packing, well done will reduce those heavy winter losses.—R. G. Richmond, Department of Entomology, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins.

Protein for Poultry Is Necessary to Get Eggs

An experiment conducted by the poultry department at South Dakota State college, shows that although milk is a substitute for meat mash, if both the meat mash and the milk have to be purchased, the meat mash will supply the necessary protein to the chickens for less cost. A point in favor of the milk, however, is that it keeps the fowls healthier. The lactic acid in the milk seems to act as a tonic.

To combine the advantages of the two feeds, when both have to be purchased, it is advisable that the meat mash be wet with warmed milk or with the commercial semi-solid buttermilk diluted with warm water. This combination will cost but very little extra and will keep the chickens in good health.

In conducting the experiment, three flocks of 30 chickens each, were used. The semi-solid buttermilk was fed to one lot; the meat mash to the second, and buttermilk and meat mash to the third. All three flocks were also fed the regular scratch feeds. Practically the same number of eggs were laid by each flock during the time the experiment was carried on.

Free Chickens of Vermin Before Putting in House

Be sure the birds are clean and the poultry house free from lice and mites before putting birds in their winter laying quarters, say poultry workers of the Pennsylvania State college. A salve made of equal parts of blue ointment and grease, mixed well together, may be applied under the wings and around the vent, using a piece about the size of a pea, or any good lice powder, such as sodium fluorid, may be used. Use a coal tar disinfectant as a spray, forced into cracks and crevices, to free the houses of insect pests.

Fit Runts for Market

Runts in the growing flock should be separated from the rest and pushed for market. They will grow much faster if they have comfortable quarters to themselves, as the other fowls often intimidate and abuse them. If kept separate and well fed you will be surprised to see how fast they will grow and round out. But do not make the mistake of putting them back into the adult flock again. Once a runt, always a runt. The only proper use for such fowl is to market them just as soon as they are fit.

Dieted Cows Give Most Milk

By dieting his cows so that they received only sufficient rations to properly sustain them instead of "all they could eat," a farmer at Urbana, Ill., has obtained more milk per cow than heretofore. The saving on feed was considerable in addition to the increased milk which rose from 10,152 pounds per month to 11,127 pounds. The change turned a loss of $2 into a profit of 80 cents per cow.

FARM FACTS

Don't forget to save plenty of farm and garden seeds.

* * *

If you don't cover the ground in the garden the weeds will.

* * *

See that plenty of ventilation is provided in the storage cave.

* * *

Trees make our homes, schools and cities more beautiful. Plant them.

* * *

Potatoes should be emptied and not dropped or dumped into the storage.

* * *

If potatoes are dug and allowed to lie during the heat of the day so that they become warmed through, the storage house or cellar should be left open at night to permit all the fresh air possible to circulate.

Winter Feed for Cattle

A splendid way to put breeding cows through the winter is to feed silage and velvet beans in pod. If velvet beans are not available, one pound of cottonseed meal per head daily is a splendid substitute. This ration is expensive, but brings the cattle through in better shape. It is recommended for those who have pure-bred cattle, which will command a better price than the scrubs or grades.

SWALEDALE DRUG STORE DESTROYED BY FIRE

SWALEDALE, Dec. 24.— The Clemons drug store was burned here early Sunday morning, and the building and contents lost. The origin of the fire has not been determined.

The night telephone operator across the street discovered the fire when she heard plate glass crack. Some insurance was carried on the store.

ONE THIRD OF DAIRY CATTLE ARE TRAMPS

Des Moines, Iowa, Dec. 24.—"One third of the dairy cows in Iowa re profit makers," states the Iowa Department of Agriculture, "while one third are boarders who just pay their way, and one-third are tramps who are kept at a loss." The cow testing associations have inceased rapidly in Iowa during the past few years as they are the most efficient method of weeding out the unprofitable cows. Iowa now has a total of 61 of these cooperative organizations.

AUTO PLATES MANUFACTURED BY PRISONERS AT ANAMOSA

County treasurers throughout the state are distributing 700,000 auto license plates, manufactured at the reformatory at namosa by prison labor. After Jan. 1, motorists failing to exhibit on their cars the new plates, which carry white figures on a maroon background will be liable to a penalty of $1 monthly as long as they delay registering. This year 657,000 motor vehicles were licensed in the state, and registrations for 1926 are expected to increase the figure considerably. For the next year the Polk county serial number run to 39,000, more than 16,000 more licenses than are allotted to the next county, Woodbury.

Christmas Greetings and Best Wishes

TO OUR CUSTOMERS

The Company also wishes to thank you all for your patronage and to express its appreciation of the large increase during the year in the number of Customer Shareholders who have become Partners of the Com pany.

AThe Christmas Season and the begin ning of a new year is a most appropriate time to present that most appreciated Gift. —

A CERTIFICATE OF CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY PREFERRED STOCK

A present that grows in value with the passing years and is a constant pleasant Reminder of the Giver as it pays its Depend able Regular Income.

A Divided Payment Certificate with inital payment of $5 as the beginning of a Savings Account is a most acceptable Gift, especially for the Young Folks. Besides making a most excellent Gift, a Certificate of Central States Electric Company 7 percent Preferred Stock is a real New Year in vestment for your own spare funds.

The Price is $100 per share, and your investment earns 7 percent from the date you invest.

If you do not know why this is one in vestment you can Safely make, let us send you the FACTS so that you can decide.

Securities Department

Central States Electric Company

215 South 2nd Street CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA.

We wish everybody

A Merry Christmas and a

Prosperous New Year

Klemme Meat Market

A GIFT THAT LASTS

Why worry as to what you give? Let us solve the Christmas problem for you. One of the most appropriate gifts to any or all members of your family is that of a Time Certificate.

Just call any day and deposit one dollar or more for each one who is to receive the gift. We will give you attractive Certificates for them.

First National Bank.

KLEMME. IOWA.

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Merry Christmas, everybody!

George Ulrich was at Garner on business Saturday.

Mr. Klingaman, of Garner, was here on business Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hanson and boy were at Garner Saturday.

John Bock and family were visiting at Garner Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bachman drove to Mason City Saturday.

R. A. Jorgenson was at Garner on business Monday afternoon.

Miss Anna Griewe, of Mason City, is in Klemme to spend the holidays with her parents.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Wade this past week. Congratulations!

The Methodist church are having their Christmas program at the high school auditorium tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gimer entertained company from Riceville Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell visited with her parents at Goodell, Sunday.

Emil Krause, Albert Etchen and Gilbert Scaper drove to Eldora on business Saturday.

Marvin Wiegmann, of Garner, was a business caller in Klemme Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Johnson, of Garner, were Klemme visitors Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grange and son, Dorance, are being enterained at the White home at Estherville for Christmas.

The teachers all left Friday and Saturday for their respective homes for a visit with home folks during the two week holiday vacation.

We are having nice weather, a bit cold, not much snow, and in general it is fine holiday weather all around.

Grandma Fuller went to Dows on Monday evening, after visiting with relatives here for a couple of months.

Klemme merchants all report a good lively holiday business the past week or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gruetzmacher drove in from Tekamah, Nebr. last Friday to spend the holiday vacation visiting relatives here.

FOR SALE—Bush & Gertz Piano almost new, H. M. Sheer 720-egg sectional incubator and Close-To-Nature Grain Sprouter. See Frank Gruetzmacher. 2tp

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day and family Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith and Miss Mabel Smith were entertained at the Walter Ross home at Garner, Sunday.

As there were no services at the Methodist church Sunday evening, a number from here attended the services at Garner conducted by Rev. Metcalf, evangelist.

Have you renewed your subscription to The Times? Remember on January 1st the rates advance. Save money by subscribing and renewing now.

Clarence Elder, Fred Arnold and Adela Schroeder came home from Ames Saturday to spend their holiday vacation at home.

Bennie Swalve came home Saturday from Chicago to spend his holiday vacation with home folks. Ben is taking a course in architecture at Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Musfelt have moved back to Klemme. They have been living at Clarion for a couple of years. They are again living in their home west of the school house.

The Mid-winter term opens Monday, Jan. 4. The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. Good positions for all graduates. Part time work for students while in school. 1c

Christmas programs and exercises were held at the Reformed church in Klemme last night, and tonight the program will be given out at the Ell Town Reformed Church.

Why not turn the street lights on a little earlier during these dark days? Our city dads might think they are saving a few pennies, but we think they should have the town properly lighted and at the proper time. Let there be light!

Paul Grange and family are making preparations for a trip to Florida, via auto truck house. Paul's father, who is here visiting them, will accompany them on the trip. They expect to leave the first part of January, or as soon as they can get a house built on the new Chevrolet truck Paul's father purchased especially for the trip. A couple of day's drive should put them in a warmer climate, if they don't experience any difficulty getting out of Iowa snow.

A couple of weeks ago Gerald Koerner, Charles Gibbs, and the young man who had been working at the Bachman barber shop, we do not know his name, decided to take a little trip south in the latter's car. The boys accordingly left and got back to Klemme again last Thursday. They went as far south as Memphis, Tenn. They had a lot of fun and saw a lot of country. They say Arkansas was the worst state they passed through and the people are lazy and dirty as a rule.

A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the Alvin Stokesbary home last Thursday evening to vive that gentleman a birthday surprise party. A number of those who were present were Albert Fuller family, R. W. Elder family, C. A. Larsen family, Ben Katter family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stokesbary, Walter Johnson family, and perhaps others whose names we did not get. Yes, and Alvin was surprised when the crowd began to come in. All say they had a fine time.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Klemme, Iowa,
November 2, 1925.

Regular meeting of the Town Council held at the Town Hall.

All members of Council present.

Motion made and seconded that the following bills be allowed:

State Univesity of Iowa, Water Analysis	$ 1.00
George Johnson, Repair on Sewer	9.00
Harry Gram, Dray	2.30
Standard Oil Co., Gasoline	8.33
Klemme Times, Publishing Council Proceedings	2.51
Lloyd Lau, Dray and Express	1.71
Central States Electric Co., October Street Lights	40.10

Bills allowed.

Meeting adjourned.

A. J. KUDJE, Clerk.

Fined For Shooting Eagle

SWEA CITY, Dec. 17—It was just brought to the attention of Everett Kelly this last week that i is unlawful o shoot the eagle. He shot a fine specimen a few weeks ago, and it was published in the local paper, with the result that game warden Frech came to see him about it and fined him $10 and $5.50 costs. The reason was that the eagle represents the national emblem, and is protected.

HE PICKS OWN CORN

C. J. Adams, of Grundy Center, tells of a great record a Grundy county farmer made this fall in husking corn. He says that Dick Bruns of Lincoln township has husked an amount of corn this fall that is surpassed by very few farmers. He raised 4,000 bushels of corn and husked and cribbed it all himself. Aside from that, he did his chores at the farm every morning and evening, which consisted of taking care of his horses, feeding forty head of hogs and looking after the milking of 10 cows. Dick averaged 150 bushels of corn a day during the entire season on top of his big job of chores.

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, Dec. 24, 1925

EGGS (trade)	.35
EGGS (cash)	.34
HEAVY HENS	.20
LIGHT HENS	.15
STANDARD SPRINGS	.20
LEGHORN SPRINGS	.15
DUCKS	.12
OLD ROOSTERS	.07
GEESE	.10
BUTTERFAT	.53
BUTTER (Kleme Creamery)	.53
EAR CORN	45. to .50
RYE	.65—.70
WHEAT	$1.50.
OATS	.32
BARLEY	.45-.50
HOGS	$9.00 to $10.25

DOLLAR CORN ON FARM BY MAY PREDICTED BY BROKER

DES MOINES, Dec. 17.—Dollar corn on the farm by next May was predicted by R. W. Harper, president of the Harper and Son, Inc., brokerage house, Des Moines. He based his prediction on observation which has led him to believe that in seasons of big production the high prices are to be found at the end of the market season and not at the beginning.

He described Gov. Hammill's "buy a crib of corn" movment as being workable and practicable.

IOWA HAS SOME FAMOUS OLD TREES IN VARIOUS PARTS OF THE STATE

One Near Sioux City Was There Before Pilgrims Made Landing

AMES, Dec. 10—"There are many remarkable trees in Iowa," acording to Dr. L. H. Pammel, head of the Department of Botany at Iowa State College who has had much to do with the building up of Iowa's state parks system.

Near Sioux City, Dr. Pammel says, is a great burr oak, the "Council Oak," which was an old tree when Lewis and Clark made their memorable expedition from St. Louis to the Pacific coast. It is said that Indians held many councils under its shade. But time has worked havoc with this famous old tree. Three years ago many limbs were badly decayed. A single large branch, 12 feet from the ground, over 25 inches in diameter, was sawed off. This branch had 300 annual rings, while the tree itself is probably 350 years old, Dr. Pammel says.

Here When Pilgrims Landed

"This tree," he says, "was fair sized when the pilgrims landed in America and had nearly attained maturity when we declared our independence in 1776."

Dr. Pamel tells of a giant white elm in the Ledges State Park at Boone, Iowa. The tree measures 9 feet in diameter at its base and is probably 250 years old.

Near Red Oak are two very large sycamores, standing on an old slough of the Des Moines river. "These trees," Dr. Pammel declares, "are over eight feet in diameter at the base and are certainly over 300 years old."

Stood By Itself

In southeastern Iowa in the little town of Lone Tree is another memorable tree. It is 80 feet high, has a spread of 100 feet and is probably 250 years old. This tree was the land mark for which the town was named. Dr. Pamel says it was the only elm tree out on the prairie between Cedar Rapids and the Iowa river in the early days. Rcently when the tree started to decay the citizens of the town raised a sum of money to preserve it.

The state board of conservation, according to the botanist, is trying to preserve old landmark trees by asking that they be made gifts o the state.

"Of course," says Dr. Pammel, "there are trees much older than these we have in Iowa. In California there are the sequoias, one of which is 36 feet in diameter. This tree is thought to be 5,000 years old.

"This generation should help reserve these wonderful trees and thereby enable our posterity to enjoy them also."

REAL OIL IN IOWA FOUND

Near Seymour, Wayne county, more than 500 persons witnessed the bailing of the Cleo Donald oil well. The bailer went down three times and brought up about two barrels of crude oil which was distributed as samples to those attending. In spite of the bad weather the excited crowd remained until the bailing was completed and dozens of pails were filled and taken to the twenty towns represented. The well is now 985 ft. deep and the drilling was halted as soon as oil sand was reached. It is thought of those in charge of the project that big production will be reached within another 200 feet.

STATE CHAMPION CORN GROWER WINS TRIP

James Mackay, of Northboro, in Page county, won the International trip as state champion in the Corn Club work. He raised 114 bushels of corn per acre. He planted a piece of ground that had never been in corn before. It had been used as a pasture or feed lot and contained 60 acres. The portion of the field consisting of 20 acres which he gave the most attention,, would have all yielded approximately 114 bushels, as it was very uniform throughout. The yield as determined on a 15 per cent moisture basis and the shelling percentage was 114.3 bushels.

NEW GRAIN ELEVATOR FINISHED AT MILLER

MILLER, Dec. 17.—The North Iowa Grain Company has just completed its new elevator here and the workers have all returned to their home.

The new elevator is 24 ft. x 60 ft. and 56 ft. high, with annex for a driveway and is all covered with sheet iron and has a capacity of over 40,000 bushels and is equipped with modern machinery.

A. H. Nonweiler is in charge of the business here.

GOODELL NEWS ITEMS

M. J. Kearney and Virgie Cook have installed new radios.

Togie Matson came home Saturday to spend Christmas.

Avis Wilson spent the week end at home.

A Christmas program will be given at the U. B. Church Thursday evening.

J. W. Griggs left Friday for Red Oak where he will spend some time with his sister, Rose Abbott.

Frances Severson of Kanawha visited her sister, Mrs. Chelsvig, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Kensitt and Junior of Belmond were visiting at the Lew Avery home Friday.

Mrs. Allaben, who has been very ill, is some better at this writing. Her many friends wish for her speedy recovery.

Lawrence Williams returned from Nevada, Iowa, Thursday, where he was married. His wife is also staying at the Frank Christie home.

Veride Wilson and Raymond Chelsvig were absent from school two days last week on account of sickness.

Alva Matson entertained Wednesday in honor of her father's 73rd birthday, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Savogue, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Sandberg, Mrs. John Ahrenkeil and Julius Ahrenkeil.

DR. R. E. PORTER
Chiropractic Health Service
North Side Main Street
Phone 312 Belmond, Iowa

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

Wishing You a Merry Christmas

And a Happy, Prosperous New Year

E. F. Jacobs

Announcement--

Having sold my Elevator and Business to The North Iowa Grain Company, possession to be given January 1st, I wish to thank all my patrons for their patronage the past ten years.

I will continue in the Live Stock Business and will buy your hogs and ship your cattle on a fair commission to any firm you desire.

Phone North Iowa Grain Co., No. 16, or residence No. 104.

Wishing You A Merry Christmas
And A Prosperous New Year

Walter F. Lau

HOUSE PASSES NEW TAX BILL 390 TO 25

Amended to Limit Tenure of Office for Members of Appeals Board.

Washington.—The house of representatives passed the tax bill.

On a roll call vote of 390 to 25, the measure went sailing through although amended in the closing hours of a heated debate so as to reduce tenure of office for members of the board of tax appeals to fourteen years.

An attempt of Representative Rainey, Democrat of Illinois, to recommit the entire bill and report it back with a 25 per cent maximum surtax rate and a 25 per cent maximum estate tax rate failed on a roll call vote of 267 to 147.

The bill with its reductions in normal, surtax and estate tax rates, its increased exemptions and its reduced excise levies went through just as the committee had reported it on December 7.

The bill now goes to the senate where the finance committee is scheduled to commence consideration on January 4. It will reach the floor of the senate the latter part of January and is expected to become law by March 1, which will be time to make the cuts in income taxes effective on 1925 earnings for which returns must be filed by March 15.

The bill as passed reduced revenues approximately $325,000,000 during the calendar year 1926, $335,000,000 during 1927, and $345,000,000 during 1928. Of this amount $193,000,000 is accounted for by income tax reductions, $82,000,000 is due to automobile tax cuts, $2,000,000 to the repeal of the gift tax and the balance of $48,000,000 is caused by the repeal of various miscellaneous taxes.

Income tax cuts provided by the bill include raduction of present normal rates of 2 per cent on the first $4,000; 4 per cent on the next $4,000, and 6 per cent above that amount, to 1½, 3 and 5 per cent, respectively. The maximum on which the 25 per cent earned income deduction applies is made $20,000, instead of $10,000.

Surtaxes are reduced to a maximum of 20 per cent, instead of 40 per cent. Personal exemptions are increased from $1,000 for single persons to $1,500 and from $2,500 for heads of families to $3,500.

The tax on corporation earnings remains unchanged at 12½ per cent. The capital stock tax also remains in the bill.

The publicity provision of the present law, requiring amounts paid by individuals and corporations to be open to public inspection is repealed.

The estate tax is reduced from a maximum of 40 per cent to a maximum of 20 per cent. The gift tax is repealed entirely.

Taxes on automobiles, trucks, tires, and accessories are repealed and the tax on automobiles is cut from 5 to 3 per cent. Taxes on cigars are cut by about 25 per cent. The tax on alcohol is cut in half over a period of two years.

Manufacturers' excise taxes and other miscellaneous taxes are repealed entirely.

The admission tax remains in the law, except for the exemption of the legitimate spoken drama.

President Favors Speeding Up of Waterway Projects

Washington.—The midwestern fight for speedy completion of the inland waterway system is beginning to show results.

This was indicated at the White House, when it was stated that President Coolidge, providing funds are available, is in favor of the expenditure of an additional $10,000,000 during the next fiscal year in the development of the Mississippi river project, specifically including the lakes to the gulf link connecting Chicago and New Orleans.

The budget already provides approximately $10,000,000 for the maintenance and development of the Mississippi system. The army engineers, however, recommended that an additional $10,000,000 could probably be spent in hurrying its completion.

Eight Bandits Terrorize Town, Flee With $30,000

Dows, Iowa.—State agents joined local officers all over Iowa in the search for seven or eight men who terrorized the village of Dows, wrecked the vault of the Dows Savings bank and escaped with approximately $10,000 in cash and $20,000 in bonds.

All residents who appeared at their windows during the blasting inside the bank were fired upon, lookouts firing nearly 100 shots. Night Marshal August Welzine and Harry Little, Rock Island station agent, were made captives by the bandits and locked in the bank.

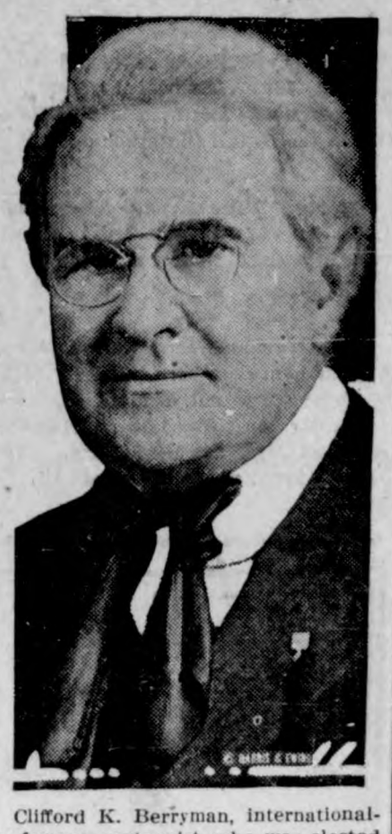
Tom Murray Is Dead

Chicago.—Tom Murray, county commissioner, whose advertising slogan "meet me face to face," made him famous in local clothing business circles before he entered politics, died in the University hospital after two operations.

Five Children Die in Fire

Holden, Mass.—Five children of John J. Hoey were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Hoey home, a two-story dwelling.

GRIDIRON CHIEF



Clifford K. Berryman, internationally famous cartoonist, who was elected president of the Gridiron club at the annual dinner of that unique Washington organization.

23 FOUND GUILTY IN BIG DISTILLERY PLOT

Face Two-Year Prison Sentence and $10,000 Fine.

Indianapolis. — Twenty-three men from St. Louis, Cincinnati and Chicago were found guilty in Federal court here of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws in connection with withdrawal of 30,000 gallons of prewar whisky from the Jack Daniel distillery at St. Louis.

Twenty of the men are from St. Louis, where several of them are prominent in politics; two are from Cincinnati and one from Chicago.

December 30 was set by Judge Robert C. Baltzell for passing sentence. A maximum sentence of two years in may be assessed.

Among those convicted were: Arnold J. Heilmink, former collector of internal revenue; Nat Goldstein, Republican leader and former clerk of the Circuit court; State Senator Michael J. Kinney, Michael J. Whalen, former alderman, and William J. Kinney, deputy internal revenue collector, all of St. Louis.

Mrs. Ada Gehrum, John Gehrum and August Walter, Cincinnati, were exonerated by the jury.

2,000 Chinese Killed or Wounded in Yangtsun

London.—Two thousand Chinese were killed or wounded in the Yangtsun battle arear in the recent fighting, according to a dispatch from Tientsin to the Daily Mail. This area lies between Peking and Tientsin.

Japanese railway guards at Newchwang, Manchuria, are holding two Chinese armies of 30,000—those of the Manchurian leader, Chang, and the rebel, Kuo Sun Ling—12 miles apart, denying both the right of transit through the railway zone. The Japanese troops took possession of Mukden, notifying Marshal Chang Tso-lin that he cannot return unless he comes in the role of undisputed victor or unarmed refugee. General Chang expressed great indignation at his virtual ejection from his own capital.

Elaine Harris Loses Fight to Hold Spouse

New York.—Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris lost her appeal from the judgment annulling her marriage to Beverly Harris, a former vice president of the National City bank, when the appellate division affirmed the annulment.

Harris was awarded an interlocutory decree of annulment by Supreme Court Justice Wagner in June, 1925, after a jury which heard the case had recommended that an annulment be granted. The jury found Mrs. Harris guilty of misrepresenting her social status and moral character to Harris before their marriage. Harris filed his annulment suit in 1922.

Express Train Held Up; $100,000 in Silks Stolen

Hackensack, N. J.—The Wells Fargo express train, 13, Chicago bound, and carrying no passengers was robbed between Hackensack bridge and H. B. Junction, N. J., of manufacturers' silks and expensive women's wear estimated at $100,000 in value. The robbers are believed to have boarded the express just before it left the New York terminal.

May Drop Schall Contest

Washington.—The senate informed counsel for Magnus Johnson that unless specific charges were filed, the investigation in the contest filed by Johnson against Senator Schall, republican of Minnesota, would not be carried further.

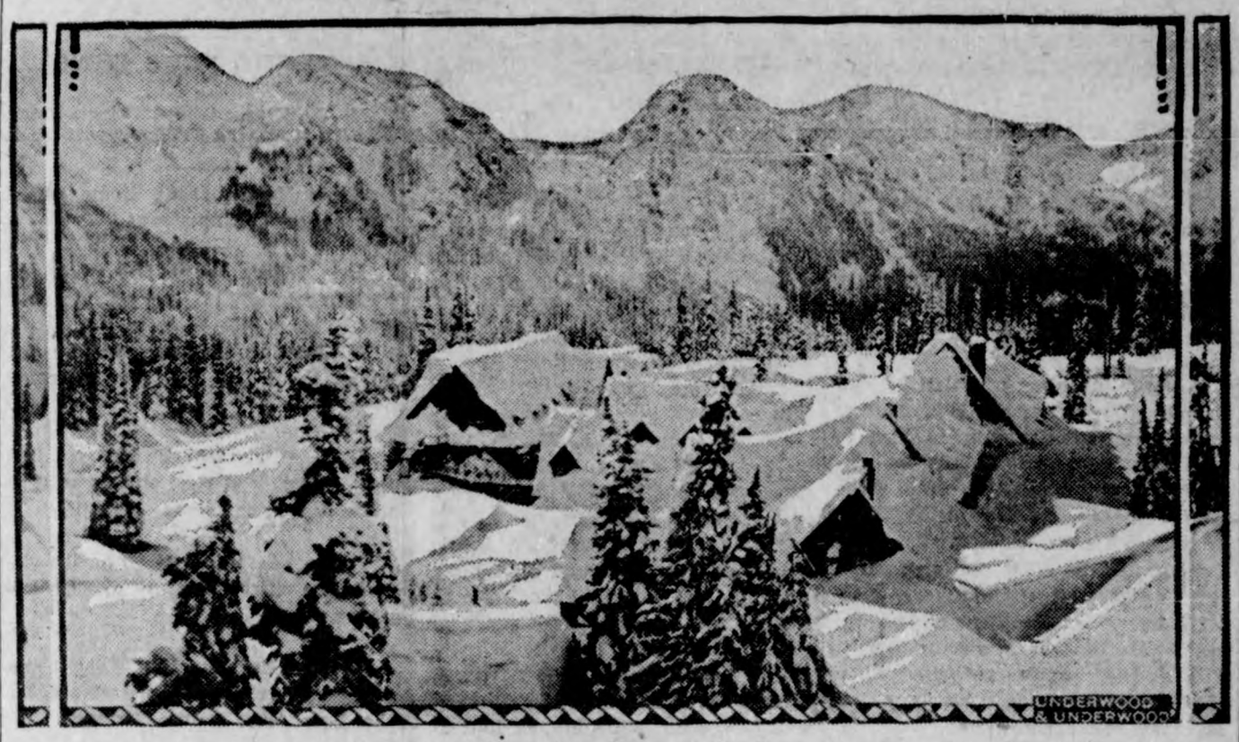
Hammond Envoy to Spain

Washington.—Ogden H. Hammond of New Jersey was nominated by President Coolidge to be ambassador to Spain.

Illinois Banker, Wife and Little Son Murdered

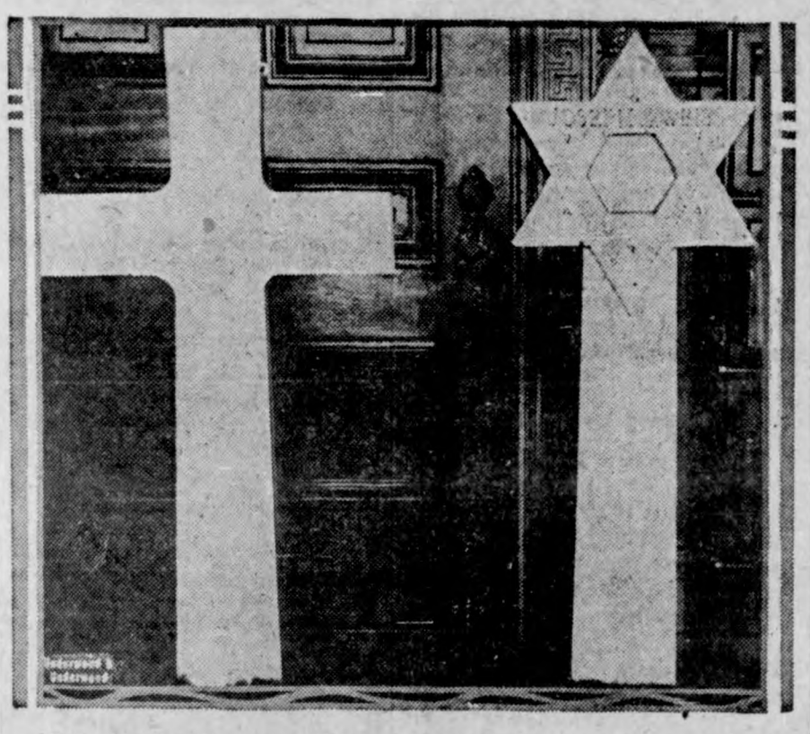
Mystery surrounds the murder, at their home near Batavia, Ill., of Henry W. Jeske, banker and farmer, his wife, Eva, and their six-year-old son Ralph. They were slain as they returned home in their automobile and the murderers fled in the car, which was found three miles away. The house was ransacked but not robbed. The illustration shows the victims and their residence.

Chance for Winter Sports on Mt. Rainier



Paradise valley, 5,500 feet up the side of Mt. Rainier, will be kept open this winter for snow and ice sports, according to an announcement by the national park service. Visitors will have to enter the second or third story windows of Paradise inn to get accommodations, as the famous hotel will be buried under fifty or sixty feet of snow, but once inside they will find warm rooms, electric lights and good food.

For Graves of Unknown Soldiers



Upon 1,682 white stone markers over the last resting places of unknown American soldier dead in France the United States government will chisel this legend: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God." For graves of Christians the cross will be used, and for those of Jews the "Star of David" design.

Lebanon Troops Relieved by French

Joseph Kanaan, commander of the Christian volunteers in Lebanon (wearing cap), watching entry of the French regulars who relieved his troops after their battles with the Druses.

PICKED BY "ZIGGIE"

Like a jewel expert picking out a flawless pearl from a heap of imitation ones, Florence Ziegfeld, "Glorifier" of the American girl, lighted on the blond, beautiful person of a young Boston miss, Betty Lee Cooper, as she trudged along Tremont street. It did not take long to persuade her to sign a contract with "Ziggie."

HIS LIFE THREATENED

Arrest in Kenosha, Wis., of an alleged blackmailer has brought out the fact that Charles W. Nash, multimillionaire president of the Nash Motor company, has recently received three Black Hand letters demanding $10,000 from him on pain of death.

COL. MITCHELL GUILT SUSPENDED 5 YEA

Court-Martial Lenient Beca of Military Record of Accused.

Washington.—Guilty on all the e specifications of the general charg insubordination is the verdict aga Col. William Mitchell.

The punishment is suspension f rank, command, and duty for years, with forfeiture of all pay allowances for the same period.

The verdict adds:

"The court is thus lenient beca of the military record of the accu during the World war."

In a civil court the verdict would comparable to a verdict of guilty slander.

The jury of nine generals and colonel constituting the court-mart deliberated for 2 hours 51 minutes.

Colonel Mitchell took his senten like a gentleman and a soldier. rose from his chair and became t center of a babbling group of lawye and correspondents. With them began to talk animatedly, laughing t while, and suddenly remarked in ringing voice and with a gesture t ward his ten judges: "Why, these m are all my friends!"

With that he walked up to Maj. Ge Robert Lee Howze, president of t court, and extended his right han which General Howze grasped, sayi as he did so: "Good-by, Billy!"

The other nine judges followed the president's cue, shook the colonel b the hand, and heartily said: "Good-b Bill!" and "Good-by, Billy!"

Mrs. Mitchell, a good soldier through out the long ordeal of this trial, wa for a few seconds after the verdict o the verge of tears. The eight specifica tions of the general charge were base upon Colonel Mitchell's "making, ut tering, and publishing" on Septembe 5 and September 9, 1925, at Fort San Houston, Texas, lengthy statement in which he charged "incompetency criminal negligence, and almost treasonable administration of the national defense by the Navy and War departments."

The immediate cause of the statements was the disaster to the airship Shenandoah in Ohio with the loss of 14 lives and the failure of the Hawaiian flight, but the statements comprehended a general arraignment of the administration of the air service.

Their result was the ordering by the President to a court-martial to try Colonel Mitchell.

Court's Decision Great Mistake, Says Gov. Small

Springfield, Ill.—Governor Small issued the following statement in regard to the Supreme court decision which ruled that he must pay the state of Illinois $1,000,000 interest on state funds which he sought to retain.

"To the people of Illinois:

"I know that a great mistake has been made by this decision. I know, and the evidence proves, that I paid into the state treasury every dollar which I received while state treasurer as interest upon state funds.

"A petition for rehearing will be filed in due course asking the court to reconsider its decision.

"I feel certain that the men and women of Illinois who for years have observed me in the performance of my official duties will continue to have that faith in me which I believe my record as a public official warrants.

"LEN SMALL,
"Governor of Illinois."

Mrs. Valentino Asks Paris Court for Divorce

Paris.—Winifred Hudnut Valentino's divorce action against Rudolph Valentino finally has come into the open. The action became a part of Paris court records.

Papers in the action show the couple was married in Crown Point, Ind., in 1923, where the couple went to legalize their Mexican marriage.

New York.—Natacha Rambova's only comment when told cable dispatches announced her action for divorce, was:

"It's true. I have sued and I await a final decree."

"What caused you to bring the action?"

"There is nothing to it at all, simply incompatibility."

Assails City of Rome Captain

Boston. — Lieutenant Commander Charles A. Lockwood, judge advocate before the naval board of inquiry into the sinking of the submarine S-51, charged that the story of Capt. John H. Diehl, of the City of Rome, which rammed the sub, was false.

Navy to "Attack" Cities

Los Angeles, Cal.—Attacks on San Francisco and New York will be part of the battle maneuvers for the United States fleet in 1926 and 1927.

Florida Express Embargoes

Jacksonville, Fla.—The American Express company placed an embargo on all express shipments into Florida, excepting foodstuffs, and on all outbound citrus fruits and fish originating south of here.

To Guard Sugar Workers

Havana.—Gen. Alberto Herrera, chief of staff of the Cuban army, ordered military posts throughout the island to protect sugar cane field workers where a guard is requested.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

LEGION PLANS FOR NEW LEGISLATION

Enactment into law of the principle of the universal draft is the foremost point on the legislative program of the American Legion for 1925-1926, according to National Commander John R. McQuigg. Passage of this law was urged by the national convention which was held at Omaha, the "chief legislative activity of the Legion for the coming year."

The object of the proposed law, the commander declared, is to provide that in the event of another war, there will be no more slackers or profiteers, but equal service for all and special profits for none. The Legion believes this plan will make war less likely and will at the same time make the nation better prepared for war should it be forced upon the country.

Immediate adherence by the United States "to a permanent court of international justice" is sought. "Every influence and power of the Legion should be exerted to press the matter to a favorable vote in the United States senate at the earliest practicable date," the convention directed.

Provision for adequate forces for national defense, external and internal, is supported by the Legion. This veterans' organization has requested the government to make a thorough study of the entire question of national defense. The national convention declared itself "impressed with the proposal to reorganize our national defense under one cabinet officer with subdivisions of equal importance for the land, sea and air forces."

Retirement of disabled army officers is sought.

The Legion is seeking to maintain the United States Veterans' bureau as an independent establishment of the government. At the last session of congress efforts were made to include its functions under a proposed department of education and relief with a secretary in the President's cabinet. This was defeated and the Legion plans to resist any further moves in this direction which may be made at this direction which may be made during the session of congress.

Creation of a permanent medical corps in the Veterans' bureau and transfer of the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers to the bureau are urged. The President is reported by Director Frank T. Hines of the bureau, to have expressed himself in favor of the medical corps.

Authorization of a hospital building program to provide 2,000 additional beds at an estimated cost of $6,000,000 is recommended. Minor clarifying amendments of the Reed-Johnson bill for the disabled and of the Adjusted Compensation Act are urged.

THE GOOD HE GOT

In a questionnaire conducted by Frederick Palmer, famous war correspondent, on the subject of "What Good Did You Get Out of the World War," Rev. Ralph Stoody, St. Johnsbury, Vt., won first prize of $50 for the following answer to the question:

"As a minister's son in a divinity school I was unconsciously being shaped into the conventional parson's mold.

"Waiving exemption, I enlisted. I found I had enrolled in another school, the courses of which I needed.

"The result is that though I would not favor universal military training, I would so value mine that I would almost approve a year in the army as a prerequisite for a theological degree.

"I discovered:

"That intelligence is not a matter of campus experience nor of university degrees.

"That essential gentlemanliness is as apt to be found in the immigrant's son as in the college president's.

"That because a man appears to be hard-boiled is no evidence that on occasion he may not be as tender as a mother.

"That in motive most profanity is an offense against good taste rather than a sin against the Deity.

"That many virtuous men have foul mouths; that many vicious men are particular even with infinitives.

"That a Jew or a Protestant or a Catholic is not to be evaluated by his label, but with the fidelity with which he practices his tenets.

"That many a man who claims to have no religion is doing his human best to live 'by the faith his lips deny.'

"That all kind deeds are not done by deacons."

Reverend Stoody is the pastor of the largest Methodist church in Vermont, and is a member of W. R. Knapp post of the Legion at St. Johnsbury.

ROAD BUILDING

AUTOS ONLY TO USE THIS 160-FOOT ROAD

Plans are being made for a road to be built from Chicago to Milwaukee which will exclude all crossings, pedestrians and rail cars.

The road will be wide enough to accommodate 16 cars abreast. It will be possible to make the entire trip in 75 minutes over this highway.

"We won't have any speed cops," says St. Mayer, secretary of the Chicago police department and president of the Illinois Safety council, who has planned this superhighway.

The new drive will have six separate lanes for cars. The inside lanes will be for high-power autos which go from 60 to 90 miles an hour.

The second lane will be for cars going from 30 to 60 miles an hour, and the outside lanes are for cars going from 14 to 30 miles an hour.

This road is to be built 1,200 feet out from the present shore line on refilled land. It will be 150 feet wide, 80 miles long, and 12 feet above the lake level.

The crossroads do not cross the main track. They tunnel through and go under the main drive, having ramps leading up to the main road.

At each tunnel there will be facilities for pedestrians to reach the lake beaches beyond the roadway. But there will be no space on the elevated road above for pedestrians.

It is estimated that this new roadway will cost $196,000 a mile, but the saving in time and life is expected to make up for the huge construction cost.

Mayer will put his proposed road plan before the mayors and city and county officials of Wilmette, Winnetka, Evanston, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Lake Bluff, Waukegan, all in Illinois, and Kenosha, Racine and Milwaukee, all in Wisconsin.

"It's bound to come," says Mayer, "for we have proven it to be a life and money-saver in Chicago with the Wacker drive."

Effect of Highways on Cost of Driving Motors

When you drive a motor vehicle down the roadway it may be costing you all the way from seven cents to seventy cents a mile, depending on the size, load, make and condition of the machine, the kind of tire used and the road over which you drive. Data on the actual cost of motor transportation is given fully in a bulletin of the Iowa engineering experiment station as worked out by T. R. Agg, highway engineer.

The most valuable results contained in the bulletin are those for motor trucks, since a wide variety of these were available and accurate cost records were kept. Several passenger cars were also studied. A composite car cost exactly 8.49 cents per mile to operate over all kinds of Iowa roads. One hundred and twenty-seven five-ton trucks belonging to the Iowa highway commission cost 64.42 cents per mile.

Professor Agg says that there is a growing tendency to place the cost of highway construction upon the motorist, and this will make a considerable increase in actual transportation costs. This is largely offset, however, by the fact that it costs a great deal more to drive over a dirt road, poorly surfaced and graded, than it does over a smooth paved highway. There is from one to three cents a mile difference between dirt roads and good pavement for ordinary passenger cars.

Limestone Dust Road Is Under Test in Missouri

A road a mile long made of limestone dust in Clay county, Missouri, is a new departure in roadmaking and is being watched with more than usual interest. The state did not build a road through Nashua, seven miles northwest of Liberty, but turned west just before reaching Nashua, in going north. However, the state and Clay county have made a road through the town of limestone screenings which is put down to a thickness of six inches and made smooth and solid at the time it is placed on the road. Twenty-two carloads of screenings from Nebo Hill quarry, south of Liberty, were shipped to Nashua and the Clay county engineer, with his road crew, leveled and packed the screenings so the road is hard now. The test of material is being watched carefully as the cost is lower and the road seems durable. The expense was 17 cents per square yard, while other material, according to the county engineer, costs around $1.50 per square yard. Heavy trucks are being driven over this road every day and, although purely an experiment, it is holding up in good shape.

Monitor-Merrimac Hero

James Alexander Doll, believed to be the last survivor of the Monitor-Merrimac naval engagement of the Civil war, was buried at Riverton, Wyo., by Riverton post of the American Legion.

Indorse Wilson Shrine

Indorsement of a proposed shrine to the late Woodrow Wilson, war-time President, at his birthplace at Staunton, Va., was voted by the national convention of the American Legion.

COLORFUL WOOLEN DRESSES; PARIS FROCKS FOR GIRLS

Happy the day when gay bordered materials came into being. That these patterned fabrics are self-trimming is one of their many reasons for widespread popularity. If rumor rings true, their conspicuous use is assured for spring.

Just now while wintry weather continues we are much interested in gay printed woolens, such as the dress in the picture suggests. This practical little frock does not lack for color, for it is made of scarlet flannel with black printed ring-dots interestingly manipulated so that the border carries those of increased size.

An Attractive Woolen Gown.

In the printed materials for spring, motifs are daring and original. Modernistic designs are prominent, especially in silks. The grouping of triangles, squares and odd-shaped patches of color at times almost suggest the familiar "crazy-quilt" effect. There are lovely floral border designs in bordered goods, proportioned with the larger flowers for the hemline, grading the lighter festoons or wreaths at the top.

Warp printed woolens, suited for dresses, feature among yard goods and there are also printed kasha shawls to be used for coats somewhat after the manner of the blanket wraps for this winter.

A very attractive feature of woolen prints and weaves for spring is that plain-colored fabrics are obtainable which match a leading shade in the patterned material. Of course, dressmakers and stylists in general see vast possibilities for striking combinations in woolens which are related to each other in coloring.

In the matter of skillfully designed clothes the Parisian fashionist is very indulgent to girls in the early teens and younger. It is part of the French style code that frocks for youth abound in as carefully designed and executed detail as do those of grownups. This sophisticated styling is, in fact, an outstanding feature of children's dresses and coats this season, the younger tots wearing clothes which carry trimmings and effects which look like a miniature edition of mother's own apparel.

A very good example of a grown-up looking frock for little daughter, one that bespeaks Parisian origin, is pictured to the left. It suggests the redingote and it is worn over a slip all-over patterned with tiny braid. Touches of the braiding appear on collar, cuffs and pockets. Heavy silk crepe is the medium chosen for this beguiling two-piece model.

Also of crepe is the accompanying dress which deftly emphasizes the vogue for inverted plaits in the front skirt portion. There is an inset vestee, a scarf collar and a crushed girdle to testify to the "like-mother-like-daughter" trend of the fashion.

It is interesting to note that some of the advance mid-season frocks for juniors have high collars and long sleeves.

Two Paris Designs for Little Miss.

Crepe de chine remains a favorite material for young girls' dresses. Attractive colorings are a never-failing source of interest in this silken fabric, this season to even a greater degree than before. Such lovely tones are exploited as phantom red, strawberry, rose-beige and gracklehead blue, these for daytime wear. For the dance, silks flaunt enchanting shades of rose, turquoise green, orchid and flesh color with some attention being paid to baby blue.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Community Building

Nation Building Many and Better Schools

Hundreds of new public schoolhouses are being built throughout the United States, says a survey by the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's association.

"It is surprising how many states have been caught in the wave of school-house building," says the survey. "This should be a record year. The process of replacing dilapidated structures very likely will continue for at least another twelve months.

"One fact stands out sharply. The one-room country schoolhouse is definitely passing. So are the old three-room sheds of learning. State boards of education report a remarkable reduction in the number of schoolhouses, due to construction of consolidated schools, each of which replaces several one-room shells. New schoolhouses are modern and soundly constructed. In recent months trainloads of stone have been shipped from the Bedford-Bloomington district for such use."

Thomas J. Vernia, president of the association, says educational building has accounted for nearly 25 per cent of the nation's enormous construction total in recent months, while $225,000,000 was spent last year in replacing antiquated school structures.

School Benefited by Visits of Parents

We wonder how many parents who should visit the public school teachers of their children do so? Not many, probably; perhaps because the schools are considered so good today that parents feel such contacts are superfluous. Other parents feel that the teachers are so busy that to visit them is an imposition on their good nature. Still others are too busy themselves to take time during the day to go to the school building and manifest a personal interest in their children's important work. Those who follow the old-fashioned course and visit their children's rooms in school at least once or twice during a semester are richly repaid for the effort. They usually come away with a deeper respect for the individual teacher and for the institution; and more often than not they learn useful facts about the temperament, aptitude and personality of their own child which enables them to act as parents more intelligently. School visiting is beneficial all around. The community needs more of it.—South Bend Tribune.

Home Owners Increase

Fourteen million American families are home owners today, a survey by the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's association shows.

"America, perhaps rightfully tagged the most extravagant nation in the world, spends in one year the colossal sum of nearly $3,000,000,000 for automobiles. Its tobacco bill runs almost as high, while candy, cakes and ice cream and the like consume another $2,000,000,000. Yet with all this seeming disregard for the future the great enterprise of homemaking is by no means overlooked.

Residential building being approximately 60 per cent of the year's estimated $6,000,000,000 construction program, homemaking is easily the biggest business of the country.

Duty of Owning Home

Every man is morally obligated to provide shelter for his own. The world cannot furnish it free—man is not doing his duty as a husband, parent or citizen, unless he furnishes the most comfortable shelter his income will rightly permit.

Man is in debt whether he owns or rents by a monthly promise to pay. If by some plan the rent money can be applied to conserve all the advantages of renting and protect one from all the disadvantages of same and in the end insure the ownership of the property such a proposition should be favorably considered for its two-fold advantages.

Spruce Up, Clean Up

If every resident of the city would take the proper care of his premises, there wouldn't be any eyesores left—and nothing left to criticize, the Rushville (Ind.) Republican remarks. It doesn't require very much time and expense to set out some shrubbery and plant flowers and bushes and keep the lawns well trimmed. We can't live forever, but we can enjoy life more while we are here if we make our surroundings as pleasant as possible. Don't shrug your shoulders and complain that it's "too much of a task," for it isn't. Nothing is too big a task for the man who makes up his mind to do it.

Couldn't Convince Jury

They met for the first time for some months.

"Where have you been, John?" said James. "Haven't been laid up, have you?"

"Yes; I've been laid up for a bit."

"You're not looking fit; hope it's nothing serious?"

"Oh, nothing much—but this is the first time I've been out for three months."

"Really? What was wrong?"

"Nothing, really, only the jury wouldn't believe it!"

Pimples

What can I do?

"Oh, why can't I have a skin like other girls? Why do I have to have these ugly pimples, blotches and blackheads?

"If I could only find something that would clear up my skin and give me back my soft, rosy complexion, I know I would be the happiest girl in the world! What can I do?"

Is that you talking? If it is, you don't have to worry a minute! Just build up the rich, red blood in your body. Then your skin will be as clear and soft as anybody's.

That's what S. S. S. has been doing for generations—helping Nature build rich, red blood! You can build red-blood-cells so fast that the impurities that cause breaking out on the skin hardly get into the system before the pure blood annihilates them—kills them right out—stops them from breaking out through the skin.

And then this rich, red, pure blood feeds and nourishes the tissues of the skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous, red blood such as S. S. S. helps Nature build, makes you healthy all over. It beautifies your skin—drives away pimples, blackheads, blotches, rash, boils and eczema—gives you back your appetite—builds firm, plump flesh and fills you full of new life and energy.

S.S.S.

All drug stores sell S. S. S. Get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

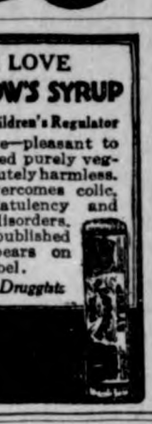
HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Feel Young~

Take care of your stomach and preserve your health.

HOSTETTER'S Celebrated Stomach Bitters tone up the digestive organs, stimulate the appetite and promote a feeling of physical fitness. At all Druggists.

The Hostetter Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.



BABIES LOVE MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

Pleasant to give—pleasant to take. Guaranteed purely vegetable and absolutely harmless. It quickly overcomes colic, diarrhoea, flatulency and other like disorders. The open published formula appears on every label.

At All Druggists

Vanity Cases for Men

Vanity cases for men, in which are carried pipe, tobacco pouch, key ring, comb, nail file and other necessities that make a man's pockets bulge, are the latest fad in London, says Popular Science Monthly. There is room in the bag also for an extra collar and a mirror.

Love and poetry are seldom hampered by facts.

Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION 25 CENTS

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

INSIST UPON KEMP'S BALSAM for that COUGH!

Try the New Cuticura Shaving Stick

Freely Lathering Medicinal and Emollient

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE for Epilepsy Nervousness & Sleeplessness.

PRICE $1.50 AT YOUR DRUG STORE

Write for free Booklet

KOENIG MEDICINE CO. 1045 N. WELLS ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

ACT NOW!

New Price Goes Into Effect Jan. 1

THE KLEMME TIMES

PAYABLE IN ADVANCE

NEW RATES

1 Year in Hancock County	$2.00
1 Year, Outside of County in Iowa	$2.00
1 year, Outside of state	$2.50
1 year, Outside of U. S.	3.00

Special Offer Good Until January 1, 1925

Uutil January 1st, we will accept subscriptions to The Klemme Times atthe old rate of $1.50 per year in Hancock County and vicinity; $2.00 per year outside of this vicinity.

TWO YEAR LIMIT

However, we will only accept a renewal at the old rate for 2 years in advance. SAVE MONEY by taking advantage of this SPECIAL OFFER---pay up your back subscription and save a dollar by paying two years in advance.

SAVE MONEY SUBSCRIBE TODAY

The Klemme Times

Your Home Town Newspaper

THE KLEMME TIMES

Thirtieth Year. Number 17. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

WISHING YOU A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR

CONTINUE SEED CORN TESTING

Check on Samples From Adair, Fayette, Wright, Crawford Counties Exhibited At Local Shows

Samples of seed corn from four different counties which were exhibited at local corn shows furnished the basis for further germination tests conducted recently by or in cooperation with Iowa State College. Results of these tests have been sent to the county agents in each of the four counties, Adair, Fayette, Crawford and Wright, where they will be called to the attention of owners of the samples as well as others.

Fayette county seed appears to be only about 37 percent strong and around 35 percent dead, with the remainder weak. A check of germinating power of the 56 ten-ear and 33 single-ear samples shown at the West Union corn show, revealed 37.9 percent strong, 28.2 percent weak and 33.9 percent dead. At the Maynard show, 38 exhibitors were represented. Tests of this corn showed 37 percent strong, 22 weak and 41 percent dead.

Out of 180 ears tested in the Orient school, Adair county, only 72 ears were considered fit for seed, less than half. The Orient corn came from 18 different Adair County farmers.

The college conducted tests on 13 samples of Crawford County corn which were shown at Dow City. The samples were practically all grown and selected by men who are accustomed to showing corn and probably represent some of the best seed available in Iowa, the extension specialists believe. Of this lot 75.5 percent showed strong germination 6.5 percent was weak and 18 percent dead.

Wright county corn showed up the strongest in germination of any tested, tho it included only seven samples all of which were picked before the freeze. These were shown at the Galt corn show. Of this lot, 87 percent showed strong germination, 11 percent weak and 2 dead.

Many of the county Farm Bureaus are now engaged in making a preliminary test of seed corn in the county. These will be reported to the Iowa State College when completed and it is hoped by January 1 to have a rather complete state survey of the entire seed corn situation in the state.

PLENTY OF COLD WEATHER AND LOTS OF SNOW, TOO

This community received its wish for a "white Christmas." It snowed hard all day last Thursday and about six to eight inches of snow covered the ground. After the heavy snow fall the mercury fell and Saturday registered around 16 to 20 degrees below zero in this part of the state. Since that time the temperature has been around the zero mark, sometimes below and then climbing up again.

We are having winter weather!

KLEMME MARKETS

Subject To Correction

Thursday, Dec. 31, 1925

EGGS (trade)	.35
EGGS (cash)	.34
HEAVY HENS	.20
LIGHT HENS	.15
STANDARD SPRINGS	.20
LEGHORN SPRINGS	.15
DUCKS	.12
OLD ROOSTERS	.07
GEESE	.10
BUTTERFAT	.54
BUTTER (Kleme Creamery)	.53
EAR CORN	45. to .50
RYE	.65—.70
WHEAT	$1.50
OATS	.33
BARLEY	.45-.50
HOGS	$12.00

MRS. WM. LAU OF GARNER DIED SUNDAY AT MASON CITY

This community was sadly shocked when it was learned that Mrs. Wm. Lau, of Garner, had passed away Sunday at the Mercy Hospital at Mason City. Mrs. Lau was taken to the hospital sometime ago and it was thought a minor operation would restore her to former health and n the 19th she underwent an operation from which she did not have the strength to recover and death came Sunday.

Mrs. Lau was a young mother and leaves her children and husband to mourn her seemingly untimely departure from this earth. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blank of this city.

Funeral services were held at Garner yesterday afternoon and burial was made in the Klemme cemetery.

The obituary will be published in the Times next week.

BUY A CRIB OF CORN!

Buy a crib of corn. There is a movement launched recently in Iowa and heartily endorsed by Governor Hammil which is called the "buy a crib of corn" movement. The purpose of the movement is to organize the bankers and merchants and other farmers so that every farmer who finds it necessary to turn his corn o some pat of it into cash will be able to do so without putting it on the open market where any extensive selling it is expected will force down the price. It is believed that with the aid of such a movement supplementing the Corn Growers organization for holding their corn that the quantity of Iowa corn thrown on the market will be so reduced that the price will be forced up to the point where it will be a living and perhaps a profitable price for the grower.

An other way to advance the price of corn is to create an extra demand for it. Use more corn meal, corn syrup and try to create a demand by getting it utsed as sugar in canned products.

Even pipe smokers should demand a cob-pipe! That will help some.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN LARSEN CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Larsen, who reside on a farm a few miles southwest of Klemme, celebrated their Silver Wedding Anniversary Monday, December 28, 1925. The day was spent in a quiet manner as no large celebration had been planned.

We extend congratulations and best wishes to the Bride and Groom of twenty five happy wedded years.

Culling Is Profitable

That it does not pay to keep poultry—has been demonstrated to at least one West Virginia poultry raiser and his neighbors. Last fall he followed the advice of the poultry extension specialists and culled his flock. From a flock of 81 hens he culled out 39 and sent them to the market. To his surprise, the remaining 42 birds produced as many eggs as the original flock and his feed bill, consequently, was nearly halved.

FARM NOTES

Some cows live on profits.

* * *

Deep cultivation of cabbage cuts too many roots.

* * *

Noxious weeds, like diseases, should be eradicated.

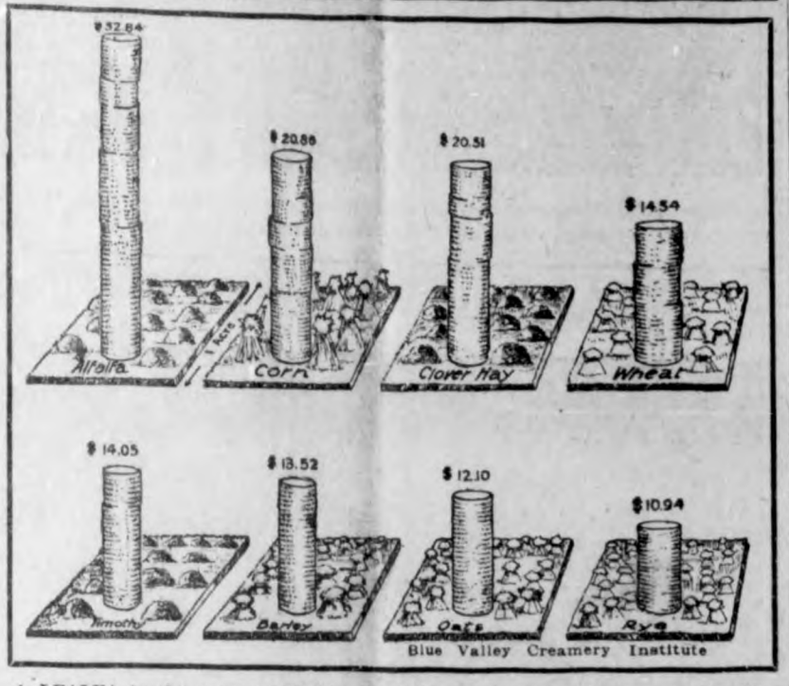
* * *

Where soil fertility is a problem the absence of a legume in the rotation hastens the date of the sheriff's sale.

* * *

An egg is only a dividend declared after the body needs have been supplied, and nature looks out for Number One first—to get lots of eggs, cull out the drones and feed to the limit those that deserve it.

Alfalfa Leads All Crops in Profit to the Farmer



ALFALFA is the most profitable of all farm crops, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. In acre value it ranks first among the eight leading forage and grain crops grown on American farms, if average yields for the United States from 1921 to 1924 and average farm prices during that period may be taken as an index. Its acre value, according to the Institute's experts was $32.84, which is $11.98 higher than that for corn; $12.33 higher than clover hay; $18.30 per acre more than wheat; $18.79 greater than the acre value of timothy hay; $19.32 higher than the acre return from barley; $20.74 more than oats and $21.90, or nearly three times greater return, than the acre yield of rye.

Alfalfa is a concentrated hay feed that reduces feed cost, provides the protein which corn and other grains lack to make milk, beef and mutton economically. In feeding value, pound for pound, it is equal to shelled corn, if based on amounts of digestible nutrients each contains. As dry forage it is considerably more valuable than clover hay, and by far more valuable than timothy hay.

Alfalfa has another very important value which makes it practically indispensable on every farm where dairy cows are fed. Not only will it produce huge crops at a profit several times a year but it also enriches the soil while it grows.

COWS NEARLY DOUBLE YIELD

Testing Association Member Gets Wonderful Increase

One of the members of the Thompson-Eden cow testing associations in Winnebago county who was milking nine cows during October and November got a phenominal increase in production the latter month from his herd by using better methods of feeding and management. In October the nine cows produced 3,181 lbs. of milk and 130.5 pounds of butterfat. In November the same nine produced 5,373 pounds of milk and 200 lbs. of butterfat, nearly double the production of the previous month.

Here are the reasons for the increased production: The cows were exposed less to the cold weather during November than they were in October by keeping them in the barn a greater part of the time. The cows were kept out of the corn stalks in November, tho they had excess to the fields during the month of October. The cows got a balanced ration in November, but not in October.

"I thought all of my cows were going dry a while back," says the owner of the above herd, "but now they are all milking as tho they had fresh ened again."

It cost $9.04 more to feed the cows in November than it did in October, but they paid for this extra feed and returned in addition $29.88 more to the owner than they did in October. The increase in profits for the one month was practically enough to pay the testing association costs for an entire year.

Dairymen Go 43 Miles For Banquet

Sac county, which claims the most scattered cow testing association membership in Iowa, recently held a banquet for the members and their families. Despite the fact that some of them were compelled to drive 43 miles, 75 were in attendance. The association membership, tho mostly in Sac, is partly in three other counties. It is 45 miles between the border members north and south, and 35 miles between extreme members in east and west.

DOLLAR CORN AND THE CONSUMER

Des Moines, December 24. "Consumers need not to fear that the farmer's campaign for dollor corn will hurt them," states the Weather and Crop Service of the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

"Past experiences show that a rise of 44 cents per bushel, which is necessary for corn to reach the dollar mark, will not change the retail price of corn products which are used for human food."

"For example," declares Director C. D. Reed, "about 40 pounds of corn flakes can be made from a bu. of corn weighing 56 pounds. The rest of the bushel is acounted for in gluten feed, hulls, germ meal, and corn oil, etc. This would make 49 standard sized packages of corn flakes weighing 13 ounces each. These are usually sold for 15 cents each, or a total of $7.35."

"This would make less than a cent per package difference in the price of corn flakes if all of the difference was passed on to the consumer. As a matter of fact, in the last five years corn has varied in price from 30 cents to 93 cents per bushel but the retail purchaser of corn flakes has not noticed a change in price."

"The reason for this is that there are so many other large factors that enter into the retail price of foods, that the cost of the materials purchased from the farmer is a minor item."

The Christmas Tree programs all were very well attended this year. Last Wednesday evening the program was given in the Reformed church in Klemme and the following night it was held at the Ell Town Reformed Church. The Methodist church held their program in the school house last Thursday evening and the Liberty Church held theirs in Liberty the same evening.

SCHOOL BEGINS MONDAY

School will begin again Monday after a two weeks holiday vacation which was enjoyed by both teachers and pupils and which seems to have come to an end all too quickly. The teachers will be returning to Klemme the latter part of the week.

NEW YEAR GREETINGS FROM THE KLEMME BUSINESS MEN

This week you will find a double page "spread" in the Klemme Times, being New Year Greetings extended to you by the business men of our little city.

The message carries good will for a happy, prosperous year during 1926.

The business and professional men of Klemme are wide-awake men. They stand ready to do anything in their power to make Klemme a town that is the best in Northern Iowa; a town where you can come and get a fair, square deal. Your prosperity means the prosperity of Klemme and all the surrounding territory. Pull together this year, farmers and business men and make Klemme the best trading point in Iowa.

Happy New Year Everybody!

Soy Beans Excellent as a Supplement to Grain

Analyses show that soy beans are very high in digestible crude protein. The proteins of the soy beans are very well balanced in their amino acids, which makes soy beans an excellent protein supplement to our cereal grains as corn, oats, wheat and barley. All feeding trials show soy beans to have a higher feeding value for swine than the seeds from most other plants. Soy beans are low in calcium, and due to their high oil content, they frequently become unpalatable to swine, after a long feed.

Many trials have been conducted in which soy beans have been compared to cottonseed meal as the only supplement to corn in fattening swine. In 12 trials averaged, 100 pounds of ground soy beans replaced 65 pounds of tankage and 5 pounds of corn in the feed necessary to put on 100 pounds of gain. Pigs that are fattening on soy beans as a supplement to corn will not gain quite as rapidly as those receiving cottonseed meal.

Soy beans fed to hogs are very apt to cause the production of soft pork. It must be used only as a supplement to corn or other starchy feeds, and should never be used as a fattening feed alone. If soy beans are used in a corn ration to bring up the protein content of the ration only, bad results are not likely to follow.—B. W. Fairbanks, Extension Service, Colorado Agricultural College.

Winter House for Ducks

The house suitable for wintering ducks may be quite simple in construction. A good tight floor, well bedded with straw or leaves, good tight back and sides, a good roof and plenty of ventilation are the essentials. Simply because a duck is a waterfowl many people seem to think rain and snow make no difference in the winter time. They can stand much dry cold, but little wet cold weather. Your duck house need not be expensive, and inside furnishings not necessary. A house eight feet square will care for a pen of ducks.

Select Breeders for Eggs

It may be well to again call attention to the necessity of selecting the breeders for egg production from the hens, not pullets, during November and December. These should be in laying condition unless molting, have pelvic bones not over one-eighth inch thick, a distance of six fingers width from these bones to the rear end of the keel bone, the abdomen be soft and pliable, the comb fine grained and red.

HAVE MERCY, JUDGE

Judge: "Why does a big husky man like you take to stealing, will you explain that?"

Accused: "Well, sir, you see my wife's sick and can't work."

Some men continaully crab about their hard luck while others boast of their good luck. Its hard to decide which is the greatest pest.

We call Iowa a good state yet 49 murders, 311 suicides have already taken place this year.

Limestone may be applied to the soil at any time of the year, though during the fall is the best.

HANCOCK COUNTY TRANSFERS IN REAL ESTATE

Deals Past Week Of December To December 24

Edmond Turner to Alice C. Mead. W. D., date 12-18-25, $1.00, lot 5 Andersons add. Britt.

B. C. Harris to Lucy J. Harris. W. D., date 12-21-25, $1.00, lots 6-8 block 2 Sapps add Corwith.

Augusta Johnson et al to Joseph Kudje, Jr. W. D., date 12-21-25, $12,000.00 E½ of NW¼ 7-94-24.

Leslie E. Dawson wf. to Wm. Dawson. W. D., date 1-2-23, $500.00, lot 2 blk. 5 & S½ lot 6 blk 5, Stilsons add Corwith.

M. S. Burgitt to Commercial State Bk. Britt. Q. C. D., date 1-26-1916 $150.00 lots 3-4 blk. 8 Britt.

C. W. Erwin wf. to Commercial State Bk. Britt. Q. C. D., date 3-9-25 $1.00, N½ 7-95-25

C. W. Erwin wf. to Commercial State Bank Britt. Q. C. D., date 3-9-25, $1.00. SW¼ 23 and SW¼ 24-95-25.

E. T. Miles wf. to R. S. Cox. Q. C. D., date 3-3-25, $1.00, NE¼ & N½ SE¼ 12-94-25.

MORE KLEMME LOCALS

There will be a basket ball game tonight, Thursday, Dec. 31st, at the high school gym between the Klemme High School Boys team and the Klemme Alumni Boys team. No admission will be charged. Come out and see the fun TONIGHT!

About the largest stock shipment of the season went out of the Klemme yards Saturday night. There were fourteen car loads of live stock shipped to Chicago, of which only 7½ car loads were hogs. This shipment represents a fortune of about $20,000.00 in round numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman entertaiend for Christmas the following: Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus and two sons, and Mrs. Mary Waterman of this city; Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Mitchell of Swea City and Mrs. Mabel Cullinan of Belmond.

Mr. Arthur Kluckhohn and Merle of Garner, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kluckhohn and daughter, of West Union, were entertained at the Rev. A. W. Gauger home Sunday for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grange and Dorance spent Christmas vis[illegible] the White home at Esther[illegible] urday and Sunday they v[illegible] tives at Ruthven, returni[illegible] me Monday morning, via tra[illegible] drove up but had to leave their [illegible] on acount of blocked road[illegible]

Mrs. Martha Ludeke and her children and their families had a covered dish dinner Christmas Day at the Elmer Ludeke home. The delicious dinner was very much enjoyed. The afternoon was spent in a social way.

Elmer Ax, who is attending college at Drake University, is spending a two week's vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ax.

Irven Ax and John Newberger were home for Christmas. They are enrolled in the Hamilton University at Mason City.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Liebendorfer and son, Robert, of Mason City, came Thursday evening to spend Christmas day at the R. A. Jorgenson home. Mr. and Mrs. John Jorgenson and son, of Winner, South Dakota, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Jorgenson of Garner, and Dr. Zinn, of this place, were also entertained at the Editor's home Christmas day.

YOU'RE FIRED!

Mistress: "Have you polished my husband's watch?"

New Maid: "No, ma'am, I looked high and low, but I can't find no brass polish."

DESTROYERS CARRY MARINES TO CHINA

Eight U. S. Warships Leave Manila—General Kuo and Wife Slain.

Manila.—Eight American destroyers of the Forty-third division, the Preble, Sicard, Preston, Puritt, John D. Ford, Phillsbury, Perry and Stewart, left Manila for China, carrying marines.

Upon arrival in Chinese waters the destroyers will be sent to Tsing-tao, Chefoo, Shanghai, Hongkong and Taku Bar.

Washington.—Departure of marines from Manila for China was viewed by high marine corps officers here as a routine movement. Transfers, they said, have been expected for some time and, in the absence of any official advices regarding the activities at Manila, they saw no reason to link the movement particularly with developments in the Chinese civil strife.

Tokyo.—A special dispatch to the Asahi from Mukden says General Kuo Sung-Ling, who fled after his army was defeated by that of Marshal Chank Tso-Lin, and his wife were captured while hiding in a cellar and that the captors cut off Kuo's legs and his wife's arms and then shot and killed them both. Afterward Kuo and his wife were decapitated. Marshal Chank ordered their heads placed on the grave of one of his favorite generals, who had been executed by Kuo.

Miners Willing to Meet Operators to Talk Peace

Scranton.—New prospects of peace in the anthracite coal fields appeared when John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, notified Mayor Durkan of Scranton that the miners are willing to meet the operators to discuss any peace plan which may be offered.

It is believed that a conference will be called soon, probably in Scranton. On the receipt of Lewis' telegram Mayor Durkan dispatched a letter to the coal operators. The mayor also announced he had talked by telephone with Governor Pinchot.

The operators, headed by W. W. Inglis, chairman of the scale committee, stated recently that they were ready to meet the miners to negotiate for a settlement, providing only that the conferences were left free to discuss any plan for settlement.

Chicago Daily News Sold to Group of Capitalists

Chicago.—The Chicago Daily News was sold by the Illinois Merchants Trust company, executor of the will of Victor F. Lawson, to Walter A. Strong and a group of associates. Mr. Strong was business manager of this newspaper at the time of Mr. Lawson's death and has been connected with the Daily News for twenty years. In the new ownership control will rest with Mr. Strong and others of the Daily News organization, so that the change will mean continuance of the policies and ideals of the paper's founders.

The sale was officially announced by John J. Mitchell, president of the trust company.

The price paid to the bank is believed to be in the neighborhood of $14,000,000.

Red Grange Leads Team to Victory in Florida

Miami, Fla.—With only two or three flashes of his campus brilliance to enliven an otherwise dull and listless game, Red Grange led his Chicago Bears to a 7 to 0 victory over Tim Callahan's Collegiate All-Star eleven in their game at Coral Gables.

The lone score came in the second period as the Illini flash thrilled the crowd of 8,000 when he carried the ball for the first time for a spectacular end run from the middle of the field to the Collegiates' 30-yard line. On the following play, a pass, J. Sternaman to Goebel, put the ball on the 3-yard line. On the next two plays Grange carried the ball over. J. Sternaman kicked goal.

Randolph Wins 50-Mile Auto Race at Douglas

Douglas, Ariz.—Jimmy Randolph of this city won the Douglas 50-mile automobile race. His time was 41:34 2-5. John Lee of Bisbee finished second, less than half a lap behind Randolph. W. R. Harper of Douglas was third; Harry Milburn of Houston, Texas, fourth, and George Souders of Austin, Texas, fifth.

Burns Harding Papers

Washington.—The late Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, widow of President Harding, burned all the papers in her possession shortly after President Harding's death, the manuscript division of the Library of Congress has learned, in its effort to round out the Harding collection.

Lynch Goes to Gophers

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Minneapolis Journal says that Edward B. Lynch, end coach of the Dartmouth university eleven, champion in the East this season, will become end coach at Minnesota next fall.

Fire Destroys Sugar Plant

Spanish Fork, Utah.—Fire destroyed the warhouse of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, causing a loss of $800,000. The loss represents the 1925 output of the plant.

CLUB SECRETARY

An approved portrait of Mrs. Caraway, wife of Senator T. H. Caraway of Arkansas, who has been elected recording secretary of the Congressional club, composed of women in official life in Washington.

10 KILLED IN AUTO CRASHES WITH TRAINS

Five Members of a Nebraska Family Die on Crossing.

Wisner, Neb.—Fred von Seggern, his wife, their son Gustave, seventeen, and their daughters, Louisa, eighteen, and Anna, twenty, were killed when a Chicago and Northwestern train hit their auto on the Butterfield crossing near here. Another son, Fred, Jr., was probably fatally injured. The family was on the way to pay a visit to relatives.

Scottsburg, Ind.—Three hunters are dead here, the result of an interurban train striking their auto soon after they had started on a hunting party here. The dead are John McWilliams, twenty-one; Earl Burch, twelve, and Ward Burch, twenty-six.

Columbus, Ohio.—Hurrying to reach the homes of relatives for dinner, Mrs. Martha Brown and her daughter, Esther, of Columbus, were killed east of the city when a traction car struck their auto which had skidded across the tracks. Another daughter, Eva, was probably fatally injured.

Visalia, Cal.—Vernon Bishop of Fresno and his brother Lloyd of Los Angeles, were killed when the auto in which they were riding leaped a 15-foot ditch and crashed into a tree.

7 Scientists Get Medals From Geographic Society

New York.—Announcement of the seven scientists to receive medals from the American Geographic society was made by Isaiah Bowman, director of the society.

The three gold Cullum medals were given to Harvey S. Hayes of the navy research department at Philadelphia; Pedro Sanchez, distinguished Mexican geographer, and Lucien Gallois of the University of Paris.

Hayes was rewarded for supplying science with a new instrument for measuring the ocean floor.

Sanchez conductetd a series of geodetic measurements and topographical surveys in Mexico.

Gallois made "notable contributions to the history of geography" and his interpretation of the spirit of science.

The David Livingston Centenary medal was given to Luis Riso Patron of Chile and to Erich von Drygalski of the University of Munich.

The Charles P. Daly medal has been awarded to Capt. Robert R. Bartlett of New York and to Brig. Gen. David L. Brainerd of Washington.

Amy Lee, Famous Actress of Generation Ago, Dies

Philadelphia, Pa.—Amy Lee, famous actress of a generation ago, died after a brief illness. She was sixty-three years old. Amy Lee was one of the last actresses to start in what was known as a "heavy soubrette," a part that was a fixture in old-time melodrama. She was known from coast to coast for her work in such plays as "Fogg's Ferry" and "Pawn Ticket No. 210." Ill health forced her to retire from the stage 20 years ago.

More Rubber Workers

Singapore.—In the five months ending October 31, 30,000 more workers have arrived than have departed and the labor supply problem for rubber plantations is greatly relieved. It is estimated that 75,000 workers will be added in 1926.

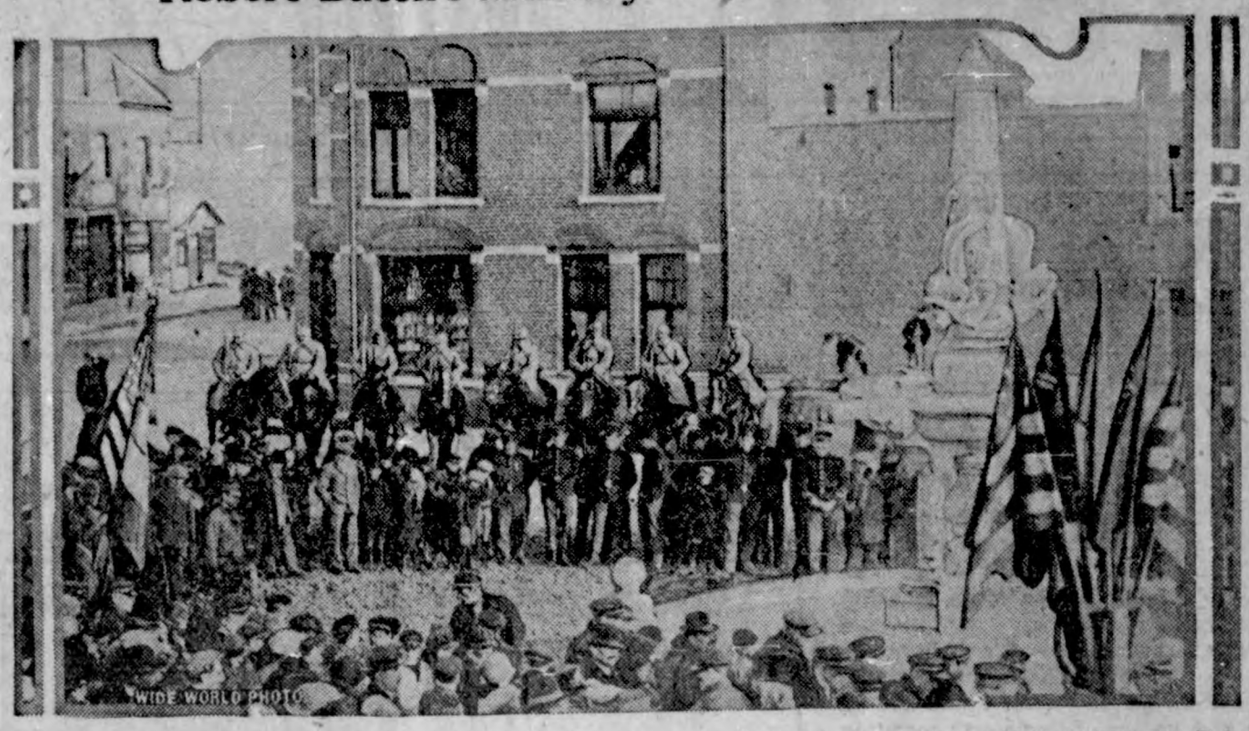
Five Drown at Eureka, Cal.

Eureka, Cal.—Five persons were drowned here. Edwin Morrison, son of a Methodist minister, and Dr. Clarence Graham were drowned trying to save another man. Three children were drowned in a slough.

10 Die, 20 Hurt, in Wreck

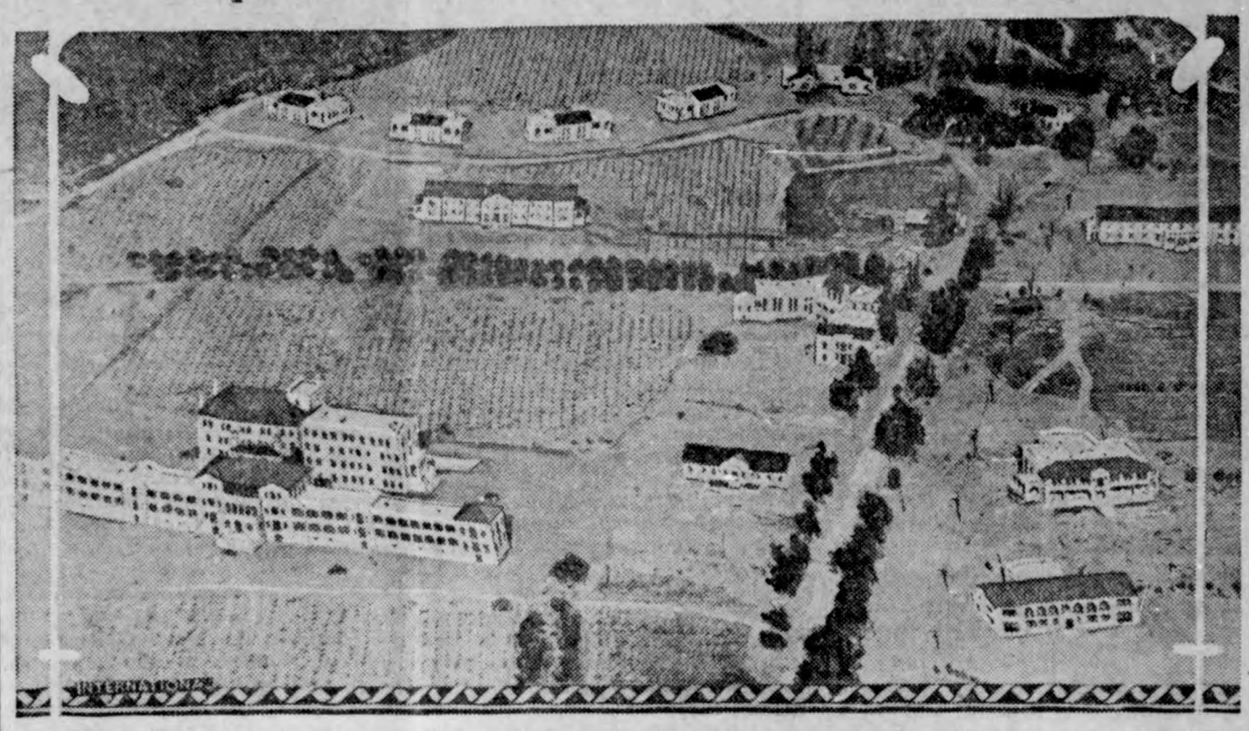
Bucharest.—A train with homeward-bound passengers crashed into a freight train at Arad, near here. Ten were killed and twenty seriously injured.

Robert Bacon's Memory Is Honored in France



Ambassador Herrick unveiling a fountain erected at La Basse, France, to the memory of his predecessor, Robert Bacon. Premier Briand and M. Jules Jusserand took part in the ceremony.

Airplane View of the San Fernando Hospital

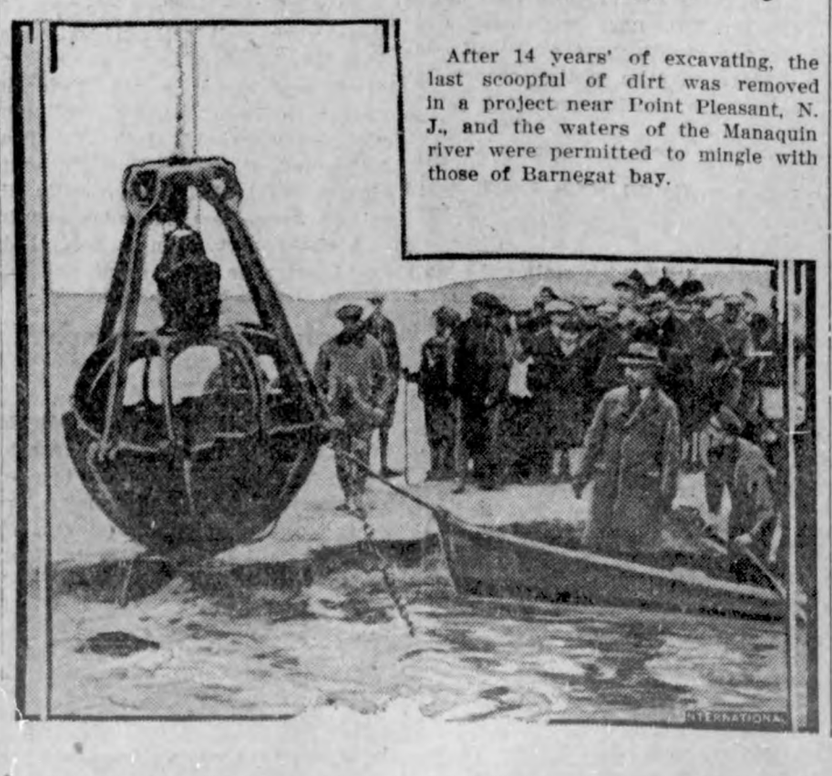


Airplane view of the buildings and grounds of the United States government hospital under construction at San Fernando, Cal. The structure in the right middle foregrou nd was wrecked recently by an explosion.

Opponents, but Best of Friends

Senator William E. Borah (left), leader of the fight against the World court, and Senator Claude Swanson of Virginia (right), who introduced the resolution which would make the United States a party to the court, remain the best of friends despite the fact that they are bitter opponents on the court issue.

Manaquin River Joins Barnegat Bay



After 14 years' of excavating, the last scoopful of dirt was removed in a project near Point Pleasant, N. J., and the waters of the Manaquin river were permitted to mingle with those of Barnegat bay.

RICHES FOR KINDNESS

Kind deeds performed 18 years ago have brought an estate estimated at more than $10,000 to Elba Drew, thirty-five-year-old laborer of Kansas City, Mo. Drew, when a boy, took care of F. E. Forester of Goldfield, Nev., when the latter, suffering from rheumatism, went to Excelsior Springs, a health resort near Kansas City, for treatment. Forester then was in meager circumstances. Drew carried meals and mineral water to Forester's cottage for four weeks without pay. The Forester estate which is left to Drew is said to consist of mining properties and farm land.

ACCUSED MAYOR

Mayor E. J. Brown of Seattle, Wash., now serving his second term of office, who faces impeachment charges brought by the city council as the result of sensational revelations of night life in Seattle.

JOHN LOONEY GUILTY GIVEN 14-YEAR TER

Rock Island Editor Convic of Murder of Saloon Keeper.

Galesburg, Ill.—John P. Looney, mer newspaper editor of Rock Isla was found guilty of the murder of W liam Gabel, Rock Island saloon keep and sentenced to serve fourteen ye in the penitentiary by a jury he Six ballots were taken in the six ho that the jury deliberated. At all th a majority were in favor of a verd of guilty, a count of the ballots sho

While the verdict was being re and immediately afterward Looney unmoved. But when the spectat had left the courtroom he burst i choking sobs. His daughter, Mrs. sula Hamblin, wept the entire ti The verdict came as a shock to defense, as they had expected an quittal after waiving their final ar ments.

Attorney I. R. Wasson of Peoria p sented a motion for a new trial a the court set January 8 for a hear on the motion. If a new trial is granted an appeal will be taken to Supreme court, Attorney Wasson sa Sensational testimony regarding v conditions in Rock Island was int duced by the state to prove a mot for the slaying of Gabel. The pro cution contended Gabel was killed cause he turned over to federal o cers testimony and evidence in form of canceled checks that conne ed Looney with the vice ring a threatened exposure of his whole derworld graft system.

No attempt was made to prove Lo ney actually fired the shots, the sta contending that as an accessory to t crime he was equally guilty with t actual slayer.

Newport Society Woman Dies From Auto Injuri

Detroit, Mich.—Mrs. Robert Grosv nor of New York and Newport, the fo mer Miss Aerielle Frost of Chicag died at Grosse Pointe, a suburb of D troit, of injuries suffered in an aut mobile accident.

Mrs. Grosvenor, thirty-one, was widow. She had been visiting a siste Mrs. Joseph H. Fraser of Gross Pointe. A brother, Albert C. Fros Jr., also was injured when their aut mobile skidded and turned over.

Mrs. Grosvenor was married in Ma 1918. She was the daughter of Albe C. Frost, Chicago capitalist.

In 1922 Mrs. Grosvenor suffered critical injury to the spine when s was thrown from a runaway horse a Newport.

Pure Milk Law Is Passed by Chicago City Counci

Chicago.—The city council passed b a unanimous vote the ordinance de signed to insure tuberculosis-free mil to Chicago by requiring that ever farmer who ships milk to the cit must have a certificate from a count or federal veterinarian certifying th condition of his herd.

The ordinance becomes effectiv April 1.

Dr. J. J. Lintner, federal inspecto in charge of tuberculosis eradicatio among cattle in Illinois, ordered hi agents to discontinue work. His ac tion, he explained, was a result of th notice by the state it would no longe be obligated financially for the tests.

20,200,000 Automobiles Registered During 1925

New York.—Figures made public here reveal that more than 20,200,00 motor vehicles were registered in thi country in 1925, an increase of 2,132, 758 in a year. Of the total registered 17,658,491 were passenger cars. Mor than 1,000,000 motor vehicles were scrapped in the country this year.

There are 1,400,000 vehicles in use in Ohio, 1,357,000 in Pennsylvania, and 1,266,000 in Illinois. All the other states are below the 1,000,000 mark.

Fined $25,000 on Charge of Violating Ship Laws

Boston.—A fine of $25,000 has been imposed on the Lamport and Holt line for transporting 500 members of the Philadelphia Elks to Boston in violation of coastwise shipping laws. The Elks were landed here during a convention a year and a half ago.

Col. Boyce W. Thompson Ill

New York.—Illness has forced Col. William Boyce Thompson, copper magnate, to cancel a proposed visit to South African mines, his New York office was informed. Colonel Thompson is in London.

U. S.-British Claims Settled

Washington.—With all the claims before it disposed of, the British-American arbitration tribunal on claims has adjourned, the State department announced.

Lady Curzon to Wed

Paris.—Official announcement of the engagement of Lady Curzon to Lord Revelstoke is confidently expected by their intimate friends here to appear in the London Morning Post early in January.

Mrs. Harriman, Author, Dies

Hollywood, Cal.—Mrs. Alice Harriman, magazine writer and the author of books of fiction and verse, died of pneumonia at her home here at the age of sixty-four years.

Arrival of the New Year

New Years, 1926

By EDWARD RETICKER
in CHICAGO AMERICAN

NEW YEAR'S,
And so we close this book to start anew.'
No sighs,
Nor cast behind a look—
The Book is You.

Shut it up and start again,
And know each day's account
Records the tiniest amount
By which we grow as men.

Mind not the blots. The stain
Fades with the lesson learned.
Our souls are something earned
Through sorrow, grief and pain.

Record the smiles, the Song
Of Life we know as Love
That lifts our course above
The paths of human wrong.

Record it All, and know
No Fate shall hold the pen.
We are not pawns, but men,
And choose the ways we go.

New Year's
Again must close the book
As Time rolls by God keep
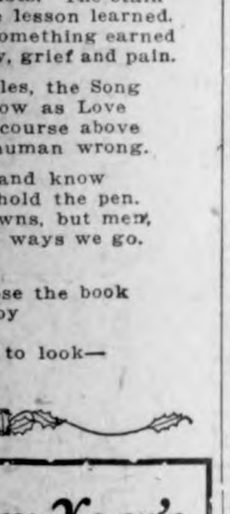
Me unashamed to look—
The Book is I.

New Year's Complications

By Eleanor E. King

CRISP, cold and snowy, it conformed admirably with prescribed holiday weather. The wind which blew in Helen's window was a relief from the hot, furnace-heated air of the bedroom. Perhaps the evening's excitement had been too great. She wondered. At any rate it was certainly late enough to go to sleep, but instead she lived over the entire proceedings of the New Year's Eve party which she had attended. The heat of the room was stifling. Helen felt she would smother. She called, but the cry was scarcely audible. The loud snoring in the next room informed Helen that her mother had not heard the desperate call.



After making such an ado over the New Year, welcoming it so heartily, so profusely, was this the way it was going to serve her? On second thought, however, if she had to some way, she concluded that this method would be no worse than any other. Yet, how disgusting to smother to death. Thus reasoning away the hysteria, she relaxed, and as she sank down into the pillow, she continued to go down, down hundreds of feet through endless space. With clenched hands and set teeth she realized that the expected ending had not been as simple as she had anticipated.

Down, down; some water came into sight. A bridge now came into view; a huge span over enormous falls. It was a rushing, tumbling torrent of bluish-green, sparkling water. She tried to hold herself back, to break the fall. When Helen landed, to her surprise, she found herself in a snow bank instead of water. She beheld huge snow banks and little snow banks everywhere. Looking to her right she saw the old grammar school she had attended when a little girl. Forgetting her twenty-odd years accumulated since that time, Helen began climbing up one mound, down and up another. How wonderful the snow was! How soft, how tiring, but what fun.

Going between the main school building and the wing, she came to the slide on the school hill. Looking down, she noticed she had skiis on, just like olden times. To her delight she went skimming through the air like a bird. As she went the hill rolled out before her like so much dough under the weight of the rolling pin. Around turns and down, every minute gaining more speed, until she wondered how all this accumulated force would avenge itself.

"Helen, Helen, happy New Year!"

Helen looked around in her hasty flight. Someone was calling very softly, but she could not see the person. Again and again came the call. It was a haunting sound more like an echo, yet of a very familiar voice. Helen waved as she said to herself, "I can't find you, but I can at least be courteous." She was coming to an abrupt curb. "Perhaps if I sit down and slide that will slow me down some." She found she could not get down to the ground fast enough.

Again she heard the call, now somewhat louder. She was sitting up, rubbing her eyes. "I can sit up, mother. My legs will work now, and my arms."

Her mother looked at her curiously. "Is this the way the New Year affects you? First you wave your hand frantically, then you mumble some meaningless words. Just what does it all mean?"

Helen laughed. "It wasn't an ending at all, was it? It was a beginning. The beginning of a fine new year."

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

New Year's Eve

By Susan Marr Spaulding

ANGEL of the parting year,
Winging back to heaven thy flight,
Sad the burden thou must bear,
From the darkness into light;
Burden of my wasted days,
Fragments of my broken hours,
Budding promises that grew
Never into fruit or flowers.

Happiness I might have won,
Worthy deeds I might have wrought,
Wrongs I hate, but did not shun,
Good I crave, but never sought;
All my proud and lofty aims,
Withered now to vain regret—
Feeble, foolish, as the will
To no noble purpose set.

Take them all, my griefs, my joys,
Lay them at the Father's feet;
He will search if yet there be
'Mid the chaff some grain of wheat.
He will fan my faint resolves
To a purer flame and clear.
Bear to heaven my heart's desire,
Angel of the parting year!

A NEW YEAR PROMISE

by Frank Herbert Sweet

THEY sat across the table from each other, the father's lined face was impassive, the boy's openly defiant.

"Parting of the ways for us, of course, Dad," said the youth, flippantly. "Question is, how much loot do I take along?"

The man across the table did not speak. He was looking toward his son.

"This seance was called for more New Year resolutions, naturally," went on the youth, "but the first of January don't mean a thing to me."

Still the weary, far-away gaze.

"Now, see here, Dad," angrily, "spit it out! Am I going to be furnished with any ballast or not? Remember, a lot of the money was mother's, and she—"

He stopped abruptly, his lips suddenly trembling. "No, no, father, I don't mean that. Let's not bring mother into it. But you have so much you can spare some, especially when you shanghaied my best friend, after despoiling him. And I may as well tell you," defiantly, "that Sid Kyler writes me of the wonderful chances in Chile, and for me to join him there."

His father seemed to bring his thoughts back with an effort.

"Beg pardon, Robert," he apologized. "I was thinking of your mother. She—left us so recently that I can't seem to adjust myself to the loss. And New Year's is as much a day of business accounting and readjusting as of making new resolutions."

Robert's face began to clear.

"You are going to let me have something, then?'

"As you know," his father went on, "much of the money expansion here came from your mother. I had only a little business of my own in California. We—had our honeymoon there, and—Robert, I plan to go back and spend the rest of my days where I was happiest. So this New Year's day seems a fitting time for me to make everything over to you."

"And a little warning, son. It may hurt, but is necessary for your safety. No one ever despoiled Sid Kyler of anything. He spent his father's fortune in debauchery, secretly. I gave him a position of trust for your sake, and he abstracted a large sum. I might have saved him, but he had stolen from others and had to flee. You should know him now, or he will bleed you long as there is a drop of blood left."

"But how—how could I—"

"Think, Robert," significantly.

Five minutes, then suddenly a great light came to the young man. He threw himself upon his knees beside his father.

"I see it. I—I believed everything Sid Kyler and his kind told me, against what you said, and we drifted apart. But listen now, Dad. On this New Year day I promise to carry on the business as you and mother would have me do. But, Dad, won't you stay and help, or advise me?"

Some of the lines left his father's face. His eyes lighted.

"If you wish it, son. I think your mother would like it that way."

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

HILLCREST ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

By Marion R. Reagan

NEW YEAR'S EVE brought with it special problems for Mrs. Thorpe. She had been separated from her husband for over six months. In the meantime, however, she was in rather an awkward position socially. Hostesses never knew whether to treat her as a married or an unmarried woman. Besides, she was never sure that matters wouldn't be further complicated by meeting Jack Thorpe, her erstwhile husband, at one of the parties.

Helen had received six invitations to New Year's eve parties, but decided to decline them all.

The Thorpes had had a little house on a quiet road in Surrey, and as the holiday season advanced, Helen began to long more and more for the comfortable fireside and the peace of the little red house. Forthwith she packed her things and left word that she would not return to London until after New Year's.

Jack Thorpe opened the last of a pile of letters on his desk. A great many were invitations to holiday parties.

"Dash it," said Thorpe, "I'm sick of all this tiresome business. I'd like to get off a thousand miles from everyone. I have it! Hillcrest. There will be no one there!"

And that night he packed his bag and left word with his valet that he would be alone at his old home in Surrey, if anything important should turn up.

He sank back in the comfortable cushions of his coach, happy with the prospects of spending three whole days alone in the little old red house.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed when he opened the door. "This looks like old times! Who the devil's been in here?" Everything was clean and in order. Then he noticed there were flowers on the table—chrysanthemums—Helen's favorites! Could it be—good Lord!—was Helen in the house? He was about to leave when a frightened voice called from the kitchen, "Who's there?" And before anyone could answer, the door opened and Helen, in a large white apron stood, wide-eyed, staring at her husband.

"Jack Thorpe! How dare you come here?" she asked, when her surprise had ebbed sufficiently to allow her to speak.

"Don't trouble," Jack interrupted. "I'm going immediately. You don't suppose I came here to see you, do you? You don't suppose that if I had any idea you were within five miles of this place, I'd have bothered to come?"

"Jack Thorpe, you beast."

Another of their old-fashioned quarrels followed, which was all the more heated since they were both very much in love, but each felt a tremendous grievance against the other. Soon Helen was in tears. Jack never could stand to see her in tears,

"Here, take these," he said, and handed her the smelling salts. She pushed them aside, and their hands met. Jack looked up at her wistfully. Why in heaven did she have to go and cry? She was altogether disarming in tears.

"I'm a dog. Helen, an out-and-out beast, and I loathe myself for saying such things. I've treated you miserably. Lord, Lord, if I ever could do anything to make it up to you! But it's too late, of course, it's too late." His voice betrayed all the heart-breaking remorse he had stored up in the six months of their separation. Helen put her hand tenderly on Jack's shoulder.

"Don't talk like that, Jack, please don't. I've been such a miserable cat to you!"

That evening, New Year's eve, was the happiest the Thorpes had spent since the days of their courtship.

"Thank goodness for a New Year," said Helen. "I want to put the old one behind me and forget every day of it, and the new one"—her face brightened—"the new one, Jack, I'm going to dedicate to happiness and spend every minute of it trying to be the most perfect wife in the world."

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

AUXILIARY LEADER IS GOOD MANAGER

She had learned how to "run things," in the good old homely phrase of the ranch and farm, and how to "keep them running." That was why the American Legion Auxiliary put Mrs. Eliza London Shepard in charge of the destinies of its 6,000 units and more than 200,000 members when the great battle of the ballots was on at the national convention at Omaha.

For if there was any one thing which Mrs. Shepard had learned better than any other, it was precisely that—to "run things." As business manager and buffer par excellence between her younger author brother, Jack London, and the outside world with all its distractions and worries, Mrs. Shepard had had long and varied experience in that most important function.

While Jack was writing strong, virile tales without number, it was Mrs. Shepard who stood on guard always to see that none of his restless energy was turned aside from its purpose. By her adroit management it was confined to the one purpose of the writer. All the intricate problems of managing a ranch with their consequent worries and interruptions to her brother's genius were carefully fended from him by this ever-watchful, ever-capable sister, the new national president of the Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Eliza London Shepard.

In the "Valley of the Moon" at Glen Ellen, Cal., scene of London's well-known novel of that name, is Mrs. Shepard's ranch home. There she has lived with Mrs. Charmian Kittridge London, her brother's widow, and managed the London ranch since her brother's death. A lawyer by profession, Mrs. Shepard has experienced none of that sense of being overwhelmed in technicalities of laws and rates and taxes which is so often the lot of women who own and manage property.

In the midst of these activities, Mrs. Shepard has found time to take an energetic part in the real work of women's patriotic organizations. She is a past department president of the California department of the Legion Auxiliary and a past national executive committeewoman. She has been a member of the Women's Relief Corps for 35 years. She was secretary of this auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic for two terms, and was also department president. Her father and her husband were both soldiers in the Civil war and members of the same post of the Grand Army. Her son served in the World war.

Two Experienced Men Head War Department

The War department of the United States has two distinguished soldiers at its head. They are Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, D. S. C., and Assistant Secretary of War Hanford MacNider, D. S. C.

Both of these American Legionnaires recently appointed to their high positions by President Coolidge won the coveted Distinguished Service Cross in the mud and blood of the trenches.

Secretary Davis won his cross as a major with the Thirty-fifth division in France. Assistant Secretary MacNider won his cross while a major serving with the Second division at Chateau Thierry and the Argonne. He is also a chevalier of the Legion of Honor and has the Croix de Guerre.

The war record of both Davis and MacNider is impressive. With a background of National Guard service, both started their army life as buck privates, and emerged from the World war as lieutenant colonels, high rank won in the blaze of battle.

Both are Harvard graduates, Davis in the class of 1900 and MacNider in thte class of 1911.

Since the war these distinguished soldiers have kept in touch with their comrades through affiliation with the American Legion. MacNider was elected national commander of the Legion at Kansas City in 1921. Secretary Davis, whose home is in St. Louis, Mo., was instrumental in the formatinon of St. Louis Post No. 4 of the Legion in 1919. He has maintained a keen interest in the affairs of the Legion since its inception.

TWO MORE SICK WOMEN BENEFITED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Their Illness

Detroit, Mich.—"I have found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does me a lot of good. One day I saw your advertisement in the 'News' and told my husband I was going to try it. I had bearing-down feelings and was very weak. After the first bottle I began to feel better and I took six bottles. I feel like a new woman and have recommended it to others, and they say the same. I keep a bottle of it in the house all the time for sometimes I have a backache and I take the medicine and am all right."—Mrs. WM. KRAFT, 2838 Vinewood Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

Rockford, Illinois. — "I have had nervous break-downs many times, but not since I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was weak and run-down, but the Vegetable Compound has helped me and I feel better now. I recommend it to all women who need more strength." — Mrs. GUST. GREEN, 401 Lincoln Park Blvd, Rockford, Illinois.

Garfield Tea

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

Cuticura Soap

Pure and Wholesome
Keeps The Skin Clear

Soap, Ointment, Talcum sold everywhere.

An Indication

"Mrs. Babb was telling me today that Sam Soonover committed suicide last night by shooting hisself through the head with a revolver," related Mrs. Johnson, upon her return from a neighborhood call. "They had had company all day—four or five brothers-in-law, I understand, amongst the rest—and when they left after supper, promising to come again as soon as possible, Sam just grabbed up the pistol and shot hisself."

"That there's a hint of just about how much a feller can stand from brothers-in-law," replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "I don't blame him."—Kansas City Times.

Pin Money

"Your wife says she only asks for pin money."

"Yes, but the first pin she wanted had 12 diamonds in it!"—Judge.

Tasty-Cocoa ... —and Delicious Chocolate Cake

BAKER'S Cocoa and Chocolate

Delightful foods and beverages of high quality, pure and healthful.

Walter Baker & Co. Ltd.
Established 1780
Dorchester, Mass.
MONTREAL, CANADA
Booklet of Choice Recipes sent free.

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Green's August Flower
for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver
Relieves that feeling of having eaten unwisely. 30c and 90c bottles. AT ALL DRUGGISTS.

HAPPY NEW YEAR and with it

A Message of Thrift that will Set a New Mark in this Community for Value Giving

We, the undersigned business men and firms of Klemme, join in extending to everyone in this community our best wishes for a Happy, Prosperous New Year, and thanking you, one and all, for your loyal support and patronage during the past year. Klemme is your town as well as ours. Let's all pull together to make Klemme the best trading point in Northern Iowa. We resolve to do our part by co-operating with you in every possible way and we will appreciate your patronage and loyalty during 1926.

NORTHERN LUMBER COMPANY

GARNER AUTO COMPANY
Klemme, Iowa.

KLEMME CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY CO.

G. W. KLUCKHOHN & SONS

W. F. PAVEY

STILLE IMPLEMENT COMPANY

HENRY LEWIS

H. LAU SONS

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

C. A. BACHMAN, BARBER SHOP

FARMERS' LUMBER COMPANY

KLEMME SERVICE STATION
Wm. Kirkwood, Prop.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
Wm. Madsen, Agent

H. G. RUST, BARBER SHOP

SWIFT & COMPANY
Ash Kever, Operator

P. M. WILSON, PHARMACY

THE CRYSTAL CAFE
Conrad Quandt, Prop.

MASON CITY OIL & GREASE CO.
J. J. Poort, Agent

KOERNER TELEPHONE COMPANY

S. A. HARVEY, POOL HALL

DR. W. F. MISSMAN

KLEMME CO-OPERATIVE GRAIN CO.

C. A. LARSEN, MEAT MARKET

FRANK GRUETZMACHER

LLOYD LAU, DRAY LINE

DR. D. P. ANDERSON

E. F. JACOBS, HARDWARE

J. N. DAY'S CASH STORE

LESTER STILLE
Skelly Oil Company

WELLEMEYER DEPARTMENT STORE

ETCHEN AUTO CO.

HARRY GRAM, DRAY LINE

DR. GEO. ZINN

TIMES PRINT SHOP

It Will Pay You To Trade In KLEMME

Prudence's Daughter

By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.
WNU Service

CHAPTER IV—Continued

—12—

Jerrold laughed, but sobered quickly. If then it had not been financial need which brought this city youth to the Middle West—it was a matter far more serious. His heart sank within him. He thought of Prudence and her happiness in having Jerry with her.

"I'll call her up," he volunteered. And when he had his daughter on the wire, he said cheerfully:

"Oh, by the way, Jerry, I have a young man from New York here looking for a job—letter from you as a recommendation."

Jerrold waited. He waited until he realized that his daughter had nothing to say on the subject.

"Well, what shall I do with him? Shall I bring him up to the house?"

And then suddenly there came such a torrent of tumultuous words over the wire as caused Jerrold to gasp with dismay, while confusion and consternation spread over his kindly face Presently a sharp click on the wire informed him that the conversation was at an end. He hung up the receiver. There was a deepening anxiety in his face as he said:

"My daughter says— Do you want to know what my daughter says?"

"Very much."

"I am pained to report that my daughter says if I bring you near the house she'll shut the door on both of us, that you came here for a job and I am to give you a job, and the harder you have to work the better it will be for you, but that personally she hasn't the slightest interest in you or in what becomes of you, as long as you keep out of her sight."

"Well, I'll be d—d," said Duane, and could say no more.

"Both of us," corroborated Jerry's father gently.

This turn of affairs burdened Jerrold with the entire responsibility for the young man. He did not like it. He didn't know what to do with him. He wished Jerry might have been more communicative about her impulses before she yielded to them. He thought she might at least have discussed the affairs of the Harmer Motor company with its official head before she involved the establishment in foreign complications of such portentous magnitude.

"Do you like the Middle West?" he asked weakly, remembering his duties as host, although he felt very much as if he had suddenly become the troubled owner of a white elephant placed in his Christmas stocking by some misguided well-wisher.

"Never saw it," said Duane Allerton. And then, suddenly feeling that perhaps some slight explanation was due this plainly harassed father, he went on: "You see, Mr. Harmer, I tried to —well, flirt a little—with your daughter in New York. And she didn't like it."

"Oh, didn't she?" Jerrold was surprised. He shot a quick look at the young man. He was very good to look at, even to perturbed and troubled Jerrold. He was inclined to doubt the sincerity of his daughter's dislike.

"But she does flirt," Duane went on positively. "Everybody said so. And besides, I saw her myself. But she seemed to single me out for her resentment. For no good reason, as far as I could make out."

"Wait a minute. I'll call her up again and tell her she can't do these things." Jerrold spoke quite sternly. But when he got the number, it was Prudence's voice that answered. She said that Jerry had gone wildly away in the "Baby," and didn't know when she would come home, and if her father brought any strange young men around the house she'd never be home.

"See here," said Jerrold sharply, glad it was Prudence, with whom it was much easier to be stern than with imperturbable Jerry. "You should have told me about this."

Prudence professed her complete and absolute ignorance of it, at which her husband felt somewhat better. It was always a source of grievance to him when Prudence knew things first. He began to feel quite gratified because he had been selected for the brunt of the burden.

"Oh, it must have been a shock to you," he said sympathetically.

"Not a bit. I knew there was a man in it somewhere."

"How did you know that? Did she tell you—"

"She told me nothing. I knew by the way she looked."

"Well, what shall I do with him? I don't know what to do with him! I don't think he knows how to work—and he doesn't want to work anyhow. What shall I—"

"I don't know," said Prudence cleverly. "What do you think?"

When Prudence said that, both Jerrold and Jerry stepped warily, afraid of blundering. It was Prudence's way of getting herself out of a tight place. With those few words she could shift the entire responsibility for any matter in the cosmic universe and lay all consequential blame on other, stronger shoulders.

Jerrold hung up the receiver and faced the White Elephant grimly. The White Elephant, it must be admitted, seemed not in the least disturbed, rather pleased in fact, as though, like Prudence, he washed his hands of the entire affair and left himself to Jerrold's disposal.

And then like a rare flash of inspiration Jerrold saw a way out. He scribbled quickly on a piece of paper.

"I tell you what," he said triumphantly. "She's gone out in the car —Jerry, I mean. You go up to the house and see Prudence. She'll tell you what to do. It seems you are expected to take a position and go to work for me. Come in tomorrow if you think you can stand it, and we'll see what we can scare up. But the first thing for you to do is to go right up there as fast as you can and see Prudence."

Jerrold sent a boy from the shop to take him to the house in one of the cars, and Duane found himself standing on the wide veranda of the great white house, shadowy beneath great branching maples with leaves faintly turning to gold at the edges, before he realized that he had no idea under heaven as to whom he had come there to see.

"See Prudence," Jerrold had told him, with vast relief.

"In love like Prudence," Jerry had said on that memorable night in Carter Blake's kitchen.

"Good Lord!" he thought in trepidation. "Am I to blurt it out like that, 'Lead me to Prudence'?" For what or whomever she might be, whether sister, companion, or friend, he had no slightest idea.

In another instant he would have bolted for freedom from this embarrassing predicament, but the door opened in the face of his dismay, and Katie's sober placid feautres confronted him.

"Er-uh," he stammered nervously, and then he faced it bravely, with that winning smile which never yet had failed to blaze a trail for him. "It sounds rather a fool's errand, I know," he said pleasantly, "but Mr. Harmer sent me up and told me to see Prudence."

CHAPTER V

Jerry's Mother

Duane's plaintive announcement at the hospitable door of the Harmer home found echo in a soft peal of sympathetic laughter from within, and she came herself to receive him, Prudence, both hands outstretched in welcome.

"I'm Prudence," she said. "I am Jerry's mother. Come right in, won't you? It was just like my husband to send you to me in some such crazy fashion."

Duane felt a pleasant, curious quiet come over him as he looked at her. Prudence! Jerry had thought it was falling in love like—Prudence. Jerrold had sent him in triumph to—Prudence. This was Prudence.

In spite of the extreme slenderness of her figure, in spite of the delicate pallor of her creamy skin and the faint suggestion of silver in the soft brown hair, there was nothing of frailty about her, rather a sort of youthful, undying buoyancy. Duane loved the humorous droop of her sensitive lips, the humorous light of interest in her bright eyes.

Prudence laughed, holding his hand companionably in hers, as she drew him into the wide lovely room, where she motioned him lightly to an easy chair, and then tucked herself cozily into one corner of another, far too wide for her, leaning comfortably over the upholstered arm in his direction. She could have wept aloud over him, and yet she liked him. Prudence, with the rigid training of her Methodist ancestry, still stoutly affirmed that she never took a dislike to any human being, that she was positively without personal aversion. But when she liked, it was with a quick unerring instinct which had never betrayed her trust.

"You Go Up to the House and See Prudence."

She rejoiced that she felt this liking for the unfortunate young knight errant, who had come to the Middle West on such an absurd, boyish quest. Jerry might fool her father, might amaze and bewilder even one as skeptical as Duane, but Prudence saw through every little flaw in her armor, saw what lay beneath her stubborn resistance and her eager impulse, both springing as they did from the same emotion.

She found herself apologizing for her daughter. "You must really excuse Jerry if sometimes she seems a little self-willed, almost strong-headed, her father says. I can't imagine where she got so much backbone. I'm very easy about everything, and her father is wax in the hands of anyone who tries to wheedle him, but Jerry has a terrible mind once she gets it made up."

Duane found himself thinking less of Jerry than of Prudence, rather, thinking through Prudence to Jerry again. His impression of that lovely though willful young woman had to undergo a swift transformation now that he saw Prudence. She explained everything he had not understood before. He found her a rational accounting for the moods of a maddening maiden.

Prudence did not ask questions. She just talked, laughing with him, at New York, at Jerry, at the Middle West, and at his curious obedience to the caprice of her always capricious daughter.

"And you may have to go to work, too," she told him. "She seems quite to have set her heart on making you work. She used to scoff at the nobility of labor as applied to herself, but she seems to have no such scruples in regard to you. Perhaps she is going to ennoble you in spite of yourself. But possibly you will not mind. You do not look at all lazy."

"I've worked before—as you might say. Well, I never washed cars for a living, but perhaps I can if I must."

He asked Prudence if it surprised or disappointed her, when Jerry gave up her dreams of Art, her hope of becoming a painter.

"Not a bit," this amazing woman told him. "It didn't surprise me, and it certainly didn't disappoint me. I was glad of it. I knew all the time she couldn't paint."

"Then why did you send her—alone —to study, to—"

"I knew it, but she didn't. She had to find out somehow, didn't she?" And then she talked more of Jerry, of a Jerry he had felt might be in existence but had not known in person. "She may not be much of an artist," she said, "but she's a beautiful, wonderful daughter to Jerrold and me. We don't care whether she can paint or not, she's ours."

After a little, when he felt he could safely venture to intrude upon the intimately personal, he asked rather awkwardly:

"Would you mind telling me—how—you fell in love?"

Prudence blushed a little, laughed delightedly. "Oh, the silliest thing," she said apologetically. "Didn't Jerry tell you?"

And then she told him of that early morning on the lovely Iowa countryside, when she went coasting down a steep grade on a borrowed bicycle into disaster and wreckage at the bottom. When he sympathized, laughing, with the Prudence lying in the dust by the roadside, battered and crumpled and torn, with the ruins of the borrowed wheel about her, and on her conscience—

"Oh, don't be sorry," she pleaded gaily, joining his laughter, "for I opened my eyes and there stood over me—Jerrold—Jerry's father—and we looked at each other—"

Duane's lips were a rigid line. "Love at first sight!" he muttered grimly. "I might have known it."

Prudence nodded. "Yes, love at first sight," she repeated softly. "Don't you let anyone tell you there's no such thing. There is! At least there was in our day. Oh, well, perhaps it is not technically and scientifically down in the books as love at first sight. But there is that little pleased wakening up, that warm attraction—and if it stops, it is nothing. But if it goes on and on, it is love at first sight. Like ours! But perhaps things are different now, times are changed, and girls are very different."

Duane was looking past Prudence now, beyond her, to the heart of Jerry, her daughter, unchanged with the changing times. In that moment he knew with undoubting sureness why he had come to this remote and curious place in answer to the impulsive appeal of her letter. His eyes, on Prudence's face, saw not hers but Jerry's.

"I'm surprised she didn't tell you about it," Prudence was saying. "From the time she could talk, she has adored that bit of the family history. When she was a baby, and a little girl—yes, and until she was a pretty big one, she would always say she was going to fall in love like Prudence. She thought nothing else was really love! She used to tell perfect strangers, with the utmost frankness and assurance, that it would come to her like that—love—a sudden look, and knowing—" Prudence laughed tenderly. "She got over it, of course. When she was old enough to understand, she realized that it doesn't happen like that once in a thousand years, or more."

Duane said nothing. For once, Prudence was wrong. Jerry had not changed. All through her babyhood, and into her woman's estate, that had been the dominant hope and faith of her gay romantic heart. And he, with profane, half-drunken fingers, and hot half-drunken lips, had rent the veil from the beautiful illusion that had been her tenderest dream.

"I love Jerry," he said aloud to Prudence, in a very slow and sober voice. "Did you know it?"

"I—I rather thought so," said Prudence, with a little quivering of her sensitive lips. But she smiled immediately. "I—I don't mind a bit," she said bravely, in gentle apology for that betrayal of her lips.

CHAPTER VI

Jerry Calls for Help

Jerrold returned to his home that night in an unnaturally depressed and embittered frame of mind. Why should he, he demanded of Prudence in a stern voice, be saddled with a protege like that—as big as himself, and who by his own admission knew nothing of motor cars beyond the steering wheel. Prudence agreed with him that it was perfectly reprehensible on the part of their daughter, and she couldn't imagine what things were coming to with this new generation! She balanced herself on the edge of the bathtub while he was shaving, followed him meekly into the room they shared together and stood pathetically beside him at the dressing-table while he viciously jerked a fresh tie into place.

"It's the way you've raised her," he said in a tone that cleared himself of Jerry Stood Up, Looked Her Father Straight in the Face, Her Voice Was Very Gentle. "Why Can't I?" Was All She Said.

all moral responsibility for Jerry at least, however much Duane might rest upon his shoulders.

"I know it," Prudence agreed meekly.

And then she told her husband that she hoped he would be very tactful that night when Jerry came home, so that things might work themselves out to a neat conclusion without interference on his part.

"Tact? What do you mean tact?" he demanded.

"Tact—you know what tact is, don't you? It means, say nothing and believe everything you hear," she explained sweepingly. "It means, don't say a word to Jerry about the young man, don't so much as breathe his name—and if she mentions him of her own accord, believe everything she says even if you know she's making it up word for word as she goes along."

Jerrold, who had always found her counsel good, consented to follow the dictates of tact as she portrayed it in his dealing with Jerry. And so all during dinner they talked with passionate concentration of a thousand things that on this night interested them not in the least—of Jerry's houses and her struggles with labor problems, of Jerrold's business, and Prudence's innocent pursuits, of politics, wars and religion, but not one of the three raised a voice on the subject of Duane Allerton.

After dinner they sat down for a practice game of three-handed bridge, but when Prudence, playing spades, revoked twice in hot succession without a word of protest from her opponents, she put her cards on the table.

"You're not paying attention," she accused them. "How can you expect to teach me to play bridge unless you watch me? I trumped hearts twice, and here I have two hearts in my hand, and now I don't know what to do with them."

Jerry laughed. "Pretend they're trumps. Anything is fair if you can get away with it," she said indifferently.

And then her father, abandoning the admonitions of Prudence and the guidance of tact, turned on her in desperation.

"See here, Jerry, I'll stand for a lot —and heaven knows I've had to—but when it comes to bringing a strange young man out here from New York and dumping him down on me without warning, and washing your hands of him in cold blood—well, you can't do it."

Jerry stood up. She looked her father straight in the face, but her voice was very gentle. "Why can't I?" was all she said.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

France has 71 bull-fighting clubs.

GOOD ROADS

THROUGH ROADS AND FUTURE DEVELOPMENT

When the Lincoln highway was laid out across the continent 12 years ago, motor vehicle traffic was not a problem. Heavy through passenger traffic was then foreseen by but a few and interurban freight transportation was a dream.

But the founders of the Lincoln highway, with a vision of the present marvelous development of highway transportation, endeavored to set an example in the routing of the Lincoln highway by leading it around or near, instead of through large centers along the line.

This policy, far from meeting with the approval of the authorities or the business men of the communities near the projected route, raised a storm of disapproval.

Every community between New York and San Francisco near the line selected for the first transcontinental highway fought with avidity to have the route marked to follow through its main streets—through the heart of its downtown district.

In later years, as realinement on the route became possible and the original location was slightly revised here and there in the process of shortening, many communities originally incorporated on the route were by-passed, and in each instance the association's board was deluged with protestations, visited by committees and strongly censured when it held to its original policy of missing every community possible.

It is difficult to estimate to what extent the progress of improvement on the Lincoln highway has been delayed in some states through the antagonism or apathy developed in certain influential centers of population because the route did not exactly bisect the business communities of such centers and pass the doors of the business establishments.

It is interesting to note how the passage of years and the development of American highways and highway transport have changed the municipal attitude toward through-route construction and alinement. There is hardly a metropolitan center along the Lincoln highway now which is not making a strenuous effort to provide adequate by-passes for the tremendous volume of travel which it is now recognized should not be allowed to add to the growing congestion of busy business streets.

City planning commissioners everywhere are urging the opening and broadening of through arteries traversing the edges rather than the centers of metropolitan areas. American cities have had a tendency to centralize along a first main business street and later along a few such streets. Few of them are laid out with an eye toward decentralization of traffic and a great problem lies before American communities in taking steps now to take care of the still greater coming traffic.

Now is not too early to plan for the accommodation of the traffic of 1950. The development of American roads is just beginning to reach the point where the fullest use and efficiency of the motor vehicle can be realized. As our interurban roads are improved the problem of providing by-passes or adequate city avenues of traffic for the through transport which will develop in the future will become more and more pressing and its solution more and more expensive.

Steps taken now in the planning of the future development of American cities and with an eye on the provision of through transport arteries will pay big dividends to the next generation.

Mexico Building Roads

Construction work on three new highways, running from the City of Mexico to Puebla, to Laredo and to Chiapas, in Mexico, will begin this month. The highways commission has already awarded the construction contracts to a construction company of Chicago. Taxes of 500,000 pesos a month derived from gasoline and tobacco, will be used to pay for the new roads.

Good Road Hints

On bridges and steep grades where heavy continuous traffic is necessary, rubber has already proved itself not only as the most satisfactory but the most economical form of paving.

* * *

Completion of state highway systems with the continued support of the federal government was urged in a resolution adopted by the national convention of the American Federation of Labor at Atlantic City.

* * *

Oil is suggested for unpaved state roads, but putting concrete on them seems to give better satisfaction.

* * *

Lowest highway bids in Minnesota history received on about $1,000,000 of trunk route grading, graveling and paving, which was put under contract recently, caused J. T. Ellison, acting highway commissioner, to take further advantage of the low costs and stretch auto and gas tax funds with a call for bids on 92 miles of graveling for seven different sections and on two bridges.

Wit and Humor

NEED FOR SILENCE

The weary diner called the waiter to him and said: "It is generally considered improper to speak disrespectfully of one's elders?"

The waiter looked puzzled. "So they say, sir," he returned.

"Ah," said the diner, "then I must repress my feelings and be silent about this egg you have just brought me."

MOST EXPENSIVE PARTS

Friend—What parts of the country have you found to most expensive?

Discouraged Motorist—The automobile parts.

Cost of Conversation

We're often told that talk is cheap;
Yet much depends on whether Expense accounts don't get too deep
When statesmen talk together.

Starting With a Handicap

"That chap Grasper is a wonder," said Mr. Blenkinsop, speaking of the self-made plutocrat. "He started life literally without a penny in his pocket."

"Yes, I dare say, dear," murmured Mrs. B. sympathetically, "but then you started without even a pocket!"—Stray Stories.

Sorry for Thoughts

"Oh! Are you really a mind-reader?"

"Yes! I am."

"Then I hope you aren't offended. I didn't mean what I thought about you."

And She Did

He—Do you want to marry a one-eyed man?

She—No, why?

He—Then let me carry your umbrella.

He Was Reserved

Wife (referring to guest)—He's a most attractive man; is he married?

Husband—I don't know. He's a reserved chap—keeps all his troubles to himself.

That's True

Hammond—I can read my wife like a book.

Hallett—I'll bet you can't shut her up as easily.—Good Hardware.

Profit Without Honor

"Just put this in," said Bonner,
Who's a clever sort of gent:
"That a profit's without honor
If it's over 10 per cent."

Poor Results

"How's crops, Si?"

"Apples is small this year, with worm holes bigger'n your fist in 'em."

NOT HEAVY

"Brown was fined several hundred dollars for giving a girl the once over while on the street in his car."

"Pretty heavy penalty, don't you think?"

"Not for running a girl down, no."

Must Placate the Child

A well-known actor was playing to a crowded house, but was frequently interrupted by the squalling of a child in the gallery.

At last the noise grew so unbearable that the actor abandoned his lines and said, "Ladies and gentlemen, unless this play is stopped, the child cannot possibly go on!"

A Mean Quibbler

She (after throwing suitor over)—You lied to me, you mean thing! You told me he was financially embarrassed.

Miss Ryval—I did not lie. He is financially embarrassed—he has more money than he knows what to do with."

At Last

Lawyer—For the last time, I ask you for that three dollars.

Debtor—Thank heaven, that's over.

Community Building

Importance of Garden Must Be Recognized

Let us not forget that the original paradise was a garden and that ever since man and woman lost it they have been trying to get back to paradise! Why? Because instinctively they know that it contained all the elements of happiness: beautiful surroundings, quiet, peace, understanding, retirement from the dangers and trials of the world—a place all their own! The garden of Eden—paradise—is not visualized by any man or woman as a crowded park or busy countryside thoroughfare. It is a garden with just one man and one woman—one family in it! Where, may we not properly ask, is it but in our own dooryards? That whole glorious dream can be made a living reality if we but set our hands and hearts to it. But we can't rent our chessman at the pawnshop, if there is to be any security in our family lives. We must take care that the siren doesn't lure us out of the garden and close the gates behind us! —Better Homes and Gardens.

Seek to Make Every School Beauty Spot

The directors of the McPherson (Kan.) chamber of commerce have insugurated a campaign by which it is hoped to convert the desolate and bleak appearance of the average rural school grounds in the county into beauty spots. The directors have secured the services of Paul V. Baker, landscape gardener, who will furnish every school board of the county with a plan drawn especially for their particular school, and which can be installed at an approximate cost of $100. The directors are furnishing this service free to the boards.

The directors are also considering a plan whereby they hope to plant trees along the Santa Fe trail and the Meridian highway, reaching out five miles in every direction from the city. These trees are to be planted not more than fifty feet apart on both sides of the roads.

City Highway Problems

The greatest annoyance in cities today is that our highways, inherited from a horse-drawn age, are insufficient for our present needs. To rebuild an entire city to meet the requirements of such an epoch-making thing as the motor car is no small task, but it can be done. The approach to the problem must be a new one. The experience of the past avails nothing. The ideal to be sought is a direct route from the garage in the cellar of my house, with little control or traffic regulation, in any direction to the open country. If we can reach the country easily, the city becomes perfect. We live in comfort and gregariously, and yet have all the pleasures of rural life. The problem obviously requires a separation of classes of traffic, and the elimination of grade crossings of streets on trunk highways.—North American Review.

Paint Right

"Penny wise and pound foolish" is the man who thinks to save money by putting cheap paint and varnish in his house. The cost of application for poor paint and for good paint is identical. The only difference is that poor paint will have to be put on twice as often. You can figure it out for yourself. A new house of frame construction that would sell in the market at about $5,000 usually has about $50 worth of paint and varnish on it. Is it worth while to try and bring down the cost of the paint, which is about 1 per cent of the total cost of your home to save one-half of 1 per cent, and then have to do the painting over again in a year?

Lightning Rod Value

A lightning hazard is rapidly increasing from year to year with the extension of telegraph, telephone, lighting and power lines over the country. When a stroke of lightning occurs anywhere near such lines it causes, by induction, a sudden surge, or rush of current, which is likely not only to injure wires and insulators, but also to be carried into buildings, where it may damage costly electrical machinery and possibly cause fires. Buildings are protected by lightning rods, the value of which is fully proved by statistics.—New York World.

Schoolhouses

Crowded schoolhouses are never found in stagnant cities or communities. The crowded schools show community growth, but they are temporarily inconvenient. Better relieve the crowding rather than stop the growing.—Anniston Star.

Collectors' Hobbies

Eyeglasses, unless they are suited to your own sight, are singularly useless things, says a writer in John o' London's Weekly, yet these form the subject of several collections. The late queen of Denmark used to collect them.

Many people specialize in "black museums" on a small scale; relics of famous crimes, pieces of rope with which famous criminals have been executed, and the like. To some minds these possess a certain morbid interest.

BEADED GOWNS CONTINUE SWAY; OFF-THE-FACE BRIMS IN FAVOR

BEADED frocks continue to flash their glittering beauty across the path of fashion. Through loveliness of coloring and unique design these sheathlike dresses weighted with beads, rhinestones, pearls and paillettes continue to cast their enchantment over resplendent dance, dinner and other formal evening functions.

The most entrancing models are slips of daintiness whose sole purpose seems to be to serve as a background and lines of beauty through foldings, plaits, indentations and undulations which mark the modish upturning of their brims.

Many of the just-off-the-boat Paris hats are inclined to be medium or large and they have brims of taffeta or silk manipulated after the manner of those in the group herewith, the crowns being in many instances of straw.

This is to be a season of graceful or setting which shall accent the scintillating beauty and intricacies of the beaded design worked thereon.

An Entrancing Model.

Like stars on a summer-night sky do rhinestones express their sparkling way on many a satin or georgette slip. Sometimes the idea is elaborated with pearl and crystal-laden pointed tabs as in the picture herewith. This exquisite frock is typical of the season's beaded modes. It may be pale pink, mauve or rose, for all the pastel tints, also white, are fashionable. Bead fringe embellished this evening frock, for bead fringe is an outstanding item of fashion interest this season.

There is an extensive use of tiny silver or gold beads on the modern-designed evening frock. A very handsome conception covers an almond-green georgette background heavily with design developed in the diminutive gold beads. There is a festooning of gold fringe in tiers about the skirt. This straight-lined frock is worn over a costume slip of gold cloth.

Pale pink and white beaded gowns which bespeak simplicity in their general aspect, but which are really wonderfully constructed, are the preferred models. These are artistically all-over patterned with rhinestones and mother-of-pearl paillettes.

Perhaps no frock more eloquently bespeaks the elegance of evening mode than does the beaded kind.

Returned to fashion's favor are off-the-face brims. It will be seen from the models here pictured that the new shapes bespeak becomingness adjustable brims. Even the newer shaded felt gigolo shapes, with tall, curiously creased crowns which are so popular, have brims which may be pulled down or rolled up at a becoming angle.

Captions such as ruffian, sombrero and pirate as applied to advance fashionable millinery suggest that brims are taking on a somewhat reckless yet fascinating freedom of lines. Which fact, however, but bespeaks the exceeding grace and picturesqueness of hats for the immediate future.

A leading material employed in the making of midseason hats is bright-colored silk faille. Soft greens and rose tones find favor for town-wear millinery. There is a tremendous vogue for bois de rose and allied shades. Most charming with the fur coat is either a velours or faille hat in dull rose with a single large flower of match color reposing low on the brim to the right side.

Group of Stylish Hats.

An increasing vogue for velvet ribbon is registered in arriving models. The blending of colors in velvet ribbons is one of the ideas emphasized in a trimming way.

A great deal of importance is ascribed to the subject of belting ribbon. The narrow is used for trimming, the wide for making hats.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

Don't talk so much about your hardships. Conserve your energy and use it to plan, create and work. If you suffer keep still about it until you have succeeded and then probably you won't feel so much like talking about it.—Max.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

To serve a variety and at the same time maintain economy, is the aim of every thrifty housewife.

Combination Salad.—Take one cupful of chopped cabbage, one-half cupful each of diced pineapple and apple, shredded almonds and diced marshmallows. Mix the ingredients, sprinkle with salt, add boiled dressing, using pineapple juice and lemon instead of vinegar. Garnish with spoonfuls of whipped cream and almonds. Serve on lettuce.

Fruit Imperial.—Arrange on rounds of cake, halves of peaches. Cook together one-quarter of a cupful of water, one-half cupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour; when thick, add a tablespoonful of butter and one and one-half cupfuls of peach sirup; then add one-half cupful of raisins. Arrange the peaches on the cake and pour over the fruit sirup. Serve hot or cold.

Peppers Stuffed With Raisins.—Parboil six medium-sized peppers in salt water five minutes, after removing the tops, and seeds. Fill with two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one-half of the pepper tops, a few chopped walnut meats, a little minced ham, three-fourths of a cupful of raisins, salt and butter to taste. Moisten with soup, stock or water and bake, setting the peppers in gem pans in a little water. Bake one hour.

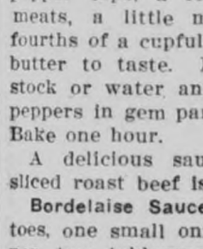
A delicious sauce to serve with sliced roast beef is:

Bordelaise Sauce.—Take two tomatoes, one small onion, one green pepper, two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, a clove, half a teaspoonful of salt, a salt spoonful of red pepper and a half cupful of water. Chop the vegetables, except tomatoes, add seasoning and simmer five minutes, rub through a sieve. Melt the butter, then add the tomatoes, and water. Simmer ten minutes, add another tablespoonful of butter. Serve hot.

Cheese Soup.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and add two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, cook until smooth and thick, add a quart of milk and boil five minutes. Add one tablespoonful of minced onion and two tablespoonfuls of minced parsley, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt and three-fourths of a cupful of grated snappy cheese. Serve at once as the cheese is melted. If a more nourishing soup is desired beat up one or two eggs and pour the hot soup very slowly over them, beating well.

A tablet of aspirin dropped into the water of a vase of flowers will keep them fresh much longer.

Foods and Diet.



It seems reasonable when thought is put upon it, that our food and health are closely related. An unvaried diet is often the cause of stomach trouble, so it is wise to have a variety of foods, not all at one meal, but varied during the menus of all the days of the week.

Green leaves such as lettuce, chard, spinach, watercress, cabbage and beet and turnip tops contain the valuable vitamines, without which we cannot grow or be healthy. The strictly vegetarian diet is not generally accepted as good. We need fresh milk, milk products, eggs and a moderate supply of meat and fish to have a perfectly healthy body. Too much meat is considered bad diet.

White bread, though called the staff of life, is lacking in vitamines, but does supply energy as do potatoes cooked in their jackets. Whole wheat bread, graham and cornmeal are all wholesome for breads and should be freely used.

Eggs cooked in the shell, using a pint of boiling water to an egg, closely covered and placed on the back of the range where the water will not cool, may be served, hard cooked in thirty minutes, yolks well done, dry and mealy, while the white is tender and delicious. For medium boiled remove at fifteen; for soft boiled six to eight minutes.

Sugar should not be used on fruits by those who suffer from rheumatism.

Professor McCullom of Johns Hopkins tells us that liver and kidneys are more nearly complete foods than lean meat of any kind, which is lacking in calcium, sodium, chlorine and the three types of vitamines.

Grated carrots served in various ways are especially recommended for toning up the blood. Use them with finely minced celery, a little chopped onion, a few minced nuts with a good portion of salad dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves at least twice a week. Vary with apple, green pepper, cabbage or with other vegetables. Raw carrots are richer in these food adjuncts than they are when cooked.

Nellie Maxwell

Small Maiden Sang Her Own Selection

Wilma's mother was surprised one Sunday recently to see her little girl, who was sitting several seats ahead of her in one of the churches of the city, singing with the congregation.

On the way home afterward the delighted mother said: "Why, Wilma, I noticed you sang all the hymns this morning. I did not know you knew them."

There was another surprise in store for her, however, when the little singer answered, very much pleased with herself, "Oh, I don't know what the rest of them were singing. I was singing, 'It Ain't Goin' Rain No More!'"

Don't Forget Cuticura Talcum

When adding to your toilet requisites. An exquisite face, skin, baby and dusting powder and perfume, rendering other perfumes superfluous. You may rely on it because one of the Cuticura Trio (Soap, Ointment and Talcum), 25c each everywhere.—Advertisement.

Continuous Charger

Lady Driver (at garage)—Do you charge batteries here?

Proprietor—Sure we do.

"Then put a new one in this car and charge it to my husband."—Judge.

"Delay," said the old Roman philosopher, Seneca, "is the greatest remedy for anger."

Riches have wings, but they won't carry you to heaven.

Sure Relief

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ and 75¢ Pkg's. Sold Everywhere

MANY SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE SICKLY

TRADE MARK DON'T ACCEPT ANY SUBSTITUTE

Mothers who value their own comfort and the welfare of their children, should never be without a box of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children for use throughout the season. They Break up Colds, Regulate the Bowels, Relieve Feverishness, Constipation, Teething Disorders, Headache and Stomach Troubles. Used by Mothers for over 30 years. These powders give satisfaction. All Drug Stores. Don't accept any substitute. Trial package sent Free. Address MOTHER GRAY CO., Le Roy, N. Y.

INSIST UPON KEMP'S BALSAM for that COUGH!

It Is Safer

Man's clothing may not be simple and hygienic as a woman's, but he feels safer.

Although a girl may know little of business, she always knows enough to consider sealed proposals.

Healthy, Happy Babies

The best way to keep baby in crowing, contented health is Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. This safe, pleasant, effective remedy regulates the bowels and quickly overcomes diarrhoea, colic, flatulency, constipation, and teething troubles.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

is best for baby. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Open formula on every label.

At all Druggists

Write for free booklet of letters from grateful mothers.

Anglo-American Drug Co. 215-217 Fulton St. New York

BLACKHEADS cannot be hidden. Get rid of them now by regular treatments with Resinol

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair 60c and $1.00 at Druggists. Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

General Taxidermy

Mounting of Birds, Animals, Game Heads, Fishes, etc. Making Up Rugs and Robes. Manufacturing and Tanning Furs. Price reasonable.

K. SCHWARZ

419 S. 13th St. Omaha, Neb.

FOR SALE—New, Rebuilt and Second Hand Steam Engines, threshers, tractors and saw mills. Write for catalog and prices. THE RUSSELL & CO., ST. JOSEPH, MO.

Farms Wanted by Cash Buyers

Describe fully; state lowest price.

E. A. St. Clair, 70 Stubbs, Kansas City, Kansas

C. C. C. QUALITY CHIX

NOW READY TO SHIP—Best Laying Varieties of heavy laying strains. Pure breeding and 100% live delivery guaranteed. Write for catalog and price list. C. C. C. Hatcheries, Box WN, Centerville, Iowa.

WANTED—Local Agents to sell old established line of Patent Medicines. Write for particulars. Koenig Medicine Company, 1045 N. Wells St., Chicago, Ill.

RUB YOUR EYES? Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1165 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

PATENTS Booklet free. Highest references. Best results. Promptness assured. WATSON E. COLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, 644 G Street, Washington, D. C.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 1--1926.

Sea-Bound Britain

No place in the British isles is more than 80 miles from the sea.

MONARCH Coffee and Cocoa

Quality for 70 Years

News of Klemme and Vicinity

A. D. Gimer and son, Harl, drove to Garner on business Tuesday.

R. A. Jorgenson was at Garner on business Tuesday afternoon.

Henry Buseman drove to Belmond on business yesterday afternoon.

Byrnes Missman is visiting at Belmond this week.

Louis Griffen and family spent Christmas day with Grandma Schlawin.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kirkwood were entertained at the Adriant Bielefeld home Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis were entertained at the Fred Krause home Christmas day to a turkey dinner.

A Cap cleaned free with each suit cleaned and pressed at the Modern Cleaners, Garner, Iowa. 1tc

A Cap cleaned free with each suit cleaned and pressed at the Modern Cleaners, Garner, Iowa. 1tc

Old Mr. Carter Helped by Simple Mixture

"After taking Adlerika I feel better than for years. At my age (60) it is ideal, so different from other medicines." (signed) W. W. Carter. Adlerika is a simple mixture of buck thorn bark, glycerine, etc., which relieves GAS in ten minutes and often brings surprising relief to the stomach, stops that full, bloated feeling. Empties out old waste-matter you never thought was in your system. Excellent for chronic constipation. Wilson Pharmacy. 1tc

Repairing
OF ALL KINDS

SHOES half soled, either sewed or tacked, new heels fitted. Tires and Tubes repaired. Bring in your light repair work of any kind.

Chris Blume 's
REPAIR SHOP

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

Mrs. R. W. Elder and son Clarence and daughter Reva, drove to Hampton Tuesday for a visit.

Sheriff E. P. Hanson, of Garner, was a busines caller in Klemme on Tuesday.

Dr. Missman and wife entertained the former's parents for Christmas dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nelson, Jr. entertained a number of relatives for Christmas dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Katter and children spent Christmas day at the Aug. Kater home at Garner.

Mrs. Lester Stille is enjoying a visit from her sister during the holidays.

J. J. Poort and family were entertained at the Lou Courshon home at Mason City Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Patet spent Christmas at Hayfield. Kenneth returned to Klemme with them.

Annabelle Carlson returned from Mason City Friday. She had been there for a tonsil operation.

William and Carlyle Gauger left Wednesday evening for Dows to spend several days visiting with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fuller and children spent Christmas at the home of Mrs. Fuller's sister at Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pavey entertained for Xmas, Benn Coobs and family and Verner Lewis and family, to a big dinner.

Mrs. Mary Waterman, Mabel Cullinan, Mrs. August Lau and daughter, Minnie, were entertained at the Fred Musfelt home Sunday.

Mrs. Sumner Trumbell is enjoying a visit from two of her sisters who came from Goodell yesterday morning.

The Misses Kathryn Williams, Agnes Wilson and Helen Parzybock, of Vinton, came Monday for a week's visit with Miss Gladys Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bachman entertained at a Christmas dinner their sons and families, Ed. and Clarence.

Mrs. John Gruetzmacher and Mrs. P. M. Griesemer went to Garner last Thursday to spend Chistmas with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Griesemer. They returned to Klemme Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Blank of Estherville came the first of the week, being called here by the death of Mr. Blank's sister, Mrs. Wm. Lan, of Garner.

Sam Harvey and family moved their household goods Tuesday to the rooms over the pool room. The rooms have all been repainted and are quite cozy.

E. F. Jacobs returned from Cedar Rapids yesterday morning, where he had been on a business trip. Ed. says they have had a lot more snow down there than here.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell had Christmas dinner with his grand parents at Belmond and later drove to Goodell to spend the evening with Mrs. Trumbell's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Lau entertained for Christmas Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Johnson and baby daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Wilson and daughter, Gladys.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith entertained for Christmas dinner, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day and son Dorance of this place, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ros and daughter, Pearl, of Garner.

FOR SALE. Busch & Gertz Piano, almost new; H. M. Sheer 720-egg sectional incubator and Close-to-Nature Grain Sprouter. See Frank Gruetzmacher. 2tp

There has been a grand rush for the County Treasurer's office the past few days to get auto license plates before the first of January, after which date the penalty is attached.

Coach Hockey returned to Klemme Monday after being away for a week over the Holidays. He is on the job getting his basket ball team in shape for the coming games.

Frank Gruetzmacher told us the other day that he had traded his home here in Klemme for a farm east of Fertile, Iowa. The farm is a well improved farm and well located.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jacobs were entertained at a Christmas dinner at the home of Mrs. Jacob's parents at Clear Lake. Then for the evening dinner they were entertained at Ed's parents home at Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman and Mrs. Mabel Cullinan attended the annual alumni banquet of the Garner high school held at Garner last Saturday evening. They reported a good time was had by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gruetzmacher entertained for Christmas their son and wife, M. and Mrs. Harold Gruetzmacher, of Tekamah, Nebr., and their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Espe, of Des Moines.

Albert Johnson and family got a nice box of oranges and other fruit from their son Danny, from Florida Tuesday. Danny has been running an ice cream plant there but sold out recently.

Glenn Busch came home from Detroit, Michigan to spend a few days and Christmas at home. He returned to Detroit again Saturday evening and was acompanied by Howard Terhufen. Glenn has charge of a service station there.

Spring will be here before you realize it. There'll be many good positions open. Prepare to fill one by attending The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. Enroll Jan. 4. 1tcF.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Griewe entertained for Christmas dinner, Albert Yahnke and family of Garden City, Minnesota; Miss Anna Griewe, of Mason City, and Arthur Wellemeyer and family, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gruetzmacher left yesterday in their car for Iowa Falls for a brief visit with relatives. From there they will leave Friday for Tekamah, Nebr., where Mr. Gruetzmacher teaches in the high school.

George Griggs is the owner of a new Ford.

S. G. Fuller left Wednesday morning for Canton, South Dakota.

Viola Thomas of Meservey drove over after school for Evelyn and Thelma.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chelsvig were visiting relatives in Des Moines last week.

Mrs. Framer Cordes, Mrs. Justin Lowenberg and Mrs. Frank Dominy were Klemme callers Tuesday.

Jesse Chase of Garner has been staying with his brother Clifford Chase.

Thelma Thomas of Celar Falls came to Goodell on the train Wednesday morning.

Miss Clara Johnson and Burton Smith, o Coleburg, are spending vacation at the Lewis Johnson home.

Martin Grover of Lenox, Illinois, came to visit at the White home and spend Christmas.

Miss Ione Franklin of Rowan is visiting her sister, Mrs. Claude Allie.

Lee Robins is now working at the Riarson Oil Station.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lamer spent Christmas Day at the Jay Griggs home.

Fronia Fuller went to Iowa Falls Wednesday morning to spend Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Finn and baby spent Christmas at the L. H. Wilson home.

Mrs. Joe Houghton is aking plans to go to Denver Colorado, where her husband has gone for his health. He has found a position and is feeling fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Presley Griggs of Fertile spent Christmas at the George Griggs home.

Joohn Griggs returned Monday from a weeks visit with his sister, Rose Abbott at Red Oak.

Miss Veronica Finn, who has been attending school at the State University, came home Wednesday for Christmas vacation.

The High School pupils had a farewell party in honor of Grace Liittschwager Tuesday evening. Everyone had an enjoyable evening.

The Misses Chloe Thomas, Viola Rust, Thelma Burgess, Thelma McKarkle, Gladys Gunderson of the I. S. T. C. came Wednesday morning to spend Christmas vacation.

Mildred Boren, who is telephone operator in Madison, Wisconsin, came home Thursday morning for a short vacation.

Supper was prepared by Mrs. E. J. Schneider.

The Christmas Program given at the U. B. Church Thursday evening was enjoyed by everyone present. A very nice treat was given each child and coffee and sandwiches for the grown folks.

RADIO ENTERTAINMENT

Think of the long winter evenings coming. Can you think of any more enjoyable way of spending them than by listening to a good Radio Set? Programs from every part of the United States and to suit every member of the family are easily brought in on any of the sets.

NEW RADIOLA III A 4 tube complete $75.00
AMERICAN SUPER 5, complete $85.00
CROSLEY TRIRDYN, complete $80.00
SUPER HETRODYNE 6 TUBE, complete $140.00
BOSCH AMBROLA, 6 TUBE, complete $175.00

FREE DEMONSTRATION on BOSCH RADIO at Arnil Kraus or Peter Jostens.

.... I can save you some money on any Standard Radio set. Write for prices:

KARL KRAUS, Resident Dealer

Send Your Cleaning to the Modern Cleaners

Garner Iowa

Equipped with modern equipment for CLEANING and PRESSING of Men's and Ladies Clothes. Expert workmanship, guaranteed satisfactory results.

ONE DAY SERVICE

Parcel Post received one day will be returned the next day.

Announcement--

I will again be back in Klemme on January 5th at the Hotel Klemme where my former patients will find me.

After the 5th of January, I will have a permanent office in Klemme which will be announced later.

Sam-Pi-Co Indian medicines have done wonders for others--it can help you and your friends. Tell them about Sam-Pi-Co and--

L. D. McMichael

Eldora, Iowa

Golden State Limited

Rock Island Southern Pacific Lines

California

For those who wish quiet, comfort, rest, or the greatest variety of recreation and entertainment, the Golden State, now more than ever, is the ideal winter home.

The all-Pullman Golden State Limited, takes you there in luxury and comfort. Observation and club cars, barber, valet, shower for men, women's lounge, maid, manicure, shower for women. No extra fare.

Through standard Pullmans daily via Rock Island Lines from Minneapolis and Des Moines, arrive Los Angeles 2:45 p. m. (third day).

Through tourist sleeper service to Los Angeles from Minneapolis and Des Moines via Kansas City and the Golden State Express, another fast train. (Only three nights).

Dining cars serving "Best Meals on Wheels."

For details ask—
M. O. I
Agent, Kl

C. C. Gardner
Asst. Gen'l Pass. Agent
600 Royal Union Life Bldg.
Des Moines, Iowa

Goodell News

L. W. Wesenberg and family were Mason City callers Wednesday.

Esther Harberts and Dorothy Allaben also visited school Wednesday.

Mr. Oatis Liitschwager, of Buckeye, visited school Wednesday.

Billy Butts, of Iowa City, came home for the Christmas vacation.

Mark Smith of Earlville came home Wednesday morning.

The Ladies Aid and Missionary Society had a post card shower for Mrs. Allaben and Mrs. P. J. Cook.

Martin Kearney went to Williams to spend Chirstmas.

George O. Nelson returned to Albert Lea for Christmas.

The Grades gave a very nice program Wednesday afternoon.